MR. NORMAN V. NORMAN'S TOURS.
The Powerful Romantic Play,
"COUNT HANNIBAL,"
Adapted by Messrs. Freeman Wills and Frederick Langbridge (authors of "The Only Way," &c.), from the celebrated Novel by Stanley Weyman.
Mr. NORMAN V. NORMAN as COUNT HANNIBAL. Miss BEATRICE WILSON as CLOTILDE DE VRILLAC.
Played Everywhere with the Most Extraordinary Success.
At the Portsmouth Theatre Royal on Thursday evening, the new play, "Count Hannibal," met with a very gratifying reception at the hands of a crowded house. The story, one of the most intense interest, deals with the St. Bartholomew massacres in Paris in A.D. 1572. It was received with real enthusiasm by the audience, there being no less than fourteen "curtains" during the evening, five of which were at the end of the play.—Southern Daily Mail, June 15, 1906.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT
FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.
BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B.
Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette.

APPLICATIONS FOR POSITIONS on the FRONT PAGE of "The Era" should be addressed to the PUBLISHER.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
The thirty-ninth issue of "The Era" Annual has just appeared, and once more it supplies a useful record of the theatrical year. An editorial note reminds us that among the contributors to the first number, that of 1868, were E. L. Blanchard (its editor), Charles Mathews, T. W. Robertson, Andrew Halliday, H. J. Byron, Watts Phillips, and Dion Boucicault—a brilliant band indeed. The contributors to the present isue are almost exclusively actors rather than literary men, but upon the whole they make a very fair show; while the lists of plays produced in London and the provinces, and in Paris and Berlin during the twelve months under review are distinctly useful. There are a number of photographs including an exceedingly fine one of the late Sir Henry Irving.—Pall Mall Gazette, Jan. 22.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual appears once more in its familiar binding, a compendium of information and amusement for all who are interested in theatrical affairs. In the calendar will be found an array of anniversary dates, some recent, some recalling memories of old times and actors and actresses long passed away. The summary of new plays produced during the past year is admirably done, its value being increased by the alphabetical list which is appended. Well-known actors and actresses contribute stories in accordance with a custom justified by its success.—Daily Telegraph, Jan. 18, 1906.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual is published from the offices of the old-established organ of the theatrical profession, 5, Tavistock-street, W.C. As usual, it is a carefully-compiled record of notable events of the year 1905. A pleasing feature is the selection of short stories, after recounting strange experiences, by "stars" of the dramatic and music-hall professions, these being in every case accompanied by photographs of the writers.—Newcastle Daily Journal, Jan. 27, 1906.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Almanac and Annual for 1906, is not only a valuable collection of information and a history of the dramatic and musical year. It is also a very amusing and entertaining shillingsworth It contains contributions from many well-known actors and actresses. Mr. Frank Desprez, the editor, contributes a delightful story about an actress who sold her collection of Press notices in order to help a colleague in distress. There are numerous portraits. The lists of English, French, and German plays produced during the year are very useful. Altogether, "The Era" Almanack is indispensable to all interested in the stage.—The Star, Jan. 24, 1906.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual again makes its welcome appearance. I say welcome because, as a work of theatrical reference, it is always handy to have in the house—or office. In this connection I am glad to note that the lists of play-productions for the past year are given in better type and altogether in a much clearer manner. As of yore, there are sundry stories in prose and verse. The best of these include "Stage Superstitions," by Charles Warner; "Boy Bob at Sea," a poem by Louie Freear; "The Last Muster," a weird tragic military story, by Mr. Joseph Wilson, who has been a soldier himself; and "Nellie Bligh's Notices," a capital theatrical story, by Mr. Frank Desprez.—Referee, Jan. 28, 1906.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual, 1906, is welcome as containing carefully compiled lists of the pieces produced during the past year in London, the suburbs, and the provinces, in Paris, and in Berlin. The rest of it is curious and entertaining reading. There is the almanack with its "memorabilia of theatrical events occurrences, &c." There are besides a score of stories and other articles contributed by theatricals a very good one being Miss Louie Freear's set of verses, "'Boy Bob' at Sea," which has humour, feeling, and swing. The book contains many theatrical portraits. As a book of reference the Annual is of great use and value, and while some of its contents doubtless appeal more keenly to the professional than to the outsider, any thoughtful person may derive from its study much amusement and no little insight into the conditions, the magnitude, and the complexity of the English theatre of to-day.—Morning Post, Jan. 22.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual for 1906, published at a shilling from 5, Tavistock-street, Strand, combines utility and entertainment. Its former aspect is exemplified by the record of the plays produced last year in London, the provinces, Paris, and Berlin; it also includes an obituary for the year, and lists of the United Kingdom's theatres and music halls. The attractive side of the Annual comprises numerous stories by stage celebrities, whose portraits illustrate the text. It is a delightful budget of good things. Mr. T. P. O'Connor's appreciation of the late Sir Henry Irving is brief, but tender and impressive.—Financier, Jan. 23, '06.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual for 1906, 1s. 5, Tavistock-street, W.C. This useful little work, which brings nearly up to date the calendar of dramatic events which is so excellent a feature, is, as usual, full of stories over the signature of prominent stage lights. To those interested in the business of the theatre the work has become a necessity by reason of its valuable record of the progress of the drama.—Financial Times, Jan. 22, '06.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

EARLY TRAINS.

The Railway Companies are moving with the times, and are despatching many morning trains earlier than hitherto. This will enable subscribers and advertisers in the provincial towns to get copies of "The Era" in time for the breakfast table. Advertisers are requested to forward their advertisements in time to reach the office on Thursday.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA.

Kind expressions from Authors and Managers.

SIR SQUIRE BANCROFT.

"I congratulate you on your 'Fifty Years of the Drama': the list must prove both interesting and useful to lovers of and workers for the stage."

MR. GEORGE EDWARDES.

"I think the new feature of The Era is most interesting and useful. A list of plays produced from 1850 to 1900 will certainly be of great service to a very large number of your readers."

MR. EDWARD TERRY.

"An admirable idea, and will prove a most valuable record."

MR. FRANK CURZON.

"Your list, I think, will be most useful for reference."

MRS. W. K. CLIFFORD.

"I think the list will be immensely useful."

MR. SYDNEY GRUNDY.

"Your list will be exceedingly useful. But, of course, there is no reason why old titles should not be used again. Indeed, some day we shall have to go back to them. Some of our modern titles, when they are not mere proper names with an adjective attached, display the desperation of the dramatist in too ludicrous a light. Such a title as 'The Importance of Being Earnest' amounts to a misdemeanour."

MR. ARTHUR W. PINERO.

"The list of plays produced during the last half-century is a most valuable record. The thanks of those interested in the theatre are due to The Era for this and many other enterprises."

MR. ALFRED SUTRO.

"The list you are compiling will be of very great benefit, and I am looking forward to the time when it shall be complete, and obtainable in pamphlet form."

MR. JUSTIN HUNTLY McCARTHY.

"I have watched with the greatest interest the progress of your alphabetical list of the plays published during the last half of the nineteenth century. It is a most useful undertaking, and when it appears in volume form it must prove of great value to all who are concerned with the drama."

MR. ISRAEL ZANGWILL.

"The list of plays will be very interesting and useful when published in complete form. The etiquette of the profession apparently still allows of novelists' titles being used by playwrights. Thus, The Master, which will appear in your list as a play by somebody else, is the name of a book of mine; while the new play, Noah's Ark, has the same title as a shorter story of mine."

MR. ARTHUR LAW.

"The publication in The Era of a list of plays produced during the fifty years, 1850-1900, is an excellent idea, and will be most useful to authors who may be in doubt as to their right to a certain title. When it is issued in book form I shall be very glad to possess a copy."

MR. ARTHUR BOURCHIER.

"Mr. Arthur Bourchier thinks the list very useful indeed."

MR. TOM GALLON.

"Your idea seems to me to be a most excellent one. Quite apart from the fact that there is always a difficulty in knowing what titles have been used, there very often arises the question of when and where a play was actually produced—a question difficult to be answered. Actors and authors should alike be grateful to The Era."

MR. HAROLD MONTAGUE.

"I think the idea of printing a list of plays produced during the last fifty years an excellent one. It should be of great value to authors."

MR. ARTHUR SHIRLEY.

"The list of produced plays was not merely a happy thought, for the same idea has probably occurred to many, though until The Era carried it out no one took the pains to collect and publish such a truly valuable record.

"Managers, dramatists, as well as would-be authors, will henceforward have a long list of titles to refer to, and there will be neither reason nor excuse for encroaching on pre-existing copyright in play titles. What a lot of trouble it should save us all!"

MR. WALTER MELVILLE.

"I think it shows great enterprise on the part of your journal, and likely to prove most useful and at the same time interesting to the general profession."

MR. ARTHUR MORRISON.

"The list you are publishing will be of most valuable work of reference to everybody taking an interest in the stage, and I have no doubt that when it is published as a book you will find its success warrant you in issuing fresh editions from time to time, with the information brought to date in each case."

MR. J. J. DILLEY.

"The idea is an excellent one, and there can be no question at all of the usefulness of such a summary. Cousin Grace has not been included. This is a little piece from the French, played at a matinée performance at the Gaiety Theatre, Dec. 4, 1884."

MR. COSMO HAMILTON.

"I think that your new feature is an excellent and most useful one. A list of plays produced during fifty years is interesting not only to the playgoer, but essentially so to the manager and the playwright. They will only have to consult it to be sure that a title has not been used before."

MR. CHARLES H. E. BROOKFIELD.

"My attention has been called to your list of plays produced between 1850-1900. I have no doubt it will prove interesting and useful to many."

MR. F. FRANKFORT MOORE.

"The list of plays produced during the past fifty years, now appearing in The Era, will, I am certain, prove, when completed, extremely valuable to everyone associated with the drama in England. I am convinced—and I have had a considerable amount of experience in this direction—that it will be especially valued by all writers upon stage matters. The advantage of being able to refer at a moment's notice to the criticisms upon the production of various plays in various newspapers must be apparent to everyone. If such a list had been in existence some years ago I would have been saved a vast amount of worry and vexation of spirit. The Era has once again proved itself appreciative of the conditions under which the best interests of the drama in England are maintained."

MR. LOUIS N. PARKER.

"I think your list of plays, produced between 1850 and 1900, will, like the other contents of your paper, be invaluable."

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Cavanah, C.A.—Mr. Edmund Tearle and company entered on the fourth week of their engagement with The Octoroon on Monday. Mr. Tearle plays powerfully as Salem Scudder; Mr. Montague Lane appears to advantage as the Indian; Mr. T. W. Benson makes an amusing Pete, and Miss Esther Tearle creditably acquits herself in the part of Zoe.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—The principal attraction this week is the sensational Globe of Life act, which is presented by Wizard and Irene Stone. Wordley Hulse's company appear in a capital sketch, A Just Revenge; and among the other clever artists are Musical Miller, Raymond and Colby, comedians; Doyle and Gibson, comedians and dancers; Mr. Frank Lynne, comedian; Miss Rosie Kirk, serio-comic; the Hugo Troupe, and Mr. Albert Windsor, comedian.

ACCRINGTON. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Potter, Vandy, and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. Campkin.—Von Etta, who is particularly clever in her illusions, tops the bill. The Three Schaffers give a wonderful acrobatic performance; W. B. Raby is a good comedian; Brothers Victorian is a pleasing turn; Boden and Bell are clever juveniles; George Prince is always a favourite here, and evidence of this was given on Monday; the Brothers Mellot are well received; Joe Hennessy is good; and some interesting pictures are shown.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. E. Williams.—The Way of the World, a melodramatic play of a sporting type has many features of interest, and there is little wonder that success follows the performances. The company is under the direction of Mr. Herbert Skardon. Miss Sidney Crowe, a clever actress, gives a powerful rendering of the rôle of Adela de la Roche; Mr. Herbert Skardon's sangfroid as the villainous Captain Slade causes this part to stand out prominently; and the juvenile lead of Cecil as played by Mr. H. Lewis is capital; whilst Miss Cissy Bellamy is good as Kate; highly effective are the circus and racecourse scenes in which three miniature ponies and two thoroughbred horses play prominent parts. The scenery carried by the company is most effective, and the staging throughout is praiseworthy.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Fairbairn.—Miss Emily Sheridan and a specially organised company are here this week with the new romantic play, entitled A Prince of the People, a story of the French Revolution. Mr. F. Rawson Buckley sustains the arduous part of Victor Lafond, the peasant hero, with undoubted skill and dramatic fervour; Miss Emily Sheridan as Lucille de Valeriere, the daughter of the Count, gives a fine interpretation of the dignity and sweetness of the French lady of the Louis period; Mr. W. H. Brougham, a favourite character-actor, finds a part suited to his gifts in Berthaut, representative of the Convention; Mr. Lionel Gadsden as the old Count adequately realises the proud patrician spirit of a noble of France; and Mr. H. G. Twyman as the Marquise de Sancy, and Mr. Douglas Munroe as Baudrar, a corporal, both give effective impersonations; Miss Lilian Williams as Marie, a charming vivandiere, is responsible, along with Mr. Munroe for the comic relief.

EMPIRE-HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—Exceptionally good houses were the order of the day at the Hippodrome on Monday, and the patrons were delighted with the programme. Gustave Fasola, the Indian illusionist, created a sensation by his wonderful tricks; Theo. Bouwmeester, the famous Dutch actor, presents a melodramatic sketch, with a cast of nine characters, seven of which he impersonates himself, his clever rendering of widely divergent comedy and dramatic characters being full of interest; Mr. Webster Lawson is a capital specimen of the dominating coroner. Burns and Bentley, a smart pair of young artists, sing and dance with success; Lou Langley, comedienne, is a tuneful vocalist, with an attractive style; Carson Hicks sings a good song, but his forte is his dancing, in which he introduces a pleasing variety; Moon and Morris are a couple of comedians, with good voices, and their eccentric dancing provoked much amusement; Cullen and Jordis, a dainty pair of young girls, sing and dance with confidence and ability seldom found in juveniles; the Bollingers, the "rag-pickers," form realistic pictures of flowers, seascapes, landscapes, &c., out of rags. Amusing pictures are presented on the Bioscope.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaughten; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—Since the close of the dramatic season here, excellent entertainment has been provided by the Royal Animated Picture Company, which has proved a big success. For the second week of the engagement, there is an entire change of programme, especially interesting are the "singing-pictures," introduced by Mr. Steve Fitzgerald. The show is under the direction of Mr. Matt Raymond.

BELFAST.—PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Freece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris. — The Jees head the bill here, and have been accorded a capital reception nightly for their attractive musical pantomime, The Musical Smithy; Zarmo, comedy juggler, creates roars of laughter with his funny performance; and the fine voice of Miss Daisy Davidson has been heard to advantage in several songs; Mr. Alfred Lester (assisted by Miss Valentine Sydney) produce with effect their amusing skit, The Scene-Shifter's Lament; and a hit of no small magnitude has been made by the Max Milian Trio of Continental equilibrists; Germaine, styled "The American Wizard," executes some clever feats; and Mr. J. C. Crawley, mimic, Les Belles Americaines, vocalists and dancers, Charles Ulrick, and the Palace Pictures are other items in the programme.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—The leading attraction here is provided by Captain Bevan's Gordon Highlanders, who have been most successful with their marvellous lightning drill. The New York Nippers appear to great advantage in their clever singing and dancing speciality; and Francis and Melli return with their musical speciality, which is always an attraction. Miss Myra Stanfield, a fascinating soubrette, is well received; and the Bros. Harrison are exceedingly funny knockabout comedians. Kavados, the Japanese Mystery, Miss Nellie Martell, comedienne, and Mr. Sam Shipley, eccentric comedian, are also in the bill.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—Her One Great Sin has been played here this week with every element of success by the Alhambra Dramatic Company. Mr. Hilliard Vox, a clever actor, acquits himself with distinction as Reuben Warhurst; and Miss Nina Blake Adams, a fine emotional actress, furnishes a sympathetic interpretation of Grace Warhurst. The villainies of Arnold Thornhill are done full justice to by Mr. Herbert Cecil; and Mr. Stephen E. Scanlan as Dan Hundle could not easily be excelled. Mr. Luke Forster is very humorous as Jerry Jumble; and he is ably assisted by Miss Beryl Ravenswood, as Nancy Winpenny; Miss Evelyn Marrable as Charlie plays excellently; and the rôle of Gracie Warhurst is capitally portrayed by a clever juvenile actress, Miss Evelyn Kington. Miss Ada Arnott as the repulsive Bet Hundle to the life; and Mr. Cecil Ravensword is all that can be desired as Jack Hundle. The staging of the piece, for which Mr. Herbert Cecil was responsible, reflects much credit on that gentleman.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—Mr. John Power's company, in the moral drama, Man's Enemy; or, the Downward Path, provides an attractive entertainment. The rôle of Harry Stanton is well embodied by Mr. Francis Everard; and the Jew, Isaac Barnett, is ably impersonated by Mr. J. Newton Cowling. Mr. E. W. Bretton displays considerable power and ability as Bill Saunders; and Mr. A. Denne Mead is suitably placed as the Rev. Fred Lisle. Miss Marie Lyons gives a capital rendering of Sarah Drake; Miss Lynn Darlington is in every respect an excellent Grace Lisle; Miss Clara Reid creates much amusement as Polly Harris; Mr. Charles Clayton gives a fine performance of Tom Drake.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—Mr. Wal Pink and his company of comedians, in the highly diverting sketch Repairs; or How Not to Do It, head an excellent company, and are scoring heavily. Mr. H. O. Wills, a clever comedian, is also a favourite turn; and the musical Schaffers, in their delightful entertainment "The Garden of Melody," are an undoubted acquisition; O'Malley and Brown, amusing patterers, are a decided success; and Miss Nellie Gannon, vocalist; Mr. Harry Wright, extempore vocalist; and Miss Peggy Fame, vocalist and dancer, are all well received. The programme also includes a display of interesting films admirably shown by Mr. A. Brown's Royal Bioscope.

BIRMINGHAM. — ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—Mr. Collingwood is left in possession of the field, and, with Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Kimberley's company in A Sister's Sin, is meeting with satisfactory results. Mr. Kimberley as that true son of Erin, Larry, acts in buoyant and artistic style that wins much genuine applause and laughter, and his two sweethearts have many charms to recommend them as played by the Misses Edie Macklin and Alice Granville. Miss Violet Langley displays all a good woman's qualities as the heroine, Minnie Hastings; Miss Augusta Tullock acts with fine spirit as the avenging sister, Charzel; Miss M. Eversleigh is successful as the fallen one, Redempta; Mr. Andrew Money represents the villainous character of George Oakley with great force and ability, and the hero, Harold Raymond, elicits much admiration in the person of Mr. Wm. Vane. Messrs. Ernest Frere, Chas. Locke, Harry Lyndon, and the Misses Dorothy Vivian and Isa Lyndon also do well.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—Kennedy's Komiks this week comprise the melodious Sisters Dudley, in a pleasing selection of operatic duets; Percy Victor, with his wonderful performing dogs; Winnie Cottrell, the sweet ballad vocalist; Arthur Chappall, a droll comedian; Cullum, in his great Nemo act; George Ogden, the droll; the Cedrics, who appear in a Continental speciality comedy act with much success; and the electric animated pictures, which are changed constantly. A Chamberlain night is promised this evening, when the town will be celebrating Mr. Chamberlain's services to Birmingham and the Empire.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—Mr. Lingford Carson's répertoire company opened here on Monday to an excellent house with The Heart of a Hero, in which Mr. Charls Draycott scored the principal success as Jem Rasdale, an impersonation which betokened earnest study. The support was excellent all round, and included Miss Laurie A. Pardy as Nell, Miss Louise Millward in a dual character, Mr. Ernest J. Fare as Wilfred Marl, and Mr. Arthur Byron as Timothy Heighno. On Wednesday and Thursday The Ticket-of-Leave Man was essayed, with Mr. Draycott in a telling and manly exposition of the title-rôle. Success also attended the efforts of Mr. Dobson Clyde as Dalton, Mr. Ernest J. Fare as Hawkshaw, Mr. Arthur Byron as Melter Moss, Miss Daisy Norman as Sam Willoughby, and Miss Hettie Senior, who, as May Edwardes, made a capital impression. This popular engagement concludes on Friday, and to-day with The Octoroon, Mr. Draycott starring as Salem Scudder, Miss Hettie Senior being down for the rôle of Zoe, the Octoroon.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Dan Crawley is at the head of a capital programme here, his quaint mannerisms and songs winning loud applause; Barton and Ashley are amusing eccentrics; Harrison Brockbank and company present a musical dramatic episode, The Freebooter, which is well played and received; Gladys Mavius sings herself into favour; Harding and Ah-Sid are experts in the acrobatic line; Rezene and Robini, and the Folkstones in their absurdity are most amusing; Lilian Bishop is a captivating male impersonator; and Mlle. Olive displays a smart juggling turn.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—The principal item this week is Ethel Arden and George Abel's company in the dramatic sketch The Little Stowaway, which is well played and staged, Nellie Bowman being seen in the title-rôle. Les François have a smart pot-pourri act, which is far above the average; Gwennie Hasto is well received in her songs and dances; the gymnastic act of the Paolias is decidedly neat; Texas Hattie is a skilful tight-rope walker; Vera and Royal have an up-to-date absurdity; and Walter Emerson and Frank and Free keep the audience in a happy mood with their bright humour.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thos. Barrasford.—A visit of Donaldson Brothers and Ardell in their zoological comedy sketch is always an attraction. Martin Conway, of "Walk round, Martin," fame, is loudly applauded; Heeley and Meeley, "two lucky tramps," also have a fair share of applause; Florence Schubert is a pleasing comedienne, as also is Grace Langley. Gipsy Woolf with her troupe of piccaninnies, and Bernard and Weston, comedians, are entertaining; Harry Claff renders his operatic selections with good effect; Billy Williams is an amusing comedian; and Ford and Barris are paying a return visit.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—A most interesting and delightful item is The Punch and Judy Girls, a sketch presented by Denton and Rowlands' company, in which Marjorie Lawrence figures prominently and is worthy of the applause that greets her; the pretty girls, dresses, and scenery are most pleasing. The Albert and Edmunds troupe, in their absurdity, Two Up a Tree, are as funny as ever; while the Seddons come in for a good share of applause. Derenda and Green have a smart juggling display, while Celest is most daring on the slack wire. Palles and Cussick are also in the programme.

BLACKBURN.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Page.—Mr. James Stillwell's company, in The King's Secret, a drama dealing with modern life in Egypt, is drawing excellent houses to the place of amusement.

PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Will Murray.—Jake Friedman, an old favourite, is paying a welcome return visit, and delighting patrons of the Palace with his "one-man opera" turn. George Bendon also establishes himself a warm favourite, with catchy songs; Keen and Waller are a pair of humorous acrobats, whose turn is of exceptional merit; the Three Delaires appear in a striking gymnastic act The Demon's Grotto; and Kisbey, in his "call-boy" act, is excellent. King Roy, a coloured bass vocalist, is well received; as are Duncan and Brasque in their refined episode, A Dressing-room Romance. Adey Spencer, an American soubrette, and Fyne and Hurley, comedians, give good turns. Raymond's animated pictures, which bring the entertainment to a conclusion, are as good as usual.

BOLTON.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston.—After a brief vacation this theatre was reopened on Monday last with Mr. W. W. Kelly's company in A Royal Divorce. The play is well mounted and sustained by a perfect company. Miss Edith Cole reappears in her old part of Josephine, and has been well received during the visit; Mr. Frederick Moyes gives an intelligent and careful study of the character of Napoleon; Miss Elizabeth Watson is stately as Marie Louise, and Miss Clara Earle is dainty as Stephanie de Beauharnais. The parts of Talleyrand, Marquis de Beaumont, General Augereau, and Grimaud are respectively in the clever hands of Mr. F. Joynson-Powell, Mr. Geo. W. Cockburn, Mr. Geo. Howard, and Mr. Alfred Wellesley. Miss Maggie Cardiff is natural as the juvenile King of Rome.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—Mr. Fred Ginnett and company are here with an improved edition of the equestrian spectacle, Dick Turpin's Ride to York. Other turns engaged are Miss Agnes Molteno, operatic and ballad vocalist, in scena and song; Master Joe Conway, pocket comedian; Kendrick and Laura, society entertainers; Vanity, acrobatic and eccentric dancer, assisted by Billie Curtis, comedian and dancer; Burley and Burley, comedians; Ralph Moore, "the boy Patti"; Beaty Mayer, serio comedienne; Leo Trainer, vocal comedian, mimic, and raconteur; the Rejected Remounts, a smart comedy act, and the Imperial Bioscope.

BOSCOMBE.—HIPPODROME.—Joint proprietors, Messrs. Frederick Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Ball.—At the top of the bill here this week are Young Colossus, aged eighteen years, and his little friend, L'homme Miniature, aged twenty-five years. The contrast between them is most ludicrous, and causes much amusement. Albert Atlas and Lizzie Collins, the famous comedy duo, are appearing with considerable success in their latest creation, "The Italian Girl and the Monkey"; Rosie Lloyd gives a perfectly delightful turn, her songs are given in a clever and artistic style, which soon makes her a favourite; Frank Maura gives a wonderful display as a foot equilibrist; Susie and Protti contribute some excellent dancing; Yorkshire Tom mimics animals in realistic fashion; and Ada Martini, comedienne and dancer, also appears. The Hippodrome pictures conclude the programme.

BOURNEMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart.—That dainty comedy Cousin Kate has been presented here this week by Miss Emma Hutchison and Mr. Percy Hutchison's principal company. Miss Lilias Earle plays the title-rôle with great charm and ability; Mr. Percy Hutchison as Heath Desmond once more proves himself to be a finished actor; Miss Amy Coleman as Mrs. Spencer is excellent; and Miss Hilda Honiss as Amy admirably realises the part. Mr. George Mallett has made a good impression as the Rev. James Bartlett; and a word of praise is due to the Bobby of Master Philip Priddis. The comedy was preceded by Two in a Trap, well played by Mr. George Mallett and Miss Hilda Honiss.

BRADFORD.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—After a long absence, Mr. Charles Carte, who is supported by an excellent company, is paying a welcome return visit with A Noble Brother, which has again been cordially received by large audiences. In his original character study of Jerry, the Tramp, Mr. Carte proves as versatile and successful as ever; and Miss Doris Brookes charmingly and with effect represents the heiress Nana Leigh. The arch villain Harry Travers is powerfully represented by Mr. Frank Lyndon; Larry O'Brien, played by Mr. Michael Madden, and Rosie Rapid, in the hands of Miss Rosie Conroy, afford opportunities for the introduction of some smart variety business, which is warmly applauded. The minor characters in the drama are in good hands, and the piece is staged with effect.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss Empires, Limited; Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—Plenty of variety is presented here this week in the fine entertainment which is provided by the management, and a leading feature is the performance given by the agile and skiful Hadj Abdullah Troupe of Arabs, who are warmly applauded. There is merit and humour in the acrobatic turn by the Labakans, and their dog "Folly"; Belle Braham, the pictorial songstress, is here again, with more of her very acceptable contributions; a clever and enjoyable turn is furnished by the Jack Theo trio of equilibrists; the Parisian Street Players, the Dumond Minstrels, are entertaining, and have made a successful début; on a breakaway trapeze the Mariane Sisters again exhibit great skill and daring; the Four Olympian Stars shine as dancers and vocalists; Florence and Lilian's skill as instrumentalists meets with well-deserved applause; Hermann Melot furnishes a delightful but very perplexing entertainment in conjuring and sleight-of-hand; and some very fine and entertaining films are exhibited by the American Bioscope.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Arnold, jun.—The bright little comedienne Daisy Jerome, of pantomime fame here, has scored a genuine success this week; and Lambert and Hands have made a hit with their duets. A very remarkable exhibition in rifle shooting by Lilian and Vera and Major Charles wins the unstinted and well-deserved approbation of the audience; Sadie Simpson's coon contributions are very enjoyable; as an eccentric dancer and bâton manipulator Herbert La Martine is amusing and clever; Ray Royal, chorus vocalist, contributes a good turn to the programme; Adams and Ward delight the audience with a capital comic acrobatic interlude; and there are some highly entertaining films shown by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

BRIDLINGTON.—ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—Mr. Walter Hyde, a pleasing tenor vocalist, is appearing at Herr Winternetz's promenade concerts this week. The Flockton-Foster company of entertainers opened for a season on Monday, and appear twice daily.

NEW SPA AND GARDENS.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Henry Hague.—Mr. Sydney James's company "The Strolling Players," opened here on Monday, and soon established themselves in favour with the patrons of the Spa. In addition to Herr S. Wurm's Imperial Viennese Orchestra, Mr. Hague has added to the attractions by engaging Misses Aileen and Doris Woods, the New Zealand twins, who are excellent society entertainers and vocalists. Another novelty is Seves, a clever boy, whose feats of second sight are wonderful.

THE PALACE.—Manager, Mr. A. Hubner. — The popular turn at this popular place of amusement this week is Mr. G. W. Nicholson, a great favourite with Bridlington audiences, his humorous songs and patter always giving great delight. Captain Manard is continuing his clever shooting feats with rifle, pistol, and revolver.

SUMMER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Beanland, Bath, and Danton; Manager, Mr. C. Beanland.—The "Waterloo's" popular programmes are always good, and the members work hard to secure the amusement of the audiences who nightly assemble at this "garden by the sea." The novelty this week is a beauty show for both ladies and gentlemen. Learto and his dog "Babs" are very amusing and clever; King Leo, society ventriloquist, is well received; the Three Sisters Ruby give a talented vocal and instrumental turn; and the Rushforths' illustrated songs are still a feature. There are some up-to-date animated pictures.

BRIGHTON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—Mr. Ernest Carpenter's Stock company opened the last week of their engagement here on Monday, when they gave an excellent performance of Saved from the Sea. Owing to the sudden illness of Mr. H. C. Lanceley, the part of Peter Scatcher was undertaken at two hours' notice by Mr. Ernest Carpenter, who acquitted himself admirably; Mr. Ronald Adair gave a popular and artistic portrayal of the hero, Dan Ellington; and Miss Daisy Halling made a charming and sympathetic heroine. Nancy Ellington; Mr. Paul Barry-Lewers submitted a powerful enactment of the villainous Richard Fenton; Mr. Villiers Stanley presented a clever character-sketch as Jim Weaver; Miss Lydia Mannington made a capital Mrs. Blake; and the comic element was well sustained by Mr. George H. Asquin as Billy Snooks, Miss Lucy Murray, as Polly Blake, and Mr. Marmaduke Wetherell as Jenkins; little Miss Florrie Lidbetter was intelligent as Jack; and able support was given by Mr. George Thomas and Mr. Arthur Sampson. The drama was finely staged.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard. An excellent programme is sustained here this week. The Fred Karno company affords unbounded fun in their admirable representations of The Jail Birds and Mumming Birds; Marguerite Broadfoote, a delightful comedienne, is as popular as ever; Stuart and Stuart are capital acrobatic dancers and comedy entertainers; Walter King is a mirth-provoking comedian; Ted Saunders is a pleasing mimic; Maudie Ford, coon comedienne and dancer, wins hearty applause; Johnny Fuller, "the great little cat on the wire" is very clever, and contributes some good acrobatic dancing and high leaping; and the capital turns conclude with an entertaining series of Alhambrascope Pictures.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—There is a very attractive company here this week. George Robey, who is enthusiastically received, achieves distinct success with his very humorous songs and amusing patter; Will Goodwin makes a great hit in his admirably-enacted production, entitled Repentance; George D'Albert, comedian, is highly effective; Musical Silvo, "the greatest tumbleronic-onist," gives a very fine turn; De Biere submits a clever and mystifying conjuring exhibition; Johnny Holland and company are very entertaining in their domestic sketch, The Millionaire; Maudie Vera is a capital descriptive vocalist and coon artiste; Fred Curran is a peculiar comedian; Harris and Worth, "the huntsman out for a day," merit praise; Annie Laurie is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; and the Barrascope Pictures are interesting.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Mr. Thomas Thorne and company are attracting good houses here this week with Our Boys. Mr. Thorne achieves complete success as Perkin Middlewick; Mr. Arthur Bawtree is well placed as Charles Middlewick; Mr. Norman Clark's Sir Geoffrey Champneys, Mr. Leonard Laurence's Talbot Champneys, and Miss Rachel de Travis's Clarissa Champneys are well played; Miss Elsie Howard Rosse makes a charming Mary Melrose; Miss Ruby Loncraine is a dainty Violet Melrose; and Miss Edith Hesketh gives an effective portrayal of Belinda.

NEW PALACE PIER THEATRE.—Petroncilla, or a Royal Romance is the attraction here this week, and is well received. The comic opera abounds with mirth, pretty music, and graceful dancing; Mr. Harold Payne sings and acts admirably as Captain Phillipe Bravudara; and Miss Hilda Evans submits a charming enactment of Petronella; Mr. Harry A. Gibbon is an entertaining Governor; Miss Alice Rene is a stately Queen; and Mr. Alfred H. Majilton is well suited as the chief of police; much fun is afforded by Mr. A. Lenville as Sergeant Bodega; and Miss Marie Ault as Step-Annie Flooretta Dossano; and the Spanish dancer, Torquita, is highly successful. The choruses are well sung.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. J. Sallmayer; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry de Groot.—Miss Minnie Letta's Sporting Girls, and the Majors, refined entertainers, are still here. On Monday a new and original farcical musical comedy was produced in the theatre. A full report appears in another column.

BRISTOL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe.—The Power of Gold is staged here this week. The mounting of the drama is satisfactory, and Mr. Frank Ayrton's company is a capable one. Miss Lilla Wilde displays considerable power and dramatic skill as Lady Brandon; and Miss Georgina E. France acts in a sympathetic and pleasing manner as Meg Judson. Mr. Charles Whitlock gives a good exposition of Hadgi Zambra; Paul Judson and Mark Judson (otherwise Harley) are carefully taken by Mr. Richard Oliver and Mr. Albert Sefton; and the comic parts of Sammy Smudge and Nora Donnelly are impersonated in an amusing and clever manner by Mr. Frank Ayrton and Miss Madge Seymour.

PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. J. V. Welchman.—Dinah Morris and her company are here with the smart musical-comedy sketch The Lost Coon; or, Black Michael's Revenge, the sketch being nicely staged, and introducing plenty of song and dance. Lotto, Lillo, and Otto do a clever turn as expert trick and fancy cyclists; Mlle. Effie White is highly successful in her kaleidoscopic dances; Desmonti and Mora are clever triple par performers; Ada Cerito is a pleasing comedienne; Warden Reed and company have an amusing comedy duologue, Married or Photographed; and George Ripon and Harry Wenburn, comedians, both obtain applause for their respective turns. The performance concludes with "Mrs. Brown's Misadventures," projected by Vernon's Bioscope.

EMPIRE. — Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—The leading attraction is an amateur carnival for the discovery of local talent. Several variety turns are given by amateurs at each performance, and the finals will take place at the second house on Friday. The winner will be given a week's engagement at the Empire, and money prizes will be awarded to the three next best. So far, the competitions have been very keen, and several of the amateurs have shown decided talent in various lines. The Cotton Blossom Quartette, male coloured vocalists, harmonise well; Katie Butler, character comedienne, does an excellent and amusing turn; Lucy Coventry, comedienne, is clever both in song and dance; Luck and Ford are smart acrobatic comedians; Frank Couch, patter comedian, obtains applause; Robert Beevers has some amusing songs, illustrated with comic pictures; Johnny Johnson sings well, whistles in tune, and plays the 'cello in good style; Harry Rogerson scores with his scena, "Sleepy Sam"; and the entertainment concludes with a good display of animated pictures.

BROUGHTON.—VICTORIA, LTD. — Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Fred Watson. — The Merchant of Venice, which Mr. Frank Lindo commenced on the 25th ult., was so successful that he is continuing the representation this week to the unabated satisfaction of crowded houses. The Shylock of Mr. Lindo is a really clever performance, and the same is to be said of Miss Marion Wakeford as Portia.

CARDIFF.—KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Duncan.—Saved from the Sea has been capitally staged here by Mr. Beresford Whitcomb's company. A fine piece of acting is submitted by Mr. Whitcomb in his carefully-studied delineation of Dan Ellington; as Nancy Ellington, Miss Mabel Lowe is charming and sympathetic; Mr. Tom Seymour and Miss Doris Whyte introduce the comedy element; the lively impersonations of Billy Snooks and Polly Blake given by these clever artistes being much appreciated.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll.—Cardiffians are favoured this week with a visit from Mr. George Gray and company in The Road to Ruin, the popular artiste delighting packed houses; Florrie Gallimore is a great favourite here, and receives a particularly enthusiastic ovation; Will Cornish is remarkably skilful with his silver-toned bells; Rose Naynon's collection of tropical birds provides a capital turn; two exceptionally smart acrobats are Pit and Cute; and the Four Figaros do exceedingly well in their attractive Dutch song and dance; Alix Lukos in his interesting scena, "Pictures in the Fire"; Margaret Ashton, the "Winter Girl"; Flo D'Orville, a versatile artiste; and Nancy St. John, a dainty comedienne, are the other contributors to the bill-of-fare.

CARLISLE. — THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—For the race week the enterprising manager, Signor Rino Pepi, has secured an unusually attractive company. The Columbia Trio, who top the bill, give a particularly pleasing musical performance; the Wedburns, with their up-to-date cross talk and comedy musical act, are also big favourites; Fred Cary's songs are distinctly funny; Gallands, a lightning sculptor, astonishes and delights his audience by his dexterity; Gladys Archbutt, a lively comedienne and sprightly dancer; the Four Jumels, in a smart musical act, and the Sisters Walmsley, clever vocalists and attractive dancers, add to the success of an excellent entertainment.

CHATHAM. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietors, Messrs. C. and L. B. Barnard; Acting-Manager, Mr. Lionel Barnard; Secretary, Mr. Geo. G. Ridley.—The attraction this week is the domestic play The Drama of Life, which is being performed by Mr. Lingford Carson's No. 1 Company.

BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—One of the most amusing animal acts yet seen here is found in that given by Zacha's monkeys; another strong turn is provided by Victor Newman, whose various impersonations meet with every mark of approval; Nipper Lupino Lane proves deservedly popular in song and dance; Lacey's Erascope has some fresh views; while Will Phillips, comedian; the Paytes, duologue artists; the Two Neros, acrobatic comedians; Wall Robbins, the well-known black and white entertainer; and an extra turn in the shape of a tramp juggler complete the company.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor Capt. H. E. Davie; Acting-Manager, Mr. F. J. Donne.—A good audience assembled here on Monday evening to welcome Harry Lauder on his first appearance in Chatham. This quaint Scotch comedian fairly convulsed his hearers; Frank Hartley, billed as the juggling schoolboy, is smart; Jack and Evelyn score with "Come into the Office"; Lily Black is a pleasing serio; Edgar Budden gives a neat dance on roller skates; Mabel Sinclair, ventriloquist, introduces her coster pal; and Miss Daisy Ray gives coon song and dance; while the Edisonograph has another change of films.

CHELTENHAM.—MONTPELIER GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. Alfred W. Newton.—Mr. Norman V. Norman's company of pastoral players are this week paying a welcome return visit, opening on Monday evening to a large house with Nell Gwyn, of Drury Lane. Miss Beatrice Wilson wins all hearts with her delightful interpretation of the title-part; and Mr. Norman as Charles II. was equally effective and distinguished; the part of Lord Dellans was in the capable hands of Mr. Norman Leslie; Miss Hilda Gregory was praiseworthy as Lady Castlemaine; and Miss Maud Grosvenor looked and acted well as the Duchess of Portsmouth. Mr. Dennis W. Cleugh was successful as Ralph Cursitor; Mr. Alex Cassy scored as Lord Rochester; Miss Sybil Ruskin played with much feeling the part of Betty Arndale; Miss B. Stannard was good as Nell Gwyn's maid; Mr. Sam Wilkinson was a swaggering Colonel Blood; Mr. Francis Hope was convincing as Adam Bareacres. As You Like It and The Adventure of Lady Ursula are in the week's programme.

COLCHESTER.—HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Alen.—Heading the bill this week is Dainey's Circus. The Four Herberts constitute a smart acrobatic entertainment; Constance Mori is a delightful speciality dancer, with a pleasing manner; and a welcome item is the Sisters Bartholomew, who were extremely popular in the last Christmas pantomime. Walter Wade is a versatile comedian and admirable mimic; and Ena Richards is a clever dancer, and contributes some catchy songs. The "Adventures of Raffles" on the screen is the cause of much merriment each evening.

CORK.—OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. John Horgan.—The London Novelty Entertainment Company opened here for a week's engagement on Monday. Mr. F. W. Millis, ventriloquist, gave a clever entertainment; Cullen and Chivers, comedy skaters, created much laughter; the Bros. Esdaile, eccentric comedians, were received with favour; Marion Wills supplied a humorous fantasie; Jessie Yaiho sang a pretty song; Lazern gave a capital conjuring exhibition; La Belle Gertrella received great applause in her gymnastic act; Mulvey and Miriam, in the comedy duologue, In the Study, created great amusement; Minnie Dorina scored as a singer and dancing drummer; the Betsons proved themselves a clever pair of trick cyclists.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—Mr. Clifton Alderson and company are here in the adapted version from Wilkie Collins's book, The New Magdalen, by arrangement with Mr. B. Mulholalnd. On Monday night it was accorded a most hearty reception, and is an assured success this week. Mr. A. Clifton Alderson, who possesses a rich voice, is a successful impersonator of Julian Gray; Mr. H. K. Ayliff does full justice to the part of Horace Holmcroft; Miss B. Doyle wins sympathy in her charmingly pathetic representation of Mercy Merrick; and Miss G. Haskings Walton, as Grace Roseberry, and Miss Mildred Gilbert, as Lady Janet Roy, both deserve special praise.

THE HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. T. M. Sylvester.—Large audiences continue to visit this popular house in spite of the hot and oppressive weather. Miss Frances Harrold and company appear in an historical episode, entitled Nell Gwynne, which was afforded a hearty reception. Nell Gwynne is played by Miss Nellie Valentine, and Miss Frances Harrold is seen as Margaret Treherne. Harry Tate's company appear in a comedy-act, Golfing, which is very clever and much appreciated. The Paulasto Troupe are skilful acrobats, and do some difficult tricks; Lily Stewart is a coon comedienne; Cecil Eugene, champion instrumentalist; Tom Yorkly, coster comedian, and Miss Milly Florence, vocalist and Irish comedienne, also contribute to the entertainment.

CRADLEY HEATH.—EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jno. H. Morton. — Kennedy's Komics are still drawing good houses. The principal artists are Messrs. Aylmer and Turner, Little Hatch, Teddy Lemar, Bert Valmore, Dolly Vince, the Incemores, Dudley Gibson, Cissy Clevendon, and the Sisters Venne.

CROYDON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr Charles Herrick.—The boards are this week occupied by Messrs. Fred J. Webb and Wilson Benge's company, in The Two Hussars. Miss Sadie Smith is capital as Marie; Miss Lallah Price is in good form as Molly Cutts; and Miss M. Danvers Smith is commendable in the dual rôles of Ellen Maythorne and Will Gunstock. Mr. Wilson Benge renders yeoman service as Harry Alford; Mr. Fred J. Webb is excellent as Paul Villiers; Mr. J. Stuart is satisfactory in the characters of Harry Maythorne and Colonel Manners; Mr. G. Paradise is quite at his ease as Sergeant M'Finne; Mr. Louis Nanton makes the utmost of his opportunities as Robert Runn; and Mr. Jones is adequate as Lewis Montague.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietor, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace H. Jay.—A varied entertainment is put forward here. Fred Karno's company causes much hilarity in the knockabout sketch, Jail Birds; Emlyn Jones and his lady quartette sing with effect; the Brothers Etharien are a droll pair; Gertie Gitana is a neat vocalist and dancer; Herr Fritz is great in his conjuring turn; Herbert Madden is a commendable vocal comedian; Carney and Armstrong, comedians, are well received; Fay Walton dances admirably; and Edouin and Edwards are an amusing pair.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J .H. Asquith.—A variety combination supplies amusement and entertainment here this week, and Mr. Will Onda is to be congratulated on the merit of the corps of artistes he has selected. Hanvarr and Lee in their speciality, The Golfer and the Maid, give their clever Indian club juggling and feats of legerdemain with tennis racquets and bamboo chairs; Miss Lee also doing cartwheels and somersaults with amazing agility; John Higgins gives a skilful exhibition of his jumping prowess, his latest exploit being to vault over a full-sized billiard table; Will Rain and company present a most ingenious and attractive novelty in The Motor Maniac, in which the Bioscope is introduced in effective fashion; the Sisters Volbecque's comedy and descriptive songs are heartily relished by the audience; Clive Watts proves an adept rag-time dancer; Silbon's American Vaudeville Circus secures a good share of popularity; the Brothers Onda divert and entertain with their display as acrobatic comedians, and "Dick Turpin's last ride to York" is depicted by the Bioscope.

DONCASTER.—PAVILION.—Babs Lloyd is at the head of affairs here, for the second week, and her singing and dancing are greatly admired. A strong company, including Frank Whiteley, the Dainton Girls, and Nellie Vann, give good support.

DUBLIN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—The principal attraction here is "Dronza," the mechanical talking head, which proves an interesting item; the Brown and Kelly combination in the sketch The Butler Knows cause roars of laughter; and Evelyn Taylor is a pleasing comedienne; Michael Braham and his educated terrier, "Mickey," obtains appreciation; and Harry Brown's songs and dances are favourably received; a fine athletic display given by Paul Conchas merits applause; and Alice Blanford is a charming ballad vocalist; the Eight Lancashire Lads are exceedingly good vocalists and dancers; and La Tostia is an accomplished instrumentalist. A Ba-Be Picture Postcard Album and the Royal pictures complete the programme.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager Mr. J. W. Whitbread; Acting-Manager, Mr. John M. Dawson.—Miss Winifred Chalmers's company in the melodrama The Master Criminal is here this week. Mr. Henry L. Osmond submits a telling interpretation of the part of Telford Lestage; and Miss Winifred Chalmers as Cecile speedily wins the favour of her auditors; Ben Beauday is well presented by Mr. Elmore Frith; and Miss Phyllis Vaughan is effective as Mabel Manners; a very amusing impersonation of Tommy Dale is given by Mr. Harry Cooke; and Winifred Manners is cleverly acted by little Ella Gillette; Mr. Alexander Haviland acquits himself admirably as Philip Manners; and Miss Mabel Tremere is capital in the rôle of Peggie Perks.

PAVILION, KINGSTOWN.—Manager, Mr. C Irvine Bacon.—The Hollanders, a smart company of vocalists and dancers, are appearing here this week. The artists include Messrs. Leslie Gaze, Howard Cridland, Hal Gaze, and the Misses Maude Ashton, Ethelle Stapley, and Messie Allayne, who all contribute successfully to a varied programme.

EMPIRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—In an excellent programme provided here this week the premier position is allotted to Harry Roxbury and company in a musical mélange entitled The Prince of Monte Carlo, which meets with a hearty reception. Tom Woottwell has established himself here as a character comedian; and the Raies are expert dancers; Mr. Harry Trevanion and company's sketch, A Bolt from the Blue, is nightly applauded; and Lily Langtry, a comedienne with a winning style, has a host of admirers; the Warsaw Brothers are responsible for an interesting musical item; and Guy Ryder, boy whistler, receives due recognition; Harry Weldon is a capital comedian; and the Empire Pictures are interesting.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—The bill of fare submitted here this week includes Marie Collins, the well-known comedienne, who scores successfully; as do also Miss Hulo Hodgson and Mr. Harry Lowther in their amusing sketch, Barmaids; Chanti, Protean artist, makes a decided hit; and Silent Tait, the eccentric wizard, elicits applause; Mlle. Bartenelli, lady contortionist and gymnast, is well appreciated; and Elsie Earle is a chic comedienne; Dan Kirton, comedian; the Boultons, speciality artists; Tom Odlin, comedian; and the Bioscope pictures are also in the bill.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The company here includes Martin Melva, clog dancer; Nancy Lil, contralto; Cliff Dover, eccentric comedian; and Syd Mountford, conjuror.

DUNDEE.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—The Florodora Girls are the top-liners here this week, and their dashing turn is vociferously applauded. Their singing and dancing are much above the average; Lee's Marionettes provide a capital entertainment; Sam Thomson contributes his "Henpecked Husband" song and is recalled; Harry Lee sings with excellent effect, while G. W. Walker is also successful in his imitations; Ruby Bijou, the daintiest of dancers, gives a graceful exhibition of the "barefoot dance." Blind Henderson performed cleverly on the English concertina and piano, and Maxford and O'Neill repeat their success of last week. The Gaiety Bioscope, as usual, has some capital films, the accompaniments of Mr. Hartley's orchestra, assisted by the children's choir, being much appreciated.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—On Monday evening Mr. A. W. B. Kingston's company produced a play, entitled For King and Country, which deals with Dundee in the early days. As John Graham of Claverhouse, Mr. A. W. B. Kingston gave a fine performance; Mr. James Sommerville acted carefully as Sir Wm. Livingstone; as usual, the comical element was in the safe hands of Mr. Harry Egan, who, as a raw recruit, kept the audience convulsed. It says much for the versatility of the company that there is a change of programme each evening.

EASTBOURNE. — PIER PAVILION. — Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Messrs. Mathew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company is appearing here in the American drama The Still Alarm. The company is a good one, and the play is staged with effective realism, particularly the fire-station scene with the trained horses. Mr. M. H. Glenville is restrained and skilful as Jack Manley, Mr. Cecil du Gue as the villain John Bird excites the virtuous wrath of the audience, and Mr. Fred Osmond gives an amusingly clever character sketch in the part of Doc Willier; Mr. Tom Beasley is a pleasing Willie Manley, Mr. J. Sutton Pateman is an appropriate Franklyn Fordham, Mr. Lewis Gordon does excellent work as Joe, and the smaller parts are all well played. A charming and capable performance must be placed to the credit of Miss Maud Warburton, who is an attractive Elinore Fordham; Miss Hettie Zillwood is a sparkling and bright Carrie Wilber, and her songs are well given; and Miss Mabel Veriton is a satisfactory Mrs. Manley. The glees contributed by a quartette are in great favour. On Wednesday afternoon Mr. James Welsh and members of his company gave a most successful matinée. Perhaps Mr. Welsh's greatest triumph was his extremely fine character work as Jabez Gover in The Man in the Street. In this he was ably assisted by Miss Estelle Winwood and Mr. G. F. Tully. Judged by Appearances and Punctured were also played, and in these Miss Audrey Ford was a clever and charming assistant, and Mr. Leonard Buttress and Mr. Charles Entwhistle completed the cast. On Thursday afternoon Mr. Barclay Gammon appeared in his successful musical sketches and monologues.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Smith.—At the top of a good bill is Mr. George Mozart, whose capital work as a character actor and his clever and amusing patter keep the house in continual merriment; the Dunlops are a couple of strong and dexterous artists who introduce a novel and daring balancing act; Miss Helen Martin has a charming vaoice and her songs are favourably received; Mr. F. V. St. Clair claims much applause for his rhymes on topical themes; Messrs. Nash and Noel are a couple of patterers and dancers of approved type; Miss Maudie Francis pleases much as a child singer and dancer; Mr. Ted Cowan and Mr. Bert Brantford score as comedians; Miss Agnes Asher is a pleasing comedienne; and the pictures complete the bill.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull.—A triple bill, consisting of Truthful James, Shame, a one-act drama, and A Pantomime Rehearsal, is being presented here this week by Mrs. Alice Chapin's company. The honours in the first piece fall to Mr. Frederick Park, a droll low comedian, in the title-rôle; and admirable support is given by Mr. Henry B. Lewis, Mr. Henry Duncan, Mr. Harold Chapin, Mr. H. A. Welchman, Miss Paula Fernau, and Miss Winsome Etherington. In Shame, which is from the pen of Mrs. Chapin, the author acts with power and feeling the rôle of a betrayed woman. A Pantomime Rehearsal is acted with immense vivacity by the company. Mr. H. A. Welchman, as Deedes, not only proves his ability and versatility as an actor, but shows to much advantage as a vocalist and pianist; a capital sketch of Sir Charles Grandison is supplied by Mr. Henry B. Lewis; and the heavy dragoon of Mr. Harold Chapin is full of humour; Mr. Frederick Park's acting as Lord Arthur Pomeroy is genuinely funny; Miss Winsome Etherington and Miss Dorothy Furniss as the Hon. Lily Eaton Belgrave and the Hon. Violet Eaton Belgrave sing and dance with considerable charm and spirit; Mrs. Chapin is stately and effective in the part of Lady Muriel; and Miss Paula Fernau and Miss Elsie Chapin act piquantly in their respective characters.

THE GRAND THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. Harry Fischer.—The Grand re-opened, after the summer vacation, on Monday evening, when Dr. Walford Bodie gave his fascinating exhibition of bloodless surgery and electrical power. The theatre has been redecorated during the recess, and a tasteful scheme of colour has been introduced to brighten afresh this pleasant and popular house, which is so admirably managed by Mr. Fischer. Marked success has, as usual, attended Dr. Bodie's engagement; the audiences are crowded, and the customary enthusiasm has been shown at the demonstration of the doctor's curative powers. A good variety programme precedes the principal feature of the performance. The artists include Signor Bandoni, a clever instrumentalist; Mr. Norman Mills, comedian, in a patriotic scena, The Real John Bull; Violet and Daisy Poole, neat and pretty dancers; Dolly Robson, a child vocalist; Miss Helen Henri, ballad singer; Miss Bella Skene, burlesque actress; and Halma, a young and graceful juggler.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting - Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton.—The leading position in a good all-round bill is filled by Mr. John Lawson and company, in the strong melodramatic sketch, Humanity; the McNaughtons provide an exceedingly amusing turn; and Mr. Hughes, in what he calls "Codology," gives a clever skit on the familiar seances of hynotists; the songs of Miss Alice Lloyd are delightfully fresh and pleasing; the Casino Comedy Four prove themselves an entertaining quartette of vocalists; Mr. Alf. Holt shows great skill in his mimicry of the songs and sounds of birds and animals; and Mr. Mark Merry displays much quaint humour in his melancholic mirthful ditties; Ross and Grayson, smart comedy artists, indulge in some extraordinary piano playing; Miss Marie Weston appears in a bright comedienne turn; Miss Gertrude Bradshaw is an attractive ballad singer; Mr. Frank Darwin is seen to advantage as an actor-vocalist; and the Bioscope display of all the latest subjects continues to be highly appreciated.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mr. Lawrence Brough and company in The Lady of Ostend, and The Cruise of the Saucy Sally are here this week. Mr. Henry Hampson's humorous portrayal of Dick Whortles creates much amusement; Mr. Charles Groves as Joseph Carbury scores a success; Mr. Lawrence Brough's Baron de Longueville could scarcely be improved upon; Mr. H. Gomer May puts in good work as Toby Krockitt; Miss Kate Milford is a charming Dorothy Whortles; Miss Evelyn Ormonde is a lively Millie Grace; Miss Eleanor Gilbart's rendering of Matilda Carbary leaves nothing to be desired, and Miss Daisy Cook makes a vivacious Lady of Ostend.

VICTORIA PIER.—Lessees, Messrs. Keith Prowse and Co., Ltd.; Local Manager, Mr. J. Fenton Walsh.—Miss Beatrice Dunn, soprano, sings a number of songs charmingly, her soprano voice being heard to great advantage; Mr. James Chilcott is a clever humorist, and his performance is both droll and interesting; the Victoria Minstrels perform three times daily, and are a great success; the Imperial Austrian Band is also much appreciated, and the popular dance on Wednesday continues to be a good attraction.

LEAS PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. A. Sitter.—Miss Marion Battishill, contralto, receives quite an ovation, and the Animated Pictures create amusement.

GATESHEAD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. M. S. Hammond; General-Manager, Mr. Joe May.—The Ergotti and King Luis troupe are at the head of the bill this week, and treat the audiences to a fine acrobatic act; the Bensons, duettists and dancers, are experts in their own particular line; and Norman French is a most accomplished dancer. Caselli and James are clever banjoists; Messrs. Frank Keegan and company, comedy cyclists, keep the audience amused whilst they occupy the stage; another mirth-provoking item is provided by Keith and Merson in a comedy acrobatic act entitled The Meet; the Donatos, one-legged clowns, accomplish some wonderful feats; Cliff and Kean are seen to advantage in a singing and dancing act; and the Sisters Cora, duettists and dancers, complete a most attractive programme.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Fred Earle in all his latest successes is starring here; Barton and Franklin submit a musical act which elicits much applause; the hit of the bill, however, is made by Mlle. de Rose, who sings no fewer than four songs; the Ringling Trio, American eccentrics have some amusing business; Margaret Radcliffe, vocalist, and the Animated Pictures complete the bill.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—Messrs. Beaudyn and Livesey's company is appearing here in A Beautiful Fiend. Mr. Montague Beaudyn gives a striking impersonation of Ivan Paulovitch; the villanies of Count Karateff are excellently portrayed by Mr. Tom Robertson; and Mr. Albert Wray makes a gentlemanly Sergius Strogoff. Mr. Chris Mason portrays Malachi with considerable force, and Mr. Harry Oates as Crackles and Miss Blanche Hill as Patty Woodlands are seen to much advantage in comedy parts. Miss V. St. Lawrence as Wanda Lubinoff makes a marked impression, and Miss Irene Munro is a winsome Nadine.

GLASGOW.—KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, H. Macfarlane.—The Dandy Doctor is paying a welcome return visit, and Mr. Edward Morris is again at the head of the company; as Brown, "the tinned meat king," he is excellent; Miss Florence Smithers, the Jane of the cast, has had a good reception; Mr. Herbert Pearce scores as the Colonel; in the hands of Mr. Leslie Martin, Bertie is a capital character; Mr. Dalton Danes, as Drycoff, has made quite a hit; as P.C. Quick Mr. John Birtles gives an adequate representation; Miss Elfie Vincent sings, acts, and dances charmingly as the quondam housekeeper; Mr. E. H. Bertram is well suited as the young doctor; the Yeoman Male Voice Quartette sing "Eileen Alanah" beautifully, and were encored; the Dandy Belles and the Dutch Girls also contribute their full share to the performance.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—Patrons of this house are being tre

French, the dandy comedian; Milsted and Bell, in an original Indian musical comedy scena; Miss Lalie Brooke, vocal comedienne; the Three Itrams in Fun on a Fan; Syd. Arnold instrumentalist and vocalist; Bros. Bright, acrobats; and the Three Sisters Geronde, vocalists and dancers.

WELLINGTON PAVILION.—Proprietors, Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr. Harry Tunbridge. —Mr. Harold Montague's The Vagabonds are providing a most attractive entertainment here. Mr. Montague is a clever comedian, who with song and patter keeps the house in constant laughter. Miss Merita Leclair sings sweetly and expressively; Miss Belle Green both acts and sings well; Mr. Ernest Devereux contributes some excellent songs; Mr. Percival Mackenzie gives banjo solos, and draws impressionist pictures with lightning speed. Mr. David Norton is the pianist, and wins loud applause for his solos. Choruses, a comedietta, and a skit on grand opera complete a splendid programme.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert.—Pride of place in a capital programme must be given to the Brothers Martine, who provide an exceedingly clever show as grotesque acrobats, and the Brothers de Wynne in their great equilibrist performance. Durell contributes a wonderful log-rolling act, and other artists taking part in the evening's entertainment are the Wallys, comedy and expert jugglers; Miss Florrie Humel, equestrienne; Mr. James Humel, jockey; Algie, the eccentric comedian; the Marsumas, knockabouts; and Rabbit, the favourite clown.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree.—The domestic drama Defending His Honour has been seen here this week. In the principal characters of Douglas Bryce and Ethel Bryce Mr. Fred W. Goddard and Miss Chrissie Dunbar have accomplished excellent work, whilst Mr. A. Balfour Mackay as George Duncan and Mr. Carthage Caldcleugh as Stephen Graid have also well sustained prominent parts. Mr. Evan Roland has been responsible for good character acting as Jack Damish; and others who have contributed to the success of the piece are Mr. Willie Black, Mr. H. Macaulay, Miss Ida Mackay, Miss Amy Wood, and Miss Amy Manfree.

THE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwards; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton.—The illusions presented by Morritt have completely mystified the audiences, whilst the blind man whom the magician introduces gives evidence of possessing a phenomenal memory. The acrobatic turn of the Grovini Family is another attractive item. Capital gymnastic performances are given by the Brothers Zano, smart triple-bar artists, and the Bonanzas, expert hand-balancers. Comedy is provided in Harry Hayton's burlesque of the Coastguard, and in a sketch, The Silly Servant, by Tom Kelso's company, Billy Burns, the singing pitboy, sings popular songs; and a pleasing vocal turn is also contributed by Elsie Claire.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Sydney Prince.—The display of animated pictures continues to attract good attendances, and general satisfaction is expressed with the excellence and up-to-date character of the subjects.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—Max Walden, the wonderful impersonator of the "fair sex," holds the premier position here this week, and is proving very successful. Les Vocos require no introduction, and it will suffice to say their singing is as good as ever; Hinton and Wooton introduce football on cycles; a thrilling episode is presented by Tamamoto, wire vaulter; an enchanting musical item is provided by the talented Stavordale Quintette; the Wilfords are fine specimens of manhood, and perform some astounding physical feats; and Maud and Sidney Wood are successful singers and dancers.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edward Harrison.—This week that popular comedian, Nat Clifford, is making a welcome re-appearance; a smart manipulating and juggling act is submitted in a dexterous manner by the Henres; very clever Risley performers are the world-renowned Dayton Family, whose remarkable tumbling is bewildering; a clever pair of step-dancers are the dainty Sisters Brenton; and a whimsical and pleasing comedian is Percy Curry.

HANLEY.—GRAND, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—The Motramos are seen here this week in their exceedingly clever and amusing turn; Jack Lorimer, the Scotch comedian, scores successfully in his capital songs and dances; Bert Byrne is a comedian of merit; Galletti's monkeys are interesting; Margaret Ruby and Ernest Laws are seen in a capital sketch, Cora's Visitor; Beaty and Blanch do well; and the Sisters Wingrove are also successful. Mignonette Kokin contributes an original dance, and the pictures are up to date.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Fielding-Smith.—Mrs. Greenwood Croft's company in Mr. Sydney Grundy's play A Bunch of Violets, appeared here on Monday, and two following nights. Mr. Norman Partridge is a good Sir Philip Marchant; he is ably supported by Miss Florence Russell Spiers as Lady Marchant, she plays well, especially in the strong scene in the third act; Mr. Aynscliffe gives a clever study of Harper, the secretary; Mr. Wilson Coleman is amusingly vulgar as Mark Murgatroyd; Mrs. Greenwood Croft appears as Mrs. Murgatroyd. The rest of the characters are in capable hands. Mr. Ian Maclaren's Shakespearean company was announced to appear three nights of the week in Hamlet, Twelfth Night, and David Garrick.

HASTINGS. — HIPPODROME. — Resident and General-Manager, Mr. Albert Mathams.—The programme is opened this week by the attractive comedienne and dancer, Miss Florrie St. Roy. A weird romance, entitled The Doctor, is remarkably well acted by Monty Bayley's quartette. A much appreciated turn is given by Miss Amy Elcock, serio and dancer. Some original and cleverly worked films are shown on the Hippodrome Bioscope. Miss Linda Wasey is an excellent comedienne; the American comedy artists, Cline and Clarke, score a success with their singing and dancing; Little Dando, the "Funny Man," is decidedly funny; a laughable and comic creation is introduced by Grey and Parry who are warmly greeted.

PIER PAVILION. — Pier-Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter. —Mr. A. B. Tapping and a strong company are holding the boards here in the performance of the powerful drama, A Man's Shadow. Mr. Frederick Sargent takes the dual rôle of Lucien Larogue and Luverson; the portrayal of the two extremes of temperament and disposition in the two parts is characterised by exceptional ability. Mr. A. B. Tapping gives a finished and intelligent piece of acting as the advocate, Raymond de Noirville; Mr. J. D. Hunter and Mr. Harry Collier are soldiers in the French army; the juvenile, Winnie Tapping, carries away the honours for her clever interpretation of Suzanne; a good character sketch of Jean Ricordot is given by Mr. John Wemyss; Mr. George Mudie, jun., does well as the president of the court; Henrietta (wife of Larouge) is a highly sympathetic performance by Miss Alice Farleigh; Miss Clarissa Selwynne plays the part of Julie with exquisite grace and finish; as Victorie, Miss Blanche Bayley makes the rosiest and merriest of waiting maids.

ST. LEONARDS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master and Entertainment Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Concerts are being given here by a party under the name of The Gazekas. This troupe of ladies and gentlemen engage in a variety of vocal selections and songs in a pleasing style, the pianist accompanying being Miss Gazekel Fowler. Mr. Gazeka Dane clearly demonstrates the possession of a remarkably good voice; Miss Gazekel Graves sings very sweetly; whilst equally successful and appreciated are Miss Gazekel Violet Bronson and Miss Gazekel Wix. A principal feature in the programme is the clever sleight of hand and hypnotic performances by Gazeka Lynn.

BEACH CONCERT PAVILION.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. Blackmore.—Mr. Wallis Arthur's company opened its summer season on Monday to a full house. Mr. Geo. Blackmore contributed some humorous songs; Mr. Jas. M. Campbell's refined nonsense proved enjoyable; Mr. Llewellyn Davies was in excellent voice, and rendered his ballads well; Miss Ada Gaskill has a rich contralto voice, and sang very acceptably; Miss Winnie Harbor submitted a clog dance, with other efforts, which was much liked. As heretofore, Mr. Geo. F. Swaine proved a capable accompanist and pianist. On the beach is located the Happy Valley Pierrots, comprising Mr. Le Hurst, ventriloquist, whose figure, "Jimmy" is a source of much amusement; Miss Ly-Jefferies, a pleasing soubrette; and Mr. J. Stock-Kershaw, pianist, who performs many of his own compositions.

HUDDERSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—At the top of the bill is Captain Taylor with his four perfectly trained elephants; also appearing are Miss Lizzie Fletcher, comedienne; Zanfretto and Napio, a clever and original couple of musicians; Bros. Lang, comedians; Mr. E., with a lantern show; Miss Bouverie Pleydell, serio; Morimura, illusionist; and Arthur Lennard, who increases his well-won popularity with some clever new songs.

HULL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—The National Theatre Co. from Dublin is here, and on the first two nights of the week four plays were given. W. B. Yeat's Pot o' Broth afforded Mr. W. G. Fay an opportunity of submitting a strong character study. Very simple is Mr. J. M. Synge's Riders to the Sea, but it is of that simplicity that strikes home. Miss Maire O'Neill and Miss Brigit O'Dempsey as Cathleen and Nora respectively displayed real talent, and the Maurya of Miss Sara Allgood was a conspicuous success. From tears to laughter is but a very short step, and the little three-act comedy, "The Building Fund, from the pen of Wm. Boyle, caused unrestrained hilarity. Lay Gregory's Spreading the News, another comedy in one act, also adds its share to the enjoyment, and, coupled with the acting of Mr. W. G. Fay, gives a fitting finale to an excellent evening's entertainment. To the charm of the plays must be added the delightful rendering of old Irish airs by Mr. Arthur Darley on the violin. Amongst the plays selected for the remainder of the week are In the Shadow of the Glen, Kathleen ri Houlihan, and Hyacinth Halvay.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—The Blind Foundling is a play new to Hull, and is one likely to interest the popular patrons. The author, Mr. Chas. H. Phelps, avails himself of all the opportunities the character of Gerald Dalton provides; Mr. Harry Tilbury extracts fun from the rôle of Dobbins; the foundling is pathetically portrayed by Miss Mabel Hall; Mr. A. G. Fry makes the most of the part of the adventurer, Mark Redman, the same may be said of Mr. Frank Harvey as Parson Ray.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Mortons, Ltd; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. Morton.—In The Poor Must Live the management has a play which is well in accord with their patron's taste. Mr. Shaun Glenville ably sustains the comedy part of Hooker Holdsmitch; Miss Olive Fulton scores as Olga D'Eyncourt; Miss Alice Buckland and Mr. Frank H. Dale are exceptionally good in their character studies.

THE PALACE. — Acting-Manager, Mr. John S. Barnett.—Marie Loftus, who is at the top of the bill, makes a big hit; George Formby is a comedian whose style suits the audience admirably. George Brooks is another comedian of much ability; the Russian Imperial Troupe are old favourites here; Maud Courtney's stories are smart. Other capital artists include Lizzie Daniels, Brett and Orford, Ike Scott and Son, Norman, the Leonard Trio, and Brown and Robinson.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. Tom Lunn.—The Achmed Ibrahim Troupe of Arabs go through an exceedingly smart performance; Dent and Harris present a clever sketch, Mary and the Squire, in which much comedy is shown. Harry Grey's songs are very popular; Ernest Montefiore and company's sketch, The Little Colonel, is exceedingly well acted, and possesses many dramatic incidents; Eric Mayne, a very funny comedian; and Bessie Willow and Olive Armadale, two smart comediennes, complete an excellent bill.

ILKESTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—Two pieces are billed for the week—It's Never Too Late to Mend and Moths, the stock company of Mr. Lewis Cohn being the exponents. The first was chosen for the opening night, and as Tom Robinson Mr. George Steel played with both skill and vigour; Mr. Chas. D. Pitt was seen as George Fielding, a part which he handled cleverly; and Miss E. Turner Elliott as Susan Merton made the most of her opportunities. Mr. Clement Wakefield gave a good impersonation of the Jew (Isaac Levi); the Misses Gwendoline Thorpe and Lesley Wynne scored as London Nan and Mrs. Meadows; Mr. Louis Cohn as Crawley and Mr. E. Bulwer Pitt as John Meadows did all that was necessary in their respective rôles.

IPSWICH. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock. — On Monday evening Graham, termed the Lilliputian wonder, appeared here, and his marionette business proved unique and entertaining; another attractive turn was that of the Clement Trio, who received much applause for their flying trapeze act; among other items were Ida Katharena, with her Carnival of Toys; Mr. J. H. Preston, a humorous exponent of Scotch songs; Mollie Seymour, an accomplished violinist and singer; the Arthur Lloyd Trio, whose performances are very droll; and the Egbert Brothers in a knockabout act.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jerold E. Read.—Miss Emma Litchfield's company is here this week with the popular drama, entitled A London Actress. Mr. Stuart Cleveland is good in the part of Sergt.-Major Clive Crawford; and Mr. Richard Vane does full justice to the rôle of Lieut. Kingstone; Captain Mannering is in the capable hands of Mr. John Worth; and Mr. George H. Doyle is excellent as Moses Mendoza; Mr. John Hitchens is very droll as Pat Maloney; Miss Maud Steeples scores as Phylis Crawford; and Miss Nellie Fern does full justice to the part of Biddy Maloney; Miss Emma Litchfield gives a capital rendering of Hilda Mannering.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robert Perkins.—The season here opened with Mr. Walter Maxwell's company in Little Mary. Mr. Ben Field is thoroughly at home in the rôle of the Earl of Carlton; Mr. Arthur Kightley and Mr. Lewis Edgard as Lord Rolfe and the Earl of Plumleigh are both excellent; Mr. Edgard plays a dual part, appearing in Act 1 as Terence Reilly; Mr. Gerald Malvern and Mr. Herbert Choron appear as the two physicians; Miss Elspeth Dudgeon is suited in the part of Countess Plumleigh; Miss Margaret Nybloc and Miss Madge Murray play Lady Melly and Eleanor Gray. Nothing but praise can be given to Miss Christine Selver for her sympathetic impersonation of Moira Loney.

LEEDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—A Rogue's Daughter is proving very popular with the habitués of the Royal this week. The authoress, Miss Marie Menzies, brings her own company, and herself plays the leading feminine part of Lady Mynard in accomplished style; Mr. Roy Gordon gives an admirable portrayal of Sir George Mynard, whose friend Tyler is an attractive performance by Mr. Frank V. Fenn; Mr. Richard Ferris is well placed as the up-to-date adventurer, Colonel Foster, and his accomplice in crime, Isaacs, is cleverly embodied by Mr. A. Hall Menzies; Miss Madge Devereux makes a charming and sympathetic Letty Grey.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—Mr. Morton Powell's company is here on a welcome return visit with the powerful domestic drama Honour Thy Father. Mr. Walter M. Cameron has the strong part of Gabriel Garth, and in its presentation displays conspicuous ability; the nephew, Jack Halyard, is a convincing embodiment by Mr. Douglas B. Watson; Mr. Clavering Craig depicts in faithful style the evil doer, Duncan Bly; and Mr. Claude Merton is seen to advantage in an arduous dual rôle; the heiress, Mercy Merry, is a charming personation by Miss Winnie Donovan; Miss Maud Grey merits high praise for good work as Violet, and the Gertrude Garth of Mrs. Clavering Craig is also excellent; other parts are capably handled by Mr. W. H. Melrose, Mr. Sinclair Holden, and Miss Mabel Coleman.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex. Galley.—After a lengthy absence J. W. Rowley, a big local favourite, re-appears with topical songs and dialect patter, and is again vastly amusing. There are two other favourite comedians in the bill, J. W. Rickaby and J. A. Wilson, and both score heavily; there is an entertaining musical turn by Orpheus; that clever vocal comedy pair, Starr and Leslie, are a popular feature; Lee and Bentley submit a comedy sketch in clever style; a novel and daring acrobatic act by Conn and Conrad gets a big reception; Harry Freeman is having a great week with smart new songs; that eccentric pair Walton and Lester are responsible for a mirth-provoking interlude, and Georgina Leonard is a pleasing comedienne.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Sybil Moon's Cadets lead the programme here, their excellent singing and dancing being very much enjoyed; the Brothers Pasquali present an acrobatic act, in which they display marvellous agility; Stanley and Vandyke are provocative of much merriment in a comedy-sketch; the Musical Markies do a clever vocal and comedy turn; Andy Fagan and Sam Redfern are capital mirth-provokers; May Merton renders vocal items in good style; Lily Lonsdale and Edie Rivers have each enjoyable items to submit.

LEICESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—The attraction is provided here this week by a visit of Mr. P. Howard Sturgess's No. 1 company in the domestic drama A Queen of Villainy, which is both staged and played in excellent style. In the principal part of Cora Granville Miss Edith Blande has full scope for the display of her talents as an actress, and proves a great success. Mr. Ernest G. Batley does exceedingly well as the hero, Eric, and as the evil genius, Stephen Faucit, Mr. Edward Heanley is very good. Miss Cecilia Desmond plays sympathetically and cleverly as Rose Delmayne. Both Mr. P. Howard Sturgess as Timothy Kodac and Miss Jessie Crammonde as Mollie Maggs are well to the front with popular and mirth-provoking embodiments of the comedy parts. Mr. Arthur E. Maskell is a success as Reuben Hawk; Mr. Lawrence Stevenson as Kit, a waif, is effective; Mr. Charles Stirling deserves high praise as Dick Leinster; Miss Amy Ross Clyde as Sally Chimes is good; and Mr. Gordon Carnegie (the acting-manager) as Sir John Desborough, and Mr. Cecil De-Lee (the stage manager) as P.C. Martell are also to be complimented.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Andrews. — The visits to Leicester of Mr. Arthur Roberts are few and far between, and the present one is doubly welcome. The popular comedian, who is assisted by a good all-round company, is presenting for the first time here The Importance of Being Another Man's Wife, which keeps the audience in a continual ripple of merriment. As the masher Fitzawful Smith Mr. Roberts has a part in which he excels. The other parts are played by Mr. George P. Polson, Miss Jessie Burgwitz, Miss Ruby Celeste, Miss Topsy Shorlock, and Miss Lorna Treherne. May Henderson, the dusky charmer, returns and secures her usual hearty welcome, her versatile turn giving the greatest delight; Another firm favourite here is Austin Rudd, whose songs and parodies are rendered in a most mirth-provoking style, and prove imensely popular; Cooke and Miss Rothert are both amusing and clever; the Three Sisters Hayden, who have a fine stage appearance, delight all with their songs, which have the merit of being well rendered; the Sisters Urma give a graceful and clever performance on the trapeze; the Phydoras are grotesque musicians who give a bright and entertaining show; the Sisters Terry, fascinating duettists, and dancers, are always sure of a hearty welcome; George Ridgwell, who is possessed of a baritone voice of fine quality and power, sings his songs in a delightful manner.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—The principal attraction in a capital programme here is Miss Amy B. Ellis and company, who are presenting the sensational sketch Justice and the domestic sketch The Harvest of Crime. Miss Ellis sustains the part of Laura Heywood, the heroine, in the latter sketch in admirable style, and Mr. J. H. Brownson as Tom Heywood also renders his part of the hero in an attractive and successful manner. As the unscrupulous Leonard Walton Mr. Ernest Munroe is very good; Mr. Frank Dalton is capital as Mr. Walton; and Master Jack Ellis shows great promise as Wilfred Heywood. The variety part of the programme is contributed to by Daisy Silcott, an entertaining comedienne; the Brothers Curran, in their laughable and original boxing act, Taking the Census; Millie Denham, an attractive burlesque actress; Fields and Lewis, in a novel and clever burlesque act; Jack Heath, comedian; Sam Veld, character musician; and Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope, with good films. The band here is now under the conductorship of Mr. Fred Gough.

PIERROT PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Abell, Johnson, and Unsworth.—An enjoyable entertainment is provided here this week by the following, whose versatility in many ways is rewarded with spontaneous applause:—Fanny Adamson, soubrette; Ernest Hildred, baritone vocalist; Dan Lyndon, comedian; Edith May, comedienne; Bert Wallace, comedian; the Bohemian Glee Singers; and Alf. Unsworth, pianist and musical director.

LIVERPOOL. — ROTUNDA THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.—A capital representation of The Octoroon is given here this week by Messrs. Granville and Thorne's company. The popular drama is staged in a complete manner, and several scenes are very realistic. Mr. Hugh Montgomery in the part of Salem Scudder plays with marked effect, and proves to be one of the pillars of the play; Miss Leslie Warner ably fills the title-rôle, exercising much care and discretion; as Jacob McClosky Mr. J. O. Stewart affords the utmost satisfaction; credit is due to Mr. Phil Harper for his excellent Wahnotee; Mr. Frank M. Thorne does justice to Colonel Pointdexter; as Paul, Miss Maud Russell introduces some popular singing and dancing; Miss Florence Thorne is an efficient Mrs. Peyton; Miss Marie Harcourt handles the rôle of Dora Sunnyside with satisfaction; and Mr. W. G. Clements is to be commended for his Captain Ratts.

STAR THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—Good business has been done here this week with A Wrecker of Men, presented by Mr. Charles Watson Mill, the author. Mr. Eric Campbell has the part of Jim Murley, and gains much applause for his excellent work; Miss Amy Elham as the adventuress, Risca Mallison, acts with power and intensity; Mr. Thompson Carruthers exercises much judgment with the character of Eric Melville; Miss Cissie Podmore is seen to advantage as Doris Melville; a good deal of capital humour comes from Miss Kitty Melville as Vavasole Slopper; Mr. Henry P. Kennedy, in the parts of Ezekiel Isaacs and Karnaphus, proves satisfactory; Mr. Milner Noble skilfully fills the rôle of Pharosophus. The remainder of the cast are efficient, and the staging of the play acceptable.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lingford Carson; Manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur.—Miss Hettie Jeffries's company, under the direction of Mr. Whitmore Ledger, has visited here this week with The Curate. The part of Gilbert Westwood is in the good keeping of Mr. Ledger, who plays with dramatic strength; Miss Jeffries makes herself extremely popular as Dick, the trumpeter, a character which is well enacted; Mr. Robert Gilbert displayed ability and tact as the Rev. John Audley; Miss Winifred Stuart gives a striking impersonation of the Russian adventuress, Vodsky; Mr. Sidney Clayton as Simon Muggs, and Mr. Alfred Horton as Benlebow, are particularly humorous; praise is due to Mr. Frank Stuart for his Sergeant Snipe; and Miss Agnes D'Aragon helps effectively with the fun as Mrs. Muggs.

THE EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Nellie Wallace is in big type here this week, and has had a warm reception for her capital songs and patter; Vernando is exceedingly funny as the ventriloquial barber; Howard and Collinson present a humorous sketch, The Porter and the Parcel; the Jackson family are refined and clever musicians; the "Sorg, play, and mirth" entertainment by the Gems is loudly applauded; capital songs and stories are introduced by Miss Alexandra Dagmar; the violin solos submitted by Miss Gladys Hooley in Corrie and Dereves's sketch are appreciated; and other artistes mentioned in the list are the Three Rubys, acrobats; Sutcliffe Family of pipers and dancers; Arthur Gill, vocalist; and the Two Madges, juvenile song and dance artistes.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Another excellent programme presented here this week has been drawing large houses. At the top are Rawlins and company with a laughable trifle Mashing the Missus; Coram, a gifted ventriloquist, supplied an admirable turn, and is warmly applauded; Lina Verdi gives an exhibition of remarkable powers as a mimic, her imitations of leading music hall artists being duly recognised and appreciated; Tom Lloyd, the eccentric comedian, is as funny as ever; as comedy equilibrists, Correze and Keith keep their audience in a merry mood; Zeta Grey and company provoked great applause with their musical comedy The Lancashire Lass; it would be difficult to excel the smart juggling of the Four Geraldos; Mabel La Blanche sings sweetly; Will Driscoll, as a swell comedian and dancer, is a good turn; and Lola Patey affords much satisfaction as a comedienne. The Barrascope pictures are particularly fine.

NEW PARTHENON. — Proprietor, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—So popular have the fine series of animated pictures proved here, that this particular form of entertainment is being continued. The variety turns by several talented artists are also greatly appreciated.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—Despite the summer weather that prevails, this popular house is well attended twice nightly by delighted audiences. The "Royal" Stock Dramatic Company have this week selected The Anarchist Terror, which is admirably put on. The comedy part of Joe is capitally held by Mr. Percy Boucher; Mr. Harry Tresham makes an excellent Lieut. Armstrong; Mr. John Burton does justice to the rôle of Silas Goldstraw; a villainous Ravageon is presented by Mr. Sidney Grant; Mr. Leo Montgomery, for a dramatic recruit, gives satisfaction as Pietro; Mr. E. D. Allen displays his well-known ability in the character of Ishmael; Miss Florence Palmer is sweet as Columbria Goldstraw; and the Marita of Miss Nina Mazeby is well drawn. The evening's enjoyment is concluded with some excellent Bioscope pictures.

PARK PALACE, LTD. — Managing-Director, Mr. Walter De Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Charles Majilton and his smart combination of comedians are here this week with The Plumber, which has aroused great laughter; the Idento Bros. give an excellent turn as comedy and expert jugglers; a smart military burlesque is provided by Louie Leonard and Lazy Larry; the Sisters Kildare have an up-to-date vocal scena; and Edna Cragge, burlesque actress, also appears.

HAYMARKET.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Principal in the bill here this week are Percy M. Stevenson and company with the sketch A False Friend. H. O. Borie executes some smart comedy juggling; the Sisters Douglas are dainty comediennes; Warden gives an acceptable ventriloquial turn; and Smith and Johnson, a lively pair of coloured vocalists, are well received. Some capital pictures are shown by the Bioscope.

WESTMINSTER. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—The whole of the programme presented here this week is occupied by Will Hebden and his large combination of comedians, with Jocularity, or a Day in Paddy's Market, this place being a well-known quarter of Liverpool, where old and cast-off clothing is dealt in. The comedy has had many a representation in this city, but never fails to prove a strong attraction. Mr. Hebden is the main pillar, and his four grotesque characters provoke endless laughter, while he receives great assistance from Mr. James McGrath, who plays Michael O'Hennessey, a traveller in railway bridges. The eight tableaux include scenes of Paddy's Market, a well-known public-house, the police cells, and New Brighton Sands.

OLYMPIA, LTD.—Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—That exceedingly funny combination of comedians, the Boissets, remain here a second week, creating incessant laughter with A Trip to the Continent. Alexandra Dagmar is well received for her taking songs; a novel and daring show is given by the Avalos, perpendicular bar athletes; the Mackways, "The Mad Trio," cause endless fun on the tight wire; the efforts of the Northern Troupe of International dancers meet with cordial applause; a remarkable exhibition of hoop manipulating is given by Stylo; Beatrice Bonnie is a comedienne who sings with taste; and J. Alexander and company have a smart comedy sketch.

LONG EATON.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. T. Meakin.—The company here this week opened with The Shaughraun. Mr. Hugh Brady is excellent as Conn; and Mr. Henry Burnard as Robert, and Miss Florence Creagh as Claire Ffolliott are very good. Mr. Morton Thorpe is a capital Captain; and Miss Lily Lewis, Miss Daisy Stone, and Miss Grace Power all contribute to the success of the drama. The villain is well played by Mr. Algie Spalding. On Thursday, Mr. Brady had a benefit, when specialities were given by several members.

LOWESTOFT. — MARINA. — Managing-Director, Mr. E. A. Smith.—Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company is still here, the attraction this week being Home Sweet Home, which is warmly received.

HIPPODROME.—Mr. George Gilbert.—This week we have the Redcaps' Costume Comedy company, under the direction of Mr. Edwards Towle.

OLYMPIAN GARDENS AND SPARROW NEST PARK.—Mr. Paul Mill.—These charming grounds are now open for the season, and the attractions provided are attracting hundreds of visitors. The Sparrows' Nest Park is undoubtedly one of the most beautiful and picturesque resorts on the East Coast. Amongst the artistes are:—Messrs. J. G. Taylor, Philip Pitte, Harry Harmer, Robert Macay, Paul Mill, and the Misses Haidee St. George, Winifred Channing, Doris Lee, Evelyn Keath, &c. The orchestra is under the able direction of Mr. Paul Mill.

LYTHAM.—PIER THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harrison.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company, in Too Many Cooks, is the attraction for the first part of the week here. Mr. Arthur Holmes-Gore is a highly-successful Arthur Winton; Mr. Jackson Wilcock does well as Major Brasket; Mr. Wilfred Roy is a suitable Lieutenant Ashurst; and Mr. Willis Seale is amusing as John Bimbleby; Mr. George Ide gives a good rendering of P.C. Simkin. Miss Lilian Rogers is clever as Dora Brasket; Miss Hilda Fairfax has a fitting part in Georgina Winton; Miss Dorothy Maud does well as Susan. In a clever one-act play, The Fatal Stocking, which precedes, the author, Mr. Arthur Holmes-Gore, and Miss Lilian Rogers appear.

MANCHESTER.—ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Mr. E. Oswald Brooks presents here this week The Trial of the Serpent, a sensational and exciting melodrama. Mr. Wilford Cheetham as Ralph Hammond (the "Serpent") has a very strong part, and portrays it well; Miss Marjory May is charming as Ethel Maynard, and the yound lady who is suspended over a fiery furnace in the third act; Miss Nannie Cameron makes the most of her part of Rachael, the discarded gipsy; Mr. Booth Conway is very good as Gipsy Jake; and Mr. A. Campbell-Kelly is a vigorous Gerald Kingston; considerable humour is added by Mr. Vincent Kelway as Higgins, Esquire, and Miss Gladys Newcombe as Rose Wilson. The play is well staged and quite enjoyable.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A capital programme here this week comprises Wyndham and Waters, "the Professor and the Pupil," in a comedy-act; Jessie Jukes, juvenile comedienne and dancer; Johnson and Pelham in their amusing "golf-match"; Marlow and Manton in a clever sketch Other People's Babies; Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, excellent singing boxmakers; Phedona, in a gorgeous electrical musical act; Hector and Sultan, acrobatic comedy grotesques; the Four Albertos, head and hand equilibrists; the Sisters Valli, popular comediennes, musicians, and top-boot dancers; and a series of comic pictures on the Bioscope.

ST. JAMES'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. Gus Flanagan.—A variety programme, presented twice nightly, takes the place of drama here this week, and proved greatly to the taste of a good house on Monday. Madame Ada Colley, the Australian prima donna, is the top star, and is exceedingly well received; capital turns are given also by Lytton and Bland, comedy duo; the Arizona Troupe of jugglers, acrobats, and contortionists; Will Percival, a smart pedestal dancer; Walter Whitley, comedian; F. Jenning's Comedy company in The Indian, an extremely comic sketch; Mike Johnson, a clever Dutch comedian; Nancy Renshaw, laughing comedienne and bone soloist; and a novel and amusing sketch called Comical Cleaners, presented by a combination of the various artistes who make up the general programme.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead. —A production of East Lynne is to be seen here this week, played by a capable company, among whom Mr. H. Carmichael is conspicuously good as Archibald Carlyle, and Miss Nelson Ramsey presents a very sympathetic rendering of Lady Isabel. Others who do well are Mr. Donald Gow, Mr. Fred Wilberforce, Mr. Arthur Allen, Miss Melville, Miss A. Hardy, and Miss B. Rutter.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Berry.—Mr. Jack Haddon's No. 1 company is here this week in the popular drama Under the Russian Flag. Mr. Jack Haddon sustains the rôle of Captain Demetrius in excellent style; and Miss Marie Rayner is worthily placed in the important dramatic part of Luka Marischka; Mr. Bernard Mervyn and Mr. Cecil Melton are very good as Michael and Ivan Romanoff; Miss Elaine Vanbrugh is admirable as Vera Vassiloff; and Mr. Hal Forde and Miss Agnes Howard retain their original parts of Peter Poulski and Ogarita with all the old success. The remaining parts are all satisfactorily filled.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter De Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—A very strong programme here includes Marie Lloyd in her latest London successes; the Poluski Brothers, who give a fine comedy turn; G. H. Elliott, the chocolate-coloured coon, in typical songs and dances; Yamamoto and Koyoshi, wonderful Japanese equilibrists; Captain Max Gruber's elephant, horse, and pony in a well-trained performance; Will Souls, laughing comedian; the Elgars, vocal entertainers; Tiny Arnold, a capital dancer; and Ernest Rees, a favourite comedian.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—Casey's Circus—a street-urchin idea of a circus entertainment—is a big attraction here this week; Marie Kendall, comedienne, is also very popular; Johnson and Bert give an admirable comedy turn; the Deane Tribune Trio present an amusing sketch; some excellent singing is heard from the Royal Naval Quartet; and other capital turns are given by Steve McCarthy, comedian and dancer; Leah Arden, vocalist; Hector Grant, comedian, and Stave, the musical Kaffir.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—Big houses are attracted here by Little Tich, who gives a very amusing performance in his usual eccentric style; Jacques Inaudi, the man of figures, is a marvellous calculator; the Empire Comedy Four are extremely pleasing vocalists; Harold Thorley sings barrack-room ballads with effect; Spry and Monti present an agreeable combination of wit and humour; Rosie Ashton is seen in clever song sketching; a good turn is given by Ella Retford, comedienne; and several vocal items are added to the programme by the choir. Fielding and Hull, medley vocalists, did not appear on the night of our visit.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. A. Wilkes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—Harriet Vernon, the popular burlesque actress, is starring successfully here this week; De Voy, Hurst, and Fredericks present a very funny negro sketch; and good turns are added by Ivan Deering, musical speciality artiste; Ariel and Astarte, clever gymnasts; Billy HALL-BY-THE-SEA.—Sole Proprietor, "Lord" George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. Charles Evans.—This popular pleasure resort, in all the glory of white enamel and bright gilding, gay with floral decorations over trellis work, looking spick and span and attractive with its tasteful decorations and ornamentation, was re-opened for the summer season on Monday night. There was a very large attendance, and the genial proprietor, who has once more come to reside among his old townsmen, was complimented upon the work, which has been carried out under his personal supervision. There are to be popular prices for the afternoon performances, and the usual ball, in the ornate ball room, will follow the evening variety entertainment. The Westonville Orchestra has been engaged for the concerts, and the Blue Hongroise Band contributes the dance music, both being under the direction of Lieut. W. Harvey. Under the new arrangements, ample and comfortable seating accommodation is provided for a very large audience. The speciality programme for the current week includes some seven excellent turns, and on the opening night the various artists met with an enthusiastic reception. These were Bessie Spear, vocalist; Three Boleros, in their comedy triple bar act; Bessie Travis, a clever lady ventriloquist; Rita and Roma, vaudeville entertainers; the Hulines, modern musical eccentrics; the Four Rosaires, gymnasts; and the Westwoods, dainty and daring cyclists.

MIDDLESBROUGH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson.—The animated pictures of the Britt-Nelson fight for the light-weight championship of the world are one of the chief attractions in this week's programme, which also includes Kid Gwynn, who gives an excellent exhibition of ball-punching; Creswell Bernard presents excellent character sketches from Charles Dickens's works; and the 'Frisco Girls provide some good singing and dancing. There is also an amateur wrestling competition.

OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—The stock company here continues to meet with well-merited success. This week Mr. Frank Harvey's popular play The World Against Her is being presented. Miss Rosamund Mayne Young in the character of Madge Carlton and Miss Molly Malone in the rôle of Jenny Clegg are both particularly successful. Mr. George Antley as Bob Millett and Mr. Malcolm Cumming as Dick Markland cause much amusement. Mr. Bryce Methven is excellent as Robert Danvers, and Mr. Ivan Gore plays the part of Simon Clegg admirably.

—EMPIRE PALACE.—Amongst the many enjoyable turns on the programme here this week perhaps the most popular is Bijou Russell, a clever little sand dancer; the Three Laurels give a gymnastic performance which is distinctly smart; and Goodfellow and Gregson have some amusing songs and patter. A capital turn is provided by Douglas and Ford, comedy artists, and Harry Bent is an excellent mimic; Cavern and Cave cause roars of laughter in their comedietta An Early Morning Dip; and Alice Maple sings well. The other turns are provided by Carlotta Lund, and the Bio.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson.—An excellent programme is submitted here this week. An ingenious and mystifying turn is provided by Dou-Ban, a model of a human head which answers various questions which are put to it; the Sisters Marian, two charming juvenile duettists, sing in a cultivated and tasteful style; and Joe Humphreys is a vocal comedian of first-rate ability. The Breton troupe create roars of laughter in their sketch The Tramp's Picnic, and H. R. Friscari provides an excellent juggling turn. Other turns are May Fallowfield and the Lorrisons.

MORECAMBE.—ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Lessee, Lieut. Julian Malvern; General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Julian.—Mr. Thomas McKenzie's West End company has been seen to great advantage during the week in Mrs. Goringe's Necklace, the charming comedy by Mr. H. H. Davies. Miss Marie Illington has scored a great success as Mrs. Jardine, and as may be safely imagined Mr. Yorke Stephens, as Captain Mowbray, is all that could possibly be desired. A delightful performance is that of Miss Mary Webb as Isabel Kirk, and Miss Frances Vine plays the difficult part of Mrs Gorringe with ease and intelligence; Mr. Maitland Dicker is a capital Colonel Jardine, and there are also in the cast Messrs. W. Briscoe Owen, Reginald Walter, Lawrence J. White, Miss Mabel Melba, and Miss Isabel Fladgate. The comedy is preceded by the comedietta Uncle Joseph, in which the trio of characters are sustained by Messrs. Lawrence White, T. O. Stephenson, and Miss Isabel Fladgate.

WINTER GARDENS.—General Manager, Mr. Tom Atkinson.—The star turn here has been Taro Myaki, the wonderful exponent of the art of jujitsu, and the powerful and scientic Jap has defeated all comers, one of whom was Joe Carroll, the "catch-as-catch-can" champion; the Three Merrills are responsible for some clever trick and comedy cycling, and their comic telegraph messenger has brought down the house; Cullen and Carthy, with whom is Little Cluley, who is "extra," have caused the greatest amusement, and their patter is clean and smart. Other turns are Harry le Barr, comedy tramp juggler; Lottie Bray, smart banjoist and clever clog and skipping-rope dancer; Harry Maynard with good songs well sung; Madge Osmond, tricky male impersonator, and Jessie Sylvesto, speciality artiste.

ALHAMBRA PALACE.—General-Manager, Alderman John Gardner.—Little Dot Pardy, the clever male impersonator, and Soros with his clever illusion have proved highly attractive here, and other turns have included Belle Leaburn, comedienne and descriptive vocalist; Akbar, a smart performer on the silver rings; Peters, caricaturist; Violet Morgan, impersonator of music-hall celebrities and the Three Coopers, harmonising vocalists.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.—PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clarke.—Mr. Millar Anderson's répertoire company is here this week, and have presented with much success East Lynne, Camille, Lena, and Bachelor of Arts. In Mrs. Henry Wood's famous work Miss Mabel Mannering won the plaudits of all for a charming and sympathetic rendering of Lady Isabel; Mr. Jerold Heather enacted the rôle of Archibald Carlisle in masterly style; and Mr. J. S. Maine was satisfactorily placed as Sir Francis Levison. Good support was forthcoming from the remainder of the company. Friday night was underlined for a well-deserved complimentary benefit to Miss Mannering.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—Life's Sweetest Sins is an interesting drama which is being presented here this week by Miss Marie Daventry and company. As Doreen Miss Daventry gives a thoroughly successful interpretation of the part; Miss Elsie Walton creditably sustains the rôle of Bess Grayson; and Miss Mary Ainslie is a praiseworthy Fay Colbrooke. Mr. T. Arthur Jones portrays in clever style an excellent study of Captain Marston; the villainies of Dr. Colbrooke are interpretated in callous style by Mr. Oswald Douglas; and Mr. Edgar Morgan as Bob Tanner brightens up the more sombre scenes with some acceptable comedy.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Leslie Conroy.—Premier position in this week's bill is occupied by Mr. Neil Kenyon, the clever Scotch comedian, whose popularity among Novocastrians is undoubted; Mr. Kenyon, we may add, is engaged to appear in the next Theatre Royal pantomime. Lilian Lea renders three songs in her usual charming manner, including her scena My Bungalow in Borneo; Fred Poplar is vastly amusing as a comedian: and a like comment may be applied to Will Poluski, jun., who is also a neat dancer. Roberts, Hayes, and Roberts introduce a clever act, of which the chief accomplishment is dancing; Maud Mortimer, stately as of yore, is a decided favourite; and others who contribute successfully are Kitty Wager, comedienne; Sam Redforen, comedian; and the Les Bastiens, acrobats on horseback. The Bioscope is also a prominent feature.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—Prominent in this week's programme are the Four Madcaps, a quartette of charming ladies, whose dancing and equilibristic act wins well-merited applause. T. E. Finglas is an old favourite here, and his efforts as a coon impersonator and dancer are as successful as of yore; Dandy George, with his clever dog, receives due recognition; Downes and Langford are a couple of merry jesters, whose success is well deserved; Dreams is the title of a song-scena wherein Cyril Carte disports himself to advantage; as a mimic Harry Thurston is very clever; Harry Carlton's sketch is responsible for much hilarity; Harry Cotton, comedian, is well received; Mlle. Sylvesto, in a speciality act, is deservedly applauded; and other entertaining items include the Lurims, sketch artists; Gill and Gilbey, in a novel speciality act; and the Barrascope.

NEWPORT.—EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. O. Stoll.—Geo. Lashwood is the principal attraction here this week; Belle Davis and her pick-chicks are also well received; Mark Melford's sketch, Only a Wedding, keeps the house in continual laughter; quite a pretty "Venetian Love Scena" is presented by the Classicum Quartette; and Amber Austa sings a taking song; Frank Seeley is a comedian of merit; Hamilton and Hill sing a stirring story of the "Fire Brigade"; and the Sisters Oswald sing and dance prettily; Will Harries, a successful coloured singer; and the Henry Tayler Trio, Mexican jugglers, complete a good programme.

NORTHAMPTON.—TEMPERANCE HALL.—Mr. H. Kemble has engaged this hall for the Northampton cricket week, and his Star Vaudeville Company has been well patronised. Miss Bertha Stuart, the popular Scotch ballad vocalist, is a songstress far above the average, and her songs are loudly applauded; Katie La Blanche is a great success as a serio and dancer; Rappo, with the assistance of Ella, gives a sensational display of balancing; Sylvia is a dainty little dancer; the Three Richards give a clever comic acrobatic turn; the Sisters Petram supply a delightful show with their marvellous Fantoches; and the up-to-date cinematograph pictures of the Hippograph complete a well-varied entertainment.

NORTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Horace Lee.—The theatre has been closed with the exception of Wednesday evening, when the proprietor (Mr. Arthur Jefferson) took his second annual benefit, an attractive bill of fare being provided for the occasion.

CENTRAL PALACE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—The bill here is headed by the Five Astleys, the American musical farmers, who come in for a cordial reception; the Gondolier Glee Singers also meet with much appreciation; Messrs. Spencer and Marks, speciality comedians, have made a great hit; the Two Kays, quick-change artistes, are smart, and Miss Marie Sandes, comedienne; Mr. Arthur Stratton, vocal comedian, and the Bio-Photoscope are also billed.

NORTHWICH.—PIERROT PAVILION.—Proprietors, The Royal Pierrots Co.—The Pavilion has been packed nightly this week in consequence of a welcome return visit of Little Alice Maude, and this exceedingly clever little artist well deserves the title she has earned of "the pocket Vesta Tilley." Miss Hetty Lind, the possessor of a sweet soprano voice, delighted her audiences with her charming singing; Miss Sivane won hearty applause for her cleverly-executed skipping-rope dance; Mr. Glanmore Jones was again in good voice and earned unstinted approval. The entertainment is brought to a close with a laughable sketch, entitled Keep off the Grass, in which the Sivaines are eminently successful with their dancing.

NORWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. F. W. Fitt.—A delightful programme is presented this week; John Terry and Mabel Lambert in their character studies are immensely popular; Charles Vincent also scores in his mirthful entertainment; the Edgar Forrest's Comedy Sketch company is a very fine turn; Lillian Elfreda is a charming mimic of noted music-hall stars; the Brothers Zampah, one-legged performers, are clever artistes; Tokio, the Japanese mimic of sounds, is very good; Clarke's Nippers always present a welcome entertainment; Tray and Rich are well received, and the Hippo Bioscope, showing the eruption of Mount Vesuvius, makes up a capital programme.

NOTTINGHAM.—GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Charles P. Cooke.—The company of Miss Emily Huby has received a warm welcome in The Convent Bell. Mr. B. Ross plays with ease and ability as the hero, Philip Vautier; and Miss L. Barley Clarke is to be congratulated on her sweet and pathetic interpretation of Marguerite Courier; Mr. Charles E. Howell looks and acts with distinction as Colonel Vautier; and Mr. J. H. Howard capitally fulfils all requirements as Captain Drummond; the unscrupulous villainy of Henri Cassella is strongly portrayed by Mr. R. Harris, whose partner in crime, Christine Valgrave, finds an able exponent in Miss Mara Collings; there is plenty of humour interspersed, led by Mr. Howell Webb, who creates roars of laughter by his comical sayings and actions. He receives able support from Miss Dot Russell, Mr. Ben Fletcher, Mr. F. Acton, and Mr. L. Manville. The Price of Pleasure was also played for one night.

KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edgar O. Waller.—The success of the Royal Animated Picture Company's excellent films grows weekly, and a constant change of pictures gives great delight to large audiences.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker.—The latest creation of Mr. Fred. Karno, entitled Moses and Son, can well lay claim to be the best of its kind, the fun, scenery, and songs being excellent. The brunt of the work falls on the shoulders of Mr. Fred Kitchen, who never fails to keep the laughter moving, and he is ably supported by Miss Leah Morris, Miss Janet Reeves, Miss Madge Rockingham, and Mr. Anthony Gordon; Cole de Losse Duo are an exceedingly smart pair of wire walkers who merit their hearty reception; the quaint mannerisms and comical patter of Josh Dixon evoke the utmost hilarity; and the knckabout item by Flem and Brok helps along the merriment; Baker and Balfe, xylophonists, are deservedly rewarded; and capital films on the Urban Bioscope are shown; the comedy element is further assisted by Barney Vox, ventriloquist; Charles Austin, eccentric; and Johnny Gilmore, comedian.

NUNEATON.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE AND ENTERTAINMENTS CO., LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. F. Cross; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter J. R. Bryan.—Kennedy's Komiks are still doing good business here; Miss Veronica Brady is much in demand for her songs; Miss Flora Mears does well; and Miss Florrie Wright contributes some pretty ballads. Mr. Fern Pounds and Mr. T. W. Lenner continue to please; whilst Mr. Frank Lyndon's musical speciality is always enjoyable. A dramatic sketch, A Queen's Messenger, receives hearty applause. The characters are capably represented by Mr. Drew Macintosh and Miss Annie Stalman. The cinematograph pictures are excellent.

OLDHAM.—COLOSSEUM THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. W. Eastwood.—The Rich and Poor of London, presented by Mr. Sidney Dench's company, was witnessed by a good audience on Monday evening. Spider Jack is played by Mr. Dench in a capable manner, and he infuses much humour into the part; Mr. Graham Arthurs is a manly Dr. Morton; and Mr. A. Avinal is good as Mark Stanley, the villain; Mr. Gilpin does well in the rôle of Billy Binks, as also does Mr. A. Jarvis as Gussy Lamb; Miss Dora Dench portrays the part of May Braithwaite in a capital manner; and Miss Violet Lytton is excellent as Ruby Redgrave; Miss Molly Hackett is a capital Polly Philpot; and Miss Ethel Denville makes the most of the part of Seadrift; Miss Emily Woodleigh scores as Auntie Scrimp; and Master Bert Dench is also good as Dixie; Mr. F. Danner plays the Earl of Ravenswood and Mr. Hartley is Dan'l Drake; while the rascally lawyer, Matthew Grabbem, is in the capable hands of Mr. J. Templar Ellis.

ROYAL THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Howgate.—The principal attraction here this week is Dr. Carl Hermann, hypnotist, electrician, and scientist; Haley's Prize Juveniles are paying a return visit in a capital carnival scena; Dot and Spot are well received. Other turns are Ford and Hanson, the musical millionaires; Leopold and Lorna, comedy sketch artists; Mdlle. Anna Nanoni, soprano vocalist; Horton and Linden, eccentric Chinamen, on the bars; the Three Bostonians, in a clever singing and dancing act; and Leon Lorette, vocalist and dancer; the Bioscope, with a good selection of pictures, completes the programme.

PENZANCE.—ALEXANDRA GROUNDS.—The attraction here this season is supplied by the Lindon Vaudeville company, a talented party of artistes who are meeting with cordial receptions at every performance. Miss Edith Blockley is a bright comedienne, singing her particular numbers with dainty charm, and assisting in sketches with much humour and vivacity; Miss E. Emingsley's soprano ballads elicit well-merited applause; Mr. Bob White, laughing comedian, is a great favourite; Mr. John E. Nester, in character sketches, &c., displays marked versatility, which is thoroughly appreciated: Mr. Surrie Lindon occupies a prominent position in the daily programmes as a baritone vocalist, and a banjoist of considerable ability; Mr. Henry Collard, both as accompanist and sketches at the piano, is a host in himself.

PLYMOUTH.—GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. F. Williams; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy Williams; Assistant-Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—The now popular stock-company is appearing in Her Wedding Day. Mr. Edwd. Lloyd in the leading rôle of Harold Saxby gives an excellent representation; Mr. Cecil Collins as Seth Mayson, an ex-convict, has a realistic make-up, and Mr. C. H. Lester scores as Weedon Kenyon; Miss Ethel Kay is the principal lady member, others including the Misses E. Dane, B. Whitney, S. Hammersley, and C. Fenton. Mr. Greene Taylor provides the humorous element with marked success.

DEVONPORT METROPOLE THEATRE.—Owners, Carltons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Mitchell.—Messrs. Geo. R. Sims and Henry Pettitt's romantic drama In the Ranks has lost none of its pristine popularity. Mr. Douglas Phelps was quite at home as Ned Drayton, and Mr. Leonard Cardale was a conspicuous success as the villain Gideon Blake. The comic business is effectively undertaken by Mr. F. Hudspeth and Miss Evy Durell. Others contributing are Miss Pattie Hoskings and Miss Lallah Davis.

PROMENADE PIER AND PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. J. Higson.—This exceedingly cool and comfortable place of entertainment has been well patronised this week, the Komedy Koncert Kompany paying its first visit for the season. Miss Hope and Miss Vincent, lady vocalists, had hearty receptions and applause; Mr. Le Butt rendered a violin solo in a finished manner, and Messrs. Richarson and Flockton-Fraser were responsible for plenty of laughter. A comedy dramatic sketch entitled The Secret was well presented.

PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Owners, County Theatres and Hotels, Limited; Manager, Mr. J. Field; Treasurer, Mr. N. Carlton.—G. H. Chirgwin the star turn, was unable to appear on Monday, but the breach was well filled by Martine and Son, who gave some excellent songs, accompanied by realistic scenic effects; Luis Hardt combines remarkable strength with smallness of stature; Tony Iveson, the ragman pianist, has some capital patter; the Lannons submit graceful and accomplished pedestal and floor dancing; Tennyson and Wallis are humorous as two comic policemen; and the fun of the evening is also materially assisted by Steeley and Dowton, eccentric vocalists. May Bass, comedienne, and Vernon's Pictures are the remaining attractions.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Miss Madge McIntosh and Mr. Lumsden Hare's company are here this week, presenting the diverting comedy Mollentrave on Women. The philosopher Mollentrave is cleverly depicted by Mr. Michael Sherebrooke; Sir Joseph Balsted, in the hands of Mr. Lumsden Hare, is a capable performance, the indecision and vacillation being effectively portrayed; Everard Swenboys is commendably played by Mr. Murry Carrington; Mr. Stockall Ward is responsible for a neat rendering of Lord Contareen; Miss Maud McIntosh as Lady Claude Derenham is charming; Margaret Messilent is acted by Miss Gwladys Wynne in a highly satisfactory manner; Miss Alice Arden as the depressing companion Miss Treable, and Miss Ida King as Miss Martelli, the grim housekeeper, play their parts carefully and well. The impressive play in two scenes, The Great Silence, is the curtain-raiser, and is greatly appreciated.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—The sensational melodrama The Days of Cromwell is the attraction here for the week, Messrs. Beaudyn Livesey and Hardy's No. 1 company being responsible for its presentation. The rôle of Ironhand, the avenger, is finely and powerfully played by Mr. Henry Belding; Mr. Robertson Foulis scores as Sir Marsden Mardyke; Matthew Mardyke, his son, is well portrayed by Mr. Howard Hardy; Mr. George Misser ably fills the part of the Protector; Miss Gertrude Gilman as Ruth Avondale acts consistently and well; Miss Cissie Coleforth as Mistress Judith Shadwell and Miss Annie Clunn as Betsey display considerable histrionic ability.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—Harry Tate's No. 1 company in Motoring is heading the bill here for the week, and creating roars of laughter. Daisy Dormer is a charming comedienne and scores heavily with her coon melodies; Bennett and Martell, in the nautical absurdity The Shipwreck, are well received; Fox and Melville, with their specialty "Vocal Pictures," is a turn much appreciated; Walter Stanley, eccentric comedian and dancer, does well; Esta Stella, the military maid, is a capable and dainty artist, her singing and dancing being most cordially applauded; the Zerbinis, who appear in the gorgeous spectacular musical scena, The Enchanted Glen, are a troupe of capital musicians; Harry Maxam, versatile comedian, Fred Herbert, topical vocalist, together with Payne's Pictures, make up a good programme.

RAMSGATE.—AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. Henry Bowman.—The Youngest of Three has been played here with considerable success this week by Mr. H. F. Maltby's company. As George Wendover Mr. Maltby gives evidence of marked ability, and Gerald Wendover is a part skilfully handled by Mr. W. Hargreaves; Miss Beatrice Marsden is a charming Lucy Dulley, and the other parts are carefully impersonated.

ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE AND PAVILION.—Proprietors, Ramsgate Corporation; Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. Richeux.—John Drayton, Millionaire? a "fanciful comedy," has been presented here this week by Messrs. Ross and Dew's company. Mr. Fredk. Ross is excellent as John Drayton, and the part of the Mysterious Visitor, Constantius, is impressively represented by Mr. R. A. Greene. Miss Dorothy Mayhew is a capable leading lady, and the remainder of the company acquit themselves admirably.

RHYL.—QUEEN'S PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Howard Lees.—The principal turn is an admirably played sketch by Minnie Palmer and company, entitled Orange Nell. All the parts are well acted, that of Nell Gwynne being played in a charming manner by Miss Palmer. Miss Lucretia gives a smart display of top-boot dancing, and Chris. Richards is a good eccentric comedian. The orchestra, under the direction of Mr. J. W. Collison, is entitled to every praise.

PIER PAVILION.—Lessees, Messrs. Adeler and Sutton; Manager, Mr. Jack Macdermott.—One of the leading turns in this week's programme is the appearance of Laurie Wylie and his Mimicking Mannikin; Maynard Dakin meets with his customary success; Arthur Aldridge is the possessor of a clear tenor voice, which is heard to advantage; Jack Macdermott is nightly recalled, his selection of songs being most popular. Others appearing include Edna Barret, a clever comedienne and dancer; Lillian Barnes, contralto; and Foreshaw Kershaw, pianist.

ROTHERHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—Messrs. E. A. Bell and Fred Chabot's company is here this week with The Romany's Revenge. Mr. Charles Gallier is highly successful as John Hope, and Mr. Fred Green scores as Archibald Heath. Mr. Harry C. Robinson is seen to advantage as David Renard, and Mr. David Hamilton is amusing as Bobbie Bloom. Mr. William Mosell as Jack Nubbles is deserving of mention. Miss Evas Elwes is sympathetic as Lilian Hope and Miss Fannie Wallace sprightly as Polly Pluck; Miss Lil Francis speaks her lines very prettily as Archie, and Miss Ethel Ashleigh gives a powerful rendition of the rôle of Zanet, the Romany.

RUNCORN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. H. W. Caddick.—Mr. W. Bingham's variety combination is here this week. Lachie Thompson's "Topweights" head the bill with an exceedingly entertaining juvenile boxing and wrestling show; and other turns include Vera Winstan, soprano vocalist; John E. Lindon, burlesque comedian; Harry Moleneux, tramp musician; Will Bowman, coon vocalist; Peakman, Walsh, and Davis in a funny sketch; Arthur Dagmar, ventriloquist; "Spooney," a most attractive dancer, &c., and Will Bingham, a ju-jitsu wrestler.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—The famous old play, The Octoroon; or Life in Louisiana, appears to have lost none of its popularity, as shown by the good house which welcomed it on Monday at this theatre, when Mr. W. J. Miller represented Jacob McClosky, and Salem Scudder was in the capable hands of Mr. Frank Fuller. Miss Katherine M. Davies was a charming Zoe; Miss Ethel Lanyon-Maude was an excellent Dora Sunnyside; Mr. Roy Milton did good work as George Peyton; Wah-no-Tee was an impressive study by Mr. Fred Emery; Mr. Bert Ellis as Pete had a lot to do with the comedy business. Adequate support was given by the other members of the company.

REGENT THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. Turner; Manager, Mr. Herbert Raymond; Secretary, Mr. J. C. Patterson.—Tom Foy and company in the funny sketch, The Yorkshire Lad in London, keeps the house in roars. Charles Bignell has a good reception for his amusing songs; Mlle. Thelma does some clever clay modelling; Amy Elvira is much applauded for her singing; The Excursion Dépot is a funny absurdity by the Five Foys. Other good turns are given by the charming Polly Jerome, on the trapeze; Beattie Lyndon, comedienne and dancer; Hill and Lane, in original speciality, Home Lessons, and Burg, Hand, and Wise in humorous acrobatic act.

ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. C. H. Wentworth.—The Eight Samthalers are much applauded for their national songs and dancing; Captain Hamilton, V.C., is a clever sketch by Whimsical Walker, assisted by the child actress Frances Maddock; Jordison's Eight Dancing Dotts are very good in their terpsichorean act; smart conjuring is done by C. H. Charlton. Good business is also done by Kiaro, clever balancer; Cavalli, ventriloquist; Rita Bell, little singing and dancing Dutch girl, and Shelia McNeil, Scotch comedienne.

SALISBURY.—VICTORIA PARK.—The first of a series of promenade concerts under the direction of Mr. F. D'Alton Tebby, was given here on the 29th ult. Mr. Skidmore was a host in himself, and sang several songs, being very successful in a duet with Miss Ramsdale; Little Midge sang nicely, and contributed several smart dances; Miss B. Witham, Mr. Dyar, and Mr. Ben Barnes all provided good turns.

SCARBOROUGH.—LONDESBOROUGH THEATRE.—Proprietors, Waddington and Sons; Manager, Mr. J. T. Carpenter.—Mr. Chas. Windermere's company in Facing the Music provides plenty of fun, the success of the play being due in no small measure to Mr. Charles Windermere's abilities, and he is most ably assisted by Miss Loe Davis and Miss Clare Mansfield in their respective parts of Smith's wives, both proving a distinct success.

PEOPLE'S PALACE AND AQUARIUM.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Morgan; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Walter Kitchingman.—Miss Agnes Barnes, the vocalist for the week, possesses an excellent soprano voice; the Alskarno Trio of Risley acrobats and tumblers, contribute smart items to an excellent programme; Will Douglas, a humorous entertainer, is awarded loud applause; Bruce and Ross are responsible for comedy and dancing; Francisco gives a good juggling exhibition; Stellings and his dog introduce originality; Carl Howard as a crazy conjurer is undeniably interesting; the Musical Keiths are entertaining; Zasma, gymnast, is a performer of ability; and other attractions are the Vernon Bioscope, Madame Levante's orchestra of ladies, and Miss Ada Webb and her troupe of lady swimmers.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. George Zalva.—Signor Volpi has opened here for two or three weeks, and on his arrival on Sunday afternoon last he had a flattering reception; his Royal Italian Circus, which comprises over 200 animals, includes Jumbo Junior, the elephant who does the cake walk; Madame Batavia, a wonderfully-trained bear; Fasolin, the trapeze-monkey, and Nino, a well-trained dog.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs. Henry Mayney; Manager, Mr. Fred P. Morgan.—Mr. Fred J. Kirke's company in The Naval Detective is on a visit here; Mr. Kirke, who takes the leading parts, shows marked ability, especially as the Rev. Frequent Nipper; Mr. Lorrimer Stuart plays the part of the earl's son with humour; Mr. Charles Burns makes an excellent German, as Hans Winklepump; Susan Scrubbs is admirably interpreted by Miss Edith Claris; Miss Annie Brunette is successful as Lulu Kaufmann; Miss Louie Fountaine takes her several parts with distinction, and the Sisters Violet and Lille English execute some clever dances.

SHEERNESS.—BAND PAVILION.—Herbert Moule and E. Bartel's company are giving a series of al-fresco concerts this week, and are meeting with a hearty reception. The Brompton Brass Band have also contributed a capital vocal and instrumental programme, which has been much enjoyed.

SHEFFIELD.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing Director, Mr. John Hart; General-Manager and Treasurer, Mr. J. E. B. Beaumont.—For the last week of the spring season The Gamester of Metz has been played by Mr. Charles March's company. Mr. March appears very successfully as Paul Baldot, and assumes several disguises in a clever manner; Miss Una Lane makes a pretty and graceful representative of Lucie Baldot; and other parts are effectively impersonated by Mr. J. B. Murray, Mr. Fred Aldworth, Mr. P. Wentworth, Mr. George Paget, Mr. William Protheroe, Miss Cissy Haighton, and Miss Eva Lynhurst.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay.—The theatre was well-filled on Monday when that stirring nautical drama, The Hero of the Flag, was again performed by Mr. Sydney Spenser's company. That great local favourite, Miss Lizzie Hall, easily secured the applause and warm sympathies of the house as the heroine; the "villain of the piece," Paul Mansfield, was depicted in no uncertain colours by Mr. Sydney Spenser; Mr. Alfred Goddard was a characteristic up-to-date naval type as Captain Hilliard; Miss Tremaine was a pleasing Ruth; and Mr. W. Heilbron was a bold and dashing representative of Jack Lawrence. The naval episodes were well-managed, and the entire performance reflected credit on all concerned.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—With its sliding-roof and refreshing fountains, the Empire is a delightful summer resort, especially when the visitors are entertained by such a bill of fare as the following: Paul Cinquevalli, the world-renowned juggler; Miss Dot Hardy, a vivacious comedienne; Miss Edith Courtney, the popular ballad vocalist; Messrs. Harrigan and Holt, amusing comedians and dancers; Miss Marie Reeve, a pleasing characteristic vocalist and dancer; that old favourite, Mr. Horace Wheatley, a genuine humorist; the Obersteirers, in their delightful Swiss, vocal, and terpsichorean sketch; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden, comedy artists; and Miss Carrie Lawrie and her pleasing "Kindergarten" act. In addition, there is the Bioscope.

GRAND PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. G. H. Beagle.—The favourite dramatic artist, Miss Carlotta Yonsen, supported by Mr. C. A. Carlyle and a good company are appearing with success this week in The Dandy Detective, and a sketch called Playing the Game. The variety turns include Mr. E. W. Selman, Rozel, Miss Ivy Gallard, and Mr. George Grogie.

CENTRAL HALL.—The pièce de résistance this week is Dick Turpin's Ride to York, supplemented by comic and topical animated pictures and a capable company of entertainers.

SMETHWICK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—A welcome change is provided this week, the local patrons being treated to a week of opera. The United English Opera Company, under the direction of Mr. F. S. Gilbert, is staging the productions. Miss Vera Zizard makes a capital Maritana in the opera of that title; Mr. F. S. Gilbert is particularly good as Don Cæsar; Mr. H. Brindle as the King of Spain, Mr. J. Kneale Campbell as Don Jose, Miss Doris Gilbert as Lazarillo, Miss Kate White as the Marchioness de Montifiore, Mr. H. Blagrave as the Marquis, Mr. Fred Featherstone as Alcade, and Mr. James Knox as Captain of the Guard are other members of an evenly balanced company. On Tuesday The Bohemian Girl was rendered with conspicuous success, Mr. Evan Davies appearing as Devilshoof. The week's programme also includes Faust, with Miss Faith Labord as Marguerite, The Daughter of the Regiment and Il Trovatore.

SOUTHAMPTON.—PALACE.—Sole Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. W. Trussell.—George Chirgwin is the topliner here, and is as popular as ever. Excellent pictures of the Salisbury railway disaster are shown on the bioscope, and other entertaining turns are given by Herbert Rule, a droll comedian; Frank Cumminger, sand dancer; Emmie Ames, in a scena, 'Neath the Shadow of Big Ben; The Brontes, in a comedy duologue; Edwards and Dacre, sketch artists; Gus Harris, Hebrew delineator; Mansel Fane, actor vocalist; and Harry Bancroft, vocalist, also prosper.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—PIER PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager Mr. H. E. Angless; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—A first class diversified programme is being given here by Miss Edith Muir and Mr. Herbert Bartlett's vaudeville and concert party. Joe Raymond, a comedian, is well received; Mr. Arthur Wallis, American monologue entertainer, is good; Miss Edna Richards is an active comedienne and dancer; Alberto proves himself a smart conjurer and illusionist; Miss Muir and Mr. Bartlett in a comedietta are capital artists; and Miss Carrie Sharpley, ballad vocalist, gains well-earned praise. The extraordinary tabloid comedy entitled The Collar Stud evokes considerable laughter, and is well acted by Mr. Bartlett, Mr. Arthur Sillan, Mr. Lloyd Earle, and Miss Muir. The excellent pictures shown on the Urban Bioscope are new and interesting, and the popular Red Band contributes towards an excellent programme.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson.—The romantic Irish drama, A Warning to Women, is the attraction here this week. Dr. Marcus Dread is powerfully portrayed by Mr. C. Watson Mill, who has an excellent coadjutor in Miss Rosalind Tate as Moira Kennion. Mr. Henry Londsdale gives a good interpretation of Shaun. Fergus McNaughton and Sheila Kennion are both well represented by Mr. W. Lawrence and Miss Emmie Barton. Squire Kennion is ably sustained by Mr. Henry Rutland, and Mr. N. C. Slaughter scores as Lord Eversleigh.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—Starring here this week is Mr. Bransby Williams, who delights the audience by his selections from his répertoire, including "The Student" and "The Modern Showman," &c. The Borellis contribute a clever, humorous and musical entertainment; Howard and St. Clair are well received in a comic sketch; the mimetic monologues of J. P. Ling are very good. Also in the bill are Frank Coyle, eccentric comedian; the Casselli ably. Mr. Robert Hyett is a vocalist of ability; and Mr. Reginald Mountfield is a capable humorist.

TYNEMOUTH. — PALACE-BY-THE-SEA. —Proprietor, Mr. J. H. Graham; Manager, Mr. Linden Travers. —The season at this popular northern resort is now in full swing, and excellent audiences assemble to enjoy the admirable entertainment provided by the astute and experienced Mr. Linden Travers. Preston's company is here this week, opening on Monday in Max Goldberg's play Lady Godiva. In the title-rôle Miss Ethel Griffies acted charmingly; Miss Catherine Brook was an excellent Lady Aldyth; and Edith Lorrane was a vivacious Elfrida. Mr. F. B. Woulfe, as Tom of Coventry, was a pronounced success, acting forcibly throughout; and equally successful was Mr. James Duncan as Algar. Mr. Ernest Hamilton as Unwolf Unwolfson did well and Mr. Howard Barlowe was good as Leofric; Mr. Leslie Lingham was suitably placed as Edgar, and much humour was extracted from the part of Robin Shackleton. On Tuesday night Nell Gwynne attracted another capital house, and Miss Ethel Griffies again won high encomiums for a faithful portrayal of the flower girl. On Friday Jane Shore was staged.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. Fred Willmot.—The Violas in their wonderful feats of telepathy have scored well; Cardo is a really fine illusionist; and Miss May Zant and her juveniles also win favour. Other turns well received are Will Llyton, comedian; Illumina Statuo, song-tableaux; Clarence L. Wineton, coloured vocalist; Arthur Croxon, mimic; and the Royal Bioscope.

WEDNESBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Battersby; Manager, Mr. W. J. Cranston.—The Moore-Kennedy Variety company is again attracting large houses here this week. The male impersonator, Miss Eva Dunville, proves herself a clever artiste, and Miss Ada Hender, soubrette, makes a good impression; excellent amusement is provided by Mr. Charles Levey in his comedy sketches; the musical speciality by Mr. Frank Lyndon is a great success; Miss Marie Bonner, contralto vocalist, evokes loud applause; and excellent support is also rendered by Miss Ella Dare, soubrette, and the quaint comedians and dancers, Messrs. Lander and Lovett.

WEST BROMWICH.—HIPPODROME AND THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. P. Moore. —Kennedy's Komiks are still playing here to crowded houses, and their popularity is assured. Miss Constance Bellamy is encored for her artistic rendering of her songs; Charlie Bayham is still to the fore with his host of comic songs and sayings; the Sisters Silvani submit their songs in a pleasing manner; Sands and Vincent gain much applause for their smart turn; an enthusiastic welcome is given the Three Behans, who submit a bright and clever show; the Sisters Horsley give an acceptable dancing turn, and some humorous films are also shown.

WEST HARTLEPOOL. — PALACE. — Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—The programme submited for this week includes the comedy trifle by Helm and Cozens, The Doctor and the Patient, which is distinctly humorous. Baroni and Kemp, the lightning quick-change artists, are remarkably smart in their business, and a neat dance is appreciated; a grotesque acrobatic performance by Howe and Ardie is awarded a well-deserved encore; Hyram Travers' coster songs are excellent, and his patter clean and witty; merriment is rampant whilst Sid Cotterell and company are on with their comedy sketch The Substitute; dainty Molly Doon has found many admirers; and Raymond's Bio-Tableaux are more than usually interesting.

WEST STANLEY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Stanley Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Frank H. Lindon.—Pardoes' Enterprise company is here this week. The Pardoes are clever aerial gymnasts and contortionists, and their human skipping rope creates quite a sensation; Miss Lottie Holland, vocalist, renders up-to-date songs in a winning manner; Neddy Vokes, musical comedian, is responsible for a good deal of amusement; Bert Gordon, Tyrolean vocalist and Milan pipe-player, scores; Violet Rivers does well in her male impersonations; Miss Elsie Kedwards is a smart dancer and singer; Tom Hulme, comedian, is applauded; a lively sketch, entitled The Doctor's Assistant is heartily applauded; the Pierott Troupe give a pleasing realistic performance, and the entertainment concludes with a series of Pictures on the Pardograph.

WIGAN.—THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—Mr. Arnold Bell and company is paying a welcome return visit to Wigan in a répertoire of plays. On Monday evening the company presented Ben-My-Chree. Mr. Arnold Bell gave a powerful representation of the part of Dan Mylrea, and the rôle of Ewan was well played by Mr. John Belton; Mr. W. G. Gregory acted the part of the Deemster; and Mr. Cuthbert Imrie's interpretation of the part of the Bishop of Man, Gilchrist Mylrea, was very realistic. The character of David Fayle was delineated by Mr. F. C. Robson with humour and fidelity. Miss Violet Campbell as Kitty, combined with a handsome presence a remarkably fine voice, and she gave a most impressive rendering of the song "The girl of my heart." Miss Lilian Vine as Kerry, and Miss E. Mack and Miss Henley as the fishwives, were also very entertaining. The part of Mona Mylrea, the devout daughter of the Deemster, was played by Miss Lilian Earle with great sympathy and refinement. Called Back, The Shaughraun, and The Ticket-of-Leave Man were the other pieces played during the week.

WORTHING. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Mr. Ernest R. Abbot and company appeared on Thursday in Caste. Scott; Manager, Mr. Herbert Nicholls.—This week Baroux and Bion, eccentric acrobats, provide a capital show; the Bodino Trio are clever on various instruments; the Sisters Le Bas do some smart dancing; while Miss Cissy Loveday, vocalist, and Mr. Ted Waite, comedian, with the Pictures, complete an attractive all-round entertainment.

YORK.—ROYAL.—Lessees, Messrs. Waddington; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. J. Dacre.—The Theatrescope is here again this week, as is also Mr. T. C. Jacques, a vocalist who has become extremely popular. The musical novelties introduced by Mlle. Zelda are a source of great attraction; and as a contortionist Zaid would be hard to beat. Emma Don and her Black and White Comedy Four come in for much applause.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke. —The Royal Operatic Quartette are giving selections from Maritana with great success; they are artists of ability. Van Allan is a musician and raconteur of the first rank, his business is original and funny. Mannon's company in The Motor 'Bus Outing cause much amusement. The Davenports are magicians of more than average merit; and the Strads, in their musical sketch, are in good form. Stan Aubrey, Edie Endon, Lottie de Abbey, and Tom May complete the company.

A LINK WITH THE PAST.

There are few prominent players either in England, Australia, or America who have not at one time or another met Mr. J. H. Fowkes, of Leicester—14, Marble-street. Years ago he was Mr. Toole's advance agent, serving in a similar capacity Mr. and Mrs. John Billington, Wilson Barrett, Joseph Eldred, Madame Beatrice, Barry Sullivan; but to continue the list would simply mean an inventory of the names of all the distinguished artists of the Victorian era

Seventy-two years old, he is hale and hearty and cheerfully awaiting an offer to go on the road again. Forty out of the seventy years have been spent on the working staff of the Leicester Theatres—for that is the town where "The old Fowkes at Home." Since Major Winstanley gave up the Opera House things have not been too bright for the veteran, so a few local gentlemen have arranged a benefit performance to take place the first week in September. We hope the affair will turn out the success it deserves to be.

A CORRESPONDENT points out that the success of the historical pageants at Sherborne last year, and at Butleigh Court and Warwick Castle this year, has been so marked that there is no reason why the general idea should not be elaborated in Bristol to fulfil the function of some great carnival in support of charity. The picturesque incidents in the history of Bristol are certainly numerous enough to provide the material for a thoroughly interesting series of tableaux worked out on a comprehensive scale such as was the case at Warwick Castle.

EVERYONE who has grey or faded hair, and who wishes to restore it to either golden, auburn bronze, or chestnut brown of natural shades, can be strongly recommended to write to the proprietors of "Condy's Fluid," 65, Goswell-road, London, for a leaflet containing full directions they are sending out free of charge. "Condy's Fluid," which is guaranteed to be perfectly harmless and non-poisonous, has enjoyed a large and increasing sale for over half a century. It claims to restore hair to any of the shades above referred to, and ladies' papers of the highest class constantly recommend correspondents to use it.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

A large audience at the Brighton Aquarium Theatre gave a very cordial reception to the new and original farcical two-act comedy, The Girl Next Door, on Monday afternoon, when it was produced by Mr. B. A. Rutley, and performed by Mr. J. J. Sallmayer's company. Mr. Walt Flint, the author, has written a story which, though light in character, is thoroughly interesting and amusing, while his lyrics are excellent. The music by Mr. A. S. Taggart (who conducted) is bright, tuneful, and of a winsomely attractive character, while the new scenery, painted by the well-known local artist, Mr. Tom Pilbeam, is highly picturesque, and presents a charming view of the river at Kingston, the moonlight scene in the second act furnishing a beautiful stage picture.

The incidents of the first act take place on the lawn, Kingston Villa, and after an opening chorus, we are introduced to Adolphus King, an impecunious half-pay Major, who is anxious to improve his prospects by securing the cheque-book and heart of some eligible lady. He hears that a wealthy young lady and her brother are expected to take up their residence next door, and he determines to pay his attentions to the former. Amelia Pratt, the housekeeper at Kingston Villa, is, however, in love with the Major, and gives vent to her feelings in a capitally written song, "That's Love." Dolly King, the girl next door, and her brother Bob, who are not related to the Major, arrive. Tom King, the Major's nephew, also puts in an appearance, and it is soon evident that Tom is enamoured of Dolly. The situation becomes very lively when Bill Bottle turns up anxious to serve a writ upon a Mr. King for breach of promise. He finds his task far from easy, as there are, he says, "four kings in the pack." Dolly and Bob realise the mercenary intentions of the scheming Major, and determine to change clothes in order that they may enjoy the fun of outwitting the gallant officer. The fun that follows is easily imagined, and while the Major resolutely lays siege to Dolly's hand and fortune, the housekeeper, Amelia Pratt, does not relax her amorous attentions towards her master. A very amusing scene takes place between the supposed Dolly and the Major; and Bob, attired as his sister, is not slow in boasting of estates and riches in her possession.

In the second act, on the lawn after the Kingston Regatta, the Major, in a drowsy state, takes a nap on a garden seat, and this affords Amelia Pratt the opportunity of giving several clever impersonations. Attired as an old lady, as a Japanese girl, and as a mad maiden of the Ophelia type, she indulges in song and dance, and the Major is perplexed to know whether he is in a dream or in a lunatic establishment, though at last he seems to identify Amelia, and declares, "I knew you all the time." There is also an amusing burlesque fight between P.C. Tarmac and Bill Bottle, who is found hanging about the villa. At last Dolly, once more her real self, confronts the Major, who realises that he has been fooled by the girl next door, and that Dolly is engaged to his nephew Tom. The Major is consoled, however, on learning that Amelia receives a telegram informing her that a deceased aunt has left her a fortune of £10,000. The Major has, of course, he says, loved Amelia "from the first," and the infatuated housekeeper readily listens to his wooing. Bill Bottle serves the writ on the wrong Mr. King, and exposes a black eye as the result of his adventure.

Miss Gertie Wasley made a bright and charming Dolly, and carried out her impersonation of her brother Bob very cleverly. She displayed very tasteful vocalisation, and was especially successful in the songs, "When Dolly goes to London for the day" and "My dainty little Valentine." Mr. Montague Moulton was highly effective as Bob King, and his assumption of the character of the lady showed great versatility. He was warmly and deservedly applauded for his spirited rendering of the song, "The Sussex Artillery Volunteers." Mr. W. E. Matthews was admirably suited as the Major, and acted with alertness and vivacity. He sang "When I was a Major in the Army" in capital style. Mr. Dennis Lyndon made the most of his opportunities as Tom King. Miss Belle D'Arcy merits unstinted praise for her enactment of Amelia Pratt, and gained an enthusiastic encore for her "Laughing Song" in the first act. Mr. Dan Whitley was very droll as Bill Bottle, the reformed burglar and writ server, and won hearty applause for his humorous songs, "No more burgling for me" and "One at a time." Mr. George Tearl added to the fun of the piece as P.C. Tarmac. As motor girls, Miss Lillian Matthews and Miss Cissie Verne acquitted themselves in very entertaining fashion. The former gave a refined and graceful rendering of "Moonlight on the River" (composed by Walt Flint), and the latter was conspicuously successful in her song and dance, "When the goblins whisper in the breeze." The choruses were well sung, and Mr. A. S. Taggart conducted with great tact and skill.

AMUSEMENTS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

KIMBERLEY, JUNE 4.—Messrs. Wheeler's London Comedy Company concluded a fortnight's season here on Saturday, during which time was presented for the first time in Kimberley Beauty and the Barge, The Freedom of Suzanne, The Perfect Lover, Mr. Hopkinson, and What Happened to Jones. The company, a good all-round one, gave most enjoyable performances of each piece, but unfortunately the venture could scarcely have proved a profitable one, considering the poor "houses" during the second week. The company entrained for Johannesburg on Sunday morning, where doubtless the merits of the company will be better recognised.

"THE DRUMMER OF THE 76TH," an historical playlet, by Lewis Coen, was produced for copyright purposes at the Coronet Theatre on Tuesday.

THE departure of the Cabots for America and their return to the port of Bristol would furnish several effective groups; the visit of Queen Anne and Queen Elizabeth, the work of Wesley and Whitefield, the reproduction of what was once the great St. James's Fair, and a host of other noteworthy incidents will immediately suggest themselves to the minds of those who may think seriously of embarking on the artistic labour of "reconstruction."

HEAVY TABLEAUX CURTAINS.

Dear Sir,

It gives me much pleasure to testify to the admirable work done by you in the cleaning of the exceptionally heavy tableaux curtains of this theatre. It must have been no easy task, especially the bringing up of the gold to the state of perfection you have achieved.

Yours truly,

ORIGINAL THEATRICAL CLEANERS AND DYERS.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA—1850-1900.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

PLAYERS OF THE PERIOD.

MR. J. FORBES KNOWLES.

Mr. Knowles was intended for the Law, but at an early age joined a nigger minstrel troupe, and later sang at Saturday evening concerts. Some eleven years ago he had a wretched time in fit-ups and "dry-ups," and has tramped from village to village with a few "props" on a farmer's cart. He can remember a small band of seven quietly dispersing, each going a different way, and rendered sadder and wiser by their experience. He eventually reached home penniless and hungry, and went back to the desk until he had saved sufficient money to start with again, determined to see if there was not a brighter side of the profession.

During his career Mr. Knowles has been agent in advance, low comedian, stage and acting-manager, and juvenile leading man.

On recommencing his chequered career he joined Arthur St. John in Dishonoured and Vengeance, and played several different parts during his eleven months' engagement with him. He then went on a tour as Dr. Wagner in Tom, Dick, and Harry, during which time, in an emergency, he played General Stanhope. After that came a thirteen months' tour with Madame Constance Bellamy, Mr. Knowles playing the Laird in Trilby. Danny, and sometimes Myles, in The Colleen Bawn, Pumpernickel in The Daughter of the Regiment, and Dupres in The Secret. A short special engagement followed as juvenile lead in The Guiding Star, and later he appeared in The Ups and Downs of Life. He next joined Miss Muriel Wylford's company as assistant-stage-manager, and was then engaged by the late Harry Monkhouse for the part of Charley Dempster in Larks and Barney O'Shea in Pat, and had a most pleasant tour. After this came a stock season with Mr. Fred Gould as juvenile gentleman. He played in The Streets of London, Black-Eyed Susan, Father's Bath, The Colleen Bawn (again Danny), All that Glitters is Not Gold, Robert Macaire, &c. After being engaged for a short time as advance agent, Mr. Knowles joined Messrs. Dottridge and Longden for the part of Prefect in The Terror of Paris. Next he played a comedy part in The Lass that Loves a Sailor, and this was fololwed by a tour as acting-manager for Cissy, he also playing the part of Dossy Bowers.

J FORBES KNOWLES.

On the Monday morning following the conclusion of this tour he made a call at the offices of the A.A., and was asked if he knew Robert Macaire. Replying in the affirmative, he was engaged, and opened that evening with Mr. George Conquest at the Terriss Theatre as Germine, after which he was re-engaged by Messrs. Dottridge and Longden for the part of the Rev. Fred Lisle in Man's Enemy. Then he again played his old part in Tom, Dick, and Harry. Mr. Knowles next went to his native town, Aberdeen, as stage-manager (after the production) of Robinson Crusoe, and he found it very arduous work looking after a company of over sixty people. He then joined the late Kennedy Miller's company in Irish répertoire, playing a round of good parts and creating the character of Captain Airlie in The Insurgent Chief. He remembers in "the smalls" in Ireland playing in a different piece each night, and not having a proper dressing place for weeks; no pegs to hang clothes on; sometimes dressing in a passage with a stone floor, and using the top of a basket for wardrobe. He often thinks that a similar experience would be a lesson to those who grumble at adequate accommodation in theatres to-day. In conjunction with one or two old members of Man's Enemy company, Mr. Knowles then took out a summer tour of that play by arrangement with Dottridge and Longden, and the result proved highly satisfactory.

Another re-engagement with Dottridge and Longden as Louis, "King of Crime" (during which tour he created a part in The Village Blacksmith) was followed by a long tour with The 10.30 Down Express, Mr. Knowles playing the part of Jack O'Malley. While fulfilling this engagement he first met his present partner, Mr. Edward L. Garside, and they arranged to take out a company of their own. While arranging preliminaries Mr. Knowles had several special engagements round London in music hall sketches, &c. He has a vivid recollection of his last Saturday night "on the halls," when driving in a brougham from one house to another, and being rather late, and the coachman rather drunk, they were nearly precipitated into Old Father Thames. Then followed Detective Jeal in Too Many Cooks, Sam Gerridge in Caste, after which he and Mr. Garside launched out with Mr. Arthur Shirley and Mr. Geo. Conquest's drama, The London Fireman, which they have continuously toured for nearly three years. For the first few weeks Mr. Knowles played the comedy part; then he undertook the title-rôle, which part he has played now over 700 times.

GREAT interest is being taken at Düsseldorf, Frankfort, and Cologne in the approaching visit of the Yorkshire choir, under Mr. Coward. The Corporations of those musical towns have voted money in aid of the expenses, and will also spend considerable sums on the entertainment of the choir, which will be the guest of the local choral societies. There are to be grand receptions in each town. The Düsseldorf City Orchestra will play for the choir in their own town and at Cologne, and the Frankfort City Orchestra will play at Frankfort. Miss Gertrude Lonsdale, who has just returned from the Watkin Mills round-the-world tour, has been engaged by the committees of the Leeds and Sheffield choirs to sing in Sir Edward Elgar's The Dream of Gerontius, which will take place in September at Cologne, Düsseldorf, and Mainz.

MME. KIRKBY LUNN, whose success as Carmen this season at Covent Garden has been so marked, is engaged for the Museum Concerts at Frankfort in October.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, JULY 5.—The Porte-Saint-Martin have just produced Strasbourg! ou les Prussiens en Alsace. As the title indicates, it is a patriotic piece, wherein the author, M. Champagne, gives us a series of thrilling incidents connected with the 1870 war. For some unexplained reason our Censor would never allow its production in Paris, although it had been given in several provincial cities with a fair amount of success, and without having caused the least trouble. It is needless to relate the plot, a description of which appeared already in these columns. The work was well received.

MME. BERTHE LEGRAND has left the Palais Royal, and it is even rumoured that this excellent actress intends to withdraw altogether from the stage. We sincerely hope that this news is unfounded, for Mme. Legrand, immensely popular with the public, will not be easily replaced.

LAST season has been anything but a prosperous one for our theatres, yet, if we are to believe all that is said, we are threatened with an avalanche of new playhouses. Here, like elsewhere, it is the ambition of every actor or actress to own a house. M. Antoine, not content with his little theatre that bears his name, conceived the idea of constructing one on altogether new lines. He had, in fact, already selected the spot on a Boulevard, between the Rue Lafitte and the Rue Taitbout, when the trouble broke out with M. Ginisty, and M. Antoine became manager of the Odeon. For all that, the latter has not relinquished his idea. The next on the list are MM. Paul and Edouard Franck, who, a year ago, opened the Théâtre Royal, a bijou little house, well patronised by the best class of Parisians. Unfortunately for them, the building was pulled down. They had to look for another place, and their negotiations with a well-known restaurateur in the Rue Saint-Honoré having failed, they will, I am told, try their luck elsewhere. Then there is M. Michaud, one of our luckiest managers, who, with his Théâtre des Nouveautés, has amassed a considerable fortune. He, too, is the victim of the demolisher, for at the close of the coming season the Nouveautés premises will come down. M. Michaud might rest on his laurels, but as he is not the man to remain inactive, he is also seized with the building fever, and is, we are assured, looking out for a suitable spot. The fourth are the Brothers Isola, who have taken over the Nouveau Cirque, where they intend to produce operettes. On special evenings they will also give us a variety entertainment, and I know of several engagements that have been signed. Mme. Réjane, as you know, has already established herself in the Nouveau Théâtre, which is to open in September prox.

WE have, however, reached the "silly season," and it is, therefore, not surprising that other combinations are mentioned, for which the whisky bottle probably is responsible. Thus we are gravely informed that M. Cassien Bernard, the architect of the opera, has designed the plans of a magnificent theatre to be erected on the spot of the former Cirque d'Eté, in the Champs Elysées. M. Léoncavallo would manage this new undertaking. MM. Le Bargy and Tarride are, we are told, also on the theatre-building track; and even Fursy, of the Boite-à-Fursy, is suspected of similar designs. I happened to meet M. Fursy a few nights ago, and asked him whether I could contradict the rumour. "Please don't," he replied, with a twinkle in his eye, "it is good for a man's credit!"

THE French are a theatre and music-loving race, and the governor of the penal settlement in Noumea, wanting to try the effect of music on his flock, has organised a band, which, it appears, is giving satisfaction all round. All its members are under life sentence. The conductor is a famous assassin; the flutist killed the woman with whom he cohabited; the cornet-player broke his master's skull with a hammer; the saxophone strangled a soldier; the bugler half-murdered an old gentleman in the Paris Streets to rob him of his watch; and the drummer killed his wife. They, however, refused to admit in their midst a gentleman who cut up his victim into little pieces. They draw the line somewhere.

MM. CLEVES AND LAROCHELLE, managers and lessees of the Porte-Saint-Martin, will not renew their treaty with the Authors' Society until next season. The reason for this rather unusual proceeding is that they intend bringing out Cinderella, the English authors of which are not members of the Société des Auteurs. By not renewing their treaty, MM. Clèves and Larochelle can, therefore, make special arrangements with their English friends, without being tied down by the rules of the society. This is all very well, if, as is anticipated, Cinderella proves a success in Paris. In the contrary case, however, and if they want to change their programme, the Porte-Saint-Martin management may find itself in a somewhat awkward position.

THE old feud between that witty playwright, M. Georges Courteline, and M. Antoine, has come to an end. The two have shaken hands, and the result will be the production of a new piece by the talented author of Boubourocke.

WE have had no less than five theatrical lawsuits this week, two of which are interesting. The first was an action brought by Mlle. Lary, a comedienne, against the proprietor of a small music-hall here, for wrongful dismissal. The latter's explanation was that Mlle. Lary had called him a "pig." The lady denied this; but added that if that word had dropped from her lips, it was because the manager had acted like a pig. This raised a rather delicate point, so delicate that the learned judge asked him for reflection, and deferred judgment till next week.

THE other case was a claim of 20,000 francs by M. Abel Deval, lessee of the Athénée, against M. Coquet, the well-known actor. M. Coquet, who played a leading rôle in Le Prince Consort, had been engaged for a lengthy period at a salary of £30 per month, with a forfeit of 20,000 francs to be paid by either side in case of breach of contract. M. Coquet, in the belief that he could secure better terms in Marseille, asked M. Deval to release him from his contract. This occurred at the end of the theatrical season, and M. Deval, hoping to replace M. Coquet by a cheaper man, consented to this arrangement, on condition that the actor should not appear on any Paris stage before the end of 1906. But the Marseille affair proved a failure, and M. Coquet then joined the little Théâtre des Capucines, where he appeared with Mlle. Lender in Le Pantalon de la Baronne, and afterwards was engaged by M. Guitry, of the Renaissance, for a rôle in L'Escalade with Mlle. Brandès, and it was in the latter house that he received a summons to pay the 20,000 francs forfeit. Both parties appeared in person; and M. Couquet laid stress on the fact that M. Deval, who never troubled him whilst he played at the Capucines, pounced down upon him when he went to the Renaissance. He asked the tribunal to draw their own conclusions from this strange attitude. His argument certainly weighed with the judge, for he reduced the sum claimed to 500 francs.

OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN has opened his Paradise Garden on the roof of the Victoria Theatre, New York, and visitors thereto are regaled with a feast of variety calculated to suit all tastes, the programme comprising La Belle Baigneuse, Abbie Mitchell, the Constantine Sisters, the Camille Trio, Green and Werner, Rice and Prevost, the Four Bard Brothers, Cliff Berzac's Novelty Circus, Collins and Hart, and the Kitabauza troupe of Japanese balancers.

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

The usual weekly meeting of the London County Council was held on Tuesday at the County Hall, Spring-gardens.

NEW MEMBER.

Mr. J. A. Dawes was appointed a member of the Theatres and Music Halls Committee, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. D. S. Waterlow, M.P.

AN EXTENSION OF TIME.

The Council, on Dec. 19, 1905, decided, subject to certain conditions, to grant a certificate under Section 12 of 41 and 42 Vict., cap. 32, in respect of a music hall building proposed to be erected in Upper Tooting-road in accordance with the drawings submitted by Messrs. Rings and Myers. One of the conditions provided that the building should be commenced within six months from Dec. 19, 1905, and Messrs. Rings and Myers have now asked that this time may be extended by six months.

The Theatres and Music Halls' Committee recommended that the application be granted upon condition that the building referred to be commenced within twelve months from the 19th day of December, 1905, and that the conditions contained in the resolution of that date be otherwise strictly observed.

Agreed to

ROYAL ALBERT HALL.

The following report was received from the Theatres Committee:—The question having been raised whether the Council has any jurisdiction with regard to the entertainments given at the Royal Albert Hall, we have inquired into the matter, and we now report the facts for the information of the Council. The Royal Albert Hall was erected under a Royal charter dated April 8, 1867. By this charter the corporation in whom the management of the hall is vested are entitled to use the hall for (among other objects) "performances of music, including performances on the organ." A supplemental Royal charter, dated Oct. 25, 1888, provides that the hall may be used for "operettas, concerts, balls, or any other than theatrical entertainments for the amusement and recreation of the people." We are advised that having regard to the terms of the Royal charters the hall is exempt from the provisions of the statute under which music and dancing licences are granted (25 Geo. II., cap. 36), but that the use of the hall for stage-plays performances without a licence under the Theatres Act, 1843, would constitute a breach of that Act. The powers conferred on the Council by the Metropolis Management and Building Acts Amendment Act, 1878, for the prevention of danger from fire apply only to the theatres kept open under letters patent from the Crown and to places licensed or requiring to be licensed for the public performance of stage-plays or public music or dancing, and as we are advised that the Royal Albert Hall does not require to be licensed for music or dancing it would appear that so long as the premises are not used for theatrical purposes the Council has no jurisdiction in the matter. If the corporation in whom the hall is vested should express a desire to have the opinion of the Council as to whether the hall is reasonably safe from the danger of fire we should be pleased to take the necessary steps to comply with such a request.

THE WOOLWICH ARTILLERY THEATRE.

The Committee's report concerning this theatre, which has been on the agenda for the last two weeks, was again postponed.

MRS. SIDDONS.

The Local Government Records and Museums Committee reported that the tablet commemorative of Mrs. Siddons which was affixed by the Society of Arts to No. 27, Upper Baker-street, has, since the demolition of those premises, been refixed to the building erected on the site, together with a supplemental tablet. They thought, however, that the residence of Mrs. Siddons at No. 54, Great Marlborough-street, should be also commemorated. They had verified the facts connected with the house, and had obtained the necessary consents to the affixing of a tablet. Provision for the expenditure has been made in the estimates for the current financial year. The Committee accordingly recommended that a tablet be affixed to No. 54, Great Marlborough-street, W., to commemorate the residence thereat of Mrs. Siddons.

AMERICAN AMUSEMENTS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NEW YORK, June 20.—One of the most important events of the autumn season will be the opening of the new Astor Theatre, at the corner of Forty-fifth-street and Broadway, of which the lessees are Messrs. Wagenhals and Kemper. In its architectural design and colour scheme the new playhouse corresponds with the Hotel Astor on the opposite corner. A proscenium arch of uncarved stone and walls covered with green and gold tapestries are among the innovations. The seating capacity will be about 1400. An elaborate production of A Midsummer Night's Dream, with Miss Annie Russell as Puck, will be the opening attraction.

MISS HILDA SPONG will "star" under the management of Mr. Walter N. Lawrence next season, appearing in Lady Jim, a three-act comedy of modern life, by Harold Heaton.

"THE MUSIC-MASTER" had been performed 593 times when the season ended, and, according to a careful estimate, the play had been witnessed by at least six hundred thousand people. Mr. David Warfield had not missed a performance, and the original cast remained intact throughout two seasons.

THE roof gardens are in full swing, and the Wistaria Grove on top of the New York Theatre has commenced its season with the production of a musical piece called Seeing New York, by Joseph Hart, Clifton Crawford, and A. Baldwin Sloane. A feature of this offering that tickles the audience immensely is the "business" accompanying the singing of one of the musical numbers by a squad of stage policemen. While they gossip in pairs and doze on each other's shoulders a burglar lifts a first-floor window, drops his swag to the street with a resounding thud, and ere he makes his escape relieves one of the "cops" of his badge of office. A scene at the Flatiron Building on a windy day shows a number of girls turning the sharp corner formed by that precipitous pile of masonry, the pranks of the breeze causing an embarrassing display of lingerie. Miss Carrie De Mar, Miss Cheridah Simpson, Mr. Al Leech, and Mr. Clifton Crawford introduce a number of songs and specialities, their contributions being largely responsible for the success of the entertainment.

THE Aerial Theatre and Garden is another of those breezy summer resorts peculiar to the Empire City, to reach which one must "take the elevator." This roof garden is situated on top of the new Amsterdam Theatre, and is different from the others, as the entertainments are given in a fully equipped theatre, largely built of glass, numerous windows admitting the air and keeping the place cool and comfortable. During the intermissions the audience adjourns to the illuminated garden surrounding the theatre—a veritable fairyland of flowers and foliage—from which one gets a fine view of the city by night. George M. Cohan, in his own musical comedy The Governor's Son, is the reigning attraction here, the company including Jerry and Helen Cohan, Ethel Levey, Truly Shattuck, and Julius Tannen.

THE WARWICK PAGEANT.

History repeated itself to the letter at Warwick on Monday, when the brilliant Pageant invented and arranged by Mr. Louis N. Parker, the celebrated dramatist, unfolded itself on the spacious stage provided by the grounds of Warwick Castle. The town itself was crowded with sightseers of all nationalities, and the enormous grand stand was closely packed by an audience remarkable in its character and dimensions. Fully 5,000 people were present, among them being the Earl and Countess of Warwick, Lord Leigh, Viscount and Lady Helmsley, Lord Algernon Percy, Viscount and Viscountess Hereford, Lady Anna Chandos-Pole, Lady Mordaunt, Captain Sir Wroth and Lady Lethbridge, Lady Peel, Sir William Jaffray, Miss Ellen Terry, Miss Marie Corelli, Master Gordon Bland, Mr. Cuthbert Kemp, and the Masters of Rugby and Repton.

The Pageant, which commemorates the 1,000th anniversary of the Conquest of Mercia by Queen Ethelfleda, is a production of unexampled splendour, and reveals with wonderful accuracy the momentous episodes of English history, more especially in regard to Warwick, from its earliest records. The production, which is in eleven episodes, containing innumerable tableaux, was represented by a company of 2,000 amateurs, all drawn from the county of Warwickshire. The cast, so far as the leading parts were concerned, was as follows:—

Kymbeline	MR. HOLTE
Ethelfleda	MISS DICKENS
Piers Gaveston	MR. RYBOT
Lancaster	MR. ROSS
Warwick	MR. H. BROWN
Roger de Newburgh	MR. C. BROWN
Gundrada	MISS BROWNE
Shakespeare	A Boy from Stratford
Queen Elizabeth	MRS. H. BATCHELOR
Leicester	EARL OF YARMOUTH
Thomas Fisher	MR. SAM BROWNE
Mrs. Thomas Fisher	MRS. SAM BROWNE
Recorder	MR. KEMP (Mayor of Warwick).

There also took part in various episodes Lord and Lady Willoughby de Broke, Lady Heath, Lady Victoria de Trafford, and the Rev. Ralph Goodenough.

A flourish of trumpets heralded the opening scene, and the approach of the Narrative Chorus, robed as Druids in white, blue, and green, and impressively chanting a chorus. The earliest episode reveals the "Dawn of Christianity." A crowd of Ancient Britons sorrowfully stretch out their arms as "Kymbeline," their dying King, comes forward leaning on the shoulders of two pages. He calls for his son (Caractacus), and crowns him King of Britain. The joyous shouts of the crowd bring on the scene the warlike Adminius, who threatens to depose his brother. The Druids again appear, and snatching a child from a frantic mother, offer it up as a sacrifice. Caradoc, however, orders the release of the boy, and for his blasphemous interference the Druids invoke the vengeance of the gods on the King. The Romans enter, and after a fierce battle the Britons are defeated, and the King captured and taken to Rome. A battle between savage-looking Picts and Scots and the Britons, who defeated their Northern foes, takes place in Episode two, and the incident of the bear and rugged staff, showing why those objects were selected as the arms of the Earls of Warwick, is depicted. The next episode opens with the flight of the Britons from the Danes, and subsequently shows the victory of Ethelfleda, Great Alfred's daughter. She enters on horseback, followed by a large retinue with the captured Danes chained by the neck on heavy yokes. This scene illustrates the Conquest of Mercia, and the overthrow of Paganism a thousand years ago.

Episode four unfolds the romantic career of Guy of Warwick, his marriage with the fair Phyllis, and the slaying of the Dun Cow, the monstrous head of which is borne on a trolley across the arena. The fifth episode, which brings the play to the Twelfth Century, furnished one of the most exquisite scenes of the spectacle. Gundrada announces that her lord, Roger de Newburgh, Earl of Warwick, is coming home from the Holy Land, and a picturesque spectacle is provided. She and a group of girls form into a ring, and throw a red ball round and round the circle. Then comes a scene from Marlowe's "Edward II.," in which Piers Gaveston, the unworthy favourite of the King, is tried by the Barons and sentenced to death. The Kingmaker scenes from Shakespeare's "Henry VI." follow, the characters being taken by the Kineton amateurs. Episode eight, which deals with the charters, furnishes two delightful scenes, one a group of girls in charming, delicately-hued dresses, singing "Summer is a-coming in, loudly sing cuckoo." In the other the boys of the King's School sing in spirited style a composition by Mr. W. T. Keeling.

The ninth episode takes place at the time of the short reign of the ill-fated Lady Jane Grey, whose proclamation at Warwick is depicted. Episode ten begins with a comic meeting of the burgesses of the city; then the Earls of Leicester and Warwick ride on with their retinues, preceding Queen Elizabeth, who is driven on the stage in a magnificent coach with six horses, surrounded by a cavalcade of ladies and gentlemen.

Local dignitaries are presented to the Queen, among them the bailiff of Stratford, who is accompanied by his little eight-year-old son. The Queen asks the boy's name, and he answers, "William Shakespeare," and then the Queen kisses him, and says: "I like thy name, and I like thy looks. Tell thy playmates the Queen kissed William Shakespeare." After the deputations have been received, Queen Elizabeth rests for a little upon a throne that has been prepared, the boys of the King's County School sing, and dances are performed before her, the crowd in the arena numbering at that moment quite 1,500 persons. Then a procession is formed, and Elizabeth and her courtiers walk down to the Avon, and are rowed up the river in the State barge.

The last episode concerns the burning of the city in 1694 and its rebuilding, followed by a final tableau, in which all the characters that have been seen appear again together grouped round a figure of Britannia in the foreground. Mounted on a pedestal, surrounded by the fourteen Colonial and American Warwicks, the entire company of two thousand performers then sing the "Old Hundredth," and to solemn music the march-past begins. The last figure to leave the arena is that of the boy William Shakespeare, who as he goes out kisses his hand to the audience in token that the Pageant is at an end.

The performers all acted with wonderful precision and unanimity. The tableaux were mounted with prodigal liberality, and the eye never wearied of the elaborate spectacles, which took shape with marvellous accuracy. Every praise should be given to the music, vocal and instrumental. The chorus of Druids was in fine unison, the voices showing careful training. Miss Greig, the Mistress of the Dances, also deserves high commendation. The whole performance enraptured the vast audience, whose appreciation was heartily expressed. The Pageant reflects credit not only on the town, but on the whole country, and the reputation of Mr. Parker, already great as a dramatist, is worthily enhanced by the production.

"THE ERA" can be obtained at the principal bookstalls throughout the provinces.

MISS ISABEL GREY.

MISS ISABEL GREY, who has just returned from a tour of Sweet and Twenty, is engaged for the part of Mrs. Bolingbroke in His Excellency the Governor.

Miss Grey has had a long and varied experience on the stage. She has been equally successful in comedy, drama, and opera, gaining valuable experience on tour with the late Mr. Bandmann's Shakespearean company, also with Miss Sarah Thorne, and various other managers. She was the first to introduce plays of serious interest on Hastings Pier, and is also the author of a musical farce, entitled, Outwitted, which was successfully produced at the now defunct Holborn Theatre. For a few years Miss Grey left the stage and travelled on the Continent. On her return she appeared at the Royalty with Mr. Lionel Brough. Since then she has distinguished herself in such parts as Mrs. Cross in The Idler, the Duchess of Berwick in Lady Windermere's Fan, Lady Bletchley in A Woman's Reason, Mrs. Stonehay, in The Profligate, etc. During the run of Sweet Nancy at the Avenue she undertook the part of Mrs. Gray at a moment's notice, and continued the impersonation with such marked success that Mr. Edmund Maurice immediately made her an offer to resume the part on tour, and that offer she accepted.

Besides the cup, our correspondent will give for the next five years £5 added money, or a prize of that value.

Motorists are invited to communicate with the Secretary, Motor Committee, The Era Office, 5, Tavistock-street, W.C.

Gluck's Armide, which was to be produced at Covent Garden yesterday evening, was sung for the first time in 1777 at the Académie Royale and is regarded as one of its composer's masterpieces. It followed Alceste. Of these two operas Gluck himself wrote to Bailly du Rollet: "They are so different that you will hardly believe them to be by the same composer. . . . I have endeavoured to be more of the painter and the poet than the musician. I confess that I should like to finish my career with this opera (Armide). . . In Armide there is a delicate quality which is wanting in Alceste, for I have discovered the method of making the characters express themselves so that you will know at once whether it is Armide who is speaking or one of her followers."

AN entertainment given at the Pioneer Club, Piccadilly, on Wednesday, included skeches entitled Promotion, translated from the French, and The Lady Doctor, taken from the same source. Both pieces were played by Mlle. Juliette Milo, of the Comédie-Française, and Mr. W. Anning, and were very cordially received. The entertainment also embraced excellent vocal and musical items.

The charming selections given by the orchestra at the Aldwych Theatre, between Miss Ruth St. Denis's Indian dances last Thursday afternoon, are the work of a Cingalese composer, Mr. E. A. W. Rodrigo, who has arranged and orchestrated some of the oldest Indian airs. He is a well-known bandmaster in Ceylon. The selections played at the Aldwych are named "Gorth," "Chial," and "Mohanni," signifying a dance, an interlude, and a prayer.

PRINCE'S THEATRE, POPLAR.

The Woman Who Gambles, which was produced at the Colosseum Theatre, Oldham, on January 29 last, was submitted to the verdict of a London audience on Monday evening. The author, Mr. S. Buchanan Rogerson, has devised a fairly interesting plot, and as the action of the play takes place in Balaka, the chief city of the State of Bilcrona, an imaginary kingdom on the Adriatic Sea, abundance of scope is given for the introduction not only of a series of sensational incidents, but also of a number of clearly defined character sketches, well calculated to impress an audience. The smart uniforms worn and the well-painted picturesque scenery add considerably to the general effect. Indeed, The Woman Who Gambles is a very good specimen of the class of play to which it belongs, and can be recommended accordingly.

The most important personage in the story is the Countess Natalie Steinbach, the weak points in whose character are a passion for gambling, and a proneness to unreasonable jealousy. Baron Cratzlaw, the villain of the piece, hopes with the aid of his accomplice, Stella Melakoff, to bring about the financial ruin of the Countess, so that he may be in a position to pay her debts, and so earn her gratitude, if not affection. A despatch arrives notifying the Baron that a society of Anarchists called the Friends of Freedom are about to set a revolution on foot. Cora Gouldhart is the bearer of the plan of campaign. This document she hands to Karl Ctzarteryski, a member of the secret society, with instructions that he is to deliver it to the central committee. On Karl asking for the address of the meeting-place, he is informed that a lady will that evening hand him a slip of paper, on which will be written the place and hour of meeting. Baron Cratzlaw, overhearing this conversation, confronts Karl, accuses him of being a revolutionist and of bearing upon his person the plan of operations. He, however, offers to save Karl and also Cora, with whom Karl is in love, provided he (Karl) will induce Otto Steinbach to carry the documents to the revolutionary meeting, the Baron's plan being to have Otto arrested in the midst of the Friends of Freedom with the incriminating papers upon him. Karl, who is jealous of Otto, at length consents. He gives the papers to Otto, who, believing he is saving Cora, promises to deliver them. The Countess is led by the Baron to believe that an appointment between her husband and Cora has been arranged. Roused to a fury of jealousy she gambles wildly at the tables, and incurs debts she is unable to pay. The Baron comes forward and offers to cancel her notes, when Otto, entering, announces his intention of selling his estates to preserve his wife's good name.

The scene of Act. II. is the Palace of the Countess Natalie, her husband being absent endeavouring to raise the money to satisfy his wife's creditors. Still tortured by jealousy, she goes to his private desk in search of letters from Cora, in place of which she discovers the revolutionary documents entrusted to Otto. The Baron tells her that her husband is to deliver these papers to Cora that evening, and that she is to convey them to the revolutionary committee, whose place of meeting he does not know. Mad with jealousy, Natalie hands the address to the Baron, making a stipulation that the person arrested with the papers found on him or her is to die, believing Cora will be the one taken with the plans in her possession. She leads the police to the meeting-place, only to find she has betrayed her own husband into the hands of justice.

Otto is condemned to be shot as a rebel. Natalie pleads with the Baron for her husband's life. He offers to spare Otto if she will sacrifice her honour, and gives her one chance of winning by staking his love against her husband's life. She consents to hazard the decision on the dice-box. The Baron wins, and thinks he has gained his object, but Natalie holds him in check by presenting at him a loaded revolver. This is a specially powerful scene, and evokes loud applause.

In the last act Lieut. Karl, repenting of his share in Otto's betrayal, comes disguised as a monk to the condemned cell. He chloroforms Otto, wraps him in the monk's cloak, and has him taken out of the prison, while he (Karl), assuming the traitor's hood, which conceals his features, is led to execution. The last scene is Natalie's boudoir. The unhappy woman swallows poison to end her miserable existence. The Baron, entering from the bedroom, attempts to take her away with him, but is shot by one of the revolutionists, and Cora arrives with the Prince's pardon for Otto.

Mr. Morton Powell's company gives an adequate representation of the drama. Miss Gertrude Hunt, who has succeeded Miss Louisa Peach in the part of the Countess Natalie, quite realises the passionate, jealous nature of the woman, and puts plenty of force into her embodiment of this leading character. Her performance gives complete satisfaction. Mr Edward E. Ashby displays all the necessary feeling and earnestness in the part of Count Otto Steinbach, and scores a genuine success in his thoroughly sound representation of the hero of the story. Mr. Horatio Sinclair plays the villain, Baron Cratzlaw, with consistent intensity, and though occasionally somewhat indistinct in his utterance, he possesses a complete grip of the character, and never misses a favourable opportunity of scoring. Mr. Reginald Fox gives a bold and highly effective rendering of Lieut. Karl Ctzarteryski. Mr. Ernest H. Clarke is well placed as M. Stambuloff, the Chief of Police. Miss Violet Sims plays with care and discretion the part of Cora Gouldhart, and Miss Marie Ramuz is good as Stella Malakoff. he play is brightened by Mr. Fred Prior's amusing portrayal of Peter Peteroff, a comically cowardly spy in the pay of the police, and also by Mr. Frank Howard's impersonation of the Hon. Bertie Bray, of the British Embassy, whose sweetheart, Zila Zeyelda, has a lively representative in Miss Florrie Hall. Minor rôles receive satisfactory treatment from Messrs. G. H. Hurst, Arthur Brandhurst, Gilbert Dance, Walter P. Carr, Arthur Cuff, and Miss Brenda May.

SIR,—I see by your columns Edward Stebbing was convicted of theft. Would you please mention that it is not the Edwin Stebbing, acrobat, as a mistake may arise that may be very harmful to me.—Yours faithfully, EDWIN STEBBING.

MISS DOT STEPHENS' SAD CASE.

Miss Doris Stephens, best known in the professional world as Dot Stephens, a very clever vocalist and dancer, met with a terrible accident late on Saturday night, the 30th ult. She had fulfilled an engagement at H.M. Theatre of Varieties at Walsall, and left on Saturday night to go to Glasgow, where she was to have appeared this week. On reaching Wolverhampton she had to wait some time to join the midnight mail on the London and North-Western line, and there met some professional friends. She went to the Hippodrome, Wolverhampton, and was afterwards accompanied to the High Level Station by a gentleman, who secured her a seat in a second-class compartment, and saw that the door on the platform side was properly fastened before the train started. On arrival at Stafford the door on the offside was found to be open and the compartment empty. There was a quantity of luggage on the racks and seats, and as there appeared to have been an accident a light engine was at once despatched up the line to search the track. On reaching Fordhouses, about three miles from Wolverhampton, the unfortunate young lady was found lying in the six foot way in an unconscious state, and terribly injured. She was conveyed to the Wolverhampton station, and thence to the General Hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate one foot and part of the other. She was also found to be seriously lacerated about the head and body. On Sunday afternoon she had recovered consciousness, but had no recollection of how the accident occurred. It is supposed that she was under the impression that she was travelling in a corridor car, and on opening the door fell to the ground.

MISS DOT STEPHENS.

Miss Stephens is progressing most favourably at the Wolverhampton Hospital, and she has been greatly cheered by the many letters of sympathy which have come from all parts of the country—there have been quite a lot from Walsall, where she had sung with such acceptance during last week.

Characteristic of that good fellowship which exists amongst the profession, a matinée is being arranged for her benefit at Her Majesty's Theatre, Walsall.

The following sympathetic letter has reached us from Mr. J. Bannister Howard:—

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Will you kindly advocate the case of Miss Dot Stephens in the columns of The Era? I think a subscription list should be opened at once. I have many promises and some contributions already. It is a terrible thing for this young girl, who is only twenty-two years of age, to be suddenly and permanently deprived of all means of livelihood. She has been the sole support of her widowed mother for the past four years.—Yours truly, J. BANNISTER HOWARD.

In reply to Mr. Howard's letter The Era will gladly advocate the claims of Miss Stephens to the generous consideration of both the dramatic and variety professions. She is a clever vocalist, dancer, and actress, and first appeared with Mr. Bannister Howard as the Salvation Army lass in The Belle of New York, remaining with the company three years. She then joined Mr. George Dance for the part of Mrs. Pineapple in A Chinese Honeymoon and afterwards Mr. C. P. Levilly, understudying Miss Stella Gastelle as Alesia in La Poupée, a part she subsequently played, and was to resume in the autumn in Mr Herbert Ralland's company, lately on tour.

Asked how she could account for the accident, Miss Stephens remarked, "The railway carriage was stuffy, and I went to open the window. After that I recollect nothing more till I regained consciousness in the hospital."

A fund has been opened by Mr. J. Bannister Howard, and the following subscriptions have been received:—

George Dance	£5	5	0
Herbert Ralland	5	5	0
C. P. Levilly	5	5	0
W. W. Kelly	5	5	0
Miss Edith Cole	5	5	0
J. B. Howard	5	5	0
Miss Queenie Leighton	2	2	0
Frank King	2	2	0
Fredk. Mouillot	2	2	0
George Alexander	1	1	0
M. R. Morand	1	1	0
E. Lockwood	1	1	0
E. Graham Falcon	1	1	0
Wilfred Esmond	1	0	0
Rollo Balmain	0	10	6

All subscriptions will be duly acknowledged in these columns. Subscriptions may be sent to Mr. J. Bannister Howard, Hon. Treasurer, 3, Bedford-street, Strand, W.C.; to the "Dot Stephens Fund," at the Capital and Counties Bank, King-street, Covent Garden; or to the Assistant Hon. Treasurer, Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, The Era Office, 5, Tavistock-street, W.C.

MR. G. BERNARD SHAW essayed the latter rôle in his play Man and Superman on Tuesday afternoon, when he made an aerial voyage in Messrs. Spencer's balloon "Norfolk." Mr. Shaw was accompanied by Mrs. Hugh Cholmondeley, Mr. Robert Loraine, Mr. Granville Barker, and Mr. Percival Spencer. The ascent was made at Wandsworth at 3.20 p.m., and, after attaining the remarkable altitude of nearly two miles, the descent was made at Chobham Place, two and a half hours later.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

MELBOURNE, MAY 10.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE (Lessee, Mr. J. C. Williamson; Business-Manager, Mr. George Tallis).—After a most successful run, Dorothy Vernon will be withdrawn on Friday night. Miss Brune's season is rapidly drawing to a close, and, on Saturday evening next, Sunday will be staged for a few nights. On Saturday evening last the performance was witnessed by a large number of Japanese officers from the three warships which are making a short stay at Melbourne.

THEATRE ROYAL (Lessee, Mr. William Anderson; Business-Manager, Mr. Julius Grant).—The stirring melodrama, For the Sake of a Woman, is proving highly successful, and another large audience witnessed the performance on Saturday evening. The piece abounds in sensational incidents so dear to all lovers of stirring melodrama. The acting throughout is uniformly good, Mr. George Cross as the stalwart and eventually triumphant hero, Mr. A O. Millard as the villain, and Mr. Bert Bailey as the leading comedian deserving special mention. The Night Birds of London is in active preparation by Mr. Anderson's company.

OPERA HOUSE (Proprietor, Mr. Harry Rickards; Business-Manager, Mr. Fred Aydon).—Several new artists appeared at the Opera House on Saturday evening. Baby Watson, a young lady of apparently about four summers, exhibited wonderful talent, and her quaint, old-fashioned deportment was a source of much amusement; she was several times recalled for her singing and dancing. The Three Lees astonished everyone with their remarkable contortion act; the wonderful playing of the Miles-Stavordale Quintet figures as the chief attraction on the programme; while interesting items are contributed by Miss Breghlie Smith, Mr. Howard Hall, Mr. Tom Dawson, Mr. Alf Lawton, and a host of others. On Monday evening Mr. Harry Rickards made his re-appearance for one night, prior to leaving for England and America in search of novelties for his various Australian theatres. He contributed a number of his most successful songs, which, needless to say, were enthusiastically received, encores in each case being demanded by his many admirers.

GAIETY THEATRE (Lessee, Mr. Frank Clark; Business-Manager, Mr. Joe Solomons).—A complete change of programme on Saturday night by the Folly Company attracted a large house. Mr. Joe Charles made a satisfactory first appearance, and was accorded a hearty reception; Miss Bella Perman introduced new dances, which won instant approval; the Lazaras and Mr. Frank York are still prime favourites; while other artists whose turns prove interesting include Miss Amy Blackie, Mr. Andy Roberts, and Miss Lucy Levinia.

THE success of the Living London moving pictures shown at the Town Hall, under the direction of the Messrs. J. and N. Tait, continues unabated. The Messrs. Tait are to be congratulated upon presenting to Melbourne audiences undoubtedly the finest living pictures yet seen in this city.

SYDNEY, May 22, 1906.—Mr. J. C. Williamson revived A Country Girl on the 19th at Her Majesty's. The audience included Their Excellencies the Governor-General and Lady Northcote and a large party from Government House. Miss Florence Young fairly revelled in her old part of Marjory Joy. Mr. Haigh Jackson never sang better or made love more naturally, and Miss Margaret Thomas as the Princess Melaneh sang admirably. By the by, this young lady will shortly wed a well-known barrister, Mr. Gordon, K.C., and the happy pair intend spending the honeymoon in Wales. Mr. George Lauri is again Barry, and Mr. Claude Bantock convulses the house with his "Rajah of Bhong." The part of Douglas Verity fell to Mr. W. S. Percy. Miss Rose Musgrove, Miss Evelyn Scott, Miss Nellie Wilson, Miss Mabel Morgan, and Mr. Fred Young were all in the cast, and Mr. Gerard Coventry directed the performance.

MR. GEORGE STEPHENSON'S London Musical Comedy Company finished on the 20th, when an enthusiastic house at the Palace called on Mr. Edward Lauri, Mr. Charles McNaughton, and Miss May Beatty for speeches prior to their departure for England in the China on the 26th. The stage hands presented Mr. Lauri with a handsome three bottle tantalus, he giving each of them a sovereign purse, and from Mr. McNaughton each received a silver match-box. "Auld Lang Syne" was sung, and then everybody went home.

MR. GEORGE WILLOUGHBY, who is appearing in The Man from Mexico at the Criterion, was lately married to Miss Kenna, of Bathurst, sister of the operatic baritone, Mr. P. Bathurst.

MR. BLAND HOLT sees no reason for withdrawing The Prodigal Son from the Royal stage, but when he deems it necessary he will produce For England, a spectacular and military play.

THE Tivoli saw last week the advent of Blake and Granville, who created a favourable impression in The Man in Possession, and Miss Elaine Brown, who sings acceptably. The Homer B. Mason-Keller company is still appearing in Hooked by Crook, and a long list of artists includes Fanny Powers, the Carnos, Larola, Rose Cabani, Slade Murray, Fred Bluett, Warner Sisters, Baby Cooper, Baby Sutton, Harry Sadler, Tambo and Tambo, and the Cathedral Choristers. Mr. Harry Rickards is now on his way to England.

A REVIVAL of Shakespeare in operatic form seems imminent. Carl Goldmark, it is said, has recently completed a lyric-drama founded on The Tempest, and called Caliban, while Engelbert Humperdinck is at present engaged in writing an opera based on The Merchant of Venice. Among Shakespearean plays which have already been wedded to music, Nicolai's Merry Wives of Windsor, Verdi's Othello Gounod's Romeo et Juliette, and Ambroise Thomas's Hamlet may be recalled.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, July 2,
the Drama by Henry Pettitt and Augustus Harris, entitled
"A MILLION OF MONEY."

For the second week of his season Mr. Eade Montefiore has chosen another favourite piece, A Million of Money, which is played by a talented company and staged in a most effective manner. As is usual with the Drury-lane dramas, a good opening for scenic effect is always provided, and the Exhibition Fête is an especially fine set. Mr. H. Hamilton Stewart in the leading rôle of Harry Dunstable gives a manly and earnest portrayal of the character, and is the central figure throughout. Miss Doris Gilham plays Mary, Dunstable's wife, in a sweetly pathetic manner, and creates a very good impression. Miss Cecil Cromwell has a fine part to score in as Stella St Clair, and she makes full use of her opportunities, playing with great force. In the scene in which Stella is denounced by Dunstable, she gives a really fine piece of dramatic acting which is greatly applauded. The scheming Major Belgrave is neatly hit off by Mr. W. F. Grant, while Mr. Leslie Carter scores by his clever delineation of Geoffrey St. Clair. It is quite one of the best things in the play, being marked by admirable restraint. That amusing comedian, Mr. Victor Widdicombe, appears as Dick Bounder, and he plays in his usual breezy style and with every success. Mr. Frank M. Wood is good as Whetstone, the solicitor. Hetty is delightfully embodied by Miss Amy Grace, who is equally effective in pathetic and light comedy scenes. Mr. George Percy is successful as Tom Cricklewood, and Mr. W. Beckwith is seen to advantage as the Rev. Maythorne. Mr. Murray Carrington does well in the small part of Frank Hastings, while Miss Viola Finne is acceptable as a gipsy girl. The other characters are ably filled, and the stage management is highly creditable.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, July 2,
The Drama, in Five Acts, entitled
"HOW LONDON LIVES."

That the engagement this week of Mr. Ernest Norris's company in the above successful drama is a popular "booking" is amply testified by the large audiences. Excellently acted, the play from start to finish goes with a swing, and the attention of the audience is closely held throughout. Clever Mr. Ernest E. Norris successfully plays the part of Happy Jack Ferrers, being frequently applauded for the effective delivery of his telling lines, while Jack's happy disposition under trying circumstances leads to much real comedy. Mr. Fewlass Llewellyn, as Colonel Sir George Ferrers, acts with dignity and earnestness that carries conviction; and in the rôle of Stephen Grainger Mr. Oscar Adye gives a finished impersonation. Mr. William Burchill does well as Lieutenant Harry Maxwell; and Mr. William Stevens, as the Pawnbroker, is very good. Mr. Thomas Ball gives a clever study of a drunken gentleman; while Mr. Arthur Wilson as Bertie and Mr. Cecil Jordan as Gus cause much merriment in their respective parts. Messrs. Harold Wagner, Arthur Dudley, Tom Wallis, and Harry Royce are typical newsboys; and Mr. Edward Snow is efficient as a Police Inspector. In the exacting rôle of Gladys, Miss Theresa Osborne is seen to advantage, and quickly gains the sympathy of the audience by her pathetic rendering of the part. Miss Georgie de Lara is admirably placed as the scheming Lady Ferrers, and acquits herself with distinction; Miss Alice Spry capably sustains the part of Mollie Crockett; Miss Gladys King is amusing as Mrs. Delaney; Miss Gabrielle Rômeo is good as Maudie; and Miss Florrie Green, as Katie, plays her part with much expression.

DALSTON THEATRE.

On Monday, July 2,
the Play, entitled
"CALLED BACK."

Mr. Henry Bedford and the members of his company are interesting Dalston audiences this week with the exciting play, entitled Called Back. This of course is an adaptation of the late Hugh Conway's well-known novel, but no reference to the original author or to the adaptor appears on the programme. The presentment of the play, however, is very good indeed. Mr. Henry Bedford appears as Dr. Manuel Ceneri, and gives an interesting and effective rendering of the part. Mr. J. Monkhouse appears as Macari, and Mr. Howard Sidney represents Petroff, Italian conspirators. Mr. Alec Alexander ably embodies the blind Gilbert Vaughan, who subsequently has his sight restored, and is the accusing witness in regard to the murder, in which the chief interest of the play is centred. Mr. Walter H. Domoney seems to revel in the part of Arthur Kenyon, Vaughan's merry friend. Mr. George W. Hewetson represents Anthony March, who is murdered in the first act, and Miss Bessie Bedford is that unfortunate man's sister, Pauline March. Miss Bedford acts the part with dramatic effect. The cast also includes Miss Jennie Risley, Miss Frances Foley, Mr. Sid Bedford, Mr. George Howard, and Mr. B. Leonard Page.

LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, July 2,
the Drama, by Geo. R. Sims and Henry Pettitt, entitled
"MASTER AND MAN."

The exciting drama, Master and Man, played by the Lyric stock company, is much appreciated by Hammersmith playgoers. Mr. Henry Herne as the young engineer, Jack Walton, is very successful, acting with earnestness and spirit, and winning the sympathy of the audience from the commencement of the play. Mr. Fred Morgan, who is responsible for the part of Robert Carlton, gives a quiet, yet telling picture of the villainous ironmaster. A good opportunity of showing his ability is taken advantage of by Mr. H. H. Barrington, who sustains the rôle of Humpy Logan, and skilfully portrays the scheming cripple. Miss Minnie Grey is a pathetic Hester Thornbury, to which character she imparts a winning grace and sweetness. A well-studied portrayal of the rough, but good-hearted mechanic, Jim Burleigh, is submitted by Mr. Fred Waller; Mr. Willie Scott as Tom Honeywood, and Miss Ella Seton as Letty Lightfoot, are suitably placed in humorous rôles. They are assisted in their laughter-making by Mr. Ashton Whiteman, who, as Crispin St. Jones, is decidedly good. Commendation is also due to Misses Bertha Baker, Florence Lovel, and Messrs. John Cayne, Sydney Sinclair, Leonard Morris, H. Whiteman, Major Mason, and Chas. Hetherington, all of whom, in their several parts, showing considerable talent.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, July 2,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Clarence Burnette, entitled
"A GAMBLER'S DAUGHTER."

The attraction this week at the Elephant is the drama A Gambler's Daughter, somewhat new to London, and quite so to this theatre. The piece is strong in sensational incidents, and in many powerful scenes depicts the ruin and misery brought about by drinking and gambling. These are tempered by a good deal of comedy, which evokes considerable laughter. Miss Adria Hill, who, with Mr. Robert Ayrton, heads the capable company, gives an excellent reading, first as mother, then as daughter. In the first act the pathos of the character is well manifested, while later as Miriam, the daughter, her love-making, with its light touches of comedy, and, when needed, her more serious acting, are much appreciated. Mr. Robert Ayrton gives a clever portrayal of the light-hearted Irishman, Desmond O'Dare, and whether pathetic or humorous he wins unqualified applause by his careful acting. Mr. Harry Barham submits a finished impersonation as Captain Stanhope; Mr. Alfred Sanders as Solomon Solomons, a Jew, is responsible for much of the fun of the evening; while Miss Harriet Loydall as Zeb, a negress, gives an unforced and pleasant reading. As Stephen Brand, Mr. Lincoln Calthorpe portrays the villainy of the character with marked skill; Mr. Richard Pitt is effective as the drunken gambler, John Grant; while as his son Jack, Mr. Victor Millard is successful. Mr. Vincent Carlyle gives a capital reading of the part of Ralph Gillman, an American capitalist. Numerous other characters are ably sustained.

THE CORONET.

On Monday, July 2,
the Comedy, in Three Acts, by Capt. Robert Marshall, entitled
"HIS EXCELLENCY THE GOVERNOR."

After the season of French plays, in which Mme. Jane Hading and company appeared, this theatre has once more reverted to its customary fare in the form of the typical English comedy, from the facile pen of Robert Marshall, His Excellency the Governor. Preceding this comedy comes a very clever and amusing little sketch à la "Musketeers," entitled Waste of Time, in which sundry members of the company, which is enrolled from six of the best-known London theatres, appear with great éclat. Messrs. Lionel Mackinder (Gaiety), Lennox Pawle (Prince of Wales's), James Blakeley (Daly's), H. Marsh Allen (Haymarket), Loring Fernie (Criterion), and Littledale Power (New), comprise this sextet, who sing and dance and recite most agreeably and entertainingly. In Capt. Robert Marshall's satirical comedy of the Amandaland Islands, with its mock-heroic muddling, and the midsummer madness, induced by the yellow dust of the aloes, causing all and sundry to be touched by a tender passion, a capital company does full justice to the daring wit of the author. Mr. Loring Fernie acts with his usual energy and vehemence, tempered with an appropriate air of calm, dispassionate officialdom, as His Excellency, Sir Montague Martin, G.C.S.I., Governor of the Amandaland Islands. Mr. Lennox Pawle is very funny as the unctuous old politician, Right Hon. Henry Carlton, M.P., who is one of the many victims of Cupid's shafts. Mr. H. Marsh Allen makes an excellent impression as the smart young A.D.C., Captain Charles Carew, who comes in with a wet sail in the Ethel Carlton matrimonial race. Mr. Lionel Mackinder is highly diverting as John Baverstock, the Private Secretary, whose inky inspiration and inventive genius stand no chance against the eloquence and ardour of a handsome young military aspirant for matrimonial honours. Mr. James Blakeley is content with the small part of a sentry, which he magnifies, however, into quite a little character-sketch. Miss Janet Alexander is very sweet as the much sought-after Ethel Carlton; and Miss Ethel Mat thews is both pretty and pert as the smart actress, Stella de Gex, or "the evening star." Miss Dolly Jones enacts the part of the acerbic Mrs. Wentworth-Bolingbroke, satisfactorily. Mr. Littledale Power as Captain Rivers and Mr. Arthur Willoughby as Major Kildare also do all that is required of them.

THE GRAND.

On Monday, July 2,
the Drama, by the late J. R. Murray, entitled
"THE LUCK OF LIFE."

Mr. Reginald H. Adair's company in the above drama forms the current attraction at the Grand, where the popular-price policy has proved a great success, and good houses are the result. The drama, which is staged in a very complete and elaborate manner, is admirably adapted for popular audiences, and is excellently interpreted by a very good company. Mr. Polson Turner as Bahadoor, an Indian, submits a good performance; Mr. Roland Yorke as Bazilovitch portrays that unpleasant rôle with great intensity and effect; Mr Fred Danvers, who is starring, is a comedian of skill and resource, and his efforts to amuse are very successful, his song and dance gaining an enthusiastic reception. Mr. Leonard Thackeray as Petroff is good; as is Mr. A. Cuthbertson as Powlowski; and Mr. T. Willaine as Stanhope is satisfactory. Miss Gertie Bonsor as the Countess Vlaine is excellent in a trying part, acting with great power; Miss Adelaide Clair as Vivienne deserves commendation for a good piece of acting; Miss Dora Huggett as Laura North causes considerable amusement; and Miss Mary Pawson as Réne Bazilovitch gives a performance of merit. The remaining members of a large cast are all adequate, and a very favourable reception is accorded the drama.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, July 2,
The Spectacular and Military Drama, entitled
"DISHONOURED."

The attraction this week at this popular playhouse is Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr. J. Leicester Jackson's company in the above drama. Dishonoured is full of the varied incidents which are beloved of popular audiences, and abounds in comic relief and strong appeals to patriotism. Mr. Percy Ballard gives a capital embodiment of the hero, Captain Philip Cunningham, who is so foully wronged; Mr. Jackson-Hayes presents a careful study of the villainous Lieutenant Pentland, justly exciting the righteous ire of "the gods"; Miss Violet Cranford is successful in the part of the devoted heroine and Red Cross Nurse, Leslie Maynard, and she also acts with much effect the part of the ill-starred Indian maiden Azeemah in the prologue. Ann Maria is played with humour by Miss Pollie Denville; and Mr. Val Gully is amusing as the faithful servant Jem Stokes. Mr. Cecil Morand gives a good character-sketch as the villain's accomplice Mike Farthing; Mr. T. Salaman presents a good rendering of the good-hearted Lieutenant Cholmondley, "the fool of the regiment"; and Mr. A. Raymond Shaw is impressive as the Hindoo Ayuskim. Mr. Geoff Broughton presents a dignified portrait of the old Colonel Sir William Cunningham. In Act III. there is a concert, in which the various items are acceptably rendered by Miss Georgie Allen, and Messrs. Val Gully, Cecil Morand, and T. Salaman.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, July 2,
The Drama, in Four Acts,
Adapted from Mrs. Henry Wood's Novel,
"EAST LYNNE."

East Lynne is a drama which it seems safe to prophesy will never lose its hold on the affections of the play-going public. Though always sure of a hearty welcome in Marylebone, nevertheless it must have been very gratifying to the capable members of Messrs. Armitage and Leigh's company to find such an enthusiastic house awaiting them. In the rôle of Lady Isabel Miss Julie Kennard is remarkably successful; her varying gestures and intonations of voice prove her complete sympathy with the character she is portraying, whilst the mother's tender solicitude for her dying child is delightfully natural. Miss Violet Thorold is sufficiently engaging as Barbara Hare; Miss A. Byrom is quietly effective as the faithful Joyce; Miss Emily Frith is bright and cheery as Suzanne; Miss Dorothy Townrow is an intelligent little Willie; and Miss Ethel Hardacre is effectively prim and precise as the well-meaning Cornelia Carlyle. As Archibald Carlyle Mr. Alfred Beaumont is dignified and reserved, his conception of the character being admirable; Mr. Paul Belmore gives a capital representation of the fussy, irascible Justice Hare; Mr. Campbell Goldsmid is full of determined energy as the much-wronged Richard Hare, and Mr. Cyril Hayward is well placed as Lawyer Dill. The P.-C. Bullock of Mr. C. C. Gratton is a performance full of broad comedy and humour, whilst Mr. Eric Mayne enacts Sir Francis Levison in a cool calculating manner, his elocution being specially fine, and his methods resourceful and well-thought out.

ELOCUTION AT THE POLYTECHNIC.

For twenty-two years past Mr. and Mrs. S. Hasluck have had the privilege to enlist the services of some prominent member of "the" profession to act as honorary examiner at the annual recitals of the students of the Polytechnic School of Elocution, the consent of the late Sir Henry Irving having been obtained to officiate at this year's function. Mr. H. B. Irving, with his respected father's generous spirit, kindly stepped into the breach, and on Saturday afternoon last at the Queen's (Small) Hall awarded the Polytechnic's two silver medals, six first-class certificates, and four second class certificates.

In making the awards, Mr. Irving said, "The most trying part of this afternoon's performance is over, and now it is my turn, and I rather envy those who have finished. For the manner in which the dozen performers have acquitted themselves this afternoon I have nothing but praise. Their task has been a most difficult one, inasmuch as by their elocutionary powers alone they have to make themselves entertaining without those aids we enjoy in our theatres. What they have to do they have to do well, and not only to interest their hearers but to make themselves thoroughly understood. The task of a judge where all are so good is made all the more difficult, and he must look beyond the influence of a mere personality. Students in choosing their examination pieces are apt to strain after 'effect,' and forget there are other salient points in the art they are studying, and a critical judge has to consider in a student's portrayal of character what is aimed at. To make my point clearer I will take, for instance, the admirable impersonation of Poor Joe from Dickens' 'Bleak House,' by Miss Alice Mellish. That is a character easy to interest an audience with. I am agreeably surprised at the general excellence of all that has been done this afternoon, which reflects the highest credit on the students and their instructors, Mr. and Mrs. Hasluck, alike. Therefore, where all are so good, one's decision must be relative to the piece chosen. Given another occasion and before another judge the unsuccessful candidates for the medal will no doubt gain the much-coveted prize. I, however, think you will agree with me that the silver medal should be given to Miss Laura Godfree, whose delineation of Ophelia's mad scene was throughout easy, sympathetic, intelligent, discreet, and sweetly pathetic—for it has been said that Ophelia when mad was sweet. The other silver medal for gentlemen I have awarded to the gentleman with the most auspicious name—Mr. Ernest Wellbeloved, for it was a real pleasure to listen to his recital of 'The Seven Ages of Man,' with which I was much impressed. Now there are the first and second class certificates; these I have awarded as follows: First class certificates to Miss Rita Gallally, Miss Nancy Tripp, Miss Alice Mellish, Miss Lillian Church, Miss Ethel Chandler, and Mr. Arthur W. Steed; Second class certificates to Mrs. Sweasey, Miss Rosa Smith-Rose, Mr. W. Francis James, and Mr. William J. Douglas. Those in the second class must not be downhearted, for somebody's got to be second, and they, in course of time, will assuredly be first. I think a second class is rather a good place, for I now remember I was in the 'second' when at Oxford; therefore do not be discouraged. I am much impressed with the fact that I could hear every word that was said this afternoon, and my advice to all students of elocution is to aim at making every word heard and understood, and not to sacrifice feeling and discretion in order to over-emphasise unimportant words."

Mr. S. Hasluck, in a witty speech, proposed a vote of thanks to Mr. Irving, which was seconded by Miss Laura Godfree, who in feeling terms thanked Mr. Irving for the honour he had so unexpectedly bestowed on her. Miss Godfree also paid a high tribute of affectionate regard to Mrs. Hasluck.

ROYAL COLLEGE PATRONS' FUND.

At Queen's Hall on Tuesday evening the sixth concert was given of the Royal College of Music Patrons' Fund for the performance of works by native musicians under the age of forty. On this occasion no fewer than seven compositions were heard, the composers represented being Mr. Carse, educated at the Royal Academy of Music; Messrs. Carey, Gibson, and Morris, at the Royal College of Music; Mr. Speaight, at the Guildhall School of Music. Messrs. Gardiner and Hazlehurst have studied abroad and privately in England. Of the various pieces given on Tuesday night, by far the most important were Mr. Hazlehurst's Overture, Mr. Gardiner's two songs, and Mr. Carse's Symphony. The Overture, "When the heart is Young," by Cecil Hazlehurst, is perhaps the best orchestral work yet produced at these concerts. It contains a wealth of melody, the scoring reveals undoubted ability, and the music well indicates the feeling suggested by the title Mr. Hazlehurst has chosen for his Overture. Mr. A. von Ahn Carse has before given frequent proof of his talent during the days of his training at the Royal Academy, but on this occasion he attempts—and with success—a work of a more serious character. The Symphony in C Minor contains ideas that should bring the young composer to the front. Of the four movements, melody of no little beauty is shown in the clever Adagio Maestoso, while throughout the Symphony Mr. Carse reveals musicianly talent of a high order in his able scoring for the wind instruments. Mr. Balfour Gardiner's two songs, "When the lad for longing sighs" and "The Recruit," with orchestral accompaniments, were an undoubted success; indeed, "The Recruit," with a bright and pleasing refrain, sung in a most spirited manner by Mr. Frederic Austin, proved so entirely to the taste of the audience that an irresistible encore followed. The other compositions were a not particularly interesting Symphonic Rhapsody by Mr. Henry Gibson—an ambitious work for the orchestra somewhat beyond the present power of the composer, who attempts too much in giving expression to the poem of Owen Meredith which gives the motive to the Rhapsody. Mr. J. Speaight, however, may be congratulated on his two clever violoncello solos, "Even Song" and "Spinning Song," admirably interpreted by Mr. Charles Warwick-Evans; and Mr. T. F. Morris for his brilliant playing of two characteristic pieces, for violin andorchestra, of his own composition. The four vocal quartets of Mr. F. C. Carey, on poems by W. E. Henley, proved the least attractive of the works performed at the concert. The executants were Miss Gladys Honey, Miss Dorothea Kershaw, Mr. Spencer Thomas, and Mr. Robert Chignell. All the pieces performed were conducted by their respective composers, with the exception of the violin solos of Mr. Thomas Morris, which were conducted by Sir Charles V. Stanford.

A BISHOP ON THE BARD.

A special meeting of the British Empire Shakespeare Society was held on Monday afternoon at the Garrick Theatre, kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. Arthur Bourchier. Mr. Sidney Lee (President) occupied the chair, and there was a large attendance.

Miss Ellen Terry, looking very charming in black and cream lace, with a shady-brimmed crinoline hat, sat between the Chairman and Sir Squire Bancroft, while Lady Bancroft occupied the seat on the left of the chair. The Bishop of Ripon, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Miss Violet Vanbrugh, Mr. Forbes-Robertson, Mr. Acton Bond, Mr. Joseph Knight, and Miss Morritt were also present on the stage, and Miss Marion Terry was in front of the house The Dean of Westminster occupied a box.

The Chairman, in opening the proceedings, reminded those present that the Society was founded in 1901 with the object of extending throughout the Empire the knowledge and appreciation of Shakespeare's works. The methods adopted combined the serious study of their text with social recreation, the members, after rehearsal, giving readings to more or less public audiences.

Lady Bancroft then presented the prizes as follows:—

For Elocution: Miss Mary Webb (professional), Miss Winifred Rae (amateur), Mr. Lewis Casson.

For Essay (Senior prizes): Miss E. O. Browne (Worcester Branch), Miss Sarah A. Robinson (Whitelands College). Honourably mentioned, Miss Eleanor R. Denham. Junior prize, Miss Gladys Schlesman (London).

The prizes for Elocution are generously given by Mr. J. M. Dent, Mr. John Murray, and Mr. Bernard Quaritch. The Essay prizes are offered annually by the President, who himself sets the subjects.

The Bishop of Ripon, after acknowledging the kind way in which the Chairman had spoken of him, said he came there in all simplicity and attachment to the movement initiated and carried on with so much vigour, energy, and enthusiasm by Miss Morritt and her associates. It was an organisation which must endear itself to the minds and sympathies of those who desired that the noblest ideals of the drama should be placed before our countrymen, as there was a fear lest the things which had been so good should degenerate in our hands, and that future generations might speak of them as a feeble folk, who did not know how to appreciate at its true value the great inheritance which Providence had handed down to them. The existence of that Society was a proof that many were willing to study Shakespeare earnestly and seriously. And when he made use of that word "seriously" he did so in no mere professional sense—he meant it with the most absolute sincerity, because, in the first instance, he should like to plead this: that all people who attempt to look into the great products of the past and observe what kind of gifts have been handed down to us are bound to bring a serious and earnest attention in order that they may appreciate and that they may learn. It was unworthy to treat the great literature of the past as the tripper treated the great monuments he saw in foreign lands. To give a casual glance, to make a note in a memorandum book that they had seen the Coliseum, was surely to deal unworthily by so majestic a monument of the dignity of the past. And, whether he looked at a fine statue, or a great picture, or a noble cathedral, he felt he was bound to bring to it that seriousness of attention which befits fine expression in form, colour, or dignity of magnificence. And so he would plead in every case for a serious mind in the study of the great works of the past; and might he say this: that he would like especially to put in a plea for seriousness in the study of the great literature of the past? The other monuments, the monuments of the other arts, come to us with a kind of impressive exterior. After all, it was hard not to feel something like reverence in the presence of a majestic cathedral. But when one picked up a book at quite a cheap price, perhaps with some discount given if purchased through our bookseller, one felt that such cheap literature was often looked upon askance and was deemed rather to take its place amongst those—what should he call them?—sixpenny romances which are to be hurried through. But, surely, because a work comes to us in so simple and so cheap a form, because the greatest creations of the minds of the past are now accessible to the simplest and the poorest—this, instead of being a reason for treating our studies lightly, should be a reason for regarding them with a deeper reverence. For, just as he found Heaven's noblest gifts are those which come without money and without price, so he should say that the noblest gifts of the minds of the past are given to us practically freely to-day. So much the more as he reverenced God's air and God's sky and God's sunshine, so would he bring the same spirit of reverence to bear when he marked how God's highest order of creation has produced some wonderful work. This was a plea for seriousness of study, and, happily, the British Empire Shakespeare Society encouraged that seriousness; and when he pleaded for it in relation to Shakespeare he could not help calling to mind the words which the first President of the Society, the late lamented Sir Henry Irving, used when he spoke of the value of Shakespeare—for Shakespeare was not like a writer of distant time, who was removed from our own affairs; for, in point of fact, his life lived, as it were, in our thoughts, and his words were to be found in our speech; and, what was more, if we could enter into his spirit we would gather unending lessons of that noble charity which is the highest inspiration of our religion. And in that way, therefore, he felt, in speaking to them of Shakespeare, he might with all earnestness, impress not only upon those who are members of the British Empire Shakespeare Society, but upon all those who would perhaps support it by becoming members hereafter, that, whatever they did, they should treat Shakespeare with the reverence with which he treated life and mankind, and that they should not do the injury of levity, he being so majestic as he is. He (the Bishop) had been announced to give an address on "Shakespeare's Plays," but to deal with such a vast variety would, he confessed, be beyond the scope of his powers, and would also be a severe trial to their patience. Shakespeare was the supreme dramatic genius of the world, and if he held the mirror up to nature, it was for the sake of reflection, and, he would add, self-reflection. Therefore, he expected when he looked into his pages that he would give some lessons on that art of all arts, the art of living. He desired to limit his thoughts that afternoon to Shakespeare as a teacher of the art of living. Attempts had been made to disentangle the genuine Shakespeare from the dramatist, and judging from his writings some had considered him to be a most melancholy person, and they urged in support of their view such lines as "Let's talk of worms and graves and epitaphs. Make dust our paper, and with rainy eyes write sorrow on the bosom of the world." Of course, he was ready to admit—and he was quite sure their Chairman would admit also—that it would not be at all impossible to make out a good case for that—that is to say, if one could rely upon quotations and upon the characters that spoke to us in such melancholy fashion. He could imagine himself sitting down amongst the company of the exiled Duke, and then he was sure he should hear their melancholy friend expressing so many of the sad and trite utterances which they were so familiar with, and he should be told it was in such passages as these that the real Shakespeare speaks. And, indeed, he remembered that Shakespeare puts into the lips of some the cry that all life is vanity, and that we are such stuff as dreams are made of. He knew well that he would be told that there are times in which we are to the gods very much what the flies are to wanton boys, and in sport they kill us. And he could also imagine, though the poet did not speak it so clearly, that even the very highest joys of life, like the joys of love, were always unsatisfactory in some form or another; either people were unequally matched in character, or in circumstance; or, even if all things converged to make a match one of genuine simple affection, yet even there stood the vanity of life that came in to mar it, all making those joys momentary as sound, fleeting as shadow, short as any dream. In all this, and perhaps in that bitterest saying of all that falls from Wolsey's mouth, the sorrow and the sadness—and should he say the unworthiness?—of life finds expression when the old Cardinal, speaking of the misplaced Bishop, says, "He was a fool, but he aimed at virtue." He knew nothing that speaks with greater sarcasm or sardonic belief in the vanity of the world equal to that utterance. So he could imagine one might hold a brief in behalf of that; and so, as he read his Shakespeare he heard a melancholy voice everywhere, and he would be inclined to agree with the modern who says, "Life is not worth living." He demurred to that conclusion. He would be sorry to accept it, for he could not build anything solid on that. It could, on the other hand, and again with ample quotations to support the view, be asserted that Shakespeare was an optimist, enjoying life royally, taking delight in the beauties of Nature. Even then the thesis would have no solid foundation. He looked on Shakespeare as many-minded; the dramatist appeared to him in so many masks that he found it difficult to say which was the true face. Such theories as he had mentioned had first been evolved and then sought to be proved, and he distrusted that method of arguing. But if the message of Shakespeare was neither melancholy nor cheerful, where did he find the assurance that Shakespeare was giving an adequate teaching in the art of life? He might go to the Sonnets as expressing the soul of the poet, and then select from the Plays passages in accord with them, but he preferred not to build on any doubtful foundation. He was therefore thrown back on a prosaic method, on the simple facts to be gathered from what we knew of Shakespeare's life. He was born at Stratford-on-Avon in the year 1564, came to London when he was twenty-five—having been married at eighteen—a rash proceeding for a young man. He applied for a patent to use a coat-of-arms in 1596, and next year he purchased a new house, which was said to be the finest in Stratford, while by the year 1611 he was possessed of considerable property in his native town. Did not that indicate prosperity due to prudence and sagacity? The actor living in the generous atmosphere of the theatre was not always thrifty-minded. Then, too, what self-restraint there was in what we know of Shakespeare's life! For twenty-eight years he worked hard, and then went back to his birthplace, to rest, realising that life should be divided into three parts, a period of preparation, a period of production, and a period of repose. He assumed, therefore, that Shakespeare was neither carried away by the passion of melancholy nor by the passion of the joie de vivre—he was a self-possessed, common-sense, prudent, sagacious soul. If that were true, it gave cause to distrust the theory which declared that genius was symptomatic of insanity. Would all madmen were wise enough, like Shakespeare, to provide for a rainy day! Among the lower order of genius eccentricity might be predicated, but the great genius was accompanied by "a large and wholesome sanity," as shown in Dante and Milton, and which was a very strong force, and a very powerful influence in the plays and in the life and mind of William Shakespeare. Having reached that conclusion, then he saw in Shakespeare not a melancholy person, who gives way to his melancholy and sits down and morbidly complains that life is such a bad sort of thing. If, on the other hand, he found that Shakespeare was a man who had been able to disengage himself from the mere attractive joys of the world, that he possessed a good strong piece of common-sense within his nature, then when he came back to his plays and asked, What is his teaching concerning life? he thought he had taken possession of something which might be a silver thread to guide him, and that he should not be selecting at haphazard quotations to prove his point, because his point as to the sagacity and sanity of Shakespeare seemed to him to be established on independent grounds. What then would Shakespeare teach us concerning life? He would say that we were beings possessed of emotions and judgment. He would not have us ignore our emotions, for they are messengers of sweetness, power, and experience, but he would have us live our life in fulness, and take it as it came. If it presented joy, he would have us enjoy it; if sorrow, we should endure it. But whatever we did, he would have us remember that royal prerogative of our nature, judgment, and self-control. Live while you live. "Yes," continued the speaker, "I think he would say that—take up the joys of life. For when I open a play, for instance, like Love's Labour's Lost, what do I find? And I speak with the authority, I think, of Professor Dowden. I find that here you have a play which indeed criticises the follies and passions of his own time; but under it there is a serious suggestion of this—that it is a bad thing to try and introduce artificial restraints in life. Shakespeare is no friend of, shall I say? the Puritan or the ascetic, who would say to you, 'Life is full of pleasures and joys, and therefore avoid them.' On the contrary, it seems to me as if he said, 'You cannot play with Nature, for God has made you with capacity for joy, and you cannot resist any great tendency of Nature without suffering from it somewhere'; and those who have dreamt that they could produce good by a series of, what shall I call it?—artificial and arbitrary restraints are those who are likely to provoke a tragedy in the long run. And as I listen to that sort of thing expressed generally throughout that play, I find myself also remembering that he has a kind of suspicion always of the people who cannot, who do not, possess the capacity for enjoyment. Why, if he cannot love music he thinks there is something bad about the man. The man that does not love music is fit for treasons, stratagems, and spoils. And I suppose it is the same sort of thing which makes him imagine that the lean kine of the world are to be suspected. Let me have men about me that are fat! Surely that means that he realises, or he thinks he does, that there is something suspicious in his mind concerning men that seem to be putting themselves arbitrarily outside the natural enjoyment of life. And is not that a reason why he presented to us Falstaff as amiably as he did? Don't you think he had a little sympathy with that immense capacity for enjoying things in the gloriously unscrupulous way that Falstaff did? Yes, I think there was a touch of sympathy in his portrayal of our friend Falstaff. So far as I can see, he would certainly say to you, 'Take this enjoyment of life.' But he would equally say to you—yes, and more strongly, if I have judged him rightly—'Remember that, although these joys are indeed to be enjoyed—and it would not be natural that you should do otherwise than enter into them fully'; and he would echo that apostolic thought that 'God gave us all things richly to enjoy'; yet he would say, also, 'At the same time, remember this: these very emotions which are capable of such exquisite pleasures are also capable of plunging you down into the deepest and most abject misery; and remember also that it is precisely here in the possession of these things when they take possession of you and lead you away, it is in that direction that lies the tragedy of life nine times out of ten.' Therefore, when he portrays life, he seems to say to us, 'Enjoy, but hold your own judgment in self-possession all the while.' Why, what do I find? I find that, as I watch these tragedies, the most characteristic feature, I think, of them all is this—that he does make the tragedy in the majority of cases turn upon some passion, some emotion, some weakness of the character, which ends, as it were, in, or leads on to, tragedy. It may be Marc Antony. Here is a man who can enjoy grossly down to the verge of sensuality; and such a man found his tragedy, as you know, written there. And Shakespeare points also to that nobler kind of passion which leads astray, such pride, for instance, as that of Coriolanus—for, nevertheless, pride is a passion. Here, also, we see that a passion not held in control will lead to a terrible end. So, too, with ambition, which is uppermost, perhaps, in Richard III.—that also is a passion which carries him away, and which ends, of course, in the tragedy. All the cruelties and all the wrongs which follow upon the indulgence of that lead on to the end of the story. Then, passing on from those passions, which are the passions, more or less, of strong men, I think we find that Shakespeare has a kind of disdain for that weak emotionalism which betokens a feebler character. In Richard II., for instance, we see a man, as Coleridge reminded us, full to overflowing of his emotions; and instead of restraining them, and keeping them back so that they may be a power of energy when the time for action required such help, he allowed them to overflow till they became sources of weakness; and then his temper broke forth in wild menaces, and he lost, as it were, the strength and the stalwartness of character. And in the hours of emergency he is ready to change from one course to another as a man is who has lost his power of judgment and surrendered himself to the emotions of a self-pitying passion. These things to me seem to show a kind of caution on the part of Shakespeare as against the indulgence of passion, although, he says, these emotions may be sources of joy. Equally does he warn us against the weakness which arises from the surrender of a man's determining power out of his own hands. You are to be a man. You are to be self-possessed, and your soul is to hold its own against the currents of the world. Therefore the man that is overwhelmed by circumstances, or the man that is over-persuaded by his neighbour, may very likely meet with disaster. And so he pictures all the weak hesitation of Hamlet in the presence of changeful circumstances; and still more when Othello yields to Iago, or Macbeth to his wife. Have we not pictures here of what our Shakespeare would point to as being sources of almost inevitable tragedy, when a man allows the self-directing energy of his own life to pass out of his own hands into the hands of another? And in all this he is not the friend of those who would say, 'Oh, you know, life is too hard, and the powers of life are too strong, and I have to give way.' I do not think Shakespeare was quite the friend of those who blame circumstances. Professor Bradley has pointed out that he does not make use of what we may call external agencies except in support of a tragedy which has already been initiated by moral weakness. He may introduce the witches in Macbeth, but the moral weakness lay in Macbeth's heart before. He may introduce the external agency to heighten the tragedy."

In conclusion the Bishop said: "Shakespeare was no friend of those who said 'Life is too hard' and blamed circumstances. He would not tell Youth to be prepared for perpetual disillusions; he would say: 'Take all the joy God gives you, and be thankful to rejoice in it, but never part with your self-possession. The art of life consists not in a sort of aloofness from the life in which you are plunged, for to feel is to sympathise and grow in character—for we grow by emotions, not by thought—but the emotion must be within your judgment. Then will it minister to you; you must not let yourself go, for that way lie madness and tragedy.' As a poet has said:

"Unless above himself he can erect himself
How small a thing is man."

The moral is that every man should have a sanctuary in the ideal life, in the Divine affection, in something more enduring than the passing joys and sorrows of this world, in the realisation of that Kingdom of God which is larger than earth's little kingdom and embraces more than this little time, and which is within us."

Miss ELLEN TERRY said she felt very proud indeed that it had fallen to her to propose that the best thanks of the meeting be accorded the Bishop of Ripon for his delightful and stimulating address. She added—with emphasis—"One of the most beautiful sermons I ever heard in my life."

The CHAIRMAN said that Mr. George Alexander, who was to have seconded the proposal, was unable to be present owing to an attack of hay-fever.

Professor BOAS then seconded the motion, and the Bishop of Ripon briefly acknowledged the compliment.

Sir SQUIRE BANCROFT, in proposing a vote of thanks to Mr. Arthur Bourchier for the use of the theatre, referred to the eloquent speech to which they had been treated by the Bishop of Ripon. All those connected with the calling to which he himself belonged were indebted to his lordship for the beautiful link he had forged that day between the Church and the Stage. They all thanked him from their hearts, and he would only add, in the words of the great poet, for whom the Bishop shared their love, "My lord, your presence makes us rich." With equal sincerity he had to thank Mr. Bourchier for giving them the opportunity of listening to the delightful address they had so greatly enjoyed. Referring to Mr. Bourchier's able and interesting performance of Shylock, the speaker expressed the hope that he would give further studies from the works of the great magician, who was not "of an age but for all time."

Mr. FORBES ROBERTSON said he had great pleasure in seconding the proposal. They owed Mr. Bourchier a great deal for that afternoon's perfectly delightful entertainment, using the word in a wide sense; for he was sure they all had been most deeply touched by the Bishop of Ripon's address. They had indeed hung upon every word with the greatest interest, and they were deeply grateful, both to him and also to Mr. Bourchier, for lending his theatre.

Mr. BOURCHIER, in reply, said he often wished that instead of being an actor, or, rather, an actor-manager, he had been a critic. If he had been a critic on that occasion, and sent by his editor to report the proceedings, he should have said that Mr. Bourchier, instead of being thanked, should have been warmly congratulated on his stage being selected by the Society for the deliverance of the brilliant address by the Bishop of Ripon. But not being a critic, he must of course change his point of view. It was really a great pleasure to feel that the Church was assisting the Stage to foster a general interest in the educational value of the works of Shakespeare. The theatre managers were beginning to feel the value of this movement, and he gladly admitted they were being seconded by the music hall managers. Before his revival of The Merchant of Venice, he witnessed at an East-End hall a remarkable representation of the play in Yiddish. It was an excellent performance, but in Poplar they gave their own version of Shakespeare, and allowed Shylock in the trial scene to have bets with the jury. The attempt to bring Shakespeare home to the people was to be commended; and he was delighted to lend his theatre to the Society on that occasion.

In the unavoidable absence of Mr. H. B. Irving, Miss Morritt proposed a vote of thanks to the Chairman.

Mr. ACTON BOND seconded the motion.

The CHAIRMAN replied, and the meeting then separated.

DEATH OF MR. MONTGOMERY.

Many members of the theatrical and music hall professions will learn with regret of the death of Mr. Matthew Montgomery, of Liverpool. The deceased gentleman, who had attained the age of sixty-one years, had been confined to his house, 55, Grey-road, Walton, for about a month, and died on Sunday last. He leaves a widow, a daughter, and four sons. The eldest, Mr. Matthew Montgomery, has for years superintended his father's properties—the Rotunda Theatre, the Westminster Music Hall, the Theatre Royal, Breck-road, and other theatrical enterprises, his next younger brother, Mr. Gerald, occupying the position of acting-manager at the Westminster. Some twelve months ago, in consequence of ill-health, the deceased gentleman retired from active interest in business affairs.

Mr. Montgomery was born in Liverpool on March 27, 1845, and consequently has passed his sixty-first year. After finishing his education at the Liverpool Institute, a school from which many men now holding important positions have emanated, Mr. Montgomery entered upon his business career in an insurance office. It was soon evident that the young man's tastes lay in another direction, for on reaching the age of sixteen years he betook himself to sea, and was for nearly four years in the employ of the South Pacific Steamship Company, whose vessels traded about the South American coast, and when the Spanish war broke out in Peru in the sixties his spirit of adventure led him to take part in it.

Subsequently, returning to Liverpool, he became connected with the White Star Line, and was engaged in the fine vessels of that company for some years. One of the most awful marine disasters ever recorded was the loss in April, 1873, of the magnificent liner Atlantic, belonging to the White Star, when hundreds of souls perished off Nova Scotia. Mr. Montgomery was one of the survivors, and his account of the terrible scenes was of a most thrilling nature. Having thoroughly satisfied his longing to see the world, Mr. Montgomery determined to settle down, and in the course of a short time established a mineral water manufactory at Birkenhead, which he successfully carried on for several years. In 1887, however, his inclination underwent another change, and, in partnership with his brother Thomas, he erected and opened at Liverpool the Westminster Music Hall, the manager appointed being the well-known Mr. James Kiernan. In the year 1892 Mr. Montgomery took over the sole control of the place.

Mr. Montgomery the following year opened the Royal in Breck-road, followed soon afterwards by the Royal at Garston, situated a few miles from the centre of Liverpool, and another place of varieties in Linacre-road, Bootle, since demolished for street improvements. Some six years ago his enterprises were added to by his taking over from a limited liability company the old-established Rotunda Theatre, Scotland-road. Mr. Montgomery spent a large sum of money in making the place as comfortable and cosy as possible, and became the pioneer in Liverpool of the now generally adopted plan of good drama at popular prices. With this addition, Mr. Montgomery's theatrical ventures ceased, he believing that he had sufficient to occupy his time.

Evidence of the widespread esteem in which Mr. Montgomery was held was shown on Wednesday, when the funeral took place at Ford Cemetery. Friends and acquaintances in exceedingly large numbers attended to pay a last tribute of respect to one whose unostentatious generosity can only be estimated; for the innumerable kindnesses showered on people by the deceased gentleman were generally done in secret. It is known that the death of Mr. Montgomery has deprived many of a genuine friend, and his memory will be long cherished by not a few whose successful careers have been due to his unhesitating, practical sympathy.

The chief mourners were Matthew, Gerald, Thomas, and Lee Montgomery (sons), Thomas and J. W. Montgomery (brothers), Frank O'Toole (brother-in-law), Edward Morton, Frank McGuinness, Arthur T. Parr, J. Gradwell, John G. Howard (Bent's Brewery Company), W. Burnside (Threlfall's Brewery Company), Dr. Henry M. Bayer, George A. Jones, Edwin W. Smith (Parthenon Music Hall), F. H. Fletcher, G. Allen, and H. E. Viola. It is impossible to mention all those who attended at the graveside, but the following are principal:—Representing the theatrical profession: Messrs. Fred L. Arthur (Queen's Theatre), John Gaffney (Manager, Shakespeare Theatre), J. Waters (representing Mr. Fred Willmot), Percy Boucher (Theatre Royal), W. Hebden, Eric Graham, Tom Coyne, J. Hesselgrave, Smith and Johnson, and J. McGrath. Representing places of business: Robert R. Leitch (David Allen and Sons, Ltd.), H. W. Lambert (Parr Bros.), Henry Hayes (H. Hayes and Son, Ltd.), J. Duffit (W. McCall and Co.), John Williams (J. R. Carmichael and Co.), E. Taylor, E. A. Bainbridge, and W. Langfield (Plough Inn Bowling Club), W. Lovelady (St. Bernard's Association), B. Lipson (Queen Anne Bowling Club), F. Duckitt, and Philip Armstrong. About forty wreaths were sent from all quarters, among them being some from the wife and family, Mr. Fred Willmot, and the staffs of the Rotunda, Royal, and Westminster Theatres. The funeral arrangements were carried out by Messrs. R. McDougall and Co., Ltd., under the direction of Mr. R. H. Leckie.

MISS LOUISE MOODIE.

Miss Louise Moodie, who has just returned from a successful engagement in America, has been very favourably noticed by the critics. A writer in the Chicago Daily News says:—One of the really beautiful performances of the play is a mother—given exquisite loveliness of character and person by Miss Louise Moodie. individuality, and the beauty she threw into the type of sweet old lady outlined in them were all adorable in their surroundings.

MISS RUTH ST. DENIS.

HINDOO DANCES AT THE ALDWYCH.

Miss Ruth St. Denis, the American actress, made her European début at the Aldwych Theatre on Thursday afternoon, under the management of Mr. Charles Frohman. It was a very pleasant little programme that was presented, and it consisted entirely of attractive and picturesque Hindoo dances, accompanied by the enchanting strains of Oriental music, interpreted by the Aldwych Theatre orchestra.

The opening dance bore the title of "The Spirit of the Incense." Bare-footed and white-robed Miss St. Denis made her appearance from behind double curtains, holding in her hand a pan of smoking incense. There was an air of mystery about the whole scene strangely in keeping with what we have heard about the wonderful East. The stage was draped with beautifully worked cloths, and the lady danced upon a huge hand some Indian rug. Slow, dignified, and silent were her movements as she lightly stepped from one repoussé work bronze vase to another to impart to each the spirit of the incense. The religious aroma—if we may use such a term—sent up from these curious censers pervaded one's nostrils and accelerated the imagery of the weird ritual. The effect was rendered still more fanciful and mystic when the dancer's robe and the fumes from the incense-pans were suddenly trans-coloured from white to a vivid purple, the whole spectacle being extremely fascinating. The special music, composed by Mr. H. W. Loomis, contributed much to the charm of the scena.

The second item was "The Cobra, or Snake-Charmer" dance, the incidental music in this instance being furnished by Mr. Theodore Bendix. A masterpiece of the scene-painter's art provides an appropriate background to the scene. A long line of buildings, characteristically Eastern in their solid and handsome architecture, faces the sea. A sea more blue and tranquil there never was, and a clear sky completes a picture of singular loveliness. A couple of gaudily-attired merchants stand by their bazaar of many-coloured oddities languidly offering silks and shawls and other commodities for sale. They cease their bargaining with the entrance of the dancer, and all sit cross-legged on the ground while they watch her exquisitely graceful evolutions. She gives a human representation of a denizen of the jungle—the cobra. It is almost a feat of contortionism, but no words are required to indicate the species of animal she is so well describing by her own powers of symmetry. It is one of the most effective of Miss St. Denis's dances.

A Hindoo temple dance, "Radha," was Miss St. Denis's concluding effort. Radha, it may be mentioned, is the god-like wife of Krishna, one of the favourite deities of the Hindoo religion. A special worship is made to Radha by the Temple priests, who desire to be shown the way of liberation. At the close of their ceremonial rites, while they are prostrate before the shrine, the spirit of Radha enters the idol, and, descending from her pedestal, delivers a message in the form of a mystic dance. The first figure of this dance consists of five circles, each circle typifying one of the five senses. The second figure portrays the three stages of the renunciation of these senses, the determination to be free and the throwing off of bondage. At the end the idol is once more seen in the niche, the spirit of Radha having departed. A very fine limelight effect is employed to reveal Miss St. Denis as Radha on the shrine of Krishna, and of her dancing in this set it need only be said that it is full of expression and character. The scene is splendidly mounted, the magnificent carved pillars and marble canopy over the pedestal of the deity giving to the temple an appearance of grandeur and dignity. This dance is accompanied by the ballet music from Lackme, and among the other old East Indian airs were some arranged by Mr. W. Roderigo and Mr. Carl Kiefert.

THE fact that it is possible to guess the owner of a mouth by its characteristic expression has induced the proprietors of Odol to start a new and most interesting mouth competition. Twenty-four pictures of the mouths of well-known living celebrities, taken from recent photographs, will be depicted, and the competitors will be required to identify the owners of the respective mouths. This competition will be announced in all the most important publications. The prizes offered by the Odol Proprietors are very substantial ones, viz., first prize, £20; second prize, £10; third prize, £5, and fifteen prizes of one guinea, besides consolation prizes.

THE title of "foreign member" has been conferred by the Municipal Academy of Stockholm upon the following composers: Enrico Bossi, Sir Edward Elgar, Carl Nielsen, Rimsky-Korsakoff, and Jean Sibelius. The same distinction has been bestowed upon the "virtuosi," Hugo Becker, Edouard Risler, and Eugène Ysaye.

THE Princess Royal and the Duke of Fife were present at the performance of Pagliacci and Les Deux Pigeons at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, on Monday evening.

ACTOR AND MAORI CHIEF.

CHAT WITH MR. J. J. DALLAS.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER.)

The sunburnt face, the lively manner, the sprightly gait, the look of health and of holiday-making all conspired to tell the tale of a very happy and successful trip to the antipodes.

"You've had a jolly good time, Mr. Dallas?"

"Yes, I'm certain that Australia and New Zealand are the solution of the unemployed question."

The unemployed question was flung at us with such abruptness that we ventured to inquire if the speaker had made an immense pile of money in Australia and now intended to expend some of it in a political career.

"Seriously, there is work waiting for everybody—miles and miles of land undeveloped, and you get land given to you. The temperature in Australia is practically the same as in England, and in New Zealand the climate is still more delightful. Canada's not in it with these countries. Why don't Britishers emigrate to Australia?"

"I don't know; but can I persuade you to say why you emigrated there, what you did when you got there, and why, if it's such a lovely country, you ever condescended to come back to dismal London?"

"New Zealand's the most beautiful country I've ever struck. The soil is most prolific. I believe if you planted a box of matches there'd be a fine crop of asparagus in a week!"

There is an ulterior reason for Mr. Dallas's fulsome adulation. The fact is, Mr. Dallas is himself a high dignitary of New Zealand. He is no less than a Maori chief, in spite of the fact that he has not yet had time to procure ear-rings nor get his face and hands tattooed.

"The Maoris are quick to recognise ability, Mr. Dallas."

Chief Dallas laughed. "It happened in Rotorua, in North New Zealand, where we came across the wonderful hot springs and geysers. At the ceremony, when the honour was conferred, the people of the tribe danced round me shrieking and chanting a strange and dissonant refrain."

We suggested that Mr. Dallas might have arranged a photograph of the weird scene, so that it could be used as a poster advertisement of some new comic opera. But with a contemptuous wave of the hand he dismissed the impertinence. We were assured that his chieftainship was an affair of serious national importance, and when his eminent Maori lordship, aided by a tip-toe movement, rose to the full dignity of his physical proportions, and more than touched the mantelpiece with his hand, visions of shields ornamented by death's heads and skull bones came to our perturbed imagination. Furthermore the Chief hesitated not to assume a warlike demeanour, and as his strong right hand was held out in the act of poising a deadly spear, the writer became horribly sentimental, and reflected that "peace hath her victories no less renowned than war." Military operations between Great Britain and the aborigines of New Zealand must be avoided at all costs! Relations with such bellicose nations must be conducted with the utmost diplomacy!

To pacify a man, bring Cupid in—so long, of course, as you are not a rival. An inquiry about the Maori love rituals brought a ready response.

"The Maoris have no education, and their love-letter is a very simple affair. The proposal of marriage is made by means of a piece of wood on which the tender passion is indicated by burnt-in hieroglyphics. Thus the damsel is wooed by the suitor, but if the latter's advances prove not desirable, the lady places the love-letter on the river, and the tide returns it to the anxiously waiting gallant, who accepts it as an intimation that he is not wanted. It is then handed to someone else, who tries his luck. If the article on which the question is popped is not sent back, the gentleman has to fetch it, and, incidentally, he fetches the maiden, too. The same piece of wood is used by the whole tribe. I wondered how they would get on in the case of a breach of promise action."

It was a strange experience to interview an actor who forgot, temporarily, at least, that he had ever been on the stage. "We are allowing the Germans and Americans to get ahead of us in New Zealand, as in other countries," commented Mr. Dallas.

"I thought you went out to Australia as a comedian, not as a politician."

The interviewee gave way to an outburst of merriment. "I did, and one of the most comical things I met with was the theatre in Kalgoorlie. It is constructed of odd bits of tin and egg boxes. In my dressing room there was no glass in the window-frame, and I didn't altogether appreciate having to dress, after the heat of acting, in the open air. Consumption cures are all right in their way, but I'm not afflicted with that malady. Calgoorlie is a remarkable place. The town is situated in the middle of a desert, and is quite up to date in some respects. There are electric trams, electric light, brilliant shops and stores like our Whiteley's, and the jewellers and drapers especially do a roaring trade."

Mr. Dallas's trip lasted nine months. He played in The J.P. and There and Then, under Messrs. Clyde Meynell and John Gunn's management. It was intended to revive Are You a Mason? and other comedies, but the two pieces mentioned proved so popular that it was not thought necessary to put on anything else. Altogether the company appeared at forty-nine different places, Melbourne and Sydney being favoured with the longest runs, the entire journey, by sea and land, totalling 40,000 miles. Mr. Dallas has a good word for Australian actors and actresses. "The Australians we engaged out there knew their business perfectly and worked like niggers. Nothing was a trouble to them, and they were full of ideas and suggestions, while their esprit de corps was admirable."

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN

On Friday, June 29, Tschaikowsky's opera, Eugène Onéghin, was given at Covent Garden. Tschaikowsky composed this opera in 1877, and it was first heard in London during an autumn season of opera at the Olympic Theatre in 1892; the Moody-Manners company also had considerable success with Eugen Onegin, performed in English at the Coronet Theatre last April. The Russian composer's works are very familiar to us in the concert-room, the "Symphonie Pathétique" being perhaps the most admired of all his compositions. It must be admitted that the story of Eugène Onéghin is one not well adapted to operatic representation, and the dramatic element so marked in the composer's symphonies is strangely absent in the present work. The story, which is founded upon a poem by Puschkin, relates how a young girl, Tatiana, who has most of her life lived in the country, and is very sentimental, falls in love with Eugène Onéghin, a young man from the city whom she meets, and without finding out what his feelings are, at once writes a love-letter to him which is received coldly, as Onéghin is already in love with Olga, the wife of his friend Lensky, who, hearing of this, challenges his friend to a duel in which, however, he is killed by Onéghin. It is in the first and second acts that all this takes place. Between the second and third act some time is supposed to have elapsed. Onéghin returns to Russia after an absence, and again meets Tatiana at a ball, the lady, in the interval, having become the wife of Prince Gremin. Onéghin, who seems to have a great penchant for other men's wives, at once fall violently in love with the lady whom he formerly rejected. Tatiana, who feels all her old affection revive, is almost on the point of yielding to his advances, but making a strong effort, flies from the man she has always loved. Onéghin left alone, shoots himself in despair. As might be expected from a composer of Tschaikowsky's ability, the opera contains some happy moments. Chief among these may be mentioned the music accompanying the letter-song in the second scene of the first act, the air sung by Lensky in the first act, the national chorus of peasants, and the sparkling waltz, which afford relief from some of the duller portions of the opera.

The cast was excellent. Mlle. Destinn appeared with success as the emotional heroine, and Madame Kirkby Lunn, in the character of Olga, the wife of Lenski; while Signor Battistini's Onéghin had many points of interest. The part of Lenski was intelligently undertaken by M. Altchevsky; and the minor characters of Gremin, Larina, Capitano, and Filiperona, well filled by M. Journet, Mlle. Grimm, Signor Rossi, and Mme. Paulin. There was a large audience; both chorus and orchestra were satisfactory, and Signor Campanini conducted with the utmost care. The National Anthem preceded the opera.

Gounod's Faust was performed on Saturday last, with Mme. Melba and M. Laffitte in the principal rôles. Mme. Melba's Marguerite is familiar to opera-goers, and on Saturday, being in her finest voice, she gave a most finished rendering of the "Jewel Song," and the other charming music of the garden scene, being rewarded by the most enthusiastic greeting from the large audience. In the part of Faust, M. Laffitte sang with skill and intelligence, though he was somewhat lacking in power. M. Marcoux, as Mephistopheles, showed great ability both as singer and actor, while his make-up was entirely satisfactory. Mlle. Das proved a bright and attractive Siebel; and M. Seveilhac did good service as Valentin. M. André Messager conducted.

MR. WM. POEL'S MATINEE.

There was a very fair audience at the New Royalty Theatre on Friday afternoon, the 29th ult., when under the direction of Mr. William Poel a capital entertainment was given. The programme consisted of two amusing little comedies, Mamma's Opinions and Love and Halfpence, and a Shakespearean recital by Mr. Samuel Arthur King, M.A.

Mamma's Opinions, which deals in a light and entertaining way with the absurd political aspirations and doings of a notoriety-seeking dame, was first produced at the St. George's Hall in 1893. In the revival under review Miss Clare Greet treated the audience to an amusing personification of the eccentric Mrs. Leopold Gadabout, who in her shallow-mindedness is a very near approach to our up-to-date suffragettes. As the husband disguised as a cabby, Mr. William Poel gave us in the earlier portion of the play an admirable portraiture of an irritable coach-driver of the old-fashioned type; but, after this guise had been thrown off, we were shown a very homely, affectionate and fatherly head of the house. Miss Rita Jolivet acted pleasingly in the rôle of Lucy, and Mr. Edwin Coates submitted an entertaining study of the larkish lover.

Mr. S. A. King, with his Shakespearean selections, furnished adequate evidence of his wonderful dramatic powers. The range of his speeches was varied, and presented a severe test. However, Mr. King came out of it with flying colours. His recitations included Buckingham's farewell in Scene I., Act II., of Henry VIII., Mercutio's description of Queen Mab in Romeo and Juliet, Clarence's dream in Richard III., the King's speech before the battle of Agincourt in Henry V., the speech on sleep in Henry IV. (part 2), Hamlet's soliloquy commencing "Now I am alone," and Mark Antony's oration at the funeral of Julius Cæsar. The quality and spirit of Mr. King's delivery were above criticism. How subtly and yet how naturally did he blend the light and shade of life in his acting, and how well did he estimate the pathetic, the tragic, and the amusing phases of his characterisations! In Mark Antony's oration he displayed a remarkable degree of passion, along with a thorough knowledge of technique. Mr. King is to be congratulated upon his mastery of most difficult elocutionary passages, and his efforts certainly met with the warmest appreciation from his audience.

The concluding part of the programme was the one-act play Love and Halfpence, first produced in 1887. In this piece Mr. William Poel excited one's laughter with his representation of Jimmy Tompkins, with all that worthy's eccentric gallantry and equally eccentric love-making. Mr. Poel has realised how to treat such a character and he gave us of his best comedy work. Mr. Edwin Coates adequately presented the idiosyncrasies in manner and speech of an elderly merchant whose latest venture is of the matrimonial kind. The picture, from the point of view of make-up, was a perfect one. Miss Ernita Lascelles as Kathleen and Miss Rita Jolivet as Eily appropriately fulfilled the requirements of their rôles, and between them furnished some lively moments.

Miss Burgess ably presided during the afternoon at the piano, and Mr. Andrew Spens was the acting-manager for the occasion.

The Lady's Pictorial, The Gentlewoman, The Lady, and other High Class Ladies' Journals strongly recommend the use of "Condy's Fluid" for restoring the hair when grey or faded.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

MISS ELLEN TERRY had a regal reception in her native city of Coventry on Saturday, when she performed the ceremony of laying the foundation-stone of Mr. George Dance's new theatre. Miss Terry's speech, of which a full report will be found elsewhere, was a most interesting one, and again contained a tribute to Sir Henry Irving, with whom, she said, no thought was ever idle or impracticable, and who for fifty years served the theatre with an unswerving belief in its high purpose. The words of the famous actress were happily chosen, and indicated exactly the character of the great actor with whom she shared her chief artistic triumphs.

A HAPPY coincidence of Miss Terry's visit was the fact that she was received at the Corn Exchange, the site of the new theatre, by the "Actor's M.P.," who represents Coventry in the House of Commons, Mr. A. E. W. Mason's association with the stage is chiefly through the medium of his plays. He is the author of the novel, "The Courtship of Morrice Buckler," which he dramatised in conjunction with Miss Isabel Bateman, and of "Miranda of the Balcony," which was produced as a play in New York in 1901. His publications also include "The Philanderers" and "Parson Kelly," which he wrote in association with Mr. Andrew Lang.

MR. BEERBOHM TREE will suspend the success of Colonel Newcome this evening, in order to make way for the production of The Winter's Tale, which is due on September 1, with Miss Ellen Terry as Hermione. So determined a hold has Mr. Michael Morton's adaptation from Thackeray obtained on the public, that Mr. Tree has definitely decided to make it his first revival on his return to His Majesty's after a short tour.

MR. E. S. WILLARD, who opens his season with Colonel Newcome in Montreal on October 1, has been at considerable pains to study the incidental values of the play. He sat through several performances of Colonel Newcome at His Majesty's, each time occupying a seat in a different part of the theatre, beginning with a box view, and finally taking the most distant point of observation in the upper part of the house. The more familiar he became with the play, the more firmly was he convinced that it is one with which he cannot fail to command the favour of his audiences in America. Colonel Newcome is just the sort of character to bring into expression those qualities of tender yet virile sentiment that have endeared Mr. Willard to the best classes of theatre-goers, and secured a patronage that has guaranteed the success of his American tours for the last sixteen years.

THE Musical Copyright Bill, which has met with the usual objections in the House of Commons during the week, was brought in again on Thursday night, when Mr. T. P O'Connor stated that he might be able to meet certain amendments which had been put down, and the Committee stage was accordingly adjourned till Monday. Earlier in the day Sir H. Campbell-Bannerman announced that the Government were favourable to the measure, and would do all they could to pass it.

MR. JOHN HARE will give another Napoleon to the stage next winter, when he will appear in London under the management of Mr. Charles Frohman in La Belle Marseillaise—a play by M. Pierre Berton, which was one of the successes of the last Paris season. The English translation has been made by Mrs. Madeleine Lucette Ryley.

THE play was originally produced at the Ambigu in March of last year, and deals with the escape of the Emperor from the explosion of an infernal machine, and with a subsequent attempt to poison him, from which he is saved by La Belle Marseillaise, the wife of the would-be murderer. There are no less than sixty characters, half of whom have an important bearing on the action, and it is intended to make the play, which will be stage-managed by Mr. Dion Boucicault, one of the most ambitious productions of the year. After the London run Mr. Hare is to go on tour with the piece in the provinces.

GOOD news of Mr. J. L. Toole has been continued throughout the week, during which his health has manifested such steady improvement that it may be hoped that the critical stage of his illness has at length been passed. So favourable was the patient's condition on Wednesday night that it was thought he might be allowed to sit up on Thursday for the first time since his attack, but though he passed a restful night, sufficient strength had not been gained to warrant such a course being taken.

MR. GEORGE ALEXANDER'S production of His House in Order bids fair to defy the hot weather, and seems likely to continue on its triumphant career at the St. James's throughout the summer months. The success of the play is, moreover, not to be confined to the Metropolis, as it is Mr. Alexander's intention to send two companies into the provinces with Mr. Jones's powerful play.

THE following have been definitely selected to compose the London team at the seventh annual cricket match between London and provincial actors at Kennington Oval on Friday:—Messrs. Oscar Asche, F. Blackman, Gerald du Maurier, B. Egerton, Robert Evett, H. Nye Chart, V. O'Connor, R. Selby, and C. A. Smith, the two remaining places to be filled from among Messrs. J. C. Brooke, L. Belmore, Horace Lane, F. Stayton, and H. B. Warner; the provincial actors will be represented by Messrs. E. D. Burnaby, G. F. Hannam Clark, Leslie Holland, P. Knight, P. F. Knox, S. Livesey, H. Morgan, and J. P. Wilson; the three remaining places to be filled from among Messrs. C. Aldred, R. Denbigh, T. Homewood, R. P. Johnson, A. W. Metcalfe, Horace Mills, and A. Whitby. Play commences at 11 a.m. The band of the Amalgamated Musicians will be in attendance. The proceeds of the match are to be devoted to the Actors' Benevolent Fund and the Actors' Orphanage Fund.

MR. H. B. IRVING will begin an autumn tour at the Prince's Theatre, Manchester, on Monday, August 6th, with a repertoire including The Lyons Mail, Charles I., Mauricette, Louis XI., and Paolo and Francesca, the entire production of which Mr. Irving has acquired from Mr. George Alexander. The second week of September will witness Mr. Irving's departure with the same repertoire for New York, where, at the New Amsterdam Theatre on Monday, October 8th, he will commence a season of fifteen weeks under the management of Messrs. Nixon and Zimmerman. Mr. Irving will be accompanied on his English and American tours by his accomplished wife, Miss Dorothea Baird, and the company will also include Mr. Harcourt Williams, Mr. Lionel Belmore, Mr. Frank Tyars, Mr. Archer, and Miss Maud Milton.

MISS EDITH WYNNE MATTHISON has been engaged for the part of Braugwai in Mr. Comyns Carr's play Tristram and Iseult, the production of which at the Adelphi is fixed for September 4. Mr. Otho Stuart, who has been on the Continent, returns in time to be present at rehearsals. Meanwhile the last nights are announced of The Taming of the Shrew, which will be withdrawn on Saturday.

MR. ARTHUR BOURCHIER intends to produce and play the principal part in his own adaptation of Anatole France's play, Crainquebille, under the title of Down Our Alley, at the Garrick Theatre before going on his provincial tour. The action of the play is transferred from the costermonger quarter of Paris to that of London.

THE Bishop of Ripon who, under the auspices of the British Empire Shakespeare Society, delivered so eloquent an address at the Garrick Theatre on Monday, was always a famous preacher, and was a special favourite of the late Queen Victoria, to whom he was Chaplain-in-Ordinary, both before and during his canonry of Windsor. The eloquence by which the Rev. Boyd Carpenter was distinguished while a London vicar he still retains; and he spoke on Monday afternoon without a single note. He walked the stage as if he were acting a part, and his finished elocution was accompanied by appropriate gestures. He was listened to with the closest attention and evident delight by such well-known theatrical people as Mr. Forbes-Robertson, Mr. Arthur Bourchier, Sir Squire Bancroft, Miss Violet Vanbrugh, and Miss Ellen Terry, who alluded to the address as "one of the most beautiful sermons she had ever heard in her life."

THE Bishop was appointed vicar of St. James's Church, Holloway, in 1870, and held that position for nine years, when he became vicar of Christ Church, Lancaster-gate, being appointed Canon of Windsor in 1882. He was Select Preacher at both Oxford and Cambridge, as well as Hulsean and Bampton Lecturer. His speeches in the House of Lords are listened to with almost as much interest as those of the late Dr. Magee, one of the finest orators who ever entered the Gilded Chamber. The Bishop has always been popular amongst the laity by reason of his broad, enlightened views and his hearty sympathy with all movements that are for the benefit of the masses. He possesses a fine collection of Dante literature, and is a devoted admirer of that great writer as well as of Shakespeare.

"THE MARRIAGE OF KITTY" and Pantaloon come to a conclusion at the Duke of York's Theatre on Friday next. Nothing definite with regard to the immediate future of the theatre can be announced, but it is whispered that Mr. Cyril Maude may be seen there in a new play. At Christmas Peter Pan will visit its birthplace for the third time.

NOBODY appreciates the beautiful weather more highly than pastoral players, and many of them are making hay—or, rather, making a hit—while the sun shines. Miss Mary Bessle, whose little company is appearing in Twelfth Night, at Putney to-day (Saturday) arranges performances all the year round, playing on the greensward in the summer and on a draped stage in the winter. She possesses an artistic and carefully arranged wardrobe, having dispensed with tinsel and showy ornaments as much as possible, and greatly reduced the number of "properties" usually considered indispensable. The company still bears the well known name of her late sister, Miss Elizabeth Bessle, and is carried on in the same unpretentious way. Miss Mary Bessle's favourite part is Puck, in A Midsummer Night's Dream, and she has recently appeared as one of the Dromios, in A Comedy of Errors, the other twin being played by Miss Lil Corbett, a daughter of the popular novelist and serial writer, Mrs. George Corbett.

MR. FRANK CURZON has elaborate schemes for the future under consideration. He contemplates sending on a tour of the principal towns The Girl Behind the Counter, with the complete London company, including Mr. Hayden Coffin and Miss Isabel Jay. Later in the autumn the enterprising manager goes to America to arrange for a Christmas tour in the States of the same play. For this production a company of American performers will be engaged. Mr. Curzon is developing his plan for the continuance of dramatic exchanges, and has definitely decided upon the American production of The Little Stranger, with Master Garrett in the name part, and many of the original Criterion players in the cast.

"THE MAN FROM BLANKLEY'S" is so thoroughly justifying its revival at the Haymarket that Mr. Frederick Harrison will re-present it on the re opening of the theatre after the summer vacation early in September. A successor to The Man from Blankley's will be found in Mr. R. C. Carton's comedy, Lady Huntworth's Experiment, in the cast of which will be included Mr. Charles Hawtrey, Mr. Henry Kemble, Mr. Weedon Grossmith, Miss Dagmar Wiehe, Miss Pollie Emery, and Miss Compton. A new play now being specially written by the same author will afterwards figure in the Haymarket bill.

MR. STERLING MACKINLAY, the eldest son of the late Mme. Antoinette Sterling, was the last of the late Manuel Garcia's pupils, the teacher being then over ninety. "He was an exacting master in the right sense of the word," says Mr. Mackinlay, "for he had the highest ideals as to singing, and took the greatest trouble to explain them."

A NEW one-act play by Philip Gibbs, entitled The Escape of John Marchant, will figure in the matinée performance to be given at the Duke of York's Theatre on Tuesday in aid of the funds of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children. The chief parts will be played by Miss Beryl Faber and Mr. Frank Cooper. The programme will also include A Sense of Humour, the three-act play by Mr. and Mrs. Cosmo Hamilton, originally produced at the Comedy in January, with Mr. C. Aubrey Smith, Mr. Athol Stewart, Miss Edyth Olive, Mr. Reginald Dance, and Miss Beryl Faber in the cast. On Tuesday the play will again have the services of Mr. Smith and Miss Faber in the principal rôles, and Miss Maud Hoffmann will also take part in its representation.

AMONG those present at the Duchess of Sutherland's reception at Stafford House were Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Hicks (Miss Ellaline Terriss), the latter looking as charming as ever.

THE sixth annual conference of the Actors' Church Union will be held at 2.30 p.m. on Tuesday next, at the Bishop of Southwark's house, Kennington Park. Mr. Martin Harvey has promised to speak. Mrs. Talbot will be "At Home" in the garden, from four to six. Members of the profession will be admitted on presentation of their cards.

S. FEINMAN'S historical operetta The Viceroy has become so popular at the Pavilion Theatre during the engagement of the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Co. that it was again repeated on Monday evening to a crowded house, when Mesdames Zwiebel, Bryh, and Kayzer, and Messrs. S. Shilling, Schapira, M. Gusofsky, Streng, and J. Fineberg were once more successful in their respective parts. During the week The Bells, Azaria, the Hero of the Army, Korah's Treasures, and Son of the Star have been played.

MR. GEORGE AUSTIN is engaged by Mr. Charles Macdona to play Gus Trail in The Toreador, the part played by Lionel Mackinder in the original production at the Gaiety. Mr. Austin has recently concluded an engagement with Mr. William Maclaren, during which he played Azazil, the blacksmith, in Claudian, for a period of ten months.

MR. HENRY ARTHUR JONES'S new play—The Hypocrites—will be produced by Mr. Charles Frohman in September at the Hudson Theatre, New York. The play deals chiefly with church people, and some of the leading characters are the Vicar, the Curate, the Lawyer, and the Doctor of the little town of Weybury. The motto of the play has been taken from "The Pilgrim's Scrip"—"Expediency is man's wisdom: doing right is God's." Among the strong company of English and American actors which Mr. Frohman has engaged will be Miss Jessie Millward, who thus returns to America after her brief reappearance in this country.

THERE are so few theatres in the provinces today under the personal management of their proprietors that it was pleasing to see such a capital closing scene on Saturday last at the Queen's Theatre, Swindon. An excellent season was brought to a close with a visit from that interesting drama, The Still Alarm, and although it was such a delightful summer evening on Saturday the house was crowded with an enthusiastic audience. During one of the intervals there were loud shouts for Mr. Alfred Manners, the popular proprietor and manager, who, on making his appearance at the footlights, was heartily welcomed to the tune of "He's a jolly good fellow," followed by three ringing cheers. Then came the usual short speech, during which he thanked his many patrons for their steady and hearty support during the past season, and begged for a continuation of that support for the coming season, which would open on August Bank Holiday with Under Two Flags, with Miss Ida Molesworth and Mr. Mark Blow in the leading rôles. He also announced other strong attractions for the season, such as Bluebell in Fairyland, Moody Manners Grand Opera Co., The Blue Moon, The Great Wilderness, At Cripple Creek, San Toy, Earl and the Girl, Trumpet Call, When London Sleeps, Lights o' London, etc., etc.

MISS ELLEN TERRY has accepted the dedication of a book just about to be issued, entitled "An Actress's Pilgrimage," by Miss Ina Rozant, a racy narrative of an actress's adventures. The fact that Miss Terry, in cordial and complimentary terms, has permitted the book to be dedicated to her is sufficient proof that it is not of the kind usually written about the stage, but is the work of one who knows and understands her subject. It will be issued in an attractive picture cover at one shilling net by T. Sealey Clark, 1, Racquet Court, Fleet Street.

MISS KATIE JOHNSON and Mr. Frank G. Bayly will, on July 16th, start a provincial tour of Billy's Little Love Affair, by H. V. Esmond, at the Theatre Royal, Yarmouth. Miss Johnson will play the part of Billy, and Mr. Bayly that of Jack Frere. The company also includes Misses Clara Nicholls, Gladys Bartle-Frere, Dorothy Watson, Beatrix Bell, Vera Codd, Norah Codd, and Messrs. W. Lemmon Warde, Orlando Barnett, Brember Wills, and Reginald Maurice. Mr. Talbot Homewood will be the business manager.

MR. OWEN HALL writes to point out that he is the author of Florodora, the lyrics of which, by the late Mr. Boyd Jones, were so charmingly set to music by Mr. Leslie Stuart (with additional numbers by Mr. Paul Rubens).

MR. NORMAN A. OVERTON terminated playing the leading part in Man's Enemy at the Alexandra, Sheffield, June 23rd, and is now taking a well-earned rest, having played since Christmas two leading parts in sketches and two star parts in dramas, The Luck of Life and the above.

MR. JAMES WILLARD'S drama, In the Shadow of Night, which has altogether been played upwards of 4,000 times, will at the West London on Tuesday register its 500th performance in suburban London. The piece is going as strong as ever, and bids fair to run on with undiminished success for a long time to come.

MR. WILLIAM BAILEY has selected his pantomime for next season, viz., Sinbad, and the same will be produced by Mr. G. Brydon Phillips. The version is by Mr. J. Hickory Wood, and is the one which has formerly proved so successful under the latter gentleman's management at Dalston, Brixton, Cheltenham, Ealing, and other theatres during the last two years. Little Red Riding Hood, Mr. Phillips's other pantomime, book by Mr. Victor Stevens, is placed at two of Messrs. Milton Bode's and Edward Compton's theatres, and also at another large and popular house.

MR. A. B. IMESON, who produced The Rivals and His Excellency the Governor for the Trinity College Amateur Dramatic Club, Dublin, on the occasion of the visit of her Excellency the Countess of Aberdeen, had the honour of being presented to her Excellency after the performance of Captain Marshall's comedy. Her ladyship graciously congratulated him on his successful production. Mr. Imeson, who was called upon to make a speech on the Saturday night, was also the recipient of a fine Sheraton clock, given to him by all the members of the Club connected with the production.

MR. FRANK STANMORE, who has been engaged by Mr. Charles Macdona for the title rôle of Mr. Hopkinson, has been rapidly coming to the front the last two or three years, and is confidently looked upon as one of London's coming men. He has served under Mr. Tree's banner at His Majesty's Theatre for several years, his chief achievements perhaps being Sir Hugh Evans in The Merry Wives of Windsor, the draper's clerk in Resurrection, and last but not least, the Artful Dodger in Oliver Twist. He has also appeared successfully under Mr. Lewis Waller's management. He left Mr. Tree to play the Rev. Aloysius Parfitt in W. S. Gilbert's Fairy's Dilemma (Mr. Arthur Bourchier's Co.), and then succeeded Mr. James Welch in the title rôle of The New Clown. Last year, Mr. Stanmore played the Dame at the County Theatre, Kingston-on-Thames.

SMOKING is now the fashion at the Alexandra Theatre, Sheffield, the authorities having graciously allowed the management to revert to the custom which was in vogue here some twenty-five years ago.

UNDER the direction of Mr. Harry Fischer A Trip to the Highlands starts an autumn tour at the Grand Theatre, Edinburgh, with the following powerful cast:—Messrs. Wal Croft, Wellesley Smith, Gus Wheatman, Arthur Poole, Frank Barclay, J. B. Montague, Misses Millie Engler, Maisie Ellinger, Kitty Clinton, Lillian, Kevil Davies, Kathleen Naughton, and Nellie Burdette. Mr. E. T. De Banzie will be the musical director, and Mr. J. D. Newton the business manager.

MISS EVELYN MAXWELL has been engaged by Mesrrs. Dauncey and Levaux for Lady Porchester in The Walls of Jericho for autumn tour.

MR. WILLIAM LOCKHART, who has just concluded a year's engagement with Mr. Louis Calvert's Sunday company, playing Towzer, has been re-engaged by Mr. Calvert for the same part. Mr. Lockhart will also take over the stage management on the retirement of Mr. Walter.

MR. FRED PAUL has secured from Hardie and Von Leer a new musical farce bearing the peculiar title of The Lord of the Last. The "book" is by Fred A. Ellis, and the music is from the pens of Percival Knight and Denham Harrison. The tour, which will commence late in August, will be under the direction of Mr. E. P. Clift.

MR. LEWIS WALLER, who brings his successful stay at the Lyric to a close at the end of next week, will renew his occupancy of the theatre on Oct. 15, when the new play by Mr. Henry Hamilton and Mr. William Devereux, of which Robin Hood is the hero, will be produced. Richard Cœur de Lion, Prince John, Queen Eleanor of Acquitaine, and Lady Marian de Vaux figure in the long list of celebrities, and the scenes of Old English life and picturesque forest sets will be embellished by appropriate music.

SERVAIS LE ROY (who shortly starts a tour of the theatres with a new and original mystical play) has many witty tales to relate of his experiences in different parts of the world. In one portion of the act now being given by Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco, they all go into the auditorium and perform conjuring feats absolutely in front of individual members of the audience. Just recently Le Roy came across a would-be wag in the dress circle of a certain building, who remarked as Le Roy presented himself, "You seem to be a clever sort of chap. You get money from everywhere. Can you get cash from a block of wood?" Le Roy was equal to the occasion; he passed his hands rapidly over the head of the "humourist," and showing him some coins seemingly drawn therefrom, he said, politely, "Certainly, sir, here it is!"

MR. HENRY SWINERD'S successful musical comedy, Dare-Devil Dorothy, which is now in its 151st consecutive week of tour, will open at the Grand Theatre, Islington, on Monday. The cast, which is exceptionally strong, includes Miss Dorothy Desmonde, Miss Nellie Harcourt, Mr. Walter Ashley, Mr. Henry C. Ward, and Mr. Edward Kipling.

MISS FLORENCE HAMER has just returned from two felicitous years in Australia, and is now ready, after a few weeks' holiday at her home in the West of England, to continue work. As chief comedienne in Mr. Williamson's company she had the opportunity of playing parts after her own heart, including Mrs. Mulholland—rather a youthful Mrs. Mulholland, by the way—in The Duke of Killicrankie, and the title-rôle in Cousin Kate. The latter is her favourite part, perhaps because it was her biggest success. Although Miss Hamer has never been to America, she could well be mistaken for an American, with her small, piquant features, and quantity of hair that makes her look like one of Mr. Dana Gibson's New York beauties. She is of Welsh family, and made her début in a musical piece called Lost, Strayed, or Stolen, at the Duke of York's Theatre, afterwards understudying at the Adelphi, an engagement which was followed by a series of tours as leading lady in comedy and drama.

MISS HAMER, whose experiences "down under" included "jumps" of nine days between performances, has reason to admire the inventive talent of enterprising interviewers. On one occasion, in Australia she was surprised to read in a certain newspaper that one of her little holidays had been passed in writing a play. As a matter of fact, she does write—impressionist articles, but not plays—and happening to hear that the information came from a lady who lived on the opposite side of the street, she ventured to ask how the lady knew of her literary efforts. "Oh, I've been watching you at your desk for weeks," was the cool response. "My desk is in the farther corner of the room, a long way from the window," exclaimed Miss Hamer. "Yes, but I have a beautiful pair of strong opera-glasses!" was the smiling answer.

APROPOS of interviews, Mr. George Grossmith tells an amusing story of his first experience with three members of the New York Press. They all arrived in the early morning, so he invited them to breakfast, and let them all talk to him—or, rather, to one another—at the same time. When the "private chats" appeared on the following day he discovered that the three interviewers had evidently decided among themselves to give the reading public variety, so each interviewer credited Gee-Gee with widely different opinions on the same subjects, and even the details of his morning meal were fully described, but with careful alterations in the menu of his three "hearty breakfasts."

MISS ZENA DARE will be the heroine of The Beauty of Bath, at the Aldwych Theatre, during Miss Ellaline Terriss's absence on holiday.

MR. ERIC BLIND has been engaged by Mr. Frank Curzon to play the part of Alec Howard in Mr. Michael Morton's play The Little Stranger, in the forthcoming production in New York. Mr. Blind created this part in the provinces last autumn, and since then has shown a quality of versatility by making a success as Posthumus Leonatus in Mr. Flanagan's production of Cymbeline at Manchester, in a record run of thirteen weeks at the Queen's Theatre there.

A SPECIAL performance of H. V. Esmond's comedy One Summer's Day will be given on Tuesday next, at 3 p.m., in the Passmore-Edwards' Settlement, Tavistock-place, W.C., in aid of the Trebovir School of Dramatic Art. The following artists have kindly promised to take part by permission of their respective managers:—Messrs. Clive Currie, Kenelm F. Foss, Walton Palmer, Max Montesole, Esmond Egerton Hine, Reginald Craven, and Misses Florence Wells, Jane Saville, Muriel Alexander, Maud Ross, Marion J. Byrd, &c.

THE '05 Club, in King-street, Covent Garden, has just entered on its second year. There are now over 300 members in the club, and these are of both sexes, the literary, the dramatic, the journalistic, the legal, and social worlds being well represented. Arrangements for the production of original works in theatres and first-class halls are being completed for the autumn and winter, and experts will give careful attention to the manuscripts submitted for production by members of the club. Concerts and general entertainments are frequent, and as the club possesses the only garden in Covent Garden, the green spot is utilised these summer nights for illuminated open-air assemblies. Culture and comfort are leading points in the '05 Club, and the whole arrangements may be inspected by making an appointment with the secretary at 36, King-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

PRE-SHAKESPEAREAN plays, recently brought to light in the lumber-room of an old mansion in Ireland, were disposed of at Sotheby's on Saturday, all the volumes, which were put up separately at auction, being bought by Mr. Bernard Quaritch. The total amount realised was £2,602, the highest price being fetched by Thomas Inglelend's 1565 interlude, The Disobedient Child, which realised £233. Among the more advanced returns were the John Waley imprint of Youth, which yielded £230; the rare Welth and Helth, £195; the 1575 edition of Gammer Gurton's Needle, £180; George Wapull's comedy, The Tyde Taryeth no Man, 1576, £176; The Nice Wanton, 1560, £169; the tragedie of the Life of Cambises, by Thomas Preston, £169; The Triall of Treasure, £160; Impatient Poverty, 1560, £150; New Custome, £155; Jacob and Esau, 1568, £148; Lusty Juventus, £140; Darius, 1577, £122; John Evangelist, £102; Appius and Virginia, £101; John Heywoode's The Playe of the Weather, £90; and Octavia, 1566, £82.

MR. WILFORD BAILEY has had to decline an offer for Australia, as he is re-engaged by Mr. Wm. Maclaren for Chamboran, in Proof, for the autumn tour, commencing August 6th.

THE homeward voyage of the Armadale Castle from the Cape to England was lightened by a recital given on the 14th ult. by Miss Rose Lemoine, a talented young American lady who, after some experiences in South Africa, has come over to London to appear on the English stage. The great saloon was crowded to excess, and everyone was delighted with the efforts of the young lady, who gave in admirable style no fewer than eight selections from the works of Rudyard Kipling. Miss Lemoine won warm applause in an artistic rendering of a scene from Cyrano de Bergerac (Rostand), and in J. W. Reilly's "Little Orphan Annie." The proceeds of the sale of programmes amounted to £6 10s. 9d., half of which was given to seamen's charities and the other half to the Actors' Benevolent Fund. Miss Lemoine also took part in several concerts, and at the fancy dress ball on June 8, she was awarded first prize for her costume as "Galatea," made up of a couple of sheets, bootlaces, and a little ribbon. There was an influential sports and entertainments committee, of which Mr. J. M. Gerald, a well-known South African athlete, was chairman.

MR. CHARLES SPARROW, an Australian elocutionist, and Miss Dorothy Wren, the vocalist, will give a musical and dramatic recital at Steinway Hall on the 19th at 8.30. Mr. Sparrow comes to England with good credentials, and Miss Dorothy Wren at one period was heard by Madame Patti, who so appreciated the young lady's voice that Mr. Charles Santley was asked to train it, and did so very successfully.

INTEREST in the romance attached to Haddon Hall is to be maintained by a book, entitled "Haddon: The Manor, the Hall, its Lords and Traditions," by Mr. G. Le Blanc Smith, which will be published immediately by Mr. Elliot Stock. The traditions of Haddon Hall have already been turned to the purposes of the stage in the Savoy opera to which the historic name was given, while the latest Dorothy o' the Hall, is, of course, Miss Julia Neilson. The book will contain an account of the great families that have owned Haddon from the time of the Norman Conquest, together with some curious stewards' accounts, the only existing letter of Dorothy Vernon, with a facsimile of her signature, and the pedigree of the Vernons.

THE electrical music invented by Dr. Thaddeus Cahill, a scientist of repute in America, is quite different to the playing of an organ from a distance by means of currents of electricity passing along connecting wires. It is not electric wires setting musical instruments at work. The music is initiated by electricity, the expression is controlled by electricity, and it is distributed by the same force. Here the actual wave motions which are afterwards translated into sound waves are electric vibrations. It has been known for long that electric waves of like frequency to sound waves can be produced. But electric waves are vibrations of the ether, while sound waves are vibrations of the air. So, then, the main problem in producing electrical music is to transform vibrations of the ether into sound waves.

DR. CAHILL'S music is all generated at a central electric station, and can by means of wires be laid on like the electric light, the music thus produced being loud and full. The laboratory and factory is at Holyoke, Mass., and the plant consists of a switchboard, with 200 switches, transformers, rheostats, and other pieces of electrical apparatus. The musician plays on a keyboard, the keys of which operate the switches which bring the alternators into action Vibrations of the requisite frequency to produce the required note are set up, and when these reach the telephone receivers sounds are produced. To give an idea of the strength of this electric music, it is stated that the generators for single notes are sometimes of from 15 h.-p. to 19 h.-p.

A NOVEL problem story is told of a popular theatrical manager. The dramatic critic of a prominent paper had the habit of abusing all of the manager's productions, minimising what was good in them and being unduly severe on their faults. After a bad first night, the manager took supper at a club, where his worst fears as to the success of his play were confirmed, and as he walked home, moody and depressed, his foot struck upon a packet on the sidewalk. It was an unsealed envelope, dropped by some careless messenger, and it contained a criticism of the play from the pen of his enemy, who outdid himself in virulent denunciation. The problem is, What should a manager do with the packet under such circumstances? Tear it up, throw it into the gutter, or replace it on the pavement where he found it? The manager took the criticism to the office of the paper, and went to bed with the happy consciousness of having done his duty as a gentleman. But when he read the article the next morning and figured up the hard cash it would cost him to change his bill, he wondered whether honesty is always the best policy.

MR. H. H. DAVIES'S comedy, Cousin Kate, has just been produced at the Lustspielhaus, Berlin, in German, the version being by Mrs. George Pogson. The play was very well received.

THE Dalston Theatre, which will close this evening until August Bank Holiday, will undergo extensive improvements in the interval. Important alterations will be made on the stage, so as to allow of more elaborate scenic effects, and the lighting will be also considerably improved.

A NEW three-act play entitled Major Jennings has been written by Mr. Besant Rice for production in London next season. The action is laid in the offices of a matrimonial agency.

MME. YVETTE GUILBERT, who is about to make a tour of Europe and Egypt, will on her return to London devote herself to the study of the part which she is next season to play in a dramatic version of Mr. George Moore's Esther Waters, which has been prepared by the author and Mr. Edward Knoblauch. Mme. Guilbert will also appear in a comedy adapted from the German of Dr. Paul Lindau.

MME. REJANE, who has been making a tour of the London theatres in order to gather hints for the introduction of the latest improvements into the new theatre which she is building for herself in Paris, admits that the theatres of London are far superior in structure and design to those of Paris. "I could name theatres," she says, "where there is not even a cupboard, let alone a room, where a lady can leave her hat or her wraps, and if she finds the atmosphere of the auditorium too stuffy, and wishes to seek fresher air, she is compelled to stand in a dismal passage."

AGAIN, "the box-office system is a miserable farce. The numbered ticket system with counterfoils which is, of course, general in this country, is practically unknown in Paris. In my theatre I mean to alter all that and to introduce the most up-to-date American system. I intend to provide the audience with pleasant salons in which they can either wait for their friends, or spend the intervals between the acts." The colour scheme which Madame Réjane has chosen is similar to a favourite gown which she wore in one of her most successful rôles. The seats on the ground floor in the stalls will be upholstered in white, those on the first tier in lemon, and those on the second tier in deep orange."

REVIVAL OF "MIRETTE."

A Comic Opera, in Three Acts, Founded on the French of Michel Carré, English Lyrics by Fred C. Weatherly, English Dialogue by the late Harry Greenbank. New Version with New Lyrics by Adrian Ross, Music by André Messager. Revived at the Scala Theatre on Monday afternoon, July 2.

Baron van der Berg .....MR. A. C. BOTTOMLEY
Gerard de Montigny .....MR. F. CAREY
Picorin .....MR. J. F. TOYE
Bobinet .....MR. J. PHILLIMORE
Francal .....MR. E. TEWSON
Bertuccio .....MR. T. BONHOTE
Mirette .....MISS INA PELLY
Bianca .....MISS E. LONGMAN
Zerbinette .....MISS MARGARET WILEY
Marquise de Montigny .....MISS ESMÉ HUBBARD

At its inaugural performance on Tuesday at the Scala Theatre the Cambridge University Operatic Club revived the comic opera in three acts, entitled Mirette, founded on the French of Michel Carré. By far the best part of Mirette is the exquisite music of M. André Messager, who, by the way, had been announced to conduct the orchestra, but was unable to be present, his place being taken by Mr. Geoffrey Toye. Another absentee, through illness, was Miss Viola Tree, who had been cast for the part of Zerbinette, a gipsy, the rôle being undertaken by Miss Margaret Wiley at short notice.

Mirette was first produced by Mr. D'Oyly Carte at the Savoy Theatre on July 3, 1894, the title-rôle being then played by Miss Maud Ellicott, others in the company being Mr. Courtice Pounds (Picorin), Mr. Walter Passmore (Bobinet), Miss Rosina Brandram (Marquise de Montigny), Miss Florence Perry (Bianca), Miss Emmie Owen (the dancing girl), Mr. Scott Fishe (Gerard de Montigny), Mr. John Coates (Baron van den Berg and the Burgomaster), Mr. Herbert Ralland (the Notary and Max), and Mr. Avon Saxon (Francal). Some of these characters have, apparently, been omitted from the present production.

Ten years ago the piece was called an opera. We differed from that description by setting it forth as an opéra comique, which undoubtedly it is, and we noticed that in Tuesday's programme our opinion was confirmed. The story is of a pleasing but not intensely absorbing kind. Mirette is that form of opéra comique as understood by Auber and other famous French musicians, not the comic opera of topical songs and up-to-date allusions.

Mirette, an attractive gipsy maiden, is in love with Picorin, one of her own tribe. But the aristocratic Gerard de Montigny, who is betrothed to Bianca, the daughter of a baron, falls a victim to the enchanting influence of the Romany queen, and on the very day that he is to be wedded to the fair Bianca he turns traitor to his vows, and announces that Mirette has won his affections. The law of equality eventually asserts itself. The lordly Gerard and the humble Mirette discover that, after all, they are not quite suited to each other. Mirette goes back to Picorin and her people of the caravan, and Gerard seeks out the baron's daughter, and we quit the playhouse with the happy reflection that everything has ended as it should end.

Taking into account that the play was presented by amateurs, the production was most praiseworthy. And when it is also taken into account that this was the first performance given by the Cambridge University Operatic Club, congratulations may be showered upon those who, in one way or another, gave a helping hand. In the title-rôle there was Miss Ina Pelly, whose singing, if somewhat indistinct, was at least tuneful, her "Fly Away" verses being perhaps her finest effort. Her acting of the gay, careless, light-hearted young gipsy was distinctly commendable. From Mr. J. Phillimore (Bobinet) we had a delightful bit of comedy work. Bobinet, with all his absurd notions and his absurd antics, was in Mr. Phillimore's hands just the frivolous creature of the author's imagination. His song, "A very fine duck," was rendered with humorous expression, as was also his duet with Miss Esmé Hubbard (the Marquise), "Rather more than you know." Mr. F. Carey cut a gallant figure as Gerard. He realised the requirements of the character, and played up to them, and his singing of "I have them all," evidenced an excellent delivery and vocal range. The picturesque Picorin had a capital representative in Mr. J. F. Toye, whose spirited manner was well in keeping with the part. Mr. Toye possesses a well-trained voice, and was heard to advantage in several numbers. Miss Esmé Hubbard was charming and graceful as the Marquise de Montigny, and her "Fan" song proved a dainty bit of vocalism. Another swarthy gipsy, who sang and danced prettily, and otherwise made herself very agreeable, was Miss Margaret Wiley as Zerbinette; and an able and dignified exponent of the old Baron was found in Mr. A. C. Bottomley. Mr. E. Tewson as Francal and Mr. T. Bonhote as Bertuccio also performed goodly service.

If all the amateur actors and actresses work as well in the future performances of the C.U.O.C. as they did on Tuesday afternoon there will be no question as to the success of the entertainments yet to be given by the Club. The tout ensemble was admirable, the chorus sang well in unison, and the three scenes were superbly staged; while the dresses and their wearers furnished a spectacle of life and colour, and were a really brilliant display. Great credit is due to Mr. Richard Temple, the old Savoyard, under whose experienced direction the piece was produced. The instrumental music was provided by the Una Orchestra, whose leader, Mr. Edgar Shelton, is a Musician-in-Ordinary to the King. Mr. C. W. Lowther acted as stage-manager, and Mr. Eric Alden as treasurer. The scenery had been kindly lent by Mr. Beerbohm Tree, the management of the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, and the Pavilion Theatre Company; while the costumes and wigs came from Mr. B. J. Simmons. Mr. R. M. Crompton was responsible for the arrangement of most of the dances, but an extremely pleasing solo dance in the third act was the result of Miss Peggy Ross's training.

L.C.C. STEAMBOATS v. OPERA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—It seems a pity that the L.C.C. cannot see that a National Opera House would be better than a continued loss on steamboats—proved to be not wanted.

I can show that, with the money already spent, and the time it has taken to spend, the L.C.C. could have built an Opera House, costing £250,000, and have given over 600 performances, with chorus of 200 and orchestra of 100, with scenery, costumes, and principals second to none in the world.

Moreover, 104,000 people could have seen opera for nothing—all this without counting on anyone wanting to pay for admittance, and leaving 2,800 seats empty at each performance.

CHARLES MANNERS.

Hendon, July 3.

APPLICATION was made on Monday to Mr. Paul Taylor at the Marylebone police court, for a licence to permit little Max Darewski, the boy conductor, to appear at the Steinway Hall on Thursday and at the Botanic Gardens theatrical garden party on Friday to conduct the full band of the Queen's Westminster Volunteers, by permission of Colonel Trollope, V.C., and Lieut.-Col. Sir Howard Vincent, M.P. The magistrate readily acceded to the application.

ELLEN TERRY AT COVENTRY.

The historic town of Coventry was decorated with banners, flags, Venetian masts and other emblems of rejoicing on Saturday, the occasion of the visit of Miss Ellen Terry to her birthplace to lay the foundation stone of Mr. Dance's new Empire Theatre, Hertford-street. As the time for her arrival approached, thousands of people were congregated near the building hoping to catch a glimpse of the famous actress. At one time the crowd was so dense that the chief of the police, fearing some danger, sent a constable to turn the procession another way. Miss Terry arrived at 1.15 with Sir Albert Seymour, Miss Edith Craig, Miss Kate Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Courtenay, Mrs. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. G. Dance, Miss C. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Ascherberg, &c. Shower bouquets were presented both at the railway station and at the Empire Theatre.

Mr. A. E. W. MASON, M.P. for Coventry, in a bright speech called upon Miss Ellen Terry, whom he described as a distinguished native of Coventry, to lay the foundation stone. Miss Terry performed the ceremony with a handsome silver trowel with ivory handle, presented by Mr. Dance, and, striking the stone three times with an ivory mallet, said in tragic tones, "I declare this stone well and truly laid." She immediately turned to the friends round her and said, "There, I've done it beautifully," laughingly merrily the while.

Miss TERRY then stepped forward towards the people (who seemed delirious with joy) and said, "Ladies and gentlemen,—I have great pleasure in laying this foundation stone, and I hope the new theatre will flourish and help to revive a love of the drama in my native town. When the suggestion of my coming here was first made, there seemed to be some doubt in people's minds as to whether it was to be a music hall, a coliseum, or a theatre to which I was to give my blessing. However, I was quickly reassured by Mr. G. Dance that it was a theatre, and here I am. But suppose it had not been so? Suppose, shall I say, the worst, and that this was the first step in the making of a new music-hall; well, I see no reason why a music hall or a palace of varieties should not be dedicated to the honour and glory of the arts as well as a theatre. I can never forget the beautiful twelfth century legend called by the pious chronicler 'Our Lady's Tumbler.' It is the story of a juggler who, at festival time, saw the monks giving their arts and crafts to the Virgin, and was filled with despair because he had nothing better to offer than his skill in juggling and dancing. However, faith came to him that if he did his best his service would not be despised, and he danced before the statue of the Virgin in the chapel. Then, according to the legend, the image stretched out its hands in blessing, and a great light shone from its face upon the man who in humility had given his best. It seems to me that theatre and music hall alike can be of incalculable benefit in our social life if only they are so organised that the best standards are upheld in both. Whether this organisation should be left to individuals, or whether the State or the municipality should take a hand in it, is a question that is raised from time to time, only to be dropped again. My great comrade, Henry Irving, who for 50 years served the theatre with an unswerving belief in its high purpose, thought (and with him no thought was ever idle or impracticable) that the municipality should concern itself with maintaining the standard of dramatic taste, and to those who argue that in England itself that is impossible, I would answer that all great enterprises seem impossible. Anybody can do easy things. This problem is rather Lenten fare for a holiday entertainment, and I will not trouble you with it further. It has been a great delight to me to come here to-day and to wind up the celebration of my stage jubilee by inaugurating a new theatre in my birthplace. Two years ago I intended to act here in your old theatre, but to my great disappointment illness prevented me from coming. Ever since I have wished to 'restore amends,' and if all goes well I hope that I may some day act before you here."

The stone itself is white marble with sunken gold letters, and is inscribed as follows: "This stone was laid by Miss Ellen Terry on June 30, 1906. 'There was a star danced, and under that star I was born' (Much Ado About Nothing.)"

After the ceremony had ended, the guest of honour entered a motor-car, and proceeded with her friends to St. Mary's Hall, there to receive an illuminated address presented by the Mayor and Corporation of the city. A private lunch was first given by the Mayor and Mayoress at which Miss Terry and her friends were present, then coming through the Mayoress's parlour into the grand old hall, which had been decorated with palms and flowers, Miss Terry had a magnificent reception, some 300 of the leading citizens and their wives cheering again and again.

The Mayor, in his robes and chain of office, said: "Miss Ellen Terry, Sir Albert Seymour, ladies and gentlemen,—I am sure it has been a great pleasure to assemble here for the purpose of giving Miss Ellen Terry a hearty welcome upon this visit to her native city. We would add in all sincerity our congratulations to the many expressions of admiration and esteem which have been recently voiced in connection with Miss Terry's distinguished career in dramatic art. By her genius she has secured a high place in the temple of fame, but her noblest position rests upon the broad foundation of human affection. Miss Terry has won her way close to the heart of the public. Conscience and character have been influenced by her powerful insight into human nature; emotion has yielded its tears and gladness its pleasant smiles. The true artist does not merely amuse or entertain, but leaves a real impression on the mind; nay, more, the mind is moved to hitherto unknown depths and reveals new beauties and perhaps greater possibilities. It is because Miss Terry has proved herself a true artist in the highest sense of the term that we delight to render her honour. Coventry is not so closely associated with the name of any other notable exponent of the drama, and in this sphere of art Miss Terry is therefore our dearest treasure, our bright and glorious star. In asking her kind acceptance of this illuminated address, I beg of her to do so, accompanied with the assurance that it represents the best wishes, the proud congratulations, and the widest esteem of the people of her native city." The Town Clerk then read the address, which was as follows:—

"CITY OF COVENTRY.

"To Miss Ellen Terry,

"We, the Mayor, Aldermen, and citizens of the city of Coventry, offer to you a most hearty welcome on the occasion of your visit to your native city. To us belongs the privilege of claiming you as our illustrious townswoman. To you the ties of birth make dear the city which we love so well. We are proud to welcome you as representing the ideal in historic art; and it is our pleasure to express to you our admiration for your own personal accomplishments and achievements, which other people have delighted to honour and admire. Our sincere hope is that you may be spared to enjoy long life and happiness, and that the love of your native city may increase as time rolls on his ceaseless course. Given under our Corporate seal this 30th day of June, 1906."

The address was artistically illuminated in gold and colours. The city arms were depicted at the top, and at the base were the initials of Miss Terry. The lettering was in old English, with an elaborate border, and bore the signature of the Mayor, together with the Corporate seal, and framed in a handsome frame of classic design.

Miss ELLEN TERRY, whose rising to reply was greeted with loud and long continued applause, said, "Mr. Mayor, Aldermen and Citizens of the City of Coventry,—The honour you have done me to-day makes me very proud. It seems to me quite wonderful that in this busy manufacturing town, the centre of great industries, you should be able to keep a place in your thoughts for one who has done nothing for you except to be born here. Even that I seemed to have muddled, for am not I credited with two birthplaces in the same street? I wish I could say with Hood, 'I remember, I remember, the place where I was born,' but I cannot. As my dear mother's Market-street topography was always a little hazy, I fear that must always remain unsettled as far as I am concerned; at any rate, I am proud that I was born in Coventry. It was a very happy omen that made me a native of Warwickshire—Shakespeare's own county—and you will not blame me, I hope, for loving Coventry the more because it neighbours Stratford-on-Avon. I shall always value this beautiful address, not only because it is a token that kind hearts beat here who are glad to count me a fellow citizen, but also because it shows me that you sympathise with the work that I have been able to accomplish during the last 50 years. The welcome you have given me to-day means that you in Coventry have a real love for the art which I have striven to serve, and I hope that the new theatre that I had the pleasure of inaugurating just now may stimulate and increase that love. Mr. Mayor, I do thank you and your fellow townsmen with all my heart for your esteem and goodwill, and I hope that you will believe that this has been one of the best days in the life of a Coventry woman."

MR. MASON, M.P., proposed, and Alderman WEBB FOWLER (Deputy-Mayor) seconded, a vote of thanks to the Mayor for his part in the day's proceedings.

After the ceremony had ended, Miss Terry walked leisurely among the guests, chatting freely and shaking almost everyone by the hand. St. Mary's Hall, which is a beautiful mediæval building of the local trade guilds, was afterwards inspected, and the party subsequently drove through the town in motor-cars. Every part of the route was lined with spectators, and great enthusiasm was shown when the cars stopped at the street in which Miss Terry's birthplace is situated. The tour of the town being completed Miss Terry, conducted by the Mayor and Mayoress, proceeded to the station and returned to London by the four o'clock train.

MISS ELLEN TERRY AT COVENTRY.

THE LATE SENOR GARCIA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In recording the death of Manuel Garcia, the wonderful centenarian, it has been stated that "he never smoked." That is not true, for on the occasion of the grand banquet which was given at the Hotel Cecil in celebration of Señor Garcia's hundredth birthday on March 17, 1905, and at which I was present, I saw him smoke a cigarette.

ALGERNON ASHTON.

Hamilton-gardens, St. John's Wood.

MR. CLAUDE AVELING, who possesses remarkable skill in adapting Latin and other foreign works to English idiom, while preserving the poetic qualities of the text, has done for the Covent Garden authorities the English version of Glück's setting of Armida. Sully, it should be noted, set the same book by Quinault some years before Glück did.

MR. RUDOLPH ARONSON, who has recently been on a visit to Milan, has signed with Maëstro Leoncavallo for the initial production of his new opera, La Jeunesse de Figaro (the libretto by Victorien Sardou) in New York in 1907.

DEATH OF MANUEL GARCIA.

A remarkable figure of the musical world passed away on Sunday, when Señor Manuel Garcia died in his sleep at his residence at Cricklewood at the great age of 101. Little more than a twelvemonth has passed since the celebrations of his centenary were made, the rejoicings attaining world-wide proportions. On that occasion, the King, in addition to receiving Señor Garcia in person at Buckingham Palace, also conferred upon him the honorary Commandership of the Royal Victorian Order. The King of Spain invested him with the Royal Order of Alfonso XII., and the German Emperor awarded him the much-prized Great Gold Medal for Science. Addresses were presented by various learned and scientific societies, including the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music, and his portrait, painted by Mr. John S. Sargent, was handed to him. A banquet in his honour was held the same evening, at which he replied to the toast of his health in a speech of profound sentiment.

Manuel Garcia's claim to fame rests principally upon his invention of the laryngoscope, an instrument by which diseases of the throat could be correctly diagnosed. He was not, strictly speaking, the first to employ a mirror for the purpose of examining the throat, but it was as a result of his investigations and experiments that the idea was made practical in its application. The method of making scientific use of the voice in speaking and in singing is due to his discoveries of the action of the vocal cords and of the glottis in the production of sound. In one instance, at least, his knowledge and his ability in applying it was the means of saving a valuable voice, namely, that of Mme. Jenny Lind, who, in 1841, finding that her voice was suffering from strain and incorrect production, went from London to Paris to consult the young professor of singing, who had won a considerable reputation as a vocal teacher, having in the previous year laid before the Institut de France his "Mémoire sur la voix humaine," which embodied the discoveries he had made relative to the mechanism of the voice.

Born at Zafra, in Catalonia, on March 17, 1805, Manuel Garcia, at the age of fifteen began his musical studies under François Joseph Fétis and his father, Manuel del Popolo Vicente Garcia, who was a man of many gifts. Not only was he celebrated as the tenor singer for whom Rossini composed the part of the Almaviva in his Il Barbiere di Siviglia, but also as a composer of over thirty operas in Italian, Spanish, and French, many of which were highly successful. He had a remarkable gift of extemporisation, which stood him in good stead in the course of his work as singer, composer, conductor, and impresario. In 1825 Manuel Garcia came with his father and his sister Maria, who afterwards became famous as the contralto singer Malibran, to England. At the end of the same year the family proceeded on an operatic tour to America, where Manuel Garcia took part in the first performance ever given in New York of Rossini's Il Barbiere.

Afterwards, the Garcias produced Rossini's Otello, with the elder Garcia as the Moor and young Manuel Garcia as Iago, Malibran being Desdemona. The season was entirely successful, but during a subsequent visit to Mexico the family fell into the hands of brigands, and was robbed of all its savings. A return was made to Paris, where the elder Garcia abandoned the stage, and adopted the teaching of singing; while the younger, whose taste for adventure had been aroused, secured an appointment in the commissariat of the French Army, which he held until the taking of Algiers. He then began the study of medicine, at the same time giving his attention to the vocal organs. Consequent upon his investigations he began the work of teaching, which led to his appointment by Auber as professor of singing at the Paris Conservatoire in 1847. He published in that year his famous "Traité complet de l'art du chant." A year later, in consequence of the troubled condition of affairs in France, which were inimical to artistic pursuits, Manuel Garcia came to London, and in the autumn of 1848 was appointed to a professorship at the Royal Academy of Music, a post which he held for forty-seven years.

The story of how Señor Garcia invented the laryngoscope is best told in his own words: "I was strolling in the Palais Royal, Paris, one September day in 1854, when I saw in a shop window two mirrors in a position that seemed to me the proper method for examining the throat. I immediately bought a dentist's mirror—such as is used for examining teeth—and placing it against the uvula and flashing on its surface with a hand-mirror a ray of sunlight I saw at once the glottis wide open before me, and so fully exposed that I could see a portion of the trachea. From what I then witnessed it was easy to conclude that the theory attributing to the glottis alone the power of engendering sound was confirmed." Next year Garcia presented a paper on the subject to the Royal Society, entitled "Physiological Observations on the Human Voice." It was then found that more than twenty years earlier Babington had devised a similar apparatus, but he had never examined his own larynx as the Spanish maestro did. Strangely enough, the medical profession was slow to realise what an invaluable instrument for observation Garcia had provided them with. For years superior persons treated the laryngoscope as a "physiological toy." Nor was it in England that its value was first recognised. That distinction belongs to Czermak, of Buda-Pesth, who made a tour of the medical centres of Europe to demonstrate the scientific and practical possibilities of the invention. Huxley declared that in the laryngoscope the physician had gained "a new ally against disease, and a valuable addition to that series of instruments, all of which, from the stethoscope onwards, had come into use within the memory of living men, and the employment of which had effected a revolution in medicine."

In practice Garcia was always careful to secure proper use of these registers on the part of the pupil. Ever courteous and ever patient, his lessons were always of the utmost value to the student in search of knowledge. The first step consisted invariably of the production of a steady tone, deep breathing being insisted on for the purpose.

The famous coup de glotte, or shock of the glottis, with which his name is associated, has often been misapplied from ignorance of its real object, which was to secure that the vocal cords were closed at the commencement of the tone and that there was consequently no preliminary escape of the breath. How far his methods, which also included the imparting of a remarkable grasp of every phase of vocal expression, were successful is to be gathered from the list of his pupils, which includes some of the most prominent representatives in the world of vocal art. First among those still remembered is that of Mme. Jenny Lind, and at a later period come Mme. Mathilde Marchesi, Mr. Charles Santley, Herr Julius Stockhausen, Mme. Antoinette Sterling, and many others who have established a reputation for themselves. Another pupil was Mr. Gustave Garcia, who is still an active exponent of his father's great method.

Manuel Garcia was a member of the Legion of Honour and a Knight of several Orders of Chivalry, the insignia of which had on different occasions been conferred upon him by Continental Sovereigns in recognition of his services to musical art. His vitality was to the last extraordinary. It is not more than a few weeks ago that he was at a Philharmonic concert at Queen's Hall, and keenly enjoyed the music, and so active was he that he refused with indignation an offer to be helped up or down the steps.

Señor Manuel Garcia was buried on Wednesday morning, in a private burying-ground attached to the Catholic Chapel of St. Edward's, at Sutton-place, near Woking. In compliance with his wishes only the nearest relatives were present, with his valued friends, Sir Felix Semon and Mr. Charles Hallé, and his physician, Dr. Paul Griffith.

KEATS—SHELLEY MEMORIAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Some three years ago a group of British and American literary men in Rome, at the initiative, to their honour be it said, of the American members, organised informally a movement to purchase by popular subscription the house on the Piazza di Spagna in which John Keats died, and to establish therein a permanent memorial of Keats and Shelley, consisting of a library of their works in various editions, together with portraits and manuscripts connected with them. The trustees of the memorial would also assist in protecting from future disturbance the graves of the poets and of their two companions, Severn and Trelawny, who are buried beside them in the beautiful cemetery outside the Porta San Paolo.

Committees have been formed in England and the United States to give effect to the project. His Majesty King Edward, to whom the scheme was early submitted, has been graciously pleased to signify his sympathy with the labour of love which united the two great branches of the English-speaking race in doing honour to the poets' memory. The President of the United States has also given warm-hearted testimony to his anxiety to see the project realised. It is a further matter of special gratification to know that King Victor Emmanuel has chivalrously extended the hand of welcome to the proposed institution.

The first great difficulties which beset the acquisition of the house have been surmounted, and the British and American Committees are at length able to announce publicly that they have secured an option on the property, thanks to the support which has been privately enlisted. They now trust to the generosity of all lovers of English poetry to enable them to complete the purchase and place the house beyond danger of destruction or absorption (as at one time threatened) into a big hotel. The time available for the completion of the purchase is necessarily limited, and the response must be prompt and generous if this appeal is not to be made in vain. It is hoped, too, that the humbler contributions of less wealthy admirers of Keats and Shelley will help to reinforce the contributions of those who are better able to afford larger sums. Up to now the amount raised privately has been on a much more generous scale in America than on this side of the water, and Great Britain owes it to herself, as the birthplace of these two immortals, to redress the balance.

The sum required for the actual purchase of the house is slightly over £4,000, but it is hoped that it may be possible to collect more than the sum necessary for the mere acquisition of the house, in order that sufficient means may be provided to equip it worthily, to provide for its structural maintenance, caretaking, &c., and possibly to make it hereafter a centre from which a love of poetry and literature in our language may be diffused.

The Committees appeal, therefore, not only for the purchase money, but for enough to provide an ample endowment fund, and in such a cause they do not think that they will appeal in vain to the many thousands of their fellow-countrymen and women who cherish the memory of the two poets and are grateful and devoted admirers of their works.

Donations may be sent either to the Honorary Secretary, as below, 120, Victoria-street, S.W., or to Messrs. Child and Co., bankers, 1, Fleet-street, E.C., for account of the Keats—Shelley Memorial.

ACTORS' DAY.

We publish to-day a fourth list of those who have promised their support on Actors' Day. Since the details of the scheme have been laid before our readers, the committee have received every day a substantial addition to the number of volunteers, accompanied in a large number of cases by letters expressing keen interest in, and entire approval of, the proposal. They hope in time that every member of the profession will be on the list. The committee gratefully acknowledge the assistance of all who are helping them to achieve this result. The following are the additional names:—Charles Allan, William Allison, Henry Armstrong, Cyril Austin-Lee, Madge Beresford, Esmé Beringer, Vera Beringer, Ada Blanche, Joe Bracewell, Ethel Bracewell, Arthur G. Brown, Maude Buchanan, William Burchill, May Carnegy, Alice Chapin, Harold Chapin, Albert Chevalier, Alfred H. Clarke, Wilfrid Compton, Mildred Cottell, Vera Cunningham, Coleman Davies, Georgie De Lara, Georgina Delmar, Ada Dempster, Alfred Denville, Marie De Solla, John Douglas, Arthur F. Dudley, Hubert Dunbar, Pollie Emery, Winsome Etherington, Paula Fernan, Alec. Findlater, Isabel Fladgate, H. Athol Forde, Robert Forsyth, Hawley Francks, H. George, Ina Goldsmith, Louise Graeme, Sybil Hare, Louis E. Hector, Agnes Hill, C. L. Mason Holmes, Mrs. C. L. M. Holmes, Eric Hudson, Herbert Jarman, Arthur T. Jones, Charles Langley, Jessie Price Langley, Horace Lingard, George Henrique Liot, Emma Litchfield, Charles L. Ludlow, Harry McFarland, Aubrey Mallalieu, Mary Mallalieu, Nellie Mallalieu, Jerrold Manville, Arthur B. Murray, David G. Noble, Theresa Osborne, Robson Paige, Frederick Park, Henry Parr, Kate Parry, Emily Patterson, Grace Richardson, W. E. Richardson, George Riddell, Helena Rigby, Harry Royce, Agnes St. Clair, Kate Saville, Madge Severn, G. H. Snazelle, Edith Stewart, Augustin Symonds, Mabel Syringa, George Tempest, Thomas Thorne, A. E. Walker, Nellie V. Warden, Harry Welchman, Laurence White, Leonard Williams, Henry Worrall, May Wright, Edwin H. Wynne.

As it is, unfortunately impossible to communicate directly with all who are interested in Actors' Day, the committee ask for the co-operation of all who are willing to assist in the work of organisation. Copies of the appeal and forms for signature, will be sent to those who will be kind enough to write for them.

If one member in each company playing, and residents in different parts of the country, would do this, and endeavour to obtain promises of help from their friends, they would be rendering excellent service.

All communications should be addressed to the Actors' Day Organising Committee, 10, King-street, Covent Garden, W.C.

"PUT IT IN BLACK AND WHITE."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—With reference to Mr. Herbert Blackmore's letter to The Era on the subject of theatrical engagements, I am strongly of opinion that the verdict against the Vaudeville Theatre, viz.—"That all engagements are for the run of the play, unless there is a written contract to the contrary," ought to become a precedent for theatrical custom. In these days, when the theatrical profession is so over stocked and engagements for so many are few and far between, it is most important that an actor or actress should be protected from the danger of being turned out of work in a fortnight at the caprice of his or her manager. By all means have every engagement settled by contract, but failing this let the artist have the guarantee of work which a successful run affords as secured by the Vaudeville Theatre verdict.—Yours faithfully,

CHARLES ALLAN.

Lyric Theatre,
June 29, 1906.

Sir,—This "custom of the profession" has been argued from all its different aspects times without number. Now we have got it settled for us, and surely that is a very excellent thing, for we have proved absolutely incapable of settling it for ourselves. In my contracts I have a definite clause stating that the agreement "may be determined by either party giving a fortnight's notice, in writing, dating from a Saturday." This is such an easy thing to insert when one is drafting out an agreement form, and yet of such importance, that I do not think there need be much sympathy extended to anyone who deliberately has ignored it. But now that we have got our "custom" defined for us, is it any use telling each other what our respective opinion may be? We have been asked the question, and have been able to give no definite answer for ourselves. Now we know.—Yours faithfully,

WALTER MAXWELL.

HERBERT CAMPBELL MEMORIAL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

Sir,—Will you kindly inform the friends and subscribers to the Herbert Campbell Memorial that the work has now been completed. Mr. Harry Randall, the Chairman of the fund, and myself, to-day inspected the very handsome obelisk which has been erected to our dear old friend's memory by Messrs. Winter in Abney Park Cemetery.

The monument is in red polished granite, and on the face has the following cut in clear gold letters:—

Sacred to the Memory of Herbert Campbell
(Herbert Edward Story),
Comedian,
Who departed this life on July 19, 1904.
This monument was erected to his memory by a few friends, in affectionate remembrance.

The memorial is erected very close to the entrance to the cemetery, from Stoke Newington-road, near to Stoke Newington station on the G.E.R. and Alexandra Theatre.

The grave is very near to that of Nelly Power, George Leybourne, and Walter Laburnum.

On behalf of Mr. Harry Randall and myself, I wish to thank the subscribers to the fund, and trust they will visit the cemetery themselves and view the very handsome memorial.—I am, sir, yours truly,

HENRY JOYNER.

ALBERT CHEVALIER

IN "PANTALOON," BY J. M. BARRIE.
DUKE OF YORK'S THEATRE.
Sole Representative for Mr. Chevalier, Mr. Ingle 7, Dorset-road, Ealing.

Pall Mall Gazette.—That Mr. Chevalier would do well in the part was never in doubt. But few, we imagine, were prepared for so great a triumph. Mr. Chevalier had some friends in the house, who greeted him warmly on his first entrance. But they were not enough to make one-tenth of the uproar of approbation at the fall of the curtain, and Mr. Chevalier, who was almost overcome by his reception, had to appear again and again. On the grotesque, fantastic side of Pantaloon's character he did not lay very much stress, but the pathetic passages he handled with a delicacy and a power, a variety, and a resource that carried all before them. On Saturday the audience was visibly affected. It was very quiet while the play was going on, but at the end its pent-up feelings expressed themselves in a scene the like of which we cannot recall this side of the late Sir Henry Irving's last season at Drury Lane. We imagine that Mr. Frohman will be emboldened to give Mr. Chevalier (who is admirably supported by Miss Pauline Chase in her old part of Columbine) a show in some drama of—to use an American phrase—"great heart interest." Mr. Chevalier is an actor of the Robson stamp, and though Robson drama has long been out of fashion in the West End, it is quite within the power of Mr. Chevalier's genius to bring it again into vogue, purged, of course, of its crudeness.

The Times.—On Saturday two old plays were revived, Mr. Barrie's Pantaloon and Mr. Lennox's The Marriage of Kitty. In the former Mr. Albert Chevalier takes up the part of Pantaloon, the Old 'Un, who has grown too old to be funny, and must give his daughter Columbine in marriage to the Clown if he is to keep his place in the company. And Mr. Chevalier played the part to perfection, keeping his audience between tears and laughter and wholly delighted with Mr. Barrie's fantastic, impishly sentimental little comedy. To watch Mr. Chevalier's face when, on Columbine's return, he feels the familiar rub of the red-hot poker on his legs and learns that she and Harlequin are the parents of a real clown, to see him beg his old master for a bite of his sausage and quail before the terrible reply, "I only bites with the perfession" is to be absurdly moved with emotion. Of Mr. Chevalier, we can only say what the Old 'Un said of the Clown, "What a hartist he is."

The Daily Telegraph.—The present revival brings back to the legitimate stage Mr. Albert Chevalier, after an interval of fifteen years, if his brief appearance some little time ago at the Royalty in musical comedy may be ruled out of the count. The return of so versatile, so resourceful, and so clever an artist to the medium in which he first made his mark is distinctly a subject of congratulation, and it may be hoped that, admirable as his platform sketches are, more may be seen of Mr. Chevalier in the immediate future at the theatre. His impersonation of the old Pantaloon in Mr. Barrie's playlet conclusively showed that his art is as fine and as polished as ever. Nervousness doubtless lent to his opening scenes a certain air of formality, of stiffness, of premeditation. But as the actor warmed to his work this impression wore off, and on the fall of the curtain Mr. Chevalier received an ovation the warmth and sincerity of which abundantly testified to the powerful effect his performance had produced on all present.

The Morning Post.—Mr. Chevalier acted Pantaloon as a human being. He had to reproduce the "business" and "gags" of pantomime, but that was his misfortune. You did not judge him by it. It was as if one had St. Vitus's dance and could not control his actions. He made one forget his clothes, and acted the part as a "straight" part. His Pantaloon was simply a weak, kindly, sore-troubled, down-trodden old man; in the second act half senile. And Mr. Chevalier from the moment he got over his nervousness acted magnificently. To match his impersonation one has to go back to the Corporal Brewster of the late Sir Henry Irving. The result was that there was almost unbroken silence during the play, but on the curtain falling there went up a vast roar, which continued until the curtain had risen and fallen many, many times. Nor was the curtain worked quickly, as it sometimes is when it is desired to put the best appearance on things. Those who have steadily refused to recognise Mr. Chevalier as an actor—he is among the greatest we have—are silenced, and we can only hope that Mr. Frohman will see his way to "presenting" Mr. Chevalier in characters worthy his abilities.

The Referee.—A most finished and attractive impersonation. His acting towards the end, when the family-forsaken and playgoer-neglected 'Old-'Un" welcomed back his Columbine daughter and Harlequin son-in-law because they had brought him back a little "kid" who already shaped as a clown, was touching in the extreme. Mr. Chevalier received some nine or ten calls at the end of the little piece.

Daily Graphic.—Mr. Albert Chevalier, who has not been seen on the regular stage for many years, plays this character brilliantly, and his performance was a triumphant success. He gave us the real decrepit "fallen star" in a manner that was at once subtle and beautiful, and at the end he reached a fine climax of emotion when the old man realises that he has a grandson—a young clown. Mr. Chevalier is so fine an actor that it is much to be hoped that after this signal triumph he will remain in London and appear in another play.

The People.—The comedy was preceded by Mr. J. M. Barrie's little play, Pantaloon, to the revival of which a special distinction was given by the return to the regular stage of Mr. Albert Chevalier, who appeared in the title part. It was a performance which roused the audience to great enthusiasm; time after time the curtain was raised for Mr. Chevalier to bow acknowledgment of a genuine ovation.

Evening Standard.—Mr. Chevalier's Success.—Mr. Albert Chevalier's appearance as Mr. Barrie's Pantaloon gave us another little flash of something rather close to genius. On the previous afternoon, at the same theatre, we had seen him hold his own as an artist, in every sense of the term, with Mme. Yvette Guilbert. On Saturday evening he played the Pantaloon exquisitely. It was something to remember.

Sun.—That Mr. Albert Chevalier possesses the true instincts of the actor, no one who has listened to him singing his Coster songs needs to be told, but I rather fancy his performance as the "Old 'Un" in Mr. Barrie's Pantaloon at the Duke of York's on Saturday night came as something of a revelation. The scene with "fairy" and the "boy," when he is compelled to tell them that the clown, his master, wants his child for wife, was perfect in its sincerity, but best of all was the joy of the old man when Harlequin and Columbine come as the returned wanderers with "the kid," who is ready to play the baby clown to this aged and neglected pantaloon. Mr. Chevalier roused his audience to a degree of enthusiasm not often witnessed in the theatre, and was called again and again at curtain fall.

The Daily Mail.—The evening was chiefly notable for the fact that Mr. Chevalier returned to the "legitimate" stage. Those who know and admire Mr. Chevalier's delightfully artistic methods—and who does not?—will be able to picture him as the quavering, proud, humble old Pantaloon. One realised the full beauty of the character on Saturday evening. Mr. Chevalier drew the tears of the whole house, and was called again and again at the fall of the curtain.

THE HIPPODROME.

In the acquisition of ethnological novelty the management of the Moss' Empires, Limited, has shown considerable enterprise. Not long since audiences were attracted to the London Hippodrome by the appearance and performances of the Pygmies—interesting dwarfs from Central Africa, and on Monday some curious specimens of an almost extinct race in Central America were exhibited for the first time in the arena of the fine house in Cranbourn-street. The "Three Small Heads" are females, aged respectively 18, 17, and 16 years, who vary in height from 3ft. 6in. to 4ft. They are carried into the arena in palanquins borne by black men. They are unquestionably most curious specimens of humanity, if such a term can be legitimately applied to them, as owing to the peculiar conformation of their jaws and the shape of their tongue they have no intelligible language. They can do nothing apparently but walk, and even their gait is most eccentric, being both unsteady and slovenly, and their deportment quaint. They grin incessantly, and are very imitative, clapping their hands with delight after noting the action of the audience. The skull of each is totally deficient of formation when compared with that of a human being. The back portion of the cephalus is non-existent, and the brain is consequently exceedingly small, its estimated weight being about 250 grammes, whereas the average human brain in a female weighs from 1,175 to 1,875 grammes. The apex of the skull is about the size of a five shilling piece. These creatures are said to be perfectly normal from the nape of the neck downwards, but are singularly weak in the facial muscles, resulting in the most extraordinary grimaces. By the process of retrogression and degeneration they have reached the lowest type of the human form, and from an ethnological standpoint they are altogether unique, and well worth a more minute inspection that seems permissible.

Among other prominent items in a really excellent programme are Morton and Elliott, who while singing duets "tear out" designs of great intricacy and rare beauty from quires of coloured paper, the "lacy" effects produced being very remarkable. Albertus and Miller in their act, A Scene at the Fair Grounds, are responsible for versatility. The lady of the duo plays cornet solos, and the pair prove themselves to be astonishingly rapid and expert in their manipulation of Indian clubs. Staley's act is a surprising novelty to many of the audience, though it is not new to London, having been seen a few years since at the Palace. We first see the trio of performers in a cooper's shed, wherein they produce melody from all kinds of unpromising objects. They stroll about with the greatest unconcern, when, hey, presto! at the sound of a whistle the stage is darkened, and when the lights go up a moment afterwards our friends the coopers come forward in evening dress in a brilliantly-lighted drawing-room. One of them—we are now certain—is a lady, who dances charmingly in skirts, the gentlemen of the party sharing the success of a violin and pianoforte duet, the subject of which is the much-hackneyed "Miserere" scene from Il Trovatore. The performers get back to the original scene, the lady, however, retaining her skirts. The lightning change or startling transformation—whichever we choose to call it—affords a legitimate surprise, and the house warms to enthusiasm at the conclusion of a very ingenious act. The Three Olympiers, fine specimens of athletic manhood, whose nude forms are coated in silver bronze, reproduce a series of groups of statuary from the antique. They look graceful representatives of classic heroes when they support "the earth," and their final picture—a happy adaptation of classicism to modern surroundings—is a great success.

A very remarkable exhibition of skill on the wire is given by James H. Jee, who leaps over six chairs placed upon the thread of steel and retains his balance. Mr. Jee is very daring in his slack wire feats, and his grace, alertness, and finish place him far beyond the ruck of performers in his line. The attractiveness of his turn is assisted by the charming appearance of the young lady who assists. Max Yorke's educated dogs are quite equal to a game of leapfrog or to somersaults. They are imitative, highly intelligent little creatures, are these fox terriers, one of them turning somersaults with as much ease as his master, and doing it with an aplomb and willingness that excite the audience to enthusiasm.

It would be impossible to see a more graceful or pretty group of girls on bicycles than the Kauffmann troupe, whose intricate evolutions are admirably performed. The trick cycling is also interesting, and the exit of the whole octet on one bike remarkably effective. The Trapnell Family sustain their reputation, which is very high, by their somersaults and shoulder balancing. The smallest performer creates considerable amusement by his deftness and imperturbability in a series of feats with his elders. Other acrobatic and gymnastic turns include the Jurgens Trio, gymnasts on globes; the Barowskys, head and hand balancers; Lavater Lee, acrobatic humourist, and the Lios Alfas, gymnasts.

Mr. Lloyd Langdon, a tenor new to us, is heard in "Homeland of my heart," the words being by Herbert Shelley, and the pretty illustrations emphasise the well-expressed sentiment of the number, to which Mr. Langdon does complete justice, his purity of intonation and his sweetness of voice evoking considerable applause. The entertainment is still wound up in a sensational manner by The Flood, the waters of which in their terrific descent of the mountain gorge create a deliciously cool atmosphere, and make the Hippodrome positively the coolest lounge in London. One can listen to Mr. Arthur Shirley's story in circumstances that make one forget the torrid heat of July that is experienced outside.

The death is announced of Laurinea Solomons, the wife of Leo Solomons, and the youngest daughter of Professor Alf. Ball, at 1, Weldon-street, Kettering, where the funeral took place on Monday. Wreaths were sent by the bereaved husband, the mother, father, sister, and other relatives, also from Mr. and Mrs. Thurston, Mr. and Mrs. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Bromich and Family, Mrs. H. Hughes, Mrs. Clark, Mrs. Partridge, and many others.

The twelfth annual gathering of the friends and staff of the Birmingham Empire was held on Sunday last at Bidford-on-Avon, where a most enjoyable time was spent Mr. A. W. Matcham had charge of the party, which numbered upwards of a hundred. Journeying in saloon carriages to Stratford, the party afterwards proceeded in coaches to Bidford, where a cricket match was arranged, Friends versus Staff. Dinner was put on at the White Lion, after which a fishing contest for members of the staff took place, the prizes falling to Harry Barrett (first, clock); T. Foukes (second, a fishing-rod); and Harry Calver (third, a hundred cigars). Boating proved very attractive, and after tea the party returned to Stratford by road, finally reaching Birmingham by rail at nine in the evening, after one of the most delightful outings on record. Those present and who contributed to the felicity of the event included also Mr. W. P. Wells, assistant-manager; Mr. Albert Bushell, Gaiety; Mr. Edward Foster, Bordesley Palace; and Mr. P. D. Elbourne, Hippodrome. The speeches were commendably brief, and evoked hearty responses.

Mr. Robert Forsyth is doing record business at the Pier Pavilion, Bognor. The Jamaica Choir are there this week, and are charming everybody by their beautiful singing.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

The staff and employees of the Shakespeare Theatre, Clapham, had a very enjoyable outing on Sunday last, in delightful weather. Starting from the theatre, the party, which numbered about fifty, journeyed in two well-appointed brakes to Burnham Beeches, where the day was spent. Luncheon was served at the Crown Hotel, and was presided over by Mr. E. Body, the popular acting-manager.

After the usual loyal toasts had been honoured, Mr. Body proposed the health and success of Mr. and Mrs. Bennett. That they met under such happy circumstances was largely due to the energy with which Mr. Bennett had worked to ensure the success of the outing, and also to the generous local support received, which, on their behalf, he gratefully acknowledged. During the day various sports were held, in which Messrs. Hook and Barclay were the chief prize winners. The return journey was made in good time, and the party got back to Clapham after spending what was admittedly the most enjoyable outing they had ever had.

On Sunday, July 1st, the entire staff and orchestra of the New Theatre Royal, Birkenhead, took their first outing. The party, which numbered about sixty, and included Mr. W. W. Kelly, the proprietor, journeyed to Chester, where at the "Hop Pole" Hotel an excellent dinner was provided. The afternoon was devoted to a trip up the river, and an "al fresco" five o'clock tea was presided over by the ladies of the staff. A return to the city was made for supper, after which thanks were offered to Mr. Kelly for his generosity as well as his presence, which so materially tended to make all pleasant, for the worthy chief was in one of his merriest moods. In response to the toast of the healths of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly, the former expressed his delight at the day's outing, and took the opportunity to thank his staff for their services and loyalty towards the great success of the New Theatre. Thanks were also tendered to Mr. J. B. Kelly, secretary, Miss Harvey, treasurer, and the remainder of the committee for the excellence of the management.

The "Tipping Question" seems to have aroused considerable discussion at the weekly meetings of the members of the Variety Artists' Federation. It would be interesting to know to what extent this practice prevails, and who ultimately benefits by it. Presumably there are others besides the members of the stage staff who apparently benefit by the largesse of the artists. So far as the stage working staff are concerned, it often happens that some of them are requested to do some special service for the artist, and the present given is often less than the artist would have to pay had he to call in the help of those not connected with the staff. It may be, of course, that no objection is entertained by the artist to giving donations or remuneration for special services, and that the ground of complaint is that some employees expect something for nothing.

There is no doubt but that the practice has caused much friction between artists and employees and between the employees themselves, with a loss of mutual respect on both sides. In the West-End, generally, an arrangement exists which is, perhaps, the best possible one in the circumstances. The money given by artists, either by way of payment for special attention or extra work, or "tips" given to make things go smooth, or in pure kindness of heart, go into the Outing Fund, and all members of the working staff benefit in an equal degree. It may be that in such places where the remuneration received by the staff from the management is small the "tipping system" is abused, and verges close on imposition. The management know that the system exists, and in some cases justify the low wages by allusion to such sources of additions to the weekly earnings—or takings, as one might say.

In either case the artists have the remedy in their own hands, and no doubt the National Association of Theatrical Employees would be willing to co-operate with the Federation in removing from the system its more pernicious elements. One rule the artists might make for themselves, and that is, not to help those who are not trying to raise their status above such means of making a living. The employees have a right to expect a fair wage from the management; with such a wage they would have no excuse, if indeed they have now, to try to share the earnings of the artists.

It is estimated that a sum close upon £1,000 is raised and disbursed in connection with the annual outings of the staff representing the theatres and music halls in the West-End and inner circle of the Metropolis. This large sum indicates what an enormous amount must be spent annually in this country in this way. Almost the whole is raised by donations from managers, actors, artists, and tradespeople. The figures stated and the purposes to which this sum is devoted arouse reflections by no means reassuring to those who attach more importance to efforts made for the purpose of securing the more general well-being of theatrical employees than one day's enjoyment, however satisfactory such day may be as a "blow out," to use the common term describing these outings.

In one case the front of the house attendants have collected over £50 for their outing. The attendants in this case numbered about fifteen. All the expenses of the day in regard to fares, dinner, tea, drives, &c., are paid from the common fund, and the balance is divided. Some of the subscribers have given £10 10s. at one theatre and £5 5s. at others. One manager is stated to have subscribed from £25 to £30 between the funds of several theatres in which he is interested.

If we consider the purpose of these outings, it may be granted that where they bring all engaged in a theatre into contact—manager, stage-manager, and staff—and thus create a better social feeling, they serve a good purpose, but it is obvious that few outings are so representative or produce such a result. In many cases it is just a day for eating and drinking a larger and more varied quantity than usual. The silver sea, the leafy lane, the field of ripening corn are things seen and passed by in haste to get from one place to another. In this way £1,000 is dispersed! It has helped few, if any, to supply some real need, to remove some irksome burden. Little, if any, of this vast sum is saved for the inevitable "bad time"—a time more certain in the course of days in the theatrical world than in any other.

When one considers that there is no National Benevolent Fund in existence for the benefit of stage employees, and that such a fund is urgently needed to help those who suffer unmerited hardship, and are often in absolute destitution, through circumstances over which they have no control, it seems deplorable that so much money should be spent in less worthy ways.

We have, for example, a thoroughly representative Committee who organised the Theatrical Sports to raise the nucleus of a National Benevolent Fund The members of it worked for months, giving their time and services, and as a result of their labours a sum of about £15 has been raised! No manager sent £10, or even £2 2s. to that fund. With £500—one-half of the sum raised in the West-End for these outings—a benevolent fund could be started, which would bring far more happiness to those in need than is ever likely to come from a "blow out." The generosity of the profession is proverbial, and if it were exercised in well-considered efforts to relieve undeserved distress it would work incalculable good.

GUILDHALL OPERATIC STUDENTS.

On Thursday evening, July 5, a performance of John Barnett's Mountain Sylph was given at the Guildhall School of Music by the members of the Opera Class. John Barnett, born in 1802, at Bedford, was the son of a Prussian jeweller, who changed his name from Bernhart Beer to Barnett on settling in England. The Mountain Sylph therefore cannot entirely be called English opera. Mr. Barnett has written nearly four thousand songs and several operas, but the present work will always be considered his principal opera, and though sounding somewhat thin and jaded at the present day, the famous air, "The Magic Wove Scarf," at one time so popular in the concert room, will always prevent the opera being forgotten. The authorities at the Guildhall School are therefore wise in giving works in which their youthful operatic aspirants are not likely to go far wrong In the cast Miss Julie C. Huntsman, who, on several occasions, has given proof of her ability as an actress, undertook the part of Dame Gourlie, while Miss Frances M. Langton sang the music of Jessie with taste and expression. Miss Emmeline M. Coppin made a picturesque Æolia (the Mountain Sylph), singing with freedom and ability. Mr. Edwin Lewis gave at first a slightly tame rendering of Donald's music, but greatly improved later on in the opera, and Mr. W. L. Soliague showed a broad comedy spirit in the character of Christie, a rival suitor for the hand of Jessie. Baillie Macwhapple was capitally enacted by Mr. Charles Pope, and Mr. E. Robert Carr made an effective Hela, the part of Etheria being cleverly taken by Miss Lillian J. Smith. The first and second girls were sung by Misses D. Pratt and Winifred Popham, and the first witch by Mr. Robert Moore. The scenery, painted by Mr. Hemsley and Mr. Schönberg, was picturesque and appropriate, and the stage management, under the direction of M. B. Soutten, most effective. The chorus and small orchestra, under the conductorship of Mr. Richard Walthew, rendered good service. The costumes were kindly lent by the Royal Opera Syndicate and the Royal College of Music. Mrs. Charles B. Smith, as usual, superintended the young ladies appearing on the stage.

The combination of clever children forming Collinson's "Topsy-Turvy School" explodes the fallacy that talent is rarely hereditary, because the whole of this troupe are the children of well-known performers, and by their comedy, singing, dancing, and specialities, they make this act one of the smartest on the road.

HOW TO KEEP COOL.

We strongly recommend all who suffer from the prevailing heat to add a few drops of Condy's Fluid to the Daily Bath or Foot Bath.

A Condy's Fluid Bath imparts a delightful sensation of Coolness, Freshness, and Purity. It invigorates the body and braces the nerves. The Cooling, Strengthening, and Bracing effects are Simply Magical, they are so very lasting.

Tired and Tender Feet are instantly relieved, and every trace of Odour and all other unpleasant effects of Perspiration immediately disappear. Book on bottle contains full directions and reports by a great many Eminent Physicians.

Sold by all Chemists. 1/- 8oz. 2Oz. 2/- Caution.—Insist on having "Condy's Fluid."

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER,

BY

ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).

Copyright confusion is, like the poor, always with us, and as it seems likely to remain so until at least the crack of doom, it were well for all concerned, or likely to be concerned, to take immediate steps to secure a copy of Mr. Albert A. Strong's new work, entitled "The Law of Copyright." Mr. Strong is already favourably known to the profession for his text-book on "Dramatic and Musical Law," which, like his latest production, is published at "The Era" Office. "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer" essays to make clear to the non-legal mind what is—or, in some cases, what probably is—the law as to musical and dramatic copyright. The chapters on the Berne Convention and on the Chase Act, passed by the United States Congress last March, are full of interest.—Referee.

THE ERA

SATURDAY, JULY 7, 1906.

FUTILE CRITICISM.

The other evening we happened to be present at a performance of The Sign of the Cross at a suburban theatre, and we made a special study of the audience. There could be "no possible doubt whatever" of their intense enjoyment and satisfaction. Towards the conclusion of the play the greater part of those present were in tears; and as the house was emptied an old woman, with every sign of the wear and tear of life's troubles on her, said to her friend, "I haven't cried for years!" As for the applause, it was almost frantic in its enthusiasm.

The little experience made us reflect on the futility of much that is written in the way of dramatic criticism. After all, the merit of a knife is that it will cut; and as long as it divides the wood or the meat which it is required to separate, we do not object to it because it fails to perform the functions of a fork or a spoon. The drama, it has been said, is the "wooden spoon of the arts." If this is so, where is the wisdom in constantly censuring it for fulfilling its functions? It is quite reasonable to ask of pieces produced, say, by the Stage Society under the Vedrenne Barker régime, that they shall satisfy the cognoscenti. But the average play is intended for the average man and woman; and all the argument in the world will not alter the average man or woman an inch. For generations every endeavour has been used to induce ladies to dispense with corsets. One has only to turn to the illustrated advertisement pages of our feminine weeklies to be assured that there never was a period when so many different inventions for compressing the female waist, and disturbing in consequence the positions of the interior organs, were in favour. It may be argued that the fair sex is hors de loi in matters of logic. The contention will not stand. Men are just as immovable. No doubt we all should wear nothing but "all-wool clothing" and "nature form boots." We knew a man whose boots were so natural in shape that it was impossible for him to appear in a crowded thoroughfare without exciting remark. He never had corns; but his hand was against every man's and every man's hand was against him. Boots are universally laid down on lines supposed to be "neat," and certainly cramping; and white linen shirts are practically the only wear for the respectable. Most of the articles which are written to advocate the abandonment of stays and the adoption of boots which follow the form of the foot are therefore futile. They are what the Catholic Church calls counsels of perfection. Those who pen them have only the cold comfort of Beatrice's remark to Benedick: "I wonder you will still be talking, signior; nobody marks you." The "extinct volcano" is a melancholy object; but not such a sad one as the burning mountain which erupts unregarded.

To take a parallel in another art, the objection to the Royal Academy is not that it panders to the Philistines but that the body, according to its detractors, uses its quasi-official position it has more for the commercial advantage of its members than for the advancement of English art. Otherwise, the style of painting which is in favour at Burlington House is nobody's business but that of the R.A.'s; and criticisms of the Academy from the New Gallery point of view are futile.

Coming back to the drama, we marvel at the patience and perseverance of a certain class of dramatic critic. Year in, year out, they approach the plays produced at our West End Theatres from a Stage Society point of view; advocate inferentially an alteration in public taste which never comes to pass, and decry the forms of entertainment which flourish in spite of all animadversions. It must be depressing, to say the least, to perceive that, after columns of fulmination, nobody seems a penny the worse, and that the world wags on unmoved by the sneers or the applause of the superior person. It is curious, too, that some of these unavailing ironies occur in papers which ostensibly cater for Philistines of the Philistines. It must, we should think, sometimes spoil the breakfasts of the subscribers to be assured in the most pungent and sarcastic terms, that the plays they like the best are those which they should most strictly avoid seeing, and that the entertainments which bore them and puzzle them are those which they ought to love and admire. The action of the average reader can only be accounted for by the theory of sin and penance. He considers that he has atoned for his artistic crimes by reading a critique; and so goes off to "plan sins anew," and book seats for himself and his family at a musical play.

Far more logical and practical than superfine criticism is the work done by the Stage Society, whose sixth annual report has just reached us. It does not interfere with the ordinary theatrical enterprises; it submits over-praised dramatic works to the useful test of actual practice; and it occasionally, as in the cases of Mr. BERNARD SHAW'S plays, tries experiments, of which a West End theatre afterwards takes advantage. It also supplies, by direct demonstration, the strongest possible indictment of the modern pessimistic French school of playwriting. Nothing could be a stronger object-lesson on the liver disease from which so many novelists and dramatists in France are suffering at present, than the presentation of a piece like The Three Daughters of M. Dupont; and one cannot appreciate the quaint humour of When We Dead Awaken till one has seen the two principal characters floating little paper boats down a stream. The Stage Society may be compared with the medicine which maintains the health of a patient by encouraging eruptions. It is also a thoroughly business-like association. It does not revive IBSEN; and it has invested £400 in 2½ per cent. Consolidated Stock.

MISS ITALIA CONTI'S RECITAL AT STAFFORD HOUSE.

Under the distinguished patronage of H.R.H. Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein, H.R.H. Princess Louise Duchess of Argyll, and by kind permission of the Duke and Duchess of Sutherland, Miss Italia Conti held a highly successful dramatic and musical recital at Stafford House on Thursday afternoon, July 5. The first portion of the programme consisted chiefly of musical items, Miss Pattie Hornsby greatly pleasing by her singing of two songs by Albert Mallinson, "My Garden" and "The beech tree and the rose." Mr. John Coates was also greatly applauded for his fine singing of Elgar's "In the dawn." To give variety to the concert, a pantomime by Miss Aimèe Lowther, entitled Le Madrigal de Pierrot, was introduced, in which the clever dancing and pretty dresses of Miss Aimèe Lowther as Pierrot and Miss W. Hart-Dyke as La Marquise were much admired. A pleasing little sketch, Two in a Tent, by Mrs. Craigie, was skilfully performed by Mr. Graham Browne and Miss Italia Conti in the characters of Captain Meredith and Miss Walsingham, Mr. Edric Kingscote taking the part of an orderly. The action takes place in a tent at the close of the Delhi Durbar. Miss Conti also took part in The Decision, a dramatic incident, playing the part of Lady Chevring, Mr. Lewis Casson appearing as Dr. Langham. Miss Marion Gordon Kerby was heard in some amusing selections of negro dialects, and Miss Amy Castles sang three songs from The Conqueror, the words being by the Duchess of Sutherland and the music by Edward German. Mr. Haydn Gunter played Mendelssohn's violin solo "Andante from Concerto" with care and intelligence. It was the first appearance of this gentleman in London. The second part of the concert was devoted to the masque of The Princess and the Stranger, with words by Alix Egerton and music by E. Overbeck. The masque proved most attractive and well adapted to its surroundings. The story relates how the Princess Douce Cœur falls under the spell of a lady called Sorrow, and therefore takes a dismal view of all things. The envoys Fame, Riches, and Power in vain seek her hand, when Hope announces the Stranger (who is Love). This person succeeds where the others have failed, and Fame gives up his wreath to him, Riches his money, and Power his might. The scene is supposed to take place in the Palace of Life; period, Once upon a Time. There were a host of characters, and the costumes lent by Mr. Beerbohm Tree and others designed by Mr. Ernest Thesiger were charming. Miss Italia Conti appeared to great advantage as the Princess Douce Cœur, speaking her lines admirably; indeed, all were letter-perfect, and worked well for the success of the masque. Miss Lily Brayton was most effective as Sorrow, Miss M. Bright Morris as the Herald, Mr. Henry Ainley as Love (the Stranger), and Miss Eileen Maltby in the small but striking part of the Jester; while Poetry, Service, and Song were cleverly undertaken by Miss Wynne Matthison, Miss Evelyn Marthèze, and Miss Pattie Hornsby, Miss Pauline Chase proving her dancing ability in the part of Dance; even the very small part of Hope (a Messenger) was performed with care by Miss Tiny Bryce. Mr. Harcourt Williams undertook Fame, Mr. Matheson Lang, Riches, and Mr. Arthur Whitby (by kind permission of Arthur Bourchier, Esq.) the character of Power, all giving due importance to the clever lines of their separate parts. The music, though somewhat secondary in interest, was quite in keeping and harmony with the story. The masque was produced by Mr. Oscar Asche, Mr. Arthur Chesney acting as hon. stage-manager with Mr. Edgar J. Coyne. Miss Italia Conti may be heartily congratulated on the success of her recital.

MR. JAMES BOOTHMAN, acting-manager for Mr. Geo. Sesto Sante at Radcliffe, has been suffering from rheumatic fever.

Miss Ethel Smyth's new opera, Les Naufrageurs which is to be produced at Leipzig in September will be the third stage venture of the composer, who is a daughter of General J. H. Smyth. Her first one-act opera, Fantasio, was produced at Weimar in 1898, and afterwards performed at the Grand Ducal Theatre, Carlsruhe, under the direction of Mr. Felix Mottl. Der Wald, Miss Smyth's second work of the kind, was first heard at Berlin early in 1902, and subsequently brought to Covent Garden in July of that year, and performed under Mr. Lohse It was also given in New York. A few years ago Miss Ethel Smyth wrote a Mass which was produced by the Royal Choral Society at the Albert Hall.

Mr. Frederick Stanhope will be accorded a benefit at the Broadway Theatre, New Cross, on Thursday next.

MR. FRANK WEIR, who has been appearing successfully with Mr. Harry Marvello, has been released by that gentleman in order that he may fulfil a special engagement with Mr. C. Macdona, to play the part of Barry (The Country Girl), starting Aug. 6.

THE ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

A special meeting of the Council of the Actors' Association, specially called to consider Mr. Cecil Barth's proposition respecting the body of voluntary workers known as Missioners, was held on Thursday, the 28th ult. There were present:—Mr. A E. Drinkwater (deputy-chairman), Mesdames Kate Bishop, Kate Phillips, Georgina Hamilton, Gertrude Homewood, Agnes Finlay, Kitty Lofting, Rose Mathews, Helen Mosley, and Blanche Stanley; Messrs. Blake Adams, Cecil Barth, Acton Bond, F. Cremlin, Fewlass Llewellyn, Quinton McPherson, Algernon Syms, Brandon Thomas, Spencer Trevor, S. Major Jones, Archibald McLean, Russell Norrie, George Riddell, Edmond T. Sayers, A. Morrice Seaton, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary).

The Secretary explained the origin of the body, which was appointed shortly after the holding of the tenth annual general meeting of the Association, the idea having been suggested by Mr. Cyril Maude as a means of increasing the membership. After some discussion it was proposed by Mr. Cecil Barth, seconded by Mr. Fewlass Llewellyn, and agreed, that a representative body of seven should be appointed, and Cecil Barth, Georgina Hamilton, S. Major Jones, Rose Mathews, Edmond T. Sayers, Blanche Stanley, and Brandon Thomas were duly elected as such.

Mr. Cecil Barth suggested that members of the Council who are missioners should be ex-officio members of the representative body just elected. This was referred to the Council at their next meeting, and those present (with the exception of Messrs. A. Morrice Seaton and Blake Adams, and those already appointed) volunteered their services to act as missioners, and were duly elected.

It was proposed by Mr. Cecil Barth, seconded by Miss Kate Phillips, and agreed, that the representative body should hold monthly meetings, beginning on Monday, July 2, at three p.m., and that they should then fix regular days for future meetings. Mr. Cecil Barth suggested the establishment of a qualification for missioners, and that something should be done to increase the number of landladies' advertisements—also the organisation of provincial meetings. Mr. Quinton McPherson suggested that the meetings should include centres.

The first meeting of the representative body of seven was held on Monday last. Mr. Brandon Thomas was unanimously elected chairman of the body, and will hold office until the next annual general meeting of the Actors' Association, or until a successor shall be appointed in his stead. It was agreed that the deliberations of the body be controlled by a quorum of three when a greater number of members are not present. It was decided that in future the regular meetings of the body be held on the last Monday in each month in the Council Chamber of the A.A., at three p.m., and it was further decided that a special meeting be held on Monday next at three.

It being understood that the title, "The Missioners," was considered an undesirable one, different members of the body suggested eleven others, and the further consideration of the selection of the fittest was held over until the next meeting. It was suggested that Mr. Leslie Carter and Mr. Quinton McPherson should join the body, and the question was referred to the Council.

It was proposed that a form of monthly report of work done by the missioners be drawn up, and that they be called upon to fill in and return same periodically, and that in the event of any missioner failing in sending in at least four of such reports in any year he or she shall ipso facto vacate his or her position, but shall be eligible for re-election. All missioners are to be requested to obtain new landladies' addresses, and the Council be asked to accept the recommendation of a missioner alone. I was also agreed that when two or more missioners meet in a provincial town they may organise and hold meetings, and that a set form of agenda (hereafter to be framed) be used at such meetings.

Mesdames Georgina Hamilton, Rose Mathews, and Blanche Stanley, and Messrs. Cecil Barth, S. Major Jones, Edmond T. Sayers, Brandon Thomas, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary); also Mr. A. E. Drinkwater (deputy-chairman of the Council), and Miss Kate Bishop (of the Council) were present.

The usual weekly meeting of the Council of the Actors' Association was held on Tuesday last. There were present:—Mr. C. Aubrey Smith (chairman), Mr. A. E. Drinkwater (deputy-chairman), Mr. Henry W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Mesdames Carlotta Addison and Kate Bishop, Messrs. Cecil Barth, J. Cooke Beresford, F. Cremlin, A. E. George, Quinton McPherson, M. R. Morand, Walter Russell, Algernon Syms, Brandon Thomas, Spencer Trevor, Frank Vernon, Frederick Volpe, Hubert Willis, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary). The Hon. Solicitors reported progress in several matters, and were requested to pay the costs incurred by a member of the Association in bringing an action which had resulted in a verdict being given against the member. The report of the representative body of the missioners was given, Mr. Quinton McPherson was elected to that body, and Mr. Leslie Carter was invited to become a missioner, and to join the body; it was also agreed that all members of the Council who are missioners shall be ex-officio members of the representative body. The Secretary announced that the holidays of the staff would commence on the 14th inst., and the arrangements were left in his hands.

Two claims by members for salaries due were referred to the honorary solicitors. A letter from a gentleman advocating the cessation of Sunday travelling was read, and the Secretary was directed to reply that actors would naturally be glad to have Sunday as a day of rest, but the abolition of travelling on the Sabbath would involve many additional hardships and inconveniences. Daisy Clinton, Madge Avery, Marie Löhr, W. Barnett Parker, William P. Sheen, and Cecil F. Yapp were nominated for election.

The Finance and General Purposes Committee held a meeting on Tuesday last. Mr. A. E. Drinkwater occupied the chair, supported by Messrs. J. Cooke Beresford, C. Aubrey Smith, Hubert Willis, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary). Several questions of routine having been discussed, the Secretary received instructions.

FRENCH PLAYS AT THE ROYALTY.

Star succeeds star at the popular house in Dean-street, and if we have said au revoir to the incomparable Réjane, we find consolation complete in the appearance of Mlle. Marthe Brandès, who, at her début in Sardou's Georgette, after a brilliant career at the Conservatoire, immediately attracted the attention of the critics. One of them said, "She satisfies the intelligence; she enraptures the eyes; she touches the heart. She is a mixture of maidenly reserve and passionate sincerity; and her every movement is harmonious. Her success is indeed great." To this frank eulogy of a really admirable actress audiences at the Royalty have already subscribed, and Mlle. Brandès is quite sustaining the prestige she won at the Comédie-Française and at the Renaissance. She opened at the Royalty on Monday in the piece in four acts, by Georges de Porto-Riche, entitled

"LE PASSÉ."

François Prieur.....M. ANDRE CALMETTES

Béhopé .....M. HOURY
Bracony .....M. CHARTOL

Dominique Brienne ....MLLE. MARTHE BRANDÈS
Antoinette Bellangé ..MLLE. MARGUERITE CARON
Odile .....MLLE. LOLA NOYE

Produced originally at the Odéon on December 30, 1897, the comedy proved disappointing to those who had anticipated better things from the clever pen that wrote Amoureuse in 1889. Nevertheless the piece shows considerable ability. Its dialogue is witty and incisive—rather too rasping, perhaps, at times; but the subject, disagreeable in itself, contains little or no interest for the general run of theatre-goers. The literary qualities of the work are indeed striking, but this feature, if it attracts an ultra-critical spectator, is thrown away upon the vast majority of an audience. The plot is extremely thin, so that the four acts appear wiredrawn—although spun out with remarkable talent.

The heroine of the story, Dominique Brienne, has loved and been basely deserted by a Don Juan of a diplomatist, François Prieur, who since he left her some half-dozen years ago—she is now thirty-eight—has carried on intrigues with more than half-a-dozen of her friends. She courts forgetfulness in the close study and practice of the art of sculpture; but, strange to say, she has no objection, at the beginning of the play, to gossiping with male friends of affaires de cœur, nor does she hesitate to speak to them of her "past." If she has been unhappy in her experiences she extends a ready sympathy to her friend Antoinette Bellangé—for whom she had found a husband—in a serious difference with that gentleman. Antoinette, however, refuses to be a party to any reconciliation with her spouse, and when cross-examined on the point, admits the existence of a lover, who has been successful, and who turns out to be none other than Prieur. With unsurpassable impudence, he calls on Dominique in the next act to ask her not to interfere in his little affair with Antoinette. She makes the necessary promise, and the two begin to discuss the past. François discovers that Dominique is very attractive, and she—poor moth—still feels a heart-flutter at the tenderness of his addresses. In the end, however, she discovers his utter baseness, and, disillusioned and disgusted, she orders him from her presence, and turns to find consolation in the patient devotion of the doctor Maurice Arnault, who loves her for le bon motif.

The play is a minute study of the complexity of a woman's character. Dominique is loyal and true, and is always interesting. Mlle. Brandès made of her a highly-strung creature, and the struggle of the better instincts of the woman against the insidious advances of an incorrigible, impenitent, and worthless deceiver was finely shown. Both the strength and weakness of the character are well emphasised, and the success of the actress on Monday was well deserved. M. André Calmettes had scarcely a light enough touch as the mendacious François Prieur, who agrees that the practice of deceit softens manners. M. Severin was effective as the sentimental doctor; and Mlle. Marguerite Caron made a satisfactory Antoinette.

By some critics Francillon, which was revived by Mlle. Brandès on Thursday evening, is regarded as Alexandre Dumas the younger's masterpiece, being considered superior in many respects to Le Demi-Monde. It is a captivating piece is Francillon; its story is interesting, and the extraordinary rapidity of the action, with the nervous atticism of the dialogue, grips the spectator's attention at the outset, to hold it fast to the close. Only for a moment or two in the second act, when the author gives rein to his didactic proclivities, is this grasp relaxed, but it tightens again almost immediately, and audiences are carried along by the master-playwright to the very end of the chapter. Indeed, M. Dumas showed us his dramatic genius in the plenitude of its force, while, as for wit, of which he was never more prodigal, it is sparkling throughout, gay and satirical in turn, though he took a hard, cold, pessimistic view of his contemporaries, and told them so in terms that are, perhaps, too bluntly frank to secure sympathy. The personages of the play belong to the haut monde of Paris in the 'eighties. The heroine, Francine de Riverolles—to whom her husband, Lucien de Riverolles, gives the pet name of Francillon—belongs to a noble family, but has been brought up with small respect for the proprieties, and has—for a Frenchwoman bien entendu—odd notions of a wife's duties and rights, which she is destined to transmute into highly reprehensible action. Indolent and selfish, Lucien had passed his youth in easy pleasure, and since a son had blessed his union with Francine he has returned to his old tastes—to his club and his mistresses. He appears totally indifferent to his wife's familiarity with his friends; but a crisis in the ménage is precipitated when, at the end of the first act, Francine reproaches him with his coldness, and asks him where he is going that night. "To the club; I have not seen my friends there for a week." "Neither have I seen you for a week. Since the birth of our son you've not been the same." "You should have taken a nurse!" is his stinging reproach, at which Francine fires up, replying, "It is the first time I have heard a woman blamed for being a mother. Patriotism for us is maternity!" This reply brought down the house at the première at the Comédie-Française on Jan. 17, 1887. A sudden suspicion then comes into Francine's mind. "You are deceiving me; you have a mistress; and if I am convinced of your treason, I give you my solemn promise that an hour afterwards I will have a lover!" Francine carries out her threat, and in the second act flings in the husband's face a tale of degradation, and gives every evidence she can of its truth. She had been to the Opéra ball, had been a witness of her husband's conduct with a lady, and had accepted the escort and attentions of a young man entirely unknown to her. But she preserved her wifely honour, in spite of these blazing indiscretions, and the curtain falls eventually upon a scene of forgiveness.

In the original representation Febvre was the Lucien; Coquelin cadet the Célestin; Mlle. Bartet the Francillon; Mlle. Pierson the Baronne Thérèse Smith; and Mlle. Reichemberg the Annette de Riverolles. In the character of Francine Mlle. Marthe Brandès deepened the favourable impression she created on Monday, and played very finely throughout. Every phase of feeling is handled by her with perfect mastery. M. Rousselle plays the rôle of the egoist Lucien with energy and aplomb, and is decidedly clever in the "business" of one of his scenes where he is left alone on the stage after Lucien hears Francillon's frank and damning avowal. Mlle. Carèze was an excellent Annette, and Mlle. Marguerite Caron a sympathetic Thérèse.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

MRS. HARRY RICKARDS, the wife of Mr. Harry Rickards, the well-known and esteemed proprietor of many theatres and music halls in Australia and New Zealand, has kindly consented to present the prizes at the Music Hall Sports on Thursday next at the Stamford Bridge Grounds, Fulham.

AT the Music Hall Sports next Thursday special attention will be paid to the comfort of the ladies (an item that was sadly overlooked in past years at Herne Hill). The newly-formed grounds at Stamford Bridge are replete with every comfort, and, given fine weather, the function should prove a complete success. Mr. Angelo Asher will conduct his "Cadogan Military Band," assisted by Mr. J. H. Alexandra.

MR. BOB HUTT will be the "Funmaster-General at the sports on Thursday next, and will champion a catch-as-catch-can cricket match, a grand military tournament, an invasion, and other items, including the clergyman's picnic."

THE Archbishop of Canterbury told an amusing story at the Lord Mayor's banquet to the archbishops and bishops at the Mansion House on Wednesday evening. The other day, apropos to the Education Bill, which is now being piloted through the House of Commons by Mr. Augustine Birrell, a letter was addressed to him from France as follows:—"Archevêque, Canterbury, London." Some difficulty occurred in its delivery, and when it did reach the palace of the prelate in Lambeth, it was endorsed by the Intelligence Department of the Post Office, "Not known at the Canterbury Music Hall."

MR. "JACK" EDGAR, the manager of the Metropolitan, while crossing the road at Charing Cross on Thursday, was knocked down by a motor-car, and narrowly escaped being run over. He fell on his right side, badly bruising his arm and hand. On Thursday evening Mr. Edgar was found at his accustomed post at the "Met.," but was suffering from the severe shock, and was unable to make use of his injured arm and hand.

THE general meeting of the Variety Artists' Federation, as already announced in these columns, will be held at the Trocadero on Tuesday, at eleven o'clock sharp. Members' tickets must be shown at the door to secure admission. The principal business will be the adoption of the Constitution of the Federation, and the discussion and passing of its bye-laws and rules.

LITTLE TICH has vouchsafed the information to a Manchester journalist that he has determined to give up big-boot dancing—a form of hard labour to which his amusing exhibition has condemned him for some years. He has become an enthusiastic motorist, and owns a fine Panhard car, in which he tours from town to town. We are given to understand also that he has forsworn pantomime, as it demands too much exertion.

CARL HERTZ, the popular illusionist, has produced at Keith and Proctor's Twenty-third Street Theatre, a very puzzling new illusion, which has set New York wondering. It is called "The Bridal Chamber," and is in the line of cabinet mysteries. He transforms the interior of a cabinet, the walls of which are constructed solely of draperies, from absolute emptiness to a completely furnished boudoir, with bedstead, mattresses, pillows and linen, and bearing also the sleeping figure of his clever assistant, Mme. Hertz.

THE Chelsea Lodge of Freemasons, No. 3098, had its first regular meeting, after the installation, on Friday, the 22nd ult., under the presidency of Mr. Albert Le Fre, W.M., Mr. J. W. Mathews, I.P.M., Mr. Wolfe S. Lyon, treasurer, acting as S.W., in absence of Serpentello, who is in America, Mr. G. H. Dyball, J.W., and a full muster of the Brethren. Mr. Wolfe S. Lyon, the treasurer, proposed that a letter be forwarded to the directors of the Chelsea Palace thanking them for having kindly placed the board room during the past year at the services of the Lodge, which was unanimously carried. Pathetic reference was made to Mr. Edward Swanborough, the first Past Master of the Lodge.

PARAGRAPHS have been appearing of late as to the probability of two houses being erected in Willesden or Harlesden. We have the best authority for stating that at present there is only one house projected, which is in Station-road, Harlesden. Plans have been passed by the District Council, but as the site is opposite a church the most strenuous opposition by the congregation to the granting of a licence is feared. No plans have not yet been deposited as to any other house in the parish of Willesden.

MR. JAMES STEWART, the tramp at the piano, met with rather a severe accident on Monday evening. Just after leaving his house in Gibson-square, Islington, in his brougham, a box of "safety" matches exploded whilst he was lighting a cigar, and severely burned his left hand. However, notwithstanding the dreadful pain that this caused him, he would not allow it to interfere with his performance, and pluckily went through his well-known show four times that evening at the following halls: Grand, Clapham; London Pavilion; and Camberwell Palace

ALTERATIONS are in progress at the Oxford which will yet further enhance the beauty and add to the comfort of that fine house. A very old habitué was heard to remark that, were it possible to pull down all one side of Oxford-street, and, taking in the Princess's Theatre, to enlarge the celebrated music hall, even then it would be always packed to the doors.

MR. EDGAR BATEMAN was asked on Wednesday by a celebrated comedian if he could supply him with a good lying song. The writer thought not, but offered to furnish one embodying actual truths that would almost appear like lies, and then went on to state that on Saturday morning last on Southend Pier he caught a flounder, and, after affixing to its fin a note of good wishes to his confrères (then enjoying their annual outing up the Thames), tossed it in the air like a pigeon, and solemnly asseverated that it was picked up in an exhausted condition at Windsor by a waiter outside Tull's Restaurant just as the members of Messrs. Francis and Day's staff had finished dinner. The comedian, himself a fisherman, now insists on having the song, but stipulates that the ditty shall be built up of tarradiddles and not actual facts.

MR. JOE ELVIN, who is nothing if not funny, lately conceived a droll idea for a comic song, and presented it to Mr. Alf Lotto with a desire that it might be used, when written up, by his wife, Miss Ada Cerito, whose famous song, "When Father Backs a Winner," is still remembered. Edgar Bateman, who on the 4th inst. completed his eighth year as Mr. David Day's London representative, has been specially selected to turn Mr. Elvin's idea into Cockneyese.

THE palmy days of the Metropolitan will be reflected in the production on Monday of a ballet divertissement by the pupils of Madame Katti Lanner, so long the directrice and instructress of ballerine at the Empire. Mlle. Papucci is that prima donna assoluta. In former days Madame Collier, a near relative of Miss Constance Collier, arranged ballets at the popular house in the Edgware-road.

MR. GEO. JACKLEY has to thank Mr. G. H. Chirgwin for a very fine day's fishing, his catch being altogether about three stone.

MR. RICHARD THORNTON'S new theatre of varieties in Sunderland is making rapid progress. The façade of heavy, fine freestone is already appearing above the hoardings. It is not, however, expected that the opening will take place before May next. The new King's Theatre in the same town is also making steady progress, and it is reported that endeavours will be made to open at Christmas.

MR. GEORGE DICKINSON, who has served under the Macnaghten banner as manager of the Grand, Sheffield, has been appointed resident manager at the Theatre Royal, Attercliffe, and took up his duties last week.

MR. ARTHUR D. BURTON, the enterprising manager of the old-established George Burton gala firm, made a lucky "find" in his discovery of the Hamiltons, two original burlesquers, who are scoring a big success in their novel absurdity The Mesmerist. The Burton firm has again been entrusted with the entire catering for the great Charity Fêtes at Sheffield.

MISS CONSTANCE MOXON is taking down to the Amphitheatre, Ramsgate, next week, and the week following. A really first-class variety company. Visitors to the popular Kentish seaside resort are fortunate in having such excellent prospects of amusement.

MR. GEORGE LEYTON will, on Monday week, have a special production of his new song-scena, "A Tale that will never Die" (founded on the wreck of the Birkenhead), by Harrington and Tate, at the Canterbury. The number will, at an early date, be included in the Monte Carlo Publishing Co.'s "Sixpenny Successes" series.

THE LEAS, Folkestone, was the scene of great enthusiasm on Wednesday, when a large and fashionable assemblage gathered to enjoy, for the first time this season, the musical treat provided by Mr. Karl Kaps' famous military band. Special items in a noteworthy programme were "Pick o' the Basket," a selection of popular airs arranged by Warwick Williams; "Trafalgar," a characteristic piece by that well-known musician George Miller; and Wilmott and Rether's chanson, "The Rose of My Heart."

MRS. M. BARRASFORD has inaugurated this week a beauty show, which was held at the Café Chantant at the Devil's Dyke, Brighton, on Wednesday afternoon. The competition was open to ladies employed in hotels, boarding houses, warehouses, and shops in Sussex, and attracted a large number of visitors. Some twenty entered the competition, and the awards were made as follows:—1, Miss Saunders (Royal Sovereign Hotel, Brighton); 2, Miss Mabel Lockhart (St. Leonards-terrace, Portslade); 3, Miss Grace Darling (King's Hotel, Brighton); 4, Miss Nora Saxby (King's Hotel, Brighton); 5, Miss May Chambers (Portslade); and 6, Miss Winstone (Vauxhall, London). The consolation prize went to Miss Ethel Williams, of Brighton. A variety programme was carried out by The Majors (from the Aquarium, Brighton), Miss Vera Ray, and Mr. Albert Marks; and the Dyke Park Military Band, under Mr. William Armstrong, contributed popular selections.

MR. JAMES P. MOORE must be complimented on the sensational success of "Kennedy's Komiks," a novel entertainment, which is now running in no less than eight theatres and entering the fifth and sixth week in some towns on Monday next. It certainly shows enterprise, and the various local managers, who are delighted with the results, are asking for a prolonged stay of ten or twelve weeks in each town. The business in West Bromwich continues phenomenal, but "Kennedy's Komiks" must give way on August Bank Holiday to Mr. Moore's new venture, the New Hippodrome and Theatre Royal, worked in conjunction with the powerful Walter De Frece circuit.

DR. WALFORD BODIE commenced his annual Scotch tour on Monday, opening at the Grand Theatre, Edinburgh, to a packed house. Many students from the University and the electric works were present. Although several appeared to be hostile when the doctor made his appearance, before the night was over he was loudly cheered, and at the conclusion a deputation of medical students came to his dressing room and congratulated him.

THE balance-sheet of the New Gaiety Theatre Company, Dundee, has been issued. The directors in submitting the account of profit and loss and balance-sheet, both applicable to the period between July 31, 1905—the date on which the company commenced business—and May 15, 1906, have the satisfaction of proclaiming a surplus of £92 13s. 2d. They pay a dividend to the shareholders at the rate of 5 per cent., free of Income-tax, for the period embraced in the accounts, and place £50 to a reserve fund. The first annual meeting of the shareholders will be held on Thursday next.

BY the success of the musical sketch Bertie's Birthday Party at the Tivoli and Queen's Theatres, Glasgow, Mr. Barney Armstrong has been encouraged in his project of producing next Christmas two pantomimes on the twice-nightly system at both his theatres. The subjects are to be Cinderella and Dick Whittington. Mr Harry Pleon, Miss Annie Cohen, and a number of well-known artists have already been engaged. The Cinderella chosen was written by the late Walter Summers, and produced some four years ago at the Grand Theatre, Birmingham. The original music, scenery, and dresses will be utilised.

MLLE. ROZA'S Canine Hippodrome is appearing this week at the Palace by the Sea, Tynemouth, where the fair trainer's success has been such as to warrant her retention for a second week. Independent of the clever performance of her animals, Mlle. Roza's stage setting and effects are extremely fine and artistic.

THE rage in America for Miss Vesta Victoria's song, "Waiting at the Church," by Leigh and Pether, instead of abating, is increasing. Advices from Mr. David Day's New York branch, received a few days since, state that it has just "caught on" with a vengeance in Boston; that a big order for copies has reached Mr. Fred Day from Oakland, in far-off California; and that it is a feature at all fashionable wedding assemblies throughout the States.

MESSRS. TOM MELLOR, Alf. J. Lawrance, and Harry Gifford, the popular song writers, have been well represented at the Grand, Hanley, during the week, no less than five of their compositions having been sung there each night, namely, "My Cosy Caravan" and "Don't Cry, Little Girl," by Miss Lil Hawthorne, and "Ma Havana Queen," "What Is Your Name?" and "The Only Coon Without a Gal," by G. H. Elliott. All are published by Francis, Day, and Hunter.

A "BALLETA," entitled In Sunny Spain, invented by Mr. John Tiller, written by Mr. George R. Sims, with music by Mr. Herman Finck, is to be the feature of the entire summer season at the Blackpool Winter Gardens, where it is to be produced on Monday. The "balleta," it may be necessary to explain, is a combination of ballet and musical comedy. No less than 150 performers will be engaged in the representation, which is to be elaborately mounted.

MR. DAVID HART, the general-manager of the Grand Theatre of Varieties, Gravesend, is leaving to-day for a tour through Germany and Belgium, and expects to be away for two weeks.

MISS VESTA TILLEY started on Tuesday on her 40-h.p. Panhard for a tour round England with her husband, Mr. Walter de Frece. Mr. de Frece is part proprietor of various hippodromes dotted about the South Coast and other parts of England, and he is combining business with pleasure. Miss Tilley comes to the Palace Theatre at Christmas.

VESTA TILLEY'S coiffure as the representative of smart English youth, has always been a puzzle to the uninitiated, and it has deceived even her own wig-maker, the only Willie Clarkson. Most people imagine that the popular "boy" wears her own hair dressed in a particular way. All her hair is plaited into a number of little twists with which she pads her head to make it the shape of a man's. Over that she wears a thin wig. There are no joins. They are prevented by the interlacing of her own hair into the wig from the front. The operation takes her maid an hour every night.

AMONG the victims of the deplorable railway accident on the London and South-Western Railway at Salisbury was Jules Keller, well-known in the variety world as the Human Enigma. Some fourteen months ago he performed at the Lyceum, and since then has been to New York, where his wife carries on a business.

RETURNING from New York, he was booked for a series of engagements at the Moss's Empires, the first of which dated from Monday at the Hackney Empire. He had wired on Saturday night from Plymouth to his aged mother, who lives in Aldersgate-street, stating that he would be home in the morning about five o'clock. His brother-in-law went to meet him, quite unconscious of the accident. He waited at Waterloo, and then went on to Salisbury. It was a pathetic sight to see him when he recognised the mangled remains of the deceased acrobat. Keller was well known in England, and had been a performer in London for the past ten to twelve years. He was noted for doing a remarkable dance on his hands—with his nether limbs, entirely useless to him, poised in the air.

THE annual general meeting of the members of the Music Hall Sick Fund will be held at the York Hotel, York Road, on Wednesday next, at 2 p.m. All members of the Society who are in town are invited to be present.

MR. HARRY FRAGSON, during his engagement at the Tivoli, which commences on Monday next, will give his most successful number, "Most politely," which relates, in a number of smart verses, "how the managers in London received his play," which was a particularly bright interlude in Castles in Spain.

THE Central Executive Staff of the Moss's Empires and Stoll Companies in Leicester-square will have their outing on Sunday, the rendezvous being Cranford Bridge, near Hounslow, where there are ample facilities for the enjoyment of boating, cricket, and other outdoor pleasures.

MR. HARRY RICKARDS wishes us to point out that through inadvertence he quite omitted to mention, during his interview with our representative (published last week), that the enormous business he did last year at his Australian theatres was largely due to the drawing capacity of the "La Milo" and Cruickshank act, now appearing at the London Pavilion.

MR. TOM M'NAUGHTON (of the M'Naughtons) has forwarded a cheque to the manager of the V.A.F. for £15, the result of a concert given by the happily associated pair on board ship whilst returning from South Africa, for distribution between the Music Hall Benevolent Fund and the Music Hall Home.

MR. EDWARD LAURI, the well-known comedian, has just returned from a successful Australian tour. He will shortly appear at the London halls with a new and screamingly funny pantomime sketch.

MISS CARLOTTA LEVEY'S delightful rendering at the Oxford of the well-known song, "Do a good turn when you're able," by Murphy and Lipton, has sent up the sale of the song by leaps and bounds, and Messrs. Francis, Day, and Hunter have had to repeat large orders to the printers for copies of the same.

"STILL they gazed, and still the wonder grew, that one small head could carry all she knew." Such a paraphrase of Goldsmith's description of his schoolmaster might well be applied to the "Queen of Sheba," especially when it is recalled that the head of Her Majesty is of wax. The phenomenon is on view this week at the Empress, Brixton, where it forms the leading attraction, and is presented by Mr. E. Sardonis Albini, who calls it the second edition of his "talking head."

THE effigy is mounted on a pedestal, the door of which is opened to allow of an investigation of the delicate mechanism inside, and its utterances are preceded by a weird rolling of the eyes and a movement of the head. The Queen is first induced to reveal her name, and then describes the costume of various members of the audience. Mr. Albini afterwards descends to the stalls with a lady, bearing a tray of cigars, cigarettes, and bouquets, which are offered to the occupants of the seats. Each is in turn described by the Queen, who is afterwards prevailed upon to sing one of a given number of choruses selected by the audience, the popular "Rainy Day" and "The Bungalow" being rendered in a high-pitched voice. The novelty is presented in agreeable fashion by Mr. Albini, who exacts loud applause from a thoroughly interested audience.

MR. "JOHNNY" WOOD, brother of Miss Marie Lloyd, has become associated in the management of the Loughborough Hotel, Loughborough-road, Brixton, and will invite his friends to the opening which he will celebrate on July 17 next.

MISS SYRIA LAMONTE, who has recently been touring the Continent, appearing in Russia, Roumania, and other cities with great success, is shortly going to America, and sails by the s.s. Philadelphia on July 29.

MISS ALICE LORETTE, with her statue setter Ben, has left England for a long Continental tour, opening at the Casino de la Mouillere, Besançon. She expects to return to England with her wonderful dog in August next year to fulfil her English engagements.

MESSRS. WILL CATLIN, Paul Mill, Chas. Cardow, Andie Caine, and other prominent pierrots report to the Monte Carlo Publishing Company the fact that that enterprising young firm's "Winner," by Lawrance and Mellor, "Bamboo Bungalow," is the absolute "hit" of their respective programmes. Apropos, the charming American artist, Miss Lucy Ashton, is scoring a marked success at the Palace, Shaftesbury-avenue, nightly with the same song, assisted by a sextette of lovely girls.

STERLING AND LOVE (Leo and Addie) of vocal and instrumental comedy fame, are anxious to assure managers that they are in no way connected with any other act (or acts) similar in title. They are the original Leo Sterling and Addie Love from the Palace, Shaftesbury Avenue.

THE Bandurrias are in much request at the present time at the receptions and garden parties of the élite of Society. These superb mandolinists in their picturesque Spanish costumes are greatly admired.

MOST of the really great artists on the legitimate as well as the variety stage have become identified with a distinct "line of part." Miss Louie Freear, for instance, in a certain rôle of Cockney "slavey," has on more than one occasion delighted the great public, which recognises the true humour and observation displayed by the quaint little actress. Once more Miss Freear is to present another "slavey" part—a one-act sketch—written for her by Mr. B. Soane Roby, and entitled Snooks, the first performance being booked for Monday at the Hackney Empire.

IN this Miss Freear has a part after her own heart, by which she will add one more character-study of the area drudge to the gallery already so well known to playgoers. The piece is bright and merry, and deals chiefly with the dilemmas of a deserter from the Grenadier Guards, who is befriended in his frantic endeavours to escape in disguise by the love-lorn melodramatic "domestic" Jemima—played of course by Miss Freear. Miss Freear will have the support of an excellent company, specially selected for their respective parts.

IT is an old saying that talent runs in families, and the natural gifts of Peggy Pryde, another princess of low comedy who is on the Hackney Empire bill next week, are only what one might expect from the daughter of so talented a mother as Jenny Hill. With her ever-ready wit and high spirits Peggy has always been a universal favourite.

THE Terriers are moving their registered offices to 4, Kennington-road, S.E., and committee meetings will in future be held at the Three Stags, Kennington-road. The final meeting at the Hercules (Mr. Douglas White's hostelry) was held on the 29th ult. Many hearty wishes for future prosperity were expressed towards Mr. White, the hon. treasurer of the association, who is retiring from the house.

MISS KELLERMANN, the lady swimmer, who last August created quite a sensation by her plucky attempts to swim the English Channel, has returned from the Continent after most successful professional engagements, spending the last six weeks at Vienna in the well renowned "Venice in Wien" at the Englischer Garten. Prior to leaving Miss Kellermann made a long distance record for the Danube, covering twenty-two miles in three hours and ten minutes.

MR. TONY PASTOR writes, under date New York, June 21:—"Another English artist has scored an American success. Princess Pauline, who opened here at my house on Monday, June 18, is already a town topic. Her song, 'I've got 'em,' is whistled and sung by the audiences, and her magnetic personality attracts many admirers. I want her English friends and fellow professionals to know of her instant success, so beg you will give it mention in your valued paper. 'Standing Room Only' in New York City in mid-June is a record for Princess Pauline."

MISS MAREE KEAN is achieving much success at the Syndicate Halls in a new and original répertoire of comedy songs, all specially written and composed for her by Messrs. Harrington and Tate, who are busily engaged in preparing other comedy specialities for the same talented young artist.

THE entertainment season at Felixstowe commenced on Monday, when Mr. Litho, who has erected an improved and enlarged stage on what is now known as "Litho's Ring," just off the Sea Road, gave his first entertainment of the summer. The company Mr. Litho has engaged includes Miss Clarice Lilian, a solo violinist and vocalist; Mr. W. H. Mann, R.A.M., pianist; Mr. F. J. Hudson, baritone, musical mimic and siffleur; Mr. Crane Watson, tenor; and Mr. Frank Frere, a versatile comedian. These, with Mr. H. Litho's contributions as raconteur and vocalist, make an excellent company of entertainers.

MR. W. H. CLEMART, vice-chairman, presided over the 470th meeting of the Committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association on Tuesday, when the chair was also occupied during a brief period by Mr. Harry Blake. There were also present Messrs. R. Abel, Charles Coborn, Frank Gerald, H. Griff, Fred Neiman, Michael Nolan, George Preston, and C. Douglas Stewart (secretary. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and passed, and matters arising out of them were dealt with. A member of the Association attended, at the committee's request, to explain his action in regard to a complaint made to the general manager of the London and North-Western Railway. The complaint concerned a dispute with a ticket official, and should have been made through the Association. The matter had been sifted from top to bottom by the authorities at Euston, and had assumed such proportions as to menace the cordial relations existing between the Association and the railway companies. Eventually the member undertook to seek an interview with the Theatrical Traffic Manager, with a view to promoting an amicable settlement and to report to the secretary of the M.H.A.R.A.

THE agency at Colchester was transferred to Mr. Triscuit, of the George Hotel, and Mr. S. Johnson, of the Gresham Hotel, was appointed agent pro tem. for Llandudno. A lady member wrote complaining that her ticket was being fraudulently used by another member, and asking the Association to recover it, and the secretary was instructed to demand the return of the ticket. A member, whose subscription was overdue, applied to be allowed to obtain the concession in order to fulfil an engagement, promising to forward his fees at the end of the week. The member having before been granted the same favour, and having paid up as promised, the request was allowed. A communication from the Great Central Railway was under discussion, and the secretary was instructed to write to the theatrical traffic agent.

THE secretary reported the receipt of a letter from Mr. G. W. Gerald, the agent in Paris, who stated that he had been successful, in conjunction with a friend, in obtaining a concession on certain Parisian railways, by which a reduction of 50 per cent. at individual rates is to be allowed on journeys vid Calais or Boulogne. A hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Gerald for his efforts in securing the concession. The secretary announced that he was in treaty with officials of the English companies in order to make the negotiations complete.

THE agreement for a yearly tenancy received from the landlord was submitted, and the secretary was instructed to apply to the solicitor for an exact definition of its terms. The general meeting of the Variety Artists' Federation taking place on Tuesday, the next meeting of the committee was fixed for the day following (Wednesday). It was decided that the secretary should attend the Music Hall Sports on the 12th inst., as representative of the Association. Mr. Fred Neiman undertook to report, while at Clacton-on-Sea, on the desirability of instituting an agency in that town. The secretary's report for the week ending June 30 showed the addition of forty-one new members, the receipt of £35 10s., and the expenditure of £19. 6s. 8d. The vice-chairman was empowered to sign cheques on behalf of the Association, during the absence of the chairman, Mr. Joe O'Gorman, in South Africa.

THE late Jules Keller, who met his death in the terrible railway accident on Sunday, was, up to a couple of years ago, a member of M.H.A.R.A., but, owing to his absence in America, allowed his membership to lapse. Consequently the benefit of insurance was forfeited, and the sum of £500 is thus, it is sad to reflect, lost to the widow.

WE draw the attention of our readers to some interesting letters on Dangerous Performances, which appear on page 22. At an extraordinary meeting of the International Artists' Lodge, on Tuesday, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:—"This meeting is of the opinion that the proposed Act before the House of Commons, entitled "The Dangerous Performances Act," should meet with exhaustive criticism, and, if necessary, the united opposition of all branches of the variety profession in the interest of the whole body."

THE Executive Committee looks with confidence for the support of the Press and the public in presenting a firm opposition to the present form of the "Dangerous Performances Act," which seriously threatens the means of livelihood of great numbers of people, who by years of practice have perfected themselves in the performance of acts of daring and courage, which, so far from having a demoralising effect upon the community, are eminently calculated to encourage the highest and best qualities of mankind. In those few instances where accidents have occurred, they have generally arisen in cases where people without the necessary training and experience have been allowed to take part.

THE most casual inquiry would prove that the training to which all recognised performers are generally submitted tends to render comparatively harmless and free from danger feats which would undoubtedly involve considerable risk to those who had not had the advantage of such preparation. These arguments we regard as particularly worthy of note when it is considered that the proposed Bill aims at placing women of all ages, intelligence, and training on the same level as children, and the Bill, if passed in its present form, would deprive them of the fruits of years of hard work, study, and practice.

THE people who present these so-called dangerous feats and acts are undoubtedly the most cautious and prudent class of people in the world, as the nature of their calling demands the exercise of those qualities in a maximum degree. In all cases performers executing hazardous feats are protected properly against accidents by various safe-guards, which, however, are not apparent to the public. It is a fact that every artist supervises and attends personally to the construction and testing of these safe-guards before every performance, in no case leaving it to assistants to guarantee a safe performance. Statistics can be submitted to prove that considering the number of female artists in acts which might be considered dangerous, the accidents occurring among them are infinitely less than those among an equal number of mountain-climbers, motorists, bicyclists, factory employees, operators of machinery, etc.

THE Egbert Brothers have been playing their laughable Happy Dustmen sketch for nearly five years, and it was going as strong as ever at Ipswich this week. Trained in the circus ring, and with experience of every branch of stage work, they are both clever acrobats, dancers, and tumblers. Mr. Seth Egbert writes their patter for pantomime—they go to Edinburgh for The Babes in the Wood next Christmas—and spends his odd time in gardening and photography. Both of the brothers are keen on athletics, Walter having recently gone in for the study of Ju-Jitsu, and they showed their interest in football, and their kindness of heart at the same time, by getting up a team among the employees of the Shakespeare Theatre, Liverpool, last winter. They played several matches with promising success, and it is known to this day as the Egbert team.

AFTER the performance on Monday night at the Hackney Empire, there was an extra "turn" in the early hours of the morning without any audience, and at the expense of one of the artists engaged at the hall. Mr. Herbert Lloyd, the "Diamond King," left his dressing-room at 10.50 on Monday night as he thought safe from all instruders. At 11.10 on Tuesday morning his assistant, who holds a duplicate key, entered, and found the room in the greatest confusion, and at once saw that "artists" not engaged by the management had been very busy. He raised an alarm, and summoned Mr. Lloyd, who promptly answered the "call," but only to find that a diamond medallion cigarette-holder, eight cluster rings, whiskers with diamond centre, jewelled walking stick, shirt-front brilliants, shoes studded with gems, and a diamond collarette of his wife's had vanished. An examination showed that the catch of the dressing-room window had been forced. Mr. Lloyd estimates his loss at £50, but showed our representative that he had sufficient brilliants left still with which to dazzle the public; but, not being insured, he is naturally grieved at his loss. The police are investigating the daring burglary.

THE Paragon Trio (Mr. Sharplin and his two daughters Lillie and Katie) should have been fulfilling an engagement at the Palace Theatre, Halifax, this week, but unfortunately they have been unable to appear owing to injuries they sustained in an alarming tram accident on Sunday. The well-known trio only arrived from Blackburn just before noon. After dinner the delightful weather tempted them to take a short tram ride to the village of Sunny Vale. On their return, owing to the greasy state of the metals, the driver lost complete control of the car, until it finally upset. Two men were killed on the spot and many severely injured. Of the trio Mr. Sharplin fared the worst, his face, hands, and legs being very badly lacerated. His daughters sustained several slight bruises, and are suffering from shock. The three were taken with all speed to the Royal Halifax Infirmary, where they were detained. On making inquiries on Wednesday evening our correspondent was informed that the injured artists were making very satisfactory progress.

MISS ALEXANDRA DAGMAR has been specially engaged to appear at the Empire and Olympia, Liverpool, this week, where she has made an emphatic hit.

FRED SINCLAIR and Gracie Whiteford are meeting with such success with their duologue Getting Even that they have played at Mr. Stoll's halls in Glasgow three times in three months.—Owing to music-hall bookings, Grantley and Coleman have been compelled to cancel their alfresco engagements.—Fred Curran has just produced a big number, written by Murphy and Lipton, entitled 'Taters and Bacon.—The Four Herberts have just concluded a most successful and comfortable engagement on the De Frece circuit.

VISITORS to the Coliseum will remember that genial Irishman, Mr. J. Wallis Healy, who always added something to the charm of an interview in the Press bureau. He is seeking an engagement as Press agent, and in these days of hustle his energy and resource should be of considerable value to anyone fortunate enough to secure his services.

MR. C. W. MURPHY, the graceful charm and freshness of whose melodies have placed him in the very forefront of living writers for the variety stage, has just completed a ballad entitled, "At the Bend in the Old Country Lane." Fierce competition for rights of the number is expected from exploiters of illustrated songs—a form of entertainment pregnant with great possibilities.

MR. MONTE BAYLY produces on Monday next at the Bedford an episode in real life entitled The Doctor.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

THE PALACE.

Monologue entertainers are not new to the stage of the Palace Theatre, for have we not heard thereon the nimble-witted George Fuller Golden from the States, and the lively and broadly comic lecturer, R. H. Douglas, of Cockney origin, each the antithesis of the other, and both supremely funny? Mr. Golden is, unfortunately, not sufficiently well to revisit these shores just yet, but during his absence we will be content to listen to a brother American comedian, Mr. F. Niblo, who made his first appearance at the fine house in Shaftesbury-avenue on Monday evening, when he was warmly welcomed. We are told that the monologue shares the first place in popularity at the American vaudeville theatres with the illustrated song-scena. We are not surprised at it if its exponents are anything like as good as Mr. Niblo. He rattles on in most amusing fashion, and is full of paradox and anecdote. He dissects the mere man, and explains how "unfinished" he is, and how much better he might have been made. How can a man "sit down in front," when the joints of his knees make him "take a seat behind?" exclaims he. Real nonsense all of it, of course, but just the thing for summer evenings when one is too languid to sit and think. Another new-comer to the Palace is Mr. Evan Evans, Welsh comedian, who explains that he comes from Llanfairfechan, and speaks of the well-known village in Anglesey which takes up almost the whole of the alphabet in the spelling of it. Mr. Evans is mostly an anecdotist, but he shows his versatility and his command of dialect other than his own by a series of imitations of various people singing the chorus of "Bill Bailey," and is rewarded with favourable recognition of his abilities.

Selbo, another new introduction, is a remarkable performer with Indian clubs, and an astonishing manipulator of plates and other articles. He takes to buck-dancing while performing his tricks, and is generally very alert, smart, and entertaining. Mlle. Bordeverry, a daughter, we believe, of the celebrated colonel bearing the same name, is a most skilful markswoman, who cracks glass balls and shoots visiting cards off the head of her companion with the greatest ease. Her final trial of skill consists of the sensational performance of disrobing a lady fully dressed for an afternoon call with a repeating rifle with which she has just scored nine bulls-eyes. Hat and cloak are shot away, then sleeve and dress fastenings become severed one by one till the fashionable lady is reduced to a smiling model clad in fleecy wrappings only.

Guerrero appears in Le Cauchemar, a sensational drama, in which a peasant girl dreams that a monk to whom she has offered shelter leaves a sack behind when he departs. This bundle contains beautiful apparel and jewels, and the poor girl naturally bedecks herself. Then she stands in front of the mirror admiring herself, and dances. Hardly has she finished when she sees the monk standing before the door staring at her. He calls on her to give up the jewellery and the dress. She is paralysed with fright, and seeing this he throws off the false beard and his monk's cloak, and the girl discovers that he is a brigand. He commands her to hand everything over to him, and, hypnotised as it were, she slowly removes the rings and the dress. But when he points to the necklace she refuses to surrender it. How can she part with that which has made her so beautiful? She endeavours to gain the door, but the brigand seizes her and stabs her to the heart. She wakes in the end to find that her tribulations are only a dream, and falling on her knees murmurs a thanksgiving. Guerrero's acting and dancing are very fine.

The Colberg family, mostly of girls, are concertina players, xylophonists, campanologists, mandolinists, and guitarists of considerable ability. One of their number—a very small human boy, as Mr. Chadband would say—assumes the airs and graces of a miniature Sousa, and conducts the Palace orchestra with a consequential swagger that is intensely amusing.

Early in the evening is presented Mr. Charles Brookfield's sketch The Lady Burglar, which is not quite new to the stage, though it is making its first appearance at the Palace this week. Its wit and amusing imbroglio are well brought out by Miss Stella Hammerstein, a pretty daughter of the famous New York impresario, and Mr. Henry J. Ford, a son of the popular Lottie Venne, who displays considerable promise as an actor. Miss Daisy James has become quite a favourite with audiences at the Palace, whom she entertains with her comedy songs and chic style; and earlier in the evening Miss Lucy Ashton scores with a capital scena. Other turns include Mlle. Berthe Saverny, a brilliant vocalist; the Alaskas, in their refined acrobatic act; Matthews and Ashley, American comedians; and Clarice Mayne, also from the States. Scenes from Henley Regatta shown on the Bioscope are a most interesting addition to Mr. Alfred Butt's programme, which is one of the best in London. Mr. Herman Finck's orchestra during the evening submits a most enjoyable selection in Edward German's "Henry VIII. Dances."

HOLBORN EMPIRE.

No lack of novelty is apparent in the current programme at Mr. Walter Gibbon's newly-constructed hall in Holborn, where the single-turn system allows for the presentation of a programme in which no less than seventeen items are included. A first production this week has been the comedy sketch A Very Bad Boy, presented by Mr. Hal Godfrey and company. A young curate is engaged by a lady for her nephew who has recently been bequeathed to her by her brother, and is shortly to become a member of the household. The lady and her husband are not on speaking terms, and the latter, to spite his spouse, determines to convert the nephew into a "boy" of the gayest type. He mistakes the curate, who is of the meekest and most inoffensive kind—for the nephew plies him with whisky and cigars, and finally induces him to give the lady of the house a kiss. The tutor, muddled with the strong drink, complies, and receives a box on the ears and is ordered to leave the house. Before he goes, he indulges in a round with the boxing gloves with the old man, with the result that the latter is reduced to the most pitiable condition. So slight a plot seems scarcely to give much opportunity for comic elaboration, but the piece nevertheless bristles with funny sayings and incidents, and the laughter that accompanied its progress was continuous. The chief provoker of merriment was Mr. Godfrey, who made up in eccentric fashion and adopted a sepulchral tone that was most ludicrous. He was remarkably well supported by the other two performers, and the result was a gratifying success.

The appetite for novelty is further stimulated by the inclusion in the programme of D'Arc's Marionettes, in which the art of the puppet-show is advanced in a unique degree by the imitation on the miniature stage of well-known artists. Happy Fanny Fields, in her Dutch song and dance, and R. G. Knowles, with his long stride and peculiar utterance, are portrayed with marvellous fidelity; and other remarkable impersonations, from George Lashwood to Harry Lauder, from Vesta Tilley to May Henderson, are included in the interesting gallery of imitations. The attempt to put popular favourites before the audience by means of wooden dolls, with costume, action, and voice complete, is one of no little daring, but its success is rendered unmistakable by the enthusiasm of the audience, who would gladly see more of the clever show. Miss May Mars, the handsome and dashing comedienne sings in impressive style, "I've no right to love you, but I do," and in the ballad about an Indian maid, her rich and cultured voice is heard with inexpressible delight.

A "talking dog" has also a place in the programme, and proves to be a beautiful little poodle called Vermouth, introduced by a French gentleman, who takes the audience into his confidence in his native tongue. The dog is made to utter a kind of whine, and by placing his hand in the animal's mouth, sounds of the open "a" are produced with different consonants prefixed. The words "Mama," "La-ba," &c., in more or less close imitation of the human voice are heard, and have an effect that is decidedly interesting. "Klio" embraces a series of studies in sculpture, presented by Miss Irma Lorraine. Numerous subjects are treated, including Music, Venus, and the Nymph at the Fountain, and ending with an effective representation of the Rock of Ages. The brief intervals between the poses are made enjoyable by the display of Maurin's fountains, by means of which a number of highly picturesque waterfall designs are obtained.

The art of Jiu-Jitsu is agreeably demonstrated by Raku, in whose behalf £50 is offered to any three European wrestlers, if he fails to defeat all of them in fifteen minutes. Only one opponent turned up on Tuesday evening in the person of an army sergeant, who was disposed of after a four minutes' round. The way in which the frailest lady can overthrow the burliest ruffian is also shown by a comely Japanese maiden and Raku's assistant who assumes the manner and methods of the street hooligan. Miss Mabel Thorne puts the house into the highest spirits with her song of "Mr. Brown," and gentlemen of different hues whom she identifies in the audience. The Sisters Anderson appear to advantage as novelty dancing experts; Mr. Harry Herbert sends the audience into roars of laughter by his funny sayings as a red-haired lady; Cullane's comedietta, The Lady's School, is played to unceasing mirth, and the programme also includes Kahn and Kahn in a magical act; Prof. Dunning, ventriloquist; Mr. Ryder Slone, the clever descriptive comedian; Sibb and Sibb, trapeze artists; the Imperial Bioscope, and Robins and Collier in the sketch, The Lady and the Porter

SHEPHERD'S BUSH EMPIRE.

Arrangements for the amusement of the variety-loving public of Shepherd's Bush are perfect at the handsome Empire close to the "Tube" terminus, where the most luxurious accommodation is combined with an entertainment the excellence of which is assured under the wise supervision of Mr. Oswald Stoll, aided by the assiduous acting-manager, Mr. E. H. Dobson. A prominent place in the current week's programme is occupied by the popular comedian, Mr. Harry Ford, the "inquisitive" one creating much hilarity by his humorous renderings of "What do you think they keep me here for?" and "Ain't it nice to be with people who're so kind?" the latter ditty telling of the questionable benevolence of an obliging landlord. The comedian also appeared as a dude—an impersonation which owed all its fun to the ability of Mr. Ford. Another humorist who was accorded a flattering reception was Mr. Ambrose Thorne, a light comedian who should do well in musical comedy. He has a funny number in "Be very, very careful what you do," in which he reminds his listeners that things are not always what they seem; and there were many in the audience who regretted that this finished and smart artist only gave one song. There was much quiet humour also in the ditty for which Miss May Evans was responsible, "He opened his mouth too wide," in which the comedienne amusingly warbles of "Bill," a gentleman who means well, though he sometimes has an unfortunate way of expressing himself.

Familiar as all music hall frequenters must be with the boxing sketch of the Brothers Horne, who not long since returned from South Africa, its success is as pronounced as ever. Roars of laughter are awakened by the ribald remarks of the shoeblack at the expense of the masher; and when the latter can stand the insults no longer, and dons the "mittens," finally completely vanquishing the bully, the excitement is intense. The boxing bout is as smartly managed as it ever was, and the brothers work well together for the success of the entertaining trifle—a success which is also contributed to by the lady member of the quartette, who executes a neat little step-dance. Spry and Austin submit an amusing interlude, in which the male appears as a weird-looking creature who indulges in many humorous antics and sayings. His fair partner ably aids him in the fun-making, and the couple conclude their turn with a well-written and laughable song descriptive of "The Girls of England." One of the finest animal acts to be seen in the music halls is certainly that given by Miss Tina Clementa, who, besides introducing some wonderfully intelligent and highly-trained dogs, proves herself an accomplished horsewoman. A couple of exceptionally smart terriers and a number of high-leaping hounds especially deserve mention; and the interesting and much appreciated turn is concluded by a number of dogs "looping the loop," a much-applauded feat.

The varied and attractive musical interlude for which Violi is responsible includes the playing of "Il Bacio" on the concertina, and many other popular selections on bells and other novel instruments, the gifted musician being accorded a most flattering reception; and the expert and easy juggling, hoop-manipulating, and numberless other difficult exploits of Atroy are appreciated at their true worth. Much hilarity is the outcome of the funnily-worked show of the "merry monopedes," Conway and Leland, the cleverness of their act also being recognised in no half-hearted fashion; and also contributing largely to the enjoyment of the evening are the popular Irish comedian, Mr. Pat Rafferty, in a couple of well-rendered songs; and the clever "farmyard" mimic, Mr. Harry Carsdale.

THE DUCHESS.

Evening breezes from the neighbouring common have been powerless to induce variety lovers at Balham to forego the pleasures of the music hall which Mr. Walter Gibbons enables them to enjoy, and the strength of the programme last week caused them to flock in crowds to the elegant and well-appointed hall. The inimitable Chirgwin was a great source of attraction, but on the Wednesday Mr. Bertram Ross, the new manager, was obliged to announce that the "White-Eyed Kaffir" was indisposed, and that he had secured a deputy in Hayman and Franklin, who were most favourably received. Their duologue, in which a gentleman of the Jewish persuasion enters the office of a matrimonial agent and indulges in pleasant conversation with the proprietress, created hearty laughter, and a subsequent duet in which a medley of choruses are quaintly strung together, proved equally entertaining. The comedian of the pair is eccentric to look upon, and his stolid utterance is in happy contrast to the bright and animated delivery of his fair partner.

Cordial greeting was given to King and Benson, old favourites in Balham, whose devices for creating mirth are many and various. The daintily-costumed lady is charming as ever both in appearance and in voice, which blends tunefully with that of the irrepressible "messenger-boy." Mr. Albert Le Fre adopts what may be called an international make-up in his costume, and the difficulty is to determine whether he pretends to be a Scotch, Irish, or German tourist. Whatever his nationality, however, there is no question as to the humour, the novelty, and the artistic finish of his entertainment. Beginning with a series of funny stories, each droller than the rest, Mr. Le Fre proceeds to portray "What one sees on the

CHAT WITH MISS VESTA TILLEY.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER.)

There are not many famous historical personages—go back as far as you like—each of whose autographs would realise, if put up for auction, the sum of £200, so that Miss Vesta Tilley, who arrived in London a week ago after a successful American tour, ought to feel mightily proud at the fact that only a few weeks ago her signature on a programme was sold for 1,000 dollars, or, in English money, £208 12s. 8d.

"Why not retire from the stage and sell autographs, Miss Tilley?"

"Ah! I may retire in six years' time—you see, I have contracts as far ahead as that. My husband wants me to give up work at once, but I'm afraid I'm too fond of it."

"So that, in all probability, the stage will see your farewell performance in 1912?"

The lady evidently did not wish to make a definite statement. "I can only tell you," she replied, "that I hope to retire in six years. I won't make a promise—I might even retire before—so that's all I say on that subject."

"Then suppose we talk about America?"

"Certainly," came the vivacious reply. "This last trip I was away for two months, and without flattering myself in the slightest, I can say that we did record-breaking business all the time. At the Colonial in New York, where I appeared most of the time, we had a matinée and an evening performance every day. At the afternoon show there were always about 100 women to every man in the audience. Oh, and the stage-door receptions! And the presents! I never had less than three bouquets at every performance, and on my farewell night I had twelve, as well as three huge boxes of chocolates, a chain, and a satchel, the last-mentioned being made of beads by a little girl. I'm awfully fond of America. The audiences there are just as good to me as they are in England."

"So you will be going back?"

"Rather—if I can only arrange it. Mr. H. H. Feiber, the well-known New York manager, offered me a thirty-five weeks' engagement if I would remain on. We cabled to London to know if the Moss Empires Company would release me from contracts, but Mr. Stoll replied that he could not see his way to do so. However, I shall go to America next year provided some of the English managers will release me from certain dates in this country."

"But you are going for a holiday now?"

"Why shouldn't I?" laughed Miss Tilley. "I shall go to Paris next week, and then I shall, with my husband, start off on a motor tour somewhere. We have a 40-h.p. Panhard, and I never now travel in a railway train in England. And I feel safer, too, in the motor even than in the train. At the conclusion of my holidays, a tour of the Moss and Stoll Empires will bring me up to Christmas, then I return to London and its suburbs."

We are not surprised that our American cousins have fallen in love with Miss Vesta Tilley, for is she not the neatest, daintiest, jolliest, and sprightliest little artist that we have? She sings in a manner as delightful as it is free from vulgarity, and from the moment she steps on the stage she has the audience with her. The most critical of playgoers capitulate to her charms and wax enthusiastic over the smoothness and finish of her acting. Her songs and studies of English characteristics are complete in every detail of inflection, and time does not seem to deprive her in the least of her superior qualities of entertainment, refinement, and cleverness. She is an artist to her finger-tips, her every movement in giving the lightest song is a suggestion, and there is no woman on the stage who better acts her songs, in addition to singing them so delightfully and with such a twinkling sense of humour.

Miss Tilley is proud in the possession of a massive solid silver loving-cup, which was presented to her during her recently-concluded New York engagement. The inscription engraved upon the cup is as follows: "Miss Vesta Tilley, from Percy G. Williams, June 10, 1906. A slight souvenir of the fact that you did the record business of this season at the Colonial, the Orpheum, and the Alhambra."

It may interest some folk to know where Miss Tilley made her first appearance as a public entertainer. It was at the St. George's Hall, Nottingham, of which house the débutante's father was manager. We won't say how long ago that is, but the lady herself had then reached the age of three years, and she was so small that she had to be placed upon a table while she sang her song. Miss Tilley commenced wearing male dress at the age of five, and ever since has stuck to masculine attire—on the stage only, of course.

MR. J. F. CONNOR has secured Capt. Gruber, with his elephant, horse, and pony for four weeks for the Hippodrome, Douglas, Isle of Man. The elephant, Minni, is the largest performing pachyderm in the world, and she will enjoy her sea bath every day for her health.

halls," in which illustrations of an acrobatic performance and those of a juggler, a magician, and an illusionist are given, concluding with an oddly conceived dance. Each feat is smartly enough executed, but fun is the predominant feature, and the laughter which the comedian causes still mingles with the recalls which continue long after his number has been removed.

Tit-bits of burlesque were furnished by the Two Bostons, who in their capacity of showmen create merriment by their fooling and evoke admiration for the "cake walk" which they have trained a couple of dogs to perform. Dancing is also favoured by the Bostons, one of whom gives a very creditable exposition of the art. The Original Cecilias, two graceful ladies, introduced themselves in a post-horn duet, one of the fair performers afterwards giving an effective rendering of "Queen of the Earth" on the cornet. Tubular bells and sleigh bells also serve the purposes of popular melodies, and so entrancing do the selections prove that an irresistible demand is made for more.

The inspiring notes of the reveille, played on silver bugles, heralded the appearance of the Musical Howards, one of whom makes a comely representative of a bugler boy, while her partner, dressed in military attire of a most eccentric kind, exerts himself with the happiest results in an endeavour to create laughter. "Let me like a soldier fall" is given in fine style on the cornet by the lady, while the popular "Little Boy called Taps" is made to sound very well as a duet on the same instruments. Mr. Joe Archer proved his right to the style and title of "The Curious Chappie" in his singing "That's what a man can't do"; and the Ten Dixie Girls submitted an enjoyable series of songs, choruses and dances. The saltatory talents of the Glenroy Troupe are united in their pretty spectacle, "The Lads of the New Brigade," in which military manœuvres are executed with agreeable precision and the art of dancing attains a high degree of perfection; and the attractiveness of the bill was further increased by the pictures shown on the Imperial Bioscope.

The liberal entertainment was made still more generous on the 27th ult. by an "extra turn" submitted by the Vernon St. Clair company in a sketch called Peter's Dilemma. The interlude is chiefly notable for the antics of a page boy, who is left in charge of a dressmaker's establishment, and by the exercise of his fancied powers of hypnotism induces the young daughter of the house to give him the money to secure admission to a neighbouring music hall. This gives excuse for a dance and for the appearance of the page boy in the stalls, whence he is summarily ejected. The little piece, which afforded real pleasure, was played by a comedian of distinct talent and by a young girl who spoke her lines agreeably and danced neatly, the part of a fashionable dressmaker being also creditably sustained.

WALTHAMSTOW PALACE.

With a wise prodigality—if one may use a somewhat paradoxical expression—Mr. Arthur J. Barclay this week provides his patrons with a programme calculated to attract audiences at the busiest time of the year instead of the season frequently associated with makeshifts. The result is highly successful from the public's point of view, and, we hope, equally so from the managerial standpoint. Great expectations had been aroused by the announcement of the engagement of Miss Eugenie Fougère, who sings French chansons as only a born Parisienne could do, and introduces the latest Parisian novelty, "Mattchiche," a dance which on Monday was received with a peculiarly chilling silence. By far the most dramatically artistic performance of the week is the appearance of Miss Arabella Allen in some of her famous Dickens impersonations. Here we had something truly artistic. It may be unfortunate that Miss Allen elected to make her initial appearance in two such characters as Quilp and Uriah Heep: they did not allow of sufficient contrast to exhibit the talented lady's undoubted versatility. But both are marvellously clever. The manner in which the actress, with a few touches, extinguishes her identity and assumes the personalities of these two really repulsive characters is a triumph of art. Miss Hettie Chattell is one of the very best male impersonators we have seen. In the correct evening dress of the good-looking young man about town, Miss Chattell sings her two songs, "When you're courting" and "That's what I call love," in admirable style. Carl Lynn is a cheerful and clever mimic—or rather imitator—of animals, some of his efforts being startlingly true; Hector repeats a performance that has won him favour before now on these boards as a wire artist and hoop manipulator; Burt Shepard's alleged parodies at the piano are not always amusing; and an original "electrical review" is E. Rousbey's Paris in London, in which is exemplified to what extraordinary lengths the uses of electricity may be put on the stage. Four beautiful scenes of Paris are displayed, and the lighting is simply marvellous, the effect of the sky from daybreak, through tempest to sunset and moonrise, being admirable. The review is witnessed with rapt attention, and accorded unstinted applause. Bonnie Goodwin and her Piccaninnies appear, and the wildly grotesque dancing of the youngsters goes as well as ever; Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope shows some pleasing pictures; and the able stage-management of Mr. John Grant deserves mention. The overture for the week is the ever-welcome Faust, of Gounod, well played under the bâton of Mr. H. Petersen.

EALING HIPPODROME.

Miss Amy Clevere returns to the Hippodrome this week, and again wins the plaudits of her many admirers. Her two numbers, "Sweethearts all over the world you'll find," and "You tell me you are going to wed a white man," are rendered with that inimitable winsomeness which this dainty comedienne has made so peculiarly her own. As a dancer, too, Miss Clevere possesses grace and chic, and her turn is altogether a delightful one. In the engagement of the "comedy trio" of jugglers, Drawee, Frisco, and Hambro, Mr. E. W. James has secured a strong attraction. Remarkably expert in himself, Drawee is fortunate in possessing two clever assistants—a nigger and a collie dog, which appears to enjoy the entertainment fully as much as the audience, while the antipathy he exhibits towards his African confrère is amusing to a degree. Drawee himself is responsible for some clever wine-glass, plate, and umbrella manipulation, though the house misses some of his finer points in the amusement caused by the performance of his beautiful dog. Mr. C. Cranston finds great favour in his song, with the refrain, "Girls, I like to please them, but I always like to tease them," and his "Matrimonial News" number is also of a mirthful character, and provokes roars of laughter. Miss Maidie Scott, who is "just a comedienne," presents a most enticing stage picture. Her song of "Once again the curate preaches" has a quaint and tuneful melody which strikes pleasurably upon the ear. Miss Scott's second song, "Won't you listen to that big brass band," is a marching tune which calls irresistibly for the accompaniment of tapping feet—and in no more convincing a manner could the audience show how thoroughly the artist's efforts are appreciated. Clad in a principal boy's costume of silver satin, Miss Maggie Rimmer gives her song, "There's a girl I love sincerely" with excellent effect. Her step-dancing is also exceptionally neat, and never fails to gain applause. Mr. Jack Wood, "the Lancashire tenor," who has a fine voice, affords real pleasure by the delivery of his two songs, and at once establishes himself as a first-class favourite.

In the Hardinis, juvenile musical instrumentalists, is found a quartette of most capable violinists. A concerted opening by the young troupe is followed by a violin solo, in which harmonic effects are exquisitely obtained. In a mazurka, which also forms part of their entertainment, the pizzicato movements are perfect, and the young people were again and again recalled. Mr. C. Whittle is one of those amusing comedy vocalists whose mere appearance at the footlights is the signal for an outburst of merriment. He is funny without effort, and every line of his patter is really droll. In "I'm Muggins the Juggins" the artist is at his best, and some of his facial contortions are irresistibly comic. The musical comedy sketch, A Broken Journey, supplies Hallam and Stanton with a vehicle for some tuneful songs and several funny situations. Rose Singleton, on her way to a wedding, is delayed by a railway contretemps, and Tom Carter finds himself in the same position. In the midst of their troubles both find time to deliver one or two solos and a spirited duet. Amusement is caused by the couple mistaking each other for criminals of the worst type, and some comical episodes are developed. Ultimately, explanations follow, which prove that the lady and gentleman are old sweethearts, and the trifle ends happily enough. Both artists are excellent comedians, and their little sketch goes with a merry swing. Apollo and his pupils present an interesting exposition of jiu-jitsu methods.

HOUNSLOW HIPPODROME.

Excellent audiences are being attracted here this week, delighted with the fare provided by Mr. John Lawson, who is loyally aided by his trusty lieutenant, Mr. Reginald Grant. The performance opens with a capital overture under the able bâton of Mr. Roden, which is but a forerunner of many good things to come. The Sisters Rose, who win recognition at once, good-humouredly bid the audience "Follow the Band," and having acquitted themselves satisfactorily as vocalists, they demonstrated their ability in high kicking and various acrobatic feats, manifestly to the admiration of the whole audience. Tit for Tat gives Howard and Hanson an excellent opportunity to display their versatility, and they extracted quite a lot of fun from the imbroglio resulting from a surreptitious visit by a lady disguised as a military man to a Covent Garden ball. The ruses of a jealous husband to bring his wife to book prove exceedingly funny, and the fun waxes fast and furious when a mock duel between husband and wife brings matters to a climax, and the usual explanations follow. Miss Elly Amorelle sings very sweetly "Down the Vale," the scenes being pictorially represented on a screen. The reception accorded to her efforts is in the highest degree satisfactory, so much so that the talented vocalist narrowly escaped a demand for a repetition of her efforts. Jury's Bioscope affords the audience an opportunity of witnessing the race for the Grand Prix, and it is hugely enjoyed.

A local scena, The Lady Highwayman, from the pen, we understand, of Louie Cissie Lawson, follows. The plot of this little piece turns on the escapades of Lady Muriel Giles, who is wont to masquerade as a highway robber on Hounslow Heath. She is in love with the local poet, one Rudolph, but the course of true love runs anything but smoothly, as the match is opposed by her parents, Lady and Squire Giles. When, however, the latter couple find themselves stranded on Hounslow Heath, and beset with the threats of a dashing young highwayman, they are grateful for the timely assistance of Rudolph, who is, of course, in the plot. As the result of his timely rescue they bestow on him the hand of Muriel, and the curtain falls on a general reconciliation. Miss Janett Delore is a pretty and winsome Muriel, Mr. George Grantham proves excellent as the Squire, Mr. James Hardie is distinctly humorous as the poet Rudolph, and Miss Emily Spillet lends her aid with advantage as Lady Giles. The "scena" is an unambitious effort, smartly written, and contains several amusing situations.

The Hippodrome company appears in The Sleigh Bells, an adaptation of the Lyceum production.

THE METROPOLITAN.

On Monday was produced a new sketch, in three scenes, by H. Leslie Bell, entitled

"ARE YOU A GENTLEMAN?"

Ethel Graybrook ..... MISS LILLY PEARL
Miss Clements ..... MISS M. BERESFORD
George Wells ..... MR. H. LESLIE BELL

From a literary point of view Mr. H. Leslie Bell's new sketch is considerably superior to the average music hall production. There is a crispness in the dialogue that is quite refreshing, and though the plot is slight enough, skilful workmanship is shown in its development. The first scene represents the office of a busy theatrical agent, who has just received a curt intimation from a popular leading lady to the effect that she will not accept an engagement to appear in a new musical play about to be produced unless she is allowed to have a free hand in regard to the dialogue. Mr. Wells, the agent, instructs his typist to write to the "star" declining to accept her conditions. He will have to find someone able to take her place. Just at this moment a young lady enters the office, and in a flurried manner explains that she has lost her purse. Will Mr. Wells kindly help her out of the difficulty? In the course of the conversation which follows the lady reveals the fact that she is desirous of obtaining a stage engagement; and as evidence of her ability she gives a song and dance which quite satisfies the agent as to her ability. She also gives him to understand that she is well off, and invites him to her home. The drive in a hansom cab is shown by a series of pictures on the biograph, the couple evidently holding an animated discussion on the way. The last scene is a sumptuously furnished apartment in a house in Mayfair, which duly impresses the agent, who eventually engages the lady to appear in the new production at a big salary, and signs the contract then and there. The ink is not dry before the lady makes a full confession that her story of the lost purse was only an excuse for obtaining an interview with the agent, and as to the sumptuously furnished room, she had hired that for the occasion. "Why didn't you write to me?" asks the agent, who, finding he has been deceived, threatens to break the contract. The lady replies that she wrote several times, and reads his reply, stating that he could not interview unknown people who wanted engagements. The agent relents, admits she is a plucky little woman, and says he has no doubt she will make a hit in the new piece. The sketch concludes merrily and musically with a duet. Miss Lilly Pearl is a very bright and animated representative of the would-be actress Ethel Graybrook, and sings and dances in admirable style; Miss M. Beresford plays well in the minor part of the typist; and Mr. H. Leslie Bell is delightfully easy and natural in his embodiment of the agent.

The excellent bill this week includes Griff, in "The Clown in Apartments," his quaint performance giving unqualified satisfaction. The Serenaders, a quintet of masked singers, are well received; and the Six Brothers Luck continue to extract much fun out of their bustling pantomime, The Hotel Grande. The Ongars score in their admirable illustrations of various styles of national dancing; Barlee and Smith appear in the comedy and musical duologue, A Rehearsal; and Booker and Narbis, in The Society Burglar, are highly successful. Mr. Charles Whittle is a quaint comedian that is rapidly rising in popularity; and other attractive turns include Mr. Will Johnson, comedian; Mr. Will Dalton, comedian; Miss Leonie Dixon, soubrette and speciality dancer; Mr. Whit Cunliffe, comedian; Miss Lily Morris, comedienne; Burns and Evans, eccentric comedians; and the Sisters Morgan, duettists and dancers.

DANGEROUS PERFORMANCES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—With the greatest astonishment I read the article re the Dangerous Performance Bill in the last issue of The Era. Are not courage, pluck, and cleverness qualities which should be admired and encouraged? If this new Bill is directed against all acrobatic performers, I can only say that it would be extremely unfair. There is a very great difference between a dangerous performance and a clever performance, but people who are not thoroughly acquainted with each line of acrobatic accomplishment cannot possibly be fair judges whether a performance is dangerous or clever. Every experienced acrobat or clown will tell you that there is no real danger in clever acrobatic performances, as the permanent practice which is required for a smart acrobatic act makes even a dangerous trick easy and absolutely sure. The acrobatic business is surely restricted enough already by the existing laws and regulations, and there is no real necessity therefore to bring fresh laws and restriction in force against acrobatic performers.

The Dangerous Performances Bill, if it ever comes in force, will surely not prevent accidents happening, but on the contrary the measure would, by its stupid and unwarrantable restrictions, without the slightest doubt produce many accidents, and this for the following reasons:

1. Compelled by the law not to perform (seemingly) dangerous tricks with boys under 16 and girls under 18, acrobatic performers would of course do their acts with girls and boys over the age limit, which certainly would be much more difficult, and through this reason might become dangerous.
2. By the new Bill boys and girls could not commence early enough to become really clever acrobatic performers, and would be brought on to the stage half trained in their line of business, and then of a surety accidents would be very frequent.

If it be really necessary to introduce the Dangerous Performances Bill, the only way to handle the subject fairly would be to appoint a committee of four or five old acrobatic performers to say in each case whether an act or performance is dangerous or clever. If the Bill comes into force as it stands now, it will only be a great trouble to the authorities and more so to clever performers who try, and have always tried, to earn an honest living for their families and themselves.—Yours truly,

O. HANS DAYTON,
of the Dayton Family.

Palace, Halifax, July 3, 1906.

P.S.—I commenced the acrobatic business when three years of age. I have been now over 30 years in the business, and have never met with an accident. I am strong and healthy, and have strong and healthy children, thank God. So the acrobatic business cannot be dangerous, after all.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—If you can spare me a few lines in your valuable paper to protest against this most obnoxious Act in its drafted shape you will confer a boon on numbers of members of the variety profession, inasmuch as if the Act is passed in its present shape we shall have no gymnasts, acrobats, cyclists, equestrians, or other people who will be considered to be performing dangerous feats. I do not mind the Act as regards hazardous, or what you might term risky, exhibitions—such as parachute descents, &c.; but we cannot tell how it will affect members of the profession generally.

If the Act would only define what performances are to be considered dangerous—all well and good. But it is left to some individual of little authority and less intelligence, who may or may not be prejudiced against certain acts in variety theatres, and he may consider even a Risley act dangerous. Then, again, one might go to some other towns, and a person in power might look at the same performance from a totally different standpoint.

The Act would not work, but it would be the means probably of throwing out of employment hundreds of people who have no other means of gaining a livelihood, being inexperienced at other trades, and having served a lifetime in amusing the public. Besides, the Act also interferes too much with the liberty of the subject, and we are supposed to live in England—the home of the free.

I might also state that serious accidents are very rare in the acrobatic or gymnastic businesses. I am sure the percentage would be very small, and I think also that risks in factories and workshops are far more dangerous, and are responsible for a far larger percentage of accidents than any performance given in either music hall, circus, or theatre.

Now, Mr. Editor, knowing you are always willing to take up these matters, I ask you if it would not be well for the profession generally to try and stop this Act becoming law, and I think the several Associations, including the proprietors, should form a deputation to obtain an interview with the Home Secretary, so as to defend our interests and prevent anything becoming law that may be unjust to the variety profession generally, or to any section of it.

There are many feats performed in school gymnasia under inexperienced instructors that are far more risky than any performed by experienced artists on the variety boards or in the arena. Should a committee be formed, I will do all that lies in my power to further our cause, as I feel that the last Children's Act was a useless and unnecessary Act for the stage, and now, in these new proposals of Mr. Herbert Samuel, we are going from bad to worse. The Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children can do all that is necessary.

Trusting that something will be done before it is too late; and thanking you in anticipation for the insertion of these remarks.—Faithfully yours,

E. A. W. CAMEO.

95, Stretford-road, Manchester,

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Re the new Act concerning dangerous performances. I think it will do a lot of harm to good English artists if the authorities don't specify what (in their idea) is dangerous to life and limb. I have performed on the three bars for eighteen years, and on bars for twenty-six years, and am strong and well yet. I have had no broken bones. My daughter works the trapeze, and has done so for the last four years, and if some official should call it dangerous (which some old fossil might do) she would have to leave out the best part of her act, although she can sing while performing it, and it hardly alters her breathing. She is only 8½ft. from the mattress. It ought to be stated in the proposed Act what performance is considered dangerous, so that everyone may know if they run a risk of a penalty or not.—

Yours faithfully,
FRED ARTELL,
(of the Bros. Artell; father of the Three Rubys).

Empire, Liverpool, July 4.

MR. THEODORE JONES has decided that in order to avoid further misunderstanding, his new scena in future will be known as The Prodigal's Return.

MISS FANNIE LESLIE—who alas! all too seldom graces the boards she so well adorned—was a visitor at the Oxford on Monday evening, and was observed chatting with that well-known pantomime librettist and author, Charles Wilmott, who wrote for the lady, in conjunction with John S. Baker, her celebrated song "The Boys of London Town."

THE EMPRESS ANNIVERSARY.

The eighth year of the existence of the elegant palace of variety at the foot of Brixton Hill was ushered in on Friday, the 29th ult., when the occasion was marked by the presence of a crowded audience, and by the attendance, at the invitation of the directors, of many people prominent in variety circles. The Empress, it may be recalled, was the first of the new suburban halls to feel the pinch of the teetotal policy of the London County Council, and determined attempts were made without avail to change the intolerant attitude of London's governing body. The hall was for some time run under the Lord Chamberlain's licence, during which period a drink permit was held, but smoking was forbidden. Eventually the music hall licence was taken up, along with the drink restrictions, the scent of the fragrant weed was restored, and the hall has since enjoyed a career of unvarying prosperity.

Great enthusiasm was displayed on Friday in all parts of the house, and though the refreshment bar was left for the most part desolate, a little apartment upstairs, where Mr "Johnny" Wood presided over the feast, was filled and refilled with many people anxious to offer congratulations to Mr. Nelson Francis. Besides the success of the celebration, the popular manager had the additional pleasure of noting the hearty reception given to three small daughters of the house, the entertainment contributed by Little Maudie, Ivy, and Gladys Francis being one of the most appreciable items of the evening. Maudie has already taken honours on the variety stage, and her singing on Friday of a song in praise of "Lulu" and her neat dancing obtained the heartiest applause, which increased in volume when a veritable counterpart of the dainty little maiden appeared and joined her sister in the dance. There was still further excitement when at the third recall a child in pink, who could scarcely have seen four summers, joined the other two in an effective pas de trois. The little "mite" was profuse in her acknowledgments of the cheers and of the floral tributes bestowed, bowing not always in the right direction, but certainly with every desire that no one should be left out.

Artists of eminence contributed to the special programme, which contained some extra turns. Miss Victoria Monks' song of "Moving Day" had an immediate effect on the audience, who sang the refrain with remarkable unanimity, the popular artist being obliged to respond with another selection. Mr. Wilkie Bard caused the customary roars of laughter with his plaintive request, "Let me sing"; Mr. T. E. Dunville dilated in characteristically funny fashion on the virtues of tramway tickets; and Mr. George Robey presented the sorrows of a serio with irresistible drollery. Miss Daisy James, for whom a handsome basket of flowers and a fan made out of elegant blooms were held in reserve, sang her "policeman" song with her usual gaiety and animation; and Miss Lottie Lennox, in glittering dress of marvellous pattern, gave a rousing chorus song. The wonderful dancing of Mr. John Ford, who, attired in evening-dress, goes through a series of the most intricate steps, caused demonstrative applause. King and Benson were cordially received in their snatches of harmony and fun; the Selbinis won the approbation of the house for their wonderful cycling feats; Miss Edie King made a pretty appearance as "Red Riding Hood"; Mr. Bob Hutt rendered one of his most comical selections; Mr. Gilbert Girard submitted a specimen of his vocal powers in his imitations; Miss Alice Blandford exercised a cultivated soprano in a popular ballad; Jack Wayho and Eva Hope gave impressive illustrations of Dickens stories; and among others who contributed to the programme were Miss Gladys Anderson, Mr. Thos. Brooklyn, Mr. George Neno, Miss Carrie Woods, the Sisters Morgan, Mr. Syd May, Miss Eddie Comet, Mlle. Nadji, Mr. Dan Crawley, Harvey and Holt, Miss Anna Kenwick, Forrest and King, Vesta and Hylton, the Vernon Troupe, Miss Edie King, Mr. R. H. Douglass, Mr. Dutch Daly, Miss Jessie Harper, Miniature Marie, and the Moving Pictures.

Mr. E. Johnson, the chairman, represented the directorate, the other members of which were, it is understood, on a holiday. Mr. Francis Winchcombe, the courteous assistant-manager, was ubiquitous throughout the evening, and the visitors included Mrs. Winchcombe, Mrs. Wood, the mother of Marie Lloyd; and Messrs. J. Murray Herriot, the former manager of the theatre opposite, Fred Miller, Frank Weeks, the veteran George Burgess, Jesse Sparrow, Theo Dunckley, Will Oliver, Tom Pacey, George Barclay, Fortune and Granville, Hyman, Dave Cohen, C. J. Barber, Raleigh Abrahams, and Bert Lamonte. The stage was smartly directed by Mr. Ernest Aplin, who had the invaluable assistance of the regular stage-manager, Mr. Albert Burridge.

"ARE YOU A GENTLEMAN?" a novelty sketch, was produced at the Metropolitan on Monday by the H. Leslie Bell and Lily Pearl company. In evolving the plot use is made of a bioscope picture.

WE regret to announce the death of the mother of Miss Cissie Louie Lawson (Mrs. John Lawson), to whom much sympathy has been extended in her bereavement.

THE remains of Mr. "Teddy" London, well known as the representative of Mr. Larway, the music publisher, were laid to rest at Nunhead on Wednesday. He died at the early age of 39 in Westminster Hospital, liver trouble being the primary cause of his decease. In such esteem was he held that it would be difficult to name a music publishing house that was not represented at the funeral.

FRANCIS AND DAY'S OUTING.

Ideal conditions prevailed on the occasion of the fifth annual outing on Saturday of the firm of Francis, Day and Hunter, the principals of which the employees delight to honour by entertaining them every year at an excursion. This time it took the form of a trip on the water, for which the weather was exactly suited, the hot sun being tempered all day by a refreshing breeze. Travelling by train to Staines the party, which numbered twenty-eight, embarked upon the launch "Diamond Queen," and steamed to Windsor, where an excellent dinner was enjoyed at Tulli's Restaurant, which faces the Curfew Tower. The chair was occupied by Mr. C. J. Smith, the manager, and Mr. W. Eyke adorned the vice-chair. Mr. William Francis and Mr. David Day occupied places of honour, and among the company were also Mr. Charles Wilmott, Messrs. Leigh and Pether, Mr. Arthur Francis, and Mr. John Abbott.

At the conclusion of dinner the Chairman proposed the "Health of the Firm," and thanked the members thereof on behalf of the staff for granting them the holiday, and also for honouring them with their presence. It was a great pleasure to see them there. There was one absentee, Mr. Hunter, who, he regretted, was very queer, and who, he sincerely trusted, would soon recover. He had received a telegram from Mr. Maynard, who was in Scotland doing his duty towards the firm, which read: "I wish you all a pleasant day; sorry I cannot join you," and a very unfortunate member of the staff—Mr. Bob Burridge—who was unable to be present, owing to his son having been taken ill with fever, wired to say: "My thoughts with you; wish you all a happy day." With these few remarks he would ask them to charge their glasses and drink to "The Health of the Firm."

The toast was drunk with musical honours, Mr. "Charlie" Rooker, realising his responsibility as the oldest employee of the firm, rendering his share of the harmony with due fervour.

Mr. David Day, who was received with hearty cheers, said Mr. Francis had asked him to say a few words in his behalf, and he would add a few more on behalf of himself, but would endeavour to make the proceedings short so as to get out again to the delights of that beautiful day as soon as possible. He and his partner thanked them sincerely for singing their praises in such exalted tones. The business of the firm was going on very nicely, notwithstanding such obstacles as Mr. Caldwell and his friends in Parliament. Although the music trade was to a great extent paralysed they managed to jog along. He congratulated the staff on that fact, and the staff could congratulate the firm on their prosperity. He thought everything was pointing towards a prosperous season. Good news came by every mail from the American branch, which gave every indication that it was going to be successful. There was no want of success, too, in Denmark Street; on the contrary, there was soon to be an extension of those premises, the prosperity of which was bound to continue, and be even more pronounced than hitherto. They had an excellent musical comedy to deal with for the next few months in The Belle of Mayfair, and, on the whole, there was emphatically no reason to be downhearted.

The Vice-Chairman said he wished to propose the toast of "Absent Friends," namely, Mr. Fred Day and Mr. Willie Francis. In all probability they were at that moment thinking of them in America, and would, no doubt, be very pleased to be with them. With these two names he would associate that of Mr. Chas. Day, who was in Manchester, pushing the interests of the firm and of the "Sixpenny Pops."

The Chairman proposed "The Health of the Visitors," which was duly acknowledged. The toast of "The Committee" was responded to by Mr. John Abbott, who advocated that after-dinner speeches should be delivered before dinner. He looked upon his efforts to organise the excursion more as a little hobby to be indulged in during the summer weather; but if the Committee's work had been satisfactory that in itself was sufficient reward. Mr. H. Harris and Mr. Fred Leigh also acknowledged the toast.

Once again aboard the launch the party proceeded on a delightful journey up stream, to the far-famed Boulter's Lock, passing on their way the beautiful riverside home of Miss Vesta Tilley, and Bray Lodge, the late habitation of Mrs. Brown-Potter. A view was also afforded of the "eights," with the crowd of yelling supporters, practising for Henley, while the toilers of the towpath propelled their cargo-laden boats laboriously towards the scene of the great event. The only thing wanting was a piano, with the presence of which the river would doubtless have echoed with the entrancing melodies of Leslie Stuart, the popular productions of Leigh and Pether, of Airlie Dix and Edgar Bateman. Failing that, the party occupied themselves with the transient joys of "Nap" and the more sedate delights of Whist, while the fishermen of the party gazed in envy at the disciples of Izaak Walton who lined the bank. Mr. Eyke proved a veritable pocket edition of the "Compleat Angler," and seemed familiar with the pedigree of every member of the finny tribe who approached the surface of the water. Tea was served on board during the return journey, and the party reached Staines about eight o'clock, subsequently proceeding, by reserved corridor coach, to Waterloo, with the full conviction that never before had they spent a more enjoyable day.

BEN HARRIS and Nippers have returned to town after a successful tour of twenty weeks, and intend going on the road with their own company of vaudeville artists during the summer months.

DEATH OF DAN O'MALLEY.

It is with great regret we have to announce the death of Mr. Dan O'Malley (late of the O'Malleys), who passed away, after a long and sad illness, at Sheffield, on Thursday evening, June 28. Although the poor fellow had been given up for a long time by the doctors, and they considered his end was only a matter of time, his death has been a great shock to his relations and his many friends, especially to his old partner and comrade, Mr. Fred O'Malley, of O'Malley and Brown.

Deceased was for many years a well-known and respected performer, as one of the O'Malleys, whose name and fame extended all over Great Britain and even America. Formerly known as Dan Hildon, he gained considerable success as a clog dancer. Eventually joining Mr. Fred O'Malley, the firm became one of our foremost double turns, and quickly gained a reputation which they upheld for a number of years. The O'Malleys' name was one to conjure with for a long time in all the principal towns, more especially in Glasgow, of which place deceased was a native. It was a usual thing to see advertised extensively on the hoardings in many big provincial cities: "The O'Malleys are coming," and "Monday next, the

THE LATE DAN O'MALLEY.

O'Malleys," and they shared honours in popularity with the Two Macs, Tennyson and O'Gorman, Farrell and Willmot, and all the leading double turns of the day. Their success was so marked that they were promptly booked for America with Harry Williams' show, with which they played the principal American houses for a long season. They also served Mr. Oswald Stoll, when that gentleman had only one hall, the Parthenon, Liverpool, and likewise Messrs. Moss and Thornton when they first started. And year after year the O'Malleys were always to be seen at each new hall erected by the above-named gentlemen. They were also favourites for years at all the leading London establishments.

Many provincial theatres can record the good work done by the O'Malleys in pantomime, notably the old Prince of Wales' Theatre, Liverpool, season 1893-4, when the pantomime was Cinderella, which ran for seventeen weeks. In the cast were Jenny Rogers, Kate Barry, Lilian Stanley, Fred Williams, E. W. Colman, Stratton Mills, and the O'Malleys. Also the Theatre Royal, Newcastle-on-Tyne, Theatre Royal, Leeds, and many others.

MR AND MRS. EDGAR BUDDEN'S WEDDING PARTY AT "THE LAURELS," EAST MOLESEY, JUNE 27.

Deceased became suddenly overtaken with a sad and serious illness while playing at the Empire, Holloway, in May, 1905, and it was evident then that his career was finished. He never recovered, and the end came on June 28. He was buried on Tuesday at Sheffield, and his widow received many expressions of condolence from friends of deceased. His old partner sent an everlasting wreath, with card, "From one who will never forget him, his chum, Fred O'Malley." Billy Brown also sent a wreath: "In fond recollection."

Deceased leaves a widow and four children, and was 42 years of age.

MR. TOM J. MORTON'S concert company, which includes Miss Empsie and Maggie Bowman, appearing in their original entertainment High Life Below Stairs, met with a great ovation on the last night of their visit at Prince's Parade Pavilion, Bridlington. Mr. Charles Palmer, the manager, came upon the stage and publicly thanked them. The company is appearing this week and next at the Spa Saloon, Whitby, which, under the management of Mr. Payne Seddon, has become a popular resort.

MISS DAISY JEROME has accepted a strong working song, written and composed by H. F. Greenfield, tentatively entitled "How they propose." The same writer, who is quite an adept in employing dissimilar methods, has just disposed of a comic ditty called "Was ever a man so unlucky as me?" to Mr. Sam Mayo.

IN our notice last week of the Middlesex, a curious error occurred. The names of Miss Rosie Lloyd and Miss Gwennie Hasto were transposed, and to Miss Lloyd's account were placed the songs of Miss Hasto and vice versa.

MR. BERT HULL (of Fielding and Hull), who for the last two weeks has been so seriously ill with pleuro-pneumonia at Nottingham, is, we are glad to learn, now on the road to recovery.

THE SHOWMAN WORLD.

PENZANCE CORPUS CHRISTI FAIR was again very largely attended, the principal shows being those provided by Messrs. Hancock, Anderton, and Rowland, and J. Jones. The star attraction was undoubtedly the brilliantly-illuminated front of Anderton and Rowland's, the inside attractions being equally good. John Jones' popular variety show merited its large patronage, little Miss Sophy Jones evoking well-deserved applause in her step-dance. Professor Ruby brought his two excellent shows all the way from Coventry to attend this fair, his enterprise meeting with the support it deserved. Mr. Weston attracted large crowds to his athletic booth to witness his knife-throwing. The other entertainers were S. Reader, with freak show; Alfred Wright, with boxing booth; and Ruby's second exhibit, the giant lady. The machines included Hancock's new motor track and a steam horse set, Heal's two roundabouts, and Chapman provided both big boats and park swings. The minor novelties were rifle saloons and bottle-smashers by Messrs. Jones, Oldridge, Hurford, and Whitelegg. Coker-sheets and striking-machines by the Jones family.

CONSIDERABLE inconvenience was inflicted upon the show people by the newly-made regulation of the Corporation that the showmen must leave the fair ground by 6 a.m. on Sunday. This vexatious rule, it is hoped, will be repealed before next year's fair. Besides being unnecessary and in excess of the powers possessed by the Corporation, it forces the showmen to work all night pulling down, and this, too, after the busiest day of the fair. This mistaken and reactionary policy of the Penzance Corporation is, unfortunately, but part and parcel of a wide-spread movement in the West of England to hamper the show business.

OUR West of England correspondent, Mr. G. W. A. Norton, has drawn out attention to the recent proceedings of the Devon County Council, wherein it transpires that the County Council has been corresponding with the Secretary of State for the Home Department and the Local Government Board respecting the application of the Teignmouth District Council that a by-law may be made prohibiting the passage of caravans through the streets of Teignmouth during certain hours on Sunday.

THE Town Council of Totnes also have renewed their application that a similar by-law may be made for their borough, and the General Purposes Committee of the Council recommend with regard to Totnes that the by-law shall apply only to certain specified streets, and with regard to Teignmouth that a by-law dealing with the matter be made under the Locomotives Act, 1896, and that these by-laws be submitted to the Local Government Board for approval. This is a matter of serious moment to large concerns taking the Western fairs.

WE have made inquiries, and we find that it will be extremely difficult, and in some cases impossible to take the run of West of England fairs if the free passage of the shows on the Sunday be delayed or in any way hampered. Furthermore, we consider it a matter for serious regret that the West of England showmen have practically no organisation to defend their interests.

ON general principles the Showmen's Guild will take all possible measures to defend the interests of showmen, East, West, North, or South, and we cannot help but point out to West of England show people that during the past few years they have ceased to support the funds of the Showmen's trade society.

WE sincerely hope that this local danger will induce them to return to their old time support of that society which has done so much for sixteen years past to defend the interests of all show people and travellers at our fairs.

THAT enterprising Yorkshire showman, Harry Ashington, of marionette fame, has succeeded in reviving Robert Town feast. For five years, owing to the puritanical policy of the District Council, the fair has been suspended. Better councils, however, now prevail, and the result has been in every sense satisfactory. Ashington's theatre of varieties and cinematograph was the principal attraction; Johnson's steam horses and park swings, and the well-known varieties, games, &c., of Messrs. Mitchell, Cookshaw, Blackburn, Bassett, Lorenzo, and Vanner were the minor attractions.

ANOTHER capital fair on this ground—Hightown Rant—had for its attractions Ashington's show, Permane's performing bears, Wilson's savage South Africa, the flying motors (two sets) were by Connolley and Harniess, steam horses by Johnson, and swings by Connolley, Gledstone, Blake, and Johnson; and the variety merchants were Bassett, Blackburn, Blake, Crowther, Guthrie, Gledstone, Saunder, Walker, Powell, and Hartley.

THERE are few men on the road who know better the needs of the show business than Mr. P. Collins; we have, therefore, great pleasure in giving the widest possible publicity to the plain, practical advice of this expert showman and fair-ground lessee.

NOTICE TO TENANTS.

Gondola Works, Walsall.

I beg to remind all my tenants and their families and servants that we are all caterers for the great British public, and that the eyes of the public are always upon us and our business.

From year to year it becomes more difficult to get and to keep fair grounds in good and central positions; it therefore behoves us, one and all, to do all that lays in our power to avoid giving cause for talk and objections. I therefore ask you all to do whatever lays in your power to obtain and maintain the respect of the public, our patrons, and to give our adversaries no chance to find fault with us or pick flies out of us. Keep your shows and stalls, and especially your living-wagons, scrupulously clean and tidy; don't keep your doors and windows wide open when you are performing domestic duties. Keep your living-wagons behind the scenes. Doors should never face the crowd.

Our mothers can do a lot in this matter by setting a good example to the younger generation.

In your dress, in your speech, and in your manners, be an example to others.

Don't go in large numbers to storm the public-houses directly they open; and never talk business, family matters, or grievances over in them.

Try and be a credit to our class, be proud of your calling, and uphold its time-honoured reputation.

Our fair grounds must be model pleasure grounds where nothing unseemly is to be found or seen, and no foul language to be heard.

In the very best interest of the whole of our community I must insist on everybody doing his or her best to uphold our good name and reputation; and anyone infringing rules or regulations laid down for the good conduct of the fair grounds I shall in future be reluctantly compelled to exclude from my grounds.—Yours fraternally,

P. COLLINS.

THE fairs ahead for next week are Kidwelly, Leeds Summer Fair, Menston, Ringwood, Stroud, York Fair, Brierfield, Burnley, Headless Cross, Chumleigh, Holmesfield, Linton, and Salisbury. In Scotland Glasgow, Jedburgh, Motherwell, and Johnstone.

THE agricultural shows and cattle fairs for this month are Stockport and Oakham on the 9th; Stockbridge, Peterborough, Leeds, Macclesfield, Holsworthy, and Drogheda on the 10th; Alnwick on the 12th; Chester, Congleton, and Leicester on the 13th; Salisbury, Seamer, and Spilsby on the 16th; Peebles and Warrington on the 17th; Overton, Topcliffe (Yorks.), Swaffham, Luton, Escrick, Stone (Staffs.), Brighton, Ely, and Gainsborough on the 19th; Stamford on the 23rd; Alston, Wisbeach, Leek, Malton, Birkenhead, Newcastle-on-Tyne, and Belfast on the 25th; Hatfield (Herts.), Sherborne, Alresford, Clones, and Limerick on the 26th; Weyhill on the 27th; Alnwick and Rugby on the 30th; Alford on the 31st.

MR. HARRY RICKARDS, the world-renowned Australian manager and proprietor, has purchased a number of chronophone singing and talking picture machines from Messrs. Gaumont and Co., and has also contracted with the same firm for sole rights with the chronophone for Australia for six months; for which privilege he has paid a handsome premium.

MR. HARRY RICKARDS first saw the chronophone on his last visit to Europe twelve months since, and was very much impressed with it. He could not, however, at that time obtain immediate delivery of machines, as he was so fully booked up. The matter was not forgotten, however, and having been in constant correspondence with Messrs. Gaumont and Co. on the subject, Mr. Rickards made it his first business on arriving in Europe this year to secure the novelty.

MESSRS. GAUMONT have made a very good year's progress with the machine, and with their programme of talking and singing subjects, since Mr. Rickards first saw the machine, and there can be no further doubt that the mechanism of this marvellous instrument has now reached perfection in its simplicity and reliability; while the pictures which the inventors and proprietors are now able to show we can only characterise as simply wonderful.

THAT enterprising concern, the St. Louis Animated Picture Co., owned by Messrs. J. H. Iles and Co., have just completed one of the most successful tours in which animated pictures have well figured, and they attribute their unprecedented success to the chronophone. We hear that Messrs. Iles and Co. are putting a duplicate company with the second chronophone out this autumn, which in itself is a sufficient indication of their success with the first.

LLOYD'S CIRCUS visited Sligo on Monday, and two most successful performances were given. The Comedy Trick Cyclists, the Cranks, gave an interesting comic act; the Three Rolands are marvellous acrobats, their wrestling bringing forth much applause; Lang and Beal, musical comedians, were, without doubt, one of the most acceptable items on the programme; Johnny Quinn, the favourite Irish clown, had a good reception, and he contributed a number of excellent songs; the Lloyds, bounding rope performers, gave a most sensational performance; and Rossini danced an Irish jig on stilts The performance concluded with Professor Coate's bioscopic pictures.

AT the County Petty Sessions, held at Lancaster on Saturday, William Murphy, of Newcastle, a well-known show proprietor, was fined 1s. and costs for causing a steam organ to be played to the annoyance of the public at Carnforth. The defendant hired land from the Urban District Council, and set up a roundabout. Two doctors, who reside close by, stated that it hampered their consultations. Mr. Murphy had the support of both District Councillors and tradesmen to defend his case.

MR. CHARLES A. JAMES, the proprietor World's Fair Waxwork Exhibition, Dublin, gave on Wednesday, the 27th ult., his annual outing to the newsboys. Special tramcars were engaged to convey them to Merrion, where all kinds of sports were indulged in, special prizes being given for different competitions. In addition, each boy received a present, and was regaled with plenty of sandwiches, cake, and milk. The exuberant crowd returned to Dublin in the evening, after spending a very enjoyable day.

AT the Priory Field, Studley, Mr. C. Herbert's World's Fair—roundabouts, park swings, shooting saloons, bottle battery, cokernut sheets, &c.—have done good business

CHAPELTOWN FEAST commenced on Friday, the 22nd ult., when the chief amusements were provided by Messrs. W. H. Marshall and Sons, and Marshall's motor cars, Bishton's flying motors, and T. Burgin and Sons' steam swings. Messrs. Crowther, Lawrence, and Proctor's cinematograph shows; Mastrillo, card king; and Texas Bill; shooting exhibition, with minor shows, are also there. Messrs. Bishton, Burton, Bentley, and Lever have shooting saloon and pannum; cokers and dolly stalls are exhibited in great variety. Children and visitors are supplied with presents at Hepworth's fancy bazaar.

LOVERS of music were afforded an especial treat in the Market-yard, West Hartlepool, recently, when Randall Williams, the prince of cinematographists, tried, for the first time in public, his beautiful Gavoli organ, which has been erected at a cost of nearly £3000. The operatic selections, especially one from Poet and Peasant, were listened to with pleasure by a numerous concourse of people.

MR. THOMAS SCOTT'S grand new set of steam roundabouts, galloping horses, park swings, shooting saloons, bottle, egg, and globe shooters are included in the attractions at Inkberrow.

OF the big town fairs that remain to Yorkshire, it is probable that Bradford and Halifax are still the most important. Certainly, judged by the number of large concerns that still make a point of taking these fairs, there can be no doubt that they still retain their business importance.

BRADFORD FAIR commenced on June 30, and lasted until July 3. Here the show was Tuby and Sons' mammoth coliseum of varieties and cinematograph theatre. The principal machines and roundabouts were:—Motor sets by Waddington, Tuby, Redfern, and Marshall; a gondola switchback by Marshall; steam swings by T. Burgin; flying ostriches and steam yachts by Waddington; and park swings by Baker, Hughes, and Redfern. There were also the usual supplies of rifle saloons, bottle batteries, Emma sheets, cokers, and varieties.

AT Halifax Fair there were three high-class cinematograph shows—the concerns of Monte Bros., E. Farrer, and J. Creighton. Professor Gibson, with his exposé of the "black art," and Professor Blakeley, with thought-reading temple, provided the mystic side-shows. Westray's well-known freak exhibits and the fine art galleries of W. Shaw and G. Ling completed the exhibition list. There were sets of motor-cars by Howden, Waddington, and Marshall; John Collins provided galloping horses, ostriches, and steam yachts; and Howden and Collins whirling the whirl.

THREE sets of steam swings were provided by Corrigan, Shaw, Morley, and Sons. The excellent array of shooting concerns included rifle saloons and egg and bottle batteries by Cornwell (2), Seed (2), Humphries, Ratcliffe, and Mrs. John Cornwell. There were rows and rows of throwing games and varieties: twenty-one Emma sheets, eight cokers, sixteen variety stalls, four football frames, and ten pannum stalls, Messrs. J. Seed, Gledstone, and Howarth occupied, as usual, considerable space with their fairing bazaars, and there were four sets of children's motor-cars and four gem-swings.

FOLLOWING hard upon what we have already written concerning the state of public opinion in the West of England with regard to travelling shows, we have received an interesting correspondence concerning Anderton and Rowland's outside music. The correspondence is much too long to be inserted in its entirety, we therefore give the salient features of the controversy as it appeared day by day in the Western Morning News.

IT appears that Anderton and Rowland's show was taking private business at Newquay, and that there came down from London a gentleman and his family, with the intention of spending their holidays at this charming watering place. The paterfamilias, judged by his long and querulous effusion, is a sort of modern Don Quixote, bearing a lance against everything and anything that disturbs that which he is pleased to call "quiet." First he quarrels with the lodging accommodation; then he quarrels with the golf links and the golfers; and finally runs a tilt against the showman's orchestrephone.

"In the evening," he says, "we walked up again to look at the rooms and to take them for our six weeks' holiday, but in turning the corner we heard the strains of a steam musical organ going for all it was worth not 200 yards from the house. I need not tell you we did not take those rooms, but went back to our hotel, very sad that we had come so far to find quiet. What I want to bring to the notice of the residents of Newquay is that they can stop such a nuisance by applying to the superintendent of police. It is no use going to the police-constable, for he in all probability does not know this law, which runs thus:—

"'No person shall, to the annoyance of residents, or passengers, keep or manage, or use, or permit to be used, any steam organ, or other like thing, in any street or public place or land adjoining thereto.'

"I have written to my doctor, telling him he has made a mistake in thinking Newquay a quiet place. I have also written to a London paper, and hope by so doing to save others from taking a long, trying journey to end up with our experience. I made inquiries, and found that last year Newquay was at the mercy of two of these steam organs for a great part of August. Thanking you in anticipation,

"June 23rd." COUNCELLOR.

BUT Messrs. Anderton and Rowland were not without local champions, as the two interesting letters of residents clearly indicate:—

SIR,—With the approach of the coming season at Newquay, a firm of entertainers, of living picture fame, are now attacked by some individual for creating a nuisance near the Lower-road. I can safely say that the protest against music is unwarrantable, as the organ only plays half an hour previous to the two performances each evening, and is thoroughly enjoyed by all, and as the show is patronised by the nobility as well as the working classes, I fail to see where the objection comes in, and an amusement of the kind now referred to is quite a treat to old and young alike. A suggestion of mine would be that certain parties would visit Timbuctoo, where all music would cease, and neighbours few and far between.

Newquay, June 24 AN OLD RATEPAYER.

SIR,—I am most anxious to sympathise with "Councellor," who seems to be suffering from a severe attack of "nerves," but, really, is it not after all a case of "much ado about nothing"? The steam organ of which he writes is in connection with a high-class exhibition of "living pictures," is an instrument which I am credibly informed has cost £2,000, is appreciated for its merits by all to whom I have spoken, and is only played from half-past six until seven and from half-past eight until nine o'clock each evening.

Newquay is quiet, but it is not, nor does it desire to be, deadly dull, and is certainly not so quiet as the cemetery towards which instinctively your correspondent wended his steps on the second evening of his arrival. But if he will only be patient for a few days the nerve-bracing climate of Newquay will so improve physical conditions as to prompt him to join in the general conviction that Newquay is quiet without being dull, and that there are few places where a holiday can, by reasonable people, be more fully enjoyed.

I was a little amused to learn that "Councellor" had written to his doctor, and should have rather liked to have got a glimpse into the "inwardness" of that gentleman's thoughts when he read "Councellor's" letter. But was it fair to the inhabitants of a seaside resort, who have invested their capital there, to write to a London paper with a view of preventing others from visiting the town, after such a brief experience, and with what will appear to most on such insufficient grounds? But Newquay is too much admired by the thousands who have visited it, and many of whom come back again year after year, to sustain any serious damage from your correspondent's effusion.

I hope "Councellor" will stay here his six weeks and derive much benefit from the change. He will thus gain in health, and may also be cured of the attack of "cacoethes scribendi" from which just now he is evidently suffering. A NEWQUAYITE.

FOLLOWING upon these local defenders of the travelling showman, Mr. Geoffrey W. A. Norton, the correspondent of the Showman World in the West of England, and hon. agent of the Showmen's Guild, wound up the controversy with an admirable letter.

SIR,—I regret to be so soon again on the war-path in defence of the showman's business, but the querulous letter of "Councellor" urges me to advise him to find a surer cure for dyspepsia in visiting a doctor than in writing to you. "Councellor" surely labours under an exaggerated sense of his own importance. Newquay is a charming holiday resort for all and sundry, and not for him alone. The popularity of the show in question is abundantly evidenced by the crowds which visit it, and the magnificent organ is not only one of the very finest on the road, but has evoked well-deserved appreciation wherever it has been played.

May I suggest to "Councellor" that, as a man who has such enlightened ideas as to the running of a watering-place, he should sign his name to any further communication he may have to make? The simple method of procedure he suggests to others, by which the legitimate and useful business of a showman might be stopped, would be found to be not quite so simple as he imagines. Should he essay it himself he would realise this fact

GEOFFREY W. A. NORTON,
Hon. Member "Showmen's Trades Union."
Beachfield Hotel, Penzance, June 27th.

WE should like to add a note of warning with regard to the complaint of "Councillor." It is not the law, as he states, but it may possibly be a local by-law, and only applicable to the locality wherein it has legal force; there is no such law generally applicable to the United Kingdom.

THE important legal action between the Bolton Corporation and Mr. E. P. Holland, roundabout proprietor, and projector of the celebrated machine novelty whirling the whirl, came on for decision last week before Mr. H. G. Shee, K.C., at the Salford Hundred Court of Record. Mr. Holland, for whom Mr. Brocklehurst appeared, claimed £42 from the Corporation as damages. The plaintiff's case, according to Mr. Brocklehurst, was that he contracted with the Bolton Corporation for space on the fairground for his razzle-dazzle during the fortnight commencing on Dec. 22 and ending on Jan. 5 last. "He was to pay £4 for the first week and £25 for the second, which, being New Year's week, was likely to be more remunerative than the other. There was a binding contract for the uninterrupted occupancy of a frontage of 41ft. and a depth of 50ft., and the show was erected on the space marked out for it by the markets superintendent. On Dec. 27 plaintiff was ordered by the markets superintendent to move his show seven feet further forward, and upon his refusal to do so was threatened with certain penalties. Two days later a roundabout was placed across five feet of the frontage for which the plaintiff had contracted, and a large stall was set down immediately in front of his razzle-dazzle

The plaintiff estimated that the loss of frontage had cost him £10. In addition to that he had been required to close his show for one day, and he estimated that that meant a loss of another £10. Further than that, he estimated that as a result of the obstruction he had also sustained a loss of £22.

THE plaintiff, in cross-examination by Mr. Gibbons, who appeared for the defendants, estimated his takings during New Year's week at a little short of £100.

Mr. Gibbons: Not bad takings out of pennies, eh?

The defendants' story was that plaintiff engaged a space of ground which was not definitely fixed up to the time he got his machine on the ground. According to the by-laws of the Corporation he was bound to place his show exactly where he was told by the markets superintendent. It was true that the roundabout and stall had been put up in the neighbourhood of his show as described, but Mr. Gibbons argued that the plaintiff's rights had not been infringed in any way, and that he had not been shown to have lost a penny of his trade as a consequence of the acts complained of.

The jury returned a verdict for the plaintiff for £25, and judgment was given accordingly.

BEFORE the Lancaster County Magistrates on Saturday William Murphy, a showman, was charged with causing a nuisance to residents at Carnforth on June 21 by the use of a steam-driven organ in connection with his roundabouts. There has been a great deal of contention at Carnforth about the market-ground being used for shows, &c., and the last election to the District Council turned largely on the question, the residents generally being of opinion that the market-ground should be used.

THE defendant took the stand from the District Council on conditions imposed by them, but Mr. Whinray, Dr. Jackson, Dr. Butler, and others formally complained of the annoyance of the organ, and laid an information under the County Council by-law against the use of steam organs when a nuisance, except at fairs, &c.

THE defence was that defendant was bona-fide using the ground under the District Council, to whom he was paying rent. It was said that ninety-nine out of every 100 persons in Carnforth were in favour of the use of the market-ground for shows, &c., and witnesses were called to say that the steam organ was no nuisance or annoyance to them. Amongst these was Mr. A. Hoyle, of the Station Hotel, whose premises are nearest to the market-ground. On the other hand, Mr. Whinray said he could not do business in his shop for the noise, and the two doctors said they were unable to consult with patients in their surgery. After a long hearing the Bench convicted, and fined defendant the nominal sum of 1s. and costs.

NUMBERLESS indications are to be seen of the steady growth of a better public opinion, and of the progress of movements and principles that in a remarkable manner justify the showman and his mode of living. For example, there is a considerable revolt against the artificiality and unnecessary complexity of town life. The so-called higher civilisation, better and more hygienic advantages of life in towns, has been used as an argument by some would-be reformers that in driving the showman and his family off the road, and compelling them to settle in some trade or industry in a town, was to do the showman a great kindness, however harsh the showman might regard the pressure put upon him to be. Repeatedly we have been told, in defending the movable dwellings of fairground traders, that these dwellings were unhealthy in themselves, and a risk to public health wherever they might be for the time located.

IT almost seems laughable in the light of our past experiences to read of the "return to a simple life," now advocated by great leaders in the medical profession, and again, the modern craze of people for dwelling in tents and bungalows and going for long touring expeditions in caravans. It has lately become the fashion to hire a living van and to go from place to place in the simple and delightful freedom which only a few years ago was regarded as a sort of barbarism, and certainly out of date. Thus is wisdom justified of her children, for showmen know and have always practised the high principles of a simple life. A well-ordered caravan is the very acme of comfort, convenience, and simplicity.

THE artificiality of town and city life, the congestion of the workers in the slums of our great industrial centres, the interminable fight with bad drains and ill-constructed, jerry-built dwellings, inevitably shorten life, but the constant travel, the necessary living in the open air, the perfect hygienic simplicity of the caravan, the change of scene, and the many-sided interests of their life and business, tend to lengthen and strengthen life. The showman is a long-lived being. The preaching of the "simple life" and the return to nature, which now marks the prevailing philosophy, and the health and rest cure: "Go thou and dwell in a tent; leave thy stuffy home and go and live in a booth; let it be a feast of tabernacles, O modern man; get closer to the earth, thy mother; get away from the wearing and death-dealing excitements and complexities of town or city life"—these are the messages that the modern prophets are sounding in the ears of the victims of a mistaken and effete civilisation.

THERE is another interesting and encouraging evidence of a growing public opinion in favour of shows and showmen—the revival of great open-air pageants, shows, and processions. Last year the magnificent pageant, organised by Louis N. Parker, the famous author and dramatist, at Sherborne Castle, lasting the inside of a week, was the beginning of a series of magnificent historical shows conceived and carried through with the strictest regard to historic accuracy, and the pageant this week at Warwick, under the same clever direction, indubitably marks a tremendous change in the public mind. It is the revival on a large scale of that love of the show and love of acting which are in-bred in human nature. The great truth that man is a born mimic is being again recognised, and its true place apportioned as an educational factor in the life and progress of the nation.

IT is also encouraging to notice that in the organisation of big efforts to raise funds for public institutions or for philanthropic movements, the idea of a fair has become the most popular method of attracting and holding public attention. Only a few weeks ago the magnificent gardens at the Temple were turned into a fair, entirely carried through by lady and gentlemen amateur show people, and at a Richardson show booth some of the greatest actors and actresses of the day strutted the mimic stage and came upon the front in sock and buskin after the best manner of the mummers of the olden time. We have before us now the organisation of a country fair to be held in the Botanic Gardens, Regent's Park, in aid of Our Dumb Friends' League, a society for the encouragement of kindness to animals, under the patronage of Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen and the leading nobility and gentry of the land.

TO professional showmen it is more than encouraging to notice how very complimentary the amateur is in his selection of "drawing novelties" to the admitted novelties of the ordinary fair. For example, there is the cinematograph show, the Theatre Royal, the waxwork show, the freak show, the variety show, the Punch and Judy show, roundabouts, shooting saloons, swings, Aunt Sallies, novelty stalls, striking and strength testing machines, and all the fun of the fair. So we see that if imitation be, as it is said, "the sincerest flattery," showmen and show-women have no need to be ashamed of their trade and business in life.

INKBERROW wakes had for its attractions Mr. Thomas Scott's new set of steam galloping horses, park swings, shooting saloons, cokernut sheets, and Arrowsmith's varieties.

FECKENHAM wakes was maintained by Strickland's gallopers and electric motor cars, Herbert's roundabouts, Strickland's and Herbert's park swings, shooting saloons, bottle batteries, Fletcher's ring boards, and Kemp's Oriental bazaars.

ALEXANDRA'S CIRCUS visited The Butts, Salisbury, on Saturday, and presented a good programme to delighted audiences. Diabelo topped the bill in his daring act, "Looping the Revolving Wheel."

CONTINUING the Midland Round, Mr. P. Collins and the crowd of caterers under his banner have been this week at the curious old town of Droitwich, world famous for its brine baths. The Collins' list of entertainments included the No. 2 show, and sets of gondolas, galloping horses, steam horses, steam yachts, and park swings. Side shows were provided by The Mystics, Hutins, Gal Hague, Wright, and H. Gess; Winchester ranges, rifle saloons, bottle batteries, and throwing games were provided by Dobson, Ford, Wright, Herbert, Stokes, Humphrey, Hughes, and Cordwell.

THE entertainments and novelties at Richmond (Yorks) Fair were in the hands of local showmen. Mr. Crowe had steam horses and swings; Mr. Cowie, swings, rifle gallery, throwing games; and the other fairground caterers were Messrs. Arthur, Hall, and Miller.

THE recent lease of the show-ground at Hawick having expired, the Town Council invite tenders for a lease during the Common-Riding fortnight in June, with right to sub-let. Offers are to be sent to the Town Clerk's office, Hawick.

AT the cricket ground, Hastings, is located this week Forrest's World's Fair and Carnival, which includes the Japanese airship, an orchestraphone as powerful as fifty-two instrumentalists, Herman (the high rope performer), park swings, Aunt Sally coker shies, shooting galleries, and cinematograph shows.

THE tenth annual Horticultural Show at Hanley Park was opened by Lady Harrowby on Wednesday, when a huge crowd assembled. The usual pitch was allotted to the customary aggregation of itinerary shows. Mr. Pat Collins, of Walsall, who was in supreme command, estimated the value of his collection on the field at £25,000. He introduced at these fêtes novelties on their first visit to North Staffordshire. Chief among them were two motor-switchbacks, each valued at £4,500. These are most elaborate creations, ornately decorated, and with substantial and realistic appointments. The Mercédès, Darracq, Wolseley, Napier, and other well-known cars are represented. Another novelty was the Japanese "Whirling the Whirl," a ponderous invention driven by a 6-horse engine, and worked upon a universal knuckle-joint. The sideshows and stalls were of the usual character.

THE programme of stage shows included the Two Rays, in a grotesque boxing exhibition; Rubina, a graceful wire dancer; and the Valdo Boys, amusing comedy acrobats. The Docars were assisted in their eccentricities by ponies, whose tricks were very comical; Elton and Elma contributed a laughable turn on the bars; and the Lizzette Troupe of lady acrobats gave a smart performance; Ponchery on the high rope displayed perfect confidence at the dizzy height, and his feats were followed with great interest; turns were also given by the Capaldi Bros., musical clowns.

THE Mansfield Pleasure Fair commences on Thursday, and is followed by Mansfield Woodhouse Feast on Monday and following days.

ALL the places of amusement in Mansfield are closed for the present. The New Grand Theatre is rapidly approaching completion, and it is hoped that it will be opened on August Bank Holiday.

AT the Birmingham Police Court on Wednesday, Charles Birch, showman, and Cecilia Freeman, his assistant, were summoned for occupying premises in High-street for the purpose of public music without having a licence. It was stated that the defendant Birch was the proprietor of a penny show, and had a barrel-organ in the doorway to attract customers. Shoals of letters had been received from shopkeepers in that neighbourhood complaining of the nuisance. Birch applied for a music licence in May, but it was refused. If the defendant would give an undertaking to discontinue the music, the summons would be withdrawn. For the defence, it was stated that the offending instrument was not a barrel-organ, but a musical-box, and only played when visitors fed it with pence. Defendant eventually undertook to discontinue the playing, and the summonses were withdrawn.

THE LATE JOHN DEE HUMPHREYS.

The letter from Mr. Arthur Reeve published in our columns recently draws attention to the necessity for helping Mrs. Humphreys and her family. We strongly commend this most deserving case to the generosity of the showman world.

The many friends of the deceased, who was one of the founders of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, will, we are confident, now that they know the urgent necessity of the case, respond with readiness to this appeal.

During the whole course of a laborious and honourable career John Dee Humphreys was ever ready to assist his brother showmen. His open-handed generosity and unfailing kindness endeared him to a wide circle of friends and comrades in the circus and show world.

The object of the fund is to enable the widow and family to maintain their home until such time as the children are able to earn an income sufficient for that purpose.

Any price paid for the right Attractions.

Notice.

The management respectfully call the special attention of Artists and all whom it may concern to the name of the above Hall, which will be known as the New Hippodrome, West Bromwich.

This notice is made necessary by the fact that just latterly the name "The West Bromwich Hippodrome," under which the Hall has been for some months past advertised, and was to have been known, has been appropriated by others, and in order to avoid confusion and disappointment we wish to clearly notify Artists of the above title, the management having had several communications from Artists offering to provide combinations on sharing terms, a practice we do not follow, as we engage the best Artists and pay the best salaries.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking engagements, or turns not re-booked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follows:—

MANCHESTER, LIVERPOOL, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALAN W. YOUNG,
Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. W. LEA,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS,
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

TWO BRAVE CHILDREN.

Code Word, "BROCHETTE."

A married couple, greatly devoted to one another, fall on bad times, and money is scarce. Their little daughter knows the reason why mother is crying and father is so low spirited, and naturally desires to help them. She has but one thing in the world to dispose of—her doll, which she loves very dearly. This she takes to a pawnbroker, but the assistant only laughs, and she is disheartened. She would have returned home empty-handed and disconsolate, but a boy who is passing with his father notices the distress of the little girl, and solicits his interest and help on her behalf. This is freely given. The boy's father, a professional man in a large way of business, makes a point of seeing the father of the little girl, and finally employs him. The family is now once more a happy one; and for this the little ones are chiefly responsible.

An interesting story. Highly recommended. About 328ft. The Subject, £8 4s.

THE SOLDIER AND THE COOK.

Code Word, "BREF."

This is an amusing subject, which shows the trouble into which it is possible for a soldier to get when he is in love with a cook.

Very exciting and amusing. Detail fine. About 245ft. The Subject, £6 2s. 6d.

GREAT FRENCH MOTOR CARNIVAL & RACE ON THE SARTHE CIRCUIT.

A combination of picturesque carnival scenes and exciting races. A most interesting and original film. About 870ft. The Subject, £21 15s.

THE RIVAL BROTHERS.

Code Word, "BROCHAGE."

Two sons are receiving their aged father's blessing on his deathbed, and swear to stand by each other. Unfortunately a woman intervenes, whom both fall in love with. She cares for one only. The other's jealousy gets greater and greater, until finally he strikes his brother. A final reconciliation takes place over the father's grave—a beautiful story, amid lovely surroundings.

The detail and quality are superb. About 480ft. The Subject, £12.

THE DOG SMUGGLERS.

Code Word, "BROCHANT."

This is an absolutely unique film in which a fine human interest is also depicted; but mainly the perfect training of the dogs is shown. The smugglers have trained dogs to carry lace and other commodities over the frontier to their friends on the other side. Two of the smugglers are in love with the same woman, one of whom is refused, and in revenge tells the police of the dog smugglers, and sets them on the track of the dogs themselves. Here ensues a wonderful chase of the dogs over steep hills, mountains, rivers, and railway lines, and finally the dogs arrive at the border quite safely. If a dog drops his booty by any chance there is always another one to pick it up. Finally there is a grand fight between the smugglers and police.

Very dramatic. Intensely exciting. About 610ft. The Subject, £15 5s.

HONOUR IS SATISFIED.

Code Word, "BRASSEUR."

The furtive passing of a letter in a restaurant between a gentleman and lady causes the companion of the lady to get angry and arrange a duel. Pistols are chosen. The seconds get killed by accident; the rest are disabled. The two principals then using foils again accidentally kill the police who come to stop the duel. They decide to fly; honour is satisfied.

A very amusing and droll picture. About 214ft. The Subject, £5 7s.

LETTERS WHICH SPEAK.

Code Word, "BRODER."

A series of romantic letters passing between different people are treated in a very novel way by the people themselves stepping out of the envelopes and telling the story themselves.

Extremely quaint and original. About 345ft. The Subject, £8 12s. 6d.

HOLIDAYS.

Code Word, "BRIDE."

A most delightful film, depicting the holiday adventures of three little children sent to the country by their father to a brother farmer. Beer taps are turned on, fowls, geese, &c., are set loose and chased, donkeys ridden, cows milked in the most mischievous way. In desperation the farmer writes to his brother to take the children home, which he does, much to the chagrin of the young imps.

The quality, as usual, is perfect. About 560ft. The Subject, £14.

No. 1080. THE VALET WHO STOLE THE TOBACCO.

A short comic, causing much amusement. The artful valet who sneaks it—as so often is the case—getting bold in his raids; on every available opportunity he slyly secures a pipe from his master's tobacco jar, thinking he is not noticed. The master, who has sometime observed his servant's stealth, decides upon a smart and summary punishment. Taking the jar when the man is out of the room, he mixes the tobacco up with a nice concoction he has made. Upon the valet returning, he calls for his hat and coat, and smiling to himself leaves the house. The man watches him out of the window, until quite out of sight, then drawing out a pipe he fills it, takes the easy chair and lights up! The end is short, sharp, and unexpected—a cloud of smoke and the poor man has smoked his final pipe.

Length, 125ft. Price, £3 2s. 6d.

No. 1082. THE BURGLAR AND THE CAT.

A very rough looking loafer is seen lurking round a house, the garden gate of which being open he strolls in. Meeting a pleasant little girl with a cat, he pretends to be quite enthusiastic about the pet, much to the owner's delight. He fondles the animal, and after a good glance round clears off outside once more. Still hanging about the doorway he gleefully sees the cat run out from her home into the street. Immediately he gives chase and captures the animal in a small sack, with which he carries on his nefarious trade.

Tucking the parcel under his arm he marches off to the house of a well-known vivisectionist, where he knocks and is received, as he apparently expected, with great satisfaction. He soon comes to terms, and parts with his burden for a remuneration. Going back to the child's home, where he hopes to secure more plunder, he sees her crying pitifully for her late companion. The burglar is touched by the sight, and approaching nearer questions the little maid and endeavours to soothe her. The evident sorrow she gives vent to at the loss of her dumb playmate, decides the burly man to regain possession at all costs. He returns with all speed, and climbing up to a window of the doctor's house, from which he has heard unearthly sounds, is just in time to catch the vivisectionist experimenting. The sight makes his blood boil, and rushing in closes with the scientist, and after a desperate struggle and many blows taken and given, he overpowers him. A few sharp strokes soon frees the poor cat from the board where she is lying strapped, and lifting her tormentor on to the plank, the intruder makes him secure with his own appliances. Seizing a knife the housebreaker torments his victim by scratching his throat once or twice and making sundry movements over his head. Picking up the cat he quickly makes his exit and hurries off to return the animal. The little girl receives her pet with much joy, and thanks the burglar profusely. The man, whose life has hitherto been so ill spent, is gladdened and satisfied with his good action, and we trust the deed will have a lasting effect on his future life.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906. "The Era" Almanack and Annual ("Era" Office, 1s.), a copy of which lies before me, is an invaluable publication for those who wish to have stage records by them. It contains a dramatic and musical calendar, lists of new plays and important revivals produced at the London and suburban theatres during 1905, and also of plays produced in the provinces. Further, we have lists of the new plays and revivals produced at the principal Paris and Berlin theatres. "The Era" Almanack has been regularly issued since 1868, when is was compiled by Edward Laman Blanchard, a comedian whose fascinating life was recorded by Clement Scott. The Almanack closes with an illustrated list of those members of the profession who died during the course of last year, headed, naturally, by Henry Irving. Amongst the other names are those of William Rignold, Frank Celli, Ada Neilson, and Minnie Mario. There is an added pathos in the deaths of those who were so long bodily before the public, and the ringing down of the last curtain seems to have added significance.—T. P.'s Weekly, Jan. 26.

THE GREAT COMEDY SKETCH, "THE SUBSTITUTE," is well constructed and smartly written; while it enjoys the inestimable blessing of being ABSOLUTELY free from the FAINTEST suspicion of anything that might OFFEND the taste of the most FASTIDIOUS. It is, in short, a PERFECTLY CLEAN, WHOLESOME, and AMUSING LITTLE PLAY.—Era, 23/6/06.

SID COTTERELL & CO.

Will Pay from £100 to £500 for any COMEDY ACT that can produce as many LAUGHS as "THE SUBSTITUTE" Without Vulgarity.

Mr. COTTERELL has fully protected his rights in the above great sketch, and will take proceedings for the slightest infringement.

The Craggs in Sunderland, with their New Comic Sketch,
"BILLY."
PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.
Those clever acrobats and pantomimists the Craggs head a capital bill of fare that is provided at the Palace this week. Last night's audiences were large and appreciative. The Craggs appeared in their laughter-provoking sketch, "Billy." That individual is from the country, and a new steward on the passenger vessel Channel Queen, the cabin of which is shown. Billy's debut among his fellow stewards is most mirth-provoking, and comprises some of the funniest and smartest knockabout business seen on the music-hall stage. To it are added those marvellous acrobatic feats that have made the Cragg troupe famous. The act gave universal pleasure last night.—Daily Echo, Tuesday, July 3, 1906.

DR. WALFORD BODIE AT THE GRAND THEATRE.

The Stockbridge entertainment house threw open its doors last night for another season, and the initial performance drew an attendance that packed every part of the building. The programme was to a large extent filled by Dr. Walford Bodie, who lays claim to such titles as "The Bloodless Surgeon" and "The Electric Wizard." Dr. Bodie has been somewhat in the public eye of late, and that perhaps accounted for what at the outset looked like being a hostile reception from certain sections of the house, but Dr. Bodie frankly set forth what had happened at Leeds, and in the end had a most attentive and appreciative hearing. He began by showing the extraordinary voltage of electricity he was able to pass through his body, and then the house was in an uproar of merriment when he experimented both with men on the stage and with members of the audience, the current first passing through the Doctor. Articles which he had touched the men on the stage dropped like hot potatoes or clung to because they could not drop them. A chair charged with electricity was another object of great interest, but the most outstanding part of the performance was when Dr. Bodie dealt with three cases of paralysis held to be incurable by Edinburgh institutions. The first was a young woman of 27, the second a little girl, and the third a boy. In each case, where the heel was not resting on the ground, Dr. Bodie, after putting the patient in a state beyond feeling pain, gave the limb a wrench over his knee and then "bathed" it with electricity, the patients each walking off the stage, to which they had had to be carried. There were many doctors and medical students present, and Dr. Bodie was loudly cheered again and again at the conclusion of his performance.—Vide Edinburgh Evening News, July 3, 1906.

MDLLE. ROZA'S Great Canine Hippodrome, the Most Refined, Classic, Up-to-date, and Smartest Worked Animal Turn worked by a Lady, Elaborate Stage Setting, with Great Electric Effects, Costumes, Accessories, the Best. The only Troupe of Water Spaniels, and the Great Football Team, including the Masterpiece, The GOALKEEPER. Encored Again and Again. Tynemouth Palace.—The feature of the entertainment was the turn given by Mlle. Rosa's troupe of trained dogs. There is a smartness about the performance which makes it refreshing, and the dogs, all fine specimens, go about their work with so much earnestness that one can fully believe they like it. The stage-setting for this turn is also very fine.—Newcastle Chronicle.

There is a juggler that you all know;
Known throughout this world as the Great Zarmo.
On this island he reigns supreme does the comedy juggling king;
He has no open time, plays all the theatres fine,
So if you want to laugh—well, take your better half,
And see his funny show,
The others they go to bed when he juggles on his head.
So,
I wouldn't leave my wonderful juggling act for you,
I have contracts just a few,
I am bound to happen, I am bound to be going,
So things in the air I'll keep on throwing,
But I wouldn't leave my marvellous juggling act for you.
THE ONLY ZARMO,
the real Gerzabo, the Reigning Monarch of them all. The Only Zarmo, the Greatest Triumph in Juggling since the World Commenced. The only Zarmo, the Masterpiece. He has them all talking, Flattered with a Thousand Imitators, but no Equals. Zarmo does the Juggling Act that makes all other Juggling Acts Fade Away. What a Success, this week, at the Palace Theatre, Belfast. THEATRE ROYAL, DUBLIN.

The Fancy Dancer.
GWENNIE HASTO,
Gaiety, Birmingham.
In a pretty low-neck pink dress, the flounces of which are adorned by delicate yellow lace, the dainty Miss Gwennie Hasto comes before the footlights and imparts good advice to an interested gathering. "Never let the grass grow under your feet," says she, and no one will deny the wisdom of the injunction. Then she treats us to a charming lyric about one Nolah, who, we are informed, is an Indian maid, and after that we watch with admiring eyes while Miss Gwennie Hasto engages in an exquisite rainbow dance. One wishes that there were more artists on the variety stage like Miss Gwennie Hasto, for it is a pleasure to meet with a lady whose turn is so refined, so clever, and which so deservedly reaps the reward of applause.—The Era, June 30, 1906.

but have plenty of room, and, like Oliver Twist
WE ASK FOR MORE.

We are also very busy Cleaning and Renovating Tableaux Curtains and Draperies from London and Country Theatres and Music Halls.

We still hold the field as Cleaners and Dyers to the Theatrical and Music Hall Professions. This fact is clearly proved by the unsolicited testimonials we are continually receiving.

Professional work takes precedence over all other orders.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
In "The Era" Annual (5, Tavistock-street, Strand, 1s.), Miss Vesta Tilley breaks into verse, and a score or more of her comrades of "the boards" try their hands at fiction. The result is entertaining, and as there is added a list of new plays and revivals during the past year, with other information, the annual is worth a place on the playgoer's bookshelves.—The Yorkshire Post

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
The thirty-ninth issue of "The Era" Annual has just appeared, and once more it supplies a useful record of the theatrical year. An editorial note reminds us that among the contributors to the first number, that of 1868, were E. L. Blanchard (its editor), Charles Mathews, T. W. Robertson, Andrew Halliday, H. J. Byron, Watts Phillips, and Dion Boucicault—a brilliant band indeed. The contributors to the present issue are almost exclusively actors rather than literary men, but upon the whole they make a very fair show; while the lists of plays produced in London and the provinces, and in Paris and Berlin during the twelve months under review are distinctly useful. There are a number of photographs including an exceedingly fine one of the late Sir Henry Irving.—Pall Mall Gazette, Jan. 22.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual appears once more in its familiar binding, a compendium of information and amusement for all who are interested in theatrical affairs. In the calendar will be found an array of anniversary dates, some recent, some recalling memories of old times and actors and actresses long passed away. The summary of new plays produced during the past year is admirably done, its value being increased by the alphabetical list which is appended. Well-known actors and actresses contribute stories in accordance with a custom justified by its success.—Daily Telegraph, Jan. 18, 1906.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual is published from the offices of the old-established organ of the theatrical profession, 5, Tavistock-street, W.C. As usual, it is a carefully-compiled record of notable events of the year 1905. A pleasing feature is the selection of short stories, after recounting strange experiences, by "stars" of the dramatic and music-hall professions, these being in every case accompanied by photographs of the writers.—Newcastle Daily Journal, Jan. 27, 1906.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Almanac and Annual for 1906, is not only a valuable collection of information and a history of the dramatic and musical year. It is also a very amusing and entertaining shillingworth It contains contributions from many well-known actors and actresses. Mr. Frank Desprez, the editor, contributes a delightful story about an actress who sold her collection of Press notices in order to help a colleague in distress. There are numerous portraits. The lists of English, French, and German plays produced during the year are very useful. Altogether, "The Era" Almanack is indispensable to all interested in the stage.—The Star, Jan. 24, 1906.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Almanack and Annual ("Era" Office, 1s.), a copy of which lies before me, is an invaluable publication for those who wish to have stage records by them. It contains a dramatic and musical calendar, lists of new plays and important revivals produced at the London and suburban theatres during 1905, and also of plays produced in the provinces. Further, we have lists of the new plays and revivals produced at the principal Paris and Berlin theatres. "The Era" Almanack has been regularly issued since 1868, when is was compiled by Edward Laman Blanchard, a comedian whose fascinating life was recorded by Clement Scott. The Almanack closes with an illustrated list of those members of the profession who died during the course of last year, headed, naturally, by Henry Irving. Amongst the other names are those of William Rignold, Frank Celli, Ada Neilson, and Minnie Mario. There is an added pathos in the deaths of those who were so long bodily before the public, and the ringing down of the last curtain seems to have added significance.—T. P.'s Weekly, Jan. 26.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.
(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Cavanah, C.A.—Mr. Edmund Tearle's company continues its visit with East Lynne. Miss Kate Clinton plays powerfully in the more moving scenes as Lady Isabel; Mr. Montagu Lane gives a careful representation of Archibald Carlyle; Mr. Tearle acts skilfully as Lord Mountsevern; Mr. Ernest Lodge makes a capital Justice Hare; and Richard Hare receives full justice from Mr. A. W. Wynne. The part of Willie Carlyle is intelligently played by Miss Mary Greig, while Joyce is admirably presented by Miss Ethel Storey.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—One of the chief turns this week is that of the Albano troupe of musical instrumentalists; the Brothers Lawrence, speciality artists, provide a most entertaining show; and Mr. H. Garland proves himself to be a ventriloquist of more than ordinary ability; Mr. Jack McKay is highly successful as a Scotch comedian; Mr. James Dunlop dances and sings well; Professor Anderson is exceptionally clever in his conjuring act; and Glennie's Anglo-Franco Marionettes are as keenly appreciated as ever. The World's Champion Pedestrian Combine is the principal attraction.

ACCRINGTON. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Potter, Vandy, and Weisker; Acting-Manager, Mr. L. Campkin.—The Savonas in their musical entertainment are appearing here this week with deserved success; the Meynotts can be highly complimented on their smart performance in the sketch Semi-Detached; Pete and Juno are clever patterers, singers, and dancers; Barbara Babbington is well received; the Elliotts give a wonderful cycling performance; Louie Leonard and Lazy Larry appear to advantage in an amusing military burlesque; Lily Breton is very good on the trapeze. The entertainment concludes with a series of interesting biograph pictures.

ALDERSHOT.— THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Williams.—The Prodigal Parson, which is being played here this week by Messrs. Northway and Garrod's company, should suit all tastes, containing as it does a mixture of pathos, exciting and thrilling situations, and really funny comedy. As the Rev. Tom Godley, Mr. W. V. Garrod is powerful and effective; while Miss Barbara Kingston impersonated Mrs. Godley with true dramatic instinct; Mr. Albert Northway filled the rôle of Enoch Jaggins as only an accomplished actor could; and Mr. Frank Dallas scored as Ben. On the lighter side of the melodrama, Mr. P. Dawsone as Phil Drive and Miss Lydia Hart as his German wife were full of brightness and vivacity, and greatly conduced to the success achieved.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Fairbairn.—Mrs. Morton Powell's company is here in the play, entitled Darkness, founded on the popular novel "When it was Dark," by Guy Thorne. The acting by the company is very effective. The lady who is the victim of a designing scoundrel, one Constantine Schwabe, is played by Miss Laura Walker with much skill, and touching pathos in the later scenes. Mr. Jno. Davidson as the Rev. Basile Gortre, the much-persecuted curate, plays with dignity; Mr. Ernest Griffin has an arduous rôle as Schwabe, and plays with intensity; Mr. Edward Valentine as Llewellyn scores as the lover of Gertrude and the confederate of Schwabe; effective impersonation is also given to a number of minor male characters by Messrs. Henry Heller, Miller Wilson, Louis Lingard, Eric Forth, J. Noel Bird, and D. M. Stormont; while Mrs. Morton Powell imparts amiability and sympathetic feeling to the Vicar's daughter; Miss Nellie Freeland as Gracie also does well. The piece is adequately mounted.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—The programme here includes Rita Bell, who sings "The Girl from Rotterdam" and gives a graceful dance in wooden shoes; the Albertos, a clever quartette of equilibrists; Cosgrove and Burns, Scottish-American comedians; Johnson and Pelham, in a comedy act; Houser, comedy clay modeller; Cavalli, ventriloquist; George Young, the "Blind Collier," musical artist; The Shoeblack's Dream, a musical scena; the Sousa Arabs, marvels of agility and strength, and the Bioscope concludes a capital programme.

ATTERCLIFFE.—THEATRE ROYAL, LIMITED.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaughten; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Dickinson.—The entertainment provided by the Imperial Animated Picture Company is proving highly popular and successful. This week there is an entire change of pictures, the series including the latest up-to-date films, humorous and interesting. Mr. Baker E. Belphor, the popular concert vocalist, has been engaged, and his songs, rendered with artistic finish, are illustrated with realistic views, which are highly appreciated.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Miss Emily Sheridan is here with A Prince of the People company. She herself, as Lucille de Valriere, does much for the success of the play, acting very cleverly, and Mr. F. Rawson Buckley is a convincing and artistic Victor Lafond; Mr. Wm. H. Brougham is good as Berthaut, and Mr. Lionel Gadsden as Count de Valriere and Mr. George Twyman as Albert are both excellently drawn portraits; while the Marie of Miss Lillian Williams is brightly and capitally done.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert-Routledge.—The entertainment given by the British Empire Photo and Variety Company is proving exceedingly popular and drawing good houses here this week. The pictures are most instructive, and a capital variety programme considerably brightens the entertainment.

TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr. Tom Whiting.—At the top of the bill here this week the Columbia Trio are delighting all the lovers of good music with their operatic selections, and their humorous numbers are equally enjoyed. The Four Jumels also give an instrumental musical treat on some quaint and novel instruments; Vandino submits a marvellous lightning-like picture-painting show; Howe and Ardie are exceedingly amusing comedy gymnasts and acrobats; Flo Rayner is much applauded for her character songs; and Gladys Archbutt is a pleasing comedienne and clever dancer.

BELFAST.—PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Freece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—The leading feature this week is the pantomimical burlesque, entitled Front and Behind; or, The Unrehearsed Deputy, produced with every element of success by the Cratons and company. The Brown and Kelly combination appears in the amusing absurdity The Butler Knows, which has created roars of laughter; a capital exhibition of the terpsichorean art has been submitted by the Eight Lancashire Lads; and a hit has been made by Mr. Harry Brown, a clever coloured comedian. A good reception has nightly been extended to the Royal Six, lady singers and cyclists; and others appearing are Burnetti and Corri, eccentric jugglers; Miss Alice Blandford, balladist; and Miss Blanche Holt, comedienne.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—The leading feature this week is the musical comedy The Prince of Monte Carlo, successfully presented by Mr. Harry Roxbury and company. Another feature of the bill is the sterling drama A Bolt from the Blue, presented by Mr. Harry Trevanun, Mr. Stephen Crossley, Mr. M. White, and Miss Pauline Emeric, a talented actress and vocalist; Miss Alexandra Dagmar, the accomplished comedienne, made a big hit on Monday; and Mr. Arthur Gill's imitations are most realistic; Miss Lily Esplin, comedienne, soon establishes herself a favourite; and Mr. Will Mitcham, an old favourite here, is well received; Miss Maud Ross, comedienne, is a smart dancer; and others appearing are Mr. Fred Bronte, comedian; and Miss Kathleen Cogan, comedienne.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Downs.—Unquestionably the season of drama established here is enjoying a large measure of success. This week the Alhambra Dramatic Company is appearing in Mysteries of London, under the personal direction of Mr. M. Montgomery, jun. Mr. Herbert Cecil portrayed the villainies of Victor Levigne so realistically that he fairly earned the loud anathemas of the crowded house on Monday; and the rôle of his companion in crime, Bill Rawson, was done full justice to by Mr. Stephen E. Scanlan. Miss Nina Blake Adams, an accomplished emotional actress, as Lena North, gained the entire sympathies of the house; and Mr. Hilliard Vox was a manly Philip Conway; Miss Beryl Ravenswood sustained the difficult rôle of Sybil Grey with much credit to herself; and the humour of the piece was ably interpreted by Mr. Luke Forster as Dick Coppem; Miss Evelyn Marrable as Liza Stumps; and Mr. Victor Gordon as Robert Best; Miss Lila Arnott as Charity Rawson; and Mr. Cecil Ravenswood as Franz Muller completed the cast. The stage management, for which Mr. Herbert Cecil was responsible, calls for special praise.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Peil.—Mr. Charles March and a capable company are paying a return visit with The Gamester of Metz, and are once again cordially received. Mr. March as Paul Baldot presents an impersonation of much power and versatility; Captain Badaire is well represented by Mr. John B. Murray; Mr. Fred Aldworth is an effective General de Monparasse, and Mr. George Paget is an excellent Lieut. Herve. Babette is well played by Miss Beatrice Sims; Miss Una Lane displays much ability as Lucie Baldot, and Miss Eva Lyndhurst is an efficient Countess.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—A leading feature here is the engagement of the popular comedian Mr. Arthur Roberts, who, in conjunction with a strong company, appears in the entertaining sketch The Importance of being Another Man's Wife with excellent results. Ford and Hanson, the musical millionaires, are renewing previous successes, and a capital programme is also contributed to by Mr. Sam Thomson, an entertaining Scotch comedian; Miss Lily Lena, an accomplished serio; Lorraine, whose powers of mimicry are undeniable; Mr. Frank Whiteley, comedian and patterer; and Miss Gertie Cunningham, a talented comedienne. An interesting display by the Royal Bioscope is a feature of the entertainment.

BIRMINGHAM. — ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernard.—The Hero of the Flag is the attraction here. Mr. Sydney Spenser, who plays the heavy lead, Paul Mansfield, in an exceedingly plausible manner, is responsible for both the play and the company, and in each his judgment is unerring. Mr. William Heilbronn is well suited and most popular as the light-hearted Jack Lawrence; Mr. G. F. Royd gives a life-like study of the catspaw, Stephen Clifford; Mr. Unwin Crafton is successful as Blue Jake, and Mr. Alfred Goddard as Captain Hilliard, Mr. Edward Hatwood as Mark Forrestor, and Miss Roma Treymayne in her cleverly played rôle of the discarded wife, Ruth Clifford, are in strong evidence. Miss Lizzie Hall acts in clever simulation of the intrepid "hero of the flag," Mabel Forrestor; Mr. Sydney Benson as Johnny Truckle, and Miss Amy Maitland as Jenny Stubbs diffuse much humour; and Mr. Wilton Hardcastle shines as Puncher.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—Kennedy's Komiks continue their successes here. Mr. Frank Lyndon proves himself to be a really marvellous musician; the Four Sisters Godfrey are acrobatic dancers of a successful order, and Clarence Turner, the "little Lancashire Lad"; the Vivacious Vervains, coon experts; Dorothy Drake, operatic vocalist; and Harry Lennon, comedian, are much appreciated. The electric animated pictures of serious, comic, and instructive subjects are viewed with intense interest; and a musical chair competition for a purse of silver is among the attractions.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—A Warning to Women is presented here by Mr. C. Watson Mill and company, which includes the handsome and accomplished actress Miss Rosalind Tate in her fascinating study of Moira Kennion. Mr. Watson Mill is warmly recognised by his rare good acting as Dr. Marcus Dread; Mr. Wingold Lawrence is favourably regarded as the young Irish squire, Fergus McNaughton; Mr. Henry Lonsdale gives an exceedingly good portrayal of the wandering minstrel, Shaun; and others who score are Mr. Henry Rutland as Squire Kennion, Mr. Norman B. Cannon as the Rev. Emmanuel Wallace, Miss Edith Rutland as Myles O'More, Miss Emmie Barton as Sheila Kennion, Miss Ellen Beverley as Molly O'More, and Miss Ida Fane as Hildred. The humour of the play is well served by Mr. W. Palliser Acock, in his amusing impersonation of the Frenchman, Ferdinand de Joules; Mr. George Scully as Mike McQuade, and Mr. N. Carter Slaughter as that entertaining sprig of nobility, Lord Eversleigh.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Auguste Van Biene is entertaining crowded audiences this week with a sketch The Master Musician, in which his acting and 'cello playing are highly appreciated. Mike S. Whallen is a most eccentric comedian; Annie Abbott, "the little Georgia magnet," has a novel entertainment; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Finden are seen in a bright duologue Two to One; Florence and Lilian are high-class instrumentalists; the Dandies have a refined drawing-room entertainment; the singing and dancing of the Four Olympian Stars are greatly admired. Other popular turns are the Labakans, eccentric comedians; the Mariano Sisters, in a breakaway trapeze act, and the bioscope.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—A varied and popular bill is presented here this week, Sam Mayo being the star turn. Amy Anderson and company in a sketch The Banana Queen is a big attraction; Charles Diamond, harpist, and Miss Beatrice, saxaphonist, are highly entertaining; Ben Hur is an expert athlete; Little Ganty is more amusing than ever; the mysterious second sight entertainment of Mahatma is clever; Stella Stanley, Madge May, and Katie Butler are pleasing comediennes; the Five Bon Bons and Tom E. Hughes also come in for a fair share of applause.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thos. Barrasford.—The long programme here is headed by George Gilbey, whose quaint style and songs win loud applause; Bishop and Vale, Talberto and Douglas, Tom Lloyd and Tod Lowen also do well; Lina Verdi is one of the finest mimics we have seen here; the novel musical entertainment presented by Wilbur Hill and Willette Whitaker is quite up to date; the juggling act of Wallaw is clever; Madie Scott and Lola Patey are attractive comediennes; George Adams renders his baritone songs with much success.

BORDESLEY PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—Marie Kendall, one of Bordesley's greatest favourites, and Mark Melford and his company, in a sketch Only a Wedding, are attracting good houses this week. The Dumond Minstrels are most entertaining; in international dancing the Northern Troupe are experts; Belle Brahame renders some pictorial songs with effect; Horace Wheatley and Steve McCarthy are both mirth-provoking comedians. The bioscope, as at the Empire, depicts the great Chamberlain demonstration at Small Heath Park.

BOSCOMBE.—HIPPODROME.—Joint proprietors, Messrs. Frederick Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Ball.—Fred Russell is delighting the patrons of this house with his well known ventriloquial entertainment. Verno and Voyce are always popular; Harry Rogerson as "The Tired Comedian" is very funny; the Mezzettis, gymnastic comedians, are giving their comedy triple bar performance, The New Recruit. Other turns of a varied kind are the Sisters Hall (charming vocal duettists), T. C. Callaghan (refined character-comedian), and Massona (juggler).

BOURNEMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietors, Messrs. David Allen and Son; Sole Lessee, Mr. Mouillot; Manager, Mr. Rowland Stewart. — His Excellency the Governor was presented here on Monday by a company comprising some well-known London actors. Mr. Loring Fernie gave a very clever rendering of His Excellency; while the John Baverstock of Mr. Lionel Mackinder was a delightful piece of comedy. Mr. Marsh Allen played Captain Carew with ease and vivacity; and Mr. Malcolm Cherry contributed a convincing sketch of the Right Hon. Henry Carlton, M.P.; while strong support was rendered by Mr. Charles Brown as Captain Rivers; Mr. Arthur Willoughby, as Major Kildare; and Mr. Littledale Power, as the sentry. To Miss Ethel Matthews special praise must be accorded for her conception of Stella Gex, a part which she played and dressed admirably; Miss Isabel Grey was good as Mrs. Wentworth Bolinbroke; as was Miss Valerie Salberg as Ethel Carleton. The play was preceded by an original sketch entitled A Waste of Time, is which all the male members of the company took part, and which was very much to the liking of the audience.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's company is paying still another visit here this week with A Royal Divorce. Mr. Frederick Moyes contributes an excellent portrayal of Napoleon, and Miss Edith Cole again wins the utmost admiration as the Empress Josephine. Mr. F. Joynson Powell does well as Talleyrand and Mr. Alfred Wellesley very ably portrays Grimand. Miss Elizabeth Watson as Marie Louise and Miss Clara Earle as Stephanie de Beauharnais are also deserving of favourable mention. Other parts are in capable hands, and the scenery and dresses are in the best taste.

GRAND THEATRE.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Sergenson.—The Dandy Doctor, played by Mr. Edward Marris's company, is the attraction here. Mr. Marris appears as Melchisadeck Brown, and scores a great success. Colonel Pendred has an able exponent in Mr. Herbert Pearce, and Messrs. E. H. Bertram (Arthur Vandyke), Leslie Martin (Bertie Bollingbroke), and Dalton Dane (Mr. Drycoff) also assist in the fun-making. Miss Florence Smithers carries all before her as Jane, and Misses Ethel Dunker, Bell Hamilton, Rosie Chandler, and Marie Gerrard also give satisfaction in their respective parts.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Harry Lauder is the big-type man here this week, and his efforts in song and story are nightly received with tremendous applause. Other capital turns are supplied by Leo Dryden, the actor vocalist; W. J. Churchill, comedian; Charlene and Charlene, drawing-room entertainers; Omra, on the silver wire; Crown Trio, vocalists; Haig and Novel, acrobats; Sterling and Lone, in a sketch; and Lilian Lowe, vocalist.

HIPPODROME.—Lessees, Messrs. Whitehead and Ramsden; General-Manager, Mr. T. P. Dingnan.—A very popular programme is supplied here this week by Arthur Lennard, comedian and vocalist; Carter Livesey and Lilian Rosebery, in their sketch, entitled The Would-be Actors; Lizzie Fletcher, comedienne; Harry Carmen, in a budget of up-to-date songs; Daisy Lane, the chic comedienne; the Snow Family, expert skaters; Gus Hindel, comedian; George French's troupe of acrobats; Johnny Dwyer, comedian; and the Two Dixons, song and dance artists.

WINTER GARDENS PAVILION.—General-Manager, Mr. J. R. Huddlestone.—A new ballet-extravaganza, entitled In Sunny Spain; or, the Troubles of a Tourist, was produced here on Monday. A detailed notice will be found in another column. In addition to the ballet there is to be a variety bill of exceptional brilliance. The artists will include a newcomer in the person of Mons. Jules Angelos, who will make his first appearance in England at the Winter Gardens Pavilion with his famous tableaux vivants; Lucia and Viata, charming and graceful wire performers; the New York Comedy Four, humorously harmonious comedians; the Family Belaguer, in their clever acrobatic display; the Scala Girls, charming lady vocalists and dancers; the Castillian Serenaders; Albertine Melich, with her wonderfully trained parrots, macaws, and cockatoos; Mlle. Lopezina, in her clever trapeze act; and pictures on the Graphoscope.

BRADFORD.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—Social discord in Russia has provided Mr. F. Wybert Clive with plenty of material for his drama, The Conscript, which he submitted to an interested audience on last Monday night. The piece has been remodelled since it was presented here some years ago, and it is distinctly up-to-date in incidents dealing with the terrible trials of the unfortunate exiles; and the company engaged on the representation is a strong one. Mr. Harry Cullenford acts with great power as the unfortunate conscript Karl Truevitch, and he has fine support from Miss Violet Carlyle, who fills the part of the heroine Nadia Truevitch, his wife, with marked dramatic ability; Ivan Manloff, the Nihilist, is a character which fits Mr. Walter Steele well; the villain, Count Paul Hardiski, is effectively represented by Mr. C. E. Johnson; Doggervitch is a good performance by Mr. Edward Lowrie. In the part of the Ferrett, Mr. F. H. Bellwood, too, is good; and the gloom is much brightened by the humour of Mr. Tom Breen as Tretch Trotoff; and Miss Connie Meadows as Wanda Khoval.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—Pantomimic effects and riotous fun are features of the programme here this week, and Herbert Darnley's company in Moving In provide endless amusement in the way of knockabout business. The Mackweys, too, give a good comic acrobatic display and do some clever things on the wire, and in A Merry Trifle J. Alexander and company are very funny and display plenty of agility. Monsieur Albany gives a diverting entertainment in sleight-of-hand and does some clever sketching and picture building; Maude Courtney in song and story is entertaining; Orpheus reappears with distinct novelties, and his "solitary rehearsal" on wind instruments is clever; Eloise Brinsmade's illustrated songs are very interesting. In the comedy sketch The Porter and the Parcel, by Howard and Collinson, the clever representation of an animated doll is much appreciated; Georgina Leonard, comedienne, submits an acceptable turn; and there are some interesting films shown by the American Bioscope.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Arnold, jun.—A programme of general excellence is presented here this week, and Colby and May are to the fore in a clever turn, the former as a ventriloquist and the latter as a wonderfully realistic mechanical doll; the duets by the Sisters Lytton are well rendered; Herbert Clifton is responsible for some excellent mimicry; in their sketch The Doctor and the Patient Helm and Cozens are particularly entertaining; and in a comedietta, The Substitute, Sid Cotterell and company are the recipients of marked favour. The one-legged clowns, the Donatos, are clever and diverting; Herbert Rule submits a capital comedy turn; Leo Lester's "canine pantomime" is very interesting and affords a lot of amusement; and there are some fine films exhibited by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

AL FRESCO PAVILION.—The latest addition to the company at this popular resort is Vosper, the entertaining mimic.

BRIDLINGTON.—ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE.—Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—Elaborate programmes were arranged at this popular resort in honour of the visit of the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of London. On Monday the fine band of the Irish Guards were the great attraction. The new Grand Pavilion, which had been formally opened by the Lord Mayor of London on Friday, was thrown open to the public for the first time on Monday night, and a crowded audience assembled, who appeared delighted with the beautiful building which has been erected on the Parade extension. The programme included a promenade concert by Herr Winternitz's Royal Viennese Orchestra, whose fine performance added to the popularity of the talented conductor. Miss Esme Atherden, a lady with a sweet soprano voice, was the special vocalist. The Loyal Dominion Animated Picture Company gave a fine show of up-to-date pictures. Mr. Palmer, the manager, is to be highly complimented upon the arrangements he has made for the extra entertainment he has provided for the enjoyment of the patrons of the Royal Prince's Parade.

NEW SPA AND GARDENS.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Henry Hague.—A colossal programme was provided by the enterprising manager of the Spa to mark the visit of the Lord Mayor and Sheriffs of London on the 6th inst., which included a balloon ascent and parachute descent by Professor Gaumont. This week the vocalists at the promenade concerts include Miss Bertha Bird, who continues, to delight the audiences with her fine vocalism; Mr. Ernest Hastings, a really smart humorist; and Mr. Fred Forden, society entertainer.

THE PALACE.—Manager, Mr. A. Hubner.—The programme this week includes the Sisters Rubie, vocal and instrumental artists, in a charming répertoire; the Royal Temple Trio, a talented company of vocalists; Clown Learto and his amusing canine performer Babs; Gale and Frank St. John, in a capital instrumental entertainment and some cleverly executed dances; and Mr. Hubner's animated pictures, which are kept well up to date, and cause great delight to the audiences.

SUMMER GARDENS.—Lessees, Messrs. Beanland, Bath, and Danton; Manager, Mr. Charles Danton.—Mme. Samina's Ladies' Orchestra is one of the amusing items provided this week by the managers of this attractive place for the seaside visitors, whose programmes include vocal and instrumental items by the Waterloo Pierrots, and the company appear nightly in amusing and well played sketches, which are always a source of great enjoyment.

BRIGHTON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company opened here on Monday with East Lynne. Miss Julie Kennard achieved conspicuous success in the dual rôle of Lady Isabel and Madame Vine; Mr. Eric Mayne gave a powerful enactment of Francis Levison; Mr. Alfred Beaumont was admirably suited as Archibald Carlyle; Mr. Paul Belmore was highly effective as the impulsive Justice Hare; and Mr. Campbell made a capital Richard Hare. Miss Ethel Hardacre submitted a good character study as the brusque Cornelia Carlyle; Mr. C. C. Gratton afforded much fun as P.c. Bullock; Mr. Cyril Hayward was amusing as Lawyer Dill. Able support was given by Mr. Spencer Goodwin, Miss Violet Thorold, and Miss Emily Frith; and the two children's parts were intelligently rendered by Miss Dorothy Townrow and Miss Ethel Rae. The play has attracted large audiences.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—There is an excellent company here this week. The Fred Karno company provide unbounded fun by their admirable performance of Early Birds and The Mumming Birds; the Borghetti Troupe are wonderful head balancers; George French, comedian, is heard to distinct advantage in his latest successes; Lilian Rigby, "queen of music and dancing," is well received; Kittee Rayburn is a pleasing comedienne; Derenda and Green are capital juggling comedians; Ernie Mayne, "the simple one," submits a good turn; Cecilia Morde wins warm applause, and the Alhambrascope pictures are interesting and entertaining.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—An attractive programme is sustained here this week. The Four Holloways submit a clever and astonishing wire act; the Midget Mimes are excellent in their novel burlesque, The Palis of Varieties, Casey's Court; Fred Earle is a very amusing comedian; Martin Conway, comedian, is highly successful; the Australian Twin Andersons (Lillie and Minnie) dance themselves into great favour; Edward Lewis, comedian, is very funny as Bumps, the phrenologist; Evelyn Taylor is a smart and original comedienne; Nash and Noel, comedians, patterers, and dancers, are well received; Frank Wood, tenor vocalist, achieves great success; Alice Ormonde, comedienne, merits warm praise, and the Barrascope pictures are interesting.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Messrs. William Fraser-Brunner and Gilbert Heron's company is here this week with The Superior Miss Pellender. Miss Jessie Danvers gives a delightful impersonation of Mrs. Pellender; Mr. Gilbert Heron acquits himself admirably as Mr. Tister; Miss Alice Esther Belmore merits unstinted praise for her capital enactment of Miss Pellender; Mr. George Belmore make an amusing Noel; Miss Jessie Ramsey is a pleasing Edith Pellender; and Miss Alice Bowes is well suited as Nancy.

NEW PALACE PIER THEATRE.—The Impertinence of Nancy is performed here this week by Mr. Roland Bottomley's company. Miss Mary Thornhill submits an admirable portrayal of Nancy; Mr. Reginald Eyre is capitally suited as Ned Wynton; Mr. Roland Bottomley gives an excellent impersonation of Brabazon; Mr. Tom Shelford as the Rev. Joseph Tivles is entertaining; and Miss Edith Bottomley as Sylvia Wynton and Miss Mary Stuart as Mrs. Armstrong merit warm commendation.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. J. Sallmayer; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry de Groot.—The musical comedy, The Girl Next Door, is repeated here this week, and proves very interesting and amusing.

BRISTOL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe.—Mr. Ernest Carpenter's excellent company is here with the interesting and well-staged drama, Shadows of a Great City. Mr. Ronald Adair acts remarkably well as Tom Cooper; Mr. Paul Barry-Lewers is effective as George Benson; Mr. H. C. Lanceley makes a good part of Detective Arkwright; Mr. George H. Asquin distinguishes himself and also displays dry humour as Jim Farren; and Mr. Louis Palgrave in the part of Abe Nathans presents a good study. In Acts I. and II. Miss Lydia Mannington is highly commendable as Annie Standish; in Acts III., IV., and V. Miss Daisy Halling is pleasing and effective as Nellie Standish; Miss Susie Price is amusing as Mrs. Higgins; and Miss Lucy Murray acts in a very pleasing and vivacious manner as Biddy Roonan. The scenery throughout is considerably above the average, and the attendance has been highly satisfactory during the week.

PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. V. Welchman.—Mr. Fred Storey, supported by a competent company, is here with a dramatic sketch of Rip Van Winkle. The sketch is worked out in six scenes, it is nicely staged, and the acting throughout is commendable. Walter Bellonini obtains considerable applause for his smart juggling act; the Lannons (Will and May) are highly successful as duettists and pedestal dancers; Alma Burton, comedienne and dancer, submits a pleasing and successful turn; Charles Bignell, comedian, maintains his popularity; James Kurry, eccentric comedian, obtains applause; Raglus displays skill as an indiarubber ball manipulator; and Belle Harcourt is a pleasing comedienne. The performance concludes with interesting animated pictures by Vernon's bioscope.

EMPIRE. — Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—Frederick Maxwell and Loie Du Cane's company is here with the interesting dramatic sketch Dick Dare, M.P. The sketch is well played by a highly competent company. Luis Hardt presents a fine turn as a strong man; Jeanette Reynolds is an attractive and pleasing vocalist; Cordite and Buffalo are expert lasso and rope spinners; Stephens and Rennior, comedians and dancers, obtain applause; Sidney Wilson excels as a juggler; and Walter Stanley, comedian, is popular. The performance concludes with a good display of animated pictures.

BROUGHTON.—VICTORIA, LTD.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—The Corsican Brothers was given before a good house on Monday, with Mr. Frank Lindo in the title-rôle, which he ably sustained; Mr. John F. Traynor made an excellent M. Le Chateau Renaud; Emilie de Lesparre was charmingly presented by Miss Marion Wakeford; Mr. Ulick Burke as Mr. Alfred Meynard, Mr. Cyril Crier as Le Baron de Montgiron, and Mr. F. Miles Hodgson as Le Baron Martelli were successful in their several characters. The small parts of Mr. George Overs and Mr. D. Laurence Doyle as the heads of the rival vendettists were very well done. Adequate support was given by Miss Mary Denver as Madame Savilia dèi Franchi, Captain Gerald Gambier as Antonio Sanola, Miss Muriel Clay as Marie, Miss Hetty Webster as Coralie, and Miss Rochefort as Celestine. The dramatic monologue Shamus O'Brien, a stirring tale of '98, is the curtain-raiser each evening, and is given by Mr. John F. Traynor. David Garrick was announced for Wednesday and Friday.

BURY (Lancs.).—THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; General-Manager, Mr. W. Broadhead, jun.—This week's bill is headed by Theo. Bouwmeester, a Dutch protean character-actor, who represents seven distinct characters in a sketch, entitled Who is Guilty? G. W. Kenway, mimic; La Vells, in a comedy acrobatic act; Victoria Dagmar, a smart horizontal bar performer; Howard Ward and Louie Davis, in an excellent comedy duologue, entitled Wanted, a Typist; Carson Hicks, vocalist and dancer; Geo. Gulliver, ventriloquist; Blarny and Kennard, in a comedy act, and the bioscope pictures make up a good programme.

CARDIFF.—KING'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. C. Duncan.—The drama Dishonoured is being presented here by a powerful company. Miss Blance St. Albans appears in the rôle of Leslie Maynard, and makes a conspicuous success; the well-known actor, Mr. Henry Renouf, is seen to much advantage in the difficult part of Philip Cunningham; and Mr. J. Leicester Jackson as Capt. Cholmondley could not be more suitably placed. The other characters are equally well represented.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. M. S. Dring.—The popular George Lashwood is the star this week, the clever artist being a great favourite with Cardiffians. Pat Rafferty is another favourite; Conway and Leland, the merry monopedes, are as entertaining as ever; the Bros. Horne are extremely diverting as "The noble art exponents"; Spry and Austin, vaudeville artists, are well received; and Tina Clementa presents her clever animal act, winning much appreciation; Ambrose Thorne, the natty comedian; May Evans, a characteristic comedienne; Harris Corndale, the farmyard mimic; and Atroy, the society juggler, make up a capital programme.

CARLISLE.—THE PALACE.—Proprietors, The Palace Theatre, Carlisle, Limited; Managing-Director, Signor Rino Pepi; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. E. Nicholls.—Miss Madge Gray, who tops the bill here this week, is a delightful comedienne with capital songs; Les Bollingers can certainly claim originality in their wonderful rag painting act, which is already one of the most popular items on the programme; David Poole, ventriloquist, is one of the best we have had here; Miss Minnie Lenton contributes comical Scotch songs and tales with tact and skill; Smiler Lee's quiet humour meets with much appreciation, and Sidney Dolf proves himself an able entertainer; Keith Merson and company are popular in their hunting absurdity, entitled The Meet, in which they do some wonderful acrobatic contortionist work. The Pepiscope with new pictures completes a well varied programme.

CHATHAM.—BARNARD'S PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. L. B. Barnard.—Here we have Sunny Moss, comedian; the Two Roses, juvenile duettists and dancers; Fred S. Peake and company in a well-staged sketch The Gambler; Ossi Souplessi with some startling contortions; Carr and Rose in vocal scena; the Four Hearnes in a comedy acrobatic act; Lacey's Erascope with some good views, entitled "Crowning Norway's King," while special mention must be made of Mabel Thorne, who gives every satisfaction with her ditties.

GAIETY THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Captain H. E. Davis; Manager, Mr. Frank J. Donne.—Tom Costello tops the bill here, and is doing well; some neat acrobatic feats are performed by the Falcons; the Sisters May are popular; Flo Varley's "Looking for John" amuses; the Maxwells' illustrated songs include "Good bye, sweet Marie." The Edisonograph has a capital picture in "The Chaser Chased." Kittie Corrie, comedienne; and Prof. Earle, illusionist, complete the company.

CHELTENHAM.—MONTPELIER GARDENS.—Manager, Mr. Alfred W. Newton.—The Dagonets opened a week's engagement here on Monday. Mr. Joseph Blascheck in his sketches had an excellent reception; Mr. Charles Magrath, a first class baritone; Mr. Reginald Mountfield, a humorist of excellent quality; Mr. Henry Stockwell, a very acceptable tenor; Miss Lily Beaton, who made a decided hit in her coon songs, and Miss Mildred Wrighton, who has a powerful and cultured voice, make up a decidedly capable and attractive company.

CLACTON-ON-SEA. — WESTCLIFF GARDENS.—Messrs. Graham, Russell, and Bently are old favourites here. Each one of the merry trio is a clever comedian, and with the aid of Mr. Wilfred Alderton, silver hand-bell soloist, and Mr. Owen Clark, conjurer and entertainer, they have delighted and amused great crowds. Miss Alice Braunstein, who is on a long engagement at these gardens, has not only a fine voice but is a finished artist of great charm and delicacy.

Mr. Ford's Palace-by-the-Sea and Theatre continues to attract big crowds. Mr. C. J. Thomas's really fine band bids fair to become an institution at Clacton. There is an excellent variety show in the theatre, amongst whom appearing this week are the Four Great Ramlos, Gullane Trio, Fred Neiman, the Evalos, and Ruffell's Bioscope.

Manager McLeod seems to be doing well for the Cliff Bandstand concerts. The Council band, under Mr. J. Sainton's direction, have had as vocalists this week Miss Dorothy Carlton, soprano, Mr. Cyril Thompson, baritone, and Mr. Edwin Henry, society entertainer.

Messrs. Ashton are running concerts at the Pier Pavilion, and are well patronised.

COLCHESTER.—HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Alen.—Harry Champion tops the bill this week, and meets with a very hearty reception; the Two Lorrisons, in a comic extravaganza, and Wisper, the juggler, are much appreciated; Gladys Whitton, a juvenile contralto with an excellent voice, scores heavily with "Dear Homeland" and "Dream of Paradise," the applause being both hearty and prolonged; Sydney and Maud Wood execute a couple of charming Oriental dances in smart style, and Beattie Bloom is greatly liked in her two humorous songs. The well-chosen opening and interval music also gains applause, and, as usual, the Bioscope rings down the curtain.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. Wm. Bennett.—A return visit of Miss Bonwin Carlton's company in the comedy-drama, entitled The Plucky Nipper, is the attraction here this week. Mr. Edward Surrey wins notice by his able impersonation of the character of Bill Burgess; Mr. Fred Rivers gives a good account of the villain Richard Vanbrugh; Miss Bonwin Carlton delights the audience by her study of The Nipper; Mr. Edward Stream makes a capital soldier, Captain Frank Leslie; Mr. Douglas Campbell is effective in his humorous efforts; Miss Evelyn Derwent as Ina Fenwick, and Miss Kitty Maynard as Daisy Paget also contribute to the success of the piece.

THE HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. T. M. Sylvester.—A good show is again provided at this house. Ernest Rees, the popular comedian, obtains a hearty reception; Jimson's novelty sketch, entitled The Burglar's Surprise, is well received; Allsop and Bekwith give an amusing comedy act, entitled I'm Coming Upstairs; Fred Keeton is responsible for some very taking songs; Elsie Hill and company appear in a farce, entitled Fanny's Flat; and the Elvio Comedy Trio give a clever knockabout act. The programme concludes with animated pictures.

CROYDON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—Mr. Reginald H. Adair's company is winning approbation here in The Luck of Life. Mr. Roland Yorke does well as Michael Bazilovitz; Mr. Leonard Thackeray is a suitable Count Petroff; Mr. Albert Cuthbertson is good as Ivan Polowski; Mr. Joseph Millaine scores in the rôle of George Stanhope; Mr. Fred Danvers is droll as Simon Stanley; and Mr. Polson Turner makes the most of Bahador. Miss Gertie Bonser is commendable in the rôle of Countess Vlame; Miss Adelaide Clare is adequate as Vivienna D'Artois; Miss Dora Huggett takes a prominent position as Laura North; Miss Kate Peroune is good as Mlle. de Beaudyn; and Miss Mary Dawson acts with tact and judgment as Rene Bazilovitz.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES. — Proprietor, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace H. Jay.—The week's bill is received with approbation. John F. Preston's company in Rogues of the Turf is making a big hit; Billy McClain's company is untiring in song and dance; Arthur Reece, comedian, is encored nightly; Woodhouse and Wells are whimsical story tellers and dancers; Leo Tell, imitator of sounds, meets with a cordial reception; a sensational novelty, Vermouth, the talking dog, causes astonishment; Ernesto is a smart juggler and musical equilibrist; and Amy Sullivan and Anna Kenwick are fascinating comediennes.

DEAL.—PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Geo. Rivers.—Opened on Monday for the season. The artists that appeared during the week were Miss Elizabeth Davies (soprano), Mr. Herbert Emlyn (tenor), and Mr. Thos. Batty's Red Band.

The celebrated Monks Quartette opened on Monday for the entire season, on the Beach Plot and North Parade, and their fine singing has been greatly appreciated.

THE BANDSTAND.—The Whitfield-Rose Quartette, who made a great success last year, are here again, and are assisted by that clever young artist Mr. Charles Resti, the well-known sleight-of-hand entertainer.

DEVONPORT.—METROPOLE.—Owners, Carltons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. Mitchell.—A new sketch entitled Her Nameless Child made its initial appearance on Monday, and went very well for a first production. The authoress is Mrs. Madge Duckworth, wife of the proprietor of the Tonypandy Theatre, Wales.

GRAND THEATRE. — Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. Percy Williams; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee.—Tom Craven's The Stowaway, with the humorous and versatile Mr. Greene Taylor in the title-rôle, goes very well, having plenty of music and catchy songs interpolated between the more serious parts. Other members of the company are Messrs. Edward Lloyd, Charles Lester, Frank Harrison, Gordon McLeod, and Miss Ethel Kay.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Lessees, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Asquith.—The variety entertainment presented here includes Mr. James Willard and company in the sketch Did He Deserve It? in which Mr. Willie Atom figures prominently as a messenger boy; the Three Rubys are agile acrobats and trapezists, and the applause showered upon them is thoroughly merited; Harry Bent scores in his clever mimicry of music hall celebrities; Harwood's Juveniles in the scena A Children's Christmas Eve display youthful talent in song and dance; Morimura is neat and rapid in his Japanese illusions; Conan and Doyle (patter comedians), the bioscope, and Carlotte Lunn (American comedienne) also contribute.

DOUGLAS.—GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Hemming; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. R. Wood.—Large and delighted audiences have been the rule at this house, where The New Barmaid is being presented by Mr. Alexander Loftus's company. Miss Violet Osmund as the Lady Journalist acts with much vivacity; Mr. Alexander Loftus successfully essays the part of William White, head waiter at the Owlett's Club; Mr. Charles Adeson evokes amusement as Bertie White; Miss Amy Preston displays talent as Ethel Joy; and Miss Maud Nickolls acts and sings with energy as the old barmaid; Miss Winifred Preston does all that can be done with the rôle of Lady Moulton. The Colonel Claymore of Mr. James Grant contributes to the interest of the performance; Mr. Leslie Austin is quite at home, and displays the best musical comedy manner as Captain Lovebury. The other characters are all effectively sustained. The dances introduced are much appreciated, especially a Scotch dance by Miss Queenie Bell.

GAIETY THEATRE, LTD.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Gray.—This is a gala week at the Gaiety Theatre. Mr. Herbert Ralland brings has successful stock season to a close with his benefit, which took place on Wednesday. The play for the week was Mr. Haddon Chambers's emotional drama The Idler, most intelligently interpreted by the clever members of his company, Mr. J. Herbert Beaumont, Mr. Fred Fowler, Mr. Richard Walsh, Mr. Arthur Dennis, Mme. Kitty Cavendish, Miss Chrissie Ralland, Miss Minnie Walsh, and Miss Nina Zambray. At the benefit (which was under the patronage of His Excellency the Lieutenant-Governor, Lord Raglan, Lady Raglan, and all the minor notabilities of the island), in addition to The Idler, a galaxy of talent appeared, including Miss Stella Gastelle, Mr. R. A. Roberts, Mr. Jack Lorimer, Miss Lil Hawthorne, and Mr. J. W. Knowles. It was a most successful function, financially and fashionably.

PALACE., LTD.—General Manager, Mr. Charles Fox; Junior Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. Brittain.—The directors presented a fine programme here on Monday night. The music, under the direction of Mr. Harry Wood, was up to date, and the variety entertainment exactly to the taste of crowded audiences. Mr. R. A. Roberts, the protean artist, in his sketches, Dick Turpin and Ringing the Changes; Esta Stella, comedienne and dancer; Dome, clay modeller; the Daunton Shaw troupe of trick cyclists; the Wedderburns, the Vekeys, and Stelling and Revel, are all clever turns that are received with acclamation. Vernon's bioscope is also an attraction.

DERBY CASTLE, LTD.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Business Manager, Mr. A. J. Kelly.—The variety programme here always includes star turns. This week Miss Lil Hawthorne is an immense success, her new songs and "Don't cry little girl" being vociferously encored; the Five Bogannys repeat their previous popularity; Mr. Jack Lorimer is amusing. The latest prize dance, the "A la Mode Waltz," is the vogue here, and M.C., Mr. Tom Walton, introduces it nightly, and gives exhibitions.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor and Director, Mr. F. J. Connor.—An overflowing audience attended the re-opening of this place of enjoyment on Monday evening. The programme is a long and interesting one. Captain Maximilian Grubben, with his performing animals—elephant, horse, and pony—rouses enthusiasm. There also appear Carlo Bianchi, Mons. Eugene Foote, and Mlle. Lizzie Rowland Du Calion, all smart, up-to-date ring people. The clowns are funny, particularly Dan Gregory. There is an equestrienne goat of parts and clever ponies trained by Mr. W. Tudor; Mr. W. R. Albino is the ring master.

Other amusements in Douglas are: Frederick Buxton's Pierrots and tea village, Charles Daw's minstrels on the Head, Mr. Charles Elderton's variety shows twice nightly at the New Empire, and various other small entertainments.

DOVER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietors, The Dover Theatres, Ltd.; Chairman of Directors, Mr. B. Carter; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—Large audiences have patronised the excellent variety show here this week. The Three Boleros appear in a clever and amusing triple bar act; the Four Rosaires give a wonderful acrobatic display; and Wragg and Wragg, smart military athletes, submit an interesting turn. The Elliotts are good vocalists, and win praise with their sand dancing; Mlle. Roseltha is equally expert in her international or skipping-rope dance; the Franklin troupe excite much amusement with their grotesque Russian dance; and some admirable pictures on Raymond's Bio-Tableaux complete the programme.

THE PAVILION, PROMENADE PIER.—Lessees, The Dover Theatres, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred C. Dew.—A capital evening's amusement is provided this week by Mr. Trefelyn David's Vocal Quartette. Miss Marie West sings light comedy songs in a fascinating manner; Miss Marie Longmore has a sympathetic voice, which she uses with good effect; Mr. David himself sings several tenor songs with much charm of expression; and Mr. Roland Foster's excellent bass is of great assistance to the quartettes contributed by the party, and is heard to advantage in some rollicking sea songs. Miss Norman Grant wins much applause with her daintily rendered sketches at the piano, and also acts as an efficient accompanist.

THE EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, The Empire Palace Co.; Manager, Mr. B. H. Harland; Secretary, Mr. Chas. R. Standfield.—One of the cleverest turns at this house for some time is that given by Le Tinge, female impersonator. Make-up and voice are alike excellent, and this talented artist scores a decided success. Forbes, Murray and company appear in an episode entitled Blind; W. W. Watson, the one-armed cornet and posthorn player, is well received; and Rosie Lenard also wins popularity. The Two Leslies, in a new and original act; Bessie Spears, with "I sha'n't sing a coon song"; and the Murrays also add to the humour of the evening.

DUBLIN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—Hackenschmidt, the famous wrestler, is the chief attraction here this week, and is accorded a hearty reception; Ethel Walker's impersonations of music hall artists are distinctly good; and Max Duffek is a clever contortionist. The Max Milan troupe of equilibrists meet with appreciation; and Miss Daisy Davidson renders her vocal numbers with excellent effect. The daring bicycle act of Bert Woodward merits applause; as does also the mysterious illusion of the Four Kweeries. An interesting exhibition on the tight-rope is given by Texas Hattie; and Zarmo's eccentric juggling creates much laughter. The Jees' pantomimical sketch The Musical Smithy proves highly enjoyable; and the Royal pictures are also good.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager Mr. J. W. Whitbread; Acting-Manager, Mr. John M. Dawson.—The Crimson Club, played by Miss Evelyn Moore's company, had a good reception here on Monday night. Mr. Fred G. Kay is excellent in the rôle of Sir Philip Garside; and Miss Millie Hastings is equally acceptable as Esther Craddock. As Reginald Garside Mr. Percy Shaw gives an admirable delineation; and Miss Kitty Elliott as Sophonisba Garside is highly impressive. Mr. J. Clifford Wright plays well the part of Richard Fenton; and Miss Florence Delmar is capital as Julia Marsden. Others who ably sustain their respective parts are Mr. Joseph Magrath as the Hon. Herbert Selby, Miss Sidney Barrasford as Muriel Lockwood, Mr. Charles Nugent as Sir Richard Steele, and Mr. Will Shaw as Silas Craddock.

PAVILION, KINGSTOWN.—Manager, Mr. C Irvine Bacon.—The John Ridding's Opera Company opened here on Monday, when Maritana was successfully presented to a large and appreciative audience. Miss Kitty Brownless as Maritana displayed considerable ability; and Don Cæsar had an able exponent in Mr. Charles Le Sueur. The rôle of Lazarillo was ably sustained by Miss Jessie Dennis; and Mr. John Ridding made a capital Don Jose. Mr. Fred Glendon as the King, Mr. Lifford as Alcade, and Mr. Arthur Fisher as the Captain of the Guard were also creditable in their respective parts.

EMPIRE. — General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—A capital programme is provided here, the chief item being Captain Bevan's Gordon Highlanders, whose marvellous exhibition of lightning drill is deservedly applauded. The New York Nippers cause much amusement in their clever singing and dancing act, Bedtime; and Nellie Martell is an engaging comedienne and dancer. Francis and Melli, musical grotesques, secure a favourable verdict; and Fred Elton's vocal and musical speciality, On an Ocean Liner is warmly appreciated. The Brothers Harrison are capital comedians and dancers; and Myra Stanfield is a vivacious comedienne whose songs are well received. A Japanese mystery presented by Kavados is highly interesting; and the Empire pictures are up-to-date.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—Topping the bill here we have the Tom Davis Trio, whose sensational act Motoring in Mid-Air is loudly applauded. Another successful turn is supplied by the Schiavonis troupe and the Charnleys, duettists and dancers, win popular favour. Miss Addie Dorina, in an amusing duologue, How it was Done, is well received; and Will Daniels, comedian, scores. The Bohemians, instrumentalists and comedy artists, supply an interesting turn; and Bessie Willow is an acceptable vocalist. Vardon, ventriloquist, makes a decided hit; and Sam Shipley is a smart comedian. The bioscope is projecting some new films.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A James.—The following artists are appearing here:—Walter Roselle, ventriloquist; Nancy Lil, contralto vocalist; Syd Mountford, shadowgraphist; and Martin Melia, clog dancer.

SAMUELS' EXHIBITION PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. S. Samuels.—The company engaged here includes:—A. G. Collette, Irish comedian and dancer; Lilian Davis, ballad vocalist; Syd Kirwan, eccentric comedian; and Captain Medeca's performing sea lions.

DUNDEE.—PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Manager, E. J. Dexter.—An excellent programme is submitted here this week, the principal item being The Globe of Life, one of the most daring acts ever seen here. Stanley's Urchins provide a pleasing turn, their delightful singing and clever dancing winning rounds of applause; Mlle. Du Roche achieves great success as a soprano vocalist; while Doyle and Gibson greatly amuse with their clever and funny business. Other capital turns are contributed by Musical Miller; Harry Adams, character comedian; Maggie Binnie, song illustrator; Pat Turner, newsboy comedian; and Vernon's animated pictures.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—Another capital bill is presented to the patrons of this popular house headed by the Royal Welsh Meister Singers, whose refined and popular selections are most enjoyable. J. B. Preston, Scotch comedian, is a favourite; Vaselli and James, banjoists are well received; Charles Lestree's juggling is very neat, his manipulation of lighted torches on the darkened stage being very effective; Chester and Lee's Marionettes in new business repeat their last week's success; the Gaiety Bioscope depicts a series of interesting pictures.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—An exceedingly bright and pleasing entertainment is submitted by the Pardoes, nine in number, who open the proceedings with On the Sands at Brighton, in which glees, duets, and solos play the principal part. The rest of the programme is divided into individual turns, and the talent of the several members of this versatile company is displayed to advantage, principal amongst wh and force the grim little play, The Monkey's Paw, and succeed in sending a shiver through the audience; Mr. Wilkie Bard's droll songs and patter are received with the heartiest laughter and applause; Miss Rachel Lowe, graceful and natural, sings with humour and sparkle; and Miss Kitty Wager is a pleasing comedienne; those accomplished artists, Signor and Mme. Borelli, provide admirable entertainment both by their skilful playing of piano and mandoline, and clever imitations of the vocal peculiarities of comic singers of various nationalities; Mr. Fred Poplar's mimicry shows close powers of observation; while capital turns are given by the Caselli Sisters, duettists and dancers; Miss Nellie Stratton, comedienne; and Messrs. Howard and Sinclair. The acrobatic performance of Toledo and Price is worthy of praise, and the Bioscope completes an excellent bill of fare.

FARNWORTH.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. T. Morton Powell.—This week we are having a visit from Mr. Dickie Clare's company in Lucky Liza. Mr. Dickie Clare as Silas Slim gives a most amusing performance; Mr. Leonard Maitland as Paul Pettitoe is funny, and his efforts meet with well-merited applause; the part of Bimbo finds a capable exponent in Mr. Willie Reid; Miss Madge Brownie plays the part of Eliza Bird very nicely, and sings and dances capitally; Miss Madge Locke capably undertakes the rôle of Virginia Blatherwick.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Mr. Charles Harrington's No. 1 Company in Uncle Tom's Cabin is the attraction here this week. Mr. J. Carr is an excellent representative of the hero; Mr. J. H. Renney is a manly Phineas Fletcher; Mr. B. Lenton as Mr. St. Clair deserves praise; and Mr. Leslie Beaufort as George Harris would be hard to improve upon; Mr. J. Henry Rogers gives a bold and forcible rendering of Legree; Miss Hettie Johnson shows histrionic ability as Eliza Harris; Miss Carrie Ellis is capital as Emmeline; Miss Jennie Malcolm makes the most of Aunt Ophelia, and Miss May Turner gives able support as Mrs. St. Clair. Miss Annie Watson's acting of Topsy gains well deserved applause; Mrs. Carr distinguishes herself as Aunt Chloe; Little Minnie scores a success as Eva, and Miss Ethel Mildmay acts cleverly as Cassy.

VICTORIA PIER.—Lessees, Messrs. Keith Prowse and Co., Ltd.; Local Manager, Mr. J. Fenton Walsh.—Mr. G. H. Snazelle, raconteur and vocalist, is on a return visit here this week, and is accorded rounds of applause; Miss Gertrude Snow is a pleasing vocalist. La Senorita Dareta de Romana was a special feature on Wednesday evening in her dances, entitled "Old and New Spain." The Royal Austrian Band meets with popular approval.

LEAS PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. A. Setter.—Miss Alice Burraston, soprano, is heard to advantage; Mr. Charles Bulwar provides a smart conjuring act, and the animated pictures complete a good programme.

GAINSBOROUGH.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Arthur Carlton Theatres, Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. Robert Kirk.—The United English Opera Company, under the direction of Mr. F. S. Gilbert, is here this week. On Monday the ever-popular Maritana was given, and Miss Vera Vizard gave a charming representation of the title-rôle; Mr. Gilbert sang excellently as Don Cæsar de Bazan; Mr. Kneale Campbell was the Don José, and Mr. H. Brindle the King. The company includes a well-balanced chorus. On Tuesday The Daughter of the Regiment, and on Wednesday The Bohemian Girl were given.

GATESHEAD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. M. S. Hammond; General-Manager, Mr. Joe May.—The heartiest welcome awaits Miss Rose Elliott, who pays a return visit, and once again delights her hearers with some excellent singing; Fred Curran, an eccentric comedian in the true sense of the term, makes a huge hit with his parody songs, and Mr. V. L. Granville, who impersonates characters from famous plays, meets with much appreciation. The Monte Carlo Girls, a sextette of vocalists and dancers, are very pleasing; Almonds is an acrobat of considerable ability; and the Jalvans are seen in an amusing juggling act. The Original Cecilias appear to advantage as instrumentalists; and Arthur Croxon is an accomplished humorous entertainer. Baby Jackson is one of the smartest child artists ever seen here; Blanche Marion, comedienne, completes the "bill."

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Taro Myaki, the world's champion ju-jitsu wrestler, is drawing large audiences to this house; Cullen and Carthy, assisted by Little Cluley, cause roars of laughter; and Lambert and Hands are an excellent pair of duettists. Salida and Vone are expert rag-time dancers, and the following complete the show: Commemara, comedienne; Alec Thomas, comedy artist; Sid Arnold, boy instrumentalist and vocalist; and Downey's pictures.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—Messrs. Beaudyn, Livesey, and Hardy's company is appearing here in the drama, The Days of Cromwell. Mr. Henry Belding as Ironhand is the central figure, and his exposition is deserving of the highest praise. Mr. Robertson Foulis portrays Sir Matthew Mordyke with much force, and receives able support from Mr. Howard Hardy, who distinguishes himself as Matthew Mordyke, jun. Mr. Jack C. Gray is a dashing Walter Clifford, and Mr. Herbert Melton makes up well as Oliver Cromwell. Messrs. G. Harvie and Harry C. Momber prove clever in comedy parts, and excellent support in this department comes from Messrs. Tom Bustin and Arthur Mewburn. Miss Gertrude Gilman is a sweet Ruby Avondale, and Miss Cissie Colford as Judith is seen to advantage. Miss Annie Clum as Betsy is the cause of much merriment.

GLASGOW.—KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—An entertaining programme is submitted this week by Mrs. Alice Chapin's triple bill company. A start is made with the one-act drama, Shame, in which the part of the injured woman is touchingly played by the author, Mrs. Chapin, the other two characters being capitally represented by Messrs. Harry Welchman and Harold Chapin. The amusing farcical comedy, Faithful James, is the centre piece, the title-rôle being admirably filled by Mr. Frederick Park; the Admiral Vincent of Mr. W. Butler is a fine conception; as the husbands, Duncan and Melville, Mr. Harold Chapin and Mr. Harry Welchman act with a deal of spirit; while their respective wives are handsomely portrayed by Misses Paula Fernan and Winsome Etherington. The concluding item, A Pantomime Rehearsal, reveals Mr. Harry Welchman (Jack Deedes) as a singer and accompanist of more than average ability, and also shows the singing and dancing talent of Miss Dorothy Firmin and Miss Paula Fernan; three characteristic and amusing studies are seen in the Grandison of Mr. W. Butler, the Lord Pomeroy of Mr. Frederick Park, and the Captain Robinson of Harold Chapin; while the lady amateurs are ably represented by Miss Elsie and Mrs. Chapin, and Miss Winsome Etherington.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—A London Actress is visiting here, and is ably interpreted to well filled houses by Miss Emma Litchfield's company. Sergeant-Major Crawford is played in manly style by Mr. Stuart Cleveland, and Miss Emma Litchfield displays real ability as Hilda Mannering. Mr. Richard Vane and Mr. John Worth do ample justice to their parts, the former as Lieut. Kingston, and the latter as Capt. Mannering. Miss Maud Steeples does good work as Phyllis Crawford, and Mr. George H. Doyle is very successful as Moses Mendoza. The humorous element is in no wise neglected, and Mr. John Hitchen (Pat Maloney) and Miss Frances Ferina (Rose Blythe) make the most of their opportunities. The part of Biddy Maloney is well looked after by Miss Nellie Fern.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Limited; District-Manager, S. Gething; Acting-Manager, Chas. Mussett.—There is a capital company here for the Fair holiday week. The Ten Loonies get a good reception for their clever and intensely funny musical entertainment; Sam Redfern scores in a smart turn, and provokes much laughter by his quaint songs and queer sayings; Ina Lorimer is a juvenile artist of great promise; the marvellous training of a troupe of cats, presented by Claire Beasy, elicited admiration and much applause; Carlisle and Walker are seen to advantage in a short comedy sketch; Alice Lloyd sings catchy songs charmingly; Les Bastiens, father and son, bring a touch of humour to bear on a neat display as acrobats and balancers; the McNaughtons once more convulse Empire patrons with their patter and burlesque wrestling and boxing acts; while the Deane Tribune Trio are very amusing. The Bioscope pictures are distinctly fine.

ZOO HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Raku, of Ju-Jitsu fame, is here this week, and has had some exciting bouts with local exponents of European wrestling; Harrison Brocklebank, assisted by Miss Florence Parfrey and Messrs. Michael Dwyer and R. H. Drysdale, appear with good effect in the striking musical episode, The Freebooter; a notable hit is made by the Howard Bros. with their brilliant banjo playing; the Folkstones get a deal of fun out of the sketch, Swimming the Channel; a capital reception is given Harold Thorley for his artistic rendering of Kipling songs; J. P. Ling, the famous mimic, keeps the audience in good humour; MacGovan and MacGovan, the clever lady vocalists and dancers; Will Polnski, jun., comedian; and Marie Weston, comedienne, also contribute to a bright and pleasing entertainment.

PAVILION.—Proprietors, Glasgow Pavilion, Ltd.; General-Manager, Samuel Lloyd.—Owing to her great success, Miss Rose Stahl and her company are re-engaged this week, and they are again very successful in The Chorus Lady; the Four Madcaps give a series of well executed dances; the varied and clever performance by the Musical Schafers is a pleasing and enjoyable item; Mr. Geo. Martinengo is as good as ever as a 'cello player, and he sings baritone songs in a cultured manner; Mr. W. H. Downs, coloured vocalist, gives several well-chosen ballads; the coon element is realistically depicted by Mr. T. E. Finglas, and more variety is imparted by a humorous ventriloquial display by Gillin, both artists being welcome. Mr. Marcus Boyle is a capable singer of comedy songs, and F. de Marco excels as a trainer of animals, including baboons, dogs, and ponies.

GRAVESEND.—GRAND THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD. — General Manager, Mr. David Hart. — For this week Jack and Evelyn have been specially engaged and have been performing with great success their act of the period, Come Into the Office; Lily Black, comedian; and Tom Collins, character comedian, have both done extremely well. Hector and Paulus are funny acrobats; Beattie Kent is a bright comedienne; and Fred Herbert a clever topical vocalist; Cauliflower Joe, a comedy sketch presented by Walter Purvis and company, has been giving much amusement.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace, interpreted by Mr. Thomas Mackenzie's strong company, is attracting full houses this week. Mr. Yorke Stephens as Captain Mowbray depicts the chivalrous man of the world with admirable effect; Mr. Maitland Dicker as Colonel Jardine is natural and amusing; Lieutenant David Cairn is ably played by Mr. W. Brisco Owen; and Jernignan the detective is well represented by Mr. Reginald Walter; Miss Marie Illington is delightful as Mrs. Jardine; Miss May Webb is sympathetic as Isabel Kirk; Miss Isabel Fladgate is bright and winsome as Vicky; and Miss Frances Vine enacts the rôle of the vain and frivolous Mrs. Gorringe with complete success.

BRITANNIA PIER PAVILION.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—The Vernon Troupe, xylophone experts, are this week scoring successfully. Gus Barra, musical motorist, gives a smart musical act, and his antics call forth much merriment; the Athlones, athletes, in classical poses and gymnastic act; W. H. Gatty, descriptive vocalist; Miss Cissie Sinclare, dainty singer; Miss Mabelle May, terpsichorean expert and vocalist; and Witty Watty Walton, comedian, who makes a distinct success, are also on the programme. Madame H. E. Anglers Ladies' Pompadour Band, play a capital programme of music twice daily.

WELLINGTON PIER PAVILION. — Proprietors, Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—The Scarlet Mr. E.'s and their jester, Mr. Walter Dowling, are providing an excellent programme of mirth and melody this week. In addition, there is Banning, the human mystery; Mr. Vivian Vivian, the well-known character actor, and M. Rafalewski, the eminent pianist and violinist.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert.—A capital programme is again provided here. The Jackson Family win enthusiastic applause for their musical entertainment; Mozzetto juggles dexterously, the Wynford Bros. prove themselves wonderful jumpers, and the Cumberlands give one of the cleverest acrobatic cycling turns ever seen in Yarmouth. Other artists appearing are the Andreassen Bros., the original Danish midshipmen; Bros. Carr, equilibrists; Handy Andy, comedian; and James Humel and Miss Florrie Humel, equestrians.

GRIMSBY.—PRINCE OF WALES'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. H. Curry; Assistant-Manager, Mr. Sydney Tolfree. Three plays of historic interest have been staged this week by Mr. John F. Preston's repertoire company. The ever-popular Lady Godiva opened the week, with Miss Ethel Griffies in the principal character; her conception of the noble wife of Earl Leoffric delighted all, whilst Mr. F. B. Woulfe, as Peeping Tom, aroused great enthusiasm. Lady Godiva was repeated on Wednesday and Saturday, whilst Nell Gwynne was the attraction on Tuesday and Thursday. Mr. F. B. Woulfe appeared as Charles II., and Nell was played by Miss Griffies. In addition to Nell Gwynne on Thursday, there was a midnight performance of the farcical comedy Jane. This was held in connection with the double celebrations of the opening of King's Parade at Cleethorpes and the commencement of a new deep-water dock at Grimsby. On the remaining evening, Jane Shore was played, with Miss Griffies and Mr. Woulfe in the principal characters. Others who have taken prominent parts in the various plays are: Miss Catherine Brook, Miss Edith Lorraine, Miss Sarah Wheatman, Mr. Bob Anderson, Mr. Howard Barlow, Mr. James Duncan, Mr. Ernest Hamilton, Mr. Leslie Lingham, and Mr. Hardy Mucro.

THE PALACE. — Managing-Director, Mr. T. A. Edwards; Resident-Manager, Mr. T. W. Moyes; Assistant-Manager, Mr. A. V. Allton. — Much interest was taken in the appearance of De Gracia's elephants, a troupe of remarkably intelligent and well-trained animals; their representation of a barber's shop was very laughable, and the display of elephantine cricket showed new possibilities in the summer pastime. A very charming entertainment was given by Marie Santoi's merry little Japs, the turn comprising pretty dancing and tuneful songs and choruses. Ada Marjutti, in presenting a series of artistic poses, justified her claim to the title of The Flexible Venus. The programme also included a sketch, Husbands, Beware! given by Frances Ferina and J. Hitchins, whilst Alf Levarni gave a smart performance on the wire, Marti and Julietta displayed skill as pyramid artists. Nat Watkins sang amusing songs, and the Sisters Daventry contributed pleasing duets.

THE EMPIRE, CLEETHORPES.—Proprietor, Mr. J. Carter-White; Manager, Mr. W. Baker.—Sybil Moon's Cadets have given a bright entertainment, including very smart dancing, and the turn was deservedly popular. The speciality, "The Old Brown Cow," by Burg, Haud and Wise, proved a piece of capital burlesque, many novel effects being introduced. As equilibrists the Seymon's Trio have given evidence of considerable skill, the ball juggling of a young member being especially good. Flo Warner was well received, her songs being given in pleasing style, whilst Andy Fagan contributed amusing representations of Irish humour, Vasey and Ramsey gave excellent step dances. Whirlo, the cycling monkey, performed in novel fashion, and Cissy Paris, a dainty comedienne, exhibited much originality.

GUERNSEY.—ST. JULIAN'S HALL.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robt. Perkins.—This hall re-opened on the 6th inst. with Little Mary, ably interpreted by Mr. Walter Maxwell's company. Moira Loney, in the capable hands of Miss Christine Silver, was especially interesting; Miss Madge Murray distinguished herself as Eleanor Gray; and Milly was very creditably enacted by Miss M. Nybloc; Mr. Ben Field did excellent service as the Earl of Carlton; Mr. Arthur Kightley as Lord Rolfe and Mr. G. Malvern as Sir Jennings were both admirably cast.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—This week Jacques Inandi occupies the leading position in the programme, and his remarkable elucidation of mathematical problems are astounding, while his memory never fails him as to dates of events. An excellent little sketch is Heart Strings, which wins unstinted applause. The Three Laurels are renowned for their clever acrobatic feats. Clown Barker's dogs, donkey, and pony are admirably trained to perfection. Mlle. Renee provides a musical treat in an entirely original drawing-room monologue; while the singing and dancing of Smith and Johnson, coloured minstrels, is well above the average. The Fitzroys and whimsical Chas. Russell are as good as ever.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edward Harrison.—A good turn here is presented by Kean and Waller. Their equilibrium business is very clever, and is interspersed with some refreshing humour. Fyne and Hurley are making a welcome re-appearance with their scena, The Coster and the Duke, which has been revised since the last visit. Daisy Jerome contributes some very humorous songs. Others appearing in a good bill are: Delairies, gymnasts; the Elgars, society entertainers; Geo. Bendon, the White Coon; Molly Doon, comedienne; Kisbey, in a speciality act; and the fascinating Ada Spencer, in imitations.

HANLEY.—GRAND, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. Elphinstone; Manager, Mr. Alfred Edwardes.—Casey's Court heads the bill this week, and the performance, consisting of singing, acting, ventriloquism illusions, &c., is exceedingly entertaining. The Westwoods in their clever and daring cycle performance are much appreciated; Gray and Welford return, and are, as usual, a huge success; Dora Lyric sings two songs in an admirable manner; the Sisters Lunelle are a smart pair, their dancing being quite a feature; the Alans are musicians of much ability; Mike Gray causes roars of laughter in his comedy juggling act; the dog which he introduces is well trained; Urbanora shows some excellent pictures.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Fielding Smith.—That popular farce Facing the Music, presented by Mr. Chas. Windermere's company, is here again. Mr. Windermere plays the "other Mr. Smith" well; Mr. Norris Mathews is seen as the Rev. John Smith; Mr. Wentworth is an excellent Dick Desmond; Miss Clare Manifield scores as Mabel; Miss Zoe Davis is well placed as Nora; Miss Shelley is very good as Mrs. Ponting the housekeeper; Miss Leslie as Miss Fotheringay; Mr. Henry Nelson as Sergt. Duffell, are both worthy of mention. Facing the Music was preceded by The Bookworm. The latter half of the week the stage was occupied by Miss Esmond's company in The Sorrows of Satan.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—This house reopened on Monday evening, much having been done during the annual recess to brighten the pleasant house. Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company in The Still Alarm provided a capital entertainment. The engine-house scene in the third act proved very effective, and really excellent singing was contributed by a vocal quartet of firemen (the Lyric Comedy Four). Miss Maud Warburton acted with much feeling as Elinor Fordham, and Miss Hettie Zillwood was a bright and pleasing Carie Wilber. Mr. M. H. Glenville played effectively as Jack Manley. The Doc Wilber of Mr. Fred Osmond was highly realistic, and Mr. Cecil du Gue proved very capable as John Bird.

HIPPODROME. — Resident and General Manager, Mr. Albert Mathams. — Mr. Ted Cowan, the eccentric comedian, heads the programme here; Mr. Robert Beevers introduces amusing pictures as adjuncts to some original and interesting songs; the comic effusions of Tomps and Wells are much enjoyed; Miss Flo Deighton, an attractive comedienne, possesses a voice of remarkable compass; the films of the Hippodrome Bioscope are quite up to date; the Seven Wolfrunas are successful with their laughable sketch Fun in a Café; the Dunlops introduce some clever acrobatic balancing; in their burlesque comedy Goodfellow and Gregson achieve a decided success; Percy Houri, a clever musician, contributes a very interesting turn in Concordia;. A chorus of ballet girls assist, and some graceful dancing is seen.

HASTINGS PROMENADE PIER.—Pier Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. W. Hunter.—A varied entertainment opens with a sparkling vaudeville entitled Why Don't You Marry? in which Mr. J. D. Hunter in the part of Gratz Tiec contrives to bring its diverting qualities into strong relief; Mr. George Mudie, jun., is no less happy in the character of Corporal Max; whilst his sister Lizette, taken by Miss Blanche Bayley, could scarcely be more delightfully played. Picett and Lizette highly amuse in a clever illusionary extravaganza entitled The Crazy Cook; the Smart Set Entertainers, under the direction of Mr. Walter George, go through a humorous and interesting programme. The artists associated with Mr. Walter George are Miss Lena Hutchings, soprano; Miss Ethel Wilford, elocutionist; Miss Hilda Light, vocalist; Miss George Martin, comedienne; Mr. Arthur Court, tenor; Mr. Chas. F. Howard, bass; and Mr. Herbert Oliver, solo pianist and accompanist.

"THE DONS AND THE DUNCE" provide an amusing entertainment on the Hastings Pier Promenade two or three times daily. Mr. Joe Cookson, a novel and clever ventriloquist; Mr. Reuben More, comedian and elocutionist; Mr. Jack McLaren, comedian; Mr. Will Ellerslie, the popular Dunce; Miss Margery Lyton, entertainer; and Miss Maud Gerrard, vocalist and accompanist, also contribute to the entertainment.

BEACH CONCERT PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. Geo. Blackmore.—Mr. Wallis Arthur's company here attracts enthusiastic audiences, who thoroughly appreciate the clean comic songs and patter contributed by Messrs. G. Blackmore and James M. Campbell; Miss Winnie Harbor is a vivacious comedienne; and the ballad-singing of Miss Ada Gackill and Mr. Llewellyn Davies is much enjoyed.

A troupe of talented comedians and vocalists under the title of the Happy Valley Pierrots are giving al-fresco concerts here daily on the beach. In characteristic costumes, the bright and taking songs and selections prove very attractive. The company consists of Mr. J. Stock-Kershaw, pianist and composer; Messrs. Charles Comfrey and Harry Loftus, comedians; Mr. Scot Rae, a Scottish tenor; Mr. James McLeod, baritone; Miss Lye Jeffries, a pleasing soprano; and Mr. Le Hurst, who as a ventriloquist introduces in a smart conversational manner a juvenile knee pierrot figure.

ST. LEONARDS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master and Entertainment Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—A light comedy musical sketch entitled The Sabots is being produced here this week by Mr. Ivimey and a capable company of singers and dancers. Mr. Ivimey is responsible for the humorous part of the programme, and is associated with Mr. George Curzon, baritone; Miss Lorence Moore, mezzo-soprano; Mr. Walter Walters; Miss Clara Stroud Wilson, soprano; and Miss Gwenllian Lewis, contralto.

HUDDERSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—The turns appearing here are George Leyton, with his effective new scena entitled Nelson's Name; Natalie and Diana, clever young gymnasts; Viviana, expert dancer; Harry Maynard, light comedian; Tamamoto, Japanese performer on the slack wire and perpendicular rope; Les Voces, operatic vocalists; Pasquali Brothers, a couple of smart and daring hand-balancers; Ernie Myers, comedian; Miss Lily Lonsdale, a ballad singer with a pleasing voice; and the Five Olracs, acrobatic comedians.

HULL. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—Mr. Arthur Holmes Gore, associated with a capital comedy company, is responsible for a large amount of the fun to be found in the farcical comedy Too Many Cooks. Mr. Gore makes the rôle of Arthur Winton a conspicuous success, whilst Mr. Chas. E. Dering is a capital fire-eating Major Brasket; Mr. Willis Searle hits off amateur-detective Bimbleby with skill. As Dora, Miss Lilian Rogers is well suited; the Georgina of Miss Hilda Fairfax being also a pleasing contribution. The curtain-raiser, The Fatal Stocking, from the pen of Mr. Gore, is highly amusing.

GRAND THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Hart; Resident-Manager, Mr. Wynn Miller.—Mr. Fred. Kirke's company In Old Madrid brings the summer season to a conclusion. The entertainment they provide is light, and of not too exacting a nature; the music is pleasing, the dances dainty. There is woven through the production a web of romance that cannot fail to please. Mr. Fred Kirke achieves success in the rôle of Count Corregillo; Miss Annie Brunette has a capital part as Violet Lyndhurst. The comic element is safe in the keeping of Mr. Lorimer Stuart.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Morton's, Ltd.; General Manager, Mr. George Morton.—In that striking drama The Two Hussars Mr. Morton has evidently hit the taste of his audience. As the heroine, Ellen Maythorne, Miss Saidie Smith scores heavily, especially when, disguised as a man, she follows her lover to the war. Mr. Fred Webb plays the villain with sufficient force to arouse the anger of the gods. In the comic rôle Mr. George Paradise is good as Sergeant McFinnie. The hero, Harry Alford, is safe in the hands of Mr. Wilson Benge. Mention should also be made of the clever comedy couple, Mr. Louis Nanton, as Robert Runn, and Miss Lallah Price as Molly Cutts.

THE PALACE. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Jno. S. Barnett. — Cinquevalli, the incomparable juggler, gets a great share of popularity for his clever tricks; the Hadj Abdullah troupe of Arabs are very smart as acrobats and pyramid builders; J. W. Rickaby causes much amusement in some cleverly rendered songs; Dot Hardy is a young lady of much merit; and Marie Reeve, a big favourite panto artist, comes in for a good reception; Harrigan and Holt are comedy artists of ability; and Edith Courtney, Die Oberstelrers, and Carrie Laurie's Kindergarten complete an excellent bill.

THE HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham; Manager, Mr. R. L. Griffiths.—Dou Bank tops the bill in a weird performance; Barmaids, presented by Hodgson and company, comes in for much hearty laughter; Frank Crisp, an agreeable baritone vocalist, and Margaret Radcliffe, a refined vocalist; Charles Ulrick, the Barrel King; Harry Pleon, comedian; and Tiny Arnold, a smart young lady artist, all contribute towards a capital entertainment.

ILKESTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—For the last week of their visit the stock company of Mr. Louis Cohn are playing The Octoroon and The Ticket of Leave Man, Friday evening being set apart for a complimentary benefit to Mr. Cohn. The Octoroon was played on opening night, Miss Gwendoline Thorpe achieving marked success in the title rôle. Mr. E. Bulwer Pitt presented a fine reading of Salem Scudder, and as George Peyton Mr. Reginald Hargreaves was a capital representative. The part of the Indian Wah-No-Tee was admirably taken by Mr. George Steel. The Misses E. Turner Elliott and Lesley Wynne were well chosen for Dora Sunnyside and Mrs. Peyton; Mrs. Clement Wakefield as Pete and Miss Lizzie Jacques as Paul were acquisitions to the cast. Mr. Cohn himself gave a good impersonation of Colonel Pointdexter, and Mr. Chas. D. Pitt exhibited some excellent acting as Jacob McClosky.

IPSWICH. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—This week's programme contains some novel and pleasing items. The Brothers Zampah, one-legged athletes, claim to be champion chair jumpers, and also execute some marvellous feats of strength; John Terry and Mabel Lambert present humorous character delineations successfully; Charles Vincent renders a medley of popular songs, and Lilian Elfrida's impersonations of London stars are very clever. Other turns include Clark's Nippers, who give an exhibition of boxing, ball punching, and step dancing, which evoked much applause; Takio, a talented Japanese mimic; Tray and Rich, black-and-white comedians, whose patter is very funny; an amusing sketch by Edgar Forest's Company, and the Hippodrome pictures.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robert Perkins.—Messrs. Fred J. Little and Fred Darcy's company is here in the pantomime burlesque, Sinbad's Adventures. Mr. A. E. Mann is amusing as Mrs. Sinbad, Mr. Fred Dobits is good as Rum Phiz, the Emperor, and Mr. Sydney Russell gives a breezy interpretation of the Captain of the "Mary Jane"; Mr. Fred J. Little introduces several musical novelties; Mr. George Rapley, as Sinbad, evokes roars of laughter; Messrs. Bass and Guinness, as Baccah and Sloppah, help to keep the fun going; Miss Louie Adair is a sprightly Sinbad, with a pleasing voice; Miss Nellie Moore as Zorilda is fairy-like and graceful in her dance; Miss Flora Buxton is successful as the Princess. The burlesque is exceedingly well staged.

TRIANGLE PARK.—That popular troupe, the Royal Comedy Entertainers, conclude their engagement this week, the special attraction being Mr. Charles Rex King, the modern marvel.

ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—Mr. Clifford Essex's troupe of pierrots opened on Monday a three weeks' season. Miss Ella Barkley, A.R.A.M., Miss Frances Roscorla, the dainty comedienne, Mr. Fred. Rome, Mr. Joe Morley, and Mr. Langford Kirby, with Mr. Clifford Essex, give a good all-round show.

KEIGHLEY. — QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall; General-Manager, Mr. R. Kendall.—Among the excellent items here this week are The Welfords, whose herculean equilibrist act is decidedly clever; Henderson, in his musical performance wins lond applause, and is recalled nightly; the Three Coopers provide a good turn; Mr. Oliver Conroy, comedian, is the source of much amusement. The sketch, Turtle Doves, is presented nightly by Mr. George de Gray and Co.; Mr. Richard Nugent's hercules pigeon is brimful of fun; capital pictures are displayed on the Queen's Bioscope.

LEEDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—The Insurgent Chief is the attraction here this week. Mr. Robert Faulkner depicts the warlike chief Michael Dwyer with power and conviction; and admirable assistance is forthcoming in a fine and effective personation of Captain Carr by Mr. Dan Clark. Mr. Henry Forrest and Mr. Harry Richardson have each a big part to play, and both secure generous appreciation; whilst in leading feminine parts Miss Cecilia Dare and Miss Madeline Hurst deserve high praise for special good work.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. Bush.—Messrs. Phelps and Tilbury's company is presenting here The Blind Foundling in good style. Mr. Chas. H. Phelps is very strong as the artist down on his luck Gerald Dalton; Mr. Frank Harvey secures the approval of his audience by an excellent personation of Parson Ray; the adventurer Mark Redman is effectively portrayed by Mr. Alfred G. Fry; Jasper Waterford is carefully embodied by Mr. Bernard Webb; some acceptable comedy is carefully dispensed by Mr. Harry Tilbury and Miss Millie Doris; the Viola Waterford of Miss Amy Dalby is a sympathetic and praise-winning effort; the name-part is cleverly done by Miss Mabel Hall; and Miss Belle Tilbury depicts the important rôle of Isabel with distinction.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District-Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Resident-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—A visit from the Scotch comedian Neil Kenyon is a big drawing card in the week's Empire bill, for his clever methods and sparkling humour have moved his audience to uncontrollable mirth at every appearance; Herman Melot with a remarkable conjuring show adds more laurels to an established reputation; the Norman-Leonard troupe are popular in a musical speciality; Brown and Robinson again score heavily in a clever vocal scena; Nelson's Newsboys prove smart juvenile entertainers; the Russian Imperial troupe display agility in specialty dancing; Ancillotto introduces his marvellous thought-reading canine; the Seddons are doing exceedingly well in a comic juggling act; and Grace Merton, popular vocalist, adds her quota to a most enjoyable programme.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—Fred Cary leads the way here with excellent comedy contributions, and A. Stacey is also successful in a similar line. The novel performance by Haydee's Mannikins proves very enjoyable; a comedy act by Gold and Sterling meets with approval, and the eccentricities of Stave, electric comedy artist, arouse great merriment. A clever and graceful acrobatic act by Forest and King evokes enthusiasm, and genuine enjoyment is also derived from the contributions of Leah Arden, operatic vocalist; Bennett and Martell, eccentric comedians; and Little Don, juvenile vocalist.

LEICESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—The musical comedy drama entitled At the World's Mercy, presented by Mr. Carr Loates's company, holds the boards here this week. Mr. W. G. Irving as Captain Frank Manley and Miss Isabel Singleton as Alice Lloyd are both very successful; and Mr. Carr Loates is seen to advantage as the Jew, Morris Goldstein. Mr. H. Evan Gibbon as Charles Smart and Miss Cissie Milford as Kitty Knott give popular and amusing portrayals of the comedy parts. Miss Minnie Dallow makes a capital Rosie; Mr. Arthur L. Read does well as Jabez Barber; and Miss Jennie Gilmour as Mrs. Rourke is also to be complimented. Little Daisy is praiseworthy as Dot. Specialities are introduced by Miss Cissie Milford, Mr. H. Evan Gibbon, Little Daisy, Miss Molly Bee, Mr. Leo Rodway, and Miss Minnie Dallow, which prove acceptable.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Andrews. — At this beautiful theatre, which the courteous manager keeps delightfully cool these hot summer evenings, novelty succeeds novelty in rapid succession, and the principal attraction this week, which is provided by Fred Karno's latest creation, entitled Moses and Sons, calls for nothing but the highest praise. The staging and dressing are a feature, and the company engaged is a particularly capable one. A great favourite here, Mr. Fred Kitchen, makes a conspicuous success as Perkins, infusing into the part an amount of humour which keeps the audience in the merriest of moods. Others in the cast are Miss Leah Morris, Miss Janet Reeve, Miss Madge Rockingham, Mr. Herbert Landeck, and Mr. Anthony Gordon. At the bottom of the bill is Josh Dixon, a comedian who resembles the late Dan Leno in style, and who succeeds with his patter, songs, and clever dancing in making himself a favourite. A fine exhibition on the wire is given by the Cole de Losse Duo, which has also the merit of being very funny. Flem and Brok, aerial pugilists, evoke laughter; the Stella troupe of lady dancers and singers are well to the front with a pretty and neat turn; Baker and Balfe are extremely clever xylophone players, and the male partner also does a clever dance; Charles Austin is an eccentric comedian who scores a success; the American Bioscope, always a popular feature here, is depicting scenes of the King's visit to the "Royal" at Derby.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—Carlotta De Yonson and here dramatic combination are again, after a week's absence, the principal attraction, and are presenting the sensational dramatic sketch The Dandy Detective and the amusing sketch Playing the Game, the various characters in both being played in good style by Carlotta De Yonson, Mr. C. Douglas Carlile, Mr. Charles A. Carlile, and Lee Gilbert. The variety portion is contributed to by Frank Cumminger, the remarkably clever sand dancer; Madge Northcote, a delightful soprano vocalist; Rozel, in his sensational performance on the rope; E. W. Selman, a funny eccentric comedian; Ivy Gallard, comedienne and dancer; and Walter H. Pallister's Bioscope, with the usual entertaining pictures.

PIERROT PAVILION.—Proprietors, Messrs. Abell, Johnson, and Unsworth.—The Bohemians continue to give bright and attractive entertainments here, which are of a thoroughly diversified character, and af dian; Ernest Hildred, an excellent baritone vocalist; Edith May, a favourite comedienne; Bert Wallace, an amusing comedian; Alf. Unsworth, a first-rate pianist and musical director; and the Bohemian Glee Singers.

LIVERPOOL.—ROTUNDA THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.—Man's Enemy; or, the Downward Path, is the attraction here this week, being presented by Mr. John Power's company. The part of Harry Stanton is entrusted to the good keeping of Mr. Francis Everard, who plays with much dramatic power; Mr. J. Newton-Cowling makes a villainous Jew, Isaac Barnett; Miss Edith Leslie is a sweet Grace Lisle, and contributes a couple of capital songs; Mr. John Power gives a fine rendering of Tom Drake; a deal of amusement is caused by Miss Clara Reid as Polly Harris; Miss Marie Lyons portrays the unscrupulous Sarah Drake with powerful effect; Mr. G. Beresford affords satisfaction as Bill Saunders; Miss Linn Darlington makes an excellent Mrs. Saunders; and Mr. F. Denne Mead is well placed as Fred Lisle. The scenic effects are excellent.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs T. Barrasford and F. Willmot; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—Arnold Bell and company, in the dramatic sketch, A Sightless Witness, top the bill, and are deservedly applauded. Zeta Grey and company prove themselves to be well adapted for musical and comedy sketches, and their Lancashire Lass is greatly enjoyed. The Indento Brothers create much laughter with their comedy juggling; as juvenile vocalists and dancers Boden and Bell delight the audience; Will Llyton is the cause of a deal of merriment; and Edie Lindon is a pleasing comedienne.

STAR THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—The Rich and Poor of London is here this week, played by Mr. Sidney Dench's company. As May Braithwaite, Miss Dora Dench acts with discretion and feeling; Mr. Dench, as Spider Jack, and Miss Molly Hackett, in the part of Polly Philpot, create endless laughter; Miss Emily Woodleigh presents a finished type of baby-farmer in Auntie Scrimp; Master Bert Dench gives an intelligent rendering of the youthful part of Dixie; Mr. I. Templar Ellis affords every satisfaction as the rascally lawyer Grabbam; Mr. F. Danner plays well as Earl Ravenswood; and Miss Violet Lytton is an excellent Ruby Redgrave.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lingford Carson; Manager, Mr. Fred L. Arthur.—Another drama new to Liverpool has this week been presented here under the title of The King's Secret, the company responsible being brought by Mr. James Stillwell. It is a work full of intense interest, and has been much appreciated, while the mounting is a special feature. Miss Zana St. George, who wears several charming dresses, has the important part of Zenopa, an Egyptian adventuress, and shows a high degree of dramatic ability; Mr. Stillwell's rôle of Captain Fairburn is marked with a true manly spirit; Miss Katharine Barnett, as his wife, displays much earnestness; satisfaction is afforded by Mr. Edward Fryer, who enacts Hassan Alfar; the Count Bernstein of Mr. Robert Bentone is carefully drawn; Mr. Paul E. Teulon makes a spirited, rollicking Boatswain Jack; as the Yankee Newark, Mr. Robert A. Earl is diverting; and Mr. Charles Crosby is eminently successful as Lawyer Swiverton. Praise is also due to little Marie Pardy for her intelligent rendering of the part of Charlie; and to Miss Kitty McPherson for her Star Newark.

THE EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.—The favourite Ernest Shand is top of the bill here this week, his amusing songs being keenly appreciated; Datas again shows his remarkable powers of memory in answering some "stiff" queries; Galletti's monkeys go through some smart tricks; the ever lively Lily Langtry is as delightful as ever; Russell Wallett's performance proves as acceptable as when first given; Frank Elliston and company have a laughable farce, Aunt Matilda; the drollery of Tom Woottwell is most enjoyable; and also in the programme are Guy Ryder, whistler; Warsaw Bros., musical comedians; Mignonette Kokin, American soubrette; and the Raies, dancers.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—Foremost here this week is Mr. Ernest Leicester and company, with Arthur Shirley's dramatic episode, The Galley Slave, which is well presented. Heeley and Meely, as the eccentric tramps, provide a large amount of fun; Picton Roxborough and Fanny Wright have a most amusing trifle, entitled Cockie; the Bensons, local favourites, submit a smart comedy and dancing act; Edie Gray and her white coons have several harmonious and pretty songs; Harry Thurston displays much ability in his imitations of popular comedians; Rose Harvey, charmingly attired, has a most acceptable scena, entitled Black and White, into which she introduces several sweet songs; the original Arleys, comprising a lady, two gentlemen, and three dogs, have an interesting little entertainment; and others in the list are Vincent, acrobatic table expert; and Bert Brantford, comedian.

NEW PARTHENON. — Proprietor, Mr. Edwin W. Smith.—The interesting series of moving pictures recently introduced here are continued with gratifying success. Among the variety artists, who give turns at intervals, are the wonderful Violas, a talented couple, whose mental telegraphy is neatly and skilfully executed; Dot Pardy, a wee comedienne, who is much appreciated; and the mysterious Cardo.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—The "Royal" stock company are presenting the eight tableaux sketch, Why Woman Sins. Mr. Percy Boucher creates a deal of fun with his Sam Spavins; Mr. Harry Tresham has the popular part of Lieut. Maxwell; Mr. Sydney Grant presents an able Captain Carlton; Mr. John Burton plays with his customary ability the rôle of Oliver Desmond; Miss Nina Nazeby makes an admirable Ida Valette; and Miss Florence Palmer acts sweetly as Nell Desmond.

HAYMARKET. — Lessee, Mr. Fred Willmot. — The greater part of the evening's entertainment here this week is furnished by a capital series of moving pictures, which are much enjoyed. Included in the variety programme are Matt Wilkinson and company, with their laughable absurdity, The Registry Office, which proves extremely popular; Edward Ind has some excellent character songs; the musical act of Henriette is smart and pleasing; and Violet Beatrice is a dainty comedienne.

WESTMINSTER. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—A capital evening's amusement is being provided at this popular hall this week by means of a long and delightful series of moving pictures. Several turns are also given by talented variety artists.

OLYMPIA, LTD.—Manager, Mr. A. W. Young.—The treat they supply has been so highly appreciated that the Boissetts have put in a third week. A Trip to the Continent, in which nearly twenty smart comedians take part, has been regarded as one of the funniest things seen on the stage for some time. The rest of the bill is particularly strong. Binns and Binns, the comedy musicians, are as humorous as they are capable in the manipulation of their instruments; the performance of Belloni's cockatoos is watched with interest; a hearty reception is accorded to Harry Weldon, the swell comedian, whose humorous songs and witty sayings are largely enjoyed; the popular comedy artists, Spry and Monti, are as excellent as ever; Francis, with his clever handling of the cannon ball, comes in for much appreciation; Ruby Dahl, with her merry mannikins, proves an admirable turn; Odeyne Spark is a delightful comedienne and dancer; and Alcide Capitaine also appears.

REYNOLDS'S EXHIBITION. — This old-established place of entertainment still commands a large share of public patronage, particularly during the present holiday season. Among the latest attractions Mr. Charles Reynolds offers are some splendid cinématograph views of the Spanish wedding and the Warwick pageant.

LLANDUDNO. — PRINCE'S THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. R. Chaplin; Musical Director, Mr. Jess Holroyd.—A high-class variety company is the attraction here this week. Mr. J. H. Milburn, comedian, scores heavily, having the house convulsed with laughter time after time; Miss Lottie Bray is exceptionally good in song, dance, and banjo playing; and hearty commendation may also be given to the Three Pescadores on the flying rings. La Superb displays great cleverness as a dancer and acrobat; Miss Madge Osmonde as a male impersonator is excellent; the Three Rickards, comedy acrobats, in a Giddy Golfer sketch, are comical, yet withal clever; and the Bros. O'Brien, in their horizontal bar act, are daring and skilful to a degree.

GRAND THEATRE.—Responsible Manager, Mr. A. G. Pugh.—Mr. James Welch and company are appearing in four pieces nightly. Mr. Welch as Jim Crimp and Miss Audrey Ford as Eliza Biff are excellent in Punctured; and in The Lady Burglar, with Mr. G. F. Tully as Darcy Fitzherbert and Miss Estelle Winwood as Honora Macfarlane, sustain their parts exceedingly well. Mr. Welch appears in his irresistible impersonation of Jabez Glover in The Man in the Street; and Mr. G. F. Tully as Philip Adair and Miss Estelle Winwood as Winnie Adair well merited the applause they received. Judged by Appearances again gave Mr. Welch appreciable opportunities of exercising his comedy talents; and Miss Audrey Ford and Mr. Leonard Buttress also appear with every success.

LOWESTOFT. — MARINA. — Managing-Director, Mr. E. A. Smith.—Messrs. Travis Green and Arthur Hinton's company is this week presenting The Sorrows of Satan. Mr. A. Hinton appears successfully as Prince Lucio Rimanez, and Mr. W. Travis Green is equally good as Geoffrey Tempest. Miss Leila Zillwood (who had a complimentary benefit on Thursday) is well placed as Lady Sybil Elton.

HIPPODROME.—Mr. Geo. Gilbert.—The native singers from Jamaica are appearing this week, and new pictures are being shown on the bioscope.

OLYMPIAN GARDENS AND SPARROWS NEST.—The concerts under Mr. Paul Mill in these charming grounds are attracting large and appreciative audiences.

On Claremont Pier an excellent entertainment is provided by the Verdi Concert Party, amongst whom figure C. Mayverne, a good ventriloquist; C. Austing, a very clever and refined humorist, and those well-known dramatic and musical entertainers, Miss Marian Brereton and Mr. Lawrence Derrick, whose humorous duets and musical sketches have proved a big attraction.

MAIDENHEAD.—NORTHWICK HOUSE GROUNDS. —Mr. G. Leone's "White Coons" concert party opened here for the season on Monday to a large and appreciative audience. All the members of the party, which consists of Mr. Ray Travers, Mr. Major Miles, Mr. J. P. Wilfred, Miss Beattie Olna, and Mr. G. Leone, met with a good reception.

MANCHESTER.—ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager. Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Last week's production of East Lynne at the Grand Junction Theatre is transferred here this week with satisfactory results.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Miss Winifred Chalmers's company, including Mr. Henry L. Osmond in the title-rôle, are once more attracting local audiences by their powerful and interesting performance of The Master Criminal. In addition to Mr. Osmond's fine effort, Miss Winifred Chalmers is seen to great advantage as Cecile; Mr. Alexander Haviland acts with convincing energy as Philip Manners; Miss Phyllis Vaughan presents a sympathetic rendering of Mabel, Philip's wife; Mr. Elmon Frith is distinctly successful as Ben Beaudy, the detective; and acceptable humour is provided by Mr. Harry Cooke as Tommy Dale, and by Miss Mabel Tremere as Peggy Perks.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead. —An exciting drama, entitled The Throne of Terror, forms the attraction here. It is played by a clever company, headed by Mr. William J. Miller, who gives a powerful depiction of Robespierre; while Miss Katherine Maude Davies renders excellent assistance in the prominent part of Marguerite Le Roquefort; Mr. Roy Milton and Mr. Frank Fuller are admirable as Captain Eugene de Lisle and the Comte de Roquefort; Miss Ethel Lanyon-Maude is well placed as Victorine; and among others, Mr. Bert Ellis gives a humorous rendering of Joujou. The whole play presents a very good picture of the Reign of Terror, and is interesting throughout.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Berry.—A Bunch of Violets, a favourite play of patrons of this theatre, was presented here on Monday by Mr. George E. Madd's company. An exceedingly good portrayal of Sir Philip Marchant is submitted by Mr. Norman Partridge, and the important rôle of Mrs. Murgatroyd receives full justice from Mrs. T. Greenwood-Croft. A telling depiction of Mark Murgatroyd is to the credit of Mr. Wilson Coleman; Mr. C. W. Spencer misses no opportunity as Jacob Schwartz; Miss Florence Russell-Spiers makes an excellent Lady Marchant; and a very effective piece of work is the Violet of Miss Tessa Myers. The play is preceded by Buckstone's Nan.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter De Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Rhodes Parry.—Something of a development of Ju-jitsu athletics is presented here this week by Apollo "and his pupils," who are endeavouring to instruct the audience in the art of self-defence as practised by the Japanese. Germaine, the American wizard, does some very clever conjuring tricks; Alfred Lester (assisted by Miss Valentine Sidney) appears in an amusing skit, The Scene Shifter's Lament; Ryde and Beaman are accomplished comedy acrobats; Walter Wade gives a capital turn as comedian and mimic; Davis's Black and White Zouaves are seen in a smart exhibition of drill and wall scaling; the Mammon Troupe present their clever speciality, Much Yank up to Date; Bert Byrne, comedian, appears successfully; Duncan and Godfrey score decisively in their coster romance Me and 'Er; and Bijou Russell, coon singer and dancer, is worthily applauded.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—Principal honours are divided here this week between the Casino Comedy Four, excellent humorous singers, and Fred Sinclair and Gracie Whiteford, who present their successful sketch Getting Even. Other capital turns are the Phydoras, grotesque musicians; the Two Madges, juvenile singers and dancers; the Avolos, in the wonderful feats on upright poles; Cooke and Rothert, in a typical American mix-up; George Ridgwell, an excellent baritone; the Sisters Terry, clever comediennes and dancers; and Macdonalds, melody-makers, in a quaint musical act.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—The big turn here this week is provided by Bella and Bijou, a clever and delightful comedy duo, who are received with unstinted approbation. Popular also are May Henderson, the well-known "dusky" comedienne; and the Anartos, who are well described as merry musical mirth-makers. Other excellent turns are Radford and Valentine, in crazy juggling; Ruth Lytton, Scotch comedienne; Ben Albert, a favourite comedian; the Sisters Urma, in sports on the trapeze; the Three Sisters Hayden, in spirited songs; and a couple of items by the choir.

TIVOLI. — Managing-Director, Mr. Chas. A. Wilkes; Acting-Manager, Mr. Arthur B. Wilkes.—A capital programme here includes Edith Helena, the wonderful American vocalist, in popular numbers; Prince Fee Lung, the great Chinese illusionist; Gertrude Moore, vocalist and speciality dancer; Tom Yorke, character comedian; Zaid, in a novel and clever acrobatic speciality; Lizzie Daniels, a popular soubrette; George Brooks, the versatile comedian; Williams and Warden, in duets, dancing, and patter; and Taitbout, a smart Continental mimic.

KING'S, LONGSIGHT.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—Carl Mysto, the handcuff king, is prominent here this week; along with the exceedingly popular Eight Sarnthalers, who make a great success in their national songs and dances. Very good turns are given also by Wallace Muirhead, tenor vocalist; the Wild, Willie, and West Troupe, in The Bounding Navvies; Lil O'Gorman, burlesque artist and dancer; G. H. Charlton, the society conjuror; Adams and Rouss, a smart comedy duo; and Lambert and Robertson in their quaint and interesting sketch of Scottish life.

QUEEN'S PARK HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead. —This week Jordison's Eight Dancing Dotts head the bill in a smart and effective act; Mons. and Mme. Henri give a good gymnastic exhibition; the Davenports contribute a marvellous series of illusions; Kiaro shows himself exceedingly supple and adroit in his balancing feats; and Hector and Sultan are seen in a laughable comedy act. Other good turns are the Sisters Valli in their musical and dancing act; Dicks' Comedy Five in a clever acrobatic performance; the Two Errolls, who give a humorous and wonderful exhibition of leaping; Olga Fane, a sweet singer of chorus songs; and Stephen Blythe, an accomplished vocalist.

HIPPODROME, HULME. — Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead. —Here this week we have the Tokios, the famous troupe of Japanese acrobats, who are highly successful and popular; Wyndham and Waters, "the professor and the pupil," meet with a good reception; the Boston Twins are a couple of good vocalists and dancers; Cullen and Jordison are two dainty and clever juveniles; the Zanos give an excellent comedy bar act; and other good turns are the Bonanzas, hand balancers; Bernard Katz, the Hebrew basso; Phedona, in a pleasing musical act; and Trick and Trixie, vocal, instrumental, and acrobatic artists.

MARGATE.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Exclusive Manager, Mr. Edward Michael.—Well played by Mr. Jerrard Grant-Allen's company, and received nightly with great delight by highly amused audiences, Mr. Arthur Law's farcical comedy, The New Boy, has, during the current week, again been a welcome attraction at this house. Mr. Leon M. Lion gives an admirable rendering of the diminutive husband, Archibald Rennick. Mr. A. Corney Grain is a successful Dr. Candy, his schoolmaster manner being very realistic. The Felix Roach of Mr. Talbot Homewood is in all respects excellent; whilst Mr. Harold Weston is satisfactory as Théodore de Brizac. Mr. Stanley Weston, as the school bully, Bullock, is very amusing, and Mr. M. A. Scott plays well as Mr. Stubber. The youthful flirt, Nancy Roach, as played by Miss Margaret Fareleigh, is a performance of genuine merit, and Miss Katherine Harrington, as Mrs. Rennick, whose majestic proportions are in such strong contrast to her husband, is a great success. Miss Sybil Brooke is bright as Susan, the maid. The farcical comedy has been preceded each evening by a highly interesting sentimental comedy, in one act, The Borrowed Uncle, exceedingly well played by Miss Margaret Fareleigh and Messrs. Leon M. Lion, Harold Weston, and A. Corney Grain.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietors, Messrs. F. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. C. F. Bawtree.—The Poluski Bros. are here this week in their latest creations, including Laughs, and their turn has been a most popular one; Alice Hollander, Australian contralto, has had a remarkably good reception, and the droll Charles Sloman has proved very mirth provoking; Albert Athas and Lizzie Collins, with their successful creation, The Italian Girl and the Monkey, have had a recall at each performance; Fred Hallam, comedian, and Flo Cecil, comedienne and dancer, help to make up an attractive programme, whilst the bioscope pictures are, as usual, exceedingly good.

HALL-BY-THE-SEA.—Sole Proprietor, "Lord" George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. Charles Evans.—A pleasingly varied programme has been presented here this week, in which a conspicuous place is taken by Park's Eton Boys, who have, prior to this appearance, given Margate audiences proof of the excellence of their vocal abilities. Their turn is as popular as ever. Sibb and Sibb, double trapeze artists, present a neat and clever performance, and Mlle. Ameda, novelty entertainer is good; Gilbert Girard, animal and instrumental mimic, is wonderfully true to life in all his imitations, and his efforts have received due recognition; other contributions to the programme include Marie Neilson, comedienne and dancer, who has a pleasing manner; Bishop and Hanlon, comedy artists; and Miss Una, instrumentalist, with her dogs.

MERTHYR TYDFIL.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Will Smithson.—Mr. Lingford Carson's company, under the direction of Mr. Charles Draycott, is presenting here The Heart of a Hero. Jem Resdale is portrayed with power and skill by Mr. Charles Draycott; the villainous Wilfred Marl has an able exponent in Mr. Ernest J. Fare; Miss Laurie A. Pardy shows ability in a convincing presentment of Nell Resdale, and Miss Louise Millward gives a sympathetic rendering of the character of Mrs. Ryder. The humorous part of Timothy is capitally done by Mr. Arthur Byron, whilst Miss Hettie Senior, Mr. Sydney C. Cranston, Mr. Morley Carroll, and Mr. J. Harold are successful in their assumptions of other leading rôles.

TEMPERANCE HALL.—Manager, Mr. Israel Price.—Here we have animated pictures, and varieties contributed by Ackbar, gymnast; Glen Lisbon, comedian; Bella Leaburn, comedienne; and the Miltons in a comedy skating act.

MIDDLESBROUGH. — THEATRE ROYAL. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Chas. Imeson.—Mr. Howard Sturgess's company in the drama, A Queen of Villainy, is here this week. Miss Edith Blande, in the rôle of Cora Granville, is a decided success; Mr. Gordon Carnegie does full justice to the part of Sir John Desborough, and Dick Leinster, an escaped convict, has an excellent representative in Mr. Charles Stirling; Miss Amy Ross Clyde is good as Sally Chimes, and for the part of Rose Delmayne a clever representative is found in Miss Cecilia Desmond.

OPERA HOUSE. — Managing-Director, Mr Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. K. Chatto.—Mr. Dion Boucicault's Irish play, The Colleen Bawn, is being played here this week by a stock company. Miss Elsina Gaunt gives a refined and sympathetic portrayal of the part of Emily O'Connor, and Mr. Godfrey Tearle is excellent as Hardress Cregan; Mr. John S. Chamberlain causes much amusement as Myles, while the rôle of O'Moore finds a capital interpreter in Mr. J. Cumming; Mr. Ivan Gore as Mr. Corrigan, and Mr. George Antley as Danny Mann act their respective parts well.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Charles Imeson.—An excellent programme is submitted here this week. Alexandre and Hughes head the bill and cause much laughter with their songs and sayings; Huntington and Macdonald provide some excellent singing, as does also Ghita Corri; George Lawrence, of Middlesbrough, is making his first professional appearance, and has had an enthusiastic reception; Walter Emmerson causes much amusement, and Merton and Rydon sing well; other turns are provided by the Four Esmeraldas, Mlle. Sylvesto, and Ada Rentford.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Alf. Graham.—Few artists have been given such an enthusiastic reception as that which is accorded to Jack Pleasants; Ethel Arden and Geo. Abel cause much laughter in the sketch, Three of a Kind, and the Jackley Trio prove themselves clever acrobats; Jack Crawley is an excellent mimic, and Mons. Slippère provides some good music; J. C. Manley, vocalist, and Sade Henderson, alto, also contribute to the programme.

NEW BRIGHTON.—GRAND TOWER THEATRE.—The company here this week includes Joseph Hennessy, club manipulator and juggler; Mr. Arthur Weber, baritone vocalist; Aldro Lukos in a clever swinging perch act and tumbling antics; Jake Euston, sand and buck dancer; the Victorian Bros., international dancers in character; Paulo Bros., a smart and amusing pair of comedy acrobats; Mlle. Lucretia, burlesque artist and dancer; and the Towerscope with the latest in animated pictures.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.—PALACE THEATRE. —Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—The Romany's Revenge, which is now nearing its 2500th performance, is being presented here this week by Messrs. E. A. Dell and Fred Chabot's company. Mr. Charles Gallier submits a vigorous rendering of John Hope; Archibald Heath is played in acceptable style by Mr. Fred Green; Mr. Harry C. Robinson gives an excellent account of himself as David Renard; Miss Ethel Ashleigh as Zamet, a gipsy boy, sustains the rôle with marked ability; Miss Eva Elwes is well placed as Lilian Hope; Miss Lil Francis is a natural and boy-like Archie; and the comedy element is in the safe hands of Mr. David Hamilton as Bobbie Bloom; and Miss Fannie Wallace as Pollie Pluck.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Leslie Conroy. —Fred Ginnett and company are appearing here this week in their well-known equestrian act, Dick Turpin. William Lee and Helen Bentley have a very amusing racing sketch, entitled Mabel B; an old pantomime favourite in J. A. Wilson, now appears without the burnt cork "make-up," and again proves successful; Starr and Leslie do some clever Indian club juggling, to the accompaniment of acceptable vocalism; those Newcastle comedians, Ike Scott and Son, are again greatly in evidence with a clever act; Conn and Conrad submit, with approval, their speciality act; Vernando's business as a ventriloquist is original; Brett and Orford, in a humorous entertainment are popular; Harry Freeman, comedian; and the Jagos, baton manipulators, singers, and dancers, also contribute successfully.

PAVILION THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—A good all-round programme is being submitted here this week, headed by that clever trio Servais Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco, whose clever conjuring and remarkable illusions are more astonishing than ever; as a ventriloquist, Coram is decidedly smart and worthy of all the applause he receives; Frank Cass is a highly effective vocalist; a welcome return visit is made by Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, the factory nightingales; Emma Don and company appear with their customary success in a vocal scena, entitled The Prodigal Parson; Dusty Rhodes's business again affords much pleasure; Rale Walters versatile comedienne, introduces her latest success, Fishing; the Redferns, lady banjoists, vocalists, and dancers; Lowenwirth Bros, Hebrew comedians; Otto and Olga, with music and mock opera; Frances Hasnoll, speciality vocalist; and the Barrascope are the remaining successful items.

NEWPORT. — EMPIRE. — Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. O. Stoll.—Eugene Stratton, the chief attraction here, is in high favour; the Clarkes, banjo players, receive quite an ovation for their excellent performance; Sandford and Lyons amuse with their patter and clever dancing; and Jack Love, the Yorkshire rustic, is accorded an encore; Flo Esdaile sings in good style; Alfred Hurley is a sweet tenor singer; and Will Musgrave contributes a couple of songs with catchy choruses; the Remingtons give a clever acrobatic performance in evening dress; and Irene Rose, a comedienne of merit, completes the bill.

NORTH SHIELDS.—CENTRAL PALACE—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould. An attractive bill of fare is provided here, headed by the Five M. P.'s in their musical act Officers at Play, which has been cordially greeted; the Henriques, comedy acrobats, are smart at their business; Messrs. Sandy and Carl, knockabouts, have made a great hit; the Firnans' Comedy Artists are well received; and Miss Daisy Palmer, comedienne and dancer, Mr. W. H. Smart, Hibernian vocalist, Mr. Arthur Stratton, comedian, and the Biophotoscope all meet with favour.

NORTHWICH. — PIERROT PAVILION.—Proprietors, The Royal Pierrots Company.—Owing to her great success, Alice Maude, a clever little artist, has been retained for an extra week, and each new song she sings still further proves her ability; Blanco White provides a turn which is both smart and funny; Miss Sybil Lee sings with good taste; Miss Gertrude Young also sings nicely; Mr. Harry Nelson proves himself a high-class comedian, and causes much merriment; Mr. Glanmore Jones still maintains his popularity; and a younger brother of his proved himself an excellent elocutionist, reciting "The Women of Mumbles Head" with much dramatic force.

NORWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr. Councillor F. W. Fitt.—Mr. Austin Rudd deservedly heads the bill this week; Crissie Cross is an excellent comedienne and dancer, and Laura Lorne and Nell Rene, in a Lancashire scena, entitled Capital and Labour, score an immense success; Mr. R. Denning, ventriloquist, scores; Max Merlin displays ability as a contortionist; Kahn and Kahn are clever necromancers, and meet with much approbation; Miss Alice May and company in their protean sketch, entitled Tranquillity, are well received; Otto Menotti, the Stockholm wonder, creates great enthusiasm; his performance is very clever. The Hippo-Bioscope is also very entertaining.

NOTTINGHAM.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edgar O. Waller.—The Royal Animated Picture company's excellent films and the songs of Mr. Wensley Russell continue to be appreciated by large audiences.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker.—The Casey Circus, organised by Harry Cadle, is truly a burlesque performance, evoking the greatest hilarity and vociferous applause. As a comedienne and dancer Gladys Marius is well equipped both in style and agility, and her hearty reception is well deserved; the Classium Quartette introduce a Venetian love scena, the charming scenery and pleasing singing calling forth enthusiastic plaudits. A well-earned mead of praise is accorded Hamilton Hill for his songs; and the Sisters Oswald execute a dainty dance with their accustomed skill; the Henri Taylor Trio, equilibrists and jugglers, accomplish some smart and difficult feats, and the quaint singing and dancing of Amber Austa receive appreciative recognition; Frank Seeley, comic singer; and Will Haines, comedian, help in the programme, which is closed by an exciting picture on the Bioscope, entitled "The Smugglers' Dogs."

OLDHAM.—ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Howgate.—A capital programme is provided this week. The Uessems, equilibrist wonders, give an excellent show; A. J. Rebla introduces a funny juggling act; the Bros. Obo are smart comedians; the Three Donals furnish a good turn; Mlle. Marvelle, with her trained cockatoos, obtains a favourable reception, and Will Walton is a popular comedian; Nellie Navette is a favourite comedienne and dancer; Lily Arthur, toy comedienne, is well received; and Henry Abdy, with his Dalmatian dogs, completes the bill.

PLYMOUTH.—PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Owners, County Theatres and Hotels, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. J. Field.—Little Tich, who has not visited Plymouth since the days of Miss Esmeralda, drew a packed house on Monday, his quips and grotesque antics causing roars of merriment; Frank Sylvo, comedy juggler, strikes out a very original line in the juggling business; the Fordyces, two little singers and dancers not yet out of their teens, submit a turn which would do credit to many their senior; Desmonti and Nora have a finished triple bar item; Helen Martin, vocalist, obliges with some acceptable pieces from standard opera, and Flo Banks is a popular comedienne; Vernon's bioscope have a humorous film, entitled "Summer Boarders."

PROMENADE PIER AND PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. J. Higson.—The Lyric Entertainers supply a couple of hours' excellent variety entertainment. Mr. W. H. Jackson has a répertoire of songs well suited to a baritone voice; Miss Clara Greenhalgh, soprano, is heard to advantage in some well known numbers; Miss Jessie Buckle is a fascinating soubrette; Mr. Fred Walmsley supplies the lighter element, and Miss May Williams, accompanist, is responsible for no small share of the company's popularity.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J.W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's principal company is here for the week presenting the pleasing domestic comedy, Cousin Kate. The title-rôle is daintily and charmingly taken by Miss Lilias Earle. She makes an admirable Kate Curtis. Heath Desmond is very effectively played by Mr. Percy Hutchison; the tenderness and humour of the part are well delineated. The Rev. James Bartlett is unctuously played by Mr. George Mallett; Mrs. Spencer is characteristically acted by Miss Amy Coleman; Miss Hilda Honiss acts the part of Amy Spencer in convincing style; Master Phillip Priddis is natural as the boy Bobby Spencer, and Miss Kitty Priddis does well as Jane. The comedy is preceded by the trifle Two in a Trap, in which Mr. George Mallett and Miss Hilda Honiss appear with success.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate. —For the first time in Portsmouth the Anglo-American play, A Gambler's Daughter, is being presented at this house. The piece is interesting, and is well interpreted by Miss Adria Hill and Mr. Robert Ayrton's company. Desmond O'Dare, an Irish emigrant, is humorously sustained by Mr. Robert Ayrton; the villain, Stephen Brand, is powerfully played by Mr. Lincoln Calthorpe; Mr. Alfred Sanders ably seconds him as Brand's confederate, Solomon Solomons; Ralph Gillman, an American capitalist, is impersonated by Mr. Vincent Carlyle in a capable manner; Miss Adria Hill in the dual rôle of Mildred and Miriam Grant is most successful and natural in her personations; Auntie Zeb is another well-rendered part by Miss Harriett Loydall.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—A strong and attractive programme is put before the patrons of this hall. Topping the bill, G. H. Chirgwin, the white-eyed musical Kaffir, is again welcomed with much appreciation. Morley and Percival in a comedy duologue, Turtle Doves, have created a favourable impression; Rosie Lloyd, chic comedienne, gives four most acceptable numbers; E. J. Sheldon, speciality comedian, is much liked for his capital turn; Doody and Wright Australian comiques, are a hard-working pair, and cause roars of laughter; Terry and Bentley in the comedy sketch, The Hunt, are pleasing; Rose Cass, descriptive vocalist, is a success; the Five Whiteleys are a clever acrobatic and wire walking turn; Payne's Bio-Photoscope with new and amusing pictures completes the show.

PRESTON.—ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—At the head of the bill here this week is Le Diabelo, who gives a sensational cycling performance in and upon a revolving wheel; R. Ryding, a local athlete, is seen to advantage in an exhibition of strength; Hurman scores a great success with his juggling and manipulation of hoops, balls, plates, and Indian clubs; and Mdlle. Von Etta provides a highly effective display of illusions, and also proves herself a charming and versatile actress; other good turns are those of the Sisters Thurban, vocalists and instrumentalists; Jessie Jukes, juvenile comedienne and dancer; Merton and Rydon, comedy artists; Carney Bros., duettists and character vocalists; Burns and Bently, comedians; and Lon Langley, vocalist and dancer.

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE AND PAVILION.—Proprietors, Ramsgate Corporation; Lessee, Mr. Jules Richeux.—Messrs. Maskelyne and Devant's mysteries have been most successful at the "Pav." this week. Mr. David Devant has performed some marvellous feats of sleight-of-hand, and his efforts to amuse have been materially supplemented by Mr. John Warren, who introduces the accommodating "magic kettle" and the Burmese gong. Mr. Warren, who has long been a local favourite, is to the fore again with his ventriloquial figure "Marmaduke," and there are other capital items in a programme which, for all-round attractiveness, is one of the best ever carried out in the Pavilion.

SANGER'S AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; Manager, Mr. H. Bowman.—This playhouse has during the past week been given over to the "two houses a night" principle, and an excellent company of variety artists has performed to satisfactory houses. Miss Constance Moxon, who assumes male characters, sings with much success, and is at once a favourite with her hearers. Cliff Ryland tells funny stories and cracks smart wheezes; Master Cliff is a sand, step, and clog dancer of exceptional cleverness; and a smart pair of Continental costume dancers is found in Les Sprays; Peter Simple is successful with his comic songs. In addition, Mr. Tom Craven, with the assistance of Mr. Corry Thomas, Miss Rita Tompkins, and Miss Marie Shields, has nightly produced The Lady in Red. The sketch raises roars of laughter, Tom Craven in the rôle of William, the manservant, being especially funny. To conclude there is Ruffel's Imperial Bioscope with films showing the latest event.

RAWTENSTALL. — GRAND THEATRE. — Co-Proprietors and Lessees, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Ellis Miller.—A grand concert was given in this theatre on Tuesday evening, the proceeds of which were for the benefit of the popular acting-manager, Mr. J. Ellis Miller, who for some five years past filled that post with distinct success, and who has made himself immensely popular with the habitués of all parts of the house. The house was well filled. Turns were given by the Goodshaw Prize Band; the Rossendale Dramatic Society gave their scenes from the Merchant of Venice; Miss Hetty Chapman was also a great success in her musical turn; the Two Shamrocks were warmly applauded for their clever song and dance turns; Mr. George Ingham, descriptive vocalist, met with a great reception; and the same can be said of Miss D. Inglis Oakley (soprano) and Mr

the week is Mr. Frank M. Quinn, who possesses a well-trained baritone voice. The four Grovinis are retained for another week; Renson and Waite submit an up-to-date entertainment; Bruce and Ross are expert dancers; Mlle. Thelma shows considerable ability in clay modelling; G. W. Nicholson, the Yorkshire humorist, pleases with his songs; Reklaw and his nippers are comical; Phil Rabey is a droll comedian; Walker is always at home on the rolling globe, and the Alskarno troupe of acrobats are smart; Vernon's Bioscope is as popular as ever.

THE HIPPODROME, St. Thomas-street.—Proprietor, Mr. George Zalva.—Signor Volpi's Royal Italian Circus is still here, and forms one of the leading attractions. The performing ponies are a great feature of the circus, and show remarkable intelligence and training.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietress, Mrs. Henry Mayhew; Manager, Mr. Fred P. Morgan.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is here in An Abandoned Woman. Miss Georgette Thierry shows considerable ability in the title-rôle; Mr. Harry Foxwell, as Robert Saunders, makes the most of his opportunities; as Captain Herbert Seaton Mr. Wolston Forster acts capably; Mr. Bernard J. Leill fits the character of Philippe Malvoisin exactly; as Paddy Boyle Mr. Will Percy is very funny; Mr. Harrison Forbes, as Sammy Sharp, makes an excellent impression, especially with his song, "Beautiful Bed"; and as Sally Sloper, Miss Lily Beverley ably represents the housemaid and dances well.

SHEFFIELD.—ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Managing Director, Mr. W. D. Forsdike; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. W. Ramsay. The thrilling drama, dealing with the intrigues and abuses of Muscovite rule, entitled, Under the Czar, is again being played to good audiences, under the direction of the author, Mr. Fred Jarman.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Proprietors, The Moss' Empires Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alan D. Dunbar.—The generous programme submitted on Monday gave unalloyed delight to big houses, being contributed to by the following popular artists:—Miss Harriett Vernon, the famous comedienne; Mr. Dan Crawley, a funny and mirth-provoking comic singer; Rejene and Robini, two old favourites of many years' standing; Barton and Ashley, the talented Transatlantic providers of neat comedy; Mr. Gus Harris, the Hebrew character artist, in his scena, The Synagogue; Miss Leonie Dixon, vocalist; Messrs. Walton and Lester, the "World's Worst Wizards"; the Bioscope, with up-to-date pictures; and Mr. G. H. Elliott, the clever coon impersonator, vocalist, and dancer, in new business.

GRAND PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. G. H. Beagle.—The company here this week includes the Deer Family, in an Indian episode; Mr. Sam Veld, variety entertainer; Mr. Harry Village, comedian; Mr. Carl Milton, Miss Millie Denham, Fields and Lewis, in a novel act, and Pallister's Biograph.

CENTRAL HALL.—Dick Turpin's Ride to York and other entertaining items, together with a smart variety concert, give pleasure to the patrons of this hall.

SMETHWICK.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. Barnard; Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson.—Honour Thy Father, an old favourite here, is presented by Mr. T. Morton Powell's company, which includes Messrs. Walter W. Cameron (in the principal rôle), Douglas B. Watson, Cjavering Craig, Miss Winnie Donovan, and Mrs. C. Craig.

SOUTHAMPTON.—PALACE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. William Trussell.—Alec Hurley, in his scena, The Coster's Friendly Lead, provides the star turn, and he is enthusiastically received; Johnny Holland and Co. are successful in a capital sketch, The Millionaire, and Duncan and Brasque score in a dramatic episode, A Dressing Room Romance; Maud Prenton is a delightful comedienne, and other turns are given by Carbaree's wonder dogs, the three Bros. Curran, in a boxing act, and Maud Vera, descriptive vocalist. A special matinée was given on Thursday in aid of the staff outing fund, when an excellent programme, including several extra turns, was submitted.

HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and W. de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; District-Manager, Mr. Sydney Paxton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold P. Powell.—That favourite comedian George Mozart is creating roars of laughter with his comic patter and songs, and nightly receives enthusiastic appreciation. F. V. St. Clair scores with his topical songs, and Susie and Protti excel as dancers; Yorkshire Tom is a capital mimic; Frank Maura is an expert equilibrist; the three Prestons are very funny in their absurdity The Liftman's Rise; Fred Collins and Flo Somers also contribute their quota to the programme.

WEST MARLANDS.—Bostock and Wombwell's Menagerie is attracting huge crowds daily.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA.—PIER PAVILION.—Lessee and Manager Mr. H. E. Angless; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stanley E. Angless.—On Monday Caste was played here by a good all-round company. Mr. Arthur Bawtree as the Hon. George D'Alroy presented a capital portrayal, and he was ably supported by Mr. Herbert Robinson as Captain Hawtrey; Mr. Charles Otley was responsible for the rôle of Eccles, and this clever comedian delighted the audience by his impersonation. Sam Gerridge found in Mr. William Allison a humorous exponent, and Dixon was successfully played by Mr. Fitzpatrick; Miss Phyllis Manners as Marquise de St. Maur was decidedly good, and a dignified and pleasing portrayal of Esther Eccles was given by Miss Olive Palmer; Polly Eccles was entrusted to the talented Miss Marie Jonquil, who is deserving of praise for her lively and humorous delineation.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Owners, Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—Mr. Morton Powell is providing this week's attraction, in the drama entitled The Woman who Gambles, which is played in capital style by a capable company. Mr. Edward R. Ashby takes the rôle of Count Otto Steinbach in an admirable manner, and the Countess is forcibly and cleverly embodied by Miss Gertrude Hunt; Baron Cratzlaw is in the capable hands of Mr. Horatio Sinclair, who plays the villain with commendable success; Messrs. Reginald Fox and Ernest H. Clarke are good in their respective characters of Lieut. Karl Czarteryski and M. Stambuloff; whilst Mr. Frank Howard as the Hon. Bertie Bray is amusing. Peter Peteroff is creditably impersonated by Mr. Fred Prior; Miss Clayton as Stella Melakoff, Miss Florrie Hall as Mlle. Zila Zeyelda, and Miss Brenda May are all worthy of mention; and Miss Violet Sims is responsible for the portrayal of Cora Gouldhart: she presents a pleasing and creditable characterisation.

THE KURSAAL.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. P. T. J. Bacon.—This week's programme is an excellent one. The theatre entertainment provides plenty of interest, and those who take part are Miss Queenie Lawrence, burlesque artist; Henri Carn, versatile comedian and patterer; the Franko Midgets, comical conjurers; Gaston and Grevell, comedians and dancers; Miss Florence Pentin, soprano vocalist, who gives selections that merit well-deserved recognition; the Weimars, who are excellent in their musical turn and wire walking, gaining repeated applause; and the Ten Dixie Girls, who are delightful as the Kursaal ballet. New pictures are shown on the Bioscope. The Café Chantant and the Hippodrome both provide good programmes, the former having Lorenzo's circus for its chief attraction.

ALFRESCO THEATRE OF VARIETIES, ROYAL TERRACE.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless.—The diversified programmes submitted here at intervals throughout the day under the direction of Professor Vincent, the well-known illusionist, &c., are very popular. The artists appearing this week are Mr. Steve Cook, comedian; Professor Golding, ventriloquist; Mons. Le Clair with his clever troupe of performing dogs, including the high-diving terrier Spot, and Mr. W. Banks, ballad vocalist. The Urban-Bioscope depicts some capital pictures, and the Bijou Orchestra performs in good style under the direction of Mr. H. Syme.

PIER HILL BANDSTAND.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless.—Enormous crowds visit this popular place of amusement daily, where Mr. Ballard Brown's company provides excellent entertainments that meet with evident favour and appreciation. Messrs. Findlay Dunn and Arthur Thomas have established themselves great favourites, whilst Mr. J. W. Bowie is a tenor who is heard to great advantage, and Mr. Ballard Brown is a host in himself.

SOUTHPORT.—ALBERT HALL, WINTER GARDENS.—Lessee, Mrs. Charles Parker; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Mertz.—After being closed for a brief period this popular variety hall was reopened on Monday under entirely new management, the handsome building having been leased to Mr. Charles Parker (late of the Pier Pavilion) by the Winter Gardens Company. A capital all-round programme was submitted to a large audience, one of the most prominent items being supplied by the Sutcliffe Troupe of novelty acrobats, pipers, and dancers, who presented a picturesque and interesting performance; other turns were Happy Tom Parker, comedian; the Carina Sisters, in their artistic musical mélange; Wal Owen, comedian; Lilian Travelli, American burlesque and light ballad vocalist; the Sisters Marion, juvenile duettists; Mlle. Zelda, musical novelty act; Nellie Adams, refined vocalist; and Kitts and Windrum company in a merry military contretemps entitled The Cuckoo.

PIER PAVILION.—Proprietors, The Southport Pier Co.; Manager, Mr. C. H. Johnson.—The attractive company of variety artists appearing here this week are headed by Lilian, Vera, and Charles, who give a marvellous exhibition of their skill with the rifle. The programme also includes Fred Horsfall, vocalist, mimic; Maude Kaye, vocalist and dancer; Toney, the society sifteur; Harris and Worth, comedians; Frank Hope, trick cyclist; Agnes McKellar, the Scotch soprano; Baroni and Kemp, lightning change artists; and the Bio-tableaux.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensees and Managers, Messrs. I. and F. Coulson.—The Manxman is being played here to large and appreciative houses. Mr. Alfred B. Cross, in the rôle of Pete, portrays the part in a manly and powerful manner, entirely enlisting the sympathy of the audience; Kate Cregeen is admirably delineated by Miss Minnie Watersford; other good studies are Philip Christian by Mr. Frank Liston and Cæsar Cregeen by Mr. James Dillon.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—That quaint comedian, George Formby, who is the principal turn here this week, has had a most gratifying reception; Lilian Lea, vocalist, renders her numbers in artistic style; Ross and Grayson, in a musical comedy duologue, still maintain the high excellence of their entertainment; Maud Mortimer is a charming actress-vocalist; smart conjuring is contributed by Lazern; Rhoda Paul, male impersonator, is a strong attraction; Katie Marsh is appreciated in her new entertainment, "Grave and Gay"; and the Bioscope completes an excellent bill.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. K. Hall and Mr. Joseph Sweeney.—The universal living pictures are drawing big houses; the Brothers Paulo, society athletes, are seen to advantage in a weight-lifting performance; a competition for local strong men is well appreciated; other items are Allan McAskell, the comic talking conjurer, and Tom Hornsby, the singing slinger.

COSY CORNER, SEA FRONT.—The increasing popularity of Mr. Geo. Burton's excellent company of comedians is seen by the crowded attendances. The entertainments now take place in a large marquee, in which the audience can hear in comfort, without the former distressing noises.

STAFFORD.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Elphinstone.—The attraction here this week is Fritz, Our German Cousin. As Fritz, Mr. Phil Herman has a part which suits him admirably; as comedian, musician, and vocalist, he is in every way a success. Miss Susie Beavan as Katrina acts with ability and sings well; Mr. Stanley Carlton is suitably placed as the villainous Colonel Crafton, and the company includes Mr. Milton Marsh, Mr. Fred. C. Imbert, Miss Rubie Maud, and Dorris Middleton.

ST. ANNES-ON-THE-SEA.—PUBLIC HALL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Fred Carlton.—Mr. Wentworth Croke's company in Too Many Cooks appeared here on Thursday and two following evenings. Mr. Arthur Holmes-Gore was excellent in the part of Arthur Winton; Mr. Jackson Wilcox made a fiery Major Brasket; Mr. Wilfred Noy was a suitable Lieutenant Ashurst, and Mr. Willis Searle a clever John Bumbleby, the amateur detective; Mr. George Ide was good as P.c. Simpkin. Miss Lilian Rogers was a charming Dora Brasket, and Miss Hilda Fairfax a good Georgina Winton; Miss Dorothy Maud ably represented the maid Susan. The principal piece was preceded by a neat little one-act play, The Fatal Shockings, in which the author, Mr. Arthur Holmes-Gore, and Miss Lilian Rogers appeared.

ST. HELENS.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE. Proprietors, The St. Helens Theatre, Ltd. General Manager, Mr. McLeod Loader.—The attraction here this week is A Wrecker of Men, played by Mr. Charles Watson Mill's company. The melodrama is full of interesting and exciting incidents. Miss Amy Ellam gives a powerful impersonation of Risca Mallinson, the adventuress; as Jim Murley, a slogger, Mr. Eric Campbell submits a life-like portrayal; Miss Cissie Podmore, Doris; Mr. Milner Noble, Pharosophus; Mr. T. Carruthers, Melville; Miss Kittie Melville, Vavasole; Mr. Matthew Boulton, Guise; and Mr. H. P. Kennedy in the dual rôles of Ezekiel and Karnaphus all do well; and the piece is exceptionally well staged. After this (Saturday) evening the theatre closes until Bank Holiday.

HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. T. Barrasford, W. Sley, and F. Willmot.; Manager Mr. A. V. Carnell.—The principal turn here is Gustave Fazola, the Indian illusionist. Others appearing are: Henri Cazman; Miss Nellie Gannon, contralto vocalist; Miss Peggy Fame, vocalist and dancer; Miss Florence Yaymen, coon burlesque artist; Mr. Harry Wright, extemporaneous vocalist; and Les Marsumas, comedians on wheels.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. William Revill.—Mr. Lingford Carson's drama, Defending His Honour, has been excellently presented here this week by Mr. Fred Granville's company. Mr. Fred W. Goddard as Douglas Bryce makes a capital hero, and Mr. Carthage Caldcleugh depicts the character of Stephen Grald with powerful effect. Mr. Walter Manfree capably fills the part of David Pellar, and Mr. A. Balfour Mackay acts satisfactorily as Geo. Duncan. Miss Chrissie Dunbar commands deserving praise for her effective portrayal of Ethel Bryce.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, The Stockport Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—Large audiences have heartily enjoyed the amusing sketch, The Yorkshire Lad in London, given by Tom Foy and company, who occupy the pride of place on the bill this week. Among others appearing are Haley's Prize Juveniles, who are well trained and highly entertaining; Lottie de Abbey is a pleasing vocalist, and Pollo Jerome is a graceful and clever performer on the trapeze; the Five Foys are amusing in their sketch, The Excursion Dépot; Sheila McNeil is a talented Scotch comedienne; the efforts of Will Souls, the laughing comedian, are applauded; and the Sisters Volbecque, comedy duettists, meet with success.

STOCKTON-ON-TEES.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. George and Robert A. Nicholson; Manager, Mr. Wm. Ainsworth.—Tom Grove, with daring cycling act, is here, and on his success in "Flying the Revolving Wheel" is warmly applauded; J. C. Scatta, comedian, does well; Little Rose Pink is an acknowledged success. Other items include Theo. Jones and company in a scena Jack Sheppard; the Vandyke Troupe; Edney and Wade, dancers; the Three Pirmans; and Florence Hill, comedienne.

GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. John Batty; Manager, Mr. Walter Batty.—The Harvey Boys top the bill here, and cause roars of laughter with their antics; Horace White, ventriloquist, is good; Joe Humphreys, descriptive vocalist, is well received; Mlle. Sylvia's tableaux are excellent; O'Malley and Brown, in their comedy act, have scored a success; the Brontes and Johnny Walker, comedian, conclude a good programme.

TORQUAY.—PRINCESS PIER CONCERT HALL.—Proprietors, the Torquay Town Council; Manager, Mr. A. T. Tremlett.—Mr. Harry Leslie's Lyric Entertainers, under the musical directorship of Mr. Arthur Rogerson, are here this week; Mr. Sammy Shields, Scotch comedian, is as good as ever; Miss Nellie Gallafent has a pleasing style and a good contralto voice, whilst Miss Maud Hastings sings very acceptably; Mr. Charles North is a baritone of repute, and Miss Mabelle Ashton sings with much vivacity.

TYNEMOUTH.—PALACE-BY-THE-SEA AND WINTER GARDENS.—Proprietor, Mr. J. H. Graham; Manager, Mr. Lindon Travers.—Barclay Gammon in a mirth-provoking musical interlude heads the bills at this favourite resort this week, and is accorded a flattering reception; Mlle. Rosa's canine hippodrome remains under engagement another week, and is as popular as ever; Craig, Rose, and Craig prove themselves athletes of more than average ability; Ray and Miles, comedians, provide a diverting turn; Trissie March, danseuse, scores by her exceptionally smart and graceful dances; Gena Manon, soubrette, is heartily appreciated; and J. M. Hamilton, vocalist, and the Palace Bioscope complete the programme.

WAKEFIELD.—HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Selwyn; Manager, Mr. Henry Lucas.—The Drayton family, Risley performers, perform some wonderful feats; the Milfords are a clever trio on the tight rope; Mr. Frank Coyle, comedian, scores in his topical songs; the two Isons are a versatile pair; Les Fontaines Marionettes provide an interesting turn; Miss Ada Carr, comedienne, sings well; and the De Roys, eccentric conjurers, are amusing.

WALSALL.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Messrs. Denton and Rowland's company is proving a great attraction here this week. The Sisters Cora are attractive duettists and dancers; Barney Vox, ventriloquist, is clever; Lord Murray, and Lord give their comedy act, The Intruder; Max Yorks gives a capital performance with his dogs; Johnny Gilmore, comedian, is well received; Belle Davis and her Pick-Chicks prove successful in their entertainment Three Merry Nigger Boys; and the pictures on the American Bioscope are very interesting.

GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—General-Manager and Secretary, Mr. W. H. Westwood.—Mr. John Cecil's company in the drama How Money's Made is occupying the boards here this week. Mr. Elton Morgan has made a big hit in the character of Glory Hallelujah Jackson; Mr. John Cecil makes a capital Sir James Franklyn; Miss Flo Norman does well as Phillis, and Miss Minnie Leslie is a distinct success as Ruth Franklyn.

WALTHAMSTOW.—PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. G. Adney Payne; Manager, Mr. Arthur J. Barclay; Acting-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Slatter. Well supplied with attractive features, Mr. Barclay's programme for this week is attracting large numbers of interested and enthusiastic spectators. The longest and most important item is a diplomatic dramatic episode, entitled The Secret Spy, which, dealing with a proposed triple alliance between England, France, and Russia, is a short play full of incident, carefully constructed and told in dialogue that goes straight to the point. It is well acted by Mr. Fred. G. Brooke and his company; that gentleman himself appears as Private Adams, acting with great intensity, and delivering his effective lines with convincing fervour; Mr. Brooke is frequently and loudly applauded. A good performance is the Lieut. Harry Tunbridge of Mr. Ernest Owttrim, thoroughly manly and robust; Mr. Wellesley Draper is excellent as the villain of the piece, Dr. Redfern, alias Henri Vasea; Mr. Walter Thornton is dignified as General Sir Francis Tunbridge. Quite a melodramatic success is achieved by Miss Dora Deane as Cora Leclercq, the "Secret Spy," and Miss Isla Garnet Vayne is sweet and earnest as Ethel Danby. The piece is well staged and handsomely costumed. Mr. Charles Somers is a comedian possessing a deal of dry humour, which finds vent in two good songs. A charming comedienne is Miss Kitty Beresford, of whose two contributions, "What Nerve!" proves the more popular. Mr. George Power and his company appear successfully in an amusing sketch entitled Matrimonial Bliss, in which a henpecked husband is laughably contrasted with one who treats his wife as a slave; shouts of merriment reward the bustling trifle. Miss Rose Hamilton sings a catchy song, in the course of which she reproduces the accent and manner of a New York girl, a London coster, and others; the artiste also appears in a clever monologue, of which Jack Sheppard is the hero. The Morton Trio, three gentlemen with fine voices, appear in a mixture of comedy and vocalism that goes with immense spirit, their voices blending pleasantly and their fun being unobtrusively funny. A big hit is made by Mr. Arthur Rigby, who, capitally made up as an elderly female, discourses with much drollery on Woman's Rights, and repeats his popular song "The March of the Married Men," in which he is well suported by several nameless (and speechless) comedians. Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope shows some excellent films.

WARRINGTON.—ROYAL COURT.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr. J. Potter; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred J. Reece.—Miss Edith Isabelle's company is here this week in the musical comedy The Girl from the Halls. Mr. Newton Pearce scores as the Rev. Hezekiah Twinkle; and Mr. George Elsworth as Jack Weston; and subsequently Mlle. Mimi Jou Jou makes up effectively, and evokes considerable laughter. Mr. George Martin, as the Hon. Richard Graham, uses a rich baritone voice to advantage; Miss Edith Isabelle is a charming Minnie Weston; Miss Lily Ward as the Hon. Frederick Augustus Humphum; and Miss Connie Laurie as Janie, display considerable vivacity. Miss Helen Douglas is good as Mrs. Twinkle; and a clever character sketch of Penelope Ann is submitted by Miss Nellie Loft. Miss Bertha Hart is well placed as Miss Edna June.

ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs W. Johnson and J. Potter; General-Manager, Mr J. Potter; Director of Amusements, Mr. Fred Willmot.—The Brothers Redmond head the bill here this week, and their knockabout business is highly appreciated; the Three Schaffers are seen to advantage in a gladiatorial entertainment; and H. O. Bovie is a clever humorous juggler; George Grossie a smart comedian; and Marion Scott a dainty comedienne; the mysterious patter comedian, "Mr. C." who has a capital voice; and the Brothers Mellot, the blind vocalists, all earn applause; the Royal Bioscope pictures are interesting.

WEST BROMWICH.—HIPPODROME AND THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. P. Moore.—Kennedy's Komiks still continue to draw crowded houses nightly with their varied programme. The artists appearing this week are Mr. Charles Bayham, Sisters Bathurst, Harry Chappell, Marie Bonner, Geo. Ogden, Messrs Dunville and Dare, Herbert Cullum, The Cedrics, and Little Hatch, and some good animated pictures are also shown.

WEST HARTLEPOOL.—PALACE.—Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten.—Marguerite Broadfoote, in capital voice and graceful style, is winning persistent encores nightly; Jake Fried man, an old favourite, is quite up to his old form; King Roy, the coloured basso-cantante, gives a capital rendering of popular songs; Downes and Langford, burlesque actors, and Percy Curry, comedian, have already earned popularity locally and still retain it; the Hermes give a good exhibition of juggling and club manipulation; the comedy equilibristic act of Correzee and Keith is well received; and a new display of pictures on Raymond's Bioscope is an attraction.

WESTON-SUPER-MARE.—KNIGHTSTONE PAVILION AND OPERA HOUSE.—Manager, Mr. W. Payne.—Mr. George Stephenson's company is here this week in The Night of the Party. Mr. Leslie-Holland shows excellent histrionic ability as Mr. Crosbie; as Mr. Flambert, Mr. Fred Rolph gives a highly artistic and humorous representation; the interpretation of Mr. Frank Frayne is full of artistic touches in the hands of Mr. George Stephenson; Mr. Allen Gunard is a praiseworthy Sir Charles Hampshire, and Mr. George Sade deserves commendation as Mr. Roundle; Mr. Ernest Cresfen successfully doubles the parts of Alderman Hargen and Mr. Bogle; Miss Vera Vere gives a delightful impersonation of Paulina; Miss Evelyn Howard makes a charming Lady Hampshire, and Miss Eva Erskine is entitled to unstinted praise for her delineation of Gipsy Vandeller; Miss Maisee Jones (Mrs. Young), Miss Hilda Saroo (Nannie Portland), Miss Gertrude Manners (Baby Hastings), Mr. Conningsby Brierley (Alec Montressor), Mr. Charles Wilson (Horace Clonge), Mr. William Consett (Mr. McRotz), Mr. Samuel Plinge (Captain Bleary), and Mr. Patrick (Boy), are all excellent exponents of their respective characters.

GRAND PIER PAVILION.—The Royal Strolling Players are attracting large audiences here nightly, and on Monday were enthusiastically received. Miss Madeline Rossiter was loudly encored for her singing of "A bit of blarney"; Mr. G. W. Desmond's rendering of "Eva" was warmly received; Mr. Alfred Wootten sang "My Dreams" in an artistic manner; Mr. Sydney James fairly brought down the house with his extremely humorous songs; he also introduces a very comic ventriloquial interlude; Mr. Frank Leno shows a really good series of pictures on the Bioscope, and Herr Julian Kändt's Austrian Blue Band is proving a great attraction.

WEYMOUTH.—ROYAL JUBILEE HALL.—Manager, Mr. H. J. Nobbs.—On Thursday last Mr. George Stephenson's company paid a highly successful visit with The Night of the Party. Miss Evelyn Howard as Lady Hampshire created a favourable impression; Miss Vera Vere was remarkably good as Paulina, the housemaid; as also was Miss Eva Erskine as Gipsy. Mr. Stephenson played Mr. Frayne with marked effect, while the Crosbie of Mr. Leslie Holland was a most finished piece of acting; Mr. Fred Rolph as Mr. Flambert caused roars of laughter; and the Sir Charles Hampshire of Mr. Allen Cunard was carefully portrayed. Miss Maisee Jones as Mrs. Young; Miss Hilda Saroo as Nannie Portland; and Miss Gertrude Manners as Baby Hastings were all good in their respective parts; and the Mr. Roundell of Mr Geo. Sade, the Mr. Bogle of Mr. H. V. Suney, and the Alderman Hargen of Mr. Ernest Crespan, were capitally played.

WHITBY.—THE SPA.—Lessee, Mr. W. Payne Seddon.—Mr. Tom J. Morton's concert party, better known as "The Yokels," in their novel, amusing and attractive entertainment, A Holiday at the Farmhouse, are a great attraction here. The company includes Miss Empsie Bowman as a Shepherdess; Mr. Albert Chapman as a Farmer; Mr. Tom J. Morton, who creates constant laughter as a Country Bumpkin; and Miss Maggie Bowman, whose dancing is much admired, as a Milkmaid. "The Yokels" have an extensive repertoire, and give a constant change of programme, every item being received with approbation. Master Stanley Holt is an excellent pianist.

WIGAN.—THE HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Worswick.—Mr. Geoffry Fulton's principal company has presented the "moral" drama The Poor Must Live during the week. Mr. Shaun Glenville enacts the part of Hooker Holdsnitch very humorously, and Miss Olive Fulton gives a strenuous representation of the character of Olga D'Eyncourt, a revolutionary leader of the people.

WORTHING.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Manager, Herr C. Adolf Seebold.—Messrs. Ernest R. Abbott and F. C. Berridge's company is paying a welcome return visit here this week with A Wife's Triumph. Mr. Ernest R. Abbott gives a manly impersonation of Frank Wilton; Mr. Ernest Hartington typically portrays the villainies of Ellis Jordan, and is ably assisted by Mr. Weedon Ross as Julius Hartman. Mr. Edwin Keene capitally provides the fun as Ben Bradford; his vocal ability is of a high order. Mr. W. H. Davis-Brown does well as Stubbs; Mr. George C. Doughty as Robert Dewhurst soon becomes a general favourite. Miss Phyllis Atherleigh is excellent as Bessie Dewhurst, being alike graceful and winsome; Miss Marjorie Tennant ably assists as Margery Crib; Miss Elsie Jones gives a touching presentment of Little Frank; Miss Jessie Mason does well as Alice Wilton.

WREXHAM.—EMPIRE MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. J. J. Scott; Manager, Mr. Herbert Nicholls.—This week a good all-round company has appeared here, the programme being sustained by the Schallers, in their up-to-date comedy act, entitled Billy's Blunders; Read and Wright, duettists and dancers; Mr. Tom Melrose, comedian and dancer; Miss Jessie Harper, "the singing mill girl"; Clown Ohmy, and his performing dog Toby; and the pictures.

YORK.—ROYAL.—Closed.

OPERA HOUSE AND EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Wm. Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. Sidney Brooke.—Billy, the educated horse, is the attraction this week, and is a great draw; the Attraction Comedy Four are tuneful singers, and do well; the Three Renards are expert gymnasts, and Vera Mayne is a dainty singer; Bugler Carr gives a neat show, and James Willard's company cause much amusement in a sketch; George Ripon's songs are amusing; and the Sisters Bronson also score.

THE HURLINGHAM PASTORALS.

On Wednesday, July 11, at 9 p.m.,
Pastoral Play by Patrick Kirwan's Idyllic Players,
"THE MERRY WIVES OF WINDSOR."

Sir John Falstaff	MR. PATRICK KIRWAN
Justice Shallow	MR. GEORGE P. HAWTREY
Master Slender	MR. GERALD VENNING
Mr. Ford	MR. ST. CLAIR BAYFIELD
Mr. Page	MR. DOUGLAS ALLINGTON
Fenton	MR. T. EDWARDS
Dr. Caius	MR. J. M. NAPPER
Sir Hugh Evans	MR. JOHN KELT
Host of the Garter Inn	MR. FRANK ELLISON
Pistol	MR. CHRIS. WALKER
Nym	MR. VAN T. RANNEY
Bardolph	MR. GERALD SAFFERY
Robin	MISS JESSIE STANTON
Simple	MR. BALLINGER
John Rugby	MR. VAN T. RANNEY
Mrs. Ford	MISS LENA JAMESON
Mrs. Page	MISS DOROTHY MILNE
Anne Page	MISS BARBARA GUTHRIE
Dame Quickly	MISS DAVIES WEBSTER

(Singing fairies by members of Messrs. Bellew and Stock's Choir).

An excellent representation of the Merry Wives of Windsor was given in the lovely grounds of the Hurlingham Club on Wednesday evening. To follow it closely throughout, played without intervals in one pastoral scene (to which the play, with its many interior and street scenes, does not, as a whole, essentially lend itself), the Merry Wives demands some imaginative effort on the part of an audience. For the final Windsor Park scene, however, with its (pseudo) fairy revels, the spot selected—the familiar pleasaunce, rising gently to a low knoll crowned and o'er-canopied by grand old trees, with the glimmering lake beyond—formed an appropriate and most effective setting; while the textual allusions to the Thames in which the ardour of the amorous knight is to be cooled, which here actually flows close at hand, came out with particularly happy point. Somewhere on the dim heights of Olympus Jupiter must surely have been beguiled by Thespis into "sweet conspire," for a more perfect and ideal night could hardly be imagined for the unfolding of the tale; just such a night of whispering trees and late-rising moon as must have been that magic one in which—what wonder!—sweet Anne Page forgot her other trysts and stole away through the woodland with young Fenton by mistake (?).

Interpreted by Mr. Patrick Kirwan's capable Idyllic Players of Botanic Gardens fame, the whole thing went with a swing from start to finish; faults, where apparent, being merely small ones of technique. With such a good all-round cast it were almost invidious to discriminate; but, perhaps the laurels of the evening should go to Mr. Kirwan's Falstaff, an admirable, well-rounded conception of the fat Don Juan of Windsor on the traditional broad lines. A droll piece of work the Shallow of Mr. George P. Hawtrey was, yet we fancy, hardly senile and "shallow"-pated enough, and the same under accentuation of type might be urged against Mr. Gerald Venning's Slender, in general a very excellent fool. A finely virile study of the jealous Ford came from Mr. St. Clair Bayfield, finding a good foil in the more confident Page of Mr. Douglas Allington. Good readings of Caius and Evans were given by Mr. J. M. Napper and Mr. John Kelt, the latter especially well finished; while Mr. Frank Ellison portrayed to the life the jovial host. Swaggering embodiments of the drunken trio were forthcoming from Messrs. Van T. Ranney (doubling also Rugby), Gerald Saffery, and Chris. Walker as Nym, Bardolph, and Pistol respectively, the later's defection somewhat too sinister and hardly sufficiently born of the cup.

Fine, well-differentiated assumptions of the merry wives themselves rippled (there is no other word for it) from Misses Lena Jameson and Dorothy Milne as Mistresses Ford and Page; very good in other respects, versatile Miss Barbara Guthrie (seen here lately as a merry-mad Puck) through slight strenuousness of voice, missed, in some degree, the customary ingenuousness of "sweet" Anne Page, while a wholly admirable and loquacious Quickly was portrayed by Miss Davies Webster.

Mr. T. Edwards, doing well with his few lines as Fenton; Miss Jessie Stanton as a pert little Robin; Mr. Ballinger as a well-named Simple—not forgeting the make-believe fairies of Messrs. Bellew and Stock's clever children—completed the cast.

STAGE STAFF GOSSIP.

MR. CHARLES WILSON, stage-director of the Alhambra, was presented on the 5th with a beautifully framed address subscribed for by the whole of the employees, ninety-eight in all, comprising the stage, flies, property, and electrician's staff. Mr. George Gray, a member of the electrician's staff, presented the address on behalf of the subscribers, and in doing so said: "Mr. Wilson,—Sir, I have the honour to represent the whole of the men employed in the stage, flies, property, and electric light departments, and on their behalf to ask your acceptance of this address."

MR. GRAY then read the address, which was as follows: "Alhambra Theatre of Varieties.—To Charles Wilson, Esq.—We, the undersigned stage employees of the above theatre, desire to place on record our high appreciation and admiration of your abilities as our stage-director and the good fellowship and affability extended to us at all times. As a slight token of our affection and esteem, we beg your acceptance of this testimonial on the eve of your departure for America, every subscriber to which echoes the heartfelt wish that your future may continue to be a prosperous and a happy one." Then followed the ninety-eight names of the subscribers.

CONTINUING, Mr. Gray said: "The artist was instructed to take for his design the proscenium of the Alhambra stage, and to place at each side a panel showing the name of your first ballet, Jack Ashore, and your latest, L'Amour. In asking your acceptance of this testimonial I beg to assure you on behalf of the boys at the Alhambra that they sincerely hope the good feeling expressed in this address may continue, and they wish you God-speed, a safe return, and long life and happiness." The presentation was most enthusiastically applauded.

MR. CHARLES WILSON, in acknowledging the testimonial, could hardly speak, but in a voice choked with emotion said, "Boys, you know what I think of you. I shall value this more than anything I possess." Hearty cheers brought the proceedings to a close.

THE address has been illuminated by Mr. E. C. Collings, illuminator by appointment to his Majesty the King, and is a fine piece of work.

THE Empire, Leicester-square, annual outing will in numbers exceed this year that of any other theatrical outing from London. The management has taken great interest in the arrangements, and Mr. Hitchins, the general manager, will accompany the party, numbering 140, to Clacton to-morrow. The outing will be free of cost to any of the staff; dinner, tea, and drives will be provided. Five coaches have been reserved, and refreshment and smokes will be supplied during the journey.

MR. AND MRS. CALVERT ROUTLEDGE, the lessees of His Majesty's Theatre, Barrow-in-Furness, and staff had their first annual outing last Sunday. Journeying by rail to Lakeside, the party took steamer to Ambleside, at which place a char-a-banc was waiting to convey them on to the White Lion Hotel, where a very substantial dinner was disposed of. After dinner the party went for a twelve mile drive round Grasmere Lake and Rydal, passing the birthplaces of Wordsworth and Coleridge on the way. On the return to the hotel tea was partaken of, the homeward journey being commenced at 6.15. Barrow was reached at 8.45, everyone having spent a thoroughly enjoyable time. The officials of the party were Mr. R. Ellison, hon. secretary, and Mr. H. Potter, hon. treasurer, and great credit is due to both for the admirable way in which all the arrangements were carried out.

THE staff of the Eastbourne Hippodrome took their annual outing on Sunday last. The party, to the number of about fifty, drove to Rushlake Green, where an excellent dinner was satisfactorily dealt with. Mr. Winter, the managing-director of the Hippodrome, occupied the chair, and his health was enthusiastically drunk. The other toasts were those of Mr. Smith, the manager, and the staff. The day was beautifully fine, and the outing was greatly enjoyed.

THE Alhambra staff went for their annual outing to Dovercourt last Sunday. Dinner and tea were provided for the party, numbering sixty-three,

LONGSIGHT Wakes, Manchester, will begin July 26.

AT Oundle are Tiller's mechanical mannikins and bioscope exhibition, giving high-class performances.

THE attractions at Kettering Feast were Barker and Thurston's motors, Thurston's Royal cinematograph show, Purchase's menagerie and waxworks, W. Taylor's cinematograph, Hughes' school of boxers, and a fine art exhibition; Messrs. Johnson, Suett, Bromwich, Harris, Hearns, Holmes, Parkins, Essam, and many others.

AT Upton Snodbury were Strickland's Newmarket gallopers and motor cars, Scott's gallopers, park swings, and Fletcher's varieties.

INKBERROW Wakes was maintained by Scott's steam galloping horses, park swings, shooting saloons, striker, &c., and varieties by Messrs. Arrowsmith and Smith. On the Wakes Sunday the members of the Ancient Order of Foresters paraded to church, headed by the Inkberrow brass band. The vicar conducted the usual feast day service, and in the afternoon threw open to the public the beautiful rose gardens of the vicarage.

THE address of our correspondent on the Worcester round and the hon. agent for the Showmen's Guild is:—Mr. W. C. Sorrell, Victoria-avenue, Astwood Bank, Redditch, Worcestershire. Mr. Sorrell requests that his correspondents give the address in full, as he finds that some of his letters, insufficiently addressed, have been sent to Reddish, Lancashire.

IN the interests of the numerous body of circus performers not only engaged in tenting business, but also following the fairs, the executive of the Showmen's Guild have carefully considered the proposed Dangerous Performances Bill, and acting on the expert opinion of the Parliamentary Agent of the Guild, it is not deemed expedient to offer serious opposition.

IN order to allay any unnecessary alarm with regard to the proposals of the Bill, the executive point out that Clause 2 provides "That no performance can be stopped or proceedings instituted without the consent in writing of the chief officer of police in the district where the offence is committed." It is also to be noted "That no constable or common informer can institute proceedings under the Act." The Parliamentary Agent expressed his conviction that this proviso of an appeal to a trained officer, before proceedings could be taken, would safeguard ordinary circus performances from factious or officious interference.

THE Showmen's Guild fully recognises that the Government Bill has been most carefully drafted, and also that performances of an unskilled and yet altogether dangerous character can only be stopped by a measure of the character indicated by the terms of the proposed Bill. Of course, there is always the danger of the mis-interpretation of an Act of Parliament in the early stages of its existence and working, and these instances must be dealt with as they occur. We feel certain that the whole equestrian profession regrets that suspicion and odium should be cast upon performances in which skill and arduous practice are the dominant factors by the utterly foolish and bravado exhibitions of the kind which have re-recently so seriously alarmed public opinion as to necessitate the introduction of the Government Bill.

MR. GEO. WHITE'S annual carnival is now in full swing at Carnoustie, Scotland. The principal attractions are the new Star Pavilion of animated pictures and varieties; Dr. J. C. Oliver, descriptive lecturer and versatile entertainer; Will Weaver, Scotch comedian; Ted Lewis, comedian, at the piano; Miss Minnie Leslie, contralto; little Fanny Newsome, international dancer; Max Wemberg, Russian vocalist and dancer. The motor-cars of the same management are a great success, and the side attractions are numerous. The grounds are brilliantly illuminated by electricity.

MR. JAMES WHITE'S electric gondolas and other attractions have opened at Wick. Mr. Geo. White's No. 2 Cinematograph Pavilion is also there. Business is moderate.

FAULKNER'S cinematograph and steam swings are at Arbroath enjoying a fair amount of patronage.

MLLE. JEANETTA, the original queen of handcuffs, in conjunction with Madame Herculine, are running North with attractions consisting of lady wrestlers and athletes, and variety performances by Joe Chadwick and Prince Lobelia. Business is good.

ASTWOOD BANK Temperance Fête will be held on Saturday, August 18, instead of Wednesday, August 8, as previously announced.

FOLLOWING Halifax Fair we have the old-fashioned fair at the quiet cathedral town of Wakefield. The fair is held under the very shadow of the old parish church, now dignified as the cathedral.

THE shows were: Enoch Farrer's coliseum of varieties and cinematograph; Professor W. Gibson, with exposé of the black art; Professor Blakey, with second sight séance; Westray's freak show; Permayne's performing bears; the lady athletes and wrestlers; and W. Shaw's fine art gallery. With these were Aspland's motor car circle, Waddington's steam yachts, P. Collins's set of ostriches, W. Shaw's steam swings, and the rifle concerns of Messrs. Houldsworth, Cornwell, Steward, and Mrs. J. Cornwell. There were four coker sheets and ten throwing games and varieties.

FROM Wakefield to Leeds is an easy jaunt, and in the olden days most of the shows on the Yorkshire round went from the one town to the other.

AT Leeds Fair this year the exhibitions were: Westray's natural wonders, Professor Watson's school of boxers and athletes, and George Ling's fine art academy. The machine list included motor cars, by J. W. Waddington and W. H. Marshall, John Collins's galloping horses, steam yachts and whirling the whirl, Corrigan and Morley's steam swings, J. W. Waddington's ostriches, and sets of park swings by Morley and Hughes. The rifle saloons and bottle batteries, four in number, were by J. Seed, W. Ratcliffe, and Mrs. Jameson. The minor novelties, some thirty in number, were provided by W. Turner, A. Rhodes, Mrs. Jameson, J. Joy, and ten other amusement caterers.

SKIPTON, on July 9 and 10, was well maintained by E. Farrer with cinematograph, W. Murphy with motor cars, Messrs. Scott, Casey, Chapman, and Gledstone with swings, Casey and Humphreys with gem horses, Scott, Humphries, and Casey with shooting concerns, and Powell, Smith, Hales, Chapman, and Humphries with varieties, cokers, and throwing games.

IT will be of business interest to our readers to know that by order of the Home Secretary, on the representation of the local authorities concerned, Ormskirk Fair has been changed to the second Monday and Tuesday in September, and Conway Fairs and markets to March 26, May 15, September 13, November 15, and December 23, and big markets on the second Friday in February, April, June, August, and October.

THAT enterprising showman, Alfred Ball, of bioscope fame, finishes this week a most successful season of private business at Tilbury Docks. During his stay of five weeks, the magnificent portable coliseum and cinematograph theatre have been crowded twice nightly, and have been patronised by all classes of residents in and around Tilbury. The local clergy and ministers of religion unite in testifying to the high-class nature of the entertainment provided by Mr. Ball. During his stay Mr. Ball has given benefit performances in aid of the local hospital and other charities, and his liberality is much appreciated by the people of Tilbury, who will no doubt look forward with pleasurable anticipations to a return visit of Mr. Ball and his excellent company of entertainers.

IN connection with this visit very pleasing features were that the leading artists from the show gave their services at the smoking concert in aid of the funds of the Church Lads Brigade and that Mr. Ball has been made a life governor of the local hospital.

OUR many showmen readers in the West of England will hear with regret of the impending departure to British Columbia of their great friend and champion, G. W. A. Norton, Esq.

To the children of the Western fair grounds Mr. Norton's absence from their midst will be irreparable, and we know that the show children will miss his kindly smile and generous comradeship on the fair grounds of the West.

IN defending the showman and his child from misrepresentation and prejudiced attack, Mr. Norton has done most valuable work, and we do not know anyone more admirably equipped by personal knowledge of the show world and ability to express that knowledge than Mr. Norton.

WE feel sure that we are only expressing the wishes of all those whose privilege it has been to know him when we wish him a prosperous voyage and God-speed in his enterprise, and if in the providence of events he should return again to his showmen friends they will welcome him back with both hands.

WE understand that this visit to British Columbia by Mr. Norton is with a view of settling there, but it is not absolutely determined that he will do so. Again we wish him every success, and thank him heartily for all he has done for the showmen of the West.

THE film of the Coronation of the King of Norway, for which R. W. Paul, of 68, High Holborn, is responsible, forms a very complete series of views taken at Trondhjem of this grand event, comprising the whole of the route, and showing all its most interesting features. The first view reveals a fine military procession. There is, too, a very distinct view of the interior of the carriage, showing King Haakon and Queen Maud bareheaded as they are approaching the cathedral before the coronation. The next portion of the film was taken on their return after the coronation, approaching the palace, and shows some of the most important occupants of the carriages, followed by the Royal carriage itself. A very fine view of the interior of this is obtained for the second time, showing their Majesties almost life-size, wearing their crowns and acknowledging the salutes of the people.

THE picture finishes with a view of the window of the palace, at which the King appears with his little son, giving place later to the Queen, who also appears and bows to the people. Length, 120ft.; code-word, "Haakon."

THE business hitherto carried on under the style of the Pathé Cinematograph Co., Ltd., has been acquired by, and will in future be continued under the name of, Pathé Frères, London, 14, Lamb's Conduit-street, W.C. A reduction in prices, rendered possible by the large increase in sales, has been made by this well-known firm, and the new cost of films is now 4d. per foot, net., that is to say, 6d. less 33⅓ per cent.

THE LATE JOHN DEE HUMPHREYS.

The letter from Mr. Arthur Reeve published in our columns recently draws attention to the necessity for helping Mrs. Humphreys and her family. We strongly commend this most deserving case to the generosity of the showman world.

The many friends of the deceased, who was one of the founders of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association, will, we are confident, now that they know the urgent necessity of the case, respond with readiness to this appeal.

During the whole course of a laborious and honourable career John Dee Humphreys was ever ready to assist his brother showmen. His open-handed generosity and unfailing kindness endeared him to a wide circle of friends and comrades in the circus and show world.

The object of the fund is to enable the widow and family to maintain their home until such time as the children are able to earn an income sufficient for that purpose.

SHOWMEN AND EDUCATION FADDISTS.

We are very much afraid that showmen will have to face another crusade of mis-representation and ultimate persecution if a few men who may be rightly termed education faddists have all their own way.

There is a Bill now before Parliament which revives, under worse conditions, some of the provisions of the late George Smith's Moveable Dwellings Bill. The ostensible object of the Bill is to provide for the education of vagrant children, but it is so badly drafted that all children of parents whose work in life necessitates moving from place to place will be brought under the powers and penalties of the Act should it unfortunately become law. There is not the slightest effort made to differentiate between the child of the habitual tramp and the child of any respectable showman or itinerant trader, all alike of every class are brought under the new offence and penalties proposed by the Bill.

We have not the slightest hesitation in warning the showmen of the United Kingdom that they are face to face (if this Bill becomes law) with the greatest invasion of their domestic rights and privileges, and are also subjected to the greatest degradation ever attempted to be imposed upon them and their avocation in life.

Before proceeding to deal with the extraordinary proposals of the Bill, we give the text of the measure in full.

The Bill proposes to provide for the better protection of children of vagrant parents, and is presented by Mr. Spicer, and supported by Sir John Kennaway, Mr. Toulmin, Mr. Cameron Corbett, Mr. Lewis Haslam, Mr. Vivian, and Mr. MacLean, and it comes on for second reading on Monday next, July 16.

Be it enacted by the King's Most Excellent Majesty, by and with the advice and consent of the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and Commons, in this present Parliament assembled, and by the authority of the same, as follows:—

1. When a child is so moved from place to place as to prevent such child from receiving regular education under the Elementary Education Acts, 1870 to 1902, the parent or person having the custody or charge of such child shall be guilty of an offence against this Act, and shall be liable, upon summary conviction, to imprisonment with hard labour for a term not exceeding three months, and such child may be adjudged to be a child of vagrant parents within the meaning of this Act
2. Any constable may take into custody without a warrant and charge before a Justice of the Peace with the commission of an offence under Section 1 of this Act, any person whom he shall have cause to suspect of having committed such an offence, and such Justice of the Peace may order the detention of such person in prison until the charge is heard and such constable may take charge of any child in respect of which an offence is suspected, and deliver him for safe custody to the master of the workhouse of the parish or union in which the aforesaid person has been apprehended until the charge is heard.
3. When any parent has been convicted of an offence under Section 1 of this Act, the Court may adjudge any child in respect of which an offence has been committed to be a child of vagrant parents, and may order that the child of vagrant parents shall be received into the workhouse of the union in which the parent was taken into custody, or the child was adjudged to be a child of vagrant parents, whereupon Section 1 of the Poor Law Act, 1889, as amended by Section 1 of the Poor Law Act, 1899, shall apply, and the Guardians of the poor of such union shall be empowered, as regards such child of vagrant parents, to pass a resolution vesting in themselves, as provided by the said section, the rights of the parent or parents of such child. If the Court orders such child of vagrant parents to be received into a workhouse, the Court may order that the whole or any part of the cost of the maintenance of such child shall be provided by the parent of such child, and paid to the Guardians by whom such child is maintained.
4. Where a child of vagrant parents has been sent to a workhouse under the last preceding section, and the rights of the parent or parents of such child shall have vested in the Guardians of the union to which such workhouse belongs under the provisions of the Poor Law Acts, 1889 and 1899, the said Guardians shall be empowered to board out such child beyond the union under the regulations of the Local Government Board in relation to the boarding out of orphan and deserted children, or to assist the emigration of such a child to a British colony, in the same manner, with the same authority, and under the like conditions as they are already empowered by the statutes in that behalf in the cases of orphan and deserted children.
5. Where a child of vagrant parents has been sent to a workhouse under Section 3 of this Act, the cost of maintaining such child so far as it is not paid by the parent of such child to the Guardians of the union in which the said child is maintained, shall be repaid to the said Guardians by the county council of the county in which the union is situate out of the county rate, but so that the rate of repayment for the maintenance for each child shall not exceed six shillings a week. When a child shall, under the provisions of this Act and the authority of the Local Government Board, be assisted to emigrate to a British colony, the expense of the emigration to such extent as may be approved by the said Board, shall be repaid to the Guardians by the county council of such county.
6. Nothing in this Act shall relieve any person from any liability to contribute to the maintenance of a child sent to or relieved in a workhouse or other child institution, or boarded-out under this Act.
7. Where the Court has made an order under Section 3 of this Act that the cost of a child sent to a workhouse shall be borne in whole or in part by the parent of such child, the payment of any sum so ordered to be paid shall be enforceable, and may be enforced if the Court think fit in the same manner as the payment of money is enforced under an order of affiliation.
8. In the interpretation of this Act the word "child" shall be construed to mean any child apparently under the age of fourteen years.
9. This Act may be cited as the Elementary Education (Vagrant Children) Act, 1906, and shall be read with the Elementary Education Acts, 1870 to 1902.

First of all it is to be noticed that this Act would create an entirely new offence, and one that interferes with the most valued right of individual action. It makes the parents guilty of an offence if they move from place to place, taking their family with them.

Clause 1 of the Bill proposes to make itinerant traders obliged to travel from town to town liable to imprisonment if they take with them a child under the age of fourteen, and no discrimination whatever is made: all parents alike are brought under the power of the law, and are at once stigmatised as vagrant parents.

The promoters of the Bill, having thus created an entirely new offence, and one that involves the most drastic invasion of the liberty of the subject, proceeds in Clause 2 to give to any constable power to apprehend without a warrant any person whom he may suspect of having committed the offence created by the Act. And even more outrageous still, before the parents be brought to trial the constable is given the power of taking charge of the child and making a pauper of him, until such time as the charge be heard.

It is quite impossible to find language strong enough to characterise this most astounding proposal, a proposal so repugnant to every sense and feeling of justice, that even were it proposed to do this with the children of habitual criminals the sense of common fairness inherent in the public mind would rebel against it.

In Clause 3 of the Bill we have another instance of the extent to which education faddists are prepared to go in order to secure what they conceive to be the best thing for the child. By this clause the Guardians of the poor of the union in which the child was separated from its parents are given the power of adopting the child, taking it entirely out of the hands of its natural guardians, the parents; and more than that, the Court may order the parent whose child has been thus stolen from him by law to pay the whole or any part of the maintenance of the stolen child.

The Bill, as will be seen, contains powers to enable the Guardians to board out the child or to send it away to a British Colony.

The Bill, as we have shown it, whilst evidently aiming at the compulsory separation of the children of the habitual tramp, gipsy, and vagrant from their parents, makes no provision of exception whatever to cover the case of travelling hawkers, pedlars, showmen, and fairground traders, and is even, when taken at the valuation of its most liberal-minded promoters, capable of the grossest injustice to a large and industrious section of the community.

It must never be forgotten that in all legislative proposals it is not the pious intention of the legislators that becomes law, but the actual wording of the Bill when it passes Parliament and becomes part and parcel of the Statute law of the land. It may be the pious intention of the promoters of the Bill to take the children of the habitual tramp and the poor little ones begotten in crime, and dragged in their infant years from casual ward to casual ward, from criminal slum to criminal slum, and to make these unfortunate little ones the children of the State, but the Act does not specifically limit its operations to these unfortunate classes.

The Bill does propose to give to any constable power to arrest on his own sweet will and motion any stranger within his beat whom he sees with children apparently under the age of fourteen, and also gives him power to send a child to the workhouse until such time as the parents can be brought to trial for the offence of neglecting the education of the child.

We can well imagine in some of the little country districts how the advent of a travelling show, with its necessary complement of workers, young and old, will be keenly watched by the policeman given for the first time the summary powers of taking into custody without a magistrate's warrant the showman whom he may suspect of committing this new offence, having a child apparently under fourteen not in attendance at an elementary school.

The result would be the utter ruin of the showman and his family, parents would be sent to prison, the children sent to the workhouse, and the show sold up to provide for (as far as it could) the cost of these most outrageous proceedings.

We have said enough to draw attention to the drastic provisions of the Bill, and we have no doubt that the showmen of the Empire (as well as other traders whose business necessitates moving from place to place) will take every step to oppose a Bill so utterly bad and so flagrant an invasion of the liberty of the subject.

We also beg, on behalf of the showmen and fairground traders, to repudiate with all the force and vigour we possess the assumption that lies at the root of this Bill; that is, that any special legislation is at all required to secure for the showman's child the blessing of education so fully enjoyed by the children of other classes in the community. We claim that the showman is as keenly alive to the benefits of education as any other citizen, and that he takes, as a father, as great an interest in the well-being and education of his children as any other man. At the same time it must not be forgotten that the show business is a highly technical and expert trade, and that whilst it is necessary to go to school for the elements of a useful general education, it is also necessary that the child, to learn the business of his life, shall learn it in the school of experience and serve his apprenticeship in the work and business of the show.

The Honorary Chaplain (the Rev. T. Horne) and the Parliamentary agent (F. Millar, Esq.) of the Showmen's Guild, have been in conference upon this most obnoxious Bill, and it has been determined to take every possible measure to safeguard the interests of the showmen threatened by this Bill, and we confidently anticipate that the numerous friends of the showman in the House of Commons will oppose the Bill, and expose its manifold injustice.

A CURE for liver complaint has been discovered in the Topsy-Turvy Railway at the Crystal Palace. The first voyage on the cleverly constructed arrangement may not be appreciated by all, but one soon gets used to it, and after a few trips those who suffer from their liver realise the benefit derived. This is the first topsy-turvy railway erected in England, and is situated in the North Tower Garden. The passenger cars first ascend at an angle of 28 degrees and then descend a slope with an average angle of 45 degrees, the descent giving sufficient momentum to carry the cars right round the loop and on to the starting platform, the journey occupying just over 1½ minutes. Probably the beautiful air of Sydenham, in conjunction with the action of the railway, may have something to do with the cures which have been reported.

THE Mansfield Pleasure Fair commenced on Thursday, and the attractions included Twigdon's switchback and show, Holmes, Neal, and Hall, cinematograph shows, and the usual paraphernalia. On Friday it was unfortunate for the showmen that the majority of the school children were taken out of the town for the day. Mansfield Woodhouse Feast commences on Monday.

T. SCOTT'S new set of steam gallopers, park swings, shooting saloons, bottle batteries, and other shows were at Peopleton Feast.

SINCE the days when the Britannia Theatre of Varieties in the Trongate, Glasgow, had only one rival in Glasgow, it has passed through many vicissitudes. A few months ago Mr. A. R. Pickard took it over, and in the interval he has converted it into a unique place of entertainment, which opened on Monday.

THE interior of the old music hall has been entirely reconstructed, and equipped for the most part with novelties of a most varied description. There are statues and paintings of celebrities, mechanical working models and automatic machines, distorting mirrors, electric shooting saloon, and several tableaux representing human sacrifices in Dahomey.

IN the entertainment hall, which can accommodate about 500 persons, enjoyable turns are given this week by Miss Kate Gourlay, Little Victoria Connor, and the Bioscope. Music is provided by the Japanese ladies' orchestra. There are no fewer than six performances.

MITCHAM FAIR.

We are extremely glad to give our metropolitan showmen readers the welcome information that the Home Secretary has refused to abolish the ancient charter fair at Mitcham. The fair on the 12th of August will therefore take place as usual.

It is interesting to recall the stages of the agitation promoted by a certain number of the residents of Mitcham, to obtain the abolition of the fair, and also to recapitulate the splendid work done by the Showmen's Guild to defeat the scheme for abolishing the fair, and yet at the same time to make every possible effort to conciliate those opposed to it.

The Rev. T. Horne and Mr. Alf. Ball, acting for the Showmen's Guild, have made a number of visits to Mitcham, and have interviewed the leading objectors to the continuance of the fair, and in fact London showmen are under a deep debt of gratitude to these gentlemen for the successful work they have achieved.

With all desire to be fair and just to the gentlemen who wish to abolish the fair, Messrs. Horne and Ball discovered on their first visit to investigate the matter that a great deal of hole and corner work had been done, and a strong effort made to prejudice the fair in the eyes of the powers that be, and to deter the people of Mitcham from defending their fair rights and franchises.

There was a deep rooted impression that it was hopeless to attempt to save the fair, and that the people who were moving to obtain its abolition were too powerful to attack. To make matters more difficult the District Council of Mitcham were co-operating with the enemies of the fair, and local labour circumstances made it a very uncertain quantity to make an appeal to the people direct.

In these circumstances the Guild workers opened up negotiations with the Conservators of Mitcham Common Lands, with a view of getting the fair removed to a more convenient and roomy site on the Common.

These negotiations involving on the part of Messrs. Horne and Ball interviews with the clerk and with the chairman of the Board of Conservators, occupied various days in May, June and July. After every effort on the part of the Guild delegates to arrange matters with the Board of Conservators, the conclusion was the refusal of the Conservators to grant the use of any land under their control for the purposes of the fair.

Now at the end of all these efforts to arrange matters comes the welcome official intimation of the Home Secretary, that after full consideration of all the reasons put before him for abolition and the petition of the showmen against it, he determines that the fair shall remain.

"HUSH."

A Simple Little Story From Real Life.

By FRED COOPER (Uncle Fred).

(Copyright).

Very many years ago, as I passed on my way from school
I often met two tiny mites, performing and "playing the fool,"
Their faces looking so clean and bright, and their tights with spangles gay,
I always loved to see them, as they neared the old highway.

One of these two sometimes for me, seemed to wear a charm,
With a little roll of carpet, tucked so neat beneath the arm,
I'd follow them until they stopped, then drawing up quite near,
Would hear one to the other say "let's have it down just here."

Quickly the little carpet is spread out upon the ground,
The smoothest place selected, whilst the audience gathered round,
These daring little acrobats would then begin their show,
Such wonders never seen before, my heart was all aglow,

Amazed I stood, bewildered, at their strange vocation,
T'was the little one who pleased me most, with the "act of dislocation."
Quite soon the other little one turned to another job,
And with smiling face, passed round the hat, for what he called the "nob."

* * * * *

Again we met, they were playing, and down by the river, stood
Watching the boats on the water, and the boys on logs of wood,
I said, "how nice to paddle, see the river's as smooth as a pearl,"
"Hush!" came the cry, "I mustn't, don't you know I'm a little girl."
The secret was out and then Sir, I saw that first sweet blush,
And ever since then, I've remembered to value that little word "Hush."

* * * * *

T'was many years, perhaps ten or more, ere we met again
And learned the secret two fond hearts no longer could retain—
So home again in England, I settled down in life,
And wooed and won the tumbler's girl, that's now my darling wife.

THE DRAMA IN PARIS.

"LA FONTAINE DE JOUVENCE."

Mythological Comedy, in Two Acts, by M. Emile Bergerat.

Produced at the Comédie-Francaise on July 5.

Télamon ..... M. DEHELLY
Archis ..... M. LOUIS DELAUNAY
Unberger d'Arcadie ..... M. RAVET
Néère ..... MLLE. YVONNE GARRICK
Daméta ..... MME. MADELEINE ROCH

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PARIS, THURSDAY, JULY 12.—La Fontaine de Jouvence, as everybody knows, is the magic fountain, the waters of which have the wonderful effect of rejuvenating the old and ripening the young. M. Bergerat has taken for his theme the legend of Jupiter's experiment on two couples—one a pair of young lovers, and the other an elderly couple—and in delightful verse he tells the effect the magic water has on each. Archis and Daméta, having loved one another for half a century in the valley of Arcadia, are ready to die like they lived, in each other's arms. But the gods do not allow mortals to be perfectly happy, and Jupiter, disguised as a shepherd, decides to spoil their last days on earth. He shows them the fountain where they who drink the waters can recover their youth. For all that Dalméta is not tempted; but Néère, a sixteen year old maiden, is anxious to test the love of Télamon, her admirer; and she wants to know whether, if their hair is suddenly turned grey, he will still pine for her. Télamon does not relish the experiment, and whilst he turns his back on the fountain Néère stays behind and laments. Archis perceives her, and thinks she is Daméta rejuvenated. The wily Jupiter then advises Archis to drink the waters to become as young as the girl whom he takes for Daméta. The old man refuses, and in the meanwhile Télamon, returning to the fountain, meets Daméta. He starts, for he thinks she is Néère, who has carried out her idea, and has suddenly become old. He no longer hesitates, and rushes up to the fountain to follow her example. But Daméta watches over them, and shows him Néère hidden behind some trees, opening her arms to embrace him. Jupiter's plan has failed. The old couple are glad to quit this life, and the young pair rejoice in their youth and love. Written in musical verse, M. Bergerat's new play met with an excellent reception. It was well acted, but we would recommend to Mlle. Garrick not to make so many grimaces when she becomes emotional.

THE Comédie-Francaise also gave us a revival of Alexandre Dumas fils' La Princesse de Bagdad. The work had dropped out of the répertoire, and it was a mistake to blow the dust off this ancient work, and serve it up again. Written in 1881, it seems as if it were at least a century old. Curiously enough, Dumas fils' plays lose their hold on the public; and of all his productions his Dame aux Camélias is the only one that seems to remain in favour. But in La Princesse de Bagdad there is a rôle that may well tempt any actress. It is that of Lionnette, created by Mme. Jane Hading, who was admirable in it. Lionnette, with royal blood in her veins, is beautiful, so beautiful that all men fall at her feet. She is proud, and her morals are pure; but her mother was a courtesan, which is the reason why a kind of fatal charm emanates from her. The rôle this time had been entrusted to Mme. Raphaele Sises, a clever actress, but not suited to that part. Lionnette's haughty temperament is beyond her, and it was a pity she made the attempt. In rôles where she can impersonate tender, self-sacrificing women, she will be more at home. The pleasure of the evening was also marred by an unexpected incident. M. Coquelin, cadet, had forgotten his part. The prompter shouted; everybody in the house could hear him except M. Coquelin, who tried to save the situation by improvising. But, as he does not possess that gift, all we heard was a confused noise and words mumbled that never came from Dumas' pen. The courteous Comédie-Francaise public took no notice of the incident, which, if it had taken place in one of the provincial theatres, would have caused a commotion. Two or three of the artists engaged in the piece gave us clearly to understand that they were in a bad temper about something, and I do not remember having ever seen a play produced on a Paris stage in such an extraordinary fashion. The fault, of course, lies with the management, whose laxity has become proverbial. But M. Jules Claretie takes things very philosophically, and reasons: "Après moi le déluge."

M. CLARETIE has accepted Poliche, a comedy by M. Henry Bataille, wherein the two principal rôles will be played by Mme. Cécile Sorel and M. de Féraudy. M. Bataille has also a piece ready for production at the Vaudeville. It is called La Femme Artiste, and was specially written for Mme. Berthe Bady.

THE Comédie-Francaise, moreover, has put into rehearsal Le Philosophe sans le savoir, by M. Sedaine, with Mlle. Bergé in the principal part. At that theatre we will also have in the autumn La Courtisane, a play in five acts in verse by M. Arnyvelde. It was wrongly announced that M. Paul Adam's piece, Les Victimes, had been accepted at the house of Molière. The work, a three-act one, will only be read there this week.

THE Opéra-Comique promises us great things for the coming season. First there is Le Songe d'un soir d'automne, a one-act musical tragedy, the poem by M. Gabriel d'Annunzio, music by M. R. Terre Alpira. It will be sung by M. Litvinne.

NEXT we will have Alfred de Musset's Le Chandelier, adapted by MM. de Flers and de Caillavet, set to music by M. Messager. The rôle of Fortunio has been entrusted to Mlle. Geneviève Vix, and the other parts will be sung by Mme. Marguerite Carré and MM. Fugère and Defranne.

MME. EMMA CALVE, we are told, will make once more her appearance at the Salle Favart in Le Mariage de Figaro, with Mlle. Mathieu Lutz as Chérubin.

M. ALPHONSE FRANCK, of the Gymnase, has accepted two plays by M. Albert Guinon, Les Fauves and Elles et Eux, to be produced one after the other. The Gymnase cast, an exceptionally strong one, will comprise MM. Duménу, Gaston Dubosc, Henry Burguet, Pierre Achard, Mmes. Marthe Regnier, Simone Le Bargy, Felyne, Henriot, Catherine Fonteney, etc.

M. GEMIER, who has taken over the management of the Théatre Antoine, intends to open on the 20th of September. He will start with a revival of M. Emile Fabre's La Vie Publique, produced at the Renaissance. He will also give us Courteline's Les Gaietés de l'Escadron, and again interpret the rôle of the old general which he created. Of the new pieces to be brought there M. Gémier does not make any mention.

THE Bouffes-Parisiens, under the new management of MM. Clot and Dublay, will open their doors with a five-act piece by MM. Georges Buysieu and Roger MAX. It bears the title Petit Léon. Mlle. Suzanne Devoyod will interpret the principal rôle.

M. ANTOINE has engaged at the Odéon Mlle. Lucie Brille, who, in the Théatre Antoine, created such an excellent impression in Le Roi Lear. Mlle. Brille will appear in the Odéon in the classical répertoire.

THERE seems to be a hitch in the negotiations between the brothers Isola and the liquidators of the Nouveau-Cirque. It is, however, probable that the difficulties will be overcome.

THE Cluny Theatre intended to keep open all through the summer, but, like the rest of us, overcome by the heat, it has closed its doors, and will reopen in September.

DEATH OF MISS REBEKAH DEERING.

We regret to announce the death of Miss Rebekah Deering (Mrs. Ernest Stevens), a talented actress, a cultured lady, and a genial and kindly friend. She was suddenly taken seriously ill, and passed peacefully away at Upper Holloway early on Tuesday morning. She had not acted for some time before her death. Her last appearance was as Helen MacGregor in the play of Rob Roy, produced about three years ago at the Grand Theatre, Glasgow, of which her husband, Mr. Ernest Stevens, was proprietor and manager. Since then, however, Mr. Stevens has sold this establishment, and settled in London; he is the lessee of the Brixton Theatre, and is interested in other theatrical undertakings.

Miss Deering was born in the picturesque little city of Portland, Maine, U.S.A. She made her first professional appearance at the age of fifteen, under the name of Annie Waite, as Parthenia, in Ingomar, at the National Theatre, Boston, being a pupil of the late Wizeman Marshall. After a few months' experience in the smaller towns she was engaged by John Ellsler for juveniles and boys' parts, at Wood's Theatre, Cincinnati, Ohio. Playing here with the late Edward Sothern, she was recommended by him to the management of the theatres at Buffalo and Albany, where she undertook the full line of leading business in the legitimate and romantic drama, being then known as the youngest leading lady in the United States. For some years she played in most of the principal American cities, supporting, among others, Edwin Booth, Edwin Forrest, John E. Owens, Joseph Jefferson, John M'Culloch, Mr. and Mrs. Florence, E. L. Davenport, Lester Wallack, J. W. Wallack, Edward Sothern, M'Kee Rankin, Lawrence Barrett, and the British actors Barry Sullivan and T. C. King, playing such parts as Ophelia, Desdemona, Emelia, Rosalind, Beatrice, Juliet, Portia, Lady Macbeth, Viola, Katherine, Kate Hardcastle, Lady Teazle, Lady Gay Spanker, Marguerite in Faust, Pauline, Nancy Sikes, Leah, Camille, &c. Coming to Britain she adopted the family name of Deering, and began touring with her own company in 1882, playing the leading rôles in a répertoire of Shakespearean plays and old English comedies; Lady Isabel, in a special version of East Lynne; and, later, Josephine in Charles Reade's Double Marriage, and Jacqueline in Frank Harvey's A Woman's Vengeance. An altogether unusual performance for an actress was her appearance as Richard III., a rôle which she sustained some 200 times. In 1883 she became lessee of the Agricultural Hall, Walsall, and improved and reconstructed it, rechristening it the Theatre Royal; but, finding it unsuccessful, relinquished it eighteen months later. In 1887 Mr. Ernest Stevens joined Miss Deering as acting-manager, and two years afterwards they together leased the Theatre Royal, Whitehaven, in which town they were married. After two and a half years of successful management, they sought wider fields, and toured with Queen's Evidence, by arrangement with the late Sir Augustus Harris, Miss Deering appearing as Kate Medland. In 1894 Mr. Stevens leased the Grand Theatre, Glasgow, and Miss Deering appeared there in stock seasons in a fine revival of Macbeth, as Lady Macbeth, and also as Helen Macgregor and Jeanie Deans. In October, 1895, she created the part of Lady Wallace in her husband's drama, Scots Wha' Hae Wi' Wallace Bled. In April, 1896, she appeared as Rebecca in his adaptation of Ivanhoe, and in October, 1897, she also played the leading character of Margaret Gordon in Mr. Stevens's Jacobite play For Bonnie Scotland. She secured a notable success in this fine emotional heroic rôle, and the play proved a hugely popular production, being revived for long and prosperous runs for several seasons.

THE Military Fête which took place at the Government House, Aldershot (by permission of General Sir John French) on Tuesday and Wednesday was from a musical point of view alone a great success, no less than 1,300 performers (under the bâton of Mr. Sims, R.A.M.B.), discoursing music with marvellous precision and effect. The spectacular portion, too, was a sight ever to be remembered by those who saw it, grand historical pageants, naval and military displays, and a torchlight tattoo in which upwards of 1,200 troops took part, being some of the features. Praise is due to the committee, with Brigadier-General Heath as chairman, and to the hon. sec., Mr. R. Courtenay Welch, for the success which was achieved.

ON the opening of the Great Eastern Railway Company's new route to Sheringham on July 23, it is announced that a luncheon car will be attached on week-days to the 1.30 p.m. express from Liverpool-street to Cromer, Mundesley, and Sheringham, and from the same date similar accommodation will be provided on the up journey by the 1.0 p.m. express ex Cromer, which is joined at North Walsham by trains leaving Sheringham at 12.36 p.m. and Mundesley at 12.47 p.m. Dining cars are already running on the 4.55 p.m. train from Liverpool-street to Cromer, and a breakfast car is attached to the 8.0 a.m. train from Cromer to London on week days. The latter, from the 23rd inst., will be in connection with a train leaving Sheringham at 7.35 a.m., due into Liverpool-street at 11.25 a.m.

A NOVELTY of peculiar interest appeared at Mme. Amy Sherwin's concert at Bechstein Hall, on Wednesday, when Mr. J. Dorasami, a "high caste" Mudaliar of the Madras Presidency, contributed to the programme. He plays the violin in what may be called the prehistoric way—held between the knees as the 'cello, and as the native Indian fiddle, the Sarangwe, is still played. In the Wieniawski "Legende" and the finale from the Mendelssohn Concerto he displayed musical feeling and admirable execution.

When the curtain fell on Monday at the conclusion of the new ballet In Sunny Spain, the Winter Gardens Co. and the gentlemen who were responsible for the various parts added another success to their already big list. Elaborate spectacle, handsome dresses, and a plot which is humorous and well told throughout are combined in a production which was received with every mark of approval. The first scene is the Market Place of the town of Bolero on a feast day, and the folks are enjoying themselves in the true Spanish spirit. A ballet of muleteers, cigarette makers, goatherds and grape gatherers is here introduced, the vintagers starting one of the prettiest songs of the evening, "Wine, wine, beautiful wine." Next the Alcalde of Bolero appears and proceeds to unravel the thread of the play. The late Lord of Bolero, after a wrecked life, has left this world heavily in debt. By his will he orders that his title, his lands, and the hand of the daughter Dolores shall be drawn for in a lottery, the proceeds of which should pay off his creditors. Unfortunately, Dolores already has a lover, one Don Alfonso, who swears to prevent anyone but himself wedding the maiden. Alfonso now makes his entrance and sings a duet with Dolores. The lottery is drawn and the winner turns out to be Don José, an adventurer, who for some shady reason had to leave Spain and, going to England, became "pally" with a Bill Hopkins, a retired cat's-meat man and greengrocer. José borrows money of Hopkins to purchase tickets for the lottery, promising, should he win, to make the Englishman a "Count" and to give him a concession for Spanish onions. Bill, his wife and "The Nipper" arrive in Bolero in time for the result of the draw. But Don Alfonso and his friends combine against José and prevail upon Hopkins by threats to take the place of José, while they hold the latter prisoner under the name of Bill Hopkins.

The second scene is a camp, and here Bill Hopkins, as Lord of Bolero, has to act as judge in an action which Mrs. Hopkins brings against Don José, her pretended husband, for restitution of conjugal rights.

The last scene is the Plaza de Toros. According to the conditions of the lottery the winner has to engage in a bull fight, and the pseudo don in fearful trepidation takes a lesson in the art. He escapes the real contest, however, for it is found that the number of the lottery ticket has been read upside down, and that the prize really belongs to Don Alfonso. All is soon made right, and amidst a blaze of light and colour, pretty faces and charming dresses the curtain falls. There is a succession of gorgeous ballets, the grand finale coming with a glorious floral and fruit fête amid beautiful electrical effects.

Miss Dorothy Gould, as Dolores, acts and sings in a manner which soon captivates her audience, and her lover, Don Alfonso, as played by Miss Jessie Templeton, is as brave and dashing a fellow as any girl could wish for. Mr. Teddy Gibbs and Miss Rene Howard, as Don José and his sister, are excellent. Mr. Harry Elliston makes a first rate Alcalde of Bolero, and Mr. Charles Hampden as the monk, Fra Philippo, sings splendidly. Freddy French as Pedro and Miss Lizzie Hay as Nina, his lover, are excellent, while a deal of the credit should go to Bob Selvidge, Miss May Sharples and Mr. Barney Dixon as Bill Hopkins, his wife, and The Nipper, their son. They are extremely funny, Hopkins bringing down the house with his song "When I'm M.P." The funniest episode of the evening is the fearful bull fight "Bill" engages in. Altogether the show is first-class from beginning to end, and reflects great credit on all responsible for its production.

THE CANONBURY CLUB.

The Canonbury Club annual garden party and concert took place at the Club House, Canonbury Tower, on Saturday evening, and was favoured by delightful weather. There was a large attendance of members and their friends, this being the only occasion during the year when the ladies have an opportunity of viewing the ancient Tower, which was built in 1362, and frequently visited by Queen Elizabeth. The programme opened with a charming selection of music by Mr. Lovett King's excellent Bijou Orchestra. From the Islington Empire came Mr. R. H. Douglas, whose monologue was greatly appreciated; and another highly successful turn was Mr. Percy Honri, for whose presence the Clubites were indebted to the courtesy of Mr. C. W. Adams, manager of the Holloway Empire. Mr. Honri delighted the company by his admirably-played selections on the concertina, accompanied by amusing patter. The clever instrumentalist was loudly applauded. Mr. Arthur Helmore, the original Private Secretary, gave a choice selection from his extensive répertoire. Mr. Walter Grace, the veteran vocalist, sang "The Carnival" and other songs with characteristic vigour. A duet, "Domestic Economy," by Miss Edith Shorey and Mr. Will Carney, was well received; as were also their solo contributions. Mr. Charles Gellett recited "The Browns of Walham Green" and other pieces with unqualified success. Miss Minnie Henstridge sang "Smiles," Tosti's "Good-Bye," and "The Land of Hope and Glory" in charming style. Miss Lucy Weston, Miss Maud Hodgson, and Mr. Ralph Carlssohn also scored as vocalists; and Mr. Philip Levard, boy conjurer, gave a smart performance. Mr. Will Scott, coster comedian, was applauded. Mr. Lovett King rendered valuable assistance as accompanist and musical director. The entertainment, which concluded with a dance on the lawn, was under the management of Messrs. R. T. Baines, J. Benjamin, Will Clinch, L. King, and H. T. Pearson, the energetic, hard-working secretary of the Club. At dusk the grounds were brilliantly illuminated, and the general effect was much admired.

THE Worshipful Company of Musicians held a Court dinner at Stationers' Hall, on Tuesday evening. The Master, Mr. E. E. Cooper, occupied the chair, supported by Sir Homewood Crawford (Senior Warden) and Mr. A. C. Hunter (Junior Warden). Among others present were Mr. S. E. and Mrs. Palmer, Cavalier Alberto and Mrs. Randegger, Sir Frederick Bridge, Sir Ernest and Lady Clarke, Mr. C. B. and Mrs. Edgar, Mr. Otto Goldschmidt, Mr. and Mrs. H. Trood Mason, the Rev. R. H. and Mrs. Hadden, Mr. T. Lea Southgate, Mr. A. F. Hill, Canon Duckworth, and Mr. T. C. Fenwick. In recognition of the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Robert Schumann a "Schumann" programme of music was given.

MISS DOT STEPHENS' SAD CASE.

Miss Doris Stephens, best known in the professional world as Dot Stephens, a very clever vocalist and dancer, met with a terrible accident late on Saturday night, the 30th ult. She had fulfilled an engagement at H.M. Theatre of Varieties at Walsall, and left on Saturday night to go to Glasgow, where she was to have appeared this week. On reaching Wolverhampton she had to wait some time to join the midnight mail on the London and North-Western line, and there met some professional friends. She went to the Hippodrome, Wolverhampton, and was afterwards accompanied to the High Level Station by a gentleman, who secured her a seat in a second-class compartment, and saw that the door on the platform side was properly fastened before the train started. On arrival at Stafford the door on the offside was found to be open and the compartment empty. There was a quantity of luggage on the racks and seats, and as there appeared to have been an accident a light engine was at once despatched up the line to search the track. On reaching Fordhouses, about three miles from Wolverhampton, the unfortunate young lady was found lying in the six foot way in an unconscious state, and terribly injured. She was conveyed to the Wolverhampton station, and thence to the General Hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate one foot and part of the other. She was also found to be seriously lacerated about the head and body. On Sunday afternoon she had recovered consciousness, but had no recollection of how the accident occurred. It is supposed that she was under the impression that she was travelling in a corridor car, and on opening the door fell to the ground.

Miss Stephens is progressing most favourably at the Wolverhampton Hospital, and she has been greatly cheered by the many letters of sympathy which have come from all parts of the country—there have been quite a lot from Walsall, where she had sung with such acceptance during a previous week.

Characteristic of that good fellowship which exists amongst the profession, a matinée is being arranged for her benefit at Her Majesty's Theatre, Walsall.

The Era will gladly advocate the claims of Miss Stephens to the generous consideration of both the dramatic and variety professions. She is a clever vocalist, dancer, and actress, and first appeared with Mr. Bannister Howard as the Salvation Army lass in The Belle of New York, remaining with the company three years. She then joined Mr. George Dance for the part of Mrs. Pineapple in A Chinese Honeymoon and afterwards Mr. C. P. Levilly, understudying Miss Stella Gastelle as Alesia in La Poupée, a part she subsequently played, and was to resume in the autumn in Mr Herbert Ralland's company, lately on tour.

Asked how she could account for the accident, Miss Stephens remarked, "The railway carriage was stuffy, and I went to open the window. After that I recollect nothing more till I regained consciousness in the hospital."

It is intended that the proceeds shall be devoted to the purchase of an annuity for Miss Stephens, whose terrible misfortune has already excited the greatest commiseration.

So sad a case has rarely, if ever, been brought before the dramatic and musical profession, whose record abounds in deeds of charity. The name of Miss Stephens is now to be added to the already full scroll of Benevolent actions.

Miss Ellen Terry sends a subscription, with these womanly and sympathetic words:—"For the poor child Dot Stephens, with loving sympathy from Ellen Terry."

Miss Edna May writes:—"I am more grieved than I can say over this dreadfully sad case. I have sent to all my friends; have also asked for assistance from The Belle of Mayfair company, and hope to be able to send you a good sum by Friday or Saturday. I don't remember ever having heard of anything so sad as this little girl's accident. Please let me know if I can do anything else."

Miss May Lewis encloses a cheque, and writes: "I cannot tell you how glad I am to see that the poor unfortunate lady's case has been taken up. It has my most sincere sympathy."

Mr. Chas. E. Machin accompanies his cheque with the following note:—"I beg to enclose my little cheque for the Dot Stephens Fund. It is a terrible calamity."

All subscriptions will be duly acknowledged in these columns. Subscriptions may be sent to Mr. J. Bannister Howard, Hon. Treasurer, 3, Bedford-street, Strand, W.C.; to the "Dot Stephens Fund," at the Capital and Counties Bank, King-street, Covent Garden; or to the Assistant Hon. Treasurer, Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, The Era Office, 5, Tavistock-street, W.C.

The story of the new play is as follows: Anthony Ford, a prematurely-aged blacksmith, a kindly man stricken with sorrow by the death of his wife at an early age, devotes what little money he has managed to scrape together to the welfare and advancement of his two children, Arthur and Phyllis. Phyllis marries a Captain Mannering, who, on the outbreak of the Boer war, goes out to the front and is killed, leaving Phyllis a widow three months after her marriage. Arthur, studying to qualify as a civil engineer, is led into gambling and drinking by his cousin, Lord Woodville, for whom he good-naturedly but foolishly "backs" a bill for £5,000. Just as Phyllis receives the terrible news concerning her husband's death, her father gets a letter informing him that his brother Mark has died suddenly and bequeathed a fortune of £50,000 to Phyllis and Arthur, provided they are both unmarried at the time the will is proven. Arthur, pressed for money, reproaches Phyllis for ever having married, thereby causing them to lose their uncle's fortune. Lord Woodville persuades Phyllis to save her brother from ruin, by avowing that she was never married to Captain Mannering. Phyllis, moved by affection for her brother, denies her marriage, and in a very strong and powerful scene tells her father that she was never a wife. Ford, almost bereft of reason, disowns his daughter and Phyllis goes out to fight the battle of life, a child being born to her as some consolation for the sacrifice she has made. She finds the struggle to keep herself and the child of her dead husband a hard and bitter one, but suffers bravely and alone. How Lord Woodville, after this, lures his other victim, Arthur, into a marriage with his own wife, Sybil, so as to obtain, through her, Arthur's share of the fortune; how the poor wife, after weary waiting, approaches her father with the truth, by bringing to him, as she thinks, her marriage certificate; how she finds, upon arriving at her father's old cottage, that the certificate has been stolen; how, in the end, the partly-burnt marriage register, containing the entry of Phyllis's marriage, is discovered intact by Mongrole, Woodville's catspaw, and given to Phyllis out of revenge for Woodville having, years ago, betrayed his wife, occupy the rest of the action.

The play is written in terse and vigorous style, the situations are strong, and the interest is well maintained.

The character of Anthony Ford, the blacksmith, was undertaken by Mr. Douglas C. Phelps, who was alike good in the strong as well as the more tender passages; the numerous little touches he imparted were natural and convincing, and his make-up was excellent. Arthur was played in vigorous fashion by Mr. F. R. Gwyn Richardson, and Mr. Leonard Aardale, as Lord Woodville, was duly sinister and plausible. Mongrole was capitally rendered by Mr. Herbert Sydney, his acting in the disguise of the Sexton in the last act being especially noteworthy. Phyllis, the much sinned against wife, was pathetically played by Miss Pattie Hastings, and she gave a careful and well thought-out reading of a difficult part. Miss Grace Harlington, as Lady Sybil, was very effective, her occasional touches of pathos being excellent. Mr. Frank Hudspeth and Miss Lallah Davis were well to the fore in very good comedy-parts, the latter being especially sweet and winning. The other characters were well represented.

The piece was effectively mounted, and the production was in the hands of Mr. Phelps, who must have devoted careful thought on the work, as evidenced by the thoroughness of the performance on the opening night. The play was enthusiastically received by a full house. The authors were loudly called for, but did not respond.

AN action was heard before Judge Grantham in the Civil Court at Newcastle Assizes, on the 5th inst. in which Messrs. Bolton, Fane, and Co., of London, claimed from Stuart Mould, a Newcastle architect, £145, the price of a fire-proof curtain supplied to the King's Theatre, Gateshead, of which Mr. Mould was the architect. It was stated that there was no question that the work was done—the question was whether Mr. Mould was liable for the bill or not. The order for the curtain was given by Mr. Mould by letter, and under the circumstances Messrs. Fane chose to sue him, for there was some difficulty in finding out who the principals were. After hearing the evidence, the jury found for Messrs. Fane for £145.

MR. JOE MAY, the enterprising manager of the King's, Gateshead, has this week promoted a singing competition, which has attracted a large number of amateurs. The first prize is £3 in cash, the second £2, and the third £1.

MR. JOE HORROCKS has been engaged to produce Mr. Lingford Carson's pantomime, The Babes in the Wood, at the Queen's Theatre, Keighley. Mr. Horrocks has had a lengthy experience, and this will be his twenty-first production.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, July 9, the Drama, entitled
"THE SHADOWS OF A GREAT CITY."

Melodrama still holds the sway here, and Mr. Robert Arthur is this week presenting that well-known drama, The Shadows of a Great City, which is of American origin, but is quite as popular on this side of the "herring pond" as the other. The company on the whole is a very good one, and the play has attracted capital audiences during the week. Mr. Fred Victor, who appears as Tom Cooper, the sailor, gives a very fine embodiment of the character, playing it in a breezy but earnest style. That amusing personage, Jim Farren, is humorously depicted by Mr. George Ross, who never misses a chance to create amusement, and he is most successful in his endeavours to supply the light comedy of the story. Another cause of hilarity is the old pawnbroker of the Jewish persuasion, Abe Nathan, who is cleverly portrayed by Mr. E. Howard Templeton, whose make-up is notably good. That clever actress, Miss Emily Spiller, appears as Biddy Roonan, and plays the character with real Irish spirit, thereby making herself an immense favourite. Miss May Chevalier appears in the dual rôle of Annie Standish and Nellie Standish, and she portrays the two characters in a decidedly clever manner; the pathetic side is shown in the earlier scenes as the mother, and then later, as the daughter, she depicts a light-hearted young girl. It is a praiseworthy piece of acting, deserving of hearty approval. The villain of the play, George Benson, is well rendered by Mr. Stanley Harrison, who acts with much force. Mr. J. Norrie is seen to advantage as the detective. Messrs. Leon Stewart, Brocklebank, and Coates, and Miss Hettie Summers also lend valuable assistance in the minor rôles. The play is adequately mounted, and the scene of the rescue on the rocks is particularly good. Mr. Wilfred Stanford continues to look after Mr. Robert Arthur's interests here, and Mr. George Lord and his orchestra deserve mention for their share in the evening's amusement, their efforts meeting with much appreciation.

GRAND THEATRE, ISLINGTON.

On Monday, July 9,
the Musical Comedy novelty, entitled
"DARE DEVIL DOROTHY."

A very pleasant change is provided this week at the Grand by Mr. Henry Swinerd's company in the above attraction. A novelty it decidedly is, inasmuch as it contains within it the germs both of the drama and the go-as-you-please musical comedy, the combination proving greatly to the taste of the patrons of this theatre, where good houses have been the result. Mr. Wilfred Carr has supplied a satisfactory book that can easily be adapted to circumstances, and the music, in which is interpolated a good many popular songs, is bright and tuneful. A capable company has been engaged for the production. Mr. Edward Kipling as Crump is quite the hit of the evening; an experienced comedian, and a clever dancer, his quips and songs kept the audience highly amused, and encores being much in demand. Special mention should be made of his plantation scena with Miss Nellie Harcourt and a chorus of children, which gained a big reception. Mr. Walter Ashley as Captain Fielding made a favourable impression, using a good voice with effect, and acting well. Mr. Henry C. Ward as Captain Dudley played the heavy rôle with great success. Mr. Deane Cliffe as Featherstone Haugh did everything possible with a poor part; Mr. Alf. Stretton as Hawkins was commendable in a part of limited opportunities; Miss Nellie Harcourt as Judith gave a bright and animated performance. This lady is an accomplished dancer, and special mention must be made of her skipping-rope dance in Act 3. Miss Marie Vere as Ruth was acceptable in a small part; Miss Dorothy Desmonde in the title-rôle made a decided hit, singing a number of songs charmingly and acting daintily. The Misses Lillie and Mabel Blake introduced, with happy results, several dances, all of them very clever; and in Act 3 Mlle. Dora gave some solos on the oboe, gaining cordial applause. Mr. Herbert Somerville directed a good performance, and the tour is under the direction of Mr. J. W. Gardiner.

PRINCE'S, POPLAR.

On Monday, July 9,
the Melodrama, in Four Acts, by G. Howard Watson and W. P. Sheen, entitled
"THE WAY OF THE WORLD."

This stirring melodrama, with its scenes of circus and sporting life, is appealing strongly to the patrons of the New Prince's Theatre, and is ably interpreted by Messrs. Montague Beaudyn and Sidney Crowe's capital company. The character which stands out most prominently is that of Adela de la Roche, the "Queen of Lions," and Miss Sidney Crowe is to be congratulated on a most able and telling performance. She imparts life and vigour to the impersonation of the adventuress Mr. Harold B. Lewis as Cecil Montague has a part that fits him like a glove, and he makes the most of his opportunities as Captain Fred Slade. Mr. Herbert Skardon earns the villain's portion, and draws the usual disapproval of the patrons of the gallery upon him. His acting throughout is powerful and intense. Mr. Clarence Temple gives a capital performance as Matthew Malyon, a disgraced clergyman; and Mr. Augustus Hammond as Horatio Bluff, a broken down swell, creates much amusement. Mr. Fred Mace does well as Sir John Slade; and Mr. Pat Quinn is quite at home in the part of the circus proprietor, Silas Montague. As Joe Sparrow, Mr. Dick Seddon adds to the humour of the piece, and he is ably seconded in his efforts by Miss Marie Fontaine, who plays Polly Bell in a bright and merry fashion. Miss Cissie Bellamy as Kate Montague is well placed, and acts with care and dignity; and Miss Violet Ingram wins golden opinions by her impersonation of Marian Fanshaw. As Ned Montague, Mr. Frank Stanley could not be bettered; and the smaller parts are all in capable hands. The equine actors deserve the highest praise, Tweedledum and Tweedledee, the two miniature ponies, showing great aptitude and intelligence. The incidental music is well rendered under the capable direction of Mr. Stephen E. Blythe, and Mr. Herbert Leonard, the courteous business and acting-manager, is never-failing in his efforts to secure the comfort of the patrons of the theatre.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, July 9, the play entitled
"THE BELLS."

The adaptation of The Bells, presented by the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company on Monday evening at the Pavilion, contains not only the principal features of the famous Lyceum production, but also a sensational and startling incident which adds considerably to the interest of the play. At the same time the interpolation of songs into a piece of this character appears altogether unnecessary, and protracts the performance to a late hour. A highly melo-dramatic portrait, although a trifle unequal, of Mathias Trachtman was presented by Mr. M. D. Waxman, who was extremely good in the first act, while Mr. Joseph Fineberg gave an admirable representation of Steinhertz. Mr. M. Streng appeared as Hershel. Undoubtedly the success of the evening was achieved by Mr. J. Scherman, who, by his fine impersonation of Benjamin, secured a triumph which was deservedly popular, his portrayal of lost memory, fear, and the return to reason being done with great artistic skill, and the sympathy of the audience was repeatedly expressed by the loud applause which testified their appreciation of the actor's ability. Madame Rose Waxman was earnest and efficient as Regina, Madame J. Kayzer made a commendable Serel, and Madame F. Waxman was duly effective as Helena. Mr. Gusofsky carried off honours by his forcible and thoughtful rendering of Nobel, and Mr. Schapira was satisfactory as Adolf. Mr. Zeidel was seen to advantage as Abraham Nobel, and Mr. Iasacowitz apparently read the part of the Judge. Madame Goldstein did all that was necessary as Hana-Sarah. The week's programme includes The Jewish Minister, The Jewish Priest, Korah's Treasures, Judith and Alphernas, and Haman the Second.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, July 9,
the Play in Four Acts, entitled
"THE NEW MAGDALEN."

At the Shakespeare Theatre this week a cordial greeting is being extended to Mr. A. Clifton Alderson and his London company who, by kind permission of Mr. J. B. Mulholland, are presenting Wilkie Collins' The New Magdalen. The acting throughout is worthy of warmest praise, but most of the success of the performance is due to the admirable interpretation of the parts of Mercy Merrick and Julian Gray by Miss B. Doyle and Mr. A. Clifton Alderson. Miss Doyle depicts the feelings of the heroine with a power and intensity that quite enthral the audience and rouse their sympathy to the utmost. Equally successful is Mr. A. Clifton Alderson, whose excellent rendering of the part of the unconventional but warm-hearted clergyman, Julian Gray, evokes the warmest appreciation. Mr. H. K. Ayliff is to be commended for a sterling performance in the rôle of Horace Holmcroft. Miss Mildred Gilbert is seen to advantage in the part of Lady Janet Roy, and Miss G. Hastings Walton is eminently satisfactory as the vindictive Grace Roseberty. Mr. Harry Wright as Ignatius Wetzell and Mr. Richard Cameron as Surgeon Martini capably sustain their respective parts. The play is preceded by the farce Bamboozling, which evokes roars of laughter and is capably acted by Mr. H. K. Ayliff as Captain Bamboozle, Mr. H. Wright as Sir M. Meadows, Mr. Richard Cameron as Frank Tiverton, Miss Mildred Gilbert as Lady Meadows, Miss G. Hastings Walton as Sophy Western, and Miss Moya Mannering as Emily.

ELEPHANT AND CASTLE.

On Monday, July 9,
the Domestic Play, in Four Acts, by Lingford Carson, entitled
"THE DRAMA OF LIFE."

Mr. Lingford Carson's No. 1 Company is appearing this week in the domestic play The Drama of Life. A company of all-round excellence, aided by the most elaborate staging and effects, holds the audience from start to finish. Mr. J. M. East has indeed secured a great attraction for the close of the season. Mr. George M. Newall is responsible for a fine piece of acting as Harry Beech, first as a young husband, then, when mourning the loss of his wife, who leaves him through the machinations of his cousin, the habitual drunkard being slowly killed by brandy. Mr. Newall's elocution is especially fine, and his methods are resourceful throughout. Walter Beech, the cousin who is responsible for the villainy of the piece, is played in a sufficiently repulsive way by Mr. Edward M. Hamilton, his varied action and expressive delivery giving full value to the part. The detective, Richard Brenton, is capably represented by Mr. Horace Booth; Mr. Maxwell Payne as Jack Lawton, in the employ of Walter Beech, causes much amusement; Mr. Sydney Fiennes as Dave Crane, who is killed somewhat early in the play, is effective; Mr. H. Roberts as an amateur detective causes much amusement; while Miss Florence French as Lady Jane Wilde gives much assistance in this direction. Mr. E. Edwards as John Walsh, a railway porter, is responsible for one of the funniest scenes of the evening when directing passengers, his efforts being much appreciated by the audience; as a lodging-house keeper of the lowest type Miss Nellie Birchenough gives a capital piece of character acting; Miss Elsie May charmingly portrays the little boy Robert Beech, and gains much applause by her singing as a poor street beggar. Miss Kate Hallam as the unfortunate wife, Sylvia Beech, soon wins the deepest sympathies of the audience, her scene in the snow-laden street being especially affecting; indeed, throughout the play the actress's dramatic gifts are fully apparent. Other characters are safe in the hands of Messrs. Edward van Biene, L. Murray, Henry Miller, and Cal. Hunt-Mortlake. Mr. Edward van Biene is general-manager for Mr. Lingford Carson.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, July 9,
the laughable mythological Comedy, entitled
"NIOBE."

This week, after a series of melodramas, we have a welcome change in the advent of Niobe. The piece was originally produced some years ago at the Strand Theatre, with Mr. Harry Paulton and Miss Beatrice Lamb in the principal parts, and since then has always kept its place in the affection of the playgoer. It was not, therefore, to be wondered at that Mr. Fred Winn's company, which included Mr. Harry Paulton in his original part of Peter Amos Dunn, received a very warm welcome at the hands of the good folks of Peckham on Monday night. Mr. Fred Winn's company certainly gives a rendering of the amusing comedy which it would be difficult to beat. That sterling comedian, Mr. Harry Paulton, with his dry, stolid humour, convulsed the audience as the henpecked little draper, Peter Amos Dunn, and the many awkward situations in which that sorely-tried individual is placed are greeted with shouts of laughter. Miss Annie Esmond, with her auburn hair and statuesque beauty, looks the part of the animated statue to the life. Niobe's ingenuousness was delightfully rendered, and Miss Esmond's performance was undoubtedly a great success. Mr. Harry Paulton, jun., played well as the vacuous swell, Philip Innings, and Miss Violet Hallam was charming in the ingénue part of Hattie Griffin. The fine art dealer, Hamilton Tompkins, was done full justice to by Mr. Frederick Thompson, and Miss Mary Kilpack was satisfactory as Helen Griffin. Mr. J. Edward Pearce gave a polished and effective reading of the part of the unscrupulous Cornelius Griffin. Other characters were well played by Miss Kate Turner, Miss Lucie Verrier, Miss Alesia Jones, Miss Dorothea Rowe, and Mr. George Farrow. The curtain-raiser was a duologue, entitled Acting Mad, written by Mr. Harry Paulton, in which Miss Kate Harwood and Mr. Harry Paulton, jun., acquitted themselves with much credit.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, July 9, the Drama, in Four Acts, by Walter Howard, entitled "UNDER THE RUSSIAN FLAG."

Mr. Jack Haddon's company forms a strong combination, and does admirable justice to Mr. Howard's thrilling play. In the leading character of Luka Marischia, Miss Marie Rayner makes a most creditable appearance; and a pretty and engaging portraiture of the wronged Vera Vassaloff is given by Miss Elaine Vanbrugh. Mr. Geo. Herbert appears as the Russian General Romanoff, and the parts of his two sons who take such conspicuous places in the play are ably filled by Mr. Bernard Mervyn and Mr. Cecil Melton. Creditable appearances have also been made by Mr. Jack Haddon as Captain Semebrius, by Mr. W. Wilson as Colonel Louvaroff, and by Mr Wm. Rivers as Dr. Keroff. The comedy of the production is ably sustained by Mr. Fred Haming as Alexis Skopolopki, by Miss Agnes Howard as Ogarita, and by Mr. Hal Forde as Peter Poluski.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, July 9,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Mark Melford, entitled
"FLYING FROM JUSTICE."

Mr. Robert Arthur has done well this week in reviving Mr. Mark Melford's popular drama, the attendance at the Kennington Theatre being of quite an abnormal character for this time of the year. Mr. Melford has put some of his best work into the drama, which he wrote at the period prior to his production of the music hall sketches with which his name is associated, and the piece has secured the entire admiration of audiences who have a regard for what is undeniably good melodrama. The piece is replete with effective situations, constructed with a skilful hand, and the well-written dialogue contains many witty tilts against social institutions that lay themselves open to ridicule. The outstanding character of the play is a coiner named J. Haldane Gully, a man of indomitable force and irresistible purpose; and in Mr. James C. Aubrey an actor is found with experience and capabilities properly to express the masterful nature of the part. Mr. Aubrey delivers his lines in a resonant voice with due deliberation, and acts with intensity and real dramatic power. A commendable impersonation is also that of Mr. Fred Morgan, who well indicates in manner and speech the invincible courage and resource of John Lacarsey, whose mission of tracking down his father's murderer attains such thrilling proportions. Miss Mary Raby is capitally suited in the part of Winnie Bradley. She has to portray the character of an adventuress whose nature contains an agreeable element of humour, and to this phase of the part Miss Raby gives special prominence, making the audience very merry at frequent intervals, besides giving ample proof of her dramatic powers at other portions of the play. A graceful exponent of Mildred Parkes is found in Miss Jessie Winter, who makes an irresistible appeal to the hearts of her audience by her quiet, yet effective, acting. The family name is well upheld by Mr. Young Melford, who gives a striking rendering of Charles Bearing, the student, who is done to death in the coiners' den, and his vigorous delivery and gallant presence are of distinct value in the part. Miss Blanche Stanley gives an excellent account of Mrs. Bearing, the devoted mother, her rendering of the long denunciation of the villainous gang being skilfully emphasised. Mr. E. Major Jones presents a well-studied picture of Major Parkes, giving a realistic representation of the remorse and horror which come by turns upon the depraved officer. A comic complexion, at all times acceptable, is put upon the coiner Pearly Tanner by Mr. W. H. Morgan; and Mr. Jackson Willcox clothes Woodruff (another member of the gang) with an aspect of gentility that is very effective. Mr. George Barker is Adler, another of the nefarious group; and Mr. Tom Allen acts the rôle of a convict poacher with ability. Mr. Ernest Carter makes the most of the part of Pevitt, a butler; and Mr. M. Marshall distinguishes himself as the Welsh captain of the Curfew.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, July 9,
the Drama, by Frank E. Thorne, entitled
"HER ONE GREAT SIN."

The patrons of the Lyric are so fortunate as to have Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr. J. Leicester Jackson's principal company at the local theatre this week in the drama, entitled Her One Great Sin. The theme of a woman, who, after committing a great wrong, repents and is forgiven, is by no means a new one, but a drama written on these lines is interesting, and gives many opportunities to the actress who portrays the leading female rôle. Miss Blanche St. Albans, who takes the part of the repentant woman, is fully alive to this fact, and presents the character in a powerful manner. Mr. C. Quinton Fulford as the villainous Arnold Thornhill is excellent, proving beyond all doubt that he has plenty of ability. Mr. Sam Arthur as Reuben Warhurst renders this character in a business-like and spirited way which is much appreciated. Wholesome humour is introduced by Mr. Fred Hodson as Jemmy Jumble, and, assisted by Miss Nellie Lambert, he evokes much laughter. In the juvenile parts of Gracie and Charlie, Miss Maud Lambert and Miss Phyllis Damian are both good. Mr. Charles E. Lambert, Mr. Sam Roberts, and Miss Louie Walton, in low comedy rôles, amuse the audience very much, while Mr. J. Nella makes a capital solicitor. Messrs. F. M. Wright, Tom Bollard, W. W. Dudge, Gerald Smythe, and C. Dale, in smaller parts, afford valuable assistance.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, July 9,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by James Willard, entitled
"IN THE SHADOW OF NIGHT."

This powerful spectacular drama, full of exciting scenes and carefully devised situations, has appealed effectively to the habitués of Mr. Bailey's comfortable Marylebone playhouse. A performance ful of sterling merit is that of Mr. Fred C. Imeson, who first as Joe Jackson, the postman, and afterwards as the Rev. Nathaniel Hope, gives one of those easy and natural exhibitions of acting of which only a player of pronounced ability is capable. The part of Clifford Yorke receives skilful treatment at the hands of Mr. George R. Montford, who certainly is the beau ideal of the gentlemanly villain. Mr. Austin Mortimer enacts Gordon Allington in manly, vigorous fashion; Mr. E. Arnold Palmer is well placed as Tom Nainby; Mr. Harry Emmerson does well as James Woodstock; and Mr. Fred Norburn puts good work into his rendering of Jake Grudgewell. Miss Nellie Sheffield sustains the rôle of Molly Woodstock with plenty of life and go, her versatility making her a warm favourite; Miss Phyllis Dailley is quietly successful as Violet Kingston; and the efforts of Miss Phyllis French as the good-natured little tramp Bob receive plenty of well-deserved encouragement. The play is elaborately staged and mounted, the whole production being thoroughly sound. Mr. Dobell Lyle is the business manager for Mr. Jas. Willard, and Mr. William Bailey's interests in front are, as usual, well looked after by Mr. James Sinclair.

"PEGGY."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—I note in your last week's issue a report of a play, entitled Peggy, produced at the Palace Pier, Brighton, on June 25th. I should like to call your attention to the fact that a play of this title (and of which I hold the rights) was produced at the Royalty, London, over twenty years ago.

It was written by the late Joseph Mackay, and the season was under the direction of the late Miss Kate Lawler, who appeared in the title-rôle, supported by Mr. Frank Cooper as Beppo Spartolotti, the Italian organ-grinder; the late Mr. Edward Righton as Dr. Molloy, and Miss Harriett Coveney as Granny Flannigan. I wrote to Miss Robertson acquainting her of these facts, and asking her to kindly re-name her play, as I had the prior claim to the title, but not having a reply, I shall be pleased if you will insert this letter, so as to avoid confusion.—Your truly,

JO. MONKHOUSE.

Camberwell, July 5.

THE L.C.C. AND AMUSEMENTS.

The usual weekly meeting of the London County Council was held on Tuesday at the County Hall, Spring-gardens.

THE WOOLWICH ARTILLERY THEATRE.

The report of the Theatres and Music Halls Committee, with reference to the Royal Artillery Theatre, Woolwich, was submitted.

This theatre, which has recently been re-built after destruction by fire, is not licensed for public entertainments and does not possess a certificate under the Metropolis Management and Building Acts Amendment Act, 1878. The committee stated: "It would seem to be quite clear that the Council had no jurisdiction in the matter and no responsibility for the safety of the public attending the theatre, and in the circumstances we do not think that the Council should take any further action. As regards the construction of the theatre, no plans were submitted to the Council, and the Council's officers have no knowledge of the structural arrangements of the building. But, however well a theatre may be planned, it is impossible, except by frequent inspection during the time a building is open to the public, to ensure that the arrangements for preventing or minimising the danger from fire or panic are properly maintained."

In reply to Mr. Dolman, Mr. Yates, chairman of the committee, said he agreed that it was a strange state of things, that the Woolwich theatre, to which the general public were admitted, should be the only one in the London area that was not open to inspection by the London County Council. The Theatres and Music Halls Committee, he assured the hon. member, had done all they could in the matter. The Secretary of State, however, had taken his stand on the lines set forth in the committee's report, arguing that it was a "recreation room" within the meaning of the Act. The committee had been careful to point out to the military authorities that the building was not in a desirable condition, and that it must be understood the County Council did not accept any responsibility in regard to it.

THE MUNICIPAL MUSIC HALL.

The Parks and Open Spaces Committee recommended that application be made in the next session of Parliament for authority enabling the Council (1) to arrange for vocal music to be provided as an extension of the music now provided under its existing powers relative to the provision of bands; (2) to make charges for programmes, and for the use of seats and chairs at band performances; and (3) to make a charge for admission to such performances as the Council might think desirable to provide, within doors, such charges to be made for the purpose of defraying expenses.

Mr. Sankey (chairman of the committee) said that there had been some misconception among the public as to the very modest proposals of the committee. They had no intention of establishing or carrying on a tea-garden or a music hall, but merely wished to lessen the strain upon the bands by introducing a little vocal music into the performances. With regard to the indoor entertainments, there need be no fear that this was the thin end of the wedge for the establishment of a municipal opera-house or music hall. The proposal was to make a small charge for these indoor concerts, as the committee thought it was not right that the rates should bear the cost of the entertainments. There was a great demand for these concerts.

Mr. Piggott moved that the recommendation be referred back. This proposal was not so innocent as it looked. Their parks and open spaces were not like Margate sands; and if the recommendation of the committee were carried they would no doubt have applications for pierrots and niggers and all the rest of them. He hoped the parks would be kept for those who went there to hear the songs of the birds.

Mr. Goldsmith seconded the amendment. He questioned Mr. Sankey's contention that the proposal would entail no increased expense. The Council had no right to compete with private people in providing such entertainment.

Mr. Goodrich was afraid that if vocal music were permitted, then "green rooms" would be demanded; and from one end to the other considerable expense would be incurred.

Mr. E. Smith contended that the proposition of the Parks Committee meant nothing more or less than municipal music halls.

Mr. Barnes asserted that the bands in the parks had done much to encourage an appreciation of instrumental music; but he would like to see encouragement given to the old English glees and madrigals which in olden days gave so much gratification to the public.

On a division, Mr. Piggott's amendment for referring back was negatived by 61 to 31.

Mr. E. Smith next moved, as a further amendment, that application be made in the next session of Parliament for authority enabling the Council to make charges for programmes and for the use of seats and chairs at band performances, leaving out the other clauses in the committee's proposal.

Sir M. Beachcroft, who seconded the amendment, argued that the only vocalist that could be heard in open air was a music-hall singer.

Mr. McKinnon Wood, M.P., opposing the motion of the committee, said that the proposition was to supply unlimited indoor concerts—concerts which, indeed, were to be self-supporting. As to outdoor concerts, he maintained that no vocalist, except, under pressure of poverty, would risk his voice by singing in the open air. There was no doubt that the supply of voluntary choirs would not in any way be equal to the demand.

Mr. Leon supported the recommendation of the committee as a counter-attraction to the public-houses; yet he thought that admission to the concerts should be free, leaving the income to be derived from the charges for programmes, &c.

Mr. Hunter admitted that had it not been for counter-attractions in musical entertainments to public-houses he might have been a drunkard. He therefore advocated the recommendation of the committee.

Mr. W. Bailey, as an old caterer, warned the Council that they were venturing upon a dangerous undertaking. They would find that they would not get the people to come to concerts in any numbers unless they provided the "comic element," which he understood they had had to provide at Glasgow, in connection with such entertainments, at considerable cost. There were the fire regulations and other matters to think of, and the committee would find that they were rushing into an enormous expense.

Only 20 voted for the amendment, and the recommendation was approved by 40 to 17.

HENRY SMART.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Allow me to point out a little error which has crept into the current issue of your excellent journal. In your "Answers to Correspondents" you state that "Henry Smart, organist and composer, died July 6, 1864." The year of Henry Smart's death was, however, 1879. His grave, which I have often visited, is in Hampstead Cemetery, not far from the resting-places of three other famous musicians—Sir George Alexander Macfarren, Walter Bache, and Joseph Maas.—I am, Sir, yours very faithfully,

ALGERNON ASHTON.

ALBERT CHEVALIER

IN "PANTALOON," BY J. M. BARRIE.
DUKE OF YORK'S THEATRE.
Sole Representative for Mr. Chevalier, Mr. INGLS
7, Dorset-road, Ealing.

Pall Mall Gazette.—That Mr. Chevalier would do well in the part was never in doubt. But few, we imagine, were prepared for so great a triumph. Mr. Chevalier had some friends in the house, who greeted him warmly on his first entrance. But they were not enough to make one-tenth of the uproar of approbation at the fall of the curtain, and Mr. Chevalier, who was almost overcome by his reception, had to appear again and again. On the grotesque, fantastic side of Pantaloon's character he did not lay very much stress, but the pathetic passages he handled with a delicacy and a power, a variety, and a resource that carried all before them. On Saturday the audience was visibly affected. It was very quiet while the play was going on, but at the end its pent-up feelings expressed themselves in a scene the like of which we cannot recall this side of the late Sir Henry Irving's last season at Drury Lane. We imagine that Mr. Frohman will be emboldened to give Mr. Chevalier (who is admirably supported by Miss Pauline Chase in her old part of Columbine) a show in some drama of—to use an American phrase—"great heart interest." Mr. Chevalier is an actor of the Robson stamp, and though Robson drama has long been out of fashion in the West End, it is quite within the power of Mr. Chevalier's genius to bring it again into vogue, purged, of course, of its crudeness.

The Times.—On Saturday two old plays were revived, Mr. Barrie's Pantaloon and Mr. Lennox's The Marriage of Kitty. In the former Mr. Albert Chevalier takes up the part of Pantaloon, the Old 'Un, who has grown too old to be funny, and must give his daughter Columbine in marriage to the Clown if he is to keep his place in the company. And Mr. Chevalier played the part to perfection, keeping his audience between tears and laughter and wholly delighted with Mr. Barrie's fantastic, impishly sentimental little comedy. To watch Mr. Chevalier's face when, on Columbine's return, he feels the familiar rub of the red-hot poker on his legs and learns that she and Harlequin are the parents of a real clown, to see him beg his old master for a bite of his sausage and quail before the terrible reply, "I only bites with the perfession" is to be absurdly moved with emotion. Of Mr. Chevalier, we can only say what the Old 'Un said of the Clown, "What a hartist he is."

The Daily Telegraph.—The present revival brings back to the legitimate stage Mr. Albert Chevalier, after an interval of fifteen years, if his brief appearance some little time ago at the Royalty in musical comedy may be ruled out of the count. The return of so versatile, so resourceful, and so clever an artist to the medium in which he first made his mark is distinctly a subject of congratulation, and it may be hoped that, admirable as his platform sketches are, more may be seen of Mr. Chevalier in the immediate future at the theatre. His impersonation of the old Pantaloon in Mr. Barrie's playlet conclusively showed that his art is as fine and as polished as ever. Nervousness doubtless lent to his opening scenes a certain air of formality, of stiffness, of premeditation. But as the actor warmed to his work this impression wore off, and on the fall of the curtain Mr. Chevalier received an ovation the warmth and sincerity of which abundantly testified to the powerful effect his performance had produced on all present.

The Morning Post.—Mr. Chevalier acted Pantaloon as a human being. He had to reproduce the "business" and "gags" of pantomime, but that was his misfortune. You did not judge him by it. It was as if one had St. Vitus's dance and could not control his actions. He made one forget his clothes, and acted the part as a "straight" part. His Pantaloon was simply a weak, kindly, sore-troubled, down-trodden old man; in the second act half senile. And Mr. Chevalier from the moment he got over his nervousness acted magnificently. To match his impersonation one has to go back to the Corporal Brewster of the late Sir Henry Irving. The result was that there was almost unbroken silence during the play, but on the curtain falling there went up a vast roar, which continued until the curtain had risen and fallen many, many times. Nor was the curtain worked quickly, as it sometimes is when it is desired to put the best appearance on things. Those who have steadily refused to recognise Mr. Chevalier as an actor—he is among the greatest we have—are silenced, and we can only hope that Mr. Frohman will see his way to "presenting" Mr. Chevalier in characters worthy his abilities.

The Referee.—A most finished and attractive impersonation. His acting towards the end, when the family-forsaken and playgoer-neglected 'Old-'Un" welcomed back his Columbine daughter and Harlequin son-in-law because they had brought him back a little "kid" who already shaped as a clown, was touching in the extreme. Mr. Chevalier received some nine or ten calls at the end of the little piece.

Daily Graphic.—Mr. Albert Chevalier, who has not been seen on the regular stage for many years, plays this character brilliantly, and his performance was a triumphant success. He gave us the real decrepit "fallen star" in a manner that was at once subtle and beautiful, and at the end he reached a fine climax of emotion when the old man realises that he has a grandson—a young clown. Mr. Chevalier is so fine an actor that it is much to be hoped that after this signal triumph he will remain in London and appear in another play.

The People.—The comedy was preceded by Mr. J. M. Barrie's little play, Pantaloon, to the revival of which a special distinction was given by the return to the regular stage of Mr. Albert Chevalier, who appeared in the title part. It was a performance which roused the audience to great enthusiasm; time after time the curtain was raised for Mr. Chevalier to bow acknowledgment of a genuine ovation.

Evening Standard.—MR. CHEVALIER'S SUCCESS.—Mr. Albert Chevalier's appearance as Mr. Barrie's Pantaloon gave us another little flash of something rather close to genius. On the previous afternoon, at the same theatre, we had seen him hold his own as an artist, in every sense of the term, with Mme. Yvette Guilbert. On Saturday evening he played the Pantaloon exquisitely. It was something to remember.

Sun.—That Mr. Albert Chevalier possesses the true instincts of the actor, no one who has listened to him singing his Coster songs needs to be told, but I rather fancy his performance as the "Old 'Un" in Mr. Barrie's Pantaloon at the Duke of York's on Saturday night came as something of a revelation. The scene with "fairy" and the "boy," when he is compelled to tell them that the clown, his master, wants his child for wife, was perfect in its sincerity, but best of all was the joy of the old man when Harlequin and Columbine come as the returned wanderers with "the kid," who is ready to play the baby clown to this aged and neglected pantaloon. Mr. Chevalier roused his audience to a degree of enthusiasm not often witnessed in the theatre, and was called again and again at curtain fall.

The Daily Mail.—The evening was chiefly notable for the fact that Mr. Chevalier returned to the "legitimate" stage. Those who know and admire Mr. Chevalier's delightfully artistic methods—and who does not?—will be able to picture him as the quavering, proud, humble old Pantaloon. One realised the full beauty of the character on Saturday evening. Mr. Chevalier drew the tears of the whole house, and was called again and again at the fall of the curtain.

ACTORS' CHURCH UNION.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

The sixth annual conference of the Actors' Church Union was held at Bishop's House, Kennington Park, on Tuesday afternoon, under the chairmanship of the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of SOUTHWARK, the president of the Union. Many clergymen were present, as well as actors and actresses, Mr. Martin Harvey attending as one of the principal speakers.

The President, in opening the meeting, called upon the honorary secretary, the Rev. Donald Hole, to read the report, which was as follows:

HON. SECRETARY'S REPORT, 1905-6.

My Lord, Ladies and Gentlemen.—The progress which I have had to report in past years has been well sustained.

INCREASE OF NUMBERS.

Since our last conference our Professional Members have increased from 125 to 190; our Associates from 28 to 50; our Centres from 89 to 120 and our Hon. Chaplains from 115 to 153.

VISITING.

We have always recognised that our progress was bound to be slow, we must rely chiefly upon the quiet, steady work of our Chaplains in their various centres. I have so far as is possible, notified the Chaplains from week to week, of the visits of members of our Union to their towns, and they have always made a point of calling upon them. This is good, but if the Union is to progress as it ought to do, we must remember that the ideal at which we have to aim, is a regular weekly visit paid by the Chaplains to the members of theatrical companies which come to their towns, whether they happen to belong to the Union or not. This has, in some cases, actually been carried out, and there are numerous indications, both in the reports of chaplains and in letters I have received from members of the profession, that the work is really beginning to tell, and is very far from being unappreciated.

REV. J. W. PARISH (of Gateshead) writes:—"After eight years' calling, I frequently get a welcome from those I have met before. I am glad to find that the Union is now known."

RESPONSE OF THE PROFESSION.

REV. P. L'ARGENT BELL (of South Shields) writes:—

"It is gratifying to find that our work meets with the approval of some of the prominent members of the English stage. We have several of these with us this afternoon, and there are others who would have been with us had they not been unavoidably prevented."

MR. F. R. BENSON writes:—

"I take it as a great compliment that you should wish me to be present at your meeting. I fear, however, that at that time I shall not be in London. Should I be able to do so, I will gladly avail myself of the opportunity. I will send you my donation, as a small mark of the appreciation of the good work done by your society, of which I can speak from personal experience."

But, however gratifying may be such marks of approval from the leaders of the profession, I think we must all feel that if the A.C.U. is to fulfil its object, it must make its appeal also to the rank and file.

One actor writes home:—

"I have read pamphlets re Actors' Church Union, and I like the idea very much. I am a Churchman and have often found it difficult to attend a service on Sunday owing to travelling arrangements. And I see that this Union has made a big step to make matters re church-going convenient to us. I am only a very small member of the theatrical profession, but I will do my best to make known this Church Union to my fellow actors."

Now that is a sort of letter I like to receive. It shows that the Actors' Church Union is supplying a need that is really felt, and it goes far to answer the objections which we still sometimes hear urged against the existence of our society. Only the other day I was asked: "Why have a Church Union for Actors, any more than for bankers or any other profession?" I made the obvious reply that if bank clerks and managers went to a different bank every week and always travelled on Sundays, then a "Bankers' Church Union" would be a most useful and necessary institution. One might have hoped that, after eight years, it would have become unnecessary to go on reiterating platitudes of this sort, but prejudice dies hard, and it is therefore all the more encouraging to hear (as I so often do) from Churchmen and Churchwomen upon the stage, that the A.C.U. is justifying its existence by really meeting a practical difficulty.

I hope that before long we shall succeed in entirely dispelling the idea that the existence of the A.C.U. implies that actors stand in any different relationship to the Church from other people, or that they require any "special treatment." The fact is that the object of our organisation is to bring about a relationship between touring actors and the local Chaplain of a precisely similar character to that which exists between ordinary Churchmen and their parish priest.

Now the parish priest touches the life of his flock in three particulars—in ordinary pastoral ministrations, in caring for the sick, in relieving distress. Let me give you some illustrations of how the work of the A.C.U. is being carried on under these three heads.

WORK OF THE CHAPLAINS.

(1) The difficulty of church-going is lessened as much as posible by our notices in the theatres and lodgings stating where the church is to be found and giving the hours of services.

(2) The care of the sick has, from earliest times, been held to be one of the ordinary functions of the Catholic Church, and it is one in which our Chaplains find many opportunities for usefulness.

(3) The relief of distress is always a somewhat complicated problem in modern times, and it presents features of special difficulty in connection with the work of the A.C.U. As a rule, our Chaplains are advised to refer all applicants for pecuniary help to the Actors' Benevolent Fund or the Theatrical Ladies' Guild, who have greater facilities for dealing with such cases than we can have; but there are instances where it may seem that the Chaplain can act with advantage on his own initiative. A case in point reaches me from one of our centres. Our Chaplain reports that some members of a certain company came to him one Sunday in great trouble about their fares to London, where they had to get back to rehearse for a new play. The manager had had a bad week and the treasury was empty. The Chaplain ascertained that the facts as stated were correct, and he was enabled to send the stranded players back to town by an arrangement with the Station Master, the manager refunding almost all the money within a short time."

On the other hand another Chaplain writes:—"An actor (not a member of the A.C.U.) borrowed 30s. to enable him to join a new company in the north. I had one or two letters from him but I still wait for the fulfilment of his promise to repay me! I hope he will do so for the sake of some others who may need such temporary help in a tight place."

It is, of course, this difficulty of making adequate enquiries, which renders it as a rule advisable for Chaplains to give relief through the medium of one of the two Theatrical Societies which I have mentioned. On one point all our Chaplains are unanimous, and that is the kindness and courtesy which they almost invariably meet with from both actors and managers. All this, I think, shows that the work of our Union is advancing steadily, if slowly, along the right lines. There are, however, three points in which there is still great room for improvement.

(1) The professional members would greatly facilitate the work if they would be more careful to furnish me with their tour lists. I follow their movements from week to week as well as I can in the columns of The Era, and send post cards each week to our various Chaplains intimating when they may expect a visit from a member of the Union. But it is impossible for me to do this unless our members will let me know when they go on tour and in what companies they are acting.

(2) I should like to urge upon the Chaplains the importance of making their annual reports. Without this it is impossible to get any true idea of what progress we are making. A month before the conference I sent out 150 forms, only 61 of which have been returned to me.

(3) I should like to call attention to the fact that more than 100 subscriptions for the current year still remain unpaid.

FINANCE.

In spite, however, of the difficulty of getting in subscriptions, I am pleased to be able to report that our financial position shows a marked improvement. The balance sheet will be printed together with the annual report, but I may state that our total receipts for 1905 amounted to £51 14s. 7d., as against £25 4s. 8d. for the previous year. That is to say that we have more than doubled our income. We have had, however, a proportional increase in our expenditure. The work involves a considerable outlay in printing and postage, and we are still badly in need of funds.

SPECIAL SERVICE.

The experiment of holding a special service at St. Paul's, Knightsbridge, in connection with the A.C.U., which was tried for the first time last year, has been repeated this year with equal success. The preacher was the Lord Bishop of London, and his sermon has since been printed and can be obtained together with our other literature at the end of the room.

THE COLONIES.

I regret to state that the efforts which we have been making during the past two years, to get the A.C.U. started in Australia and South Africa, have so far not met with success. It is obviously impossible to organise the Union in these distant parts of the world from London; it must be left to local effort; and what is wanted is a man who will do in each of the Colonies what our good friend Mr. Bentley has done in the United States. A few weeks ago, however, I received a letter from a priest in Grahamstown, who may, I hope, be able to take up the work in South Africa, and I trust that by the next conference I may have more to report on this matter.

THE A.C.A. OF AMERICA.

It is, I am sure, a matter of regret that we have not with us to-day any members of the Actors' Church Alliance of America, as we had last year. But perhaps you will permit me to read a letter which I have received from Mr. Spooner, President of the Brooklyn Chapter of the A.C.A., who spoke to us so delightfully at our last conference.

"Dear Mr. Hole,—Your letter inviting the American A.C.A. to your Annual Convention was read to the Brooklyn Chapter, also to our Annual Convention, and was very much appreciated. I do not know of any of our members going to London at this time. Remembering the pleasant time we had last summer it is with regret we realize we cannot be present this year. Edyth Totten McGrath was elected first Vice-President of the National Organisation for the coming year, a position she has earned by her faithful work for the Alliance. . . . . I would be glad to have some notes from your Convention at your convenience. . . . . I am so pleased to see the gradual growth of good feeling between the Church and the Stage. . . . . With kindest remembrances of the kindness and courtesy of the Bishop and yourself, sincerely,

MARY GIBBS SPOONER.

Bijou Theatre, Brooklyn, New York.

Before I sit down I should like to say the application for membership forms have been distributed in the room, and I would also ask any of those present (whether members of the profession or not) who would like to join our Union to fill up their forms and let me have them at their convenience.

The next item on the agenda was the election of a president, committee, and officers.

The Bishop of Southwark was unanimously re-elected president, and the Rev. H. Montague Villiers, Prebendary of St. Paul's, was elected vice-president. The old committee were re-elected, two new members being added to their number in the Rev. H. F. Davidson and Mr. Fewlass Llewellyn. The Rev. Donald Hole was re-elected hon. secretary.

The PRESIDENT, in addressing the meeting, said: One of the items on this paper is the address of the President. I should like to make that a short item, but I want to make it a cordial one. I want very much to say how heartily again I welcome the meeting of the Union here, and those who have been present on former occasions will, I think, take pleasure with me in saying that it is undoubtedly the fullest and largest meeting we have yet had. In that respect it tallies with those figures which have been read aloud to you by our secretary, Mr. Hole. This shows that it grows from year to year, and is doing an increasing work. You have been good enough to name me as president, and I do feel it a very real honour and a very true pleasure to be president of this Union, and to feel that I am doing something for what it represents. That though is followed closely by the other thought—how little that is; but if the work is going on it doesn't matter much how much any one of us puts into it, and we can altogether rejoice in its progress and its prosperity. I have spoken before about it, and now we are getting to know more what it means, and therefore I need hardly again emphasise the simplicity of its method. It is but little that we can do individually, and it is only a little that we try to do corporately. The method, which you heard illustrated in rather vivid detail in the report, of securing in each town visited by theatrical companies that one clergyman shall be appointed with the sanction of his own bishop and on the nomination of the President of this Union, to be a chaplain for the profession in that town, is the method of this Union. That is, indeed, what this Union attempts to do. The principal object of an institution like this is to bring together those who most directly represent the Church on the one side and those who represent the stage on the other. The more I look at the world in which we live, the higher I rate the importance of a good understanding and mutual co-operation between the different forces which make for good. They must understand one another. They must not suspect one another; but they may, I hold, criticise one another, for I suppose it to be true that all of us have our own way of going about what we are pleased to think as being of use in the world and doing good. I am quite sure that if the world was left to no other method of doing good than the clergy—and I am second to no one in the value I set upon that way of doing good—it would soon be a very dreary place. I am quite sure that we want criticising, and we want supplementing—I do not quite like the word; it is not exactly the word I mean. I think what I do mean is complementing, not complimenting. We need to question one another, we need to co-operate with one another, and we need to have one another's honest criticisms. I feel that all the more because, as one lives, and perhaps comes to realise increasingly what the strength and power of the forces of evil in the world are, under the veneer of a civilised society, under its fair and polished surface, there are influences of evil and forces of evil which are no less strong than at any other time whatever. It may be that, at any rate in the ways which are obvious to us and of which we can take stock, those who are concerned with the stage have often to deal with the presence or the proximity of some of those forces of evil in a very special degree. I hope that I shall not be saying anything which will not be endorsed by the most thoughtful members of the profession if I say that those who there are trying to live the lives of uprightness and of faithfulness are perhaps often in one of the hottest parts of the battle. I was thinking whether the faults of clerical life are not as grave at least as, though in certain cases less obvious than, the faults to which the profession of the stage is liable. I do not think you will judge me wrongly when I say that there are strong forces of evil which need the gathering up of all our combined moral strength to roll them back—to make the theatre what we desire the theatre to be, to keep it clean and strong as an engine of good, and to make it such that it may be a place where—to refer again to what the Bishop of London spoke so well in the sermon that he preached on the subject—everyone who goes from a good home or is driven to the stage to earn her living shall find a Christian, chivalrous band of men and women, with whom she shall be as safe as in her own home. That is the kind of standard I wish to secure. I do not feel it a very great happiness that we are trying with mutual respect and with increasing mutual understanding and regard to speak of things together and to work together and to aim together at these objects. That is the deeper reason why I value the work of the Actors' Church Union, and I am so glad to see that it thrives. I will now give way, and ask Mr. Martin Harvey to say what he has to say.

Mr. MARTIN HARVEY, said: "My Lord, Ladies and Gentlemen, in moving the adoption of our Secretary's report, I think, while we may congratulate ourselves on a fairly satisfactory position, we must admit there is room for expansion. A useful purpose may be served by reverting for a moment, however, to an old source of difficulty and danger which encountered those who founded this Union. I refer to a certain amount of prejudice which existed, and still lingers in the minds of some, as to the fundamental idea of the Actors' Church Union. Such prejudice is wearing thin, I believe, but while it exists it is well to meet it. I cannot help thinking such fault as there is, is mostly on our side; I mean the side of the actor. Our hide has been rendered sensitive, perhaps, by the flagellations of several centuries of a vastly more intolerant clergy than we have the blessing of meeting to-day, and that is why I would urge upon my fellow-workers to become members of the Church Union. Meet these men, I would say, who have come forward so frankly, and the prejudice will vanish—vanish instantly, because the Actor is by nature intensely susceptible, and he will recognise instantly that no far off touch of patronage exists behind their frank and fellow-manly attitude. I can speak from experience on this point. In my travels I have had the good fortune to meet many of the chaplains of the Actors' Church Union—the initiative I am bound to say has always been on their side—and I can speak heartily of their tact, their good fellowship, their sympathy with the workers in my profession. Surely the enlightened liberality of mind, the expansion of a generous and charitable spirit in the Church in these days is one of the most beautiful signs of our times. Of course the habit of mind of centuries is not more easily shaken off by the actor than the priest. I remember a humourous illustration of this. I had been asked by the active spirit of a certain Congregational society in a northern city, to open a bazaar for the raising of funds to defray the costs of their new church. The suggestion that I should officiate had come, it must be admitted, from his daughters. After much perturbation, and honest wrestling of the spirit the worthy man broached the point to me, and I, of course, consented willingly. But that an actor should officiate at the opening of a church bazaar was such an upheaval of all his inherited convictions as to the propriety of things, that the honest wonder of the thing broke through such small tact as he possessed. And as he contemplated the length he had gone to for the sake of the church funds, and in anticipation of the wrath to come, he exclaimed, looking at me "Eh, it's wonderful to see ye here, Sir. Eh, it's wonderful what length a man will go to for the sake of raising money." My Lords, Ladies and Gentlemen, I will not detain you much longer, but before I conclude I should like to make a suggestion to you—a suggestion which may, I think, link together in a common bond of veneration and remembrance the givers and the receivers of the benefits of the Actors' Church Union. The idea is not my own; it originated with one of our chaplains, Mr. Henderson, and he will perhaps allow me to give voice to it to-day. It is this, that on each anniversary of the death of our beloved chief, Sir Henry Irving, a memorial service should be held, at which, upon the invitation of the Actors' Church Union, the whole dramatic profession should be asked to attend. The memory of my great master's work for the stage, and indirectly for the English speaking race at large, and his incalculable influence for good upon the minds of his generation, would be most fittingly enshrined and perpetuated by such an annual gathering of the profession he so uniquely adorned. And the more so, I think, when the gathering were associated with the Actors' Church Union whose object is so largely the extention of usefulness, of liberality of mind and of a charitable and essentially Christian spirit. Sir Henry Irving took a keen interest in the formation of our Union, and I question whether a more fitting or more significant memorial could perpetuate his name, or bear witness to the veneration his work inspired.

The Rev. J. W. S. J. DANBURY, who acts as chaplain of the Union at Southampton, appealed for greater support of the Union. The Church, he said, was a debtor of the actor in the same way that St. Paul was a debtor of the Greek and the barbarian. The stage was a calling in which a man or a woman might obey the voice of God. As God fulfilled himself in many ways, so the calling of the actor was one of the mystical ways of life. The meetings of the Union should not be held for the purpose of mutual admiration, but for improvement and expansion. Was this organisation fulfilling the intention of the framers of it? It had been in existence eight years. In last July's report it was stated that they had 103 actor members; now they had eighty-six more. Were they satisfied that that was reasonable progress? He did not think so. They, the chaplains, needed to imbue the actor member with the missionary spirit. If the Actors' Church Union be good for him, then he should be ready to share its goodness with his confrères. Another point was that if a priest took on the work of a chaplain he took upon himself the obligation of the office, and that obligation was not discharged simply by allowing his name to be on the theatre call-board or in the Union's directory.

The PRESIDENT stated that in regard to Mr. Martin Harvey's suggestion as to an annual commemoration service, his lordship would be very glad to recommend to the committee that the proposal be seriously considered. The medical and the legal professions had their great annual service, and he thought that much good might result from an acknowledgment of faith and worship on the part of the theatrical profession. He was pleased to be able to inform the meeting that they might have a member of the Royal Family, Princess Alexander of Teck having written to say that her Royal Highness and her husband would consider the matter of joining the Actors' Church Union.

Among the members of the profession present were:—Mr. Martin Harvey, Mrs. Edward Compton, Miss Viola Compton, Miss Haidee Heath, Miss Rose Matthews, Mr. J. Henry Twyford, Mr. R. E. Saunders, Miss Harriet Greet, Miss Nita Ashby, Miss Beatrix Bell, Miss Millie Grey, Mr. E. H. Bull, Mrs. E. H. Bull, Mr. Chris Walker, Mrs. Chris Walker (Molly Page), Miss Robertson, Mr. Kenyon Musgrave, Miss Barbara Fenn, Mr. Allan Jeayes, Mr. Valentine Williams, Mr. Frederick Wright (senr.), Mrs. Frederick Wright, Miss Violet Hedda, and Mr. W. M. Chapman Huston.

Letters expressing regret for inability to attend were received from:—The Lord Bishop of London, Rev. Preb. Villiers, Sir Charles Wyndham, Mr. Cyril Maude, Mr. Forbes Robertson, Mr. F. R. Benson, Miss Irene Vanbrugh, Miss Phyllis Broughton, Mrs. Alfred Bishop, Mrs. Carson, Miss Edith Rimmington, Miss Leila Lovell, Miss Helen Ford, Miss Gertrude Lovell, Miss Mildred Hodson, Mr. Arthur Webster, Miss Carlotta Addison, Miss Victoria Addison, Mr. Charles Cruikshank, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mervyn, Mrs. Gwen. Clifford and Miss Helen Ferrers.

Votes of thanks to the Bishop for presiding, and to Mr. Martin Harvey, concluded the conference, after which Mrs. Talbot entertained the company at an At Home in the garden.

THE N.S.P.C.C. MATINEE.

The dramatic profession was again active in the cause of charity on Tuesday, when several popular players combined in a matinée in aid of the National Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, given at the Duke of York's Theatre, kindly lent for the occasion by Mr. Charles Frohman. The performance consisted of two plays, in both of which the name of Mr. Cosmo Hamilton appeared as part author, while Miss Beryl Faber, who also figured as authoress, sustained important parts in each piece. The first item was a play in one act, by Philip Gibbs and Cosmo Hamilton, entitled

"THE ESCAPE OF JOHN MERCHANT."

John Merchant .....MR. FRANK COOPER
Pete .....MR. CHARLES BRYANT
Mrs. Male .....MISS PAUNCEFORT
Bess .....MISS BERYL FABER

A trio of tragedies, deftly combined, but straining to the utmost the laws of probability, is made the basis of a number of thrilling moments which occur in a "cottage by the sea." A storm rages outside, and Bess, a fisherman's wife, laments the illness of her child. Her thoughts run upon her former sweetheart, John Merchant, to whom she had promised to be true a couple of years ago when he had been sent to penal servitude for stabbing his rival Pete. Since that time, however, she had yielded to the protestations of Pete, and had married him, and she now dreads the return of her former lover. Her worst fears are realised, for Merchant, who has escaped from prison, returns to claim his bride. Fearful of his wrath, the girl endeavours to conceal the fact of her marriage, but with the entry of her husband the truth comes to light, for though Bess strives to induce Pete temporarily to leave the house, the man is too drunk to take the warning, and is about to strike his wife. John rushes to her protection, but at Bess's entreaty restrains himself, and would even make friends with his old rival. Pete refuses to take his hand, and retreats to the bedroom, followed by John, who discovers the dead body of the child, thus learning of the marriage of Bess. Ignoring the grief of the bereaved parents, John thinks it incumbent upon him to avenge himself on Pete, and is about to deal him a blow with a hammer, when he becomes blind, and falls to the ground. At this moment Bess's mother, who has gone out on the pretence of visiting a sick neighbour, returns with the police, only to find that death has enabled John Merchant to make good his escape. The gloom which surrounded the little play was to a large extent dispelled by the excellence of the acting. Mr. Frank Cooper brought all his experience and practised skill to bear in the impersonation of the convict. He invested the part with a rugged nobility of character that almost obscured the appalling egoism which led John Merchant to seek the death of his successful rival, even in the face of the young father's bereavement, and he held the house in closest sympathy. Miss Beryl Faber, who appeared by permission of Mr. George Alexander, gave a remarkable performance of the young mender of nets, with a broad dialect that she always managed to preserve. The homely appearance, the wistful expression of the face, and the power of the young mother's love were perfectly in keeping, and the production of the play would be justified if only for Miss Faber's performance. Mr. Charles Bryant was an impressive and picturesque Pete; and Miss Pauncefort gave a realistic rendering of the old woman.

The more substantial piece of the afternoon was A Sense of Humour, a comedy, in three acts, by Beryl and Cosmo Hamilton, which was originally produced at a matinée at the Comedy last January. The play deals with marital infelicity and its cure by the application of "a sense of humour," and on Tuesday it found many admirers. Miss Faber, who was in the cast at the first performance, repeated her charming assumption of Lady Hutton, the injured but philosophic wife, acting with rare delicacy in situations where it was desperately needed. Mr. C. Aubrey Smith, who was also in the Comedy production, was again the Captain Archibald Hay, the wronged and illogical husband, and charmed by his utterance and his manly bearing and amused by his comic perplexity. A comedy creation of a surpassing kind was submitted by Mr. Athol Stewart, who, as the peccant Sir William, was again responsible for continuous roars of laughter. A stately and impressive rendering of the equally culpable Mrs. Archibald Hay was given by Miss Maud Hoffman, who quite justified the superlatives bestowed upon her appearance, both by her whilom lover and her doting husband. A very material contribution to the enjoyment of the piece was made by Mr. Reginald Dance, who reappeared in the part of the sagacious and sarcastic valet Meakin; and Miss Margaret Sefton gave an amusing character-sketch as the maidservant Stanna.

STEINWAY HALL.

A NEW RECITER.

Under the direction of Mr. N. Vert, Mr. Edgar Vaughan Grey made his début as a reciter before a large audience at the Steinway Hall on Wednesday afternoon. Although not, strictly speaking, a pupil of the late Mr. Clifford Harrison, whose recitals at this hall were for so many years a feature of the London entertainment season, Mr. Grey was for many years associated with him in his work, and has evidently had the benefit of his talent and experience. Mr. Grey gave a varied and interesting programme, which included two pieces of his own composition, one in English and the other in French. One of his most pleasing and successful items was "What the wolf really said to Little Red Riding Hood," by Bret Harte. Mr. Grey was admirably assisted by Mr. Percy Sharman, solo violin, and Miss Warwara Irmanoff, solo 'cello. Herr Curt M. Plato and Mr. Walter Wiltshire ably assisted at the pianoforte.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

The first performance in England of Gluck's Armide, an event that has aroused considerable interest among opera-goers, took place at Covent Garden on Friday, July 6. Armide, originally produced in Paris in the year 1777, was last year revived at the Paris Grand Opéra, Mlle. Bréval playing the principal character. Musicians are aware that this opera was one of Gluck's last works and considered by him as his greatest achievement, and its production caused a great sensation, Paris being at that time divided into two great parties, one side admiring Gluck's works, and the other those of Piccini, somewhat after the manner in which the works of Wagner have been ridiculed by admirers of the Italian school at the present day, but the quarrel in the older times was pursued with greater bitterness, and it is even said that some duels took place in consequence.

In Armide, the libretto of which was written by Quinault, Gluck marks a departure from the classical school, the story of Armide being purely romantic. A queen of great beauty and skilled in the art of magic, named Armide, finds one person proof against her charms. This is a warrior called Renaud, who, indeed, goes so far as to attack her troops and rescue some of her prisoners, and the first act ends with Armide sending forth her people to smite and capture the offender. In the second act Renaud is conversing with Artemidore, who advises Renaud to keep away from the wiles of Armide. Renaud, however, says he is strong enough to resist her, and taking off his armour prepares for a nap. The imps of Armide, disguised as wood nymphs, on finding him asleep, bind him with garlands of roses, an occasion which gives opportunity for some charming pictures of great beauty and classic grace. The wood nymphs depart and Armide enters armed with a dagger, but she is disarmed by the handsome form of her victim decked with flowers, and decides to put him to the torture of love, and casting on him a spell bids her imps convey Renaud to a far-distant spot, and seated by his side they are borne away.

In the next acts are shown the results of Armide's spell. To her surprise she herself is in love with Renaud, and to free herself calls on Hate, and then follows some incantations to banish love, but before these are complete Armide's courage fails and Hate, in revenge, dooms her captive for ever in the toils of love. In the fourth act Ubalde and a Danish knight seek Renaud, whom Armide has placed in an enchanted castle, but Ubalde has a golden sceptre, and they succeed in their attempt. The last act shows us the gardens of the enchanted palace. Renaud is seen seated by Armide's side; Armide for a short time has to leave him, and to relieve him in her absence treats him to a ballet, Pleasures, but this does not console him, and he dismisses them. At this moment Ubalde and his friend enter, the spell cast over Renaud is broken, and when Armide returns, he firmly declines to stay. Armide then destroys the palace and departs in her flying chariot.

As might be expected, Gluck has composed melodious and pathetic music to this somewhat absurd libretto. All the chief and most important music falls to the exponent of Armide, her first scena, "Heaven Warns Me," in the first act, and "At Last Within My Grasp is He," which Armide sings when finding Renard asleep, take high rank in all that is great in musical art, while the pathos of her farewell, "Betrayed am I," and the imaginative infernal music of the third act, as well as the grandeur of Armide's final air, giving expression to her dread of the doom announced by Hate, reveal the great composer in his finest and most impressive moments.

Not the least attractive music in the opera are the many charming classical dances most skilfully executed by Mlle. Boni and the Brussels corps de ballet, while the scenic effects generally were triumphs of the Covent Garden stage management, the beasts guarding the enchanted castle, the aerial flights of Armide and Renaud, and Mr. Brookes' scenery were alike excellent, while chorus and the orchestra, conducted by M. Messager, gave ample evidence of careful and complete rehearsal. Mlle. Bréval proved a thoroughly efficient exponent of the part of Armide, both vocally and in its dramatic portions, and Madame Kirkby Lunn sang the music of Hate with great intensity, while M. Laffite fully realised the heroic nature of the character of Renaud. M. Seveilhac made an excellent Hidroat, and M. Crabbe appeared to advantage in the part of Ubalde. Le Plaisir and Sidonie were cleverly impersonated by Mme. Gilibert-Lejeune, and Miss Gleeson-White gave due importance to the part of Phénice, the two characters of Lucinde and La Naïade being undertaken by Mlle. Das, while M. Altchevsky, M. Dognies, and M. Artus completed the rest of the cast.

On Saturday Verdi's Traviata was given at Covent Garden, with Madame Melba, Signor Caruso, and Signor Battistini in the cast. With such fine artists in the principal rôles, and with each in perfect voice, the result was perhaps the finest performance of Verdi's opera ever heard at Covent Garden. Signor Campanini conducted.

"THE GIRL NEXT DOOR."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In your issue of last Saturday there is a report of a musical comedy, produced at Brighton, with the above title. As far back as Easter, 1901, I produced a two-act musical comedy entitled The Girl Next Door, and have played the same at various times since. I enclose copy of programme.—Yours faithfully,

HENRY S. DACRE.

Olive House, Tournay-road, Fulham, S.W.
July 11, 1906.

AT a dramatic and musical at home, held in Philbeach Hall, Earl's Court, on Monday, Mrs. Crowe (Miss Bateman) provided an excellent programme for the entertainment of her guests. The first item was Matthew Arnold's Tristram and Iseult, arranged for acting by Miss Muriel Currey and played by Mr. Jules Shaw and three of Mrs. Crowe's pupils. The poetic atmosphere of the play was fairly well preserved, and the dresses of Miss Muriel Currey, as Iseult of Ireland, and Miss Leah Bateman-Hunter, as the page, were picturesquely effective. Miss Viva Birkett, whose part of Iseult of Brittany contained an unaccompanied song, sweetly sung to an air of her own composition, was of necessity less telling in costume, but she filled in the picture gracefully. Mr. Shaw gave a conscientious and nervously dramatic rendering of Tristram, Miss Currey made an impressive Queen, and Miss Hunter, who is Mrs. Crowe's grand-daughter, showed distinct signs of having fulfilled the laws of heredity. One speech, in which she became a sort of chorus to the story, was delivered particularly well. Afterwards came songs by Miss Muriel Gough, Landon Ronald's setting of Keats's "I had a dove" being sung exquisitely; Mr. Arnold Gange, Mlle. Braquaval, and Signor Caffetto, a dramatic tenor with a fine voice, and a pleasing violin solo by Mlle. Louise Simons. Miss Dorothy Bewley contributed to the success of an enjoyable afternoon by her playing of the accompaniments.

OWING to the success of the performance of the three Chester Mysteries, the English Drama Society will revive a cycle of these plays early in the autumn.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

At the sitting of the House of Commons on Friday, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman announced that the Government were going to adopt the Musical Copyright Bill as a Government measure. This is excellent news, and the passage of the Bill through the House is now certain.

Miss Ellen Terry and Miss Edna May appear in the list of subscribers to the fund now being raised in our columns on behalf of Miss Dot Stephens, who recently met with an accident on the railway. Miss Terry sends a cheque "for the poor child, with loving sympathy," and Miss May, equally commiserate, says, "I am more grieved than I can say over this dreadfully sad case. I don't remember ever having heard of anything so sad as this little girl's accident." The generosity of the dramatic and musical professions, indeed, has seldom been invoked in a more necessitous case, and we commend its merits to our readers.

Mr. Arthur Collins announces with much satisfaction that he has persuaded Mrs. Patrick Campbell to create the leading rôle of the heroine in Mr. Hall Caine's The Bondman, the drama in a tableau and four acts which is to be the autumn attraction at Drury Lane. This involves the postponement of Mrs. Campbell's tour in the United States. In connection with this interesting engagement, it may be noted that it was through the medium of melodrama that the dramatic powers of the popular actress first came to fruition. After witnessing her performance as Astrea, the adventuress, in The Trumpet Call at the Adelphi, Mr. Pinero at once chose her to create the part of Mrs. Tanqueray, a rôle that is indelibly associated with her name and fame.

"The Bondman" will have the services of at least three notable actors who took part in last autumn's production of The Prodigal Son, Mr. Henry Neville, Mr. Frank Cooper, and Mr. Austin Melford all being included in the cast. Mr. Lionel Brough is another engagement of the most popular character, and the presence in the company of Miss Marie Illington, Miss Henrietta Watson, Miss Lily Malyon, Miss Polly Brough, Messrs. James Fernandez, Francis Chamier, and Fred Groves will make the cast one of exceptional strength. Another important engagement is pending with a prominent actor whose name must not be divulged.

Mr. Cyril Maude's "Playhouse," which was demolished by the lamentable accident at Charing-cross, is to be rebuilt, and the new theatre should be ready before the end of the year. A happy arrangement has been come to with the South Eastern Railway, by which the cost of the re building will be covered by that company—a settlement that calls for the heartiest congratulations to Mr. Maude, whose losses through the calamity will thus be minimised to a very great extent. Meanwhile, Mr. Maude, after a summer vacation, will fulfil his engagement with Mr. Charles Frohman, appearing in London with Miss Winifred Emery in a new play.

Lady Bancroft will award the prize and certificates at the annual elocutionary examination in connection with the Birkbeck College, Chancery-lane, which will be held this afternoon. Proceedings will commence at three o'clock, and the twelve candidates, having previously undergone a reading test, will be called upon to recite the various pieces selected.

Among those present at the first performance of L'Espionne at the Royalty Theatre on the evening of the 6th inst. was Sir Squire Bancroft, by whom Diplomacy, the English equivalent of Sardou's famous piece Dora—now re-named as above—was produced at the Prince of Wales's on Jan. 12, 1878. Mr. Bancroft, as he was then, played Count Orloff, who illustrated Russian diplomacy, a matter that was then of vital interest, for those were the days of "We don't want to fight, but by Jingo if we do!"

Mr. Martin Harvey, who is now enjoying a well-earned rest prior to the opening of his autumn tour next month, has just been made the recipient of a much-valued gift. The donor is Mrs. Freeman, of Cormongers, Nutfield, the famous breeder of Skye-terriers, and her gift is the splendid bitch Nutfield Queen, a "Skye" with a fine prize-winning record. She was awarded a first at Edinburgh, a first as novice in the Kennel Club Show of 1902, and on the same occasion won a special first as the "best terrier novice of any breed" in the show. Mr. Harvey, whose fondness for canines is well-known, is appropriately proud of his new possession.

The Bishop of London sat in the stalls at the Court Theatre during the first night of the revival of Mr. Bernard Shaw's play You Never Can Tell, and was as enthusiastic in applause as anyone in the audience, which also included Mr. A. J. Balfour. At the end of the first act Dr. Ingram turned to a lady on his right, and, clapping his hands, said, "It is awfully good, isn't it?"

The Moody-Manners Opera Company will begin their five weeks' season of grand opera in English at the Lyric on Saturday evening next. Devotees of music will note with pleasure that for this particular season Mr. Tom B. Davis and Mr. Charles Manners have agreed to confine the prices of admission to the following rate:—Stalls, 10s. 6d. and 7s. 6d; balcony stalls, 5s. and 5s; upper circle, 4s. and 3s.; pit, 2s; gallery, 1s. Such an arrangement should be very acceptable to the enthusiast, and prove attractive to that section of the British public whose taste for opera in English it is Mr. Manners' earnest endeavour to interest.

The works to be presented are taken from a répertoire of twenty operas, commencing with Lohengrin on Saturday, July 21. On Monday Tännhauser will be given; on Tuesday, Faust; Wednesday (matinée), Trovatore; Wednesday evening, Eugéne Onegin; Thursday, The Huguenots; and Friday, Cavalleria Rusticana and Pagliacci. In the course of the season Mme. Blanche Marchesi, Mme. Fanny Moody, Mme. Do Vere, Miss Toni Seiter, Miss Ethel Cadman, Miss Rosina Benyon, Misses Lever and Baker, Messrs. Joseph O'Mara, Wilson Pembroke, Charles Carter, Lewys James, William Dever, Marshall Vincent, Charles Magrath, and Charles Manners will appear. The conductors are Herr Richard Eckholdt and Signor Remualdo Sapio. There will be seventy in the chorus and fifty-five in the orchestra.

The cluster of Claudias in The Prince Chap, the comedy from America which is to be produced at the Criterion on Monday, will be impersonated by little Betty Green, Geraldine Wilson, and Miss Janet Alexander, who will respectively suggest the character from childhood to a more advanced age. The cast will also include Miss Lilias Waldegrave, Miss Hilda Trevelyan, Mr. Sam Sothern, Mr. George Shelton, and Mr. H. R. Roberts.

Referring to the enduring success of His House in Order, last week, we were led by a slip of the pen into attributing the play to Mr. Jones. The popular St. James's piece is, of course, one of the most notable examples of Mr. A. W. Pinero's brilliant wit and dramatic invention.

Mr. Arthur Bourchier has selected Wednesday, July 25, as the date on which he will produce his adaptation of Anatole France's play Crainquebille, under the title of Down our Alley. The new play, in which Mr. Bourchier will appear as an old costermonger, has been elaborated to an extent sufficient to supply the evening bill in conjunction with Monsieur de Paris, in which Miss Violet Vanbrugh will play her original character of Jacinta, the Executioner's Daughter. The proceeds of the first performance will be devoted to the funds of Charing Cross Hospital.

The principal part of Crainquebille is that of an itinerant seller of vegetables, a most estimable old man who has a collision with his barrow. He is accused of having uttered words offensive to the authorities, and is haled before the magistrate, who inflicts a fine. The money is paid by a sympathiser, but the odium of the conviction remains, and the old man is unable to gain a living. Friendless and starving, he would fain seek refuge in prison, and repeats to a police officer the words with which he was formerly accused, but the officer ignores them. Here in the French original the old costermonger is left, but in the English version a happy ending is arrived at through the good offices of a newspaper seller.

Amongst Mr. Bourchier's plays in prospective is a new comedy by Malcolm Watson, entitled Handsome Jim, which he has arranged with Mr. Edward Michael to be produced by the Répertoire Theatre Association at the Theatre Royal, Margate, on Monday. The cast, in which a Chancellor of the Exchequer and a Labour Party leader figure, will include Mrs. Culling, Miss Evelyn d'Alroy, Miss Helena Millais, Messrs. Clarence Blakiston, O. P. Heggie, A. E. Anson, Arthur Eldred, Edmund Baker, Edward Mervyn, E. F. Saxon, H. G. Mason, end A. Austin Leigh, the last-named being responsible for the production. Handsome Jim is destined to be seen eventually at the Garrick.

Miss Nora Lancaster has been engaged by Mr. Tree to play leading parts on his forthcoming tour. She will make an especially charming Ethel Newcome. In accepting this welcome engagement she has been reluctantly compelled to refuse an offer to appear in Cymbeline in Glasgow. It will be remembered that she was a most successful Imogen at the Manchester revival last year, and holds the record of having played the part over a hundred times without a break—longer than any other actress. Miss Lancaster—who is, as everybody knows, a daughter of Miss Wallis (Mrs. Walter Reynolds), has crowded a great deal of experience into her comparatively short career on the stage. She was with Sir Henry Irving for nearly three years, and her other engagements include a season in a Pinero first production, a tour with Mice and Men, special weeks with Mr. F. R. Benson at Stratford-on-Avon, starring in Manchester revivals, and leading parts under Mr. Curzon's management in London.

A quaint little exhibition of pictures, painted by Mr. Ugo Catani, is being held at Old Oak House, Bond-street. It includes two very dainty water-colours of Miss Ellaline Terriss. The first is called "Crush at the Aldwych," and shows the Beauty of Bath evidently making her escape Strandwards, with Cupid, mounted on a lion, watching her go, while an unconscious crowd is waiting for the opening of the doors. In the second little painting Miss Terriss is evidently swimming in the old Roman baths at Bath, with Cupid seated on a block of marble. In an unfinished sketch of Mr. G. P. Huntley the artist has cleverly caught, in a few lines, the pose and expression of the popular comedian off the stage.

Mr. George Edwardes is seeking recuperation at Carlsbad after a very busy season, and making ready for a still busier one. The popular entrepreneur has with him Mrs. Edwardes and Miss Edwardes, who will not return until the autumn.

The English version of Die Lustige Witwe, which Mr. Edwardes will produce in due course, is being made by Mr. Edward A. Morton, the author of San Toy. The piece will bear marked differences from the German original, and will contain at least one new part of importance for which a low comedian of great resource will be requisite.

Miss Mabel Love will be the stellar attraction of Mr. Percy Hutchison's company with The Freedom of Suzanne on its forthcoming autumn tour. Miss Love's stage career has been marked by many shades of progression, and her accession to a part of such importance as that of Suzanne in Mr. Cosmo Gordon Lennox's comedy is a well-earned tribute on the part of an enterprising manager to her abilities as an actress and to her powers of attraction.

Mr. Louis Parker has been the hero of the hour—or rather of the week—at Warwick. He was carried shoulder high by the performers to the courtyard of Warwick Castle at the close of the last performance of the pageant on Saturday, and there he was congratulated by the Mayor on good work well done The attendance on the last day surpassed that of any of the other days, and the performers displayed, if possible, greater spirit. The pageant is to be repeated at some future date. The thousandth anniversary of the founding of Warwick Castle, ten years from now, is suggested as a suitable occasion.

Miss Zena Dare took up the part of Lady Betty at the Aldwych Theatre on Monday, Miss Ellaline Terriss having gone on a short holiday trip. A new version of The Beauty of Bath will be produced when Mr. Seymour Hicks removes in December to his new theatre in Shaftesbury-avenue, which has been leased to Mr. Charles Frohman, and the spring of next year will see Mr. Hicks and Miss Terriss on a tour of the provinces lasting during March, April, and May. The news that the clever actor-manager-author is engaged upon the writing of a new musical piece is very welcome.

According to the decision of the New York Appeal Court given on Thursday in the case of James Metcalfe, dramatic critic, the management of a theatre has a right to refuse admission to a person even if tickets have already been purchased and seats allotted, but if managements cooperated to refuse admission to Mr. Metcalfe for the sole purpose of injuring him in his calling, then they are guilty of illegality, but such was not proved in the present case. The managers of the so-called Theatre Trust simply barred Mr. Metcalfe as an "objectionable person."

Mr. Louis Calvert has engaged a talented company for his forthcoming season at the New Theatre with the Egyptian opera-comique by Messrs. Frederick Fenn and Michael Faraday, entitled Asmaris. The leading parts will be impersonated by Miss Ruth Vincent, Messrs. Norman Salmond, Rutland Barrington, Roland Cunningham, and Whitworth Mitton.

Mr. Bannister Howard has arranged with Messrs. Greet and Engelbach for the rights of The Earl and the Girl for all towns not visited by them. Next year Mr. Howard will probably take over the entire rights. In addition to this company, which starts out in September, Mr. Howard is responsible for the management of no less than nine other companies, particulars of which will be found in the companies' advertisement column.

"Colonel Newcome" reached the end of its successful season at His Majesty's on Saturday evening, when, in response to loud calls at the close of the performance, Mr. Tree came forward and said: "'All's well that ends well.' Our season, which began with Dickens, has appropriately ended with Thackeray. To-night we are celebrating the success of Colonel Newcome with your plaudits. I am well aware that there are those who hold that the only possible excuse for placing literary masterpieces on the stage is success. I am glad to think that we have this excuse. Our past season has again been an eventful and a happy one. After Mr. Comyns Carr's version of Oliver Twist we produced Mr. Stephen Phillips's Nero, interrupting its run in order to produce a series of Shakespearian plays during the Shakespeare birthday week. Then the last play of the season has been that which you have witnessed to-night, Colonel Newcome.

"At the opening of next season, early in September, I have arranged to tour through the provinces, renewing, I hope, old acquaintances and friendships, and taking with me not only Colonel Newcome, but also Business is Business and The Man Who Was. Whilst I am in the country, this stage will be occupied by a production of The Winter's Tale, which we have been busily engaged rehearsing this week, for which I have been so fortunate as to secure the services of Miss Ellen Terry for Hermione and Mr. Charles Warner as Leontes. I feel it a specially happy circumstance that in this jubilee year of Miss Terry's stage career she should again appear in the play in which she originally figured on the stage. Fifty years ago Miss Terry appeared before the London public as the boy Mamilius, and this year she will appear as Hermione.

"With the announcement that during September and October Mr. Tree will positively not appear at this theatre, I fully anticipate there will be an immediate and unprecedented run on the box office of the theatre. On my return to this theatre, I hope again to revive for some time this play, Colonel Newcome, and follow it with Macbeth and Antony and Cleopatra. The great success of our Shakespeare Festival last April has determined me to continue for at least a fortnight the Shakespeare Festival during the coming April. Ladies and gentlemen, I think that is all, but whenever I hear the public call I shall be here to say 'Adsum.'"

Princess Alexander of Teck and Princess Louise of Wieh were present at the performance of Armide at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, on the night of the 6th inst. Among the distinguished audience was also Miss Maxine Elliott, the beautiful wife of Mr. Nat Goodwin and sister to Miss Gertrude Elliott (Mrs. Forbes Robertson).

"Beside the Bonnie Brier Bush" will start its fourth tour at the Grand Theatre, Llandudno, on July 23. Mr. William Mollison will still play Lachlan Campbell. At the termination of this tour we understand Mr. Mollison intends taking out a Shakespearean company—a step which will be greatly appreciated by all theatre-goers.

A very successful performance of Twelfth Night was given last Saturday afternoon in the beautiful grounds of Redmere, Putney. Ideal weather and picturesque surroundings favoured a perfect representation. The performance was organised by Mr. Fewlass Llewellyn in aid of the Organ Fund of All Saints' Church, Putney, which we understand will benefit substantially.

The exacting character of Malvolio was excellently portrayed by Mr. Lauderdale Maitland; a really charming and natural performance of Viola was given by Miss Gertrude Valentine; and Miss Gertrude Tate's Olivia was sweet and dignified. Mr. Francis Chamier gave a scholarly reading of the Duke; Mr. Howard Templeton was duly impressive as Antonio; and Mr. William Burchill as Sebastian is to be congratulated on both his performance and make-up—the latter resembling very closely the twin-sister, Viola. The comedy scenes went with a swing, causing much merriment. Miss Mary Bessie was a bewitching Maria; Mr. Fewkass Llewellyn was highly effective as Sir Toby Belch; Mr. Arthur Valentine as Sir Andrew was intensely funny; and Mr. L. Ord Pink as the clown Feste showed a true spirit of comedy, and sang the songs incidental to the part in a thoroughly artistic manner.

Mr. J. Sanderson Moffat having recently finished a ten months' tour with Mr. Arthur Carlton in The Span of Life, has been re-engaged by that gentleman for the autumn tour of the same piece, opening at North Shields on August Bank Holiday. Instead, however, of playing Richard Blunt, as formerly, Mr. Moffat will assume the heavy leading part, Dunstan Leech.

Messrs. Chas. Beresford and W. H. Moore having secured the sole rights of M. Hall-Page's successful drama, A Rogue's Daughter, will tour the same in the coming autumn, commencing on August Bank Holiday at the Theatre Royal, Macclesfield. Many new specialities have been introduced, and no expense will be spared to ensure success.

The Oddfellows' Hall, Deal, is now being partly rebuilt and the stage much enlarged, in order to accommodate No. 1 companies. It will henceforth be called the Theatre Royal, Deal. The whole of the alterations will be carried out under the direction of the manager, Mr. J. C. White.

Mr. Haddon Chambers's new "comedy of the suburbs," has been secured by Messrs. Liebler and Co., of New York, under whose direction it will be produced. Mr. Frank Curzon for some time had an option upon the comedy, but was unable to secure Mr. Weedon Grossmith for a characteristic part, owing to the latter's engagement at the Haymarket, so Mr. Curzon reluctantly abandoned the project.

Miss May Beatty, a young but well-known Australienne, who has been in the theatrical profession since her early girlhood, is about to pay her first visit to this country. Miss Beatty has done invaluable service with the Pollard Opera company and with Mr. J. C. Williamson, and has just finished a two years' engagement as leading lady in musical comedy with Mr. George Stephenson.

Mitchell's theatre ticket agency in Old Bond-street has been purchased by Mr. George Ashton on behalf of Ashton and Co., Ltd., of which he is managing director. Mitchell's was established some eighty years ago The founder, John Mitchell, says the Daily Chronicle, was the second bookseller to take up the business of selling theatre tickets to his clients, the originator of the system being a book dealer in St. James's-street, known as Sams.

He was a great character in his day, and liberally subscribed to all the operatic ventures, and made huge profits by his speculations in seats. He also introduced French companies to London audiences at the St. James's Theatre, and among his "stars" were Fargueil and Desclée. One of his biggest undertakings was to provide the State performances at Her Majesty's in 1858, on the occasion of the marriage of the Princess Royal and the future German Emperor.

Mr. Harry Esden, the resident-manager of the Opera House, Northampton, has resigned his position, which he has occupied for the last twelve months.

Miss Queenie Leighton returns to Drury Lane at Christmas to play principal boy. Miss Leighton is desirous to emphasise the fact that she is appearing as the hero of Sinbad, and thus correct some of the reports which have appeared without warrant in certain daily papers.

Mr. Norman V. Norman has acquired the rights of a powerful play in four acts on the subject of Robin Hood, the Outlaw of Sherwood Forest.

Mr. Lester Collingwood has decided upon Cinderella as the subject for his pantomime next Christmas at the Alexandra Theatre, Birmingham. For the title-rôle he has engaged Bessie Butt, who made a big success in the same part last year at the Opera House, Cheltenham.

Mr. Edward Terry, who will open his autumn tour at Llandudno on August 6, has engaged as his stage-manager Mr. Montague Wigan, a relative of the celebrated actors Alfred and Horace Wigan. Mr. Montague Wigan, who has had a varied experience of management, started his stage career under Mr. Forbes Robertson, finally joining Mr. F. R. Benson, with whom he remained nearly four years.

The illustrations on pages 29 and 30 of this week's Amateur Photographer are from photographs by Mr. Bert Gilbert, who has won honours as an amateur photographer by his capital plates "When the day's work is done," a picture of a bay with sailing-boat hauled upon the shore, and "Wallasey Beach," near New Brighton.

Mr. Samuel James has just secured from Miss Mary Stafford Smith the sole rights for Great Britain and Ireland of her last new play, and will produce the same on August 27 at the Lyric Theatre, Hammersmith.

The New Theatre, Cardiff, now in course of erection in Park Place, is making rapid progress and will be ready for opening at the end of the year. The building has been designed by Messrs. Runtz and Ford, of London, the architects of the new Gaiety, Strand, which building it will somewhat resemble, and will be fitted with the very latest requirements. It will possess a fine stage, 70ft. wide by 45ft. deep, electric light will be everywhere, and an admirable system of heating and ventilation will be installed. There will be twenty large dressing-rooms. Mr. Robert Redford, the present lessee of the old Royal, is the sole proprietor.

In Mr. Leonard Rayne's production of Sporting Life at the Opera House, Cape Town, Mr. Frank Beresford, as Lord Woodstock, had to meet Mr. Jack Valentine, Cape Town's heavy-weight champion, in the Great National Sporting Club scene. The knock-out blow by Woodstock in the second round was the cause of great enthusiasm nightly, and the Cape papers describe Mr. Beresford as no mean novice in the noble art.

The Rawtenstall Theatre will be re-opened on August Bank Holiday by Mr. Arthur De Frece, of London, who has taken a long lease of the building. He has secured the services of Mr. Geo. Dickinson as manager, and an efficient staff.

The many friends of Miss Lydia Donovan and Mr. C. Quinton Fulford will be sorry to hear that Mr. Fulford was taken ill suddenly last week with an acute attack of pneumonia. Miss Donovan relinquished the parts of Grace in Her One Great Sin and Isabel in East Lynne in order to nurse her husband, Miss Blanche St. Albans and Mr. J. Leicester Jackson being kind enough to release her at practically a few hours' notice. Mr. Fulford is now well on the road to recovery, but the doctor orders complete rest until the rehearsals begin for The Temptress, in which piece Miss Donovan is engaged to star in the title-rôle and Mr. Fulford to play a principal part.

Mrs. Chapin, who this week concludes her summer tour of that ever-popular musical absurdity A Pantomime Rehearsal at the King's, Glasgow, intends shortly to produce a new bijou comic opera, the music of which is from the pen of Mr. Percy E. Fletcher. This, together with The Pantomime Rehearsal, should prove an effective double bill. Mr. Harold Chapin, who has been so successful in the rôle of Captain Tom Robinson, will create the part of the hero, a Dresden statuette.

Mr. Dickie Clark's company, in Lucky Liza, is having a successful tour, and is well booked up. Miss Madge Brownie in the title-rôle is a big success, and in her numbers with Mr. Clare she scores heavily.

Mr. Henry Bowman, who for a number of years has been associated with the management of the Ramsgate Amphitheatre, is shortly severing his connection with that establishment, and will take a farewell benefit.

Mr. C. Robert Perkins, the energetic lessee of the Jersey Opera House, is to be congratulated on his latest innovation. The stage of the Opera House is now lighted on the incandescent gas system, the illumination being equal to 7,500 candle power. There are several other improvements this season, notably the opening of a comfortable smoke-room for the use of the occupants of the stalls and circle

Mr. Leslie Carter has been engaged by Mr. Walter Maxwell for the part of Justice Ryder—the Lion—in The Lion and the Mouse.

Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco are at present on a first-class variety theatre tour, which includes Blackpool, Birmingham, Liverpool, Newcastle, and Paris. Truly, Servais Le Roy's Comedians de Mephisto company may be termed cosmopolitan, as there are very few places of note throughout the world they have not visited. Moreover, it must be gratifying for "the world's monarchs of magic" to be in a position to acknowledge that their efforts are invariably as successful on the Continent, in New York, Chicago, or San Francisco as they are at the Alhambra, London, at which latter place, by the way, they have just finished a fourth extended season. That astute Australian entrepreneur (Mr. Harry Rickards) only just recently volunteered the statement that Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco had been played by him with "immense success, both artistically and financially," through Australia and New Zealand.

The Tunbridge Wells Opera House re-opens for the season on Monday, when Mr. Charles Carey will present Mollentrave on Women, from the St. James's. During the week the Countess of Lathom and Mr. Alan Mackinon will also appear with a distinguished company of amateurs.

Miss Louie Tinsley has been engaged by Mr. Fred Paul to create the part of Mrs. Ermyntrude Jones-Jones in the forthcoming tour of The Lord of the Last, and goes to the Marlborough Theatre at Christmas to play Elvera—one of the sisters in Cinderella.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt was the defendant in a case brought before the Paris Sixth Chamber last week, in which a Brussels firm sought to recover 3,200fr. (£128) for a hand-made lace bedcover. Mme. Bernhardt contended that she had merely taken the bedcover on approval, but the firm contended that it was a sale. The Court decided in favour of the plaintiffs, but considerately gave the concession that Mme. Bernhardt might pay the bill by monthly instalments of £12.

The Prince of Wales presided on Monday last at the seventeenth annual meeting of the Associated Board of the Royal Academy of Music and the Royal College of Music, held at Marlborough House. The gathering was attended by a large number of prominent musicians, including Sir Alexander Mackenzie, Sir Hubert H. Parry, and Dr. Charles Harriss, of Canada.

The annual report stated that in the past year the number of candidates who entered for the local centre examinations in rudiment was 488, and in harmony, counterpoint and practical subjects 3,436, making 3,924 in all, as against 3,878 in 1904-5.

In moving the adoption of the report, the Prince said its most pleasing feature was that the percentage of passes and honours was higher this year, showing an advance in the quality and training of the candidates. His Royal Highness quoted the words of the King at the annual meeting of the Associated Board in 1893, when his Majesty referred to the extraordinary popularity of examinations, or rather of certificates, without regard to their quality, and the consequent growth of self-constituted and irresponsible examining bodies. His Royal Highness added that the association of the most eminent representatives of music on the board was the best guarantee of the worth of the certificate of the Royal Academy and the Royal College of Music. The medals gained by the successful candidates were afterwards distributed by the Prince.

The twenty-third annual meeting of the Corporation of the Royal College of Music was also held on Monday at Marlborough House. The Prince of Wales, who presided, congratulated all connected with the college on the marked progress which characterised the institution. He said during the past year no fewer than 305 candidates were examined, and out of these 164 obtained certificates, which in itself spoke for the increased public appreciation of the value set upon the associateship of the Royal College of Music.

His Royal Highness presented to Miss May Harrison the gold medal annually given by Raja Sir S. M. Tagore, of Calcutta, for the most generally deserving pupil of the year; and to Miss Phyllis Emanuel the Challen and Son gold medal and the John Hopkinson silver medal—both for pianoforte playing.

Mr. Herbert Ralland and his répertoire company conclude their season at the Gaiety Theatre, Douglas, on the 14th inst. The company has been highly appreciated for its performances of such good works as Captain Swift, The Idler, Caste, A Pair of Spectacles, Arabian Nights, and Dandy Dick. In recognition of Mr. Ralland's services, the directors of the theatre arranged a special complimentary benefit on Wednesday under the distinguished patronage of Lord and Lady Raglan and the leading families of Douglas. In addition to The Idler, played by the company, the following artists kindly gave their services at a grand concert, viz.: Miss Lil Hawthorne, Miss Stella Castelle, Miss Kitty Cavendish, Miss Chrissie Ralland, Mr. W. H. Powell, Mr. Jack Lorimer, Mr. J. W. Knowles, Mr. Fred Fowler, and Mr. R. A. Roberts.

Mr. Wilton J. Selby's many friends and admirers will learn with deep regret of his death, which took place on Tuesday at his residence at Sydney Mansions, Bowes Park, N., after three months' suffering from cancer of the throat. He was for many years one of the most popular members of Mr. Mouillot's musical comedy companies. His greatest success perhaps, was scored in Mr. W. Melville's drama Her Second Time on Earth by his clever impersonation of the Italian character-study Beppo, which brought him many complimentary notes from members of the Italian colonies at the different cities he visited. His last appearance was with the farcical comedy sketch Barmaids in the character of Tadwell Teague, in which capacity he visited most of the London music halls. It was while fulfilling this engagement that his health gave way.

It has been stated in the Press that Mr. Walter Slaughter has just completed an opera, and has called it My Lady Tatters. For the book Mr. Herbert Leonard, the author of The Girl of My Heart, is responsible, and he has also named the piece, for which Mr. Walter Slaughter has written the music. The lyrics are from the pen of Mr. Roland Carse

Mr. Charles Frohman has engaged Miss Hilda Stewart to play Miss Sarah Brooke's part in Raffles on tour.

Mr. Leonard Shepherd is an actor to be envied—young enough for his career to be before and not behind him, but old enough to have the training that varied experience alone gives. He is one of the most recent discoverers of America, and, accompanied by his charming wife (Miss Helena Head), sails for the United States in a few weeks' time, having made his name there as a prominent member of the Ben Greet Shakespearean Company, and played several other important engagements.

Mr. Shepherd is essentially a strong actor, and makes a great feature of the art of making up. His method is to draw his idea of the character to be portrayed, and then copy his own drawing in every detail. That he succeeds in making himself unrecognisable is proved by the following incident that really occurred in America. He was playing Trivulzio in Monna Vanna—an old, shrivelled man—and having given a ticket for the theatre to the proprietor of his hotel was rather anxious to hear what impression his performance had made. "Ah, it was very good, but I couldn't 'place' you," said the proprietor; "I didn't get a programme, but I guess you appeared as one of the young fellows in the crowd. Say! That old man you've got in your company is great! What do they call him—Trivulzio—that's it—but he won't last long. It seems kind of mean that he can't retire, although I must say I thought him the best of the whole crowd!"

Miss Helena Head, who comes from Wales, has not been on the stage quite so long as her husband. She is very pretty, tall, and dark, with a particularly sweet expression. It is the fate of many actors and actresses to get younger behind the footlights as they get older in real life. Miss Head started her career in playing such parts as the Queen in Hamlet—she even acted Widow Melnotte to the Claude of Osmond Tearle—but her recent parts have been suitable to her age and appearance. Very ambitious for her husband, she is most diffident about her own performances. Mr. and Mrs. Shepherd have one little daughter, but she is too young to stand the wear and tear of American touring, and will remain in England, looking forward to their return next spring.

"The Open Door," a new play by Mr. Alfred Sutro, was one of the attractions of a fête given at the Botanic Gardens, Regent's Park, on Tuesday, in aid of the organisation fund of the Legion of Frontiersmen. The piece drew crowded audiences to the Conservatory Theatre, and the acting of Miss Grace Lane, who shared the responsibilities of the representation with Colonel Marshall-West, was greatly admired. An excellent open-air concert was contributed to by Miss Nancy Price, Miss Lena Ashwell, Miss Helen Mar, Miss Constance Collier, Mr. Denis O'Sullivan, Mr Albert Chevalier, Mr. Franklin Clive, Charles Bertram, Edward Sass, and Robb Harwood.

THEATRICAL GARDEN PARTY.

Friday last week at the Botanical Gardens was undoubtedly a field-day for the womenfolk. Well-known actresses were telling fortunes, selling programmes with wonderful pertinacity of purpose, presiding over hat-trimming competitions in which the contestants were mere men, performing in orchestras, retailing strawberries and cream and all manner of beverages at prices which the purchasers thought were excessive in the ordinary way, but not too much in the cause of charity; playing street organs, selling picture postcards, acting as stewards, winning cricket matches against masculine "professionals"—and doing all these things with as much charm and grace as they had stood before the footlights and wrung the hearty appreciation of many audiences! The weather was all in their favour. In the brilliant sun their dresses and their hats were shown off to better advantage than they could have been in the finest fitting-room of any Court costumier.

The sweet-scented atmosphere was well in keeping with the verdure, the flowers, the shrubs, and the beautiful dresses. Indeed, the light summer costumes presented a spectacle of dainty loveliness. The male population was not at all well represented, and consisted mainly of actors. Mr. and Mrs. Beerbohm Tree and Mr. and Mrs. George Alexander were fairly early arrivals.

Possibly some folk are so ignorant as not to know that there existed a playhouse called the Theatre Royal, in Regent's Park. True, a person with fanciful ideas might suggest that the said Theatre Royal bore a great resemblance to a penny gaff, but high art can be interpreted in a hut as well as in a palace. And high art was last week expended on "a new, startling, original, pathetic, blood-curdling, and entrancing tragedy," entitled

"GRUESOME GRANGE; or, The Banished Earl."
Act I. by Captain Robert Marshall, Act. II. by Anthony Hope, Act III. by Comyns Carr.

Sir Joseph Bellingham..	MR. CHAS. ALLAN / MR. NORMAN MCKINNEL
Major Paul Bellingham..	MR. PERCIVAL STEVENS / MR. LENNOX PAUL
William	MR. FRANK MILLS / MR. G. M. GRAHAM
Harold	MR. BASIL GILL / MR. GRAHAM BROWNE
Lady Deborah	MISS ANNIE HUGHES / MISS ETHEL MATTHEWS
Sophia	MISS NANCY PRICE / MISS JANET ALEXANDER
Julia	MISS ALICE CRAWFORD / MISS GRACE LANE
Mrs. Bridget Browne	MRS. BEERBOHM TREE / MISS POLLY BROUGH
Butler	MR. W. CHEESEMAN / MR. KENNETH DOUGLAS
Will Warrant	MR. W. H. BERRY / MR. LYN HARDING
The Banished Earl	MR. E. DAGNALL / MR. SYDNEY VALENTINE

"Alternately played by two companies of star artists."

That sentence, we think, sufficiently explains why two people are set down to play in each character. Gruesome Grange is a sad, sad story, so sad indeed that the actors in their overwhelming sorrow forgot some of the authors' lines and interjected phrases of their own. The plot is somewhat lacking in continuity—the three authors having each written an act without reference to one another's work—but we will make a brave attempt to explain it. Sir Joseph Bellingham, a fretful millionaire, has invited his relatives to spend a happy Christmas with him at his country mansion, Gruesome Grange. He suspects them of evil designs upon him, as each expects to profit largely at his death, and he has therefore secured the services of a renowned detective from Scotland Yard. The latter, the better that he may hide his identity and his profession, assumes the name of Will Warrant. The relatives bring presents with them with which to cheer the aged millionaire. One tenders snuff, and another chocolate cream, but Warrant warns the baronet against making use of the gifts lest they contain a deadly poison. Even when the thoughtful little grand-daughter Julia offers the old man a pound and a half of neuralgic powder to cure him of a physical martyrdom the cautious detective whispers, "Be careful, sir, or they will see that you suspect them, and may not attempt your death." The relatives retire to their respective bedrooms, the doors of which are "officially sealed" by Warrant. Left alone, Sir Joseph falls asleep in his armchair. A hideous figure enters through the window, and after a desperate struggle with the millionaire, stabs him, and makes his exit. Enter the relatives—in spite of the fact that their doors have been sealed—and Lady Deborah charges Warrant with the crime on the hypothesis that his was the only unlocked chamber. End of Mr. Robert Marshall's masterpiece—sensation—tableau—curtain!

The second act, by Mr. Anthony Hope, opens with the following morning. Warrant is discovered bound with cords to a chair, the relatives sleeping on the floor around him, all armed with guns, pokers, and hammers, and one with a banner bearing the legend, "Votes for Women." Warrant says he will never be hanged, as he is an earl. "An earl!" cry Sophia and Julia simultaneously. "Oh, joy! How long we've hunted one!" The major insists that the fact of the detective being an earl will only add prestige to the occasion, whereupon Warrant exclaims, "I cannot be hanged, for I am mad—notoriously mad—I and all my family." Lady Deborah addresses Warrant affectionately. "My love," she says as she embraces him, "what care I for that!" Warrant is released, although he demands to be a prisoner. Like the suffragette on a recent occasion, he doesn't want to be set free. He glories in being a martyr! Then Mrs. Browne, the housekeeper, astonishes the assembled company by informing them that she—unknown to herself or to anybody else—was secretly married to Sir Joseph two days ago. For this awful inexactitude she is murdered by the hideous figure who had so cruelly done to death the millionaire.

Mr. Comyns Carr lends the lustre of his blank verse to the third act. Enter Will Warrant and the Banished Lord. "Banished," we presume, is a delicate synonym for "murdered." "The moon is high," comments the Banished Lord. "Oh, tender moon!" "Aye," responds Will Warrant. "tender truly, but not high, my lord." The Banished Lord takes upon himself the responsibility of the murder, and Warrant expresses his gratitude for the valuable clue, but points out that a motive for the murder is lacking. "Sir, I love my work!" says the Banished Lord. "That should suffice," and then he follows with the argument:—

B. LORD: Art for Art's sake is graven on each blade
These hands employ; as singing 'gainst the dawn
I wander forth to slaughter young and old.
'Tis in our family. Oh, rise, good Will,
Long years gone by we served great Shakespeare's need,
Aye, sir, and Bacon, too; ponder on that.
In later days we laboured at the Vic.
But times have changed, and my proud father, sir,
An exile from that End they dub the West,
Earned a poor pittance on the Surrey side.
Yet worse remains; our calling now is dead,
The nerveless drama of these recreant days
Needs us no more, and I who love my work
And erst was used to slaughter Kings and Queens,
Driven from the stage to face the world of fact,
Am forced, without a lime to guide my steps,
To murder in the common light of day!"

It is agreed, however, on the earnest protestations of Warrant, who sees promotion in his wonderful method of detecting crime, that the identity of the murderer shall be kept a secret for the time being. The relatives once more come in. Sophia and Julia arrayed like Ophelia. The bodies of Sir Joseph and the housekeeper are brought in, the two Ophelias scattering flowers on them, while the others perform mad antics. Warrant arrests the Banished Lord as the murderer of Mrs. Browne. The Banished Lord insists that the handcuffs be taken off. The murders that the detective saw were wrought by a false stiletto, and were but the mere wanton frolics of a mime! Here the corpses sit up, grinning in best holiday fashion. "And we but feigned to die. Oh, simple Will!" Warrant's disgust at being fooled by a poor actor impels him to commit suicide, and the curtain falls upon the Banished Lord and the others dancing round the body, exultantly singing in chorus.

As may be imagined, this burlesque melodrama caused intense merriment among the audience, who entered the Theatre Royal fully prepared to be fooled. Mrs. Beerbohm Tree, as the housekeeper, attired in Elizabethan costume, fittingly rose to the heights of the tragic possibilities of her part. Her death scene was singularly affecting—it affected the spectators to roars of laughter. Miss Annie Hughes also cut a comical figure as Lady Deborah, and as a shrieking suffragette she added to the rollicking humour of the character. Mr. Charles Allan as Sir Joseph Bellingham, Mr. E. Dagnall as the Banished Earl, and Mr. W. H. Berry as Will Warrant brought a fund of absurd notions to their impersonations, and Miss Nancy Price as another suffragette, armed with a whip to enforce her opinions, was not less diverting. Everybody in the double cast worked with hearty good will. The orchestra, the members of which entered into the fun of the thing, comprised Messrs. John Ansell, H. B. Nesbett, O. Hill, J. Solomon, T. Gutteridge, C. H. Bradberry, J. Symmonds, and P. Clayton. Mr. Brandon Thomas, attired as an old-fashioned showman, stood outside the imposing edifice, and shouted out all about the alluring attractions of the gory proceedings that were going on within. Miss Adela Measor acted as the booth proprietress, Miss Betty Green as the Columbine, Master Walter Cross as the Clown, Master Reggie Andrews as the Harlequin, and Master Cyril Smith as the Sprite. The sandwichmen, programme, and ticket-sellers were the Misses E. Titheradge, May Taverner, May Chevalier, Georgina Hamilton, Cicely Turner, Isabel Collier, Isabel Roland, Elsie Bloxham, Mrs. Alfred Turner, and Messrs. Reginald Eyre, Percival Stevens, Fred J. Turner, H. Cannon-George, King Fordham, and Robert Bottomley, the business-manager being Mr. Alfred Turner, and the stage-manager Mr. John Harwood. Books of the play were kindly printed and published free of all charge by Messrs. Eyre and Spottiswoode, Mr. John Hassall providing the drawings gratuitously, and Mr. Carl Hentschel giving the blocks. The song in the third act was specially written and composed by Mr. Landon Ronald.

Mr. Henry A. Lytton, made up as a quaint sandwichman, paraded among the promenaders and secured many customers curious to witness the art of properly trimming ladies' hats, explained by such well-known authorities on the subject as Messrs. Cyril Maude, Henry Lytton, Rutland Barrington, Sydney Brough, C. Hayden Coffin, Frank Lacy, H. M. Morand, Courtice Pounds, Walter Passmore, C. Aubrey Smith, Herbert Sparling, William Spray, Farren Soutar, Godfrey Turner, Fred Wright, jun., and Huntley Wright. It was a sight for the gods to watch Mr. Cyril Maude's deft digits operating upon a red hat with violet decorations, and Mr. Hayden Coffin and Mr. Huntley Wright working in their exquisitely light-fingered way—sometimes they lost the big needle, they were so light-fingered—upon pink confections. And how proud they all were of the result of their labours! Each coquetted in the fashionable headgear of his own creation before Mrs. Alexander, the judge. Mr. Cyril Maude looked rather coy and shy in a lurid bonnet which set off his blushes and his complexion to immense advantage. Mr. Hayden Coffin scarcely attempted such heights of delicate maidenly susceptibility, for, with his "loud" feminine headgear and the huge band-boxes which he grasped with such affectionate tightness under each arm, he gave the impression of a milliner's assistant. In fact, you wouldn't call him a lady at all. He was distinctly a "person." At the time of our attendance in the tent, Mr. William Spray was awarded first prize, a consolation prize being given to Mr. Hayden Coffin. Then Mr. Cyril Maude attempted to sell the hats, "covered with autographs," he suggested as an inducement. But there seemed to be very few ladies present who appreciated high-class workmanship, and Mr. Spray's hat only fetched four shillings. The ladies selling tickets for hat trimming were the Misses Agnes Fraser, Mary Fraser, Ada Bland, Clara Jecks, Ida Lytton, Olive May, Gabrielle Ray, and Stella St. Audrie, while the "acting-managers" were Messrs. J. E. Lethbridge, Sydney Grahame, and Fred Wright, sen.

The cricket match, Actors v. Actresses, under the direction of Mr. C. Aubrey Smith and Miss Vane Featherstone, was a huge success, both from the point of view of finance and fun. It mattered not if the technicalities of England's royal pastime were for the time being ignored, and ignored they certainly were. The gentlemen had their right arms in slings, the ladies being allowed the full use of their limbs. But bowl the men never so furiously and field never so smartly, they apparently were no match for the ladies, for whom triumph was declared. Miss Charlotte Granville was imbued with the noble resolve of sticking at the wickets, and nothing would tempt her to take a modest run, even when she had driven the ball a good distance with her bat. Miss Billie Burke and Miss Muriel Beaumont also showed remarkable "form" with their fearless and unorthodox hitting. The ladies' team consisted of the Misses Muriel Beaumont, Pattie Browne, Billie Burke, Ethel Burnand, Constance Courtenay, Pollie Emery, Margaret Fraser, Charlotte Granville, Molly Pearson, Marianne Stayton, and Ada Webster; while the actors were Messrs. Sydney Brough, C. Hayden Coffin, Wm. Devereux, Robert Evett, Horace Lane, Horace Mills, H. Nye Chart, C. Aubrey Smith, Frank Stayton, Athol Stewart, Arthur Whitby, and Fred Wright. The umpires were Messrs. R. Rivington and J. Cranford.

Mr. Willie Edouin and Mr. George Grossmith, jun., resurrected that popular official of the days of our fathers, the music hall chairman, and each of the gentlemen mentioned presided, in turn, over "the grand vaudeville entertainment," which included turns from the Palace, Empire, Alhambra, Tivoli, Pavilion, and other leading variety theatres. Mr. Alfred Butt kindly assisted in the arrangement of the programme, which comprised such names as Miss Sybil Arundale, Messrs. Alexander and Hughes, Mr. Louis Bradford, Mr. Albert Chevalier, Miss Margaret Cooper, Mr. R. H. Douglas, Miss Connie Ediss, the Colberg Family, Mr. Evan Evans, Mr. Victor Germinal, Bros. Griffiths, La Belle Guerrero, Mr. Morris Harvey, Mr. Lavater Lee, Miss Millie Lindon, Mr. Horace Lane, Mr. Henry Lytton, Miss Clarice Mayne, Matthews and Ashley, Mr. Robert Michaelis, Mr. Fred Niblo, Mr. Arthur Playfair, Miss Alice Pierce, Mr. Courtice Pounds, Miss Mariette Sully, La Sylphe, Mr. Harry Tate, the Tscherniavsky Trio, and York's Dogs. The stage-director was Mr. M. V. Leveaux, his assistant, Mr. F. Damar, while the hon. pianists were Messrs. Ernest Bucalossie, Herman Finck, Harold Samuel, J. W. Tate, and Lamber, the scenery and act-drop being provided by Mr. J. T. Bull. Mr. Lionel Brough would scarcely take a refusal while selling his tickets.

The delightful café chantants, managed by Mr. H. A. Saintsbury, were well patronised. At the piano there were Mrs. H. Warner Hollis, Madame Hastings Warren, Miss Dorothy Foster, and Mr. Algernon Lindo, while Mr. A. Corbett Smith performed excellent service as stage-manager. Miss Clare Hamilton, Miss Annie Wilson, Miss Carrie Moore, Miss Grace Woodward, Miss May de Sousa, Miss Saville Foster, Miss Denise Orme, Miss Kitlie Loftus, Signor Barto, Mr. Huntley Wright, Mr. Sterling Mackinlay, Signor Moscarella, Master and Miss Morris, Mr. Walter Passmore, and Mr. George H. Hodgson were all down in the programme for songs. Mr. David Devant, assisted by his sister, Miss Dora Devant, gave a séance of mental magnetism; Miss Mabel Love and Miss Constance Collier recited in capital style; Master Max Darewski charmed the audience with his pianoforte work; Miss Helen Mar told a number of amusing American stories; other artists being Mr. Douglas Beaufort, Herr Voorzanger, Miss Haidee Voorzanger, Miss Winifred Jones, Miss Wanda Rudford, Miss Frances Edmonds, M. Sandor Karesay, and Miss Vera le Fleming. Julian's orchestra played for an hour in the evening, and at the Daily Mirror concert, under the direction of Mr. Hermann E. Darewski, performances were given by the Queen's Westminster Volunteer Band, Master Max Darewski, Miss Zena Dare, Miss Alice Hollander, Miss Carry More, Miss Florence Smithson, Miss Queenie Leighton, Miss Mabel Green, Miss Winifred Hare, and Miss Clare Hamilton.

Mrs. Cecil Raleigh, looking as charming as ever in highly-coloured Romany rags, told fortunes in the gipsy encampment under her control. A mysterious mine of information was revealed to Mr. Anthony Hope and Mr. Alfred Sutro, and when Mr. George Alexander appeared on the scene and heard of the ordeal through which the two playwrights had nervously passed, he decided that he would content his soul with things as they were, and not trouble his head about the possible perils of the future. Miss Amy Augarde played a street piano, arranged the shies at the alleged milky cocoanuts, and, indeed, generally attended to the duties of an all-round show-woman. The two ladies were assisted by Mr. Harry Fragson, Miss Edna May, Misses Helen Macbeth, Daisy Thimm, Maud Wynter, Mrs. Abingdon, Sydney Ellisen, Jack Tresahar, Master Philip Tonge, Madame Dorlia, and Mrs. Neville Ross. Mrs. St. Hill gave delineations of character by palmistry, and Prof. Annie J. Oppenheim read character from the face.

In Bassano's photographic tent, under the direction of Mrs. Gay, there were Misses Adrienne Augarde, Pauline Chase, Lily Elsie, Mabel Green, F. Glossop Harris, Isabel Jay, Gertie Millar, Helena Millais, Delia Mason, Denise Orme, Louie Pounds, Gabrielle Ray, Nina Sevening, Dora Sevening, Florence Smithson, Doris Stocker, and Miss May de Sousa.

In the rhododendron tent Miss Lilian Braithwaite and Miss E. Wynne Matthison dispensed strawberries and cream in their most engaging manner. The two ladies were assisted by Misses Mabel Adair, Jessie Bateman, Beatrice Beckley, Gertrude de Burgh, Constance Collier, Sybil Carlisle, Lettice Fairfax, Dorothy Grimston, Pamela Hope, Iris Hawkins, Marie Löhr, Hilda Moore, Dorothy Minto, Grace Noble, Edyth Olive, Marion Terry, Ruby Millar, Marie Mackenzie, Marcelle Chevalier, Beatrice Irwin, Teresa del Riego, Beatrice Forbes Robertson, Olive Terry, Kathleen Taverner, Wells, and Freda Watson. Stewards: Messrs. Walter Edmunds, Robert Horton, Ralph Kimpton, H. Meyer, and Owen.

Miss Winifred Emery, with the help of Miss Beatrice Ferrar and Miss Maud Cressall, sold "orphans," in the shape of Dutch dolls, not remarkable for their symmetry or personal beauty. However, Mr. Maude's autograph helped business considerably. Mrs. Edward Compton ably presided over an American ice-cream parlour, some of the merry waitresses being Miss Carlotta Addison, Miss Lena Ashwell, Miss Fanny Brough, Mrs. Alfred Bishop, Miss Helen Ferrers, Miss Eva Moore, Miss Irene Vanbrugh, Mrs. Fred Wright, and the Marchioness of Headfort.

Picture postcards were sold by Miss Zena Dare, Mrs. Walter Abrahams, and others, and in the ice cream tent, behind the conservatory were Mrs Mangles, and Misses Beatrice Ferrars, Evelyn Millard, Ruth Maitland, May Elliott, Lena Brasch, Ethel Brogan, Blanche Love, Grace Murielle, Kathleen Russell, Dorothy Trollope, and Mr. Geoffrey Saville. Acting-manager, Mr. David Barone.

One of the most pleasing programmes of entertainment was that furnished by Messrs. Bellew and Stock's juvenile company, the Romps, who, in addition to producing a petite absurdity, entitled Motor-Carmen; or, They Auto-Bust, sang popular songs and danced smartly and gracefully. The youngsters comprising the troupe were Misses Edith Streeter, Olive Pickance, Clarisse Batchelor, Winnie Brown, Becky Abrams, Florrie Harrington, Olive Cooke, and Messrs. Clement Kent, Charles Byron, George Wingrove, Cyril Cooke, George Shaylor, Cecil Doyle, and Michael Finn.

Master Edward Garrett, the smallest artist in London, excited much wonderment as he drove round the grounds in his miniature coach and pair of ponies, and he netted a nice sum of money, taking children for trips in his conveyance.

The Æolian Ladies' Orchestra, under the able conductorship of Miss Rosabel Watson, the Serenaders, and Miss Gascoyne Old's professional orchestra sent forth sweet melody into the air, and a splendid programme of music was played by the full band of the Honourable Artillery Company, under the direction of Mr. Herbert W. Lock. The West End Gramophone Company were responsible for an agreeable "Melba, Caruso, Kubelik, and Max Darewski concert."

Among the ladies and gentlemen who kindly consented to sell programmes and tickets, attended at the bars and acted as stewards were Miss Victoria Addison, Miss Maie Ash, Miss Gertrude Barnett, Miss Dora Barton, Miss Inez Bensusan, Miss Helen Bertrand, Miss Marian Bird, Miss Kitty Bishop, Miss Edith Blunt, Miss Adeline Bourne, Miss Beatrice Bramah, Miss Ethel Bryan, Miss Enid Spencer Brunton, Miss Lena Brophy, Miss Dorothy Buckstone, Mrs. E. H. Bull, Miss E. Byone, Miss Betty Callish, Miss Alexandre Carlisle, Miss Gladys Carrington, Miss Marguerite Chute, Miss Blanche Clarke, Miss Nellie Clarence, Mrs. Coltson, Miss Coltson, Mrs. Charles Compton, Miss Viola Compton, Miss Fay Compton, Miss Katherine Compton, Gisella Darewski, Miss Maudi Darrell, Miss Lilian Digges, Miss Doris Dean, Miss Elsie Don, Miss Sidney Fairbrother, Miss Nita Faydon, Miss Fraser, Miss Maud Godden, Miss Dorothy Grahame, Miss Gay, Miss Beatrice Grant, Miss Millicent Hammond, Miss Marie Hassell, Miss Nora Hastings, Miss Agnes Hill, Miss Annie Hill, Mrs. H. Warner Hollis, Miss Marie Hudspeth, Miss Sophie Harriss, Miss Esmé Hubbard, Miss Leah Hunter, Miss M. Jarirs, Mrs. C. Lane Joynt, Miss Nora Lancaster, Miss E. Leveaux, Miss Violet Lewis, Miss Lind, Miss Mary Mackenzie, Miss Ruth Maitland, Miss Dorothea Mapleson, Miss Elly Malyon, Miss Gladys Mason, Miss Milvaine, Miss Edith M. Moore, Miss Irene Moncrieff, Miss Kate Neville, Mrs. Elbert Orton, Mrs. Edmund Phelps, Miss Max Pireau, Miss Hilda Pocock, Miss Carrie Read, Miss Cicely Richards, Miss Faith Reynolds, Miss Roberts, Mrs. Saintsbury, Miss Louise Stopford, Miss Stuckey, Miss Agnes Thomas, Miss Dorothy Thomas, Miss Violet Thunder, Miss Madge Titherage, Mme. Helen Townshend, Mme. Maud Waller, Miss Nellie Walters, Miss Henrietta Watson, Miss Dagmar Wiehe, Miss Winter, Miss Wood, Miss Grace Woodward, Miss Marie Wright, Miss Haidée Wright, Miss Muriel Wylford, Mr. Stanley W. Ashworth, Mr. Henley Attwater, Mr. Armstrong, Mr. Acton Bond, Mr. Charles Bishop, Mr. Siddon Bishop, Mr. Reginald Besant, Mr. S. Sherrington Chinn, Mr. Frank Collins, Mr. Henry Crocker, Mr. Chas. Cruikshanks, Mr. Frank Darfield, Mr. Dennis Eadie, Mr. H. Farringdon, Mr. J. Fraser, Mr. C. Milne Gay, Mr. C. M. Hallard, Mr. H. W. Hewlett, Mr. Jacobs, Mr. G. Saintsbury, Mr. Bertram Steer, Mr. Vincent Sternroyd, Mr. Gerald Stevens, Mr. Victor Stevens, Mr. Christopher Stone, Mr. Allen Teayes, Mr. Spencer Trevor, Mr. F. Williams, Mr. Fred Wright, sen., Mr. Fred Wright, jun., and Mr. Huntley Wright.

ACTORS' ASSOCIATION.

"WHAT THE MEMBERS WANT."

A paper on the above subject was read by Mr. Cecil Barth at the meeting of the Actors' Association on Thursday. Mr. Barth said:—

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen,—In choosing this title for the paper which I undertook to read at the bi-monthly meeting to-day, I am quite aware of the comprehensive nature of the subject, and realise how little can be done at a short meeting of this kind to carry out the actual requirements of the members. What I would rather do is to point out how you may help yourselves and at the same time make a few suggestions which you can think over and discuss and, if deemed advisable, recommend for the consideration of the Council.

Before dealing with this part of the subject, however, I would draw your attention to the fact that these bi-monthly general meetings were arranged after considerable agitation on the part of some of the members of the Association, to give them an opportunity of bringing forward new ideas, improvements, and suggestions that would benefit this institution. Of course it is always open to a member to place his views before the Council in writing, but it was felt that the members themselves should have opportunities of bringing forward and discussing any questions that might be of general interest to the majority.

Unfortunately, very little advantage has been taken hitherto of this, and I think perhaps the reason is that many members look upon it as a trying ordeal to get up at a general meeting and express their opinions extemporaneously.

Hence my suggestion to the Council that a series of papers should be started and read dealing with questions of interest to all our members, and the Council will gladly welcome, I am sure, offers from any of the members to read papers at these general meetings.

Before turning to the future and dealing with "What the Members Want," I should like to make a few remarks about the past and present. Considering that the A.A. has been established for nearly sixteen years the membership list is distinctly disappointing.

Roughly speaking, the numbers are 1,500 out of an approximate number of 15,000 members in the theatrical profession, which is practically ten per cent.

The question naturally arises—Why is this? How is it to be accounted for? The reasons are not far to seek—it is owing, in a great measure, to the general apathy that the profession as a body has fallen into. Perhaps I am wrong; it may only be that the business instincts are lying dormant, and have not yet been aroused. In saying this I don't mean the endeavours made by individual artists to obtain engagements, but the long-sighted co-operative policy that it is necessary to adopt not only to elevate but to maintain the present status of the profession.

Even the ambition of the actor is only active so far as his own personal career is concerned. The artistic temperament is known to be self-absorbed. It is most difficult to arouse individuals to take any initiative. They procrastinate.

Many may argue—many do argue—why trouble? We are quite content as we are, so long as we continue to obtain engagements, and so long as we receive fair and reasonable recompense. This may be true for the few fortunate ones, but we must all admit that there has been a growing feeling for some time past that the average salary is steadily growing less. If this is the case, it is quite time that something was done, that an enquiry should be instituted to determine the cause. And who should undertake it but the representative body of the theatrical profession? And yet is it representative? What are the facts. The members number barely 1,500 out of a possible 15,000.

The first thing to be done, then, is to increase our numbers. Let every member put aside his petty grievances for the time being and work for the good of his association. For the good of his profession. Let each one work to enlist during the next few months, say, one new member. The results would be astonishing and far-reaching. It would mean that our members would immediately go up to 3,000. And yet by perseverance, loyalty, and energetic talks to our comrades it is not only possible, but comparatively little to ask each one to do to benefit his association and incidentally himself.

With this end in view efforts have recently been made to organise our voluntary body of workers known as "Missioners." They have done excellent work during the past few years in a quiet and unobtrusive way, and I feel sure that with our scheme of organisation and under the supervision of a strenuous committee we shall obtain far-reaching results. At the present time we have about sixty missioners, but further volunteers are needed, and will be heartily welcomed. Apart from this special body of workers, however, I want to urge upon every member of this Association the necessity of feeling that he is responsible for enlisting at least one recruit.

Let the attempt be made, and I am sure great results will ensue. I may say that the "Missioners" are considering a pamphlet styled by our Secretary the twenty-nine reasons why every actor and actress should belong to this Association, and I think this will be an immense help to energetic workers in this direction.

In dealing with the question of the future the Council has under consideration many suggestions and improvements that cannot fail to be appreciated by all the members. At the same time, I feel there are many new features which would tend to make the A.A. more popular, and in mentioning a few of these briefly I would ask you if you approve of the suggestions to recommend them for consideration to the Council.

They are as follows:—

1. That recognised agents who may require the addresses of actors should be supplied with them without being required to forego any proportion of their usual commission—that, if agreed to, the Secretary should write to all agents advising them of this, and pointing out that the Association would be of service to them particularly when an artist is required at short notice; also, that an "Emergency" board should be placed in the entrance hall, and if any particular member of the Association is required urgently, that his name should be posted.

I brought this suggestion forward at a recent Council meeting, and urged that it should be adopted, because as a member of the Council I feel it is our duty to watch the interests of the members and help them by every means in our power. The Council adjourned the discussion until last Tuesday, and then thought it would be advisable for the matter to be put before the members at this meeting. The position of dramatic agents is this. They carry on their business as a means of livelihood, and naturally will not come to an institution like ours when they realise that they will have to halve the commission by so doing. The agency work done in the Association is a side issue, and the Association is not supported by the commissions drawn from this branch. I feel that nothing should be allowed to interfere with the chance of our members getting additional engagements, and that we should therefore do all we can to encourage agents to apply to the Association. If the members present here to-day agree with this proposal they have to consider whether it is advisable or not to give the addresses of artists to agents, or whether the Association should only undertake to communicate with any artist that may be required at the expense of the agent. Personally I am inclined to think that any address should be given freely, as recognised agents have a certain standing, and are not likely to take advantage of this concession for ulterior motives.

2. That a committee should be formed to read and consider any new plays that may be introduced by members, and if deemed worthy, that efforts should be made by the Association to have them produced at a special matinée.

I have for some considerable time thought that a scheme of this kind would not only be of real service to the members, but it also might be turned into the means of revenue for the funds of the Association. For instance, suppose the Reading Committee come across a well-written, well-constructed play, and consider it worthy of being produced, I think it would be quite possible with the help of our vice-presidents to obtain the loan of a theatre for a special matinée. The play should be cast under the guidance of the committee from members of the Association who happen to be disengaged at the time, and who would give their services. In many cases it would be of help to unknown actors in London by giving them the chance of an appearance in a West-End theatre, and also should the play prove successful they would have the chance of being retained when the play found a permanent home. Another point to be considered is that should a good play be found and produced in this manner the Association should always have an interest in it in the shape of a small royalty. I should like to mention that a similar idea has occurred to two of our members—Mr. Frank Bayly and Mr. A. E. Anson, and I believe they have gone pretty deeply into details. Mr. Anson is at present away, but possibly Mr. Bayly will give you their ideas on the subject.

3. That an experiment should be tried next summer of running a company of members of the Association, who may happen to be disengaged, on commonwealth lines.

At first sight this suggestion that a commonwealth company should be organised and run under the supervision of the Association may appear to be altogether impracticable. I must confess that I have only on one occasion had an experience of a commonwealth, and then nearly all the members of the company had warm arguments as to what was to be done and what was to be left undone. However, that experience proved to me that a commonwealth could only be run successfully by the members being bound down to conform to the usual clauses found in most agreements, and to the recognised custom. Therefore a rigid contrast is necessary. The finance question is always a difficult matter, and would have to be gone into carefully. The artists who might be willing to go in for it would probably have to make a preliminary advance. If the formation of such a company could be settled early in the year, and the decision of the play or plays to be performed arrived at, there would be an excellent chance for the venture proving successful. One of the chief reasons for the failure of commonwealth ventures is the utter lack of organisation and management, and the way in which everything is rushed. As a further suggestion on this subject, I think such a play as As You Like It might be entertained, or possibly even an open-air pageant. Charities could be communicated with early in the year, and a good many bookings possibly secured on certainties and guarantees. There is no doubt that any movement of this kind organised by the A.A. would be popular, and it would be well received by managers and others, as it would certainly bear the hall-mark of respectability. At any rate, it would be welcomed as a progressive step, and a sign that the Association was endeavouring to grapple with the bad times for its members.

4. That the question of tea, coffee, and light refreshments being on sale on the premises of the Association should again be tried.

It seems to me that there is a distinct want on the Association premises, and that it ought to be possible to obtain tea, coffee, and light refreshments at reasonable charges. I know this has been tried before and failed, and on two or three occasions when I have made suggestions to the Council on various subjects I have been met with the remark that the matter has had the consideration of the Council six, eight, or even ten years previously, and been vetoed. But I maintain that because an experiment has been tried possibly years ago and failed that is no reason why it should not succeed amidst new surroundings; and possibly with new blood in the government of these experiments and renewed energy, past failures can be turned into successes. I therefore strongly urge that this proposal should be carefully discussed, and referred for the consideration of the Council.

DESTRUCTION OF THE RUNCORN THEATRE.

A disastrous fire occurred at Runcorn on Monday afternoon, by which the Theatre Royal was completely demolished, only the side entrance staircase being left standing. The greater part of the building was constructed of wood, and was practically destroyed in half an hour. The theatre was surrounded on all sides by public-houses, offices, and dwellings, and but for the promptitude with which four fire brigades were on the spot much other property would have been destroyed. The greatest excitement and confusion prevailed, furniture being thrown into the street for removal. A possible explosion was averted by a young man, who entered the burning theatre at great risk and removed two cylinders of oxygen. The whole of the scenery was destroyed, and Mr. F. H. Neville, of The Silent Witness company, which was to have opened the same evening, lost nearly all his properties. Mr. Caddick recovered a very few "props," &c., much damaged by water and fire, and Mr. Neville regained some of his company's baggage.

The theatre was erected about forty years ago by a Mr. Storey for a Mr. Robson, a member of the profession. Very soon after it was completed a Mr. James came into possession and leased it to several persons, among who were Mr. Ottley, Mr. Butler Stanhope (of Gombeen's Gold fame), Mr. W. Waldron (a writer of several dramas), and lastly, the present lessee, Mr. W. H. Caddick, who has had the place for the last seventeen years.

The building, which cost about £1400, was not insured. Mr. Caddick is exceedingly popular in Runcorn, and during his residence there has done a great deal towards furthering every good project, giving many performances in aid of local philanthropic institutions.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA—1850-1900.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

Miss E. Pauline Johnson, who is giving a recital of her own works at Steinway Hall on Monday evening, is the only Redskin poetess in the world. She comes from the province of Ontario, Canada, and belongs to the famous Mohawk tribe of the Six Nations Indians. She recites in a most effective buckskin costume, adorned with silver ornaments, the sleeves of ermine tips and strips of leather, and the mocassins gay with beadwork. At her wampum belt hangs a real scalplock, and she wears an eagle feather in her dark hair. Lord Strathcona has promised to be present at Miss Johnson's first London recital, and it is expected that Sir Charles Tupper, the veteran Canadian statesman, will also attend.

To the many wonderful musicians we have heard in London this season must be added the Brothers Cherniavsky (Leo, Jan, and Mischel), who have just come from Odessa. They made their first appearance at Mr. Praga's Studio on Sunday last. They are all gifted executants, quite young, and highly trained. Leo is a violinist with a fine technical equipment, who infuses much fire into his playing. Jan is a most sympathetic and intelligent pianist, evidently an accomplished musician, and dear little Mischel is a 'cellist whose soulful mastery of his instrument is a delight to listen to and to watch. We shall doubtless hear more of this talented trio during the winter season.

T.R.H. the Prince and Princess of Wales were present at the performance of The Man from Blankley's at the Haymarket Theatre on Tuesday evening.

MR. F. STANHOPE'S BENEFIT.

A testimonial performance was accorded on Thursday to Mr. Frederick Stanhope, who is retiring from the management of the Broadway, New Cross, to take up an appointment at the New Theatre. The performance was under the patronage of the Mayor of Deptford (Mr. John Peppercorn, J.P.), Mr. Alderman Bowerman, L.C.C., M.P. for Deptford, Major Coates, M.P. for Lewisham, and Mr. A. H. Tarleton, M.V.O. A special programme had been arranged for the occasion, and in the course of the entertainment the following address, executed by Mr. Algernon Percy, was presented to the beneficiaire:—

"To Mr. Frederick Stanhope.—Dear Sir,—We, the undernamed members of the staff connected with the Broadway Theatre, New Cross, ask your acceptance of this address as an expression of the high respect and esteem we entertain for you. During the period in which you have had the management of the theatre, your genial disposition and affability of manner have won our sincere attachment, and we feel we cannot allow you to sever your pleasant relations with us without recording our warm appreciation of your many social and businesslike qualifications. We sincerely hope that your future career will be a long and prosperous one, and with our best wishes for your health and happiness, remain, dear sir, yours very faithfully." [Forty names.]

New Cross, S.E., July 12, 1906.

Mr. Stanhope, who was very cordially received, said in returning thanks that he had been very happy among them, and was most regretful at leaving, but promised, on behalf of the new management, many improvements and greater attractions in the future. He thanked Mr. Oswald Stoll for permitting artists from the New Cross Empire to appear, and also thanked the Mayor for his patronage and presence, the Benefit Committee for their successful efforts on his behalf, and the staff of the theatre, both before and behind the curtain, for their loyal service during his period of control of the theatre. The programme was rich in variety and talent. Mr. Charles Coborn, by his clever turn, proved that his hold on an audience has not lessened by the progress of time. Miss Mildred Baker sang with great taste and skill. Miss Frances Drew rendered "If I may fly with you" in charming style. Miss Emily Taylor made an excellent impression by her singing and dancing. Mr. Fred Karno's comedians delighted all by their rendering of "Six Little Burglars," and Mr. Edwin Barwick contributed his "Sorrows of Satan," which was enthusiastically received. Mr. George Reeves caused much amusement, as did Carlton the card manipulator. The Brothers Durants' clever turn was greeted with applause, as was that of the Olive Trio, and commendation was also bestowed upon Mr. Fred Lincoln, Mr. Harry Mayville, Miss Daisy Neill, and Miss Vi Ward. Mr. Joe Elvin and his merry little company delighted all present. Mr. H. Cooper Cliffe, excellently supported by a gentleman whose name does not appear, gave a very fine rendering of "Wolsey's Farewell," from Henry VIII. Mr. Cliffe's great ability as an actor and his splendid elocution made this item one of the most interesting on the programme. Mr. Louis Calvert's company appeared in the first act of Sunday, which was admirably acted by all concerned.

ROYAL COLLEGE OF MUSIC.

The concert on Thursday evening, July 12, included an interesting quartet for strings by Smetana. This composer has written some comic operas that have brought his name into repute, one being Des Geheimniss (The Secret) first produced at Prague in 1878, khere it had considerable success; but the composer will always be better known by his comic opera Der Verkawfte Brant (The Bartered Bride), which was first heard in London during a short season given by the Saxe-Coburg Opera Company at Drury Lane in the summer of 1895, when the merits of Smetana's work created a most favourable impression. The quartet played on Thursday evening was thoroughly characteristic of Smetana's music, and the young performers—Mr. Arthur Beckwith, Mr. Tom Morris, Mr. Frank Bridge, and Mr. Charles Warwick-Evans—gave an able interpretation; although somewhat uncertain in attack in the opening movement, they, however, quickly recovered, and did justice to the fine third movement and the spirited finale. Mr. Ralph Douglas has a good and well-trained voice, but he required more contrast in his singing of "Eldorado," Albert Mallinson's setting of E. A. Poe's verses. In Kurschmann's vocal trio, "Ti Prego," warm praise may be awarded to Miss C. Florence Nixon, Miss Bessie Bowness, and Mr. B. Merlin Davies for their really admirable concerted singing. Two clever piano solos, Chopin's "Berceuse" and Brahms' Rhapsody in E flat, op. 119, were given by Miss Grace de Rozario, who, in Chopin's music, quite realised the master's intentions, the young performer, who is an A.R.C.M., being warmly greeted by the audience at the close of her solos. Other excellent work done at this concert included the capital performance of Miss Beatrice Formby and Miss Alice Cotton of Grieg's beautiful Sonata for violin and piano in C Minor; "Mignon's Song," by Goring Thomas, sung by Miss A. Christine Bywater with much purity of intonation; and Mr. Harold E. Darke's organ solo, Toccata and Fugue in C, by J. S. Bach. The accompanists were Miss Dorothy Purser and Mr. Harold Samuel.

Mr. J. Bannister Howard's open-air café chantant in the North Tower Gardens of the Crystal Palace has been well patronised during the week. Mr. Frank Lawton, the well-known whistler of the Belle of New York, proved a decided draw. The other entertainers included Miss Ettie Sheffield, operatic soprano vocalist; Miss Lillie Lassah, comedienne and dancer; Mr. Bert Danson, humorous comedian; and Ariel and Astarte, the wonderful aerial gymnasts.

GRAND PAVILION, BRIDLINGTON.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

This popular watering-place, which has grown so rapidly of late years as to become a serious rival to Scarborough, has just added one more to its list of attractions for the thousands of visitors who come to enjoy their holidays by the shores of the beautiful Bridlington Bay. The new Pavilion, which has been built on the extension of the Royal Prince's Parade, is a fine structure, and was designed by Messrs. Mangnell and Littlewoods, of Manchester, and its contruction has been superintended by Mr. A. T. Martindale, a rising young local architect. The holding capacity is about 3,000, and there is a handsome café at the south end.

The Pavilion, which has a balcony round it on the east, west, and south sides and a stage at the north end, is built in the style known as the French Renaissance, and has a segmented roof with a large octagonal dome. This has given free scope to the work of the decorative artist, as it has enabled him to introduce sculptured figures in the beautiful plaster work of the ceiling. The general effect of the scheme of decoration employed is extremely light and graceful. The relief work is white, on a ground of pale cream, the centre panels being very pale pink alternating with palest green, the whole being picked out with gold. The electroliers are lacquered brass with clear glass globes, of a very good design, and all the woodwork is stained green. The building can be thoroughly warmed when required by means of hot water radiators on the low pressure system.

The stage has been fitted on the most modern and approved principles by Messrs. Fred Wilkins Bros., Ltd., scenic artists, &c., of Liverpool. The drop curtain represents an Italian palace, the background looking out into an old English garden of the Elizabethan period. There is an oak-panelled chamber of the sixteenth century style, and another in the Louis Quatorze style represents a full wood set scene. The stage slopes to the front of the proscenium 1in. in 24in., and the arrangements, made under the direction of Mr. Palmer, the manager, are such that the scenery can be drawn straight up to the gridiron floor above. The crimson drop curtain has been supplied by Messrs. H. R. Dean and Co., of Birmingham.

Special attention has been paid to artificial lighting, as the building has been fitted with Tantalum lamps, two of them being of 46 candle-power, and requiring only the same energy as one of the old pattern of incandescent lamps of 16 candle-power. The whole of the work is done in steel-screwed tubing, which practically minimises any risk from fire. The fittings are by Messrs. Ward and Barker, of Harrogate, and the whole scheme of electric lighting, which includes 1,450 lamps outside, was by Mr. Beckett, the chief electrical engineer, who arranged for winches so that the electroliers could be lowered when required.

The cost of the works, including the new terraces facing the sea, has been upwards of £40,000, and a wonderful improvement in the appearance of the sea front has been effected. The importance to the town of the new works induced the Corporation to invite the Lord Mayor of London to open them, which he kindly consented to do, and on Friday, the 6th inst., he took part in a public procession through the town. The route, which was five miles long, had been elaborately decorated by that eminent London firm, Messrs. Pain and Son. The Lord Mayor was accompanied by the Lady Mayoress and the Sheriffs of London, and they were heartily received as they passed through the town in their state coaches, accompanied by the Mayors of most of the Yorkshire towns, the Mayor and Corporation of Bridlington, and other public bodies. After opening the new terraces, the new Pavilion was formally opened by London's chief magistrate, who was presented by the architect with a gold key for the purpose. In the evening a grand banquet was given in honour of the Lord Mayor's visit,

GUILDHALL SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

A vocal recital, by the pupils of Madame Bessie Cox, was given on Thursday afternoon, July 12. The recital proved a success, many of Madame Cox's pupils doing great credit to their instructor, the only fault that could be found was in choosing songs far too advanced for any student to attempt. The programme commenced with the trio, "Orpheus with His Lute" (German), sung by Miss Leah Phillips, Miss Frances de Saxe, and Miss Mary Williams. Miss Hilda Morris was heard in "The White Sea Mist," by Ronald, and "Lovers in the Lane," by Lehmann; while Miss Muriel Clark sang that conventional air, "The Enchantress," by Hatton, and was heard to greater advantage later in the concert in Verne's pleasing song, "For Me." One of Madame Cox's most promising pupils is Miss Mary Williams, who sang Meyerbeer's "Nobil Signor" with taste and artistic expression; the young lady also gave later in the concert the inevitable recit. and air, "O My Heart is Weary," from Goring Thomas's Nadeshda. Miss Williams has a fine and pure mezzo-soprano that will amply reward the careful training she is evidently receiving. In "Plus grand dans son obscurité," usually sung in English as "Far Greater in his Lowly State," by Gounod, Miss Leah Phillips attempted a work, as yet, somewhat beyond her powers, and the same may be said of Miss Frances de Saxe's ambitious "Ombra leggiera," the famous "Shadow Song" from Dinorah. Miss Vera Leleu, a clever pupil of Herr Francesco Berger, and a prize-winner in 1905, need not have punished the keyboard so severely, even in Liszt's Grand Polonaise in E, the young lady being heard with more pleasure in her piano solos of Chopin's "Nocturne in D flat" and Berger's "Tambourin," later in the recital. Miss Leah Phillips was also again heard in that most difficult valse song from Gounod's Romeo et Juliette, an air that requires such a singer as Melba to render perfectly. Miss Cissie Durant presided at the pianoforte, and the recital on the whole did the greatest credit both to the pupils and their clever teacher.

Miss Irene Ainsley, the new contralto from New Zealand, who has the inestimable advantage of being a protégée of Mme. Melba, made a successful début at Bechstein Hall on Tuesday. Miss Ainsley possesses an exceptionally fine voice, and sang some familiar light songs with purity of tone. Mme. Melba accompanied in some of her songs. The débutante's home is in Auckland, and she first imbibed a taste for her art by listening to the beautiful singing of her mother as she went about her household duties or sang the younger sister to sleep. Later on, during the years passed at a convent school, the love of music became a veritable passion, and the discovery that she herself possessed a singing voice was a source of great delight. A subsequent interview with Mme. Melba served to confirm the discovery, and she received many valuable lessons from the famous diva, who has become so interested in her career.

The new departure in curtain-raisers, called A Waste of Time, that is being given by the clever "Commonwealth" company playing His Excellency the Governor, on tour, has made a big hit at Bournemouth this week. The six young actors who waste the time with capital songs and recitations succeed in amusing their audiences quite as much as they amuse themselves. The tune and wit of "Clementine" cannot grow stale, but it is a pity that the stage-manager cannot find a song more up-to-date than "A little peach in an orchard grew." Mr. Lennox Pawle is the host of the party, and Mr. "Jimmy" Blakeley is a host in himself.

SHAKESPEARE SCHOOLS.

ADDRESS BY MR. F. R. BENSON.

The summer examination of the Shakespeare Schools of Rhetoric and Dramatic Arts was held at the Cripplegate Institute, E.C., on Monday evening, Mr. F. R. Benson being the examiner. There were forty-two names down in the divisions for reading, reciting, and acting, and the majority of the candidates certainly showed remarkable ability in their different branches. The programme, of course, was a big one, commencing as it did at 6.45 p.m., and concluding about a quarter past ten. Mr. F. R. Benson gave the utmost allowable consideration to the work of each candidate, and it was admitted on all hands that his judgments were most fair and impartial. The result was that he awarded five first-class and six second-class certificates for reading; three first-class and eight second-class certificates for reciting; and two first-class and two second-class certificates for acting. He particularly praised the performances of Miss Marion Ockleston, whose recitation of part of Dickens' "Barnaby Rudge" and whose reading he considered to be the best performances of the evening. He paid a further compliment to this young lady by saying that she had exhibited exceptional ability and given evidence of much hard work.

Addressing the audience at the conclusion of the examination, Mr. Benson said:—"It has been a very great pleasure to me to examine the candidates this evening. In arriving at a satisfactory decision it is a little bit difficult to fix an absolute standard of merit in any art connected with recitation or elocution. I have been given several valuable guides to try and act upon some sort of standard as has been acted on before by Mr. Willis, and in the light of that standard and premising that some of those I have been unable to give certificates to have possessed as much—possibly more—talent as those I have awarded certificates, I believe that many of those who have failed this evening will succeed on another day. Let me also lay stress on the fact that it is not given to everyone to appear at his or her best at the moment they particularly wish to do so. I would point out that some failures have been due, possibly, to some extent to such an accident as a person with a strong dramatic bent choosing a subject which is not altogether suited to the expression of dramatic talent. In arriving at my conclusions I placed high value upon audibility. Some cases of inaudibility were the result of too much characterisation in an attempt to assume a great number of voices. Never sacrifice audibility to characterisation. Then I want to touch upon one performance, the promise of which was marred possibly by some interruption of the examiner, possibly by some temporary fit of nervousness, or possibly by a feeling of surprise that the examiner had not given the forgotten word. In after years that candidate will owe a great deal to that unpleasant experience of 'drying up.' Nearly all of us have dried up in our lives. I remember drying up on the stage of the Lyceum during the first engagement I had."

The successful candidates were as follow:—

Reciting.—First-class certificates: Ella Backwell, Fanny Sniders, and Marion Ockleston. Second-class certificates: Evelyn Vine, Isabel Griffith, George Uttridge, Edith Sullings, Ruth Mitchell, Lilian Harrison, Florence Gower, and Lilian Exton.

Acting.—First-class certificates: Amy English and Fanny Sniders. Second-class certificates: Dudley Bishop and Viola Roach.

Mr. Carrington Willis, who founded the Shakespeare Schools in 1899, was present at the examination accompanied by Mrs. Willis. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Benson for his address and his work as honorary examiner.

A special meeting of the representative body appointed to control the operations of the "missioners" of the Actors' Association was held on Monday, when the chair was occupied by Mr. Brandon Thomas, supported by Mesdames Georgina Hamilton and Rose Matthews, Messrs. Cecil Barth, Leslie Carter, Quinton McPherson, A. E. Drinkwater (deputy-chairman of the Council), and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary). The Secretary reported that the Council had elected Messrs. Leslie Carter and Quinton McPherson as members of the representative body. The question as to changing the name of the missioners was again under discussion, and ultimately after the submission of various suggestions as to the proposed titles, the subject was left for further consideration at the next meeting, which was fixed for next Monday at three o'clock, when the form drafted for the use of the missioners, upon which to make their monthly reports of work done, will be submitted for approval.

The Secretary read the twenty-nine reasons for joining the Actors' Association which he compiled and published some years ago, and he was requested to draw another set up to date, and submit them to the representative body at their next meeting. It was thought the possession of such reasons in tabulated form would be of considerable use to missioners when in pursuit of their vocation and in their efforts to bring about an increase of membership to the Actors' Association. It was suggested that Mr. Charles Esdale should be appointed a missioner, and the matter was referred to the Council.

The usual weekly meeting of the Council was held on Tuesday last, when there were present Mr. A. E. Drinkwater (deputy chairman), Mr. Henry W. Mote (hon. solicitor), Mesdames Kate Bishop and Maud Milton, and Messrs. Cecil Barth, Acton Bond, C. Hayden Coffin, F. Cremlin, A. E. George, Quinton McPherson, M. R. Morand, Walter Russell, Algernon Syms, Brandon Thomas, Spencer Trevor, and Charles Cruikshanks (secretary).

The Hon. Solicitors reported progress in several matters, and in the case of a complaint of alleged bogus management, they were requested to consider the matter and advise. H. Stanley Turner, Esq., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., 211, Bridge-road, Battersea Park, and 7, Hertford-street, Mayfair, was elected as an hon. medical officer to the A.A., and Dr. G. D. Parker, late of Gipsy-hill, Norwood, having removed to Harrow, was appointed hon. medical officer for that district. A question affecting the agency department was discussed at considerable length, and a resolution having been put before the meeting, an amendment was proposed that the subject should be brought before the members at the next bi-monthly meeting. The amendment was carried. Violet Lewis, Ottley Cranston, Margaret Damer, and Gertrude Bibby were nominated for election. The report of the Finance and General Purposes Committee was received.

A play called Hatshepset, by Miss Rose Seaton, was produced at the Ladies' College, Cheltenham, on the 5th inst. The representation consisted of scenes from Egyptian history of the period 1516 to 1481 B.C., and Miss Seaton has attempted no more ambitious task than to put life into the mummies of Egypt to produce something like animated pictures.

THE San Carlo Opera Company of Naples will again give an autumn opera season in Italian at Covent Garden, beginning about the first week in October. The present opera season at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, must end on Thursday, the 26th inst.

PROFESSOR SPEELMAN, of Manchester, who has entered upon his twenty-fourth season as conductor of the North Pier Orchestra, Balckpool, expresses himself delighted with the improvement in the taste for music among Blackpool's visitors. In the course of a chat with our correspondent he said he was proud of the lead the North Pier had taken in providing seaside music. For the last ten years he could say without fear of contradiction that the special concerts had been an example to every seaside place, whether in the North or South.

PRESENTATION.—On Saturday evening at the Prince's Theatre, Preston, Mr. Bijou (of Bella and Bijou) was presented with a case of razors containing seven, numbered for each day of the week. Miss Bella also received a bouquet of flowers.

HOW TO KEEP COOL.

We strongly recommend all who suffer from the prevailing heat to add a few drops of Condy's Fluid to the Daily Bath or Foot Bath.

A Condy's Fluid Bath imparts a delightful sensation of Coolness, Freshness, and Purity. It invigorates the body and braces the nerves. The Cooling, Strengthening, and Bracing effects are Simply Magical, they are so very lasting.

Tired and Tender Feet are instantly relieved, and every trace of Odour and all other unpleasant effects of Perspiration immediately disappear. Book on bottle contains full directions and reports by a great many Eminent Physicians.

Sold by all Chemists, 1/- 8oz., 20oz. 2/- Caution.—Insist on having "Condy's Fluid."

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT
BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B.

Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St. James's Gazette.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual for 1906, 1s. 5, Tavistock-street, W.C. This useful little work, which brings nearly up to date the calendar of dramatic events which is so excellent a feature, is, as usual, full of stories over the signature of prominent stage lights. To those interested in the business of the theatre the work has become a necessity by reason of its valuable record of the progress of the drama.—Financial Times, Jan. 22, '06.

THE ERA ANNUAL, 1906.
"The Era" Annual, 1906, is welcome as containing carefully compiled lists of the pieces produced during the past year in London, the suburbs, and the provinces, in Paris, and in Berlin. The rest of it is curious and entertaining reading. There is the almanack with its "memorabilia of theatrical events occurrences, &c." There are besides a score of stories and other articles contributed by theatricals a very good one being Miss Louie Freear's set of verses, "Boy Bob' at Sea," which has humour, feeling, and swing. The book contains many theatrical portraits. As a book of reference the Annual is of great use and value, and while some of its contents doubtless appeal more keenly to the professional than to the outsider, any thoughtful person may derive from its study much amusement and no little insight into the conditions, the magnitude, and the complexity of the English theatre of to-day.—Morning Post, Jan. 22.

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER,
BY
ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B. (Lond.).
"The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," by Albert A. Strong, LL.B., solicitor, author of "Dramatic and Musical Law" ("The Era" office), seems to be the one compendious and indispensable authority on the subject, as vexed as the "Bermoothes" and as tortuous as a Chancery suit, that has long been wanted. It is in every essential a text book for the perplexed layman, and no solicitor or barrister worth his salt ought to think of taking or appearing in "proceedings" without consulting its pages. It must suffice, after what has been said, to state little more than that the contents include five chapters, respectively named "Copyright as Opposed to Performing Right," "Performing Right," "Infringement and Remedies," "Musical Copyright," and "International and Colonial Copyright." The work, for all its precise authority, is not dry reading. The statutes, with the elucidatory notes, necessarily impose a task on the reader which takes some tackling, but they had to be there. The cases adduced, however, are full of interest. Certain of them might fitly find a place in the romance of copyright. There was the fight of Charles Reade with George Conquest over "It's Never Too Late to Mend," for instance, and the equally interesting conflict of Mr. J. A. Cave with Chatterton over "The Wandering Jew." The latter was a famous battle. Chatterton took it to the House of Lords, and was finally beaten, to the unspeakable relief of Mr. Cave, who is never weary of relating the story. Had the result been otherwise, it would have meant his ruin. I well remember meeting him on the day of his victory and "crashing a cup with him" in honour of the same. "The Law of Copyright" is dedicated to Mr. A. W. Pinero.—Sportsman.

SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1906.

DANGEROUS PERFORMANCES BILL.

We made it our business early in the week to draw the attention of the HOME SECRETARY to the serious objections held—and rightly held—by the acrobatic and gymnastic professions to the provisions of the Dangerous Performances Bill, which objections, by the way, were excellently put in the letters from well-known and experienced members of those professions in our last issue. Mr. HERBERT SAMUEL'S letter in reply will be found in another column; and though it is intended, we feel sure, to be reassuring, we certainly think that some stronger and more exhaustive pronouncement of the Government on the Bill now before the House of Commons should be made. We are glad to learn, therefore, that in answer to a deputation that waited upon him on Wednesday, Mr. HERBERT SAMUEL will urge upon the HOME SECRETARY the very strong objections to the Bill entertained generally by "dumb-show" artists; and it is hoped that by the introduction of an explanatory clause Mr. HERBERT GLADSTONE will be able to dissipate the very natural fears that have been expressed both in professional coteries and in the Press concerning a measure that, to say the least, lays the gymnastic, acrobatic, and circus professions open to much grandmotherly interference. In the actual working of an Act of Parliament it is not so much the pious intentions of its promoters and supporters that impose conditions rebelled against by the followers of an industry or the members of a profession as the legal interpretation of clauses setting forth these intentions in more or less ambiguous phraseology. Now what is a dangerous performance? We consider there is more risk to life and limb in a football match lasting two hours than there is in a skilled acrobatic exhibition during a whole year. And our contention is borne out by the opinion of the Executive Committee of the International Artists' Lodge, who say "the most casual inquiry would prove that the training to which all recognised acrobats are generally subjected tends to render comparatively harmless and free from danger feats which would undoubtedly involve considerable risk to those who had not had the advantage of such training; and in all cases those executing hazardous feats are protected properly against accidents by various safeguards which however are not apparent to the public."

These performances belong to the category of those spoken of by Mr. HERBERT SAMUEL, which may be "dangerous in appearance but harmless in reality." The courteous and accomplished UNDER-SECRETARY OF STATE for the Home Department would certainly so regard them; but would a similarly enlightened view of a skilled exhibition of gymnastics obtain with the "chief officer of police of the police area," who is designated as the consenting authority to a prosecution under the Act? We do not think so, in spite of the fact that the Executive of the Showmen's Guild states that this provision of the Bill provides so complete a safeguard to performers that they do not deem it expedient to offer any opposition on behalf of those performing in the tented arena. Suppose the DOGBERRY of Little Pedlington to be afflicted with the most virulent form of the Nonconformist conscience—with a pious horror of all forms of amusement—what is to prevent him from becoming busy at the expense of a local music-hall proprietor, and initiating proceedings under the first clause of the Bill, which subjects to fines and penalties any person who causes a girl or boy or woman to take part in any performance which endangers life or limb? If not influenced by religious scruples, Dogberry, of great authority and little intelligence, as Mr. CAMEO pointed out in his excellent letter last week, may or may not be prejudiced against certain acts in variety theatres, and he may consider even a Risley act dangerous. It is the possibility of the clauses of the Act being interpreted in the direction of vague and excessive restriction that the acrobats, the gymnasts, and the equestrians have to guard against; and the great mass of them consider that some stronger limitation than is at present to be found in the Bill should be put upon local authority—of whatever kind it may be.

That widely different "interpretations" of a Statute may be responsible for an infinity of harm and result in oppressive interference and downright tyranny is being proved week after week by the decisions of metropolitan magistrates—gentlemen of the highest integrity, possessing the best legal training—in regard to the Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act; and we can readily understand, therefore, the alarm of acrobatic performers. These, the most cautious and prudent class of people in the world, it must be remembered, follow a calling the nature of which demands the exercise of the qualities of discipline and self-restraint in the highest degree. They have to undergo, too, a training that should in a limited degree become universal if we are to hold our place as a nation; for the acquisition of muscular strength and alertness of body is the first necessity of men who are to defend the Empire. That the ladies of the gymnastic and acrobatic profession are thoroughly aroused will be learnt from the announcement in a "Gossip" paragraph of a mass meeting of them to be held under the auspices of the International Artists' Lodge on Wednesday July 18, for the purposes of organising active opposition to Mr. HERBERT SAMUEL'S Bill, and preventing the passing of an enactment which in its present shape must do a great injustice to a worthy and honourable profession. That gentleman may drastically amend it by clearly stating the method to be adopted by a local authority in determining a dangerous performance; or, egged on by humanitarian cranks, he may make use of the big Radical majority at his back and bundle it through the House. The better plan would be to drop it altogether, as it is, after all, a form of panic legislation caused by a lamentable accident to a performer under conditions that entrepreneurs and proprietors endowed with modern enlightenment would in no circumstances permit or countenance in the future.

A PAGEANT is to be held in June, 1907, at Romsey, to celebrate the millenary of the foundation of Romsey Abbey. The pageant will be under the direction of Mr. F. R. Benson.

THE Northern Theatre Company appealed on the 6th inst. against the assessment of the Theatre Royal, Halifax, on the grounds that the valuation was excessive and incorrect, especially in comparison with the assessments of the Halifax Palace Theatre and the Victoria Hall. It was stated that the present assessment of the Theatre Royal was £800 gross and £640 net. The theatre had sitting accommodation for 1,500 persons, and the highest amount that could be taken in one night was £72, and £70 on the two houses per night principle.

HALIFAX, it was said, was overstocked with places of theatrical and music-hall entertainment. In Leeds and Bradford there was a public place of entertainment to every 57,000 of the inhabitants, but Halifax was in the position of having one place of public entertainment to every 27,000 inhabitants. The Victoria Hall, which it was urged was assessed at a less amount than the Theatre Royal, in addition to its very occasional use for dramatic and operatic purposes, was often used for bazaars, mayoral receptions, political meetings, Sunday lectures, &c. As to the Palace Theatre, there was a licence for the sale of intoxicants, which the Theatre Royal lacked. The committee eventually decided to reduce the assessment by £64.

FRENCH PLAYS AT ROYALTY.

A most interesting wind-up to the season of Mlle. Marthe Brandès was furnished on the evening of the 6th inst., at the Royalty, in the revival of the famous Sardou play, Dora, which has been re-christened L'Espionne, the name first given to it by the now veteran playwright. It may be said with perfect truth that Dora, on its production at the Paris Vaudeville on Jan. 22, 1877, provided one of the most interesting premières of the century. Chroniclers and critics of the period tell us that most extravangant prices were paid by enthusiastic theatre-goers to be present at the triumphant first-night, and that the success of the piece completely re-established the author's fame, which had been somewhat dimmed by the failure of La Haine and the merely partial success of Ferréol. Sardou never shines by any originality of conception, and in L'Espionne he has not scrupled at introducing types of character which bear a very close resemblance to others with which we had already been made familiar in The Demi-Monde and L'Etrangère of M. Dumas. But the striking feature of M. Sardou's art is that he knows how to excite in the highest degree the attention of an audience by weaving with the most dexterous workmanship a plot generally artificial, but all the details of which lead up to a climax of surpassing interest. Indeed, one is tempted, perhaps, to accuse him of abusing this faculty which he possesses to so remarkable an extent. As a piece of dramatic handicraft, Dora is perhaps unrivalled; and the many effective touches make us feel how exactly Sardou knows how to gauge the mental attitude of the average theatre-goer, who is exigeant in the matter of numerous and varying sensations.

The triumph of the Parisian production was repeated when the English version of Dora, under the title of Diplomacy, was produced at the Prince of Wales's—the little theatre in Tottenham-street—during what has been termed the adaptive interregnum between the death of T. W. Robertson and the appearance on the dramatic horizon of Arthur W. Pinero, the exact date being Jan. 12, 1878. The English version of the masterpiece was announced on the bills as from the pens of "Savile and Bolton Rowe"—Messrs. Clement Scott and B. C. Stephenson—who, alas! have both passed over to the majority. The wit, movement, and emotion of the original were well preserved in the adaptation, and all doubts as to the great success of the piece were dispelled at the end of the second act. A famous cast included the late Miss Le Thiere as the Marquise de Rio-Zarès, Mrs. Kendal as Dora, Mr. Kendal as Julian Beauclerk, Mr. Charles Sugden as Algie Fairfax, Mrs. Bancroft as the Countess Zicka, the late Mr. John Clayton as the elder Mr. Beauclerk, Mr. Bancroft as Count Orloff, the late Mr. Arthur Cecil as Baron Stein. The success of what has come to be known as the three-men scene was shared by Mr. Kendal, Mr. Clayton, and Mr. Bancroft. In the revival under notice MM. André Calmettes, Severin, and Rousselle, in the same scene, played with great finesse and power; and the Dora of Mlle. Marthe Brandès was a beautiful and touching embodiment, one that deeply interested both the English and French theatre-goers, who evidently enjoyed a very timely revival of the fine play. Mme. Virginie Rolland as the Marquise de Rio-Zarès distinguished herself by an impersonation of gentle dignity; and there was plenty of the polite vixen about the Comtesse Zicka of Mlle. Marguerite Caron.

On Monday, July 9,
the Comedy in Four Acts, by Maurice Donnay.
"LA BASCULE."

Hubert de Plouha	M. FELIX HUGUENET
Amédée de Jugan	M. ARVEL
Paul Lorsay	M. JEAN DAX
Chavresac	M. SCIPION
Massut	M. PERIER
Brucarol	M. PAULET
Adrien	M. CRETOT
Victor	M. DESIRE
Rosine Bernier	MLLE. GABRIELLE DORZIAT
Marguérite de Plouha	MLLE. VALENTINE PETIT
Marthe de Jugan	MLLE. FONTENAY
Augustine	MME. DORLIA
Louise Guerny	MLLE. LANGE
Marie	MLLE. DUPARC

"Man, thou pendulum betwixt a smile and a tear," wrote Byron, and M. Maurice Donnay represents the hero of the above comedy on a "see-saw" (bascule), swaying to and fro from his marital love and duty to the forbidden fruit of illicit intimacy. The piece, which is extremely flimsy and superficial, contains little or no subject, and the author would be the last to pretend that in writing it he had any other motive than to afford exercise to his very pleasant humour, in which the piece—which is vapid and lacks action—abounds. In writing of its première at the Gymnase on Oct. 31, 1901, the Parisian critics pronounced M. Donnay's work disappointing; still, its reception by first-nighters was tolerably favourable.

Its opening act takes us to the dressing-room "au Théâtre Moderne" of Rosine Bernier, a young actress who has just scored brilliantly in a new piece, whose author, Paul Lorsay, aspires to become her lover. But being a timid youth he courts her in such a lackadaisical fashion, that, despite a sneaking likeness for him, she turns a deaf ear to his half-hearted suit. Another admirer, too, is there to pay her marked attention, M. Hubert De Plouha, a wealthy gentleman, married, but childless. They had known each other five or six years previously, when he was still a bachelor, and Rosine an obscure débutante, whose name had not yet crossed the footlights. Their acquaintance at that period had been platonic, but the actress's success has inflamed Hubert with sudden passion, to which he gives the warmest expression, and the two leave together as the curtain falls upon the first act—"ma pauvre petite femme," as Hubert designates Marguerite the sharer of the joys of his hearth, being away at Plombières, in the hope that the waters there may further her eager desire to become a mother. In the second act we find Hubert at the house of his brother-in-law, Amédée de Jugan. Rosine has taken a villa at Dinard, which is not far off, where she receives a former husband, Blancas—from whom she had for some years been separated by mutual consent—quite in the rôle of bon comarade. Blancas sends a telegram to Hubert, couched in these terms: "Come instanter; business urgent and serious." The flippant Hubert looks at the matter seriously, and takes it into his head that Rosine's husband, having discovered their liaison, intends challenging him to a duel, and, though by no means a coward, fears such a scandal will cause his darling wife great pain. In his fright he takes into his confidence a friend called Chavresac, who owns a motor-car, requesting him to go to Dinard and find out what Rosine is about, giving him at the same time a reproachful letter for her, almost breaking off their connection. Chavresac returns with word that Rosine had signed the name of her husband—who is absent—to obviate suspicion. "I trust then you did not deliver my letter?" "Of course I did, because you told me expressly to do so." "You're a bungler," exclaims Hubert in a rage.

We return to Paris in the third act to see Rosine flirting in her house at Passy with Paul Lorsay, the young author, who has grown much bolder in the interval. In a pretty scene the actress gives him to understand that his turn will soon come. For, bored by Hubert's never-ending precautions and shilly-shally, she has had enough of their liaison. Hubert, however, will not give her up; he protests she belongs to him, and she, to punish him, knowing that he is really very much in love with his wife, locks him into the studio while she goes off to the theatre. After all Amédée rescues Hubert, takes him back to his wife, and persuades him to invent a droll story about frightening her on purpose to give her hysterics, because that may have a beneficial effect on her health. For the moment Hubert determines to have no more to do with dangerous women like Rosine.

The piece was chiefly amusing on account of the very excellent acting of M. Felix Huguenet, who was the original Hubert on the production of M. Donnay's comedy at the Gymnase, and plays the part with a finesse, an impetuosity, and a humour that had a most exhilarating effect on Monday night's house. Mlle. Gabrielle Dorziat was not merely a fascinating Rosine, but played the character with an abandon, a charm, a light-hearted gaiety that secured for her a triumph equal to M. Huguenet, and both artists were warmly complimented at the end of the third act. Mlle. Petit played Marguerite with gentle dignity and forbearance, and as the quiet impulsive Amédée de Jugan, M. Arvel did extremely well.

INTERESTING SHAW REVIVAL.

The oddities, the perversities, and the extravagances of George Bernard Shaw are sure of sympathetic, appreciative—and even enthusiastic—audiences at the Court, and Messrs. Vedrenne and Barker have therefore wisely ordained that the successful run of Captain Brassbound's Conversion, with the incomparable Ellen Terry in the delightful rôle of Lady Cecilia Waynflete, should be followed by a revival of the pleasant farce, in three acts, entitled

"YOU NEVER CAN TELL."

Mrs. Clandon	MISS HENRIETTA WATSON
Gloria Clandon	MISS LILLAH MCCARTHY
Dolly Clandon	MISS DOROTHY MINTO
Philip Clandon	MR. NORMAN PAGE
Fergus Crampton	MR. EDMUND GURNEY
Finch McComas	MR. J. H. BARNES
Valentine	MR. HENRY AINLEY
Bohun, K.C.	MR. JAMES HEARN
The Waiter	MR. LOUIS CALVERT
A Parlourmaid	MISS HAZEL THOMPSON

The piece, so the author has informed us, was "an attempt to comply with many requests for a play in which the much-paragraphed 'brilliancy' of Arms and the Man should be tempered by some consideration for the requirements of managers in search of fashionable comedies for West-End theatres. I had no difficulty in complying, as I have always cast my plays in the ordinary practical comedy form in use at all the theatres; and, far from taking an unsympathetic view of the popular preference for fun, fashionable dresses, a little music, and even an exhibition of eating and drinking by people with an expensive air, attended by an if-possible-comic waiter, I was more than willing to show that the drama can humanise these things as easily as they, in undramatic hands, can dehumanise the drama." The "if-possible-comic waiter" William proved to be an admirable creation on the part of the witty playwright at the original production at the Strand Theatre on May 2, 1900, when the rôle was delightfully played by Mr. James Welch, who portrayed the old man's calm, gentle, sunny nature, and realised his quaint philosophy to perfection. Mr. Shaw's flippancy and superficiality are redeemed by his spontaneous fun, his fertility of invention, his comic side-issues; and Monday's audience, which included Dr. Winnington Ingram, the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Stepney, and Mr. A. J. Balfour, gave You Never Can Tell the warmest of welcomes, hearty and continuous laughter being evoked, not only by the purely humorous effect of the dialogue, but by the genuine comicality of the scenes. The piece passes lightly along its allotted track until it reaches in the last act the pleasaunce of extravaganza, and as a summer entertainment it is more than refreshing.

It was very finely acted on Monday evening by a specially selected cast, which contains at least three members of the company concerned in the last revival. The first of these is Mr. Louis Calvert, who, as William the waiter, repeats a performance that is simply perfect in suggestion and completely acceptable in its oddity. "I have always said," remarks William reflectively, "that the great advantage of a hotel is that it's a refuge from home life, sir." The part is full of such speeches, and to them their best value is given by this experienced and finished actor. Gloria Clandon is quite a Shaw-like type of femininity—paradoxical, intellectual, and without mauvaise honte. Miss Lillah McCarthy, who is cultured in Shaw traditions, invests the character with charm—much natural charm—and plays it with convincing earnestness and complete success. Mr. Henry Ainley is perhaps a thought too serious in his embodiment of Valentine, but on the whole is very acceptable, being especially good in the love passages with Gloria. Miss Dorothy Minto, who is cast to play Dolly Clandon, looks the character exactly, and is both fresh and ingenuous. Mr. Norman Page endows Philip Clandon with irrepressible vivacity and engaging youthfulness. Mr. James Hearn essayed with excellent results the part of Bohun, K.C., who wishes to put everybody down with his catch-phrase, "No, you wouldn't; you think you would, but you wouldn't." He was neither too ponderous nor too tame, but reached the juste milieu in his realisation of the salient qualities of the character. Mr. Edmund Gurney, as Fergus Crampton, the "kind-hearted man," with an incorrigibly bad temper, plays with sound discretion; Miss Henrietta Watson acts with high intelligence and sincerity as Mrs. Clandon; and Mr. J. H. Barnes, as the elderly solicitor McComas, submits an admirable sketch of a comedy character; the cast being completed by Miss Hazel Thompson, a neat parlourmaid.

NEW YORK magistrates have acquitted Mr. Arnold Daly, the actor, and his company, of violating the Penal Code by producing Mr. G. Bernard Shaw's play, Mrs. Warren's Profession. They admit that Mr. Shaw made vice less attractive than some authors had done, and say he "merely used old and hackneyed materials in so bold a fashion as to surprise and shock his audience." In a cabled message to New York Mr. Shaw laid the blame of starting the agitation upon the New York critics, "whose stupidity, inhumanity, and scurrilous and obscene language in dealing with the play drove the poor, wretched little Police Commissioner to steps he was reluctant to take." Whereupon the Police Commissioner retaliated by declaring that "it is a pity that a man who at one time gave some promise of dramatic talent should spend his declining years in abusing others and advertising himself."

MR. SHAW retorts in characteristic fashion. "It is unkind, very unkind indeed," said the dramatist, "that this should have been cabled over. Mr. McAdoo alone knows the value I have been to him. I have advertised him as no one was ever advertised before. Until I drew him into the limelight of publicity he was an obscure nobody; no one had ever heard of him, nobody ever would: but now, owing to what I have said about him, his name will go ringing down the ages; it will be inscribed on the roll of fame, and will be as well known to posterity as Shakespeare's, as Pluto's, as Euripides'—as my own."

AN illuminated fête, under the auspices of the Playgoers' Club, will take place at the Botanic Gardens on Tuesday, from eight o'clock in the evening till one the next morning. High-class concerts will be given in the Conservatory, as well as other entertainments in the grounds, and a feature of the evening will be a distribution of prizes to lady visitors.

VARIETY GOSSIP.

At the sitting of the House of Commons on Friday, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman announced that the Government were going to adopt the Musical Copyright Bill as a Government measure. This is excellent news, and the passage of the Bill through the House is now certain.

Mr. Herbert Samuel, Under-Secretary for Home Affairs, on Wednesday received a deputation which protested against the passing of the Dangerous Performances Bill, on the ground that as only two serious accidents had happened to women during the last five years in about 7,800,000 performances there was no need for the wide-reaching and stringent restrictions proposed. Mr. Samuel undertook to bring the matter before the Home Secretary.

Mr. Willie Edouin is the latest comedian to temporarily desert the theatrical for the variety stage. That well-known and clever comedian, having accepted a very advantageous offer from Mr. Oswald Stoll, will make his first appearance on Monday at the New Cross Empire. The creator in England of the Heathen Chinee—"whose smile is childlike and bland"—in his earlier career as a comedian, Mr. Edouin is known to the present generation by his Nathaniel Glover in Our Flat, his Hilarius in La Poupée, his General Des Ifs, in The Little Michus, and other humorous characterisations, and such a laughter-maker should be extremely welcome on the halls.

Ballads and Bands is the latest idea of the London County Council, who consider that such attractions are a great counter-attraction to the public-houses. Mr. William Bailey, of the West London Theatre, and formerly of the Metropolitan and Alhambra, a veteran entertainer himself and a variety caterer of immense experience, warned the Council that they were "venturing upon a dangerous undertaking. They would find that they would not get the people to come to concerts in any numbers unless they provided the 'comic element,' which he understood had had to be provided at Glasgow, in connection with such entertainments. They would be rushing on to enormous cost," which will have to come out of the pockets of the ratepayers, who will thus be finding money for opposition shows to the regular music halls, in which many thousands of hard-working citizens have invested.

Mr. G. H. Chirgwin is giving a benefit matinée in aid of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund and the Music Hall Home at the "Happy Valley," Southend, on Wednesday. An attractive programme is being arranged, and it is hoped the performance will result in an appreciable addition to the funds of these excellent institutions. A special carriage for artists from London is to be provided from Fenchurch-street to Southend, particulars of which may be obtained from Mr. Chirgwin, whose address is Easdale, Leigham Court-road, Streatham Hill.

Mr. J. T. Fruin, the secretary of the Music Hall Home Fund, in acknowledging the receipt of cheque, value £135 4s. 6d., desires to express the thanks of the committee to Mr. Barrasford, The Era, the Collectors, the Contributors, and to Mr. F. H. Pedgrift, the Hon. Treasurer of the Fund, who have all worked so well to make this Fund a great success.

A mass meeting of lady performers will be held at the Hotel Provence, Leicester-square, on Wednesday next, at 1 p.m., under the auspices of the International Artists' Lodge, for the purposes of organising active opposition to the proposed "Dangerous Performances Bill, 1906." All ladies interested in the welfare of their sex in the profession and recognising their right to earn their own living unrestricted by class legislation, are earnestly requested to attend.

Messrs. Frank Matcham writes:—"The paragraph referring to the projected Willesden Music Hall in 'Variety Gossip' in last week's Era is quite contrary to the facts of the case. Mr. Walter Gibbons recently paid a large sum for the freehold of a splendid site in High-street, Willesden, and every effort is being made to accelerate building operations, so that the Willesden Empire may be opened at the earliest possible date—at the end of the year most probably. We may mention that our plans for the new hall provide for a holding capacity of close upon 4000, with provision of an uninterrupted view of all parts of the stage for every visitor as the primary object of the auditorium plan. The Willesden Empire will be the largest and most magnificent music hall in the Metropolitan suburbs. It will be run on the same lines on the other Gibbons establishments."

Miss Kitty Loftus, the famous musical comedy artist, who is, by way of venturing on the "halls" again, at no very distant date. She has commissioned those well-known song-writers, Messrs. Harrington and Tate, to supply her répertoire, of which she has already selected three numbers, viz., "Thousands of Years," "Embarrassing," and "Isn't Any Place for Me."

"L'Amour" is so great a success at the Alhambra, that crowded houses have been the rule ever since its production. The management has now strengthened the variety side of its programme by the addition of a most remarkable company of canine comedians, which appear in a farce, In a Garrison Town. Admirably trained and grotesquely garbed, these dogs (belonging to Herr Ernst Perzina) give an irresistible burlesque of continental militarism, playing their parts with perfect ease and spontaneity without the presence of their trainer. Herr Perzina (an ex-official of the Zoo, of Vienna) also shows, earlier in the evening, a patiently-taught troupe of monkeys, cockatoos, and cats. The "Ubanora" picture exhibition is constantly being augmented by an animated record of the passing events of the moment.

The famous French athletic club, Le Stade Francais, will meet a team of the Polytechnic Harriers in a series of matches this afternoon at Grove Park, Chiswick The French team are bringing over some of the finest men in France in their respective events, and some keen racing should be witnessed. In the evening the teams have accepted the invitation of the directorate to be present at the Empire.

A decided acquisition to the Palace, Shaftesbury-avenue, programme is Miss Clarice Mayne, a most charming and accomplished comedienne and mimic, who is quite English. Messrs. Harrington and Tate are supplying all the original songs in her répertoire, and Miss Mayne will, at Christmas, be seen at a leading West-End hall in a special and important new production from their joint pens.

The Fougere case was mentioned at the North London Sessions at Newington on Wednesday, when the two defendants were due to surrender in order that their bail might be renewed pending a decision on points of law. The male defendant, having surrendered in Court, was ordered to renew his bail to appear at the next Sessions. Counsel for Madame Fougere, who was stated to be ill, said the legal position was that she had to the end of the Sessions to surrender, and if she did not then appear her bail would have to be estreated, and he (the Judge) would issue a Bench warrant, to be executed when she was well enough to appear. Meanwhile, it was said, her solicitor, who had only heard of the position that day, would try to find other bail.

The new Pavilion, Bridlington, which was formally opened by the Lord Mayor of London on the 6th inst., will be under the management of Mr. Charles Palmer, who has succeeded in making the Prince's Parade and Floral Pavilion so popular by his excellent catering for the summer visitors and residents, and he has every confidence that this new venture can be made equally popular.

Mrs. Cissie Lawson will open the Hippodrome, Ilfracombe, on Monday. This is another case of a theatre being turned into a music hall, the one in question being the Runnacleave. The interior has been re-decorated, and improvements on the stage have been also effected. Among the many artists booked are Harry Tate's Motoring and Golfing company, Little Zola, &c.

The Empire Theatre, Oldham, has been closed for some weeks past, and is in the hands of the decorators. It will be re-opened July 30 with Mr. Fred Karno's vaudeville company, when a thorough transformation will be found. Messrs. Goodall, of Manchester, are furnishing the carpets and draperies, while a new system of electric plant is being effected by Messrs. Loader, of St. Helens.

The Royal Theatre of Varieties, Oldham, will close up July 28 and re-open on August 27. During the interregnum the theatre will be fitted with a thorough system of ventilation and heating, and will be decorated.

The old Britannia in the Trongate, Glasgow, has been converted into the New Panopticon by Mr. E. A. Pickard. In the new establishment, which is delightfully fresh and clean, the entertainment will be novel and wholesome, and the general arrangements, including entrances and exits, leave nothing to be desired.

Mr. Frank Gallagher, who has been assistant manager at the Swansea Empire for the last 5½ years, is shortly vacating that position to take up the management of a theatrical company. Mr. Gallagher has acted as agent for the M.H.A.R.A. for some time. An influential committee has been formed to start a testimonial on his behalf.

After a considerable amount of negotiation, the Filey Urban District Council has agreed, subject to the approval of the Lord of the Manor, to give the exclusive right of performing on the sands to Mr. Andie Caine's troupe of pierrots for the present season at a rental of £25, and they are also willing to sign a lease for the next three years—1907, 1908, and 1909—at a rental of £55 per annum. These terms have been accepted by Mr. Caine, and under the terms of the contract he has the privilege of performing on the Foreshore-road when the tide is up. The Council attempted to extract a bigger rent for the pitch than in past seasons.

The third annual staff outing of the Bordesley Palace took place on Sunday at Bewdley, whither the manager, Mr. Edward Foster, conveyed his party of nearly a hundred friends and employees, per G.W.R., in special saloon carriages. Mr. Foster's plans, as usual, had been well laid, and his followers, on arrival at the beautiful Severnside, found every provision for their comfort and enjoyment. A cricket match for Friends versus Staff—albeit it was difficult to determine which side had won—produced some interesting, if curious, play; and advantage was taken of the facilities for bowls, fishing, and boating until the hour of dinner, when the party gathered at the George Hotel.

Mr. Foster, as chairman, was supported by Mr. A. W. Matcham, of the Empire Palace; Mr. Lester Collingwood, of the Alexandra Theatre; Mr. Albert Bushell, of the Gaiety; and Mr. W. P. Wells, Empire, &c.; and the post-prandial oratory of each in the matter of the toasts was well appreciated. During the afternoon the majority of the party were taken in brakes to Witley Court, an arrangement which certainly added hugely to the enjoyment of the day, for the surprisingly interesting beauty of its surroundings. The remainder of the party went by boat to Arley, which was enjoyed with no less a zest, and a hearty tea was partaken of at both places.

Miss Ethel Walker, the clever society entertainer and mimic at the piano, made her second appearance in Ireland this week, opening on Monday at the Theatre Royal, Dublin, when she had an enthusiastic reception. The Irish Times on Tuesday, referring to her success, said:—"She was very effective in her imitation of several music hall artists. She is an excellent mimic, and displays considerable ability in her study and portrayal of character." We are not surprised to learn that Mr. J. Lauri Graydon has just booked this promising young artist for the next three years for the De Frece circuit. To-night Miss Walker doubles back from Dublin to open on Monday at Clacton, distance being no object or objection to a good "Walker."

The death of Mrs. Jessie Violet Prichard (more generally known as Violet Friend) occurred at The Forest, Kinver, on Tuesday, July 3, after a lingering illness, at the early age of thirty-two years. The deceased lady will be remembered as a favourite on the variety stage, having toured (in conjunction with Mr. Tom Prichard) the principal cities and towns of Europe and America, and having achieved success at the Tivoli and the Oxford.

It will be recollected that she appeared in pantomime at the Theatre Royal, Birmingham, some nine years ago with Miss Harriet Vernon. In 1903, through her instrumentality, the Dudley Empire was built. As "Violet Friend" she was the recipient of handsome gifts, including one from the Grand Duke Alexis of Russia, and a diamond pendant presented to her by the members of the Millionaires' Club at New York in February, 1900. There was an enormous attendance at the funeral at the new cemetery at Dudley on Saturday, the deceased, whilst in that town, having identified herself with several movements for the benefit of the poorer classes, who were largely in evidence. The wreaths were exceedingly numerous and beautiful.

Mr. Geo. Chirgwin, who was unable to fulfil his recent engagement at the Palace, Plymouth, will appear there on the 30th inst. Apropos of the Palace, we noted with pleasure that Mr. Jack Field, the genial and popular manager, who has been suffering from a carbuncle in the neck in such a position as to render an operation difficult, is almost recovered, and able to superintend matters again.

There was a special sitting of the Sheffield Licensing Magistrates at the Court House on July 4, to hear an application by Mr. A. Muir Wilson for a public dancing, music, and singing licence for a house to be called the Tivoli Music Hall, in Burton-street, Owlerton, a suburb of Steelopolis. The building would hold 500, and the licence was only wanted for the hours between 7 p.m. and 10.30 p.m. The magistrates decided to visit the premises before giving their decision, and the application was adjourned till Aug. 15.

The Hippodrome, Stockton-on-Tees, closes to-day for three weeks. During the interregnum the proprietors intend to thoroughly renovate the place, which will re-open on August Bank Holiday.

Miss Kellerman, the Australian lady swimmer, will compete with Fraulein Rosa Frauendorfer, a Viennese girl of 20, in the 7½ miles swim through Paris to-morrow. Miss Kellerman is training hard for her cross-Channel swim, and is feeling very fit.

Mr. Louis de Rougemont recently fulfilled his promise of riding a real live turtle at the Hippodrome, and we are given to understand that he intends to make a voyage on the back of one of these inoffensive creatures—suggestive of Lord Mayor's feasts—in the near future in the River Avon—not, fortunately, in that part of the stream that flows by the church where the bones of the gentle Shakespeare lie, but close to Bristol.

The annual outing of the staff of the Grand, Clapham, was favoured with glorious weather on Sunday, when a happy party numbering upwards of sixty went by early train to Hampton Court, thence by launch to Egham, where dinner was served at the King's Head, Mr. A. W. Deer occupying the chair. Afterwards the party went as far as Old Windsor, returning to Clapham about eleven.

The following artists will sail from Southampton to-day to fulfil engagements with Messrs. Hyman in South Africa:—Mr. Joe O'Gorman, Miss Jessica Grace, the Brothers O'Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Lucas, and Robbins and Collier. The artists returning home the same day are:—Mountford and Walsh, Meier and Mora, Miss Clare Romaine, Mr. Edgar Romaine, and Miss Cora Corina.

A link with the past at both theatre and music hall has been snapped by the death of Miss Mariette D'Auban, who passed away on the 3rd inst. The deceased lady was a sister of Mr. John D'Auban, the celebrated maître de danse and teacher, and with him shared the success of many entertainments in which ballet was a feature. Miss D'Auban's most recent stage work was in connection with the dances in Morocco Bound at the Shaftesbury and Go Bang at the Duke of York's. She passed away after a long and painful illness at the age of sixty, and was buried on the 6th inst. at Brompton Cemetery.

Mr. Arthur Lennard, like other variety entertainers, is much troubled at the dearth of good songs. He says:—"It is one of the biggest troubles of the successful artist. A man makes a big success with a certain class of song, and after going round with it a few times, he has to get something new. The chances are all against him getting another equal to the successful one, and the public immediately conclude that the artist has 'gone off.' Up to now I have been fairly fortunate in obtaining good successors to my songs. I write many of them, and, of course, have a number of agents always on the qui vive for something suitable."

Mr. Charles Wilson, stage-director of the Alhambra, was presented on the 5th inst. with a beautifully framed address subscribed for by the employees, ninety-eight in all, including the stage, flies, property, and electrician's staff. Mr. George Gray, a member of the electrician's staff, presented the address.

At the Garden Theatre at the Crystal Palace Mr. J. Bannister Howard is running Café Chantants twice daily. They seem to have "caught on," as they are packed out at every performance, due probably to the strong bill, which includes Frank Lawton, Lillie Lassah, Ettie Sheffield, Bert Danson, and Ariel and Astarte.

Mr. Frederick Melville, manager for Motogirl, is sailing for Australia to fill a six months' contract with Mr. Harry Rickards, leaving immediately after the conclusion of Motogirl's most successful engagement at the Orpheum, Karlsbad. Mr. Rickards has ordered 6,000 lithographs for the billing of the act in Australia and New Zealand.

The well-known Paragon Trio (who were unfortunately victims of a tram-car catastrophe at Halifax, as we briefly stated in our last issue) are on the high road to complete recovery. Mr. Sharplin is now the only inmate belonging to the Trio, in the Royal Halifax Infirmary. His two daughters, Lillie and Katie, have been discharged from that institution, and have left the town. On making enquiries on Wednesday morning, our correspondent was informed that Mr. Sharplin was doing splendidly, and will be able to stroll about in the garden shortly.

Friday, July 6, was made a souvenir night to Miss Maidie Scott at the Palace, Hammersmith; the management presenting two photographs of that lady to every person paying for admission. There was a crowded house to welcome this popular artist.

Mr. Tom Leamore will produce on Monday at the Palace, Walthamstow, a new comic character entitled The Prodigal Son, which will be built up on the same lines as his successful character Rip Van Winkle. His latest is from the pen of Mr. H. Wincott.

Miss May Mars will shortly produce a new Egyptian scena, written and composed by H. K. Hamilton Field (author-composer of the popular song, "His Country, King, and Girl"), entitled "My Pyramid Girl," and published by the Monte Carlo Publishing Company, who are also issuing two other songs which Miss Mars is about to exploit, viz., "My Queen of Old Samara," by J. F. Lambe, and "Rosie is Waiting," by Harrington and Tate.

The success of Messrs. Ballard Macdonald and Donovan Meher's charming song, "My Tiny Firefly," with pierrots, has already been remarkable, and Mr. Andie Caine, who is this season at Filey, Mr. and Mrs. Kendal's favourite rest resort on the Yorkshire coast, as usual, early this week sent a substantial order for copies to the Monte Carlo Publishing Company, his letter conveying to that enterprising firm the gratifying intelligence that "Firefly" was selling "like hot cakes."

An amusing incident happened to Mr. Walter Slaughter and Mr. Maurice Jacobi, who are on a cycling tour. As they were passing through the main street of Lowestoft, they heard an organ grinding out one of Mr. Slaughter's most popular songs from Bluebell. The music was so devoid of any expression that Mr. Slaughter immediately jumped off his bicycle and seized hold of the handle of the organ and showed the "grinder" how the work should be played, with the proper pauses, &c. This caused the greatest amusement to the passers-by, and to the shopkeepers around, who recognised Mr. Slaughter as a musician who is equally well-known in Lowestoft as in London. To witness the distinguished composer playing his own music on a street organ was indeed a novelty. Next week there will be a copyright performance of the new opera, My Lady Tatters, written by Mr. Herbert Leonard, for which Mr. Slaughter has written the music.

After a professional tour round the world, extending over a period of two and a half years, Mr. Edward Lauri, the well-known variety entertainer, has returned to his residence at Cranes Park, Surbiton.

Mr. John Leopold's latest successful sketch, in two scenes, entitled The Houseboat, by John Leopold and Wilfred Vaughan, will be seen next week at the Empress, Brixton. The sketch was produced in June in Manchester, and has proved a big success in the provinces.

Mr. James Willard has decided to re-name his comedy sketch which has hitherto been played under the somewhat cumbrous title, The Strange Little Stranger. It will in future be known by the more distinctive title, The Little Wonder.

Griff, the popular comic conjurer, and Mr. H. E. High, who is successfully appearing at the Bedford this week in his clever speciality "A Lunatic on Skates," were elected hon. auditors of the Music Hall Sick Fund at the annual general meeting held at the York Hotel on Wednesday afternoon.

The first general meeting of the Variety Artists' Federation was held at the Trocadero on Tuesday morning, when about 200 members were present, the chair being taken by Mr. Joe O'Gorman. The members of the Press were excluded.

Owing to the enormous success of The Would-Be Actors at the Hippodrome, Blackpool, Messrs. E. Carter Livesey and company have been retained for another week, making a three weeks' engagement. They will also appear at Southport, Morecambe, and Douglas during the summer season, before returning to the Palace Theatre.

Mr. Harry Lauder has been specially honoured at Chatham, where he made his first appearance last week at the Gaiety. He was invited to dine with the officers at the Barracks on Saturday last, being afterwards carried shoulder high from the sergeants' mess to the barrack gates. After his performance on the same night, the Argyle and Sutherland Highlanders met him at the Hall, and he was marched to the station by the band of thirty pipers, playing "Will ye noo come back again."

Mrs. W. Skinner, mother of Mrs. John Lawson, who died Saturday, June 30, was buried at Tooting Cemetery on Tuesday, July 3. Mrs. John Lawson has lost both parents in the short space of four months, and, in consequence of these bereavements and the anxieties of motherhood, this popular lady is taking a complete rest.

"La Milo," of the London Pavilion, generously consented to give some of her classical poses during the garden party in aid of Our Dumb Friends' League, at the Botanical Gardens on Friday (yesterday) afternoon. Mr. Frank Glenister kindly granted the necessary permission.

Miss Rosie Lloyd wishes it to be known that in future her sole business representatives are Somers and Warner.

Mr. Albert Bushell, general manager of the Birmingham Gaiety, fishing in Whitacre Reservoir on Thursday last week, caught over ninety perch, the heaviest fish weighing 2¼lbs. All the fish were caught with small red fly. It was a remarkable capture from the fact that it was accomplished in two hours.

The Crystal Palace Company offer for subscription at par 50,000 Seven per Cent. Cumulative Preference shares of £1 each. It is mentioned that the company's capital account was overdrawn as per the last balance-sheet by £26,387, since which date it has been necessary to make some further expenditure upon the football ground and in connection with the new football club amounting to over £6,000. In order to replace the overdraft on the capital account, which has been temporarily met out of the general funds of the company, and to place the company in a more satisfactory financial position, the directors have decided to make the present issue of £50,000 Preference shares.

The average net profits (subject to interest and directors' fees) for the four years to Dec. 31, 1905, were £18,148. The net profit for the year 1905, the latter half of which was adversely affected by shortness of working capital and the consequent difficulty of arranging special attractions, amounted (subject to directors' fees) to £12,384. The year 1905 was, it is believed, in the experience of nearly all places of entertainment, an unsatisfactory year. The year 1906 is benefited by the Handel Festival, and the provision of the new capital should assist in restoring the improvement of recent years.

The 471st meeting of the committee of the Music Hall Artists' Railway Association was held at the offices on Wednesday, when the chair was occupied by Mr. Albert Le Fre, and subsequently by Mr. Charles Coborn. There were also present—Messrs. R. Abel, Harry Blake, George Booker, A. Carlton, W. H. Clemart, George Preston, and C. Douglas Stuart (secretary). Minutes of the previous meeting were read and passed, and cases arising out of them dealt with.

The Secretary stated that the member who was implicated in a dispute at Euston had reported that he had waited upon the theatrical traffic agent there, and that a satisfactory settlement had been arrived at, the ticket-collector of whom he had complained being severely censured. A letter was subsequently read from the theatrical traffic manager stating the contrary was the case, and adding that the collector was in no way to blame, as the officials had orders to remove labels from reserved carriages if the number of occupants did not reach a certain amount. He said, however, that if the member was satisfied the matter was at an end.

Application for compensation was made on behalf of three members who had been injured in the tramway accident at Halifax, and the Secretary received instructions to obtain the insurance money from the company. Mr. S. Newstead, of the Carlton Restaurant, Clacton-on-Sea, was appointed agent for the Association in that town, on the nomination of Mr. Fred Neiman. The consideration of other appointments was deferred. The Secretary reported that the member's ticket withheld by another member had been forwarded to him with an expression of regret, and he was instructed to send it to the rightful owner.

A letter was read from Mr. G. W. Gerald, stating that there was a slight hitch in the negotiations with regard to the concession obtained in Paris, the individual rates proving an obstacle, but he was hopeful of effecting a satisfactory arrangement. A member appeared before the committee with regard to a refund for which he had been held liable, and as he proved that he was not in fault, the obligation to pay was removed. The Secretary's financial statement for the week ending July 7 showed that £20 2s. had been received, and £16 5s. 3d. expended; and that the membership had increased by twelve. Five pounds was voted for the purchase of office furniture, in addition to the same amount previously passed. On the proposition of Mr. Harry Blake, it was decided to send a telegram on behalf of the committee wishing "A pleasant voyage and safe return" to Mr. Joe O'Gorman, the chairman of committee, on his departure for South Africa to-day.

Personal acknowledgment of the utility of the hon. medical officers of the M.H.A.R.A. was given at the committee meeting on Wednesday by Mr. A. Carlton, who has completely recovered from a recent illness under the care of one of the Association's doctors. Testimony to their value was also supplied in a letter from another member which was read to the meeting. With such material advantages, coupled with the railway concessions, the liberal insurance provisions, and other benefits offered by the Association, it is hardly credible that there should be a single eligible variety artist outside its ranks.

The American song composers have long been famous for their pretty catchy melodies. We find one of the very best in the delightful number "Moon Dear," now being so successfully sung by Miss Sybil Arundale in the revue Venus at the Empire. The attractiveness of the song is evinced by the number of applications the publishers, M. Witmark and Sons, have already had for pantomime rights.

Miss Elizabeth Firth is also singing a "Witmark" number in the Empire revue, "Little Miss Noone from nowhere," from the pen of that popular composer, Mr. Gus Edwards, the composer of "Good-bye, little girl, good-bye."

Miss Rachel Lowe, who was prevented by illness from appearing in Glasgow last week, opened on the Stoll tour on Monday at Edinburgh. Her songs, "The Gay Bohemian Knights" and "They all go to Church on Sunday," were hailed with delight by the audience, and the local papers were very flattering in their notices of this clever little artist.

M. Witmark and Sons, who are ever on the lookout for good songs for clever artists, have fitted Miss Winnifred Hare with a number which will doubtless be one of the songs of the year. Miss Hare is producing it during the coming week.

Miss Millie Payne leaves town to-night, and returns at Christmas. She has been busy while in town with the authors and publishers, and promises several novelties for Yuletide.

Messrs. Corri and Dereve, whose musical sketch, Heart Strings, is proving very successful on the Moss and Stoll tour, will produce on August 20th, at the Richmond Theatre, their latest musical screamer, Office Hours. For this a strong company, numbering 26 people, is being engaged. A special feature of this production will be the music specially composed by Clarence C. Corri, of Dandy Fifth and In Gay Piccadilly fame. The book and lyrics are by Mr. Dereve.

The Leslie Brothers, the Australian musical comedians, are delighted with Brighton, where they have scored an undoubted success at the Alhambra, and are looking forward to their return there next summer. On Sunday they take their departure for Brussels, where they open at the Palais d'Eté, after which they return to the Oxford and other halls for a season.

Mr. Charles Collette, who has concluded a most successful third month's engagement at the London Pavilion, on Monday produces his famous musical patter sketch, Hard Luck, at the New Palace Theatre, Plymouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lucas sail to-day (Saturday) by the Walmer Castle for South Africa. The popular Dickensonians open at the Empire, Johannesburg, at the beginning of August, followed by an equally long visit to Cape Town. Returning to England in November, they will appear at Bournemouth a couple of days after landing, and they hold contracts for Moss and Stoll tours as far ahead as 1908. Mr. Lucas and his clever wife will make their début in South Africa in scenes from Martin Chuzzlewit and Bleak House.

Mr. Arthur Elvy has been very successful on the Barrasford tour with his scena, The Up-to-Date Tipster, having given the winners of the "Royal Hunt Cup," "The Gold Cup," "The Ascot Stakes," "The Northumberland Plate," and the "London Cup," besides some winners in minor races. He returns to town on Monday.

Miss Cora Corina, the Spanish singer and dancer, after fulfilling a most successful engagement in South Africa with Messrs. Hyman, returns to-day by the Briton. She will shortly visit the Continent for three months. Her business is in the hands of the well-known and popular Mr. Fred Higham.

Mr. Ernest Dillon, of the old original famous Dillon family of flying gymnasts, is the latest to join the ranks of the Terrier fraternity. Terrier Spot performed the ceremony.

Graham, "the human marionette," has been appearing at the Hippodrome, Ipswich, where he has produced, with most gratifying success, his latest novelty, a scena entitled King Neptune, which is realistically mounted

Mr. George Gulliver, ventriloquist, who arrived home safely from India on July 2, was immediately secured by Mr. W. B. Broadhead for three weeks, and within an hour of settling with him, the popular artist received three more offers for this week.

Les Rallis, who have scored a great success on the Continent, return to England and open on Monday at Morecambe. They received some very tempting offers to remain, but were compelled to refuse them, having to fill their English bookings, which extend far into 1907.

Mr. Robert Barton, for nearly two years acting-manager at the Palace of Varieties, Northampton, has given up the management of that popular place of amusement, much to the regret of his numerous friends.

The Palace, Tottenham, is for the present closed for alterations, and will re-open on August Bank Holiday with a strong company. The hall has been vastly improved, and will be more so when the installation of electric light is complete.

Thirty years ago one of the junior clerks employed by the firm of Mitchell's, in Old Bond-street, was a George Ashton. He had not long been in Old Bond-street before he was ordered to arrange for a Royal visit to one of the theatres, and he tells the story to a daily newspaper that, being only a poor man, earning under £2 a week, he had to borrow a dress suit from a friend, who was a clerk at Hays' library. This friend was Mr. Dundas Slater, who eventually became Mr. George Edwardes's right-hand man, and then was appointed manager of the Alhambra, a post he relinquished a few years ago to take over the control of the enterprises of the Messrs. A. and S. Gatti. The dress suit was a bad fit, for the owner was small in stature, while the wearer was tall. But the attire amused the Royal party.

George Ashton shortly afterwards was promoted, and was able to buy his own evening dress. By a coincidence, the first time he wore it he was in attendance on the King (then Prince of Wales) at a theatre, and since that day his Majesty has never visited a playhouse without Mr. Ashton also being present. He is known, indeed, as the King's "play-taster," for it is understood that his Majesty has the highest confidence in Mr. Ashton's opinion of a piece. He has also arranged for all the "command" performances at Windsor, Sandringham, and Buckingham Palace. When Mr. Ashton left Mitchell's he bought up Olivier's "library," and Ashton's Royal Agency has since become the leading establishment of its kind, the annual profits averaging over £10,000 a year. Mr. Ashton then bought the business of Messrs. Nathan and Somers, the well-known music-hall agents, and has now purchased Mitchell's Agency. Further interesting developments in his business may be expected shortly.

LONDON VARIETY THEATRES.

LONDON PAVILION.

The chief novelty in the current bill at the favourite and admirably situated house in Piccadilly-circus, managed so efficiently by the popular Mr. Frank Glenister, is an American sketch, presented by Miss Mabel Bardine and company, and entitled

"NELL OF THE MUSIC HALLS."

William Middleton .....MR. HUGH ARDALE
Madeline Middleton .....MISS MOLLY PEARSON
Nell .....MISS MABEL BARDINE

Marital infidelity is variously treated on the stage. Often enough the illicit intimacy of a husband with a lady other than his wife becomes in the hands of a French author the foundation of a rollicking Palais Royal farce, but in England and America we look at these straynings from the path of morality through different spectacles. A story such as is told in Nell of the Music Halls might, in the hands of a Parisian playwright of fecund imagination be highly spiced with extravagantly farcical situations and amusing équivoque. The author, presumably an American, has, however, presented it quite melodramatically William Middleton, a married man with children, has fallen madly in love with Nell, "an actress in vaudeville," and suspicions of his attachment have induced his faithful and affectionate wife, Madeline, to visit the object of his guilty passion. Nell is without her dresser, and immediately sets Madeline to work to assist in her robing for her character in a new piece, which is to be produced that evening. A bouquet of roses is sent by Mr. William Middleton—known to Nell as Billy—and it is easily to be foreseen that she of the music halls will discover that Madeline is the wife of her admirer. After a scene of bitter upbraiding Nell parts from her admirer, whom she bids go back to his wife and children. Miss Mabel Bardine, who is making her first appearance in this country in the character of Nell, possesses a fascinating personality and plays with considerable power. She is specially to be commended for her utterance of Nell's reproaches to the man who has stolen into her life. Mr. Hugh Ardale, in the difficult part of William Middleton, struggles bravely to stimulate interest in that character, and Miss Molly Pearson as the forbearing wife gives gentleness and dignity to the rôle.

To the variety portion of the bill Mr. Walter Tilbury and Miss Daisy Ford are still heartily welcomed contributors in the musical sketch, When the Cat's Away, the popularity of which has secured for it an extension of the original term of the engagement. Mr. Albert Le Fre and the Pavilion Girls deal most successfully with the scena, The Typical Topical Topper, in which he has a very scathing verse at the expense of the Chicago meat packers. Mr. Le Fre's fine dancing is an item of considerable value in the sketch.

La Milo, with Nature as her only costumier, is responsible for the production of various celebrated statues of Venus by distinguished sculptors, both ancient and modern, and never have classical posings been more popular. Between the various "statues" shown by this pretty and perfectly-shaped girl, the lightning impressionist, Cruikshank, sketches in outline a number of celebrities—cricketers, politicians, &c. Of course, a rousing cheer greets the familiar outline of Mr. Chamberlain, who has just celebrated his seventieth birthday.

Mr. Whit Cunliffe in a new comic version of the dictionary is very successful, and there is something essentially Spanish about the amusing parody of Mr. Edwin Boyde. Mr. Chris. Richards, a wonderful dancer and legmaniac, intersperses his welcome low comedy with a number of tricks with his hat; Mr. Willie Gardner is an expert skate dancer; and the wire act of Atalanta, who disrobes while walking on the thin filament of steel, is full of fascination and charm. Mr. Phil Ray's abbreviated patter is as amusing as ever. Mr. Albert Whelan cleverly mimics Mr. Alf. Gibson in "It takes a lot of that to upset me"; Mr. Harry Lauder in "Stop yer tickling, Jock," and also whistles tunefully. The Kentucky Four have won a well-deserved success, and receive ovations nightly for their musical and singing act, which is distinguished by some remarkable dancing on the part of Topsy, a lithe little negress, who is simply irresistible in her wonderful energy.

Miss Alice Pierce, who has won fame in the Antipodes since her last engagement here, submits impressions of the most famous of stage stars; Foreman and Fannan renew their popularity in some droll cross-talk; Miss Rosa Loader, a newcomer to the London Pavilion, justifies her engagement by her realisation of "the slavey at the piano"; Ray and Calden are bright and entertaining in a smartly rendered comedy act; Miss Dolly Golden is a graceful dancer; and Miss Nora Moore, comedienne; the Howards (Ralph and Nellie) in comedy and melody; and Miss Daisy Mayer, a remarkably neat dancer, are other attractions in a well-arranged programme. Mr. William Cobbett is well-placed in front as assistant-manager; and the orchestra does good work under the artistic direction of Mr. Bond Sayers.

THE BEDFORD.

The task of providing for the variety lovers of Camden-town has been fully grasped by Mr. B. Pearce Lucas, who always supplies an entertainment that wins the steady patronage of appreciative audiences. A prominent item in the programme here is invariably the sketch, and that figuring in the current week's bill, The Doctor, described as "an episode of real life," is a serious trifle that is certainly quite different from the usual sensational playlet. On the rising of the curtain we gather there has been a terrible motor smash. The chauffeur has been killed; and the owner of the car is seen lying on a couch, shockingly mutilated and apparently dead. The man's valet—the names of the characters are not given on the programme—has telephoned for a doctor; and when he arrives he at once sees that it is a very serious case. He also discovers that the patient, who is now completely at his mercy, is his wife's lover, she having left her husband and her little child some time previously. His first impulse is to leave the sufferer to die, but he recognises that it is his duty to do all in his power to save him; and at once proceeds to perform an operation on the injured man's head, informing the anxious valet that his master will in all probability recover. A lady is expected, and the Doctor, knowing it to be his wife decides to wait. Her first anxiety on her arrival is for her lover; and the Doctor tells her he will live, but will be always disfigured and probably paralysed for life. She then endeavours to excuse her faithlessness by accusing her husband of indifference to her and their child, the study of his profession having always been his one interest. He tells her she might have had patience, and when she pleads to have the child he refuses. He will, however, renounce the laboratory for ever, and devote himself entirely to his offspring. The wife would, apparently, go back with him, but he bids her stay with the man of her choice, and the curtain falls on the wife sinking to the ground declaring that it is always the woman who suffers. The two important characters of the Doctor and his wife were admirably enacted by Mr. Monte Bayley and Miss Diana Hope; and if the gloomy nature of the playlet did not arouse the audience to enthusiasm, it certainly interested them, and compelled attention throughout.

Johnny Johnstone, the "musical dandy," was rewarded with lavish applause for his rendering on the 'cello of "The Shade of the Sheltering Palm," and a solo on the one-stringed fiddle; and his whistling song, "Mocking Birds," descriptive of the doings of a set of jolly boys who frequent the West End, also met with favour, his humorous remarks adding to the attractiveness of a very acceptable turn. Miss Linda Wasey, a smart comedienne, sang with decided point an amusing topical song "A Matter of Business"; and had the audience entirely with her in her second number "The Boy who Looks after his Mother," the sentiment of which appealed alike to gallery and stalls. Expert club juggling was the principal contribution of the Roma Troupe, six prepossessing damsels who looked delightfully cool in their white frocks, some of their exchanges being particularly neat and clean; and Gray and Parry submitted a clever comic acrobatic interlude that was rightly accorded a flattering reception.

Neither Harry Mansfield nor Little Ganty answered to their number at the second house on Monday, but the deputies in each case were most entertaining substitutes. In place of Little Ganty a couple of ladies appeared, and gave an excellent rendering of the tuneful ditty, "There's nobody just like you," being also heard with considerable pleasure in a catchy coon song, the dance with which it was embellished being particularly smart, and their business throughout being excellent, the "sisters" working with an enthusiasm which greatly added to the attractiveness of their contributions. The other deputy was also a double turn—two amusing cross-talk comedians who were particularly mirth-provoking in their spoof second-sight entertainment. Miss Theresa Moore gave a humorous number concerning a gentleman who kept one eye on the parrot and another on his ladylove, a neatly executed step-dance being loudly acclaimed; and the Four Charles in their transformation acrobatic performance; and the Imperial Bioscope, with new pictures, also added to the enjoyment of the evening.

HACKNEY EMPIRE.

The warm weather must be held responsible for the closing of a large number of London and provincial theatres and music halls, but, happily, most of our suburban variety houses hold out bravely against such a powerful combination as the holiday season and the outdoor amusements that fill up the long summer evenings. Mr. John Christie, at Hackney, at all events has no idea of hauling down the flag and surrendering to the superior forces of King Sol. Indeed, despite the numerous outdoor attractions, we found one evening this week a large audience assembled at the fine variety theatre in Mare-street, and a glance at the programme revealed quite a plethora of variety talent.

The novelty in the bill is a farcical sketch written by Mr. B. Soane Roby, entitled Snooks, which affords Miss Louie Freear an opportunity of representing another of those clever character studies that have gained for her a front place amongst the comedy actresses of the day. Jemima is a London slavey in the service of Mrs. Stiggins, a widow, living at Brixton, and she has a tall soldier sweetheart named Joshua Snooks. But for some reason or other Snooks deserts from the Grenadier Guards, and a search party being sent out to arrest him, he seeks refuge at the widow's residence. At the approach of Mrs. Stiggins and her daughter, Amelia, he conceals himself under the couch, and so becomes an unobserved listener to the conversation, from which we gather that the young lady has a strong objection to marry the rich dude who has a staunch advocate in her mother. Amelia, however, prefers a good looking officer in the Guards, and speaks her mind plainly on the subject. The ladies having departed, the masher makes his appearance and is persuaded by Snooks to exchange clothes at a neighbouring public-house. They presently return, considerably the worse for drink, and after a good deal of funny comedy business, in which Jemima takes a prominent part, the slavey buys her sweetheart out and Amelia and her lover also pair off, the dude expressing his determination to marry the widow. Miss Louie Freear quite revels in the part of Jemima, the love lorn "domestic," and her embodiment of the quaint-looking little slavey is marked throughout by a genuine humour which delights the audience. Her by-play is excellent. Everybody laughs when Jemima washes the seats of the chairs with a flannel cloth dipped in water and then proceeds to dry them by a highly original method. All the other characters are exceedingly well played—the names of their respective representatives are not given on the programme—and the new farcical sketch has proved a decided success.

Amongst other items in the current bill, hearty commendation can be bestowed upon the extremely popular playlet, A Bachelor's Dream, in which Miss May Edouin and Mr. Fred Edwards continue to do so well. A hearty welcome is accorded Miss Peggy Pryde, who opens with her amusing ditty and patter descriptive of a wedding. She next appears as a newsboy to sing "In the Streets of London Town," an impersonation that has the merit of being life-like and real. Finally she gives in pretty and appropriate costume a yodelling song, "My Little Dicher Girl," and is several times recalled. Peppo's monkeys submit an interesting performance, one of these cleverly-trained little animals giving a performance on the tight rope. Nipper Lupino Lane is a smart boy comedian, displaying ability both as a singer and dancer. His impersonation of a Dutchman, with song and dance, is particularly good, and is received with quite a storm of applause. Billy Hobbs is a favourite coon singer and dancer, and on the night of our visit, Talbot and Pearce, pleasing duettists and dancers, deputised for Sam Soda, comedian. Tuneful songs, illustrated by pictures, are shown by Fox and Melville, the audience being invited to sing the chorus of each. Chas. Pastor, with a laughing ditty, meets with success, and the American Bioscope presents a series of interesting pictures The orchestra here is under the direction of Mr. Walter Johnson.

HOLLOWAY EMPIRE.

The new musical comedy sketch entitled The Chauffeur, is one of the principal attractions in the current programme at the Holloway Empire, and has met with a decidedly favourable reception. Played by Mr. Frank Danby, supported by a company of twenty artists, the novelty has recommended itself to local audiences by reason of its many bright and lively features and pretty music. Mr. Danby plays the part of the chauffeur, who is regarded as the "smartest on the road"; and his arrival at the hotel, which is the scene of the new piece, seems to be regarded as quite an event, the guests receiving him with musical honours and the most demonstrative of welcomes, as if he were no less important a personage than a Royal Prince. He gets something of a shock when in the chief bar attendant he recognises his own brother, who thinks that driving a motor-car is far better business than serving drinks in an hotel bar. Most people would no doubt agree with him, but the chauffeur is quite prepared to exchange places with his brother—for the time being, at any rate. The barman is delighted, and the guests having cleared off, the chauffeur proceeds to put on his brother's jacket and to take his place at the bar. But it has no doubt not occurred to the motor driver that a business, whatever its nature, has to be learnt; and his want of experience in the new line very quickly lands him in difficulties. When asked for American drinks bearing various curious names he is completely bewildered, for he does not know one from another The result may be

CHAT WITH MR. SID COTTERELL.

(BY OUR OWN COMMISSIONER.)

"I think," says Mr. Sid Cotterell, "that the sketch, drama, or comedy, or farce, or even opera, will be an important and strong feature of music-hall programmes in the future. But let me say this: Such sketches must be entirely free from vulgarity. When you write clean 'lines,' you are doing something which the public will appreciate, and you will be well repaid for your trouble in making your play as refined as possible. I am pleased to say that I have been complimented, both by managers and members of the public, on the cleanliness of my present sketch."

Mr. Cotterell's reference is to a merry trifle, entitled The Substitute, he is at the present moment running in the variety theatres. The plot of the piece turns upon the troubles consequent upon the conduct of a gay young married man, who, wishing to absent himself at night without the knowledge of his wife, and for the purpose of meeting a former "flame," enlists the aid of the new hall-porter to occupy his bed till he returns. The complications that arise can be easily imagined; but of course all comes straight. The Substitute is well constructed and smartly written; while it enjoys the inestimable blessing of being absolutely free from the faintest suspicion of anything that might offend the taste of the most fastidious. It is, in short, a perfectly clean, wholesome, and amusing little play. It is admirably acted. Mr. Cotterell himself is possessed of a rich fund of humour, and employs it with good effect as the bewildered hall-porter. Miss Trixie Holland acts the young wife with great spirit, and looks charming; while Mr. Frank Wheatcroft as the young husband is handsome and debonair.

Questioned as to the strong competition in the music halls, Mr. Cotterell states that there are always opportunities for good people on the variety stage. "In fact," he says, "there are far more chances on the halls to-day than on the legitimate stage, because in the former an artist is able to display his own individuality, which, if he be one of the large crowd in a three of four-act play, is not always permissible." Mr. Cotterell should certainly be in a position to speak with authority on this subject, on account of his long experience in both branches of the theatrical profession.

He first faced the footlights, at the age of six, with Mr. Charles Collette, in Little Em'ly, at the Opera House Cork, and, as he is now twenty-eight years old, his association with the stage is of twenty-two years' duration. After appearing in a round of juvenile parts, and for a short time with Sanger's Circus, he started as a singer and dancer in the halls. Then he was with Miss Elsie Phillips and Mr. Harry White in the sketch, The Bewitched Curate, and afterwards was seen in a number of operettas From these he joined dramatic touring and stock companies—notably, so far as the latter is concerned, at the Princess's Theatre, Glasgow. Among the characters he has impersonated may be mentioned those of Bob Bartlemay in The Old Toll House, Johnny Lamb in New Babylon, Wahnotee in The Octoroon, and Bullock in East Lynne, as well as a lot of comedy rôles. Mr. Cotterell was with Mr. Arthur Jefferson in The Orphan Heiress, playing the part of Ginger; and soon after this engagement he returned to the music halls, running his own sketch, The Wrong Girl. He went back to Mr. Jefferson, however, to resume his part in The Orphan Heiress, following which he undertook the principal comedy part, Tommy Jinks, in The Power and Glory, subsequently again doing stock work at the Metropole and Osborne Theatres, Manchester, where he "created" the comedy rôles in some of Mr. Broadhead's dramas, two of the principal plays being Struck Off the Rolls and Manchester by Day and Night. At the conclusion of the stock season he was engaged by Messrs. Jennings and Herrick for the part of Ben Lanky in The Girl of My Heart. An engagement which lasted for three years, and of which Mr. Cotterell carries very pleasant recollections, was with Mr. W. H. Hallatt, for whose piece he created the part of Benjamin Baxter. He left Mr. Hallatt, of whom he speaks in terms of admiration, to take up the rôle of Billy Bung, the bookmaker, in The Flood Tide at Drury Lane, and, owing to the able manner in which he handled the character, he was re-engaged by Mr. Arthur Collins, and not so very long ago terminated his fourth season of pantomime at the National Theatre.

Mr. Cotterell tells us that he is very fond of pantomime work, his favourite part being Idle Jack in Dick Whittington. He enjoys the excitement which goes on from the start to the finish of a Christmas production. "But," he remarks, "you have to be thoroughly alert all the time, and try to find something new to put forward as a gag, local topics having specially to be studied."

The subject of this interview has won several prizes at the music hall sports for running, and is, moreover, a golf enthusiast. His intention, so far as his professional work is concerned, is to continue writing and producing sketches.

MR. AND MRS. ERNEST DE VERE were amongst the guests invited by the Lord Mayor and Lady Mayoress for their conversazione at the Mansion House on Tuesday.

MR. RUDOLPH WHITELEY, of the Five Whiteleys, and Miss Florrie Cleveland, of the Five Clevelands, will be married at St. Mark's Church, Kennington, on Sunday, July 22, at 12.30, from 29, Brixton-road.

MISS GEORGINA MORRIS, the charming young ballad vocalist and comedienne, who was recently engaged by Mr. Bannister Howard at the Café Chantant at the Crystal Palace, has been specially engaged to appear at the Exhibition at Limerick next week.

easily imagined, and is highly amusing. The hotel guests, failing to get served with what they have ordered, wax angry, and an appeal is made to the landlord. A policeman is also summoned, but matters are set right by the return of the chauffeur's brother, who has apparently had some unpleasant experiences as a motor driver. Explanations are made, and the amateur bar attendant is forgiven. Mr. Frank Danby proves to be a capital exponent of the leading part, entering into the fun and frolic with much briskness and spirit. His song and dance contributions are excellent, and evoke deserved applause. The principal female character is also brightly played, and the ladies and gentlemen of the chorus are well up to their work.

Amongst the single turns in this week's bill is Mr. Herbert Lloyd, who chooses to be known as the "Diamond King." His devices for causing merriment are numerous and varied, and always effective His so-called imitations are exceedingly funny, and a ludicrous make-up assists this clever and original comedian considerably in his successful performance. It is generally admitted that cats are by no means easy to train, but Techow's troupe of feline performers have evidently received a very sound education, and their doings are watched with much interest. Spot, "the enchanted coon," with the assistance of his company, gives an amusing and well-worked travesty, called The Cake-walk Craze. The Glenroy Troupe, who appear as Gordon Highlanders, and also as sailor boys, display both ability and agility in their dances, as well as in various military exercises and evolutions. Bernar's Fantouche marionettes are very smartly worked, and are a popular item in the programme. Miss Edie King's "Cinderella" song and dance meet with approval; and Simms and Simms give a musical performance that is greatly appreciated. Helene and Emilton excel as gymnasts; and the pictures on the American Bioscope complete the entertainment. Under the management of Mr. C. W. Adams everything works smoothly in front of the house, and the orchestra continues to be capably directed by Mr. Henry W. May.

THE BRITANNIA.

An attractive programme and the cooler nights have combined in inducing the Hoxton folk to congregate in their hundreds—in fact, thousands—at the Britannia. The accommodation at this theatre is of the most ample order, but on the night of our visit the house was comfortably crowded, and that is saying a good deal. A singing coon who has, to use a common phrase, "caught on" this week at Mr. Macnaghten's Hoxton establishment is Mr. Joe Oliver. Mr. Oliver treats us to a sentimental lyric concerning one Maisie, and it is sung with great taste and expression. Ventriloquism will never die out so long as we have such excellent exponents of the art as King Leo, who, with the assistance of a dummy, gives us much to laugh at. But his Majesty triumphs most when, through the medium of his miniature artificial man, he renders, with all the peculiar intonation that one expects from a well-bred dummy, the verses of "Rock me to sleep." It is a commendable performance. A sweet, well-trained voice and a pleasing stage appearance, and you have Miss Adeline Yohle. Full of feeling and character is her interpretation of "Sing me to sleep," and, indeed, it is not an ill compliment to pay to the lady when we say that she would grace any concert platform. Extraordinary equilibristic evolutions are indulged in by the Almos. Some half-dozen chairs are cleverly balanced on top of each other, the topmost being placed in a vertical position, the two front legs resting on the edges of the seat of the lower chair On the horizontal bar of the back of the highest chair a member of the troupe poises his body, head downwards. It is a particularly daring and neatly executed feat.

One would be moved to tearful sympathy for the tramp whose wearing apparel had battled with the storms and stress of a wicked world to the extent that the rag store Mr. Tony Iveson carries on his back seems to have experienced. In spite of the accumulation of odd bits which adorns Mr. Iveson's physical proportions, he is as jovial a jester as ever you met. He sings snatches of popular ballads in the liveliest manner, and tunefully withal, while as for humorous sallies he is simply overflowing with them. He understands, too, how to play the piano so as to add zest to his comicalities. For a hearty laugh we can recommend Mr. Iveson. How to avoid ejectment when you can't pay the rent is the praiseworthy "moral" that Mr. Dick Cruikshanks and company set out to point and adorn the tale of the sketch Bridget's Idea. The assumption of death on the part of a drink-sodden husband must surely gain the wife the pity of the most stony-hearted landlord, and our Bridget's idea succeeds with better results than are even anticipated by that scheming old beldame herself. Mr. Cruikshanks as Patsy Maloney and Miss Kitty Kirwin as the wife act with laughable effect up to the absurdities of their characters; and Mr. Allan Hope as the landlord and Miss Florence Lynn as his sister give capital impersonations. Miss Rose Stanley, attired in the latest fashion of a stylish "coster lydy" going to meet her bloke, details her experiences of "Bill's garden party." The lines are funny, but Miss Stanley would be well-advised to make her delivery a little clearer and louder. The Brothers Ashley engage in frolics of the knockabout order in their sketch Next, Please. Their speciality lies in the direction of boxing antics, and their doings cause a veritable uproar of merriment. The Ashleys are wonderfully smart and "handy" with the gloves. Miss Mabel le Roy makes her appearance in a becoming pale blue dress, and tenders good advice in her well-rendered song "Keep on the sunny side."

Picturesque pictures lend enchantment to the singing of songs written and composed by the Rushworths. "The true-hearted Irish lad" and "Heroes who have never been to war" prove much to the liking of the audience, and the pictures are quite artistic reproductions. The Vaudeville Dramatic and Comedy Company under the management of Mr. Ernest Wingfield present an admirable dramatic playlet in Travellers from the Tomb. The story is extremely interesting, indeed thrilling, and is rather well written. Mr. Wingfield himself portrays in his vigorous fashion a very wicked personage, seducer of women, and what not, in Major Geoffrey Scott; and Mr. Herbert Pearson, as a somewhat novel kind of hero, acts in a spirited manner. Miss Helena Walbran wins the sympathy of the house by her really clever interpretation of the rôle of Noona; and Miss Marguerite Trevosper is good as the deceived wife of Melayr. Mr. F Fellows Bassett gives a commendable impersonation of a priest; and Mr. Leslie Vyner is a capital exponent of a dandy officer. The sketch is exceedingly well mounted and staged, and the company are to be congratulated upon the whole production. Raymond's Bio-Tableaux furnish a series of exceedingly clear pictorial representations of the ceremonies in connection with the coronation of King Haakon.

A POWERFUL sketch of Romany life, entitled Gipsy Dick, the libretto and lyrics of which have been written by Mr. John P. Harrington, with tuneful and appropriate music by Mr. Jas. W. Tate, will shortly be produced at a leading hall by a company of well-known Thespians.

TERENCE WHEATLEY, son of Mr. Horace Wheatley, the famous Irish comedian and dancer, has just performed a grand feat at Clapham College Sports, entering for four events and winning each of them. His age is eleven. He is surely "A chip of the old block."

"THE LOVE MAKERS; OR,
THE EXTRA EXTRA-TURN."

A Musical Comedy Sketch, in One Act, by Fred Moule, produced for the first time at the Surrey Variety Theatre, on Monday, July 9.

Onionana .....MISS NELLIE LAURAINE
Dulciena .....MISS EDIE LANGLEY
Belvedere Bing..MR. J. WILLOUGHBY WOODWARD
Mic Moribund .....MR. FRED MOULE

The scene is laid in the Green Room of the Prince Como Palace of Varieties, the occasion being the trial performance of a number of extra turns, and we are introduced to some twenty variety artists, all aspirants for honours. It is soon evident that the jovial comedian, Mic, has set his affections on the dainty comedienne, Dulciena, and that the rhyming topical tenor, Belvedere Bing, has lost his heart to the shapely strong woman Onionana, the winner of the extra-turn prize. He seeks to win a return of his passion by penning a sonnet to his lady love. Mic manages to get the sonnet from Bing, and when the strong lady appears, Mic, by the ardour of his pleadings, spoils poor Bing's chances entirely. Mic is accepted by the strong lady as her husband, and to effectually secure him, she makes the ardent lover put his proposal into writing. This little document she places in a cash-box for safety, and gives Mic a proof of her wonderful strength. The news is brought into the Green Room that the "sleepy serio" Dulciena, is the heiress to a million of money, and the fickle Mic's affections once more veers round to his first love. He enlists the aid of the timid Bing, and gains possession of his written proposal, but when he proposes to Dulciena, she has one of her sleepy attacks, and he cannot make her understand his protestations of affection. Onionana is a witness of his perfidy, and when she discovers the loss of her precious document, she gives an unrehearsed demonstration of her powers by dropping both Bing and Mic out of the window. They soon reappear, considerably the worse for their hasty exit, and are eventually forgiven. The faithless Mic is consoled by the charming Dulciena, and the timid Bing receives the protection of the powerful Onionana.

Mr. Fred Moule as Mic Moribund is the life and soul of the production, and throughout is humorous and resourceful, and has a catchy ditty in "Oh, oh, for a Life on the Sea." Mr. J. Willoughby Woodward as the timid Belvedere Bing, the terrible topical tenor, has plenty to do, and does it all so well that he helped in no small measure the humorous intentions of the author. As the shapely, buxom Onionana—the amateur strong woman—Miss Nellie Lauraine is delightfully diverting, and evokes an abundance of genuine merriment by her pugilistic efforts and strenuous acting. Miss Edie Langley as the dainty, yawning serio Dulciena, is fresh, bright, and distinctly clever, and in her sleepy song, "Shake Me, Girls," gives a smart piece of genuine comedy. The comedy is smartly written, and is bright and entertaining. The bevy of pretty girls who form the chorus deserve a word of praise for their careful and admirable work, which conduces not a little to the general success. The setting of the piece is admirable.

Another new production here this week is Miss Annie Schuberth's pretty song-scena, entitled The Dream. In this we find a young and stately wife decorating with flowers the interior of her pretty villa at Brighton, in anticipation of the home-coming from active service of her soldier husband. In the fulness of her joy she breaks into song, and her fine voice does full justice to Clay's "There is love in the land," with its pretty bell-like accompaniment. She is disturbed by the entrance of a gipsy girl who pleads for alms, but the lady answers her curtly and drives her away. The gipsy, in her anger, curses the lady, who directly she has gone relents and calls for her to come back. Just at that moment the maid brings a telegram, which tells the now anxious wife that an accident has robbed her of her husband, and later she is discovered by her maid fainting on the floor. In the next scene we find the gipsy's prophecy has come true, and in rags the dainty lady, reduced to poverty, is trying to sell her flowers in the streets. In this scene Miss Schuberth again scores with her singing of Martyn Van Lennep's beautiful ballad, "Our World." Once again the scene changes to the villa, and the maid awakens her mistress, who finds she has realised poverty only in a dream, and is made still more happy when a letter arrives telling her that her husband is alive and will soon be with her. Miss Schuberth's portrayal of the dual characters leaves nothing to be desired, while her artistic efforts are ably supported by Miss Irene Basil as the gipsy girl and M. Forbra as a newsboy. The staging and dressing are in the best of taste, and this charming scena deserves to be seen by many audiences.

"CAULIFLOWER JOE."

A Comedy Sketch, in One Scene, by Alfred Holles and Arthur E. Godfrey, Produced at the Grand Theatre of Varieties, Gravesend, on Monday, July 9.

Mrs. Simkins .....MRS. J. W. BRAITHWAITE
Gwendoline .....MISS HILDA BEVERLEY
Matilda .....MISS LILY BRAMMER
Cauliflower Joe .....MR. WALTER PURVIS

The above interesting item was successfully produced at the Grand Theatre of Varieties, Gravesend, on Monday. Mrs. Simpkins, née Smith, is discussing with her daughter their impecunious situation, when she discovers an advertisement in the morning paper enquiring for a certain Joe Smith, to whom is due a legacy of £20,000. This Joe Smith is her sister's long-lost child, who has drifted into the coster line, and carries on business as a greengrocer. Mrs. Simpkins immediately schemes to make friends with the fortunate coster, say nothing about the legacy, and get him to marry her daughter Gwendoline. Joe appears, and is informed he is no longer a coster but a Smith. He is introduced to Gwendoline, who sets her cap at him, and he consents to have some lunch. When Matilda, the servant, serves the meal she is surprised to recognise her sweetheart, who has taken her to Hampstead Heath on her day out. Joe tells her he has come into his rights, and is going to marry a lady. Recriminations ensue, and Matilda is ordered from the room by Gwendoline; a love passage ensues between Joe and Gwendoline, and Mrs. Simpkins is informed they are engaged, when Matilda flies into the room with the paper in her hand in which she has seen the advertisement for Joe. Explanations follow, and Mrs. Simpkins and daughter exit in high dudgeon, and the curtain falls on Joe's promise to marry Matilda.

Mr. Walter Purvis created roars of laughter at his ready wit in the portrayal of the coster Joe, being ably assisted by Miss Lilly Brammer as Matilda; Mrs. J. W. Braithwaite was capital in her impersonation of the mother; whilst Miss Hilda Beverley, who looked very charming as Gwendoline, left nothing to be desired.

MUSIC HALL SPORTS.

From the point of view of the programme of events the seventeenth annual Music Hall Sports in aid of the variety profession's benevolent fund, held at the Stamford Bridge grounds on Thursday afternoon, were a great success. One might have expected better support from the public, and it was rather unfortunate that the weather didn't seem to know its own mind. The sports opened in brilliant sunshine, but the fickle jade who sits high in judgement upon the meteorological throne, after a couple of hours of sweet courtesy, showed how disagreeable she could be, and, by way of a contrast, visited us with black clouds. Then came and continued for awhile an indecisive drizzling of rain, so much more dreaded by human beings than a downright, definite, strong-minded thunderstorm. That, however, was not permitted to act as a deterrent in the merry-making and in the exhibition of athleticism. After all, one can afford to look with the utmost contempt upon the vengeance of the elements when there is a chance of taking a dinner gong or a case of fish cutlery home to the wife.

GENT LOTTO, WINNER OF THE TWO MILE BICYCLE HANDICAP WITH HIS BROTHER ALF LOTTO.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rickards—the latter kindly fulfilled the office of presenter of prizes—arrived soon after lunch, and among other prominent music hall people were Mr. J. L. Graydon, Mr. Laurie Graydon, Mr. Sydney Hyman, Mr. Angelo A. Asher, Mr. W. Clarkson, Mr. Charles Beecham, Mr. C. E. Howells, Mr. Tom Shaw, Mr. Walter Norman, Mr. Tom Pacey, and, of course, Mr. Horace Marriott, the energetic secretary of the Music Hall Benevolent Fund. Mr. Frank Weeks, who had been announced to officiate as one of the superintending stewards, was kept at home through illness. The other superintending stewards were Mr. C. E. Howells (gate), Mr. W. F. Hurndall (police and attendants), Mr. Alan Macey (transfers and programmes), and Mr. Tom Pacey (events). Mr. G. H. Dyball acted as marksman, Mr. Robert Watson as handicapper, while the duties of referee, starter, timekeeper, lap-scorer, and judges were undertaken by members of the Sports Committee, the judges being Mr. Harry Lundy, Mr. Sid Hyman, and Mr. Laurie Graydon.

During the progress of the various events Mr. Angelo A. Asher's Cadogan Military Band, under the conductorship of Mr. Asher and Mr. J. H. Alexandra, entertained the spectators with a score of musical selections, which were rendered in exquisite style.

There was an official on the grounds to whom we have not so far referred. This was the august "Fun-Master General," who otherwise is known as Mr. Bob Hutt. He commanded a small battalion of "military" buffoons, all attired in grotesque fighting garb. Their daring manœuvres included the "invasion of 1910" and a sanguinary "tournerey milement." As General Hutt marshalled his gallant men, they presented a most formidable array, albeit one of the corporals was so neglectful of military discipline that he had to be given the very elementary command—"get behind yourself and push yourself." The "General" would brook no falling out of line, no laxity of soldierly conduct. Out came his trusty sword whenever any of his subordinates attempted to dispute his authority, and a faithless deserter who defiled the regiment and insulted the British Army by flinging his red tunic in the dust was very properly brought to book at the point of the commander's glittering steel. Then, when the never-to-be-daunted warriors had eased them of their cumbersome uniforms and long boots and had so deservedly replenished their interiors at the canteen, they engaged in barrack-room rollicks. For instance, there was a wrestling contest between the short Zola and the long Carlton. It was a case of the meeting of extremes. The conflict, though brief, was exciting, and in a few seconds the diminutive man of muscle planted his foot in triumph on the breast of the vanquished Goliath, who was carried off, stiff and cold and pale of countenance, by his lamenting comrades. It was rare fooling, which everyone heartily appreciated. Mr. Hutt's "command" comprised such redoubtable foemen as Harry Mayville, Bert D'Arcy, Fred Evans, Charles Elkin, Dennis Curzon, in addition to the two we have mentioned. We must not forget, too, that during an interval a gory Spanish bullfight took place, the toreador leader being Signor Huttino. The ferocious creature whom the dare-devil Huttino band challenged to a death-or-glory combat was a new kind of bull. Some folks, jealous of the accomplishments of the dashing toreadors, and not possessing the requisite courage to emulate their brave deeds, made the dastardly insinuation that the bull was a human being disguised as a donkey with the added dignity of movable horns.

In the serious contests, excellent form, physical strength and skill, and qualities of endurance were in evidence on all sides. In the five-mile bicycle handicap Mr. J. Zaro won the first prize, a silver cigar-case, presented by Mr. Richard Warner, after a hard-fought race with Mr. Jack W. Hall, who came second. For four or five laps Mr. Edgar Budden kept the lead, and it was some gratification to know that he got the fourth prize.

THE PRIZES.

The tug-of-war for the silver Challenge Cup, presented by Mr. F. F. W. Oldfield, which is to be won twice to ensure perpetual ownership, was taken by a team from the Empire, Leicester-square, who defeated the Canterbury men. Mr. Payne's prize of a massive entrée dish in the two-mile bicycle race was won by Mr. Gent Lotto, in spite of the fact that for obvious reasons he was scratched. The one-mile "Frank Allen" Challenge Cup for walkers, to be held by the winner for one year, went to Mr. Harold H. Jeapes, whose performance in this event was a highly commendable one. The previous holder of the cup was Mr. Walter Stanley, who gained the fourth prize on the present occasion. To Mr. Arthur Wright's possession went the fine tea and coffee service and tray, presented by Mr. J. L. Graydon, as the premier prize in the 440 yards running handicap, the time being 57 2-5sec. Children were not overlooked in the sports, for there were races for boys and girls between the ages of six and fourteen. Among the little men the youngest competitor, Master Andrian Petit, aged six, took the leading award in the 100 yards run; and as to the lassies, Miss Vera Andrus, who lays claims to the burden of nine years and seven months, came in first, and she will now be able to adorn her dainty arms with a handsome bracelet and dress her tresses by the aid of a brand new silver-mounted mirror. The Grand Order of Water Rats gave a handsome silver-mounted dressing-case as the winner's trophy for the 120 yards' running handicap, in which there were six heats, Mr. Dan Thomas being first in the second final. The challenge cup provided by Mr. Ballard Macdonald for the 120 yards hurdle race, three heats, was won by the smartness and agility of Mr. Fred Griffiths, jun., and if he be the victor next year, or on some other occasion, and premising he allows no time for anyone else to seize it, it will become his for ever. A hard fought contest was that for the Buchanan Cup in the one-mile cycle race. The cup, which is to be won three times in succession for undisturbed possession, was held before by Mr. Gent Lotto, and is now in the safe keeping of Mr. Ted Cowan, who is to be congratulated on a very determined "scorch." Unfortunately, Mr. Cowan and Mr. Lotto fouled at the winning line, but Mr. Cowan's claim was confirmed by the judges. The Terriers' Association Challenge Cup and gold medal—the former to be won twice in succession or three times in all—for the half-mile running handicap fell into the hands of Mr. Mike Asher, who was allowed a big start of 110 yards.

TOREADOR SIGNOR HUTTINO (BOB HUTT).
WHO WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE SPANISH BULL FIGHT.

Agents and their clerks were afforded a chance of winning fame and a silver cup presented by Mr. Frank Weeks, in a 100 yards sprint. This was secured by a scratch competitor, Mr. Horace Sheldon. The fun was fast and furious in the comic costume scramble, and here Mr. Bob Hutt, attired in a dainty blue female bathing costume, again distinguished himself. Mr. Cecil O. Crackles took the first prize. The 360 yards "Henri Gros" obstacle running race for a cup, to be held by the winner for one year, created roars of laughter as the contestants struggled through sheets and nets and scrambled through tubs and sacks and finally executed the water-jump more or less gracefully. Mr. A. Wright was foremost, and will be able to rejoice in the temporary possession of the cup, and in the indisputable proprietorship of an entrée dish presented by Mr. Wilkie Bard.

At the conclusion of the sports Mrs. Harry Rickards charmingly performed the pleasing ceremony of handing the prizes to the various winners. A vote of thanks for her services in this direction, and for the presence of herself and her husband was proposed by Mr. J. L. Graydon, and enthusiastically supported by the onlookers. Mr. Rickards responded on behalf of his wife, and expressed their delight at being able to attend at the grounds that afternoon.

Among those who collected for the fund were Mr. Walter Norman's "Have'em Quartette" of "pitching" minstrels.

The names of the prize-winners and the results of the contests are as follow :—

MUSIC HALL SPORTS AT STAMFORD BRIDGE.

MR. J. L. GRAYDON, THE PRESIDENT, AND MR. TOM PACEY, CHIEF STEWARD.

IT is to be doubted if there exists at any fashionable watering place two more popular entertainers than are Mr. Alf Lawrance and Mr Tom Mellor, who are appearing just now at Folkestone. Songs identified with their names are being freely inquired for at the famous resort, and "My Cosy Caravan," written by them in conjunction with Mr. Gifford, bids fair to attain lasting popularity.

MR. G. H. SNAZELLE has been this week drawing record houses at the Victoria Pier, Folkestone, the brilliant artist and fine raconteur being ably assisted by Miss Gertrude Snow. Mr. J. Fenton Walsh, who so ably manages the entertainments on this fine pier for Messrs. Keith, Prowse and Co., has for assistant Mr. F. G. Stratford, late advertising expert of the Hackney Empire.

IN addition to sliding roofs and specially constructed canopies to keep the theatres cool, fans are now being served out free to patrons of the Hackney, Holloway, Stratford, New Cross, and Shepherd's Bush Empires.

MESSRS. JOHN P. HARRINGTON AND JAS. W. TATE have just equipped Mr. Arthur Reece with a powerful new descriptive song, entitled "Romance," which this well-known actor-vocalist will shortly produce at all his engagements.

LES SPRAYS, who are this week appearing with remarkable success with Miss Constance Moxon's Variety Company at the Amphitheatre, Ramsgate, have just signed to appear in all the principal States of America.

CARR AND ROSE, the humorous singing duo, are producing a new vocal operetta entitled The Society Lady and the Cockney Swell, by Walter Gilbert.

THOUGH a late turn at the Metropolitan, Mr. Charles Whittle, the Yorkshire comedian, has, caused some of the heartiest laughter and evoked some of the most spontaneous outbursts of applause ever heard at the well-known house, and the chorus of his song, "I'm Billy Muggins," will soon be all over the town. Mr. David Day has secured the ditty, which is by Charles Ridgwell. Mr. Whittle will presently be heard at other first-class London halls.

MISS LILLIAN DOREEN has made a profound impression with Brixton audiences with that charming ballad "The Rose of my Heart," by Wilmott and Pether, and it is declared by experts to be one of the biggest successes ever identified with the career of this cultured vocalist. It is published by Messrs. Francis, Day and Hunter.

MOVING TIMES AND STAGNANT LAWS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—The extraordinary lack of protection afforded by the present condition of the law relative to modern conceptions of authors and composers provides the thinking man with much food for reflection, more especially in regard to the various items connected with public entertainments.

The "Encyclopædia Britannica" says:—

"The law of copyright recognises the right of property in the production of mental as well as in the production of physical power, and it must be allowed that nothing can more justly be said to belong to a man than the creations of his own thinking faculties, and in this view he and his heirs are entitled to whatever profit or advantage may result from them in perpetuity. . . . The act acknowledges the right of property in the author," &c.

Can the man who has taken the trouble to "invent" an original song, sketch, or "act" read the above without smiling? Where is the protection for the poor author under the existing Acts of Parliament?

In "Chambers's Encyclopædia," we are told, under the heading of dramas and musical pieces:—

". . . If they are performed in public before appearing in print the author retains the sole right of permitting them to be represented during the term of copyright." (Forty-two years or the life of the author and seven years, whichever of the two terms would be the longer.)

"A register of proprietors of copyright is kept at the Stationers' Hall, in which the owner of a copyright may make an entry on payment of a fee of 5s." (Inspection 1s. for each entry, and copy of certificate 5s.)

"Authors complain that the law, as it stands, does not sufficiently protect them against unfair use of their materials and ideas.

"In regard to books" (and according to "Chambers's" dramas and musical pieces are subject to the same rules), "an author may resort to previous works for facts and ideas; he may extract or abridge the copyright composition of another, provided he does not actually copy it or an unreasonably large part of it."

So it would appear to be that if affairs change by the effluxion of time, surely the laws should be brought up to date for the protection of the property of the working community.

Blackstone says:—

"When a man, by the exercise of his rational powers, has produced an original work, he seems to have clearly a right to dispose of that identical work as he pleases, and any attempt to vary the disposition he has made of it appears to be an invasion of the right. Now, the identity of a literary composition consists entirely in the sentiment and the language. The same conceptions clothed in the same words must necessarily be the same composition, and whatever method be taken of exhibiting that composition to the eye or ear of another by a recital, by writing, or by printing in any number of copies or at any period of time, it is always the identical work of the author which is so exhibited, and no other man, it hath been thought, can have a right to exhibit it, especially for profit, without the author's consent."

Then again, by referring to the "Penny Encyclopædia" we find it recorded that

"The exclusive property of authors in their manuscripts has always been recognised by the law."

And proceeding to a recital of the Act of Parliament the "Penny Encyclopædia" continues:—

"Which provides that the author of any dramatic piece shall have as his property the sole liberty of representing it or causing it to be represented at any place of public entertainment. The penalty for violating these enactments is to be enforced by action for damages with double costs, to be brought within twelve months from the commission of the offence."

Here is the whole thing in a nutshell. Take, for example, a song, sketch, or act, which we will say is strictly original in detail. The author fondly imagines he can assure to himself the sole ownership of his own work; he accordingly procures the necessary public performance, fills up a Stationers' Hall form, and pays 5s. But what for? Merely for the right to register the title, which title may be changed at any moment and invalidate the registered right. Thus, what is the use of registering a title when a pirate is at liberty to sneak along and annex for his own use and benefit the best ideas and material in the real author's creations? The argument would appear to be as clear as daylight, so having presented it in as concise a manner as possible, I would propound an idea which may be deemed worthy of consideration by representative gentlemen who are in a position to protect and advance the interests of the community.

My suggestion is a simple one: Whenever a song, sketch, or act is produced, there is—in pretty well every instance—a detailed report published in the professional newspapers for the purposes of record. If, therefore, one of these printed reports was cut out and (in a space to be provided) pasted on to the registration form, there would for all time be placed in the register conclusive evidence of ownership of not only a title, but also the original ideas of verses, situations, business, scenes, &c., &c. It is apprehended that this formula would show a little value for the 5s. expended, but at the present moment authors and composers are full of growls that the value received is somewhat remote. Of course it is clear that the remedy for infringement lies in a Court of Law, but—well, that is not protection.

You, sir, will readily appreciate that this letter in no way seeks to trespass on the preserves of Mr. A. A. Strong in his excellent treatise on the Law of Copyright. It is merely my aim to call attention to a flaw in such law caused by modern innovations in public entertainments, which flaw—experts stoutly maintain—could be easily remedied by contemporaneous legislation.—Yours faithfully,

WAT. W. ESSPEA.

PYGMIES AND PERCENTAGE.

At the Brighton County Court on the 29th ult., before his Honour Judge Scully, the case was concluded in which Theodore Filippo, variety entertainer, Riley-road, Brighton, whose real name is Theodore Phillips, sued for damages for breach of covenant and wrongful refusal to allow him to enter the Brighton Aquarium, and also claimed an account relating to his percentage of the takings at the Pygmies' show at the Aquarium.

Plaintiff's case and part of the defence were heard last week, when the plaintiff declared that when he gave a receipt for £1 18s. on the night of March 31 last for his proportion of the week's takings at the Pygmies' show he did not notice on the receipt form words purporting that the receipt was in full discharge of all claims, or he would not have signed it.

Evidence was given by Donald Arthur Piness to the effect that he paid Filippo on March 31 the sum of £1 18s., as his share in respect of the Pygmies' show, and received from him the receipt produced, "in full discharge."

Henry de Groot, acting-manager at the Aquarium, gave evidence to the effect that the show on the night of March 31 was very poor indeed. As an illustration of the kind of "talent" put on, he mentioned that an employee at the Aquarium gave a ten minutes' performance, and another employee gave some "facial experiments." He declared that with the exception of Miss Phillips, Filippo, and Mr. Russell, the people advertised did not appear.—Cross-examined by Mr. Harker, he admitted that in a musical entertainment of this class one would not always expect to get all the turns equally good. There was nothing to complain about in Mr. Filippo's personal turn, except that in Il Trovatore he was a "little out of form." On the evening of March 31 Filippo told him he had finished, and was not going on, and would not allow the Pygmies to go on. He went away; but returned in about two minutes and said he had changed his mind and would go on. Witness admitted that Mr. Sallmayer had objected to Filippo having a singing competition.

Mr. Tressidder, of Shaftesbury-road, Brighton, gave corroborative evidence as to the quality of the entertainments, and Alexis Taggart, a musical director, said he went to see the "gala" performance. Some of the artists he had seen a week or two previously at New-road at the back of the chapel there. The performance could not be called high-class. It was an amateur performance all through, with the exception of one or two turns. Miss Phillips was one of the exceptions. She was a very good singer with a fine voice.

Miss Dorothy Wilson also spoke to the poor quality of the performances in question.

Arthur H. Ayling, clerk in the box office, said he received numerous complaints about the show, and that numbers of people left before the end of the performance. He had never received complaints before about a performance during his three years' experience.

Counsel then addressed the jury, and his Honour, in reply to a juror, said the agreement did not give Mr. Sallmayer any right to stop the show before the three months had expired, the only power given to him being to veto any objectionable performance. Summing up, his Honour pointed out that the question to be decided was whether the agreement was cancelled on March 31 by mutual consent.

The jury, after a short deliberation, found for the plaintiff for £25 damages, and his Honour gave judgment for that amount. As to the account, his Honour said the receipt marked "in full discharge" only applied to claims up to March 31, and not to the future, and he did not think the plaintiff was debarred from claiming his 20 per cent. of the receipts from the Pygmies' show subsequent to March 31.

Eventually it was agreed that plaintiff should be awarded £10 9s. in settlement of his further claim for percentage of takings in connection with the Pygmies' show, and judgment for the plaintiff for £35 9s., with costs, was recorded.

WILLIE CLARKSON supplied the whole of the costumes and wigs for the pageant at the military fête, which was held at Government House, Aldershot, on Tuesday and Wednesday.

ON Tuesday afternoon the body of a well-dressed man of about thirty-five was washed up by the tide near the Llanelly pier-head. In the waistcoat-pocket was a silver watch with the inscription, "Presented to M. Walters by Will Smithson, Theatre Royal, Merthyr." There was a gold watch in another pocket, together with a number of sovereigns. The body could only have been in the water for a few hours. It is supposed that the deceased fell overboard from a Bristol Channel excursion boat.

HER MAJESTY THE QUEEN OF SHEBA has been ordered to take a rest, as a manager insists upon Dr. Ewing Sardonis playing an old contract with another act already booked.

THE Gotham Quartette, better and stronger than ever, are making a big hit with "I Never Knew till Now how much I Loved You."

FOR Henri Coi, the giant at the Crystal Palace, it is claimed that he is the only French giant known for 200 years. He is 21 years of age, 8ft. 7in. in height, and weighs 390lb. He is a man of enormous proportions. According to the statement of medical men he has not yet attained his full height, and is not likely to do so for some four years. He was born at l'Aveyron, France, of peasant parents, being the last of a family of six children, but his father, mother, sisters, and brothers were not in any way conspicuous by their height.

STANLEY AND VANDYKE, who are at the City Varieties, Leeds, are appearing in a new sketch, entitled On the Shelf, or a Broken Promise. The sketch is brimful of humour, and keeps the audience in one continual roar of laughter.

AMUSEMENTS IN AUSTRALIA.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

SYDNEY, May 29, 1906.—Mr. Allan Hamilton took possession of the Palace Theatre on the 26th, and introduced Mr. Leslie Harris, Mme. Yeamans-Titus, and Mr. Fred J. Titus in a refined entertainment. Mr. Harris's comparisons between old-time and modern songs and pianoforte selections were delightful, and his dialect contributions were also excellent. Mme. Yeamans-Titus is an old favourite, and her child songs, &c., are as meritorious and well received as ever. The lady shared in the enthusiasm which greeted Mr. Leslie Harris's début in the Australian metropolis.

"A COUNTRY GIRL" will be withdrawn on June 1, and next night Mr. J. C. Williamson will produce The Little Michus, the cast being now completed by the arrival of Mr. Reginald Roberts from San Francisco.

AT the Criterion large audiences have been attracted by The Man from Mexico, so charmingly acted by Miss Grace Palotta, Mr. Hugh J. Ward, Mr. George Willoughby, and their specially selected company, directed by Mr. Edwin Geach.

MR. BLAND HOLT will revive For England on June 2, once more appearing as Manasser Marks, a favourite part with him. Meanwhile The Prodigal Son delights capital houses.

THE Tivoli audience heartily welcomed the O'Natis troupe of Algerian jugglers on Saturday; the whole performance is startling and unique, and loud applause greeted every act. Mlle. Omega accomplished some capital wire walking. Her début was a distinct success. Irving Tayles and Lizette Parkes reappeared, and the sketches of Homer B. Mason, Marguerite Keller, and Henry Travers are important features of Mr. Harry Rickards's long programme. Miss Nita Leete with song and illustration is valuable. Fred Bluett, the Warner Sisters, and the Carnos, Blake and Granby and all the rest make up a popular programme.

MR. HENRY BRACY, the veteran tenor, who is directing the performances of J. C. Williamson's Répertoire Company in New Zealand, appeared in Auckland owing to the illness of Mr. Charles Kenningham. I hear that Mr. Bracy sang with all his old ability and sweetness and looked as young as ever.

MISS MAY BEATTIE, Miss May Garstang, Mr. Edward Lauri, and Mr. Charles McNaughton, who have concluded a two years' engagement with Mr. George Stephenson, left for London in the China on Saturday. A crowd of friends and admirers wished them "bon voyage."

SYDNEY, JUNE 5.—Her Majesty's Theatre had a crowded and fashionable audience on the 2nd, the Governor-General and Lady Northcote, with their suites, being present, and the occasion was the première of The Little Michus. Mr. Reginald Roberts, the popular tenor, who reappeared after a two years' absence, sang better than ever. Miss Florence Young's Marie Blanche was an unmistakable triumph. Excellent also was the Blanche Marie of Miss Margaret Thomas. Mr. Reginald Roberts made his best hit in the song about "The Moon." He had a very hearty reception. Mr. George Lauri, well made up, was good as General Des Ifs, and Mr. Fred Leslie made Bagnolet a terpsichorean clown. The Aristide Vert of Mr. W. S. Percy was praiseworthy. Miss Clara Clifton gave prominence to Madame Michu, and nothing could be better than Mr. Claude Bantock's Pierre Michu. Miss Henrietta Bernard was a painstaking schoolmistress, and Miss Nellie Wilson won favour by her acting and singing as Madame du Tertre. Mr. Arthur Hunter was the "lone gardener" in the first act, and the marketer in the third, two capital bits of character-acting. A couple of very pretty and novel ballets, arranged by Miss Minnie Everett, were danced, with Miss Tilly Woodcock as solo pirouettiste. A word must be added for Miss Pressy Preston, who gave a capital character sketch as a fat old market woman. On Friday night, the last of The Country Girl, an enthusiastic send off was accorded Miss Rose Musgrave, who goes shortly to England. For England was revived by Mr. Bland Holt at the Theatre Royal on the 2nd, when the popular actor-manager reappeared in his old part of Manasses Marks. The cast was otherwise as before.

MR. HERBERT LLOYD, who is on the bill of the Hackney Empire this week, is a native of Philadelphia, and was a commercial traveller before he started to entertain on the halls. In San Francisco he made his début some three years ago, and since then has toured the Continent, and appeared in London in 1804-5. His humour is distinctly American, and he manages to crowd the fun of half-a-dozen turns into his thirteen minutes on the stage, burlesquing every style of variety artist from the slack-wire walker to the impersonator of noted men, from the juggler to the contortionist. The automobile in which he makes his entrance suggests one of Mr. E. T. Reed's prehistoric peeps in Punch, with its tiny candle in a huge lamp, and small wooden wheels.

MR. LLOYD changes his suit of vivid red and yellow, covered with diamonds, behind a screen of about eighteen inches high, and appears as a tramp—a clean tramp—with wee electric lights dotted over his clothes and glittering in his beard, and wearing no less than a hundred "dickies," which he throws off one by one. Much of the success of his lively act depends upon the promptitude of his wife, who is billed as Miss Lilyan, and makes a pretty little figure on the stage in her pale blue frock sparkling with sequins and high silver boots.

ONE time when he was touring through the States he had a "gag" which, at a certain period, necessitated his asking the audience to lend him a knife. When he was in Columbus, Ohio, he came to the footlights and made his request, which of course he never anticipated would be acceded to, but a bowie knife came flying from the gallery, and just missed the juggler's head by an inch. Another time, when he was in Jersey City, the same request was made, and a poor trombone player in the orchestra became the unfortunate target. After that the "gag" was buried in oblivion. It was feared that something more corporeal would have to be interred if the game continued.

A MONUMENT to Sebastian Bach is shortly to be erected in front of the church of St. Thomas, Leipzig. The City Council has made itself responsible for the cost, and has also voted a thousand marks towards the expenses of the house of Bach at Eisenach.

PRINCE COLIBRI, the tiniest man on earth, now at the Crystal Palace, is an accomplished linguist, and cheerfully converses with the visitor in French, German, and Russian. He is twenty-five years of age, and it is remarkable to see a man of his years calmly sitting on the palm of the hand of Mr. C. Lloyd, his manager. He is 23½ inches high, and weighs 8½lbs. The remarkable little man—remarkable not only from a sightseer's point of view, but also as a scientific curiosity of the first order—was born in the year 1880 in the little town of Brigen in Central Russia. When a year old the Czar heard of the wonderful child, and the parents were summoned to St. Petersburg. A house was placed at their disposal, and they remained there till the lad was ten years of age. Ultimately the parents obtained the permission of the Czar to leave St. Petersburg. A tour through Europe followed, and in the various Courts the tiny man was heartily welcomed.

THE THREE SMALL HEADS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Much discussion has been going on within the past few days in certain newspapers regarding the mental ability of "the three Small-heads" from Central Mexico, now being exhibited at the London Hippodrome. The fact that they are of a distinct race has also been violently discredited. Perhaps Dr. Winslow's statement—he being one of the greatest authorities on lunacy in this country—will set at rest any doubts that there may be on this subject, especially as his examination took place in the presence of Dr. A. A. Cumming Grant, M.B., M.S., official physician to the London Hippodrome; Dr. G. W. F. Macnaughten, M.B., M.S., M.D., F.R.C.S., F.R.C.P., Dr. Arthur Keith, M.B., M.D., M.S., F.R.C.S., Anatomist to the London School of Medicine; Dr. Leonard Hill, M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., Physiologist to the London School of Medicine; and Professor Palmer, the eminent phrenologist:—

"11, Burwood-place,
"Hyde Park, W.,
"July 6, 1906.

"This is to certify that I have this day seen and examined three girls supposed to be microcephalæ. In my opinion they cannot be properly placed under this category. They appear to belong to a distinct race. They are well developed and have plenty of intelligence, and notice with interest everything that goes on about them.

"According to the general definition of idiocy, there is no justification for their being classed with such. I fail to detect any indications, mentally or bodily, to warrant this. An ordinary microcephalic idiot is devoid of all intelligence, and has the usual abnormal formation on the palate, which is conspicuous by its absence in these, especially in two of the girls, although in one there is a slight irregularity in this.

In the interests of our patrons and the medical fraternity in particular, I shall esteem it a great service if you will give publicity to this communication.—Yours faithfully,

H. W. GARRICK, Press Representative.

A MOSS OUTING.

The Executive and clerical staffs of Moss' Empires, Ltd., and Stoll Companies had their first annual outing on Sunday to Cranford Bridge. The party, numbering twenty odd, journeyed from Cranbourn Mansions by brake to Cranford Bridge, arriving at their venue about 12.30. From thence onwards till eight o'clock, with the exception of intervals for luncheon and tea, sports were indulged in. A fiercely-contested game of cricket resulted in a win for "The Mansions," their opponents being "Ryder's-court."

After luncheon, Mr. W. R. Gillanders proposed the health of "The King," and Mr. Bertie Shelton and Mr. G. V. O'Connolly gave "The Firm." After tea Mr. Will Collins proposed a vote of thanks to the hon. secretary, Mr. W. P. Murray, and the hon. treasurer, Mr. A. C. Mumford, and the latter suitably responded. At eleven o'clock the Mansion were again reached, bringing a most enjoyable day to a close.

Those present included Mr. Bertie Shelton, Mr. G. V. O'Connolly, Mr. W. R. Gillanders, Mr. Frank Elliott, Mr. H. Cocks, Mr. P. Wilde, Mr. W. Nokes, Mr. T. Osborne, Mr. C. Emery, Mr. P. Rowe, Mr. A. Read, Mr. R. Carr, Mr. J. Palmer, Mr. O. Werth, Mr. A. Hunt, Mr. Lloyd

Langdon, Mr. A. C. Mumford, Mr. H. Crocker, Mr. Will Collins, and Mr. W. P. Murray.

A Spectacle, in three Scenes, produced at the Queen's Palace of Varieties, Poplar, On Monday Evening, July 2.

Trooper Goodwin, alias Nellie Temple ..... MISS ALICE PENNINGTON
Trooper Ainsley ..... MR. HARRY BRUCE
Corporal Wylie ..... MR. SYDNEY NEVILLE
Sergeant McBride ..... MR. HARRY BRISTOW
Captain Ferrett ..... MR. CHARLES YORKE
Colonel Norris ..... MR. ROBERT PURDIE

Balaclava is something more than a mere spectacle—it is a sketch containing an interesting and highly dramatic story, which is disfigured occasionally by absurdities that might easily be removed.

A special interest attached to its production last week at the Queen's, Poplar, in that the daughter of a trooper who took part in the historic charge of the Light Brigade at Balaclava plays the principal part. This is Miss Alice Pennington, whose father, W. H. Pennington, is one of the few survivors of the famous Six Hundred. Mr. Pennington will also be remembered by his performance of Hamlet, which won the commendation of no less a personage than the late William Ewart Gladstone.

The spectacle opens with the arrest of Trooper Ainsley for sleeping at his post. The penalty is death, and he is bound with irons and thrown into a hut to await the carrying out of the sentence. Trooper Goodwin is set to guard the prisoner. Goodwin is no other than Ainsley's sweetheart, Nellie Temple, disguised as a Hussar. During conversation with one Sergeant McBride, she discovers that the reason for her lover's dereliction of duty is that he drank from a flask containing a drug, which had been dropped on the ground by Captain Ferrett, who employs this questionable method of wreaking revenge upon the young trooper for some grudge he bears him. Trooper Goodwin wins the Victoria Cross for an act of conspicuous gallantry, and the colonel in command, as a further mark of his appreciation of noble conduct, tells Goodwin that he can make what request he likes, and it shall be granted. Naturally, Nellie Temple wishes to save the life of her sweetheart, and the flask Trooper Ainsley is set free, and Captain Ferrett is placed under arrest. In the—to quote from the programme—"realistic tableau of the soul-inspiring charge of the Light Brigade and the thrilling, terrific sword fight" Goodwin and Ainsley are seen in a hand-to-hand combat against overwhelming numbers of the enemy. Unsupported and unaided, they place Russian after Russian hors-de-combat, and the curtain falls upon a lurid scene, in which the victorious couple stand side by side, surrounded by the bodies of the slaughtered Muscovites. The programme is right—it is thrilling

So far as the work of production went—in which, we understand, the producers had the able assistance of the experienced and energetic general manager of the Queen's, Mr. Jack Woolf—it can be said that the piece was well staged. As to the acting, Miss Alice Pennington impersonated the heroine with vivacity and earnestness, and we think that more should be heard of the young lady as a dramatic actress. Mr. Harry Bruce gave us a manly, straightforward, and virile soldier in his portrayal of Trooper Ainsley, and from Mr. Harry Bristow, as Sergeant McBride, we got an amusing Irishman, the brogue being natural and well sustained. Mr. Robert Purdie furnished a characteristic study of a stern, abrupt, mercilessly dutiful old martinet of an officer in his rôle of Colonel Norris, and Mr. Charles Yorke, as the scheming Captain Ferrett, was an able exponent of a villain. The spectacle was produced under the direction of Mr. Harold Maxadler.

"THE FIGHTING PARSON" IN COURT.

In the Court of Appeal on Saturday, before the Lord Chief Justice of England, Sir Gorell Barnes, and Lord Justice Farwell, the case of Gray v. The Oxford (Limited), was an appeal by the plaintiff from the judgment of Mr. Justice Phillimore. The action was brought by Mr. George Gray, the author of a sketch known as The Fighting Parson, to recover £90, one week's salary, for producing The Fighting Parson at the Oxford Music Hall. The defendants pleaded that the plaintiff's sketch was a stage play, and the defendants had not a licence to perform it at their music hall, and that it was a term of the contract entered into between the plaintiff and their manager that if the performance was contrary to law the contract should be cancelled, and that they had been compelled to cancel it for that reason. The plaintiff entered into an agreement with the defendants, dated June 19, 1903, whereby the plaintiff (therein called the artist) agreed to perform the sketch at the Oxford seven times a week for a period of six weeks from September 12, 1904, and to provide necessary supernumeraries and scenery for production of the same; and it was further agreed by Clause 6 as follows:—"If it should be found that the artist's performance is contrary to law, or is objected to by any licensing or other public authority, this engagement may be cancelled by the company." The plaintiff played for five weeks, after which time Mr. Payne, the manager, purporting to act under Clause 6 of the agreement, wrote the plaintiff that, owing to a decision of Mr. Kennedy, the police magistrate, that a somewhat similar sketch called The Belle of the Orient was a stage play, and that it was therefore contrary to section 11 of the Theatres Act, 1843, to present it at a place not licensed as a theatre, he could not continue to do his sketch, The Fighting Parson, any more; and that all contracts he held with Mr. Payne at the Oxford and other halls were cancelled. The plaintiff thereupon brought the present action. Mr. Justice Phillimore held that, as it had been decided by a competent tribunal that a similar sketch was a stage play, the defendants were entitled to cancel the engagement under Clause 6 of the agreement, and further that, apart from the above clause in the agreement, inasmuch as both parties intended the performance to be at a place licensed only as a music hall, and as it was illegal to perform a stage play at such a place, the defendants were entitled to cancel the engagement. He accordingly gave judgment for the defendants. The plaintiff appealed.

Mr. Eldon Bankes, K.C., who appeared for the plaintiff, said the sketch in question was very well known. Objection had been taken to the production of sketches at music halls, on the ground that they were stage plays, and that they could not therefore be lawfully performed at any place of amusement which did not hold the Lord Chamberlain's licence. Mr. Gray's contract with the Oxford (Limited) provided that if it should be found that the performance in question was contrary to law the engagement might be cancelled by the company. In the Court below it was contended that the contract was illegal. The learned judge found that that was so, but he (Mr. Bankes) disputed that. He believed it was admitted that this sketch came within the definition "stage plays." It was said to be illegal, because the agreement was for the performance of a stage play at a place which, as a matter of fact, was not licensed for such a performance. Their answer was that at the time Mr. Gray entered into the agreement, the question of the licence never came into his head. His case was that if you brought home to the contracting parties a common intention to engage in a performance which was contrary to law, the contract was illegal; but you must bring it home to both parties. The appellant entered into an engagement that he would not for three months before the commencement of his engagement at the Oxford perform anywhere else. Nothing was said to Mr. Gray when the time came to begin the engagement about the Oxford not having the right kind of licence. Mr. Justice Phillimore, in dismissing the claim, said if Mr. Gray was entitled to succeed, it was for £85.

The further hearing was adjourned till Monday, when, without calling upon counsel for the respondents, the Lord Chief Justice, in giving judgment, said that in this case Mr. Justice Phillimore had decided that the defendant was not liable for declining to continue the performance of that which was admitted to be a dramatic play during the six weeks of its run. The learned Judge had decided on two grounds—(1) that of the illegality of the contract; (2) that by the conditions of the contract itself the defendant was justified in his action. He did not base his judgment on the first point. The other objection arose on the sixth clause of the contract. That clause occurred in a contract in which the name of the sketch, The Fighting Parson, was inserted, but it was quite plain that it was originally inserted in reference to a sketch the name of which was not known, and which, therefore, might or might not turn out to be contrary to law. But it had been allowed to remain in the contract, and, therefore, it was necessary to give effect to it. Section 11 of the Theatres Act, 1843 (6 and 7 Vict., c. 68), created the difficulty, and was as follows:—"Every person who for hire shall act or present, or cause, permit, or suffer to be acted or presented any part in any stage play in any place not being a patent theatre or duly licensed as a theatre" should forfeit certain penalties. He did not think it possible to successfully contend that Clause 6 must be confined to something found out afterwards. It appeared that the Lord Chamberlain's licence was not often granted to music halls, at any rate one was not obtained by the Oxford. The contract related to a piece to be performed at the Oxford, which was a music-hall, and which, of course, was known by the plaintiff to be a music hall. Mr. Bankes, in order to succeed, would have to contend that, if anybody was going to raise any question as to the legality of the performance, there was an implied duty on the defendant to get a licence. That was too narrow a construction to put on the clause. He thought it meant as between the parties, "If it turns out that this performance cannot be legally carried out, then the defendant may put an end to it." During the performance it became clear that proceedings would be taken against pieces of this character, and the defendant did put an end to it. If continued, the plaintiff himself would have been liable to a penalty. He thought it impossible to say that the clause did not apply to this state of circumstances. Mr. Bankes' argument that everything known at the time the agreement was made must be excluded was too narrow. This was a business agreement made between business men. The appeal must be dismissed.

Sir Gorell Barnes said he was of the same opinion, and, having read Mr. Justice Phillimore's judgment, he approved the reasons therein given.

Lord Justice Farwell delivered a short judgment to the same effect.

The appeal was dismissed with costs.

Mr. Spencer Bower, K.C., and Mr. Walter Payne (instructed by Messrs. Andrew, Wood, Purves, and Sutton) appeared for the respondents.

MUSIC HALL SICK FUND.

The annual general meeting of the members of the Music Hall Sick Fund Benefit Society was held on Wednesday afternoon at the York Hotel. Mr. Pat Carey (the president) occupied the chair and there were also present Messrs. W. J. Wainratta (vice-president), H. E. High, W. Brisco, J. Mulcaster, H. Griff, Seth White, W. West, and Frank Heath (hon. treasurer).

The Chairman announced that the framed bills calling attention to the existence and objects of the Society had been placed in the dressing rooms of most of the London and suburban music halls.

The principal business of the meeting was the election of the Management Committee and the officers for the ensuing year. With a few alterations the Committee was re-appointed.

The officers elected were as follows:—President, Mr. Pat Carey; vice-president, Mr. W. J. Wainratta; hon. vice-president, Mr. Frank Weeks; hon. auditors, Messrs. H. E. High and F Griff; treasurer, Mr. Frank Heath; secretary, Mr. R. T. Baines. The trustees are Messrs. H. Jennings, Geo. Adney Payne, and Douglas White.

Mr. H. Griff proposed a hearty vote of thanks to the officers and trustees for the able manner in which they had conducted the business of the Society.

Mr. High seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously and acknowledged by the Chairman, who also expressed his obligations to the editors of the journals who had inserted his letter of explanation in regard to the case of the late Mr. Frank Coyne.

The proceedings closed with a vote of thanks to the Chairman.

BILLY FARRELL RIGHTLY COMPLAINS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Kindly allow me to ask a question through the valuable columns of your paper—What constitutes a law-abiding citizen?

When I was engaged by the English managers to come to England to work, I began to study the laws and regulations, and I came to the conclusion that they were founded on common sense. I have always worked, paid my honest debts, and have done no one any injury. But I am all wrong, because, while standing at 11.30 p.m. on a recent Sunday waiting for a 'bus, to return home, I was arrested and accused of insulting ladies up and down the street. I'll give £10 to any charitable institution if any police-officer can prove that during the ten years of my stay in England I ever approached any lady in a manner unbecoming a gentleman.

The fact of the matter is, I left home at 10.30 p.m. and went to a West End public-house. On entering I heard an argument between three officers and an American. The argument not concerning me, I left the place. When doing so I heard one of the officers say, "We'll 'pinch' some of these 'Yanks' to-night."

What I should like to know is why, in nine cases out of ten, they do not individualise the people, and not take us as a whole, entirely forgetting that there are good and bad in every race.

And still these same officers kiss the Holy Bible with tears in their eyes, and swear to a falsehood.—Yours faithfully,

ONE BILLY FARRELL,
55, Tottenham Court-road. An American.
July 4.

In the Salford Bankruptcy Court on Thursday a receiving order was made against Mr. J. B. Williams, a member of the Manchester City Council, and secretary to the Amalgamated Musicians' Union on the petition of Mr. J. P. Hardacre, theatre proprietor. Mr. Williams was the defendant in an action for libel brought by Mr. Hardacre, and a verdict for £50 and costs was given against him.

DANGEROUS PERFORMANCES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Some misunderstanding appears to have arisen as to the scope and attention of the Dangerous Performances Bill, which, at the request of the Home Secretary, I have recently introduced into the House of Commons. It seems to be supposed that some vague but excessive restriction is to be placed, by a new procedure, on the large class of persons who make their livelihood by public performances. This is far from being the case. For many years past the law has prohibited the employment of boys under sixteen and girls under eighteen in displays involving a real danger to life and limb. The Bill does no more than to repeat these earlier laws, without alteration, in a consolidated form, and to extend their provisions to women. The method of determining what is or is not dangerous to which the performers' profession has long been accustomed will be the method employed under this Bill. Whatever has been legal for a girl under eighteen hitherto will remain legal for women in the future.

I am glad to learn from various quarters that those who are most directly concerned generally agree that, so long as there is no interference with performances which may be dangerous in appearance, but which are harmless in reality, it is a desirable thing to legislate against displays which may, and sometimes do, end in shocking disaster. This, and no more, is the purpose of the Bill.—Yours sincerely, HERBERT SAMUEL.

Whitehall, July 6, 1906.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In reference to the above Bill, which interferes equally with the thoroughly trained artist and the "dupe" of a person who dares not do the act in which he employs a deputy, the Bill should be drafted so as to prohibit all mechanical sensations, which have been the cause of nine out of every ten accidents occurring since 1878—in fact since "Zazel," the "Human Bullet" of that period, first performed, artists and others copying that lady's act in different styles have nearly all come to grief. These copyists were the cause of the Bills of 1879 and 1880. I am open, either alone or with artists, to form a deputation to visit Mr. Herbert Samuel, the M.P. who brought the Bill forward, or the Home Secretary himself, and I will explain the safety of any genuine gymnastic act that he may bring forward and comment upon—mechanical sensations barred.—Yours faithfully,

July 10. ARTIST.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA

SIR,—As nothing appeared in your issue of June 30 from the artists most interested, I wrote a letter to Mr. Russell Rea, M.P. for Gloucester, to see what he could do to prevent any injustice to the variety profession. I pointed out how the Empire had been built up by the daring of her sons and daughters, &c., &c. I enclose his reply; also one from Mr. Herbert Samuel, M.P., but as that did not quite satisfy me, I sent the paragraph and letters contained in The Era of July 7 to Mr. Samuel, together with an illustration of the German navigable balloon driven by motor power that has just been tried, and pointing out that we may soon require trained men and women to carry despatches by means of balloon and parachute. Now is the time for those interested to bestir themselves, and instead of having fresh legislation to hamper them, to try and get some of the present restrictions abolished I pointed out in my letter how we were at the mercy of any particular magistrate whether or not a child well cared for should appear on the stage or not, yet there is no law to prevent children, barefooted, hungry, and poorly clad, selling newspapers and matches in the streets late at night. I also pointed out that unless children were taught acrobatic performances young, we should be compelled to send abroad for all such talent, which would be a gross injustice to thousands in this country, and that the British public loved clever children, and the children loved their work and were well looked after.—Yours faithfully, C. W. POOLE.

Theatre Royal, Gloucester, July 12.

P.S.—I append a copy of Mr. Rea's letter.

22, Lyndhurst-road,
Hampstead, N.W.,

C. W. Poole, Esq.,
Wotton Lawn, Gloucester.

Dear Mr. Poole,—As I told you yesterday, Mr. Herbert Samuel has carefully read your letter, and he said that he thought you were under a misapprehension as to the scope of his Bill, which is really a consolidation Bill, and imposes no new restrictions in the existing law excepting one, and that is, to extend the prohibition of the employment of girls under 18 in displays involving a real danger to life and limb to women. I enclose a copy of a letter I have just received from Mr. Herbert Samuel in reply to your criticisms.—I am, yours truly,

RUSSELL REA.

THE GARDENS OF EASDALE, STREATHAM-HILL, CHIRGWIN'S HOME. CHIRGWIN, AFTER ENJOYING THE HAPPY VALLEY AT SOUTHEND-ON-SEA, RETURNS TO HIS HAPPY HOME AT STREATHAM-HILL, S.E

CHAT WITH MISS JOSEPHINE SABEL.

Among her many mementos of a successful music-hall career, Miss Josephine Sabel perhaps treasures most of all a gold medal with which she was presented by the directors of the Etablissement Ronacher, Vienna, after winning golden opinions for her performances at that house. No wonder Miss Sabel prizes this small piece of gold, when it is borne in mind that only two other persons beside herself have been honoured in the possession of a similar medal. One is Herr Josef Modl, the well-known Austrian comedian, who has appeared at the Establissement Ronacher for the last fifteen years and regularly performs there throughout every season now. Miss Sabel mentions the interesting fact that, as far as she is aware, Herr Modl holds a record in the shape of the longest music-hall engagement in the world. The third person to whom one of these gold medals of merit was given was the late (now deceased) leader of the orchestra at Ronacher's.

Miss Sabel is a most versatile lady. During her turn one hears a French song, "L'Amour," a couple of coon songs, some interesting and entertaining monologue, and sees eccentric dancing. She possesses a sort of forceful personality which makes her audience laugh whether they will or not. We have seen numbers of dancers who have proved great successes by reason of their eccentricities, but Miss Sabel is unique in the fact that, while bizarre, she is always graceful. She has undoubtedly a certain personal magnetism which compels her audience to await with almost breathless eagerness her next unconventional sally. That she is recalled again and again shows how highly she is appreciated. Miss Sabel writes her own songs, composes her own music, and no one will deny that her work shows originality of theme and treatment. It was once said of her that she had made more songs famous than any ten other artists together who had come from America. She tells us that she has never sung a song that has been taken up by any artist before her, and she would not sing any song printed for public sale. Many of her most successful ditties will be long remembered—some of them for the sensation they caused at the time of their introduction. Amongst those which attained the greatest popularity may be mentioned "A hot time in the old town to-night," which was produced at Koster and Bial's, New York, and created nothing less than a furore both there and in Chicago; "Somebody loves me," "My baby is mighty warm," "I hates to get up early in the morning," "My girl from Dixie," "A bit of blarney," "I am happy when I'm by my baby's side," "When summer comes again," "Streets of London Town" (introduced at the Empire twelve years ago), "Standing on the corner," "Suzanne," "Adam and Eve," and "L'Amour."

In a modest way Miss Sabel claims to be a lingnist. She has sung and acted in Hungarian and French, and understands German fairly well, so that she is quite at home in a Continental city. During her long experience she informs us she has never appeared at a single place of amusement without having been offered a return date. Her career as a vocalist commenced when she was but nine years of age, when she sang in the church choir. From that she went into comic opera with the Bennett-Moulton company; after that into comedy, and then into vaudeville, to which line of business she has permanently attached herself. According to Miss Sabel's statement, she has played a longer engagement at Koster and Bial's, New York, than any other artist, and she was the last performer to sing on that stage prior to the establishment being demolished. It will be remembered that both of the proprietors of this music hall died, and the house was pulled down in order that a huge store might be erected on the site.

In twelve years Miss Sabel has performed for an average of ten and a half months per annum, and during the last four years, we are told, she has not lost a single day. Curiously enough, Miss Sabel's first appearance in England, thirteen years ago, when she performed at the Empire, was coincident with Miss Cissie Loftus's first trip to America.

THEATRICAL PATENTS.

The following abridged descriptions are specially drawn for The Era by Messrs. Hughes and Young, Patent Agents, 55/56, Chancery Lane, London, W.C., who will give advice and assistance free to our readers on all matters relating to the patenting of inventions.

4963. Displaying. Patentee S. R. R. Matthews, 13, St. Mary's Road, Peckham, London, S.E. This invention relates to an apparatus for automatically displaying and illuminating advertisement cards, pictures, or the like. The cards or pictures are inserted from the top into grooved frames pivoted between discs secured to a drum or axle adapted to be rotated in a case by clockwork or the like. The frames are connected by springs to the discs. It then springs past the stop over a lug on a spring lever secured to the case and engages a stop on the lever. It is held stationary by this stop so as to display its other face until the next frame depresses the lever. Electric or other lights arranged above mirrors throw light on the cards etc.

PLAYS FOR AMATEURS.

Amateurs theatricals will no doubt always be a favourite form of entertainment, though, like many other amusements, it has its ebbs and flows of popularity. At all events, the amateur cannot complain that he is left unprovided with plays suitable for the limited scope of his histrionic ambition, and, more frequently, perhaps, the small stage accommodation at his disposal. A volume containing half a dozen "Short Plays for Amateur Acting," by Mrs. Barry Pain (published by Messrs. Chapman and Hall, Ltd.), we can, with confidence recommend to the notice of those in search of something new and suitable for the amateur stage. Mrs. Barry Pain writes excellent dialogue, and has a keen sense of humour. Evidence of this is found in the first play in the volume, entitled "Thirteen." There are three characters. Mrs. Hartop is discovered hurriedly finishing her toilette, her maid assisting. She is presently joined by her husband, whom she implores to dress at once for the dinner that they are about to give in celebration of the anniversary of their wedding day.

MRS. HARTOP: If you knew what ghastly anxiety I've been in! Never, no, never as long as I live, do I give another dinner for fourteen people. Anniversary or no anniversary. It's too risky. It's impossible!

HARTOP: Quite so. May I know what's up!

MRS. HARTOP: It's all right now, thanks to my indomitable energy; but at one time I really thought—just imagine. That fool Jane Renshaw wires me at twelve o'clock this morning that she has got influenza and can't come.

HARTOP: [At dressing-room door, dressing.] Fool to have influenza, or not to come, or to wire, or what?

MRS. HARTOP: Don't be irritating, Percy. To have influenza just to-day, of course. Don't you see that that made us thirteen? [He whistles and disappears.] Well, I immediately wired to May Walker. She couldn't. I wired to Polly Sands. She couldn't. I sent across to Lewis, giving up the sex question altogether. He couldn't. It was four o'clock by this time. And then I remembered that someone had said dear Mrs. Sakes was back, and Tom Sakes still in Bordeaux. So I wired frantically: "Do please dine here to-night as greatest favour. Forgive short notice. Will explain all."

HARTOP: [From dressing-room.] You're sure you wired in just that tone?

MRS. HARTOP: Yes. And she wired back, "delighted." The angel! I could hug her. I feel as if she'd saved my life—all our lives. I say, are you nearly ready?

A telegram arrives stating that Captain, one of the invited guests, cannot come, as he has been summoned to Aldershot, so the number of diners is again reduced to the fatal thirteen! Mrs. Hartop insists that her husband shall absent himself on the plea of illness—he can dine alone in the study. After this scheme has been discussed and arranged, Mrs. Hartop re-enters in wild despair, for Mr. Sakes has brought his wife with him—again the company numbers thirteen. And the announcement has been made to the guests that the master of the house is prostrate. Mrs. Hartop has a fainting fit, and when she recovers, the couple agree to dine by themselves, and the soup is brought on as the curtain descends.

In a duologue, entitled Trust, the two characters are a bachelor of thirty and a fascinating widow of twenty-five, whose jealous suspicions are aroused by seeing the gentleman take a photograph from his despatch box and kiss it. It turns out that the portrait is that of the widow when she was a child, her devoted admirer having surreptitiously obtained the photograph from her mother.

A Lesson in Pearls illustrates how Sir George Fullerton, intent on punishing his young wife for her carelessness in leaving on the table a pearl necklace—his gift on her birthday—places it in his cigarettes case. The lady is led to suppose that the necklace has been stolen, but discovering the cigarette case and its contents, is enabled to turn the tables on her husband in most amusing fashion.

A Vicious Circle is a capital duologue for a lady and gentleman, and there is also a monologue for a lady. This is entitled Undecided, and can be acted without a curtain.

"PUT IT IN BLACK AND WHITE."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—During the twenty-eight years of La Comédie Anglaise fit-up tour, I have never met with any objection to the fortnight's notice rule.—Yours faithfully,

WM. L. DOBELL.

Aspatria, Cumberland, July 3.

A very promising song, and one which "principal boys" will shortly be asking for, is now being sung by Miss Marguerite Broadfoote and Mr. Gus Harris. It is entitled, "I wonder what we'd do without a girl?" is by J. F. Lambe, and has been secured by the Charing Cross-road publishing house.

MRS. FRED GINNETT had a beautiful diamond brooch sent to her at the stage door of the Hippodrome, Liverpool, on the 25th ult., by an anonymous donor. The brooch takes the form of a pheasant designed entirely in valuable stones.

MR. J. C. COE, of the Hammersmith Palace, has approached Miss Teresa Billington, the Suffragist, with a view of inducing her to appear on the stage. Liberal terms were offered, and it was suggested that the boards might prove a valuable platform from which to advocate Women's Suffrage. Mis Billington thinks the suggestion absurd, and refused it, but she must remember that Mrs. Brown-Potter became an apostle of Tariff Reform, when she recited a specially-written ode on the stage of the Tivoli.

THE variety portion of the entertainment at the recent garden party at Buckingham Palace was organised by Mr. Fred Trussell and Mr. Frank Parker, of the London Hippodrome.

RE APPLICATIONS FOR ENGAGEMENTS

All applications by either Artists or their Agents must be made to the Head Office.

Lowest terms must be stated, and distinction made between salaries required for larger and smaller towns.

Vacant dates should be stated. If a list of existing bookings be sent, it will render selection easier.

Artists employing Agents should accredit one only at one time, as the friction arising when several Agents are employed at the same time, all expecting the one booking to go through each of them, often renders it expedient to avoid that booking altogether rather than give undeserved offence to several Agents.

New Acts seeking engagements, or turns not rebooked (possibly because they have played a series of dates without introducing new business), will facilitate matters by having their acts seen by our District Managers. Their Districts and Postal Addresses are as follows:—

MANCHESTER, LIVERPOOL, AND DISTRICT.
MR. ALAN W. YOUNG,
Empire Theatre, Liverpool.

EDINBURGH, GLASGOW, NEWCASTLE, AND DISTRICT.
MR. S. GETHING,
Empire Theatre, Glasgow.

LEEDS, SHEFFIELD, HULL, BRADFORD, AND DISTRICT.
MR. T. GERALD MORTON,
Empire Palace, Leeds.

BIRMINGHAM, NOTTINGHAM, LEICESTER, AND DISTRICT.
MR. HATTON WHARTON,
Empire Theatre, Nottingham.

SOUTH WALES DISTRICT.
MR. W. LEA,
Empire Theatre, Cardiff.

LONDON DISTRICT.
MR. WILLIAM COLLINS,
The Empire, Shepherd's Bush, W.

N.B.—Mr. OSWALD STOLL or Mr. FRANK ALLEN can be seen by appointment on all matters arising out of the above, and for the discussion of entirely new Numbers.

All Artists or Agents who communicate with our District Representatives must have made definite applications, in accordance with above directions, to the Head Office, at the same time, or just previously.

THE CHRONOPHONE

IS A WORLD-WIDE SUCCESS.

Australia, America, India, New Zealand, British Islands & Continent.

Mr. HARRY RICKARDS, of Australia,
Well known in theatrical circles as one of the shrewdest of managers, has arranged with us for the sending of A NUMBER OF COMPLETE CHRONOPHONE OUTFITS TO TOUR AUSTRALIA, gladly paying us a handsome premium to hold exclusive rights for SIX MONTHS. Undoubtedly Mr. RICKARDS can recognise "A Take." CAN YOU? We can do the same for you. You need not fear keen and cutting competition.

There is only one Chronophone, that is 'Gaumont's.'

No. 1090. HIS DAUGHTER AND HIS GOLD.

An old miser, after taking every care that no one can possibly spy on his actions, goes to his safe and opens it. During this time a young man who is concealed beneath the table comes out, carefully watching the old chap in case he glances round, goes to the window, and unfastens a tear he has made in the blind. He then quietly quits the room and goes to the window, where he is enabled to watch all that goes on within. The man within opens his safe and takes out his cashbox, where, with miserly delight, he counts over his possessions, handling each piece of gold as if it were some priceless treasure. After he has satisfied himself to the fullest extent, he carefully places it all back in the safe and leaves the room. As soon as he has gone, the watcher outside quickly enters, and is joined by the miser's daughter, who apparently meets him there by arrangement. She has a letter in her hand, which she has written for her father, and once again she reads it through. The man picking up the key from the table unlocks the safe, and proposes to his coadjutor to take the cashbox, to which she very reluctantly agrees. When he has seized all the coin he can from the safe the girl goes off with him.

Soon after the old man rushes in, and with dismay sees his open safe. Picking up the letter which the eloped couple have left, he gets quite furious, and taking a revolver goes out in search for them. Finding his daughter alone, after a successful search, he threatens her with his revolver. Her lover coming on the scene seizes the old man's wrist and points the weapon upwards out of danger. After a short struggle he gains possession, and turns the tables by pointing it at the father. The girl rushing up falls fainting at the feet of her parent, thus causing the old man's heart to melt, and he kneels with anxiety at the side of his daughter. Her lover, also very anxious, abstains from his threatening attitude, and together they try to restore her. The father, seeing how fond they are of one another, puts aside his previous harshness, and joining their hands, gives them his blessing.

Thinking he is no longer wanted, the old parent is just about to depart, when they both run to his side and lead him back to the most comfortable chair in the room. Thus he gains two good props in his old age—a little more love for humanity and a little less for his gold.

Length 250 feet. (Metres, 76.25.) Price £6 5s. 0d.

No. 1095. THE PILL MAKER'S MISTAKE.

Length 300 feet. (Metres, 91.50.) Price: £7 10s. 0d.

AUTUMN TOURS.

WE ARE NOW VERY BUSY CLEANING DRESSES FOR AUTUMN TOURS,
but have plenty of room, and, like Oliver Twist WE ASK FOR MORE.

We are also very busy Cleaning and Renovating Tableaux Curtains and Draperies from London and Country Theatres and Music Halls.

We still hold the field as Cleaners and Dyers to the Theatrical and Music Hall Professions. This fact is clearly proved by the unsolicited testimonials we are continually receiving.

Professional work takes precedence over all other orders.

By Special Arrangement

THE LAW OF COPYRIGHT FOR ACTOR AND COMPOSER.

BY ALBERT A. STRONG, LL.B.

Mr. A. A. Strong has published a book on "The Law of Copyright for Actor and Composer," which should be in the hands of everyone who is obliged to know about this perplexing subject. Dramatic copyright in England is in a particularly unsatisfactory state, and it is much to be hoped that ere long some more rational method of securing protection for a play may be devised than the slovenly and sometimes costly "production for copyright purposes," which is at present required.—St James's Gazette.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

EARLY TRAINS.

The Railway Companies are moving with the times, and are despatching many morning trains earlier than hitherto. This will enable subscribers and advertisers in the provincial towns to get copies of "The Era" in time for the breakfast table. Advertisers are requested to forward their advertisements in time to reach the office on Thursday.

FIFTY YEARS OF THE DRAMA. 1850—1900.

(COPYRIGHT.)

In these columns it is proposed to give a strictly alphabetical arrangement of the titles of plays produced during the last fifty years. It will be the most complete list ever published, and should prove invaluable to authors desiring to discover whether a certain title has ever been used, and when. To members of the dramatic profession it will be useful in determining the dates of plays in which they have achieved successes. Our readers are politely requested to advise us of any omission or inaccuracy which they may notice.

This list as soon as complete will be published in cheap book form.

THE half-yearly general meeting of members of the Heads of Departments' Association was held on Thursday evening. The financial statement to June and auditor's report was submitted and approved. The committee reported that over 900 circulars had been issued to heads of departments in London and provinces, relating to the objects and benefits of the society. Plans for securing further additions to the membership were considered, which will be laid before the members. It was decided to co-operate to promote a joint concert as in previous years for the benefit of the working staff benevolent funds. The question of a share-out society was deferred with a view of a joint meeting of the various committees being convened to consider the matter.

PROVINCIAL THEATRICALS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS.)

ABERDEEN.—HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Robert Arthur; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. C. Cavanah, C.A.—This week Mr. Edmund Tearle and his company appear in The Ticket-of-Leave Man. Mr. Tearle plays Brierly with a great amount of skill, and Miss Kate Clinton is equally successful in the part of May Edwards. All the other members of the company act capably.

PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Directors, Messrs. Rosen and Bliss; Resident-Manager, Mr. Walter Gilbert.—Dr. Walford Bodie had a great reception when he appeared on the stage on Monday. His various experiments were followed with breathless interest, and the vast audiences were delighted with the ingenuity and dexterity with which they were carried out. The Doctor is supported by an excellent company, including Mr. Charles Diamond and Miss Beatrice, who give an admirable vocal and instrumental turn; Halma, an exceptionally clever juggler; Miss Dolly Robson, vocalist; Miss Nelly Langtry, vocalist; Signor Bandoni; Miss Bella Skew, burlesque actress; the Sisters Poole; and Belford and Mars.

ABERYSTWYTH. — COLISEUM. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. D. Phillips.—Prof. Hocking's Anglo-American Vaudeville company is this week occupying the boards here. On Monday night there was a crowded audience, and Prof. Inman Hocking caused much laughter with his hypnotism and electrical performance; the mystic, Violet Raie, is also clever in her thought-transmission performance; the Bioscope, with the latest pictures, together with songs and dances, contribute towards the evening's entertainment.

MARKET HALL.—Mr. Fawcett Lomax opened here on Monday with Rip Van Winkle. The company, which is an excellent one, gave every satisfaction, and was well received.

ACCRINGTON. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. Willmot, Vandy, Potter, and Weisker.—On Monday night the above hall was crowded to excess to witness the performance of a fine company of artists. The top of the bill is the Geni Family in their new act in a Spanish amphitheatre, which is remarkably well presented; the Three Saymons are very clever; Mlle. Zelda is an expert performer, and is well received; Mr. Clarence L. Winston must be complimented on his excellent voice; Baroni and Kemp are a pair of the finest quick-change artists we have had here; Will Llyton is very good; and the Amphletts do well. Some very clever pictures conclude the entertainment.

ALDERSHOT.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Clarence Sounes; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Williams.—The Woman who Gambles—a drama with a series of sensational incidents and thrilling situations—is proving a much-appreciated fare by the patrons here, Mr. T. Morton Powell's company, giving a capital interpretation of the drama. Miss Gertrude Hunt as the Countess puts plenty of force into the embodiment of this important rôle. Mr. E. E. Ashby's is a clever impersonation of the Count; and Mr. Horatio Sinclair plays the villain, Baron Cratzlaw, with consistent power and intensity; Mr. Reginald Fox's Lieut. Karl is natural, and Mr. J. Sherwin is good as Stamboloff. Miss Florence Halton gives a capable portrayal of Cora; Miss Rhoda Clighton is acceptable as Stella; Messrs. F. Prior, F. Howard, and Miss F. Hall do well in the comedy scenes. Mr. E. H. Clarke is stage-manager; whilst Mr. W. P. Carr is business-manager of the company.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE.—THEATRE ROYAL. — Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Chas. Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Fairbairn.—The drama, entitled A Traitor Prince, well played by Messrs. Beaudyn and Livesey's company, is here again; Mr. G. M. Montanini realises very vividly one's ideal of the fiendish Hindoo prince; Miss Hesta Sandford gives an equally picturesque and clever delineation of the snake charmer, Vashti; Miss Rose Routledge depicts, with many telling touches of pathos and with dramatic force, the part of Lela Vane, the heroine; Mr. Ernest A. Duval is a manly hero as Lieut. Derrick. The humorous business is in the hands of Miss Kitty Thomas, Miss Clara O'Grady, and Messrs. Edmund O'Grady and E. Fenton. Messrs. Victor Rae and A. W. Norman are capable exponents of minor parts.

EMPIRE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. Percy B. Broadhead; Resident Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Leech.—The programme here includes Kiaro, in his clever continetal speciality; C. H. Charlton, society conjurer; Hector and Sultan, knockabouts and smart dancers; Wallace Muirhead, tenor singer; M. and Mlle. Henris, an attractive couple of artists; Lambert and Robertson, in Scots' Folks Wooing; the Three Panamas, acrobats; and Carl Mysto.

BARROW-IN-FURNESS. — ROYALTY THEATRE AND OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Stone.—Messrs. Beaudyn, Livesay, and Hardy's company is occupying the boards here this week with A Soldier's Revenge, a tale of the days of Cromwell. Mr. Harry Belding as Ironhand the Avenger gives an excellent embodiment; Mr. Robert Foules as Sir Marsden Mardyke, Mr. Howard Hardy as Mathew Mardyke, and Mr. Geo. Harvey as Shadrack Shadwell leave nothing to be desired in their respective parts; Miss Gertrude Gilman as Ruby Avondale plays a prominent part in the cast, as also does Miss Cecilia Crawford as Judith Shadwell, and the Betsy of Miss Annie Clunn is very good.

HIS MAJESTY'S THEATRE.—Lessees and Managers, Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Roulledge.—The British Empire Photo and Variety Company continues to draw excellent houses here. In Honour Bound was presented on Friday night by the students of the Furness Academy of Dramatic Art.

TIVOLI.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Signor Pepi; Stage-Manager, Mr. Tom Whiting.—The French troupe of acrobatic comedy cyclists top the bill, and prove a great success on this their first visit to Barrow; Fred Cary, eccentric comedian, is an exceedingly funny turn; the Bros. Obo are successful with new business; Katie Butler is as popular as ever; and Miss Minnie Fenton, Scotch comedienne, wins much applause.

BELFAST.—PALACE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Warden, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Fred W. Warden; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Freece; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Harris.—Hackenschmidt, the wonderful wrestler, has drawn enormous crowds with his remarkable performance; the Pender Troupe of pantomimists create roars of laughter with their absurdity, Hands Up; or, The Bold, Bad Highwayman; and Mr. Bert Woodward, "the cycling coon," has been accorded a splendid reception. Miss Alexandra Edwin is a delightful ballad vocalist; and the Stilt Walkers appear to great advantage in their funny speciality. Also appearing are Mr. Johnny Fuller, in his clever wire act; Cole and Rags, comedy jugglers; Mr. Frank Couch, local comedian; and the Palace pictures.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. John A. Walker.—The Howard Brothers have been most successful with their remarkably clever banjo performance, and are aptly described as "wizards with the flying banjos." A hearty reception has nightly been extended to the Casino Comedy Four, who delight all with their vocalism, while their comedy evokes much merriment; Duncan and Godfrey appear in their well-acted coster remance, Me and 'Er, which takes immensely; and Miss Maggie Rimmer is a charming comedienne and capital dansense; Mr. J. P. Ling appears in a mimetic monologue, his imitations being very realistic; and Mr. Chas. Craston is a droll comedian; Calile and Walker, a smart comedy duo; and the Bioscope, with new pictures, also contribute to the bill.

NEW ALHAMBRA THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — General-Manager, Mr. Henry T. Douns.—The great success of the dramatic season here continues, and on Monday a crowded audience greeted the production of A Fiend of a Woman. W. Hilliard Fox was a manly George Bevan, speaking his lines with the utmost effect; and the rôle of the heroine, Nelly Bevan, was cleverly interpreted by that talented emotional actress Miss Nina Blake-Adams. The villainies of Dr. Nicola were realistically enacted by Mr. Stephen E. Scanlan. Miss Beryl Ravenswood, as Lady Aldin, gave a rendering of a difficult part. The humour of the piece was capitally sustained by Mr. Luke Forster (a big favourite here) as Billy Budge; and he was ably assisted by Miss Evelyn Marrable, a charming Patty Malone. Mr. Herbert Cecil deserves much commendation for his clever assumption of Harry Bevan; and other rôles were creditably sustained by Miss Ada Arnott, Messrs. A. Jones, Victor Gordon, and Cecil Ravenswood. The staging of the piece reflects much credit on Mr. Herbert Cecil.

BILSTON. — AL-FRESCO PAVILION.—Lessee, Mr. Harry Battersby.—The entertainments by the Imperial Pierrots are sailing merrily along. Gilroy, the ventriloquist, and Professor Arnold, the conjurer, are the latest arrivals, and please immensely. Miss Minnie Newman, soprano; Mr. Tom Griffiths, baritone; and Messrs. Syd Bazley and Alf Brookes, comedians, change their songs nightly. The programme also contains a laughable sketch, as well as the Bioscope.

BIRKENHEAD.—NEW THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee, Mr. W. W. Kelly; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Pell.—Mr. E. Hoggan-Armadale and his capable company are doing big business here. On Monday an overflowing audience had the pleasure of witnessing a capital representation of The Sleigh Bells, Mr. Hoggan-Armadale giving a masterly rendering of Mathias; Mr. F. Wilberforce played Christian with force and acumen; Miss Georgina Wynter displayed charm and skill as Madame Mathias, whose daughter Annette was carefully played by Miss Violet Macaire; and the lighter portions of the piece were admirably sustained by Mr. David Beattie as Hermann and Mr. T. G. Westland as Fritz. Mr. Arthur Rose rendered excellent service, and the remaining parts were in able hands. The time-honoured farce Box and Cox served as a curtain-raiser. On subsequent evenings The Vicar of Wakefield, David Garrick, and The Lady of Lyons have been played.

ARGYLE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. D. J. Clarke.—A decided novelty has a prominent place in the programme in the appearance of D'Arc's marionettes, which are certainly a revelation in the way of skilful manipulation. The Wakeman Quartette of Vocalists, including Miss Nancy Bruce, Mr. Charles Wakeman, Mr. Herbert Watts, and Mr. George Winden, are an acquisition, and the Korries furnish an attractive turn; Mr. George French is a versatile comedian; and other artists include Miss Ida Brophy soubrette; Craig, Roze, and Craig, in an imposing gymnastic display; Ray and Mills, eccentric jugglers; and Brown's Royal Bioscope.

BIRMINGHAM. — ALEXANDRA THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Lester Collingwood; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Bernardo.—A Woman's Redemption has been played here with excellent results by Mr. James Hare and company. Mr. Hare himself does admirable work as the Hon. Bernard Sutcliffe; Miss Irene Clifford as Ruth wins a high meed of praise and sympathy by means of her skilled acting; Mr. Percy Brown is eulogised and cheered for his manly presentment of the young cleric, John Ganthony; Miss Ethel Bracewell in a fresh and winning manner portrays the heroine, Mary Griffiths, and Mr. Albert H. Clarke personates the farmer, Reuben Griffiths, with marked success; Mr. Herbert M. King suggests the character of the ne'er-do-well in telling style; Mr. Joe Bracewell is a great favourite as the Shakespeare-quoting Leonatus Lowe, supported by Miss Jenny Hallworth as Sally Slaccaby; and Master Freddie Bentley as Claudius Lowe contributes cleverly to this engrossing and excellently staged play.

CARLTON THEATRE, SALTLEY.—Owner and Manager, Mr. Arthur Carlton; Resident-Manager, Mr. James Alexander.—Kennedy's Komiks continue in possession, and this week introduce many fresh additions. Mme. Constance Bellamy has added to the enjoyment and success of the programme with her beautiful rendering of old English ballads; Mr. Freddie Marston, a clever comedian with a capital voice, is another great favourite; and Miss Elsie Marston has won favour with her brightly-rendered songs; the Sisters Bathurst, Clarence Turner and Mollie Revell, Kine and Kirby, F. L. Levey, and an entirely new selection of electric animated pictures have also attracted much attention and praise. Friday night was set apart for the benefit of Freddie Marston.

THEATRE ROYAL, ASTON.—Lessee, Mr. Charles Barnard; General-Manager, Mr. E. Hewitson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank Whittles.—Darkness, which is a cleverly dramatised version of Guy Thorne's famous novel, "When it was Dark," has been represented here to large houses by Mrs. Morton Powell's company. Mr. Cyril Austen-Lee by his finished acting brings the rôle of the Rev. Basile Gortre into speedy favour; Mr. Ernest Griffin presents the character of the millionaire, Schwabe, in an intensely dramatic and fascinating manner; Mr. Edward Valentine is likewise excellent in the part of Sir Robert Llewellyn; Mr. Louis Lingard plays the rôle of the newspaper correspondent, Harold Spense, with real aplomb; and Mr. Henry Heller as the Rev. Mr. Byars is well suited. Mrs. Morton Powell is excellent as Helena Byars; Miss Laura Walker is eminently successful as Gertrude Hunt, and Mr. Millar Wilson in his cleverly humorous rôle of Gayfly, Miss Nellie Freeland as Gracie Goldeye, and others prove of exceptional merit.

BOTANICAL GARDENS, EDGBASTON.—Mr. Patrick Kirwan's company of idyllic players gave here on Monday and Tuesday pastoral performances of A Midsummer Night's Dream. Mr. Kirwan and his company are new to Birmingham, but their performance at once ensured their popularity. As Bottom, Mr. Kirwan acted with much unction, and his associates, Messrs. George Hawtrey, John Kelt, E. G. Venning, J. M. Napper, and St. Clair imbued the scenes with humour appropriate to the comedy. A charming Oberon was revealed in Miss Phyllis Relph; Miss Josephine Arthur was vocally and histrionically successful as the Fairy Queen, and Miss Barbara Guthrie's Puck was a notable embodiment. Mr. Douglas Alington as Theseus, Miss Elizabeth Holt as Hippolyta, Mr. Frank Ellison as Lysander, Mr. Gerald Saffrey as Demetrius, Miss Jessie Stanton as Hermia, and Miss Dorothy Milne as Helena acted in good style, and the lyrics were given full expression.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. A. W. Matcham.—Ernest Shand heads an excellent programme here, which is attracting large audiences. The patter of this quaint comedian is exceedingly funny. Lockhart's elephants, presented by Capt. Taylor, are paying a return visit; while the absurd attitudes of Lady Julia, an ape, are most amusing; Francis displays much skill with cannon balls; Bessie Butt is an attractive soubrette; and other popular turns are J. Alexandra and company in a sketch; the Jagos, duettists, dancers, and baton manipulators; Walton and Lester, burlesque wizards; and the Mackweys Trio, in a wire act.

GAIETY THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Albert Bushell.—Tom Edwards, Birmingham's popular ventriloquist, presents his entertainment to appreciative houses; the Trapnell Family, in their clever acrobatic display, are loudly applauded; and the Two Errolls have a smart leaping act; the Arthur Lloyd Trio are amusing in their sketch; Les Belles Americaines sing and dance themselves into favour; as also does Annie Laurie; the excellent singing of Lade Henderson is loudly applauded; Charles Mildare and Minnie D'Aubyn are also in the bill.

HIPPODROME.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—The popular attraction here is Little Tich, who is entertaining crowded houses. He has some new songs which "catch on," and are repeatedly encored; Cyril Carle gives an effective rendering of Charles Godfrey's song, "Dreams"; Bert Brantford, the Harlem Brothers, Jack and Evelyn, Will Godwin, Evelyn Taylor, and Margaret Agnes all come in for a good share of applause.

BORDESLEY PALACE. — Resident-Manager, Mr. Edward Foster.—Miss Dolly Elsworthy and company are presenting the sketch, The Orange Girl, which is played and staged with much excellence; Miss Elsworthy making an ideal Nell Gwynne. Belloni's Cockatoos are both clever and amusing; Binns and Binns have a smart comedy musical act; Ernest Tilbury and Harry Weldon, in a burlesque on coon songs, are both applauded; and another popular turn is supplied by Alcide Capitaine.

BLACKPOOL.—HER MAJESTY'S OPERA HOUSE.—General Manager, Mr. Jno. R. Huddlestone.—Mr. W. W. Kelly's company in A Royal Divorce, continues its visit for another week. Miss Edith Cole is as successful as ever in the part of Josephine, and Mr. Fredk. Moyes makes the most of Napoleon. Miss Elizabeth Watson very ably plays the part of Marie Louise, and the other parts are equally well placed.

GRAND THEATRE.—Owner and Manager, Mr. F. Sergenson.—The lively musical comedy Sergeant Brue, of the C Division, is being played here this week by Messrs. Lockwood and Crossman's company. A good house attended on Monday to give the piece, with its sparkling music and abundant humour, a good welcome. Mr. Arthur Reynolds, as Sergeant Brue, is the life and soul of the evening; Miss Hebe Bliss is charming and appreciated as Lady Bickenhall; whilst Mr. Charles McHagan makes the most of Crookie Scrubbs. Mr. Cecil Burt, Mr. E. Percy Rogers, and Miss Mary Hay are all good in their respective parts. The singing and mounting are well above the average.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Waller.—Harry Lauder retains his position at the top of the bill for another week, and his reception is as enthusiastic as ever. Charlene and Charlene, the clever jugglers, are here again; Haig and Novel, in their acrobatic comedy act; Jake Friedman, the one-man opera; Sterling and Love, in a comedy, A Domestic Musical Squabble; Brothers Redmond, acrobatic comedians; Rebla, the comedy juggler; Terry and Bentley, comedy duo; and the Palace pictures make up a good programme.

HIPPODROME.—Lessees, Messrs. Whitehead and Ramsden; General-Manager, Mr. T. P. Dingnan.—Miss Billie Barlow, with her up-to-date songs, is on top of a good programme here; Carter Livesey and Lilian Rosebery are seen in their funny skit, The Would-be Actors Rehearsing a Drama. Other capital turns are provided by Miss Elsie Barle, comedienne; Martine and Son, singing picture artists; Four Jumels, in a musical act; the Redferns (Rubie and Elsie), banjoists, vocalists and dancers; Violas, the White Mahatmas; Mark Ollive, in a whistling scena, assisted by Miss Daisy Baldry; Mlle. de Rose, the lady Foli; MacBunker, the mountebank; Ford and Hanson, American musical millionaires; J. V. Hawtry, actor-vocalist, and the Royal Bioscope.

WINTER GARDENS PAVILION.—General-Manager, Mr. Jno. R. Huddlestone.—The new ballet, In Sunny Spain; or The Troubles of a Tourist, is now in full swing, and being greatly appreciated. In addition, Horace Goldin is mystifying the audience with his clever illusions, and a capital programme is made up of Dr. Jules Angelos's Tableaux Vivants; New York Comedy Four, singing comedians; the Family Balagner, acrobats; Scala Girls, vocalists and dancers; Castillian serenaders; Mlle. Lotezina, in her clever trapeze act; and the Graphoscope.

TOWER CIRCUS. — General-Manager, Mr. G. H. Harrop.—A capital list of artists are entertaining the patrons of the popular "Circus." They are: Kellinos, acrobats; Family C. Lecussons, exposition of horsemanship; Marosso, American jockey; Duncan's troupe of dogs; Musical Johnstons; Paul Conchas, who juggles with real Krupp and shrapnel shells; Willie Hale, globe expert and hoop manipulator; Klein Family, acrobats and musical cylists; August and September, comedy boys; the Novellos, in an equilibristic act; and the Finneys, champion swimmers.

BOLTON.—GRAND THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. F. Elliston; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry Kenyon.—The Gamester of Metz is here this week and is being admirably presented by a company under the direction of Mr. Charles March (the author), who himself appears with marked success as Paul Baldot; Captain Bedaire has an excellent exponent in Mr. John B. Murray, and the part of General de Montparasse is well placed with Mr. Fred Aldworth. Miss Eva Lyndhurst sustains effectively the character of Paul's mother, the Countess Baldot. Other principal characters are well taken by Messrs. W. G. Dudeney, Wilfred Protheroe, Montagu Corri, P. Wentworth, W. A. Brayne, and Misses Una Lane and Cissie Haighton.

BOSCOMBE.—HIPPODROME.—Joint proprietors, Messrs. Frederick Mouillot and Walter de Frece; General-Manager, Mr. J. de Frece; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. Ball.—Chung Ling Soo is the principal attraction here this week, and his marvellous sleight of hand causes much wonderment; the Brothers Dean give a neat exhibition of step dancing; Ernest Montefiore and company appear in a dramatic scena, The Little Colonel, in which not the least pleasing item is the singing of Miss Lilian Rose; F. V. St. Clair gets a big reception for his topical songs; Will Van Allen, the tramp musician, plays the banjo with great skill; Mark Leslie, coon comedian and dancer. Three Prestons, in their absurdity The Liftman's Rise; and Chas. Sloman, comedian, are also included in the programme.

BOSTON.—PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Geo. Saphrini.—The native choir from Jamaica, who are touring under the direction of Messrs. Jones and Douglas, commenced a week's engagement here on Monday. Their initial performance drew a crowded and enthusiastic audience. It is impossible to imagine anything more picturesque and dramatic than their rendering of the "Folk" songs of Jamaica in native dress; Mr. Drysdale's beautiful tenor voice was heard to advantage in "Good Night, Beloved"; Mr. J. Pacter Ramsay, bass vocalist, was well received; Mr. Nation was recalled for his pianoforte selection.

BRADFORD.—PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. F. Laidler; Acting-Manager, Mr. N. Hepworth.—The revival of the late Dion Boucicault's famous drama The Octoroon is interesting large audiences here this week, and Messrs. Granville and Thorne's company combines admirably in portraying the thrilling incidents reminiscent of the days of slavery. The fiendish Jacob M'Closky is a powerfully sustained effort on the part of Mr. J. O. Stewart, who makes the character sufficiently repulsive. Salem Scudder, the overseer, has an able exponent in Mr. Hugh Montgomery, who scores in the part. Mr. W. G. Clements is good as the captain of the "Magnolia" steamer, and the Auctioneer is capitally played by Mr. F. M. Thorne. Miss Leslie Warner in the title-rôle wins sympathy. Pete is humorously played by Mr. Harry Howe; Mr. H. Earlsmere fills the part of George Peyton satisfactorily, and excellent work is done in the minor rôles by Mr. J. W. Wilkinson, Mr. Phil Harper, Miss Maud Russell, Miss Marie Harcourt, and Miss Florence Thorne. Much of the new scenery, painted by Mr. E. Egerton of Bradford, is artistic and effective.

THE EMPIRE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Percival Craig.—Mr. Harry Tate is here this week with his funny sketch Fishing providing hilarious fun; J. W. Rickaby with his quaint comedy elicits much laughter; the Northern Troupe of Dancers reappear with their accustomed success; a very fine and picturesque entertainment is submitted by the Sutcliffe Family, Scotch pipers, dancers, and smart acrobats; in her usual bright and animated style Lily Langtry submits a song and dance; Guy Ryder is an accomplished sifleur who scores well; with their wind instruments and capital comedy the Warsaw Brothers are very entertaining; Rezene and Robini, droll as ever, are on a return visit; Tom Woottwell provides a capital comedy turn which wins favour, and there are some highly diverting films shown by the American Bioscope.

PALACE THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. H. C. Arnold, jun.—An entertaining turn in singing and dancing is submitted by McDonald and Huntingdon, and Leah Arden renders operatic ballads with skill and taste. In their humorous burlesque business Fields and Lewis are entertaining. Excellent character comedy is provided by Hyram Travers, Osborne and Brookes present an exceedingly humorous musical comedy sketch cleverly. In her descriptive songs Millie Denham is graceful and successful. The duets submitted by Belrose and De Velin meet with warm marks of appreciation. In their Irish absurdity Bridget's Idea Dick Cruickshank and company provoke much laughter. Excellent contributions to the programme are the finely illustrated songs of Miss Gertie Moore; and some entertaining films are shown by Raymond's Bio-Tableaux.

AL-FRESCO PAVILION.—Mabel Sinclair, the lady ventriloquist, is a distinct acquisition to the smart company this week at this resort.

BRIDLINGTON.—ROYAL PRINCE'S PARADE. — Manager, Mr. Charles Palmer.—An enormous audience assembled in the Grand Pavilion on Monday. Mr. Flockton-Forster and his company met with a hearty reception, and their programme was a capital one, the various songs and concerted numbers being capitally rendered. A clever sketch, The Secret, gave the members of the company an opportunity of showing their versatility. Mr. Le Butt as Captain Vallare and Miss Eileen Hope as Madame Vallare were at home in their well-played characters; Mr. Flockton-Forster as Mr. Greenwood, gave a most amusing rendering of the part, and was capably supported by Miss E. Lonsdale as Miss Greenwood; and Mr. A. Richardson was very laughable as the butler. In the Floral Pavilion Mr. Elliston Webb is the vocalist at the promenade concerts, and his powerful tenor voice is heard to advantage in some of the old English songs. Herr Maurice is also a great attraction at Herr Sigmund Winternitz's concerts, his finely executed pianoforte solos being always re-demanded. Mr. Emmerson's Loyal Dominion Picture company is showing a very fine series of animated pictures in the Grand Pavilion, the series of colour pictures including a very fine set, "The Butterfly's revenge" being especially brilliant; and Mr. Palmer, the general-manager of the Royal Prince's Parade, is evidently quite hitting the taste of the visitors by the show he is giving them in this new attraction.

NEW SPA AND GARDENS.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Henry Hague.—Herr Simon Wurm and his Imperial Viennese Band are giving special promenade concerts this week. The vocalists are Mr. Dan Billington, the popular baritone, and Mr. D. J. Jones, a good tenor. Mr. Foden Williams has been delightful in his humorous entertainments. Mr. Sydney James's strolling players have with them this week that excellent dancer and soloist, Miss Madeline Rossiter, who is such a favourite with the Spa audiences.

THE PALACE.—Manager, Mr. A. Hubner.—Miss Frances Haskoll is the star of the programme with her rendering of ditties in the illustrated song series; Gall and Frank St. John continue their success in their well-rendered musical entertainment and clever dances; Bruce and Ross, in comedy duologues; the Royal Temple Trio, vocalists; the "Vocal Chameleon," a transformation mystery; and Mr. Hubner's animated pictures make up a big evening's programme. The Palace Pierrots in the gardens give some excellent entertainments each afternoon.

BRIGHTON. — GRAND THEATRE. — Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter.—Messrs. Alfred Northway and W. V. Garrod's company opened here on Monday with The Prodigal Parson, and has been doing good business. Mr. W. V. Garrod submitted a masterly enactment of the Rev. Tom Godley, whose wife was represented by Miss Bertha Kingston with great feeling and artistic finish. Mr. Alfred Northway achieved distinct success with his forcible and convincing impersonation of Enoch Jaggins, and Mr. Frank Dallas was highly effective as Ben. The comedy element was admirably sustained by Mr. Percy Dawsone as Phil Drive, and Miss Lydia Hart as Gretchen Von Crans; and the remaining characters were satisfactorily rendered.

ALHAMBRA.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. L. Graydon; General-Manager, Mr. Ernest Lepard.—There is a first-class company here this week. Alec Hurley and his coster comedians win hearty applause for their admirable performance of The Coster's Friendly Lead, in which Alec Hurley is very prominent as the chairman, "thick-eared Jim"; the Three Amaranths, Continental acrobatic dancers, contribute a series of delightful and clever dances in splendid style; Sam Mayo, a prime favourite, is enthusiastically received in his latest successes; Griff, in a new and original act entitled The Clown in Apartments, is as entertaining as ever; Tennyson and Wallis are very amusing comedians; Dick Williams scores heavily with his cleverly executed banjo solos; George Antill is an eccentric comedian; Dorothy Vane is a pleasing comedienne and dancer; and the Alhambrascope pictures are, as usual, highly interesting and amusing.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietors, Messrs. Barrasford and Smith; Managing-Director, Mr. Thomas Barrasford.—A very attractive programme is sustained here this week. Maidie Scott, "just a comedienne," evokes great enthusiasm by the winsome and delightful manner in which she renders her quaintly humorous songs; Wilbur Hill and Willette Whitaker are charmingly effective in their unique novelty in music and song; the Four Athos, original ball manipulators and novelty acrobats, are decidedly clever; Leonard Russell, baritone vocalist, is well received; the Lyons Trio, pantomimists, submit a very amusing turn; Lily Lena, comedienne, is vivacious, and vocally very effective; Charles Vincent, comedian, sings a capital medley of popular songs; Bijou Russell, coon singer and sand dancer, merits warm praise; the Donaldson Brothers and Ardel are seen to advantage in their original and laughter-provoking pantomimical speciality entitled A Zoological Comedy; Nora Emerald, soubrette and dancer, is a dainty and winsome artist; W. B. Raby is a quaint comedian; and the Barrascope pictures are amusing.

WEST PIER.—Secretary and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. A. D. Norman.—Mr. Louis Calvert's company is here this week with the delightful play Sunday. Miss Emélie Polini sustains the title-rôle with charming ingenuousness and vivacity; Mr. Leonard Pagden gives a very fine impersonation of Colonel Brinthorpe; Mr. G. Wallace Johnson makes the most of his few opportunities as Arthur Brinthorpe; Mr. Ernest A. Douglas presents a capital character sketch as Tom Oxley; Miss Aimée Murray is a dignified Mrs. Naresby; and Miss Muriel Pope is earnest and impressive as the nun. Admirable portrayals of Sunday's Wild West friends, Towzer, Davy, Lively, and Jacky, are given by Messrs. William Lockhart, Sidney Rennef, T. Norman Walter, and Arthur Vezin respectively.

NEW PALACE PIER THEATRE.—Messrs. Maskelyne and Devant's mysteries are attracting crowded and delighted audiences here this week. Mr. Maskelyne submits inimitable feats of dexterity. The magical farce, Doctor Hardley's Experiment, is irresistibly funny. Mr. David Devant, assisted by Miss Dora Devant, is highly successful in Mental Magnetism, while his illusions in The Problem of Diogenes are bewildering and astonishing. Mr. John Warren introduces his magic kettle, and is effective in The Burmese Gong.

AQUARIUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. J. J. Sallmayer; Acting-Manager, Mr. Henry de Groot.—Kardoc, the jail-breaker and handcuff king, is a great attraction here, and performs some astonishing feats; Madame Rosini's toy menagerie is also a popular turn; and others who contribute to the entertainment are Harry Keeble, versatile character comedian; Gipsy Ann, and her famous fortune-telling dog Rosie; Miss Minnie Letta's Sporting Girls, who repeat their refined performance; and the Majors, who are also re-engaged.

DEVIL'S DYKE.—Proprietress, Mrs. M. Barrasford.—A singing competition held here on Tuesday afternoon attracted sixteen entrants. The prize offered by Mrs. Barrasford was a gold medal and a week's salaried engagement in London. The three judges failed to arrive at a definite decision, though they intimated that Mr. George Hide and Miss A. Taylor were first and second respectively in the afternoon's competition. All the singers will be given an opportunity of competing again next Tuesday afternoon.

BRISTOL.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Ernest Carpenter; Resident-Manager, Mr. W. F. Crowe.—There was a large attendance here on Monday evening, attracted by the well-known Irish drama, The Shaughraun, which was well staged and capitally played by Mr. Ernest Carpenter's company. Conn had an excellent exponent in Mr. George H. Asquin; Mr. Ronald Adair was highly satisfactory as Captain Molineux; Mr. Marmaduke Wetherell acted expressively as Robert Ffolliott; Mr. H. C. Lanceley made a good part of Father Doolan; and both Mr. Paul Barry-Lewers and Mr. Louis Palgrave displayed power and consistency in the rôles of Corry Kinchela and Harvey Duff. Arte O'Neale and Claire Ffolliott were both rendered in pleasing and artistic style by Miss Lydia Mannington and Miss Daisy Halling; Miss Lottie Wentworth was amusing as Mrs. O'Kelly; and Miss Lucy Murray was delightfully vivacious and attractive as Moya, her scenes with Conn going capitally.

PALACE.—Resident-Manager, Mr. Horace Livermore; Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. F. V. Welchman.—Wizard Stone and Irene Stone are here with their sensational motor cycle act, "The Globe of Life," in a huge steel cage sphere, the act being both daring and effective. The Bouncing Dillions (Willie and Hilda) do a smart act, and prizes are offered to amateur competitors; Fred Collins, Scotch comedian, has some amusing songs; Evie Hamilton, soubrette, dances in good style; Jimmy Shields, one-legged comedian and dancer, obtains considerable applause; Emmie Milstead and Joe Bell amuse with their speciality scena, The Belle of Arizona; the Fordyces (Jenny and Willie) are promising juvenile song and dance artists; Queen Le Brun and company have a smart sketch, The Cockney Huntsman; and some excellent animated pictures are projected by Vernon's Imperial Bioscope.

EMPIRE. — Proprietor, Mr. B. Pearce Lucas; Resident-Manager, Mr. Sid Macaire.—Nellie Wallace, low-comedy artist, heads the programme here; she has some capital songs, which are rendered in amusing style, and justly obtain appreciation by all parts of the house; Germaine, American wizard, is very expert in sleight-of-hand and other mystical acts; the Dunlops provide a good acrobatic and balancing act; Freeman and Tench have a smart comedy duologue, "The Broken Honeymoon"; Bishop and Hanlon, eccentric comedians, &c., obtain considerable applause; May Marton, comedienne, is both pleasing and tuneful; W. H. Downe, coloured vocalist, has a nice tenor voice, which he uses to advantage in pretty and well-selected songs; Gertie Gitana scores with her vocal scena, The Schoolgirl's Holiday; and Ted Cowan, comedian, obtains applause for his comic songs. The performance concludes with a good selection of animated pictures.

BROUGHTON.—VICTORIA, LTD.—Manager and Licensee, Mr. J. Fred Watson.—Plenty of fun is provided this week, and on Monday a good house appeared well pleased with the efforts of the artists in the new musical, farcical absurdity, Lucky Liza (by Fred Locke). The title rôle has an excellent exponent in Miss Madge Brownie, whose singing and dancing gave much pleasure; the two crusty old lawyers, Peter Pettitoe and Barnaby Blatherwick, are respectively played by Mr. James Chippendale and Mr. A. W. Thompson very cleverly, and arouse much laughter. Mr. Dickie Clare as Silas Slim is full of fun; Mr. Leonard Maitland gives a clever study of a dude as Paul Pettitoe; Miss Belle Russell as Marie Pettitoe and Miss Madge Locke as Virginia Blatherwick are charming; Mr. Dan Ryan is a funny William Biffins; and the support by Mr. George Minto, Mr. James Quinn, and Mr. Bert Collins is cleverly given. The Astor trio of lady vocalists and acrobatic dancers add much to the success of the performances.

BURY (LANCS.).—THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; General-Manager, Mr. Broadhead, jun.—The entertainment here this week consists of cinématograph pictures, showing the fight for the boxing championship of the world between Jimmy Britt and Battling Nelson. Other turns are given by Maria Gibson, soprano; and Kid Gwynn, American ball-puncher.

BUXTON. — OPERA HOUSE. — Secretary and Manager, Mr. Arthur Willoughby.—For the first three nights of this week we had Mr. Edward Morris and company in The Dandy Doctor. This musical absurdity drew capital and appreciative houses, and was excellently put on. Mr. Edward Morris is a host in himself as the many-sided Melchisadeck Brown; and Mr. Herbert Pearce was admirably cast as Colonel Pendred. Mr. E. H. Bertram very ably impersonated Arthur Vandyke; and Mr. Leslie Martin was particularly good as the young doctor's locum tenens. Quite the lion's share of the laughter-making fell to the lot of Miss Florence Smithers as the Jane, the maid of all work, Miss Smithers keeping the house in roars of laughter. Miss Elfie Vincent was a charming Ivy Pendred; and the smaller parts were all admirably played. The dresses and staging were beyond reproach.

CARDIFF. — KING'S THEATRE. — Proprietors, King's Theatre, Cardiff, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Albert C. Duncan.—A thrilling drama, founded on the French Revolution, entitled The Throne of Terror, is presented this week by a powerful company of artists. Mr. W. J. Miller gives a vivid portraiture of the incorruptible tyrant, Robespierre, and Miss Katherine Maude Davies is charmingly realistic as Marguerite de Roquefort. Count de Roquefort, one of the old régime, could not have been placed in better hands than Mr. Frank Fuller, and Mr. Roy Milton is excellent as the patriotic Eugène de Lisle. Miss Ethel Lanyon-Maude as

COLCHESTER.—HIPPODROME.—Joint Proprietors, Messrs. Fredk. Mouillot and Walter de Frece; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Alen.—The masculine gender is responsible for all the turns this week, and the programme is a capital one. Chas. Morritt, with his mysteries and illusions, accentuated by his very happy manner of execution, is an extremely popular turn. Max Duffek, the Teutonic contortionist, with a series of clever musical introductions, is greatly applauded; whilst an item which is causing a deal of interest is the Blind Memory Man, nightly bombarded with queries, which he answers with wonderful exactitude. The Cribb Trio cause endless amusement; and Clive Watts is a marvellously clever dancer. Master Louis Victor, the boy comedian, affords a striking instance of juvenile adaptability; and the Bioscopic turn, which vividly portrays the holocaust of San Francisco, is most instructive.

COVENTRY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Proprietor, Mr. William Bennett.—Mr. Harry Foxwell's company is here in the drama entitled An Abandoned Woman. Miss Georgette Thierry gives an admirable embodiment of the part of Ninon Malvoisin, and is ably supported by Mr. Bernard J. Leill as Phillipi; Mr. Wolston Foster gives an able rendering of the fearless Captain Herbert Seaton; and whose wife is well played by Mrs. Harry Foxwell. Mr. Harry Foxwell ably portrays the character of Robert Sanders. The humorous element is in the capable hands of Mr. Will Percy (Paddy Boyle), Mr. Darcy Kelway (Sammy Sharp), and Miss Lily Beverley as Sally Sloper.

THE HIPPODROME.—Manager, Mr. T. M. Sylvester.—The turns here include: Tom Fancourt and Jennie Rubin, who appear in a charming musical comedy duologue; the Three Sisters Sprightly, comediennes, are well received; Victor Travis is an excellent comedian; Williams and Warden are also first-class comedians; Miss Beatie Worth is a character and descriptive vocalist; the Four Hearnes give a capital acrobatic turn; and Sam Sharpley is an acceptable comedian. The usual set of animated pictures concludes the performance.

CROYDON.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Samuel James; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Herrick.—Her One Great Sin is admirably mounted at the Royal this week. Mr. Sam Arthur is creditable as Ruben Warhurst; Mr. J. Leicester Jackson is efficient in the part of Arnold Thornhill; Mr. Fred Leicester acts with ability as Jerry Jumble; Mr. Harold B. Ford is a life-like Jack Humble; Mr. J. Nela is adequate as Mr. Benton; and Mr. F. Morton Wright praiseworthy as Ben Barkley. Miss Phyllis Damian is interesting as Charlie; Miss Louie Walton is good in the rôle of Bet Hundle; Miss Nellie Lambert makes the most of Nancy Winpenny; Miss Blanche St. Albans gives a faithful rendering of Grace Warhurst; and Miss Maudie Lambert is expressive as Little Gracie.

EMPIRE PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. Walter Gibbons; Manager, Mr. Eustace H. Jay.—The attractions here are enjoyable. Harry Tate, in Motoring, is funny; Dale and O'Malley are whimsical comedians; the Daunton Shaw troupe of Australian trick cyclists bring down the house; the Astley company as the Musical Farmers are droll and clever; Bert Williams is a talented ventriloquist; the Twin Sisters Anderson are untiring dancers; Maude Nelson is a pleasing character and burlesque actress; Lillian Alfreda is a genuine mimic: and much hilarity is caused by the Thirty Midget Mimes in the sketch, Casey's Court.

DEWSBURY.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessees, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. J. H. Asquith.—A variety company, under the joint direction of Mr. Leo. Dryden and Miss Ada Colley, is drawing crowded houses here this week. Madame Ada Colley, the Australian prima donna, evokes great admiration for her brilliant singing, which is listened to with rapt attention, and applauded with enthusiasm. A vocal actor of undoubted excellence, gifted in the art of touching the emotions of his hearers, Mr. Leo Dryden proves an immediate favourite with his songs, "Bachelor Boys" and "The Only Way," in which he appears as the heroic Sydney Carton. The Arizona Troupe cause great interest with their exhibition as jugglers, acrobats, and contortionists. Lytton and Bland, serio comedienne and dialect comedian, figure in an amusing sketch. Mr. Ed. E. Ford creates amusement with his "Australian Sundower" and his mimicry of a would-be member of Parliament. Mike Johnson (the famous Dutch comedian), Miss Nancy Renshaw (a coloured comedienne), whose blithe singing and skill with the "bones" elicited much praise, and Will Percival (champion pedestal dancer), were other artists who contributed most usefully to the programme, which was completed with a laughable Australian after-piece, The Indian.

DOUGLAS.—GRAND THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Grand Theatre Co., Ltd.—Managing-Director, Mr. Alfred Hemming; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. R. Wood.—Mr. Silvaunus Dauncey and Mr. M. V. Leveaux's company is appearing here this week in Mr. Alfred Sutro's society drama The Walls of Jericho. Miss Florence Jackson was quite suited to the rôle of Lady Alethea Frobisher, and the applause which greeted her efforts was well reserved. The Jack Frobisher of Mr. Herbert Bunston was a resolute performance, and he spoke his lines with point. Mr. George A. Brandram was excellent as Hankey Bannister. The Marquis of Steventon was a Thackerayan portrait, as presented by Mr. Cyril Baleine. Lord Drayton, well played by Mr. Alexander Cassy, was a material help in strengthening the situation. Miss Molly Carton was suitably placed as Lucy Dersingham. Other characters were admirably played by the members of the company, of which Mr. George D. Day is the general manager. The scenery and effects were all that could be desired.

GAIETY THEATRE.—Proprietors, The Palace and Derby Castle, Ltd.; Secretary and Manager, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Gray.—Mr. C. P. Levelly's company is appearing at this theatre in the celebrated comic opera La Poupée, and the houses have been good. Miss Stella Gastelle appears as Alesia, the Doll, and is as successful as ever; her acting, dancing, and singing are alike delightful. The Hilarius of Mr. Wm. Powell is very funny. Mr. Manfred Russell sings nicely as Launcelot; Mr. Frederick Hobbs acts with sincerity as Father Maxime; Mr. Arthur Dennis, a resourceful actor, does well as Loremois; Mr. Fred Seymour enhances the laughter by his delineation of the Baron Chanterelle; Miss Avis Grahame looks well as Madame Hilarius, and plays with point; the Henri of Miss Kitty Cavendish is piquant, and this bright actress makes the most of her few opportunities. Other characters are well sustained by Messrs. Vernon Reed, J. Davis, Aubrey Carr, F. E. Tongs, Ernest Watts; and Mesdames Mabel Fairchild, Florence Wynn, Rose Lytton, Pearl Vivian, Edie Oakes, Adelaide Burgon, and Lola Trevor. The full chorus and augmented orchestra are under the direction of Mr. Harry Rushworth, and Mr. Herbert Ralland controls.

PALACE, LTD.—Secretary and Manager, Mr. Charles Fox; Junior Business-Manager, Mr. Arthur Brittain.—The attendance at the Palace recently has been phenomenal. The bright particular star is again Mr. R. A. Roberts in Lucinda's Elopement and Ringing the Changes, two bright playlets which display this protean artist to the finest advantage; Miss Esta Stella, in her scena, is much applauded; Ernesto is a smart juggler and equilibrist; Stelling and Revell, comedy horizontal bar artists, are quaint and clever; the Wedburns are past masters in the art of up-to-date patter, and excite laughter; the Bohemians present a pleasant show; Mr. Alf. Gibson gains his end, which is merriment, by means entirely legitimate. Dancing in the ball-room goes on from 7.30 until 11 without cessation; Mr. Harry Wood's orchestra provides the music. Vernon's Bioscope presents pictures quite up to date. A Fancy Dress Carnival was held on Wednesday.

DERBY CASTLE, LTD.—Manager and Secretary, Mr. Charles Fox, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. A. J. Kelly.—The programme this week is full of attraction. Miss Lil Hawthorne repeats her last week's success, which was very great; Mr. Jack Lorimer puts forward new japes and fresh storiettes; Miss Texas Hattie, a new turn, is an agile and daring tight-rope artist, and is well received; the Lavelle Brothers introduce a clever acrobatic act; the Bohemians have a novel and refined interlude; the Bioscope has many admirers; Messrs. Frank and Jen Latona, with their musical exhibitions, secure sincere admiration. Dancing in the ball-room has a good following. This week a dancing competition, in the new dance, the Lansdowne, has brought a large number of entries; valuable prizes are given. The picture galleries and lounge, with a full licence, are thronged.

HIPPODROME.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. F. J. Connor.—The attendance at this, the children's palace of delight, has been very gratifying to the management since its re-opening. The programme has been received with enthusiasm. Captain Maximilian Grubber and his performing animals—pony horse, and elephant—present an act which the little ones cordially appreciate; all these quadrupeds are well trained, but the one which Rudyard Kipling's Mulraney called Mr. Double Ends is the favourite; and when he picks up his master with his trunk, and carries him out of the ring, the laughter is uproarious; the Lynch's give some pleasing ballads, illustrated by animated pictures; Dan Gregory and his fellow mimes have evolved new jokes, and all the turns are interesting to Mr. F. J. Connor's constituents.

BUXTON'S.—Mr. Frederick Buxton's Pierrots and Tea Village have drawn an enormous concourse of people three times a day this week. The songs are constantly changing, new business is introduced, and original sketches put forward. As an additional attraction, Guiseppe Saggo, the celebrated fasting man, commenced, on Tuesday, a fast of forty days.

NEW EMPIRE THEATRE.—Sole Proprietor, Mr. Charles Elderton; General-Manager, Mr. Elwyn Walter.—A smart variety company occupies the boards of this bright little playhouse presenting two shows nightly. Mr. Harry Bent is entertaining in a monologue, entitled A Peep into the Music Halls; in this sketch his imitations of well-known stars of the variety stage are realistic. Cambo, the man monkey, gives a weird turn; Professor Milne, the Scotch ventriloquist, makes a hit. The double-voiced vocalist, John Ross, Carlotta Lunn, and the Sisters Vere make up a programme that visitors like.

Mr. Charles Davis's Minstrels attract thousands to Douglas Head with their burnt cork comicalities.

Mr. Montgomery's troupe of pierrots, who occupy the band stand on the promenade morning and afternoon, are quite public favourites; their entertainment is clever and refined.

DUBLIN.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Managing-Director, Mr. Mouillot; Resident-Manager, Mr. George Parrington.—The attraction here this week is Arthur Roberts and company in their sketch, The Importance of being Another Man's Wife, which keeps the audience convulsed with laughter from start to finish; Burnetti and Corrie, comedy jugglers, do an excellent and amusing turn; and Miniature Marie is a charming mimic of noted music hall artists; Luis Hardt does some remarkable feats of strength, which merits applause; and Miss Helen Charles is a clever and refined artist; the Royal Six, lady cyclists, vocalists, and dancers, meet with a cordial reception; and the Holloways score successfully in an acrobatic wire act; an exceedingly graceful bending and twisting performance is given by Mlle. Nadje and F. De Marce's equestrian novelty; and the Royal pictures complete an enjoyable programme.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager Mr. J. W. Whitbread; Acting-Manager, Mr. John M. Dawson.—The boards here are occupied this week by Mr. Carr Loates's company in the musical comedy drama At the World's Mercy. The part of Captain Frank Manley is ably depicted by Mr. W. G. Irving; and Miss Isabel Singleton effectively portrays the rôle of Alice Lloyd; the unscrupulous villainy of Morris Goldstein is strongly portrayed by Mr. Carr Loates, whose partner in crime finds an able exponent in Mr. Arthur L. Reed as Jabez Barber; there is plenty of humour interspersed, led by Mr. Evan Gibbon as Charlie Smart, who receives able support from Miss Cissie Milford as Kitty Knott; the rôle of Dot is played in a praiseworthy manner by Little Daisy, and Mr. Leo Rodway makes the most of the part of Slouching Sam; Miss Molly Bee is clever and amusing as Skittles; and Miss Jennie Gilmour is satisfactory as Mrs. Rouke.

PAVILION, KINGSTOWN.—Manager, Mr. C Irvine Bacon.—The Drolls commenced a week's engagement here on Monday, and met with a flattering reception. The artists include Miss Dorothy Carr, Mr. Broughton Black, Miss Essie Prenton, Mr. Harry Pegg Carr, Miss Phyllis Beadon, and Mr. Herbert Fordwych, who all contribute successfully to the excellent programme provided.

EMPIRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Acting-Manager and Secretary, Mr. George H. Marsh.—The Boissett's combination of comedians hold premier position here this week with The Bricklayers, which has aroused great laughter. Ida Lorrimer gives a delightful turn; her songs are given in a clever and artistic style; Will Mitcham acquits himself well as a musical comedian; Felina and Grattan are a smart pair of comedy artists; and Kathleen Coogan is a lively comedienne and sprightly dancer. A clever and interesting exhibition of animal training is given by Claire Beasey's cats; and Maud Ross, comedienne, is much in demand for her songs. Arthur Gill, mimic, is immensely popular, and the Empire pictures are up to the usual standard.

TIVOLI.—General-Manager, Mr. Charles M. Jones; Secretary, Mr. H. A. Murphy.—Tom Foy and company in their laughable sketch The Yorkshire Lad in London, head the bill here this week, and repeat their former success; the Sisters Transfield contribute an exceptionally good musical turn; and Will Bell is a comedian and dancer of no mean order; the Five Foys, acrobatic absurdity, The Excursion Depôt, is highly amusing; and the Greys, operatic vocalists, score successfully. A mysterious illusion act, The Shrine of Isbar, presented by the Chaldean Yogi Simbri, elicits applause, as does also the refined speciality act of Gold and Stirling; the Sisters Brooke are pleasing comediennes and dancers, and J. W. North is a capital comedian. The Bioscope pictures are up-to-date.

WORLD'S FAIR AND MUSIC HALL.—Proprietor, Mr. C. A. James.—The company here includes:—Walter Roselle, ventriloquist; Little Dandy, character comedian; Nancy Lil, contralto vocalist; and Martin Melia, clog dancer.

SAMUELS' EXHIBITION PALACE.—Proprietor, Mr. S. Samuels.—The following artists are appearing here:—Professor Capiba, living marionettes; George Carlton, comedian and dancer; Kitty More, comedienne; Ted Seymour, vocalist; and Lucy Bartle, burlesque artist.

DUNDEE.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. R. A. P. Williams.—Two capital houses assembled here on Monday evening, and every turn met with warmest approval. Topliners are the Sextett Serenaders, who appear in their neatly constructed scena Naples by Night, the scenery and dresses of which are both elaborate and pleasing. Theodore Jones and company score heavily in Jack Sheppard; or The Burglary at the Grange. Mrs. R. A. P. Williams, the talented wife of the genial lessee, sings "Waltz me round again, Willie," the song that sent New York crazy, and Dundee has emulated New York's example. Tom Garland is as smart a ventriloquist as has appeared here for some time, while Anderson's smart conjuring turn is much enhanced by his clever patter. Alice Townsend gets a flattering reception, her medley of popular songs being very enjoyable. Charles Howard and Fred Burnard, comedians, are warm favourites. Little Beano causes much laughter with his Mechanical Donkey, and the two Clarks give a marvellous performance on the rolling globe. The Bioscope, with a series of new pictures, brings the entertainment to a close.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Percival.—Mr. Edward Neville's company is appearing here this week in The Anarchist Terror and The Sorrows of Satan. The first-named was presented on Monday evening, Mr. W. H. Wilson impersonating Ravagoon, the anarchist, in a very creditable manner. As Washington Goldstraw, a Chicago millionaire, Mr. John Turner played well; and as Columbia, his daughter, Miss Rose Neville acted with grace and sweetness. As Micky Doolan, a rollicking Irish sailor, Mr. Edward Neville proved very amusing.

EASTBOURNE.—DEVONSHIRE PARK THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. A. Standen Triggs.—Mr. Jerrard Grant-Allen's company is appearing here in The New Boy. Mr. Leon M. Lion provides a great many laughs as Archibald Rennick; Mr. A. Corney Grain does capital work as Doctor Candy; Mr. Barrington Logan is an effectively insinuating Felix Roach; Mr. Harold Weston is an excellent de Brizac; and Mr. Stanley Logan is a hearty and brisk Bullock; Miss Catherine Harrington makes a handsome and clever Mrs. Rennick; Miss Margaret Fairleigh is a bright and attractive Nancy Roach; and Miss Sybil Brooke acts appropriately Susan. The Borrowed Uncle precedes and is well played by Miss M. Fairleigh, and Messrs. L. M. Lion, H. Weston, and A. Corney Grain.

PIER PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. George Hayes.—Mr. Brandon Thomas's company is appearing here in Charley's Aunt, and the hearty laughter from a big house on Tuesday evening proved conclusively that the famous comedy has lost none of its power to excite mirth. Mr. Stanley Cooke, a tried exponent of the part of Lord Fancourt Babberley, is a host in himself, and the chief success of the evening is undoubtedly his; Mr. C. B. Keston is a refined Colonel Chesney; Mr. Walter Beaumont is an enthusiastic Spettigue; Mr. Hastings Lynn is a distinct and pleasing Jack Chesney; Mr. Richard B. Mason is satisfactory as Charley; and Mr. Sydney Compton has an effective style as Brassett; Miss Lena McNaughton, a lady of fine and handsome presence, makes a most effective Donna Lucia; Miss Gladys Storey is a dainty Ela; and Miss Marion Ripley and Miss Dorothy Deacon are attractive representatives of Kitty Verdun and Amy Spettigue.

THE HIPPODROME.—General-Manager, Mr. Harry Day; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Smith.—A capital variety programme is being offered here this week, and good houses have been the rule. A most popular number is the novel musical fantasy entitled Concordia, which is a decided success. The scene is most elaborate and very pretty, and the costumes are rich and handsome. In addition to his unrivalled powers as a concertina player, Mr. Percy Henri has a fine voice, and his changes are carried out with surprising smartness. He is assisted by clever ladies and gentlemen, and the whole act is worthy of the highest praise. Miss Marie Santoi and her Japs have a dainty "set," and very pleasing singing and dancing are introduced. Gregson and Goodfellow, a lady and gentleman, keep the house interested and amused; Tomps and Wells are a couple of good comedians who play well, and supply abundant laughter; Johnny Johnstone is a success as a singer, dancer, and musician; Beever's comicscope is amusing; Miss Rose Revell pleases as a comedy artist, and Mr. Alf Levaine is a clever wire-walker.

ECCLES.—LYCEUM THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Wardle and Potasch; Manager, Mr. P. Ryan Smith.—A variety company again holds sway here twice nightly. Mr. George Ripon, comedian, is very well received; Mr. Joe Graham proves himself a very capable ventriloquist, and meets with approval; Miss Nellie Gannon is successful with her songs, and Mr. Harry Wright causes endless amusement with his extempore verses; Ryde and Beeman, comedy acrobats, come in for a good share of applause; and Peggy Fame meets with success as a comedienne; the turn of Mlle. Flora Lumière, entitled The Fairy Grotto, is a striking example of what can be done in the way of lighting effects in connection with some very graceful dances. The Bioscope also shows the latest pictures.

EDINBURGH.—ROYAL LYCEUM THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Howard and Wyndham, Ltd.; General-Manager, Mr. Geo. T. Minshull.—The attraction here this week is Mr. H. F. Maltby and company, in the costume comedy, The Youngest of Three. Mr. Maltby's acting of the bluff squire, George Wendover, is marked by much power; and Mr. W. Henry Hargreaves presents a masterly study of the part of Gerald Wendover. Mr. A. E. Wyn Weaver gives a satisfactory rendering of the character of the East India merchant, Philip Radford; and there is much humour in the Samuel Johns of Mr. Ralph Hutton. An admirable sketch of the old landlord, Joshua Pynne, is submitted by Mr. Ernest Noble; while the village idiot, Loke, is amusing in the hands of Mr. W. Reginald Favell. Miss Beatrice Marsdene, in the title-rôle, plays with brightness, intelligence, and charm; and the parts of the other sisters, Anne Dulley and Florence Dulley, are acted with grace and sincerity by Miss Janet Hodson and Miss Mara Maltby. Miss Hodson's impersonation is, indeed, one of the best things in the play. The small part of the maid, Jane, is cleverly played by Miss Nancy York; and two minor characters are satisfactorily filled by Mr. Harris Fraser and Mr. George Laidlaw. The comedy, which is beautifully mounted, was received on Monday evening with every sign of enthusiasm by a large audience. A sombre little play, Hounslow Heath, also from the pen of Mr. Maltby, precedes the comedy. It is well acted by the author, and by Mr. Ernest Noble, Mr. Ralph Hutton; and Mr. Wyn Weaver.

THE GRAND THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. Harry Fischer.—The revival of A Trip to the Highlands has been marked by indications that this production has lost none of its popularity. Mr. Wal Croft is once more seen at his best in the genial rôle of the McMutchkin; and Mr. Arthur Poole continues to show his versatile powers as the detective with many disguises. The part of Timmins loses nothing in the hands of Mr. Joseph B. Montague, a talented comedian. Among the lady principals, Miss Maisie Ellinger and Miss Millie Engler—good singers both—find much favour with the audience; and Miss Nellie Burdette is a vivacious maid-servant.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Finch-Hatton.—Novelty adds considerably to the attractions of this week's bill at the Empire. Mr. Fred Ginnett and company, with a number of trained horses, present an interesting dramatic performance of Dick Turpin's Ride to York. Among the principals engaged in this production, Mr. F. Ginnett as Turpin, Mr. George Jennings as Tom King, and Mr. C. Barello as the Beadle, are distinctly successful; but the chief honours rest with the highly-trained mare, "Black Bess." M. Jacques Inaudi gives a marvellous display of his gifts as a lightning calculator; the acrobatic turn of the Bastiens, father and son, is a clever and unique exhibition in its way; Mr. Will Poluski, jun., entertains his audience with song and dance; Miss Millie Payne shines as a new style of comedienne; while Mr. Sam Redfern is a good specimen of the old style of coloured comedian; and a ventriloquist, who appears as deputy for Miss Lilian Lee, is cordially received. Brett and Orford appear in their well-known comedy sketch; Roberts, Hayes, and Roberts, contribute some smart dancing in an extravaganza, entitled The Cowboy, the Swell, and the Lady; and the American Bioscope shows a series of up-to-date films.

FLEETWOOD.—QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. H. J. Snelson.—Mr. Alexander Loftus is this week presenting the musical comedy, The New Barmaid. Mr. Loftus, as White the Waiter, takes a prominent part in the piece, and with the aid of Mr. Charles Adeson as Bertie White keeps the house in constant laughter. Mr. Leslie Austin as Captain Lovebury and Mr. James Grant as Colonel Claymore also ably sustain leading parts; whilst Mr. W. E. Chewd and Mr. Geo. Roslyn help to make the piece a success. The title-rôle is taken by Miss Maisie Ellenger, a talented actress, and Miss Amy Preston and Miss Winifred Preston both acquit themselves with credit. Miss Violet Osmond, as the Lady Journalist, gives a clever character study, and a troupe of lady dancers contribute some excellent dancing and singing.

FOLKESTONE.—PLEASURE GARDENS THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. H. W. Rowland.—Messrs. Matthew H. Glenville and Fred Osmond's company is presenting here The Still Alarm in good style. Mr. Cecil du Gue takes the rôle of John Bird in an admirable manner; Mr. Fred Osmond does well as Doc Wilber; Miss Maud Warburton is a sympathetic Elinor Fordham; Mr. M. H. Glenville as Jack Manley is natural and pleasing; Mr. J. S. Pateman gives a fine character study of Joe Jones; Mr. Lewis Gordon's Franklyn Fordham shows power; Miss Mabel Veriton is creditable as Mrs. Manley; and Mr. Tom Beasley as Willie Manley is all that could be desired. The vocal quartette in Act III. introduces some fine singing.

VICTORIA PIER.—Lessees, Messrs. Keith Prowse and Co., Ltd.; Local Manager, Mr. J. Fenton Walsh.—Mr. Frank Lawton, whistler and humorist, is the source of much amusement; Miss Kate Hemming renders her vocal numbers with excellent effect; Miss Alice Braunstein achieves great success as a soprano vocalist, and Mr. George Curzon's fine singing is greatly appreciated. The Victoria Minstrels give a very bright entertainment, and the Royal Austrian Band, under the conductorship of Herr Franz Meisel, plays a capital programme of music twice daily.

LEAS PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. A. Sitter.—An excellent programme here includes Miss Sylvia Jarra, soprano, who scores a success nightly with her selection of songs; Mr. Wilfrid Stracey is a great favourite, his comic songs and patter earning well-deserved applause; the Ladies' Blue Salon Orchestra is heard to advantage, and the animated pictures conclude the entertainment.

THE PIERROTS, under the direction of Mr. Charles Cardow, opened last week for the season on the Beach Plot, and amuse great crowds.

BATHING ESTABLISHMENT GROUNDS.—Cardow's Cadets, who made a great success last year, are here again. The bright and taking songs prove very attractive; Mr. George Ellis gives some clever character sketches from Dickens, &c.; Mr. Oak Dene comes in for a good reception, and Miss Cecilia Gold wins rounds of applause.

GATESHEAD.—KING'S THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. M. S. Hammond; General-Manager, Mr. Joe May.—Staley's Transformation company heads the bill here, and goes through a marvellous performance with smartness; Harry Tate's company in Golfing causes much laughter; Walker and May are excellent coloured comedians and dancers; the Otleys prove themselves an amusing and smart pair of acrobats; Le Marsumas are seen in a comedy cycling act; Arthur Boyne, comedian, is worthily applauded; the Three Sisters Tree, comediennes, present a refined hunting episode; and Eugene and Willie, in a speciality act, and Will Driscoll, swell comedian, complete the bill.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Stephen Smith.—Starring here are the Merrills, trick and comedy cyclists of extraordinary ability; the Saletos present a very clever acrobatic turn; Martino, described as "the world's greatest animal and reptile imitator," is an accomplished contortionist; and Arthur Stratton, comedian, Clara Victor, vocalist, and Downey's pictures also appear.

METROPOLE THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Bolam and Bacon; General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon; Acting-Manager, Mr. Thomas France.—Miss Emma Litchfield's company is appearing here in A London Actress. Mr. Stuart Cleveland depicts Clive Crawford with much force, and Mr. Richard Vane is well suited to the part of Lieut. Kingstone; Mr. Geo. H. Doyle proves an excellent comedian in the rôle of Moses Mendoza; Mr. Charles A Preece is an amusing Pat Maloney; Mr. John Worth cleverly sustains the character of Capt. Mannering; Miss Emma Litchfield (the authoress) fills the part of the villainess, Hilda Mannering, with marked ability; and Miss Maud Steeples effectively represents Phyllis Crawford; Misses Nellie Fern and Frances Ferina are successful in comedy parts.

GLASGOW.—KING'S, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. W. Wyndham; Business-Manager, Mr. H. Macfarlane.—Mr. M. Russell Rosse is again at our West End house, presenting Mr. C. Haddon-Chambers' fine play, Captain Swift, and is meeting with very good houses. The piece is lavishly put on, and the acting is of all round excellence. Mr. J. Herbert Beaumont makes a brilliant appearance in the rôle of Wilding—Captain Swift, and his whole performance is very closely followed, not less interest being shown in the sayings and and doings of Gardiner, finely portrayed by Mr. William Griffin. Mr. A. J. Harding as the kindly old parent, Mr. Seabrook, Mr. Rex B. Foote, as Harry, the somewhat impetuous son, Mr. Bertie Ralland, as Ryan, the detective, Marshall, the butler, by Mr. Jas. Gelderd, and Bates, by Mr. Clarence Pelham, are all worthy of note. The four ladies in the cast could not have been better chosen for the varied emotions of their parts, as they impress the audience highly all through. They are Mrs. Seabrook (Miss Nina Zambray), Mabel (Miss Eva Lonsdale), Lady Staunton (Miss Ethel Verne), and Stella (Miss Chrissie Ralland). The visit is a very welcome one.

METROPOLE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Arthur Jefferson; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Gillespy.—Mr. Fred J. Kirke's company is here in two plays, In Old Madrid and The Naval Detective. They opened on Monday in the former, in which, Mr. Kirke made an excellent appearance as Frank Lyndhurst; Miss Edith Claris was well placed as Madeleine; an dthe character of Lola Stillagano received able treatment from Miss Louie Fountaine; Mr. Mark Practice gives a clever performance as Mendoza; the Sisters Violet and Lillie English made two attractive dancers. Other parts were ably interpreted by Misses Lillie Seymour and Annie Brunette, and by Messrs. Frank Beaulieu, Lorrimer Stuart, and Charles Burns. Numerous songs and dances are interspersed throughout the play, and were heartily appreciated.

EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Limited; District-Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Mussett.—John Lawson and Co., in Humanity, prove again a very strong card in this dramatic episode. The piece is finely staged, and, no doubt, many present saw it for the first time with evident delight. In a pleasing duet and dance, the Sisters Cora appear with great success; while Kate Traill, at the piano, gives a tuneful rendering of ballads. In a gymnastic act of the comedy order, several smart things are done by Griffin and Dubois; in three descriptive songs, Peggy Pryde proved as chic and funny as ever; in her street arab delineation, she was at her best, and her reception was very flattering. Datas, the memory wonder, is simply pelted with questions, and he gives astonishingly smart answers; Mount and Corelli, in a musical comedy act, is an enjoyable item; Signor and Mdme. Borelli's imitations are well relished; The Plumber, a sketch by Will H. Sloan gives that droll comedian his opportunity, in which, assisted by Florence Gerald, and Kitty Hamilton, he makes a telling success. The fine Bioscope display is up to the usual Empire standard.

Zoo HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd., and E. H. Bostock; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—Harry Roxbury's company, in the brisk musical sketch, The Prince of Monte Carlo, provides an enjoyable half-hour's fun here. Fred Poplar is a smart comedian, and his welcome was most cordial; the Anartos give a clever and humorous musical turn; Caselli Sisters sing and dance with considerable ability; the Two Madges are clever young vocalists; Miss Kitty Wager, comedienne, is well received; and J. D. Toner, the Belfast newsboy, is a smart mimic. An exceedingly good acrobatic turn is provided by the Borghetti Troupe; and Kashma Bros. take well as knockabout comedians. The Bioscope views of Bostock's menagerie in Cornwall are popular.

PAVILION, LTD.—General-Manager, Mr. Samuel Lloyd.—Excellent houses greeted the company here on Monday evening. Alice Pierce makes a brilliant success in her impersonations of renowned actresses and is repeatedly encored; W. G. Webber sings three fine bass songs, including an encore, in excellent style; and the Eight Martini Mimosa Girls gave a very clever singing and dancing turn, which is warmly applauded. In a pleasing song, descriptive of a toy bazaar, Ida Kathrena gains attention, and her dancing is also admired; Nora Moore as a very acceptable comedienne has a good reception, and the novel performance on the piano by Mons. Slippere, a blind artist of much accomplishment, evokes great sympathy; he is also most heartily greeted for his tasteful singing. Mlle. Von Etta gives a mistifying performance of the conjuring order, her changes of costume are remarkably clever and novel. In several box tricks she proved a lady illusionist of a very high order, and makes quite a hit. The Wyffs closed the programme in a very humorous and capitally acted sketch.

COLISEUM.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District Manager, Mr. Sam Gething; Resident-Manager, Mr. B. G. Maclachlan.—Bransby Williams is the star here, his impersonation of an old showman being wonderfully good, and in addition he gives several other clever monologues; Raku, the clever Japanese, gives a marvellous display of ju-jitsu wrestling, assisted by Miss Moto Miyaki; the Deane-Tribune Trio provides a lively new sketch, entitled Applicants. Howard and St. Clair are big favourites here, and their new business is smart; Sisters Terry also receives an enthusiastic recall after their "baby" song; Amy Anderson and company contribute a cleverly arranged scena The Banana Queen; the Phydoras give a neat musical and acrobatic turn; Achmed-Ibrahim Troupe of Arab tumblers show some extraordinary feats; and the Bioscope pictures are new and up-to-date.

PALACE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. Harry McKelvie.—That popular old Glasgow favourite, J. W. Rowley, was due here this week, but owing to indisposition did not appear on Monday. Billy Williams, the Australian comedian, makes a hit with a parody, "All Coons look alike to me"; Ella Dean's songs ensure her a hearty welcome; Prince Kuroki shows some clever and dexterous conjuring feats; Sybil Moon and her Six Cadets provide a smart turn; Fred Neiman scores as a ventriloquist; Nora Moore, comedienne, is very clever; T. E. Finglass is a lively comedian; Charles Denton, Fyne and Hurley, Henderson Stanley Quartette, and Clarisee, Heney and Co. complete a well varied bill.

GREAT YARMOUTH.—ROYAL AQUARIUM.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—The boards of this popular theatre are being occupied this week with that brilliant farcical comedy, The Barrister, played by Mr. Henry Doughty's company. Mr. Henry Doughty as the Barrister acts the part with considerable spirit, and Mr. W. E. Dunlop as Capt. Walker is exceedingly good; Mr. E. W. Thomas gives a capital interpretation of the rôle of Major Drayton; and Mr. A. C. Thornhill is a great success as Jack Roderick; Mr. Hawley Francks is amusing as Tom Price, and Miss Beryl Graham wins rounds of applause in the character of Kitty Drayton; whilst the audiences are no less enthusiastic over the efforts of Miss Vera Leslie as the Barrister's wife, and Miss Cicely Hammond as Miss Foster. The other artists, who all acquit themselves well, are Mr. Geo. Burke, Mr. Jas. Seymore, Mr. Franklyn Walford, Miss Edith Coleman, and Miss Amy Lloyd Desmond. The Barrister is preceded by Tom Taylor's drama, Still Waters Run Deep.

THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. J. W. Nightingale.—This popular little playhouse was re-opened for the summer season this week with the amusing comedy, Billy's Little Love Affair, under the management of Miss Johnson and Mr. Bayly. Miss Katie Johnson played the part of Wilhemina Marr (or "Billy"), and Mr. Bayly that of Jack Prere; and their efforts were ably supported by Miss Clara Nicholls as Mrs. Jim Greaves, Miss Gladys Bartle-Frere as Lady Dureen, Mr. Orlando Barnett as Jim Greaves, and Mr. Reginald Maurice as Mr. Munkittrick.

BRITANNIA PIER.—Managing-Director, Mr. J. W. Nightingale; Acting-Manager, Mr. Edward Gray.—Witty Watty Walton is again topping the bill at this popular resort; Vasey and Ramsey, in eccentric comedy dancing act, score well; Miss Rosa Loader, the merry musical mimic, quickly plays her way into the favour of her audience; Le Brun and Irene, jugglers and equilibrists; Mons. Aeric, in a musical balancing act; the Four Abadaroffs, prehistoric mountebanks, who give a fine acrobatic and lofty tumbling act; and Nelson Hardy, ventriloquist and mimic, are all well received. Mme. H. E. Angless's Ladies' Pompadour Band perform twice daily; Alder and Sutton's Pierrots give a smart show at the open air promenade concerts twice daily; and G. W. Houghton, the human torpedo, gives his high diving and scientific swimming exhibitions three times daily from the Pier head.

WELLINGTON PIER PAVILION.—Proprietors, Great Yarmouth Corporation; Manager, Mr. Harry Tunbridge.—The programme at this popular place of amusement this week consists of The Motorists, in which ladies and gentlemen in motor costumes give a capital variety entertainment. Miss Edith Eatherley sings coon songs which are much appreciated, and Mr. Harry Halstead possesses a pleasing tenor voice, and is well received; Mr. Lester James is the humorist of the party. In addition to The Motorists, Mr. Maurice Victor mystifies the audience with sleight of hand tricks, and Mr. Griffith Humphreys appears as a society entertainer.

THE HIPPODROME.—Proprietor, Mr. Geo. Gilbert; Manager, Mr. Tom Culeen.—A great attraction this week is the Tokio Troupe of Japanese equilibrists, and Ford and Barras, two boys recently taken from the streets of London. J. W. Hall and Wilson give novel bicycle racing on the cycle racing treadle, which is watched with much interest; Uthan, the armless wonder; the Humels, equestrians; and Durell, who performs on a rolling log, continue to prove great draws. Other artists are Hector, the wire and hoop manipulator, and the Bros. Carr, musical comedians.

CHAPPELL'S PROMENADE CONCERT.—Proprietor, Mr. James Chappell; Manager, Mr. Harry

Cook was in the able hands of Mr. Syd Russell; Messrs. Bass and Guinness caused much laughter; Mr. A. E. Mann was highly diverting as Mrs. Sinbad; Mr. Fred Dobito and Miss Flora Buxton sang admirably together; Mr. Fred Little, a favourite here, introduced some excellent musical specialities; and the Sydney Girls also deserve mention.

HALIFAX.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Robinson; Manager, Mr. S. Winks.—This week more than usual interest is being manifested in the visit of the Seven Savonas, whose magnificent spectacular scene The Palace of Orpheus is attracting crowded audiences. A notable turn is that given by the Six Cycling Elliotts, whose performance throughout is truly astounding. Mlle. Toza's canine hippodrome is greatly appreciated. The Five Olracs are playing a welcome return visit. That charming dancer Viviana maintains her high reputation and is presenting entirely new items with success. Mlle. Florizel scores in her novel contortionist act. Harry Maynard, comedian, is well received, and William Rigby is smart and piquant in a captivating musical entracte.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. Frank Macnaghton; Manager, Mr. Edward Harrison.—This week Lily Marney, the chic comedienne, is one of the chief attractions. The sketch The Doctor and the Patient is artistically represented by Helms and Cozens. Herbert Bull, comedian, is in good form. "The Donatos" score in their acrobatic display. Adams and Ward and Rozel, the clever gymnast, are well received. Besides being a capital vocalist, Herbert L. A. Martine dances very smartly, and Millie Denham is very popular. The Bioscope is an additional attraction.

HARROGATE.—GRAND OPERA HOUSE.—Managing-Director, Mr. William Peacock; Acting-Manager, Mr. C. Fielding-Smith.—During the earlier part of the week Miss Emma and Mr. Percy Hutchison's company in Cousin Kate was the attraction. Although it is the fourth visit of the piece to this town the large audience on Monday evening showed that it has lost none of its popularity here. In the title-rôle Miss Lilias Earle, charming as ever, soon found her way to the hearts of the audience. Miss Hilda Honiss repeated her delightful study of the undecided Amy. And as Mrs. Spencer, Miss Amy Coleman was all that could be desired. Mr. Templar Powell is deserving of high praise for his frank and natural acting as Heath Desmond. Mr. George Mallett as the smug curate makes the most of his opportunities. As Bobby Master Philip Priddis was good, as also was Miss Kitty Priddis as Jane. The comedy is preceded by A. E. Drinkwater's playlet, Two in a Trap, admirably acted by Miss Hilda Honiss and Mr. Geo. Mallett. For the latter end of the week Mr. Edward Marris and Miss Florence Smithers are billed in The Dandy Doctor.

THE KURSAAL.—Manager and Musical Director Mr. C. L. Naylor, M.A., Mus. Bac. Cantab; Assistant-Manager and Secretary, Mr. F. R. Yeulett.—Business continues to improve here. This week, in addition to the Kursaal Orchestra, Miss Bertha Riddiough and Mr. Alfred Heather are the vocalists for the first three nights, and Miss Alys Bateman (soprano) for the end of the week. In addition, Dr. Lynn, the celebrated magician, gives his entertainment in the café, supported by The Mysterious Lillith, at frequent intervals during the afternoon and evening.

HARLOW MOOR.—Mr. Tom Coleman's Pierrots continue to give their clever and refined entertainment daily in the bandstand.

HASTINGS.—GAIETY THEATRE.—Manager, Mr H. W. Rowland; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles E. Scutt.—Mr. Thomas McKenzie's company is attracting good houses with H. H. Davies' comedy Mrs. Gorringe's Necklace. Mr. Yorke Stephens plays with great effect the chivalrous rôle of Captain Mowbray. The Colonel Jardine, of Mr. Maitland Dicker is well embodied, and clever Miss Marie Illington plays her original rôle, Mrs. Jardine, delightfully. Miss Frances Vine represents Mrs. Gorringe very successfully. The detective Jernigan has a good exponent in Mr. Reginald Walter. Miss Isabel Fladgate as Miss Potts, Miss Mary Webb and Miss Mabel Melba as the daughters of Mrs. Jardine, and Mr. W. Brisco Owen as Lieut. David Cairn give valuable assistance in their respective rôles. The comedietta Uncle Joseph precedes the comedy.

HIPPODROME THEATRE OF VARIETIES. — Resident and General-Manager, Mr. Albert Mathams.—Miss Jane Temple, an attractive comedienne, leads in an excellent selection of artists; the Evalos do a smart turn in original juggling; a decided success is scored by the duettists, the Sweetings; a laughable skit is given by the Elvio Comedy Trio; Miss Florrie Forde is an excellent serio, her capital singing soon establishes her a favourite; Mr. E. gives some humorous patter in describing a series of bioscope pictures; Walter and King creditably contribute to the bill as comedians; Sunny Moss in female attire is truly eccentric; Wal Pink and Jeff Vendome's company, in a sketch entitled The Daybreakers, prove good exponents of burlesque comedy; the films shown by the Hippodrome Bioscope conclude a strong programme.

BEACH CONCERT PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. Geo. Blackmore.—This pleasant resort continues to attract well-pleased audiences to the entertainments provided by Mr. Wallis Arthur's company of vocalists and comedians, who, in the afternoons, give their attractive performance in the Alexandra Park and St. Leonard's Gardens alternately.

PIER PAVILION.—Pier-Master, Mr. R. Turner; Entertainment-Manager, Mr. J. D. Hunter.—The musical comedy novelty entitled Dare Devil Dorothy is being played here by Henry Swinerd's No. 1 Company. Mr. Edward Kipling as Silas Crump creates great fun and laughter, his sweetheart Judith being well embodied by Miss Nellie Harcourt; Miss Dorothy Desmonde and Miss Marie Vere introduce some pleasing songs; Mr. Walter Ashley gives a manly tone to the part of Captain George Fielding; equally well represented is Captain Edward Dudley by Mr. Henry C. Ward; a good character sketch of Featherstone Haugh is presented by Mr. Deane Cliffe; Miss Lillie Blake and Miss Mabel Blake are dainty representatives of Polly and Rosy Ann.

ST. LEONARDS PIER PAVILION.—Pier Master and Entertainment-Manager, Mr. Elvey Thomas.—Mr. Sydney Grundy's powerful society play, A Bunch of Violets, is holding the boards here. Mrs. T. Greenwood Croft has brought a capable company of artists, who interpret the delightful piece with admirable finish and precision; as Mrs. Murgatroyd Mrs. Greenwood-Croft is excellent; Mr. Norman Partriege presents a clear-cut, intelligent study of the character of Sir Philip Marchant; Sir Philip's secretary is well played by Mr. Leon Aynscliffe; Mr. William Attfield gives a good character sketch of Lord Mount-Sorrel; Jacob Schwartz has a capital exponent in Mr. Joe Bebb; Lady Marchant is ably represented by Miss Florence Russell-Spiers, who from the beginning to the end holds the sympathies of the audience; Miss Tessa Myers gives a charming rendering of Violet.

HUDDERSFIELD. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, The Northern Theatres Co., Ltd.; Resident-Manager, Mr. N. M. Robinson.—A pleasing programme includes Ernest Leicester, George Bellamy, and Miss Kathleen Copeland, in a strongly written one-act piece, The Galley Slave; the Clavers, in a smart juggling act; Miss Jeanne D'Amyel, contralto vocalist; Gallando, an expert clay modeller; Bugler J. Carr, in his exhibition of musical skill; Miss Violet Morgan, a more than usually accurate mimic; the Wilfords, a couple of strong men; Miss Emma Don and Walter F. Munroe, in their popular musical speciality; and Stewart and Morgan, duettists.

HULL. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessee, Mr. W. Morton; Resident-Director, Mr. W. F. Morton.—The patrons of this house are favoured this week with a triple bill, which combines in it elements to suit every taste. In Andrew Paterson, a dramatic episode, Mr. Percy Marshall does excellent work, and Miss Lilian Hallowes is a very pleasing heroine, the other rôle being efficiently filled by Mr. Charles Hanbury. The Major's Double is a farcical comedy which keeps the house well amused. It is effectively acted by Mr. James Danvers, a comedian of real merit; Mr. J. B. Gordon, always favourably received in Hull; Mr. Percy Marshall, and Miss Lilian Hallowes. The miniature grand opera, The Gamester, composed by Aiulf Hjorvard, is well sung by Miss Dorothy Southgate, a young lady with a sweet soprano voice, which she uses to great advantage; and by Mr. Andrew Roy, a pleasing tenor, who knows how to use his voice with artistic taste and skill. Mr. Charles Cautley with equal effect renders the baritone parts. Mr. Martin Morris is directing the company.

ALEXANDRA THEATRE.—Morton's, Ltd.; General Manager, Mr. George Morton.—Dishonoured is the attraction here this week. The play has many striking episodes, and Mr. Henry Renouf, as Captain P. Cunningham, has a rôle which suits his histrionic powers to the full. Mr. Jackson Hayes brings the part of Captain Peyntland into vivid relief; and the remainder of the company assist to make the piece a great success.

THE PALACE. — Resident - Manager, Mr. Jno. S. Barnett.—The Craggs top the bill in their new sketch Billy, which causes much laughter. Hermann Melot makes a welcome reappearance in his clever conjuring tricks. Annie Abbott "the little magnet," causes much astonishment. Orpheus in his musical act gains much applause. G. H. Elliott is a big favourite. Harriett Vernon, in some handsome gowns, both looks well and sings well. Eloise Brinsmade appears in special picture songs. Maude Mortimer also hits the fancy of the audience. Georgina Leonard and animated pictures complete the bill.

THE NEW HIPPODROME.—Lessee, Mr. Alfred Graham.—The Jackley trio, Dora Lyric, Keith and Merson, Carr and Rose, and Fred Mason are a quintette of popular turns. Other artists include Tom E. Hughes, a good eccentric comedian; Mystery Gaaze, a Canadian artist; and W. L. Lee and company in a thrilling sketch, entitled The Coward's Revenge.

THE CIRCUS.—Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Emerson. —Animated pictures are still drawing good houses, this being the tenth week.

ILKESTON. — THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. L. F. A. Rogers.—Messrs. Chas. H. Phelps and Harry Tilbury's company is this week presenting the drama, My Native Land. As Winnie Blake Miss Amy Dalby is distinctly successful, and Mr. Frank Harvey as Andy Blake makes a good impression. Miss Belle Tilbury gives an excellent representation of Myra Pyne, whilst Mr. Chas. H. Phelps makes the most of the part of Dr. Magee. Mr. Bernard Webb is a quaint Mike, the doctor's boy. Mr. Harry Tilbury works assiduously as the Jew, Solomon Moses, and Miss Millie Doris makes up well as Rebecca, his wife. Mr. A. Geo. Fry is a capital exponent of the rôle of Norry Boyle.

IPSWICH. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietor, Mr. E. H. Bostock.—The chief turn here this week is Menotti, the "Stockholm Wonder," who thoroughly justified his claim to the title with an exceptionally clever and unique performance; Austin Rudd is also "starred" on the bill, and his songs win unstinted applause. Other turns include the Brothers Webb, in their clever musical entertainment; Mary Glenn, a pleasing vocalist; Max Merlin, contortionist; Laura Lane and Neil Rene in a sketch; and Alice May, in a protean entertainment.

JARROW.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Hugh Robertson; Acting-Manager, Mr. Jerold E. Reed.—Mr. Fred Jarman's company is this week paying a visit with the powerful drama, entitled Under the Czar. Mr. Gerald Smythe gives a good account of the part of Capt. Johnson; Mr. Jack Fortesque is well placed as Nicholas Yeroslaff; Mr. W. H. Riley makes the most of the rôle of Zakhar Kovesky; Mr. Amalia gives an admirable reading of the part of Count Nesseldorf, the Governor-General; while Mr. Merrin is quite at home as Michael Granovisky. Miss Francesca Strickland is charming in the trying character of Sonia Gregorovitch; and Miss P. Carewe is well suited as Zara Bhure.

JERSEY.—OPERA HOUSE.—Lessee, Mr. C. Robert Perkins.—Messrs. Fred J. Little and Fred Darcy's burlesque company is this week presenting Mr. A. Baba; or, The Thieves of Bagdad. Messrs. George Rapley and A. E. Mann as Ali and Cogia Baba keep the house in fits of laughter; Messrs. Bass and Guinness are most amusing as the Lieutenants of the Thieves, and Mr. Will Hicks undertakes the important rôle of the donkey; Miss Marie Adair is a shapely Abdallah; Miss Nellie Moore as Ganem once more proves herself a most charming and clever little dancer; and Miss Flora Buxton sings well as Morgiana. Good turns are introduced by the Marvellous Ladderites, and the Three Zaracs in their funny horizontal bar acts. The show all-round is excellent, and should prove a good draw.

SPRINGFIELD GROUNDS.—Mr. Victor Stevens opened here on Monday with his Premier Pierrot company. The evening unfortunately proved wet, but, despite this fact, their was a fair audience, and His Excellency the Lieut.-Governor and Mrs. Gough, with a party of friends, honoured the performance with their presence. Mr. Victor Stevens is a host in himself, and is well supported; Miss Ethel Locker has a fine soprano voice; Miss Alice Brookes is a dainty comedienne; Mr. George Neilson's vocal talents are well-known; Mr. Will Pettitt is a good banjoist; and Mr. Tomlin is a most amusing raconteur.

TRIANGLE PARK.—The Gaieties, under the direction of Mr. Wilson James, are here with a good all-round company, including Mr. Charles Conyers, an old Jersey favourite, who on Monday night met with a most enthusiastic reception.

ODDFELLOWS' HALL.—The Clifford Essex Pierrots are still here, and are a great attraction.

KEIGHLEY. — QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietors, Messrs. Carson and Kendall; General-Manager, Mr. R. S. Kendall.—Varieties continue to hold sway here, and crowded houses are the rule. De Voye heads the bill with his wonderful pony, "Billy." The animal's performance is one of exceptional merit. Friscarie provides a capital juggling act; Charlie Chard's songs are well received; the Sisters Vol Becque win applause; an excellent sketch The Lady Help is presented by Mr. Geo. De Gray and Co.; Mr. Richard Nugent, who has become a Keighley favourite during the variety season, is seen to advantage in the character of Dick Longbottom.

LEEDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; General-Manager, Mr. R. Ernest Liston.—A capital dramatic company, under the direction of Mr. F. B. Woulfe, occupies the boards here, and the répertoire for the week, consists of the two historic plays Jane Shore and Nell Gwynne. A good house on Monday witnessed the former piece, the name-part being exceedingly well presented by Miss Ethel Griffies, whilst the arduous Royal characters of Richard and Edward were played with power and conviction by Mr. F. B. Woulfe and Mr. Alfred Wade respectively; Miss Katherine Brook, as the Queen, acted the part with conspicuous ability; Mr. Leslie Lingham and Miss Eva Cartwright are other prominent members of a strong caste. Nell Gwynne was played on Thursday and Friday evenings.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Lessees, Messrs. Dottridge and Longden; General-Manager, Mr. C. H. Longden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Charles Bush.—A new sensational drama has proved a strong attraction at this popular theatre. It is played by Miss Evelyn Moore's company. A careful study of the exacting part of Sir Philip Garside is to be credited to Mr. Fred G. Ray. Mr. J. Clifford Wright is satisfactory in a strenuous embodiment of Richard Fenton, and Mr. Sydney Bland sustains with ability the character of the Hon. Herbert Selby. Miss Sidney Barrasford is charming as Muriel Lockwood, and Julia Marsden is a fine study in dramatic acting by Miss Florence Delmar. The comedy characters are played with success by Mr. Percy Shaw and Miss Kitty Elliot, the former finding opportunity for the display of his whistling abilities. Other parts are capably portrayed by Mr. Charles Nugent, Mr. Franklyn-Heywood, and Miss Millie Hastings.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Moss' Empires, Ltd.; District Manager, Mr. T. Gerald Morton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Alex Galley.—That very amusing pair, the McNaughtons, lead the Empire bill this week, and their inimitable comedy interludes are thoroughly enjoyed; Die Oberseterers, a troupe of Tyrolean singers and dancers, find an appreciative reception of their clever entertainment; Carrie Laurie's juveniles again appear with success; that charming comedienne, Alice Lloyd, is irresistible in catchy new songs; Maud Courtney, the clever American girl, displays conspicuous ability and versatility in entertaining song and story; Harrigan and Holt, eccentrics, are still here; Dot Hardy, a diminutive comedienne, is deservedly applauded; and Edith Courtney sings love ballads in captivating style.

CITY VARIETIES.—Proprietor, Mr. F. W. Wood; General-Manager, Mr. J. C. Whiteman; Acting-Manager, Mr. S. Jones.—A pretty show scene, in which Haley's Juveniles sing and pirouette in accomplished and graceful style, is a distinct novelty, and is amongst the best things of this week's bill; Harry Pleon is doing a clever burlesque turn, and is vastly amusing; as also are Mr. and Mrs. Bronte, with comedy sketch; a juggling act by Prima Vesi has several novel features. The fine vocalist, Ailsa Douglas, again charms hosts of admirers, whilst the Three Crowns are also successful with vocal renderings. Contributions by Flo Cecil, comedienne, and Ray, comedian and mimic, are very enjoyable.

LEICESTER.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Sole Lessees and Managers, Messrs. Milton Bode and Edward Compton; Business-Manager, Mr. E. R. Beaumont.—The interesting comedy-drama entitled The Plucky Nipper, presented by Miss Bonwin Carlton's capable company, forms the attraction here this week, and on its initial production on Monday evening met with an excellent reception from an appreciative audience. In the name-part Miss Bonwin Carlton gives a clever character sketch; Mr. Edward Surrey, as the ne'er-do-well, Bill Burgess, plays extremely well; Mr. Fred Rivers is seen to advantage as the villain, Richard Vanbrugh; Mr. Edward Stream makes a good impression as Captain Frank Leslie, and scores with his well-rendered songs; Mr. Douglas Campbell is amusing as Tommy Atkins, and is also heartily received for his songs and dances; Miss Kitty Maynard is reserving of high praise for her impersonation of the blind girl, Daisy Paget; Miss Evelyn Derwent is capital as Ina Fenwick; and both Mr. Pringle Roberts as Colonel Fenwick and Mr. Claud Kingston as Henry Paget are also to be meted out praise for their commendable impersonations.

PALACE THEATRE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; District-Manager, Mr. Hatton Wharton; Acting-Manager, Mr. George Andrews. — The principal attraction here this week is supplied by Harry Cadle's company of juveniles, who create hearty laughter with a novel eccentric act entitled The Casey Circus, a clever burlesque performance, which has the merit of originality. At the other end of the bill is Belle Davis and her pick-chicks, whose delightful "show" is accorded well-deserved and unstinted applause. The Brothers Horne create roars of laughter, and prove very popular in their well-worked boxing sketch The Dude and the Bully. Praise should also be accorded to the clever little lady partner for her vivacious singing and dancing. The Classicum Quartette present a beautifully-staged Venetian love scena, and are well applauded for their excellent singing; Hamilton Hill, possessed of a baritone voice of pleasing quality, renders his songs in a manner calling for the highest praise; Amber Austa, with her original and novel style of singing and dancing, scores a well-deserved success; the Sisters Oswald, dainty vocalists and dancers, are favourites; Frank Seeley, an excellent comic singer and dancer, keeps the audience in the merriest of moods; May Evans, comedienne, and Will Haines, comedian, also contribute successfully to the programme.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Proprietor and Director-General, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Acting-Manager, Mr. Walter Lapworth.—The following artists are appearing here this week, and are meeting with well-deserved approbation: The Deer Family of North American Indians, who are presenting their sensational act, Indians of the Past, in a series of tableaux in two scenes, Princess White Deer being being very successful in her songs and Indian war dance; Hettie Le Bon, top-boot dancer; the Sisters Daventry, excellent duettists; Rose Harvey, burlesque artist; Percy Curry, eccentric comedian; Carl Millon, ventriloquist; and Walter H. Pallister's American Bioscope, with the usual well-selected series of pictures. The staff here are looking forward to their annual outing, which takes place to-morrow (Sunday), the place selected being Skegness.

Abell, Johnson, and Unsworth.—An excellent and diversified entertainment here is contributed to by the following company: Dorothy Baddeley, soubrette; Herbert Simister, comedian; Frances O'Reilly, an excellent vocalist; Dan Lyndon, a popular comedian; Bert Wallace, comedian; the Bohemian Glee Singers; and Alf Unsworth, pianist and musical director. A comic singing competition is also announced.

LIMERICK.—EXHIBITION THEATRE.—Secretary, Mr. E. Travers.—The great attraction here this week is the Ladies' Mather Orchestra, who render classical and other selections admirably. The audiences are large and appreciative, and the solos executed by the Misses Eva and Dora Mathers are en thusiastically received. The Misses Jennie and Hilda Mathers are equally appreciated for their masterly execution of the Irish pathetic melodies. Master Alexander Mathers is the gifted 'celloist, and Miss Minnie the efficient pianist and conductor.

LIVERPOOL. — ROTUNDA THEATRE. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.—The attraction here this week has been A Beautiful Fiend, played by Messrs. Beaudyn and Livesey's company. Miss V. St. Lawrence in the title-part played with conspicuous ability, her work being followed with keen interest; Mr. Montague Beaudyn held the rôle of Ivan Paulovitch with much credit; as the scoundrel Count Karateff Mr. Tom Robertson proved eminently satisfactory; Mr. Harry Oates was responsible for a deal of good comedy as Christopher Cackles; Miss Blanche Hill made a lively Patty Woodlands; and the rest of the cast did justice to their respective parts. The piece was excellently mounted.

LYRIC THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Henry C. Arnold; Directors of Entertainments, Messrs. T. Barrasford and F. Willmott; Acting-Manager, Mr. Fred Coles.—A varied programme has been provided here by the management. The premier position on the bill is deservedly occupied by Alfred Lester, assisted by Miss Valentine Sydney, in his funny sketch, The Scene Shifter's Lament. The magical performance of Fazola, who bottoms the bill, is largely applauded by the mystified audience; Tom Lloyd, comedian, is a favourite; the rifle shooting of Lilian and Vera receives due recognition; Marlow and Manton are good in their sketch, Other People's Babies; the Vekeys are clever banjoists; Walter Emmerson's eccentricities create amusement; and the Sisters Marion, juvenile duettists, do full justice to their training.

STAR THEATRE. — Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Harris Fineberg.—A return visit of Trilby has been welcomed here, and having been put on in excellent style, the play met with much public patronage. Messrs. H. Armitage and Arthur Leigh's company is one of more than average merit, each of the artists showing considerable histrionic ability. Miss Bessie Rignold was a pleasing Trilby, and speedily gained the affections of her audience, her acting being marked by power and discretion; as Svengali Mr. Paul Belmore scored a complete success; the rôles of Taffy, the Laird, and Little Billee were admirably handled by Messrs. William Fayan, Charles Cecil, and Campbell Goldsmid; Mr. W. F. Clitherow just fitted the character of the Rev. Thomas Bagot; Mr. Harry Rutland afforded every satisfaction with his Gecko; a capital Manager Kaw was provided by Mr. Harry Morgan; and Miss Helen Lowther's Mrs. Bagot proved acceptable.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Lingford Carson; Manager, Mr. Fred. L. Arthur.—The Conscript, presented here this week by Mr. F. Wybert Clive, has proved a great attraction, the popular parts of the vast theatre being filled to overflowing on Monday night. The play was admirably mounted and dressed. Mr. Harry Cullenford held the part of Karl with credit, his playing being manly and intense; Miss Violet Carlyle exhibited a high degree of talent as the distressed Nadia; Mr. Walter Steele gave a powerful rendering of the character of Ivan Manloff; credit is due to Mr. F. Bellwood for his capital Maxim Fedka; Mr. Edward Lowrie was particularly good as Doggervitch; Mrs. Charles Wood, a highly accomplished actress, submitted a finished type of landlady with her Dame Katinka; Mr. Charles E. Johnson gave satisfaction as Count Paul, a well-drawn character; and the comedy by Mr. Tom Breen as Tretch Trotoff, and Miss Connie Meadows in the part of Wanda, was much appreciated.

THE EMPIRE.—Proprietors, Moss' Empires, Ltd.—The principal item in the programme here this week is the military spectacle Rorke's Drift, excellently presented by Mr. Claude Ginnett's company; Harrison Brockbank's combination are seen to great advantage in the musical episode, The Freebooters; the New York Nippers go through an attractive entertainment as singers and dancers; a graceful athletic act comes from the Klos Sisters; Clown Barker and Miss Roysika introduce some highly trained animals; the Althoffs have a funny and smart musical act; the barrack-room ballads rendered by Mr. Harold Thorley are pleasing; and others in the bill are Will English, coon vocalist; Alf Holt, a clever mimic; Cooke and Rothert, dancers and knockabouts; and Nelly Martell, comedienne.

ROYAL HIPPODROME. — Managing - Director, Mr Thomas Barrasford.—De Biere is in big type here this week, completely mystifying everybody by his wonderful conjuring. Included in a capital programme are Fanny and Harry Dent, with a laughable comedy sketch, Mary and the Squire, which has been richly enjoyed; Frank Bernard and company also provoke much merriment with Hello, Mr. Bernard, as Blatz at the telephone, being particularly funny; a clever and attractive show is The Shoeblack's Dream, presented by Fred Fuller and company; Bishop and Vale are a pair of excellent acrobatic comedians and dancers; Haydee's miniature vaudeville theatre, which introduces a Chinese scena, is a neat show; some remarkable juggling comes from the youthful Wallace; Harry Claff renders several operatic selections with taste; the Musical Schaffers go through a pleasing comedy act; possessed of a fine baritone voice, Mr. George Adams sings with effect several popular pieces; and others in the bill are Tod Lowen and George D'Albert, comedians.

ROYAL PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. Frank O'Toole.—Considering the summer weather that prevails, excellent business is being done at this cosy little place, which boasts of the only stock company in Liverpool. Hazel Kirke, a neat domestic and pathetic sketch, occupies the stage this week. Mr. Percy Boucher is the life and soul of the play as Petticus Green, causing continuous laughter; Mr. John Burton handles the rôle of Dunstan Kirke with care; Mr. Harry Tresham makes a manly Arthur Carrington; as the villainous Squire Rodney Mr. Sidney Grant is particularly strong; Mr. Robert Wilton is good as Joe; Miss Nina Nazeby submits a well-drawn picture of Nancy Kirke; Miss Sara Blumenthal, an actress of much ability, is Lady Travers; Miss Florence Palmer plays sweetly as Hazel Kirke; and Miss Ada Salmon makes a vivacious Dolly.

PARK PALACE, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. Walter de Frece; Director of Entertainments, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Here this week are the Brothers Lilian, talented and daring performers on the silver bars; the mysterious Mr. C. has several popular songs; Zaid provides an Oriental speciality act: as a comedian Frank Coyle acquits himself creditably; Boden and Bell are a pair of smart juvenile vocalists and dancers; and Lily Vane, comedy artist, also appears.

HAYMARKET.—Lessee, Mr. Fred Willmot.—Some admirable Bioscope pictures occupy the greater part of the entertainment here, variety business being also introduced by Tennis and Laune, vocal comediennes; and the Bensley-Evens sketch company, including Miss Olive Lanty, with Retribution.

WESTMINSTER. — Manager, Mr. M. Montgomery, jun.; Acting-Manager, Mr. G. Montgomery.—Bioscope pictures are continued here, variety turns being introduced between each series.

OLYMPIA, LTD.—Manager, Mr. A. W Young.—Eugene Stratton seems to have lost none of his power of attraction, for the audiences in this beautiful building have this week been large and appreciative. The brilliant military drill undergone by Captain Bevan's Gordon Highlanders was keenly appreciated; a clever musical sketch by the McConnell Trio earned for those talented performers loud applause; Johnson and Bert were amusing with their A Queer Customer; a novel eccentric musical act by Francis and Melli proved most enjoyable; the Three Clements gave a remarkable exhibition on the trapeze; Eily Adair was most pleasing with her songs and dances; and the list also contained the names of Alfred Hurley, vocalist; and Myra Stanfield, comedienne.

LLANDUDNO. — GRAND THEATRE.—Responsible Manager, Mr. A. G. Pugh.—Mr. Eade Montefiore's Co. opened here on Monday night with The Streets of London. Mr. William Rokeby, in the rôle of Badger, is all that could be desired, his drolleries evoking frequent outbursts of applause. The other comical parts, viz., Mr. Jones Puffy (Mr. Clifford Brown), Dan Puffy (Miss Marion Armitage), and Mrs. Puffy (Miss Violet Vivian), are all in capable hands; and Mr. Riddell Robinson scores as Gideon Bloodgood.

PRINCES THEATRE.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. C. R. Chaplin.—For the second week in succession, a variety entertainment is presented at this theatre. The bill is headed by Dr. Hermann, the electrical expert and hypnotist; Lean Lorette gives some dainty songs; Lily and Albert perform smartly on the trapeze, &c.; the Three Bostonians are great favourites, their dancing being much admired; Poole and Poole are exceptionally clever and at the same time amusing; the Two Wambas show skill in playing several kinds of instruments; and Miss Bertha Duckett contributes some effective dances.

PIER PAVILION, LTD.—Secretary, Mr. S. Hughes.—The famous orchestra, under Mr. A. W. Payne, continues to draw crowded houses. Miss Rosina Beynon, the vocalist for this week, charms all. Messrs. Adeler and Sutton's pierrots perform twice daily at the pier-head, and are always popular with visitors and residents.

THE PIER THEATRE OF VARIETIES, of which Mr. S. Hughes, jun., is lessee, is occupied mainly by the Royal American Bioscope, together with a few excellent musical turns.

MR. MOHR'S Promenade Band has been increased in numbers, and with the evergreen Mr. Curtis R'Alton as vocalist, provides many pleasant hours for the crowds who throng around nightly.

MR. PERRY'S minstrels are, if possible, more popular than ever, and with such artists as S. A. Atherton, Billy Richardson, M.P., Albert Stern, &c., there are no dull moments in the "Happy Valley."

EGYPTIAN HALL. — Lessee, Prof. W. Beaumont; Manager, Mr. W. F. Holt.—This week a Vaudeville company is entertaining good audiences, the artists including Mr. Wilfred Holt, ventriloquist; Estelle Vernon, soprano; the Mysterious Merry Magician; Will Dennis, humorist, vocalist, &c.; and Hyam Long, musical entertainer.

LOWESTOFT. — MARINA. — Managing-Director, Mr. E. A. Smith.—Mr. Norman V. Norman's company is delighting large audiences this week with The Adventures of Lady Ursula, Nell Gwynne, and David Garrick. The first mentioned was submitted to a capital audience on the opening night, Miss Beatrice Wilson giving an admirable embodiment of the title-rôle, for which she was warmly applauded. Mr. Norman V. Norman presented fine study as Sir Geo. Sylvester, and Mr. Dennis Cleugh was well placed as the Earl of Hessenden.

MANCHESTER.—ROYAL OSBORNE THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager. Mr. P. B. Broadhead.—A return visit is paid here this week by Mr. Geoffrey Fulton's principal company in The Poor Must Live, a drama of enthralling interest. The company, a very able one, includes Mr. Shaun Glenville, the comedian, in a telling character-part—that of Hooker Holdsmith, a "swank"; Miss Florence Creagh as "the Vengeance"; Mr. Cecil Borer, who figures well as Donald, son of the Earl of Marswood; and Mr. Walter Spinner, who makes a distinct success as Clifton Manville, a society blackguard; while Mr. Walter Fysher shines as the Earl of Marswood; Mr. George Arnold is well placed as Sam Sully; a good idea of Dick Sully is presented by Mr. Frank Dale; Miss Marguerite Thorne is very effective as Sal Darling; Miss Una Marsdene makes a pleasing Dorothy Murdock; and the part of Moya is undertaken by a charming but unnamed juvenile actress.

Broadhead.—A capital programme here this week includes the Eight Sarnthalers, characteristic and original national singers and dancers; Houser, comedy clay modeller; Wat Tyler, an effective character-vocalist; Adams and Rouss, witty and clever dancers and comedy artists; George Young, the blind collier boy, in a pleasing musical act; George Gulliver, smart entertainer and ventriloquist; the Richards, in a gymnastic speciality act; Tom Kelso and company, who present their comic sketch, The Silly Servant; and Ionia, "Sure Shot," in a clever shooting act.

GRAND JUNCTION THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. W. B. Broadhead; Acting-Manager, Mr. P. B. Broadhead. —A version of The Sorrows of Satan was staged here on Monday with success. A highly effective rendering of Prince Lucio is given by Mr. Hugh Carmichael; and Mr. Bartlett Garth presents an admirable impersonation of Geoffrey Tempest. As Lady Sybil, Miss Nelson Ramsey is good in movement and emotional delivery; and an accomplished piece of work is the Mavis Clare of Miss Frances Waring; one of the successes of the evening is the humorous depiction of William by Mr. Fred Wilberforce; while others who distinguish themselves are Miss Ethel Maguire as Diana Chesney, Mr. A. C. Bute as Amiel, and Miss Ethel Williams as Mrs. Grimes.

QUEEN'S THEATRE.—Manager, Mr. R. Flanagan; Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Berry.—This week the stage here is occupied by Mr. P. Howard Sturgess's No. 1 company in a stirring domestic drama, A Queen of Villainy. A very good performance is given, and the action is illustrated and enlivened by pleasing and effective scenery. Miss Edith Blande's impersonation of Cora Granville is fine; a capable delineation of Alec, the hero of the piece, is given by Mr. Ernest G. Batley; and the villainy of Stephen Faucit is cleverly portrayed by Mr. Edward Heanley. Miss Cecilia Desmond is well placed as Rose Delmayne; and Mr. P. Howard Sturgess adds to the entertainment as Timothy Kodac, the tourist.

PALACE.—General-Manager, Mr. Walter De Frece; Secretary, Mr. Peter Watson; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. Rhodes Parry.—George Gilbey, of "Spouty," the goalkeeper, fame, is to the front here this week, and creates no end of laughter with his funny patter; another excellent turn is that of Dan Crawley, a capital comedian, who makes a big hit with funny songs and eccentric dances; a novel turn is the introduction of Colossus, age 18 years, weight 35 stone, and Dwarf, age 25 years, weight 2 stone 6 lbs., a curious couple; Addie Donna smartly impersonates six characters in her duologue, entitled How it was Done; Rose Hamilton is a clever comedienne; and good turns are contributed by Bromley and Fontein, in mirth and music; the Two Neros, in acrobatic contortionist speciality; the Bensons, who do some neat dancing; Charles Banks and his clever dog; and Lilian Bishop, male impersonator. The Palace pictures are up to date and interesting.

EMPIRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. H. Hall.—An excellent programme here is headed by Herbert Darnley's company of comedians in the eccentric four-scene military pantomime, The Skirmishers, which is a laugh from start to finish. The Cole de Leese duo, who share the principal honours, give a wonderful performance on the slack wire; Flem and Brok, the aerial pugilists, are well received; Johnny Gilmore, the Australian comedian, is lively and acceptable; Chas. Austin, comedian, makes a big success by his versatile humour; Barney Vox contributes a smart ventriloquial turn; Nelly Young is a pleasing dancer; Corri and Dereve's company presents a very nice little sentimental playlet, called Heart-Strings; and a pretty turn is added by the Stella Troupe of eight girl singers and dancers. The Bioscope depicts "The Pirate Ship." On Monday night an extra turn was given with huge success by Russell Wallett, from the Hippodrome programme. On Wednesday night the programme was enlarged considerably by the addition of many turns from other places of entertainment, to commemorate the occasion of the second anniversary of this popular house, which was crowded in all parts at both shows, with the most gratifying results to all concerned.

HIPPODROME. — Managing-Director Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. E. P. Morgan.—The bill is topped here this week by the Three Olympians, who pose successfully in an excellent series of artistic studies from the classics. The Dandies are refined and talented society entertainers, and are well received. Baker and Balfe play some delightful selections on the xylophone; Russell Wallett, as the "Lady in Black" presents a novel turn; Harwood's Juveniles in a pretty scena dance and sing well; and Josh Dixon is an amusing comedian with good patter. The Folkestones have some capital buiness, and are first-rate sand and clog dancers; the Lowenwirth Brothers are Hebrew comedians who are successful smile-raisers; and the great motor races for the Grand Prix, France, are depicted on the Bioscope. Miss Marsland, assisted by the choir, sings "Daddy" nicely; and Sullivan's part song, "The Long Day

Thorn, the squire's son. A clever representative of Rosa is found in Miss Ethel Halle, and Miss Ada Champion is good as Dolly Peachblossom. Mr. Godfrey Tearle is successful as Leslie Thorn; and Mr. Ivan Gore does well as John Merchant. The other rôles are ably sustained and the scenery and costumes are excellent.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Managing-Director, Mr. John Brill; Manager, Mr. Charles Rembyes.—An old Middlesbrough favourite is appearing here this week in the person of Walter King, a droll comedian, who creates roars of laughter; Miss May Henderson, the dusky comedienne, also achieves considerable success; and the Selbinis give a really wonderful exhibition of trick cycling. The Labakans provide an excellent acrobatic turn; and Belle Braham, the pictorial songstress, is good; Marie Jones and George Monroe are clever in their quick change act; and Dolly and Madge McCalla sing and dance well. Other turns are provided by Stave, the comedy artist, and the Bioscope.

OXFORD PALACE.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. Alf. Graham; Manager, Mr. R. L. Griffiths.—A particularly enjoyable programme is submitted here this week and good houses are the rule. Neil Kenyon, the famous Scotch comedian, is the star turn, and his songs and funny stories delight the audiences; Jack Pleasants is also here another week with new selections, and once more scores a big success; Maxford and O'Neil create roars of laughter with their patter; and Lilian Lowe sings well. Other turns are provided by Eric Graham, comedian; Marie and Julieta; Marjutti, lady contortionist; the Howards; and Millie Harris.

NEW BRIGHTON.—GRAND TOWER THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—A good programme this week includes Miss Cissie Loveday, popular ballad vocalist; Miss Hettie Hall, versatile instrumentalist; Eddie Clay, American comedy musician; Sandy and Carl, speciality comedians; the Bodina Trio, speciality artists in a clever musical melange; Percy Victor's troupe of intelligent dog minstrels; and the latest animated pictures by the Towerscope.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE.—PALACE THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. T. W. Rowe; Business-Manager, Mr. E. B. Clark.—Mr. John Power's company in the drama Man's Enemy is proving a popular attraction here this week. The rôle of Harry Stanton allows Mr. Francis Everard ample scope to display his undoubted talent, and he is in every way successful; Mr. John Power's conception of Tom Drake is forcible and at all times interesting; Iky Barnett as played by Mr. J. Newton Cowling is an amusing Hebrew; Mr. George Beresford as Bill Sanders presents a clever character study of a loafer. Miss Marie Lyons in the heavy part of Sarah Drake is seen to advantage; Miss Edith Leslie is a sweet and womanly Grace Lisle; Miss Clara Reid is amusing as Polly Harris; and Miss Florrie Sorsby as Nellie Saunders is a juvenile actress of promise.

GRAND THEATRE.—General-Manager, Mr. Sidney Bacon.—Mr. Lingfield Carson's drama, entitled Defending His Honour, occupies the boards here this week. Mr. Fred Granville's company, which is responsible for the production, is one of all-round excellence, and includes Mr. Fred W. Goddard, Mr. Carthage Caldcleugh, Mr. A. Balfour Mackay, Mr. Willie Black, and the Misses Chrissie Dunbar, Amy Manfree, Dorothy Vaughan, and Agnes Morton.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Resident-Director, Mr. Richard Thornton; Resident-Manager, Mr. E. Leslie Conroy.—Cinquevalli tops an attractive programme here this week, and his juggling is still characterised by that neatness and precision which have made his act famous. Two pantomime favourites in Rachael Lowe, in novelty songs, and George Formby, "the Wigan Nightingale," are both quaint in the extreme. The Russian Imperial Troupe of Singers and Dancers provide a novel and lively sort of entertainment; Marie Weston, a dainty comedienne and dancer, meets with appreciation; the Norman-Leonard Trio submit an acceptable sketch entitled The Itinerant; Barton and Ashley are immensely popular with their duologue Canal Boat Sal; Ross and Grayson, comedy artists, are as excellent as ever; Brown and Robinson, comedy musicians, furnish a good turn; and the Bioscope, with pictures of the recent Royal visit to Newcastle, completes the bill.

PAVILION THEATRE.—Managing-Director, Mr. Thos. Barrasford; Manager, Mr. Will H. Boardman.—So successful was the engagement last week of Servais Le Roy, Talma, and Bosco, that the management have retained their services for another week, and their mystifying act still creates the utmost bewilderment. Lawrence Barclay sings his "Bull and Bush" parody, and acknowledges the applause in his ludicrous and mirth-provoking style; Picton Roxborough and Fanny Bright, of musical comedy fame, appear with much success in a trifle entitled Cockie; as acrobatic cyclists the Cumberland Troupe meet with unstinted approbation; Rex Fox's performance on the slack wire is as clever as it is daring; Lottie de Abbey, impersonator; the Sisters Wingrove, duettists and dancers; Ada and August, comedy artists; and Hill and Fane, are all distinctly good in their respective lines. The Barrascope shows a beautiful picture of the Royal visit to this city.

NEWPORT. — EMPIRE. — Moss' Empires, Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. O. Stoll.—Florrie Gallimore, with catchy songs, is quite a favourite here. Rose Naynon, assisted by Clyde Phillips, presents a marvellous collection of performing birds, and Alex. Lukos sings of famous men of the past; the Four Figaros give a series of international dances; Pit and Cute, smart acrobats, are responsible for a really laughable turn; Will Cornish entertains with his music from silver chimes and hand bells; Nancy St. John, Margaret Ashton, and Flo D'Orville all do well; while the Bioscope shows a series of pretty pictures.

LYCEUM.—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Sidney Cooper.—This theatre was reopened after the vacation on Monday evening with Mr. Lingford Carson's company in The Heart of a Hero. Jem Resdale is taken by Mr. Charles Draycott, who plays the part with great vigour; Miss Hettie Senior, as Mary Ryder, the heroine, shows much force in the prison scene; the comic element is well supported by Timothy Heighno (Mr. Arthur Byron); Mr. Ernest J. Fare is accorded manifest recognition of his excellent impersonation of Wilfred Marl; Miss Laurie A. Pardy plays Nell Resdale with success; Mr. J. D. Clyde appears as Mark Marl; Mr. Sidney C. Cranston does exceedingly well as Jack Collinson; as does also Mr. Morley Carroll as Dave Pritchard, the detective. The Ticket of Leave Man and The Octooroon are in the week's bill.

NORTH SHIELDS.—CENTRAL PALACE—Lessee and Manager, Mr. Wm. Mould.—An enjoyable bill of fare has attracted large audiences here this week. Messrs. Abel and Welsh, grotesque eccentrics, are very smart; Mr. Jack Crawley, comedian, is well received; and Mons. Vosper, mimic, is clever. The Henres, in their juggling and Indian club manipulating act, display much skill, and Mr. King Roy, a popular baritone, Miss Gracie Bard, juvenile coon artist, Wee Civere, speciality dancer, and the Bioscope, all meet with favour.

NORTHWICH. — PIERROT PAVILION.—Proprietors, The Royal Pierrots Co.—Another good array of talent has been provided this week. Miss Hilda de Grey, soprano vocalist, sings with much pathos and feeling. Lillian and Francis present a laughable turn. Mr. Frank Royle receives a hearty welcome. Harry Barclay does well with his comic songs. Denby and Dent are capital dancers and cause much merriment in their sketch The Barber; and Mr. Glanmore Jones is always to the fore with some new and taking song.

NORWICH.—HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, Messrs. E. H. Bostock and F. W. Fitt; Manager, Mr Councillor F. W. Fitt.—A capital programme is presented this week. Heading the bill is Martin Conway, whose amusing songs and patter win much appreciation; Lillie Soutter, comedienne, is quite a favourite; Ethel Dove, comedienne and dancer, is also successful; the vocal abilities of the Columbia Trio, comedy artists, are heartily acknowledged; Pueblo and Cropp, American creole artists, in their singing and dancing, prove an excellent turn; Kavado introduces some clever juggling tricks; the Three Sisters Urma are graceful trapezists and win applause; Brady and Johnson are very funny in their sketch, Turning the Tables; whilst the Hippo Bio, with entertaining pictures, completes the programme.

NOTTINGHAM.—KING'S THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Frank Macnaghten; Manager, Mr. Edgar O. Waller.—The management still retain the Royal Animated Picture Company, with an ever-changing series of films, and the large audiences prove the popularity of this form of entertainment.

EMPIRE THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Managing-Director, Mr. Oswald Stoll; Acting-Manager, Mr. Chas. H. Bowmaker.—The principal attraction here this week is provided by George Lashwood, whose debonair manner and smart songs are enhancing his already high reputation. The Abdullah Arabs exhibit extraordinary skill in their remarkable whirling sensations, and the turn is received with enthusiastic applause. A typical Yorkshire comedian in the person of Jack Lane causes lots of amusement, and Will Musgrave is another comedian who provokes a great deal of mirth. Flo Esdaile is the possessor of a remarkably good soprano voice, which she uses to great advantage; while Irene Rose dances and sings herself into favour. The Clarkes excel as banjo players; Toledo and Price have an act unique in the contortionist line, and which deserves the high commendation it receives. The programme is completed by Madge Osmond and Sanford and Lyons, the latter a clever pair of comedians and simultaneous dancers.

OLDHAM.—ROYAL THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Manager, Mr. E. Dottridge; Assistant-Manager, Mr. W. Howgate.—A capital programme is provided this week. The Martelloni troupe of lady acrobats head the bill, and they are well received; the Villions, acrobatic cyclists, in their latest comedy act, are another good turn; Ernest Rees, the droll comedian, causes roars of laughter; and the Meymotts (Ada and Harry), in their comic sketch, provide much fun; Ruby Dahl and her "Merry Mannikins" are well received; Yetta, in a clever wire act; Burley and Burley, a pair of funny comedians; Wee Jessie, song and dance artist; and Toney, whistler, also appear

PENTRE. — LYCEUM THEATRE. — Sole Owners, Messrs. Carlton and Duckworth.—This theatre, which has been closed for the past few weeks, reopened on Monday evening, when Mr. Chas. W. Poole's grand combination provided the attraction. In an interesting tour round the world, accompanied by surprising myrioramic effects, Messrs. Wm. Stewart and Alfred Leonard proved themselves good elocutionists and instructive guides. Little Doretta, in a capital Dutch song and dance, earned the loud applause of the audience; Kitty Woodford was seen and heard to advantage in up-to-date songs; the Avondale Quartette scored, their vocal abilities being of a high order; Leonard and Mac caused roars of laughter by their droll eccentricities; Kitty Woodford's canine circus, and Daisy Graham with her trained birds and dog Nap, were also well received. Mr. Harry Stewart, who is manager for Mr. C. W. Poole, is an excellent quick-change artist; and the orchestra is under the bâton of Mr. A. S. Morrell.

PLYMOUTH.—PALACE OF VARIETIES.—Owners, County Theatres and Hotels, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Jack Field. A varied and entertaining programme is submitted here this week. The Montramos have the leading position on the bill, and their patter and comedy business bear the hall-mark of genuine wit; a sketch, entitled The Battle of the Belles, also wins popular favour; the Marlo and Dunham trio present a gymnastic item of exceptional daring; Charles Collette, an old favourite, has a fresh bevy of smart sayings; and Chas. Bignell does well. Others contributing are May Fallowfield, Alma Burton, Blanchard Beatty, and Vernon's pictures.

GRAND THEATRE.—Lessee, Mr. C. F. Williams; Manager, Mr. Percy Williams; Assistant-Manager, Mr. J. Langdon Lee. — The stock company give a highly creditable representation of Oliver Twist. Mr. Edward Lloyd creates a Fagan as bad as Dickens could have wished; Mr. Cecil A. Collins makes an admirable Bill Sykes, and the humorous element is well supplied by Mr. Green Taylor as Charlie Bates, the Artful Dodger. Miss Ethel Kay is a pathetic Oliver Twist.

PROMENADE PIER AND PAVILION.—Manager, Mr. J. Higson.—A couple of hours' good entertainment is supplied by the Leslie Concert Company. Mr. Sammy Shields, whose sayings are flavoured with a broad Scotch accent, scores immensely; Miss Mabelle Ashton deservedly earns encores at each performance for some clever dancing; the Misses Nellie Gallapert and May Farrell have cultured soprano voices, and Mr. Chas. North is a powerful baritone.

METROPOLE, DEVONPORT.—Owners, Carltons, Ltd.; Manager, Mr. Mitchell.—Mr. Carlton's stock company presents Our British Empire to appreciative audiences. The company includes Messrs. Leonard Aardale, Douglas Phelps, Geo. King, Miss Pattie Hastings, Beatrice Vane, and L. Davies.

PORTSMOUTH.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. Armstrong Bell.—Mr. Charles Macdona's chief company, with the highly successful musical comedy, The Gay Parisienne, is occupying the boards here this week. The acting and singing are good, and the Imperial Glee Singers, who contribute in the second act, meet with hearty applause. Miss Nellie Hodson's portrayal of the irrepressible Mlle. Julie Bon-Bon is full of life and vim; Ebenezer Honeycombe is cleverly depicted by Mr. Will Harman; M. Pompier is admirably personated by Mr. Clifford Seyler; Major Fossdyke and Tom Everleigh are well placed in the hands of Messrs. T. Gideon Warren and Neville Kershaw; Mrs. Honeycombe is capitally impersonated by Miss Halford Beringer; Ruth is well presented by Miss Madge Souttar, and Miss Nellie Beryl is successful as Norah.

PRINCE'S THEATRE.—Licensee and Manager, Mr. J. W. Boughton; Acting-Manager, Mr. T. E. Agate.—The romantic and powerful drama, A Warning to Women, was presented here for the first time in Portsmouth on Monday evening to a well-filled and sympathetic house by Mr. C. Watson Mill and company. Mr. Mill personates Dr. Marcus Dread, a designing scoundrel, with effective skill and judgement; Maria Kennion, the much-persecuted heroine, is played by Miss Rosalind Tait with great success; Mr. Henry Lonsdale makes the most of the capital part of Shaun, a wandering minstrel; and Mr. W. Palliser Acock and Mr. N. Carter Slaughter as Ferdinand de Joules and Lord Eversleigh are responible for capable renderings of their respective parts.

EMPIRE PALACE.—Secretary, Mr. W. Pratt.—The bill here is a bright and varied one, and in spite of the tropical heat the attendance has been very large. Arthur Reece, the ever-popular vocal comedian, has had an exceedingly flattering welcome; Fraser and Haley, duettists and dancers, are capital exponents of the light fantastic; Talberto and Douglas, a clever and amusing pair of knockabout and balancing artists, meet with much approval. Arhtur Albert, actor-vocalist, has an excellent voice, and knows how to use it to the best advantage; Edie Gray, with her harmonising white coons, gives a capable and pleasing turn; Three Sisters Kilner, vocalists and acrobatic dancers, are energetic, and have had a good reception on their first visit; Cissie Dryden, male impersonator, creates a favourable impression; Amy Sullivan, a charming comedienne; Vandyke Troupe, with a laughable pantomimic act, Sensations, and Payne's pictures complete the programme.

PRESTON.—ROYAL HIPPODROME.—Proprietors, and Managers, Messrs. W. H. Broadhead and Sons; Resident-Acting-Manager, Mr. E. J. Linsdell.—At the head of the bill this week are the Frantz Family of speciality artists, whose pantomimic act, Happy School Times, evokes much laughter and applause. Howard Ward and Louie Davis present a very amusing musical comedy duologue, Wanted a Typist; Phedona supplies a pleasing musical act with special electric illuminations; the Four Albertos give a wonderfully clever equilibristic performance; the Harc Trio display great skill in a daring ladder act; Rita Bell's pretty dances please the audience; Blarney and Kennard create a lot of fun in their comedy act; the songs of Bernard Katz, Hebrew bass vocalist, are greeted with hearty applause; and Dolly, Agnes, and Maud, singing boxmakers, score a great success. Humorous bioscope pictures complete a most enjoyable entertainment.

RAMSGATE.—ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE AND PAVILION.—Proprietors, Ramsgate Corporation; Lessee and Manager, Mr. Jules Richeux.—The talented troupe of entertainers known as the Gazekas have made a reappearance here this week. Mr. Wellesley Lynn's comjuring and clever patter add a distinct element of attractiveness to the programme. Miss Evelyn Fowler plays violin solos with marked success; Miss Frances Kapstowne contributes humorous sketches; and excellent turns are also supplied by Mr. Tom Arnold (vocalist), Mr. F. Taylor (song and speciality sand dance artist), Mr. J. Vincent (edeophone soloist), and Miss Bessie Graves (vocalist). Excellent living pictures are shown by means of Jury's Imperial Bioscope.

SANGER'S AMPHITHEATRE.—Proprietor, Lord George Sanger; General-Manager, Mr. H. Bowman.—Miss Constance Moxon is here with a capital company of variety artists. La Petite Carlina is a charming little costume dancer; Miss Beattie Lyndon's song and dance are well received; Harry Lawson is nightly encored for his clever comic songs; and E. Will Capper also meets with a fair measure of success in a similar direction; the Mujscal Keiths are seen to great advantage in their clever and versatile performance; Tom Craven and company in the Lady in Red have caused great laughter; Miss Constance Moxon has appeared in a monologue, entitled A Toff for Ten Minutes, which gives the lady opportunities of displaying her versatility, and she has gained well-deserved applause. The programme concludes with some fine films shown by Ruffell's Imperial Bioscope.

ROTHERHAM.—THEATRE ROYAL, LTD.—Managing-Director, Mr. F. Macnaghten; Resident-Manager, Mr. Holbery Hardy.—Mr. E. Oswald Brooks and company are here this week with The Trail of the Serpent, a sensational drama. Mr. Harry P. Kenn is highly successful in the emotional part of Sir Gerald Kingston; and Mr. A. Campbell Kelly gives a clever portrayal of the rôle of Gerald Kingston. Mr. Wilford Cheetham scores as Ralph Hammond; and Mr. Vincent Kelway is amusing and smart as William Higgins. Mr. Booth Conway as Gipsy Jake and Mr. George Harris as Ben Chucks are deserving of mention. Miss Marie Barrett as Ethel Maynard gives a pleasing embodiment of a difficult rôle; and Miss Nana Cameron is seen to advantage as Rachel. Miss Gladys Newcombe is sprightly as Rose Wilson.

SALFORD.—PRINCE OF WALES.—Proprietor and Manager, Mr. E. B. Goulden; Acting-Manager, Mr. Harold Goulden.—A Mother's Love met with a good reception by a crowded house on Monday. Mr. Arthur Mervyn makes a good parson as Paul Wingate, and his wife Winnie is cleverly played by Miss Rosa Mervyn; the villain Geoffrey Mannering, is successfully presented by Mr. George Child; Mr. Fred L. Connyngham keeps the audience in roars as Mat Ruddock, a ne'er-do-well; Mr. Robt. W. Lynn as Joe Jackson; and Miss Dorothy Monkhouse as Mary Smart also furnish acceptable comedy; Miss Marjorie Murray is a charming Ellaine Marvin; Miss Bertha Christobel, as the child, Marjorie Wingate, shows ability in her work.

Henry Herbert and Bernard Limpus' company has returned here with Shakespearean plays. Monday witnessed the performance of Hamlet. Mr. Alfred A. Harris in the rôle of Claudius was in his element, his portrayal gaining praise; Hamlet was taken by Mr. Henry Herbert, who impersonated the important character with considerable talent and success, his efforts being rapturously applauded; Messrs. Arthur Fayne and A. Begbie were good exponents of Polonius and Horatio respectively; whilst Laertes was well acted by Mr. Frank Darch. Miss Dorothy Green gave an effective impersonation of Gertrude, and Miss Gladys Vanderzee as Ophelia was decidedly good. The other plays for the week include The Merchant of Venice, Twelfth Night, The Merry Wives of Windsor, and Othello.

EMPIRE THEATRE.—Owners, Empire Theatre Co., Ltd.; Managing-Director, Mr. Geo. Conquest; Manager, Mr. A. Lingham Power.—The attraction this week is the play, entitled The Marriage of Kitty, presented by Mr. Thomas Sidney and company in pleasing and successful manner. Sir Reginald Belsize, Bart., finds in Mr. Edgar Kent a capable exponent; and as John Travers Mr. Thomas Sidney gives an excellent portrayal that merits praise; Messrs. Christmas Grose and H. A. Samson play the rôles of Norbury and Hampton respectively in good style. Miss Mary Thorne is well suited as Miss Katherine Silverton ("Kitty"), whilst Miss Kathleen Russell portrays Mme. de Semiano with ability; Rosalie is well embodied by Miss Josephine Rae. The dramatic sketch, entitled Twenty Years Ago, which precedes, is capitally rendered.

ALFRESCO THEATRE OF VARIETIES.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless.—This new place of entertainment is proving very popular, and capital programmes are submitted. Last week's artists are retained, and the Bijou Orchestra is evidently gaining favour. Mr. H. Syme is the director, who has every reason to be proud of his endeavours to provide good shows.

PIER HILL BANDSTAND.—Sole Lessee and Manager, Mr. H. E. Angless.—This popular place of entertainment still draws large crowds, extra seating accommodation being found necessary. Record business is being done, excellent programmes being presented three times daily. In addition to the already strong company of artists, the new comers are Mr. Arthur T. Mills, the living lilliputian and ventriloquist, and Mr. Victor Marmond, solo pianist.

SOUTHPORT.—ALBERT HALL, WINTER GARDENS.—Lessee, Mrs. Charles Parker; Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Mertz—The popularity of this place of amusement was evidenced by the crowded audience which patronised the performance on Monday evening, when a programme of all-round merit was presented. The principal items were provided by Nellie Coleman, who submitted some typical male impersonations very cleverly, and was loudly applauded; the Delevines, in their original comedy, Flipp and Flopp, presented a highly diverting sketch, which caused continual merriment; Radford and Valentine, the Jolly Jesters, were exceedingly humorous. Other turns included the Three Sisters Slater, banjoists and dancers; Dome, the original clay modeller; the Three Whirligigs, in their original act Fun in a Kitchen; Arthur Stacey, comedian and top-boot dancer; Kathleen Moore, soprano; and the Bioscope.

PIER PAVILION.—Proprietors, The Southport Pier Company; Manager, Mr. Charles F. Johnson.—On Monday evening a packed audience greeted the capital combination of variety artists who form the attraction here this week. The bill is headed by N. T. Kioto, the wonderful Japanese equilibrist, who gives a marvellously clever performance; the programme includes the Three Great Seabornes, acrobatic wonders; H. O. Wills, the new star comedian; Lilian Payne, the Yorkshire contralto; Ford Williams, Welsh basso; Hughes and Eliot, duettists and dancers; Fred Bronte, descriptive vocalist; Lil Esplin, comedienne; and the Bio-Tableaux.

SOUTH SHIELDS.—THEATRE ROYAL.—Licensees and Managers, Messrs. J. and F. Coulson.—Sydney Dench's company is drawing excellent houses here in the drama, The Rich and Poor of London. Mr. Dench achieves success in the arduous part of Spider Jack; Miss Dora Dench creditably sustains the heroine, May Braithwaite, her performance being charming; Miss Molly Hackett adds greatly to the comedy element with a clever and funny portrayal of Polly Philpot; Mr. J. Templar Ellis, who contributes a neat character-study, is advantageously placed as Grabbam; Messrs. Edward Avinal, Graham Arthurs, and Arthur Jarvis appear successfully in their respective parts of Mark Stanley, Dr. Morton, and Gussy Lamb. Miss Ethel Denville (Seadrift) and Master Bert Dench (Dixie) also had their admirers.

EMPIRE PALACE THEATRE.—Proprietor, Mr. Richard Thornton; General-Manager, Mr. Frank Allen; Resident-Manager, Mr. Geo. F. Thompson.—Bob Hutt and his pantomime sketch company in Welcome Home provide an enjoyable and laughable entertainment; Starr and Leslie, comedy artists, are also in great demand; J. A. Wilson, black comedian, with his clever dog, Towser, are as successful as ever; and Ike Scott and Son, with excellent songs, make a big hit as the Officious Officer and Raw Recruit; Vernando, the ventriloquial barber, is pleasing; popular Rhoda Paul, male impersonator, has been retained another week; Marie Reeves, charming comedienne and clever dancer, and the American Bioscope complete the bill.

TIVOLI.—Proprietors and Managers, Councillor J. H. Hall and Mr. Jos. Sweeney.—Alf Sanger, comedy artist, is popular, both his patter and dancing being of a high order; Maggie Dilston renders her numbers in a charming style, and Almon appears to advantage in a smart athletic turn; an excellent series of new films are depicted by the Bioscope. A "go-as-you-please" competition, open to all local amateurs, is arousing interest.

STAFFORD.—LYCEUM THEATRE. — Lessee and Manager, Mr. James Elphinstone.—Variety reigns here this week, and an attractive bill is provided, headed by Mlle. Florence, who gives a highly-entertaining and clever performance on the rolling globe and bottles.; Alex presents a good turn as a strong man; Dale and D'Argan, acrobatic conjurers, cause much amusement in their novelty act, "La Café Magique; George Raper is a capital character comedian; and Polly Adula acquits herself with credit.

ST. HELENS. — HIPPODROME. — Proprietors, Messrs. T. Barrasford, Will Sley, and Fred Willmott; Resident-Manager, Mr. A. V. Carnell.—At the head of the bill here this week we have Mr. Arnold Bell's clever company in the startling sketch The Blind Witness, which is capitally rendered. The Brothers Mellot, blind vocal duettists, are well received. Mr. Edwin Lambert and Miss Emmie Hands in vocal scenes and high-class duets are scoring heavily. Mr. H. O. Borie is a comedy juggler of high merit. Miss Edie Endon is a very clever comedienne and expert dancer. Mr. George Grogie is a laughter-provoking character-comedian; and Weisker's Bioscope is still showing.

STOCKPORT.—THEATRE ROYAL AND OPERA HOUSE.—Sole Owner and Manager, Mr. Charles Revill; Acting-Manager, Mr. Wm. Revill.—Mr. Reginald H. Adair's company has given excellent representations here of The Luck of Life. A powerful impersonation of Michael Bazilovitz is presented by Mr. Roland Yorke, and Mr. Leonard Thackeray acts with skill as Count Petroff. Mr. Joseph Millaine as George Stanhope gives an able portrayal of the part, and Mr. Fred Danvers is most amusing as Simon Stanley. Miss Mary Dawson fills the character of Rene Bazilovitz with admirable effect; and Miss Dora Huggett is pleasing as Laura North; whilst Countess Viame is ably presented by Miss Gertie Bonser.

EMPIRE.—Acting-Manager, Mr. W. Black.—The management here is displaying marked enterprise in its catering for the tastes of its patrons, a distinct hit being achieved this week by the engagement of the Regal Operatic Quartette in selections from Maritana. Another excellent attraction is the Tom Davies Trio in their motor cycle act, "Whirling the Whirl," a performance which is daring and clever. The pleasing dialect comedienne, Madge Grey is again included in the programme, and a local comedian, Jim Alston, is a great success. Martinengo, 'cellist and baritone, is entertaining in his scena, The Unemployed Musician; Flori St. Roy sings pleasingly, and Lilian Hodge is a charming ballad vocalist; Amy Elcock, comedienne and dancer; Florence Schuberth, burlesque artiste; and Albert German, baritone vocalist, complete a capital programme.

THE HAPPY VALLEY.—Manager, Mr. Charles Osborne—The artistes engaged here this week are Mr. F. S. Harris, Miss Beatrice Varley, Mr. Harry Rose, Mr. Charles Wood, Mr. Bert Dansie, Mr. Charles Osborne, and Mr. Owen Clark. On Wednesday Mr. G. H. Chirgwin, Miss Fanny Wentworth, and Mr. Joe Archer assisted in a special matinée in aid of the Music Hall Benevolent and Music Hall Home Funds.

LONDON & SUBURBAN THEATRES.

THE CAMDEN.

On Monday, July 16,
the Drama, by Mark Melford, entitled
"FLYING FROM JUSTICE."

Mr. Mark Melford's melodrama, Flying From Justice, is being presented here this week, and is meeting with a cordial reception from large audiences. The piece long since became a favourite with the playgoers who have a taste for melodrama, for it is a strongly-written play, with many excellent lines and thrilling situations, that of the Coiners' Den being a decidedly exciting scene, which never fails to draw applause. A capital company is headed by that well-known actor Mr. J. C. Aubrey, who gives one of his usual strong impersonations as J. Haldane Gully, the head of the gang. It is a really clever piece of acting, and, despite the evil nature of the character, one is almost bound to admire the resolute and calm manner with which he faces danger. A striking feature of Mr. Melford's work lies in the fact that his characters are naturally drawn, and that of Winnie Bradley is an excellent example. Miss Mary Raby plays the part effectively, and earns the utmost interest of the audience. Miss Jessie Winter is especially good as Mildred Parkes, and secures full sympathy by her quiet but determined manner. Mr. Fred Morgan plays John Lacarsey in a capital style, his disguise when searching for the murderer of his father being cleverly done; Mr. Young Melford makes an excellent Charles Bearing; and Major Parkes is well impersonated by Mr. E. Major Jones. Mr. Tom Allen creates a decided impression in the short scene in which he appears as Jim Kimber; Mr. W. H. Morgan is seen to advantage as Pearly Tanner; and Mr. Jackson Willcox is successful as Woodruff. Miss Blanche Stanley plays Mrs. Bearing in a very earnest manner, and in the scene when Mrs. Bearing visits "the gang" to inquire for her son she was natural and convincing.

THE SHAKESPEARE.

On Monday, July 16,
The Drama, in Four Acts, by Lingford Carson, entitled
"THE DRAMA OF LIFE."

Notwithstanding the fact that drama has filled the bill here for some weeks past, crowded houses have been the rule at each performance this week, and the manifest enthusiasm of the audiences testifies to the excellence alike of the play and its presentation by Mr. Lingford Carson's company. The piece is staged with a completeness that excites general admiration, and the elaborate setting of Act III. in particular draws forth rounds of applause. Mr. Edward M. Hamilton scores a genuine hit in his thoroughly sound representation of the unhappy husband Harry Beech. His clever acting, especially in the drunken scene, makes a deep impression, and at the fall of the curtain he is accorded an ovation. Miss Kate Hallam plays cleverly in the exacting part of the unfortunate Sylvia Beech, and acquits herself with distinct success. The part is one which calls for highly emotional acting, and Miss Hallam throughout has the utmost interest and sympathy of the audience. A finished performance of the villainous Walter Beech is given by Mr. J. Hooker, who quite realises the vindictiveness of the character, and acts with an earnestness that carries conviction. An excellent study of the old lodging-house keeper Betty Black is given by Miss Nellie Birchenough, who looks and acts the part to perfection. As Sir Dobson Wilde, the harmless aristocrat who aspires to become a famous detective, Mr. Harwood Roberts is a host in himself, and in a part that allows him full scope for his humorous antics contrives to keep the audience in continuous merriment. Mr. Sidney Fiennes as Dave Crane makes excellent use of his limited opportunities; and Mr. H. Maxwell Payne gives an admirable delineation of Jack Lawton. Mr. Horace Booth is well placed as Richard Brenton, a detective; and Mr. Edward Van Biene's impersonation of Count de Foi, a French adventurer, leaves nothing to be desired. Miss Florence French as Lady Jane Wilde deserves praise for her excellent portraiture; and little Elsie May displays talent in the rôle of Master Robert Beech, her distinct utterance enabling her to bring out with the utmost force the effective lines which fall to her. The minor parts are all in safe hands and adequately sustained. Mr. Edward Van Biene is general manager for Mr. Lingford Carson.

COUNTY THEATRE, KINGSTON.

On Monday, July 16,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by Wilkie Collins, entitled
"THE NEW MAGDALEN."

Mr. Davey, the managing-director of the Royal County Theatre, brings his summer season to a close this week with The New Magdalen, which has been commanding a fair measure of public patronage. The play abounds in strong dramatic interest, and secures a most flattering reception The company, which is captained by Mr. A. Clifton Alderson, is a thoroughly capable one all round. Miss B. Doyle appears as Mercy Merrick, and scores a disinct success; Miss G. Hastings-Walton makes a creditable appearance as Grace Rosebery; and Miss Mildred Gilbert acquits herself well as Lady Jane Roy. Mr. Alderson himself plays Julian Gray, and invests the part with a strong sympathetic interest; and Mr. H. K. Ayliffe makes a successful appearance as Horace Holmcroft. Other parts are ably filled by Messrs. Harry F. Wright, Richard Cameron, Thos. Kirkwood, T. Weymons. and H. Richards. The drama is preceded by the farce Bamboozling, in which the parts are sustained as follows: Captain Bamboozle, Mr. H. K. Ayliffe; Sir Marmaduke Meadows, Mr. Harry F. Wright; Frank Tiverton, Mr. Richard Cameron; Dolley, Mr. Thos. Kirkwood; Lady Meadows. Miss Mildred Gilbert; Lucy Weston. Miss G. Hastings-Walton; and Emily, Miss Moya Mannering.

THE CROWN, PECKHAM.

On Monday, July 16,
the Farcical Comedy, in Three Acts, by Weedon Grossmith, entitled
"THE NIGHT OF THE PARTY."

Mr. Cecil Paget, the popular manager, presents his patrons with a great attraction in the sparkling farcical comedy, The Night of the Party. Mr. George Stephenson's clever company gives a first-class rendering of the exhilarating play, and the whole entertainment is one eminently calculated to dispel a fit of the blues. Mr. Leslie Holland submits a capital impersonation of the rôle of the cool, imperturbable valet and champion liar, Crosbie, the part originally created by Mr. Weedon Grossmith, and each successive "terminological inexactitude" is greeted with roars of laughter. Mr. George Stephenson tenders a polished and gentlemanly reading of the fashionable lady killer, Mr. Frank Frayne, and his accomplished acting in a difficult rôle is of the greatest value to the success of the piece. Miss Eva Erskine plays very cleverly the part of the brazen adventuress, Gipsy Vandeleur, scoring well throughout the play, and Mr. Fred Rolph is a great success in the part of the conscientious and pompous butler, Mr. Flambert. Mr. Allen Cunard is an appropriately calm and dignified Sir Charles Hampshire, and Mr. Ernest Cresfan is good as Alderman Hargen. Miss Vera Vere is vivacious and pleasing as Crosbie's sweetheart, Pauline, and Mr. George Sade does full justice to the part of Roundle, the Cockney footman. Miss Evelyn Howard plays with dignity and charm as Lady Hampshire. Mr. H. V. Surrey is amusing as Boyle. The remaining characters are well rendered by Mr. Conningsby Brierley, Charles Wilson, William Consett, Patrick and Samuel Phinge, and Misses Maisee Jones, and Hilda Saroo. The amusing scene of the servants' supper party in the first act, with its diverting sequel, is capitally given. The play is produced under the personal supervision of Mr. Weedon Grossmith.

THE LYRIC, HAMMERSMITH.

On Monday, July 16,
The Drama, by James Willard, entitled
"IN THE SHADOW OF NIGHT."

A cordial reception is being given to Mr. James Willard's company at the Lyric this week, the play In the Shadow of Night being at once exciting and spectacular, and the various characters well rendered. Mr. Austin Mortimer is excellent as Gordon Allington, the hero of the drama. The villainous Clifford Yorks is portrayed in a masterly manner by Mr. George R. Montford; while Mr. Fred Norburn as his partner in crime, Jake Grudgewell, is very successful. A part which has pleased Lyric audiences is that of Mollie Woodstock; and Miss Nellie Sheffield, who is responsible for this character, certainly deserves the rounds of applause she nightly receives. A clever bit of acting is given by Mr. Fred G. Evison, who in the rôle of Joe Jackson, a rural postman, deserves great praise. Miss Phyllis Dailley is a graceful Violet Kingston, and plays the part with conspicuous ability; Miss Phyllis French makes a plucky Bob, a young waif; Mr. Harry Emmerson as James Woodstock causes plenty of amusement, his study of the farmer of a former generation being wonderfully life-like; nor can we speak too highly of the excellent work of Mr. George Harvey, whose acting in the trying rôle of Jack Allington is much appreciated.

KENNINGTON THEATRE.

On Monday, July 16,
the Drama, in Five Acts, by George R. Sims and Henry Pettitt, entitled
"MASTER AND MAN."

For the last week of the present season Mr. Robert Arthur has put up the exciting melodrama Master and Man, which bears the mark of the practised dramatists' able pens on every scene. Excitement is sustained throughout the piece, and a very sensational moment is reached in the scene of the Ironworks when one of the characters is thrust into the blazing furnace. The play is admirably presented by a well-chosen company, foremost among whom is Mr. Roy Redgrave, an actor who attained great poularity as leading man at the Britannia and elsewhere, and has since won laurels in a far distant land. He plays the part of the young engineer, Jack Walton, in a striking fashion, and the honourable attributes which attach to the character are vividly brought out. His young wife, Hester, is admirably played by Miss Lucy Sibley, who alternates the sweetness of sorrow and passionate fervour in a way that completely gains the hearts of the audience. Mr. Jo Monkhouse, the bearer of an honoured name, gives an impressive performance of Humpy Logan, laying great stress on the spite ond vindictiveness of the part, and the more cultured characteristics of villainy are effectively delineated by Mr. Alec Bradley as Robert Carlton, the scheming owner of the works. Mr. Trueman Towers revels in the mirth-making propensities of Tom Honeywood; and Mr. Templeton's giggle and mincing manner as the effeminate Crispin St. Jones are irresistible. A forcible exposition of the outraged forgeman, Jim Burleigh, is given by Mr. George Barran, whose declamatory powers are utilised effectively in the strong lines which fall to him. The lively Letty Lightfoot is briskly and merrily played by Miss Tiz Maddocks; and Keziah Honeywood is made a character of great importance by Miss Sophy Shenton, whose long experience enables her to emphasise every point in the part. A natural impersonation of Hester's little boy, Johnny, is given by Miss Hetty Melville; and two children are also played by Misses Minnie Glaunder and Gladys Ellis. Levano, the acrobat, and his pal Jim are effectively impersonated by Mr. F. Arnold and Mr. G. Marlow respectively; and the other parts of a long cast are creditably sustained.

THE PAVILION.

On Monday, July 16,
the Operetta, in Four Acts, by J. Lateiner, entitled
"KORAH'S TREASURES."

The operetta by J. Lateiner, entitled Korah's Treasures, was the attraction offered by the Jewish Operatic and Dramatic Company, at the Pavilion on Monday, and was enthusiastically received by a large audience. The play has evidently been suggested by Goethe's Faust, and has the advantage of some well written music, while the stage effects, notably the assembly of devils in the first act, and the picturesque appearance of angels in the second act, are admirably managed. Madame Zwiebel was both vocally and histrionically a great success as Yechved and Zipare, her fine voice, which is of great range and power, being heard with splendid effect in the many numbers allotted to her care; while Gabriel found a very capable exponent in Madame F. Waxman. A striking impersonation was the Ekivo of Mr. Isaacowitz, a characterisation of great artistic excellence from every point of view. Mr. Schilling played Yene with many amusing touches of humour, and Miss Bryh rendered commendable support as Rochle. Mr. Schapira is entitled to the highest praise for his delineation of Zamri, his assumption of curiosity combined with fear, when tempted by Maman in the opening scene, being well expressed; while Maman, or Mephistopheles, was portrayed with ability and the necessary versatility by Mr. Streng. Miss Geschpass was a praiseworthy Youth, and Madame Goldstein a satisfactory Old Age; Mr. Zeidel appeared as the Captain of the Guard. Successful performances during the week have been given of Judith and Alphernas, Ben Hador, Princess as Beggar, The Bielostock Massacre, and Sulamith.

THE WEST LONDON.

On Monday, July 16,
the Drama, in Four Acts, entitled
"THE POWER OF GOLD."

Plenty of excitement is contained in this interesting play, with the result that the West Londoners this week accorded it a very favourable reception. As the butcher-boy Sammy Smudge Mr. Frank Ayrton has a part in which he simply revels. There is never a dull moment while he is on the stage, his twinkling feet being everywhere, and his success is most pronounced. Mr. Charles Whitlock is effectively made up as Hadji Zambra; Mr. Richard Oliver is convincingly energetic as Paul Judson; Mr. Albert Sefton is persevering as Mark Harley; Mr. Frank Holyoake is commendable as Dr. Saunders; and Mr. W. Victor finds a congenial task as Peter Maguire. The important rôle of Lady Brandon is sustained in an able manner by Miss Lilla Wilde, who quickly gets a grip on the house, which she maintains to the end. Miss Georgina V. France enacts Meg Judson with plenty of reserved force and passion, her well-modulated voice and excellent elocution being most acceptable; Little Prudence is decidedly clever as Paddy Blake; and Miss Madge Seymour makes the fun fast and furious by reason of her bright and sparkling methods as Norah Donnelly.

NEW PRINCE'S THEATRE, POPLAR.

On Monday, July 16,
the Drama, in Four Acts, by C. R. Clarke and H. R. Silva, entitled
"HONOUR THY FATHER."

Mr. Morton Powell has a strong drama in Honour Thy Father, and it is ably presented by his excellent company appearing this week at Poplar. Mr. Walter M. Cameron as Gabriel Garth presents a fine picture of the sturdy British yeoman farmer, and his performance is excellent throughout; Mr. Douglas B. Watson as Jack Halyard, captain in the merchant service, acts in a bright and hearty fashion, and looks an ideal sailor. As Duncan Bly Mr. Clavering Craig makes an amiable and polished villain; he fills the rôle with true dramatic instinct. Mr. W. H. Melrose as Ned Pennycomquick is exceedingly amusing as the servant of the Garths, and later their friend in adversity. Mr. Sinclair Holden as Mike Copplestone is a pleasing sort of rogue, who carries out his nefarious doings with drollery, and aids Duncan Bly in his rascally business. Mr. Claude Merton doubles the parts of Job Merry and George Bloggs in a very satisfactory manner; and Mr. Philip Armstrong as Seizem, a bailiff, could not be bettered in his impersonation. Mrs. Clavering Craig as Gertrude Garth plays the part of the faithful wife with touching pathos; and as Lilian Garth Miss Mabel Coleman quickly wins the favour of her audience by her effective and natural acting. Miss Lizzie Morley gives a pleasant rendering of Poppy Cornleigh, and shows at the same time a clever piece of character acting. Miss Maude Grey as Violet Wilfred is well placed; and Miss Winnie Donovan gives a bright and animated performance as Mercy Merry.

THE STAGE AS EMPIRE INSTRUCTOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—Ignorance of the principal races under the ægis of the Union Jack is regrettable, while counterfeit representations on the stage of their manners, music, customs, costumes, worship, etc., are nothing short of scandalous. Even the vital essentials of national life, religion and the homesteads, are invariably metamorphosed to ludicrous ends for financial gain. Staged by well-known managers, such shows, with gorgeous Eastern surroundings, strange to observe, are hall-marked as genuine reproductions or representations. England's greatest dependency, India, is very poorly represented on the stage, and if anything at all is put on the boards, that, without a doubt, is faked up to such uncompromising limits as to leave in the minds of the public a very doubtful, garbled, hazy conception of the India of to-day under King Edward.

The religious worship of the Hindoos has often been ridiculed by the introduction of meaningless rituals and inconsistent actions, thus reversing their sacred asset into a weird farce. Such entertainments at missionary meetings may serve to swell the coffers for the conversion of the heathen "who bow down to wood and stone." Imagine a company of Hindoos mimicking in India the religious worship of Anglo-Catholics or Quakers or even Salvationists; what else would it be, but a mockery, an insult?

Absolute ignorance is betrayed when Indian music is imitated. A weird, monotonous music is not Aryan. The music of my country is simple melody in variations. If managers mean to do justice to India and its music, their orchestras should be instructed to interpret Indian music in proper Oriental tempo. The music of my native land defies European notation, and execution is only achieved by systematic mental instruction. Remini himself admits that no amount of musical knowledge could enhance the divine interpretation of India's rhythmic music.

Indian dancing varies according to localities. Unlike the recognised steps for European dances, different parts of India have distinct and characteristic steps, both fascinating and charming. The Nautch dance, rope dance, fire dance, cymbal dance, stick dance, Nagasarpa dance, etc., etc., etc., well known in India, have each different music in different districts. Therefore, it is unfair that Indian terpsichorean art should be belittled by disjointed movements of the body by a dancer or a company of dancers.

The costumes of Hindoos are grossly misrepresented, cruelly exaggerated, and ludicrously worn. A blend of Turkish, Egyptian, and Indian does not make up the costume of a Hindoo. It is like seeing the son of Gascon in kilts, a Chinese mandarin in the garb of a Red Indian.

I feel bound to observe that in this country and America, imagination plays an active part in the presentation of anything Oriental. True that Eastern themes should be so staged to suit Western minds, but what is most objectionable is that imagination and guesswork are utilised instead of a practical, or even a sound theoretical knowledge, which latter, more than anything else, will materially assist in instructing the public of the East of to-day, and not the East of fairyland, dreamland, bogeyland, and a land of low pantomime.

I appeal to managers and actor-managers to give to the British public the true interpretation of the manners and music, customs, art, costumes, worship, etc., of the people or peoples they wish represented, and thus can they forge more links in the interminable chain of instructors in the vastness, greatness, and solidarity of the British Empire.

RAJAH RHAM SINGH,
The Belle of India Company.
American Exchange, Trafalgar Buildings, W.C.,
July 18, 1906.

THE directors of the Cardiff Theatre Royal Company, Limited, having realised the necessity of effecting improvements in the present building, Mr. Matcham, the well-known architect for numerous Empires, was called in to make a general inspection, and expressed the opinion that the only solution of the difficulty was the acquisition of adjoining property. The directors have accordingly taken over neighbouring premises, which will enable them to provide a spacious foyer, and also to effect such other improvements as will ensure a good view of the stage from all parts of the house.

PRINCESS VICTORIA OF SCHLESWIG-HOLSTEIN was present at the performance of Faust at the Royal Opera, Covent Garden, on the 13th inst.; and on the following evening the Prince and Princess of Wales visited the Court Theatre and witnessed the performance of You Never Can Tell.

CROWN THEATRE OUTING.

The stage and permanent staff of the Crown Theatre, Peckham, accompanied by the respected Acting-Manager, Mr. J. H. Brett, held their eighth annual outing at Arundel on Sunday. Amongst the visitors present were:—Mr. Jack Mellish, of the "Red Cow," Mr. Tom Carter, of the "Crown," Mr. Jas. Armour, of the "King's Head," and Mr. Geo. Scott, of the "Adam and Eve" hotels, Peckham, Messrs. John T. and D. Sheridan, of the Waldorf Theatre, Mr. J. White, of the "Farrier's Arms," Rotherhithe, and Messrs. Jack Chappell and Frank Ficker, of the Pavilion Theatre. Assembling at London Bridge and Peckham Rye stations at 7.45 and 8 o'clock a.m. respectively, the party, numbering 44, were soon merrily spinning along per L.B. and S.C. Railway in a specially reserved coach towards that beautiful spot in Sussex, where is situated the magnificent castle and park of His Grace, the Duke of Norfolk.

After a very pleasant journey, thanks to the excellent arrangements and catering of the honorary secretary, Mr. Philip Sheridan (The Crown electrician) and the stewards, Messrs. Matt Buck (scenery department), Thos. Morgan (electrical department), and Fred Chappell (property master), the party arrived at Arundel at 10 o'clock, whence they proceeded in open carriages for a five-mile drive to Littlehampton. There a number of the party indulged in the delights of sea-bathing as far as was practicable. The party then returned to Arundel, where dinner was eaten at the "Black Rabbit" Hotel.

Mr. Harry J. Brett, the well-known variety comedian, occupied the seat of honour in lieu of Mr. Cecil Paget (the Crown's popular manager), who was unavoidably absent. Mr. Jack Mellish occupied the vice-chair.

After Mr. Pip Sheridan's request in Latin—"Fiat justitia, ruat cœlum" (Let justice be done, though the heavens should fall), printed at the foot of the menu card, had been conscientiously complied with, Mr. Brett submitted the toast of "The King and Queen," which was cordially honoured. Mr. Brett then said: "Mr. Vice-Chairmen and Gentlemen,—Before touching on anything else I must first of all convey to you the sincere apologies and regret expressed by our manager, Mr. Cecil Paget, at his inability to attend at this, the eighth of the Crown staff's annual excursions, occasions to which he has always looked forward with great pleasurable anticipation, and he directed me very particularly to wish you, one and all, on his behalf a thoroughly happy and good time. Before proceeding any further I will ask you to replenish your glasses and to drink to the health and prosperity of our absent chairman, Mr. Cecil Paget, and also to "Our directors.'"

The toast being enthusiastically honoured, Mr. Brett proceeded: "I am indeed delighted to be here with you all to-day, and I trust that I may have the honour and pleasure of coming with the Crown staff, which I may say all the touring managers term as being 'of the best to be found,' on many more of these festive occasions. I am pleased too, to see that there are such a goodly number present, the largest gathering, I believe, in the annals of Crown outings, though not the largest I should think that ever will attend, judging by the many jovial visitors I see around me to-day, and whom, I am sure, we all welcome most heartily. I must say a few words of praise about the organisers of this outing, and more especially so of your honorary secretary, Mr. Phil Sheridan, who has worked and is still working like a very Trojan to make everything a huge success, and I think you will agree with me, gentlemen, that he has made it a success with the valuable assistance of your vice-president, Mr. 'Teddy' Wade, and the stewards, Messrs. Morgan, Buck, and Chappell. Gentlemen, I thank you one and all for the honour you have conferred on me by appointing me as your chairman in Mr. Paget's place, and I trust that on many more of these enjoyable outings I shall have the pleasure of being with you."

The vice-chairman thanked the chairman and the Crown "boys" for their kindness in inviting him, and he hoped that he, too, would have the pleasure of accompanying them on many future outings. He said: "I was once asked would I make a little speech at a social gathering like this, and I consulted a very wise friend as to the best thing to do. His advice was terse and to the point—it was 'Stand up, speak up, and shut up,' and I think I will now do the latter, as I expect you are all anxious to get out into the open again, a glorious day like this."

Mr. George Scott remarked that he was only once behind the scenes, and he would never forget that occasion, for he was "commandeered" on to a scratch tug-of-war team to pull against the Crown team, who were in training for the theatrical sports, and they made him work harder than ever he had worked in his life before. He also said that it would astonish the audience in front of the curtain if they could only see the amount of work that had to be carried on noiselessly and expeditiously behind.

Mr. Tom Carter, after repeated calls, stood up and said: "Mr. Chairman, Vice-Chairman, Gentlemen, and 'Brother Bungs,'—I thank you most heartily for your kindness in allowing me to occupy a seat at your table on this auspicious occasion, and I hope to again have the pleasure. It is my first time, but I must try and always be one of you."

Mr. James Armour said: "Gentlemen all,—I thank you very much for my presence here to-day. Last year I was the only 'bung,' as my friend Mr. Carter puts it, with you, and I am very glad indeed to see so many of my confrères with us this year; it shows that they are all coming to the same opinion that I hold, that the Crown 'boys' are all a jolly good lot of fellows."

Mr. Philip Sheridan, the honorary secretary, hoped next year to see them all together again with many more pals, and on behalf of the Crown staff he thanked Mr. Brett and Mr. Mellish and all the "bungs" for honouring them with their company at this, their eighth annual. He asked the boys to give three hearty cheers for the friends present.

A vote of thanks having been passed to Mr Lee and his assistants for the excellent repast they had provided, the party were taken in charge by Mr. F. Blake, of Camberwell Road, who, after a little trouble with Mr. Sam Ewart's fringe, obtained a capital photograph of the group.

During the afternoon the party dispersed into groups, some going boating on the beautiful Arun, others for a drive through the magnificent park. Amongst the former were Mr. Harry Brett and Mr. Phil Sheridan, between whom there was an exciting sculling match for about a mile, Mr. Sheridan eventually beating his opponent by a couple of lengths and thereby winning the Crown Championship "Cup," which is a fairly valuable trophy, consisting as it does of a large bottle of Dunville's special Irish.

There was also a good fishing competition between Mr. Wade and Mr. J. R. Price, both well-known Peckham Piscatorials, the former winning by weight, his catch being two small gudgeon and an old boot, against a bunch of floating weeds to the latter.

After tea the party were conveyed back to the station, and the home journey commenced all too early at 6.30.

The Crown staff wish to convey their cordial thanks to the various tradespeople, local and otherwise, also to Miss Claire Romaine, Mr. Edwin Boyde, and the rest of the Dick Whittington pantomime company, and to the management of the Crown Theatre, who all so kindly contributed to the outing fund and thereby helped to make the eighth annual the success it was.

ROYAL OPERA, COVENT GARDEN.

A fine performance of Aida was given on Saturday last at Covent Garden, Mlle. Destinn making her first appearance this season as Aida and Signor Battistini as Amonasro. Mlle. Destinn, as might be expected, gave due importance to the dramatic side in the character of the unhappy slave girl, while the part seemed vocally to suit this fine artist, the result being an intense rendering of the music in the duets with Radames and Amonasro in the Nile scene. The great tenor, Signor Caruso, also gave most impassioned singing in the music allotted to Radames; and Mme. Kirkby Lunn again repeated her fine performance of the Princess Amneris. Signor Battistini's Amonasro was full of dignity and restraint, befitting an Eastern monarch even in captivity. The part of the High Priest was taken by M. Journet; and M. Marcen made an imposing figure of the King. Signor Campanini conducted, and with the principal artists was called to the front after the second act.

Although late in the season, the production of Mozart's great work Don Giovanni on Tuesday night was very welcome. There was a fine cast, and an excellent performance was given in the presence of a large audience. Signor Battistini gave a most able interpretation of the wicked Don, looking and acting the part to perfection. Vocally also Signor Battistini proved a great success; in the famous serenade the audience insisted on an encore. Seldom nowadays is so fine a singer as Signor Caruso heard in the part of Don Ottavio, and it is needless to state that the airs "Dalla sua pace" and "Il mio tesoro" were beautifully sung; an encore, though earnestly demanded, was not granted. M. Journet made a lively and amusing Leporello; and M. Gilibert an excellent Mazelto; while Mlle. Destinn added another success by her embodiment of Donna Anna. A charming Zerlina was found in Mlle. Donalda; and Mme. Agnes Nicholls deserved praise for her clever singing in the part of Donna Elvira; and M. Marcoux made a dignified Il Commendatore. Chorus and orchestra, under M. Messager's care, were above reproach.

In Puccini's lurid music-drama La Tosca, given on Wednesday night, Mme. Giachetti appeared as the heroine and M. Fazzini as the hapless painter Cavaradossi. Mme. Giachetti's Tosca, a fine dramatic study, is familiar to operagoers, as in the last autumn season given by the San Carlo Company she made a great impression by her clever and intense impersonation of this tragic character. Mme. Giachetti was associated with a newcomer, M. Fazzini, whose Cavaradossi on Wednesday night can hardly be considered a marked success, either in fervent singing or convincing dramatic action. Signor Rossi gave an able rendering of Angelotti's part, and Signor Zuchi deserved praise for his Spoletta; while M. Gilibert was delightfully humorous in the quaint part of the Sacristan, the only pleasing character in the tragic story. As on former occasions, Signor Scotti's Scarpia made its due impression by the artist's fine acting of this unpleasant part. Signor Campanini conducted with great ability and success, and, on the whole, a fine performance was given of this gloomy opera.

IN the deplorable motor omnibus accident at Handcross Hill it would appear that only one of the killed—Mr. Francis—was insured with the Railway Passengers Assurance Company. It is certainly strange that in an age when the daily papers are constantly reporting more or less serious accidents so few people take advantage of the liberal policies of the company insuring against accidents of all kinds. Mr. Gladstone recently stated in Parliament that 956 accidents in connection with motor vehicles occurred in May alone in the Metropolitan area, and this without including the tramcar accidents. It should be borne in mind that it is not merely the passengers who suffer; pedestrians also stand the chance of being killed or injured.

MR. LOUIS J. BEARD, the genial manager of the Grand Theatre, Luton, was accorded his first benefit on Saturday. Since Mr. Beard took up his position two years ago he has made himself popular with all classes of his patrons, who packed the house to its uttermost. During an interval Mr. Falcon came forward to make a presentation on behalf of the staff of a handsome silver-plated tea and coffee service and tray, suitably inscribed. The artists who helped toward the success of the event were the Lavender troupe of cyclists, the London Comedy Boys, Walter Levalee, H. Cardoe, Bert Chant, Harry Talbot, Sylvene, Miss Clarice Raynor, R.A.M. (lady baritone), Miss Lily Gaston, Miss Eva Clark, Messrs. James Fairey, Loo Delger, Fred Marchant. and F. E. Townsend.

A CONFERENCE of the Street Noise Abatement Committee, held on the 13th inst., at 2, Harrington-gardens, South Kensington, adopted the following resolution: "This meeting is of opinion that a new Act of Parliament is urgently required for the better regulation of all kinds of street music, which, in spite of the Metropolis Police Act of 1864, continues to be a serious annoyance to a very large number of the residents of London."

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

The production of The Illustrious Stranger, in the form of a comic opera of that title, met with a most flattering reception. Quite an extensive levy has been made upon imaginative fairy lore, and the author has succeeded admirably in knitting together a story which is light and fantastic without descending to hackneyed methods for producing laughter. First and foremost to attract attention are the more than usually tuneful melodies which have been written by Mr. Henry W. Norman, who also conducts the augmented orchestra. The only weak point was that the orchestration was not on a par with either the book or the musical numbers.

It is truly said that some have greatness thrust upon them; and such a fate befalls the name-part of this play. Under the undignified cognomen of Timothy Tighe, a retail grocer, while on a holiday trip, is shipwrecked on the coast of Malabar. Apparently he is the sole survivor, and is quickly pounced on by Gill, chief torturer to King Back, and Dr. Ali, and invited to become the husband of Princess Bul-hul. The laws of the country are like the ways of the Heathen Chinee, peculiar. For instance, it is decreed that shipwrecked strangers must be treated with great kindliness and given a place of rank if they can be induced to stay on the isle. Again, the Princess's example must be followed by the ladies of the Court. When she weeps they must weep also; when she falls in love they do likewise; and this of course leads to amusing complications. The most important law is, however, that when husband or wife dies, the survivor must be buried alive with the corpse, and to this fate Timothy has a decided objection. Under threats of torture from the King he is at length induced to consent to marry the princess, in spite of his attachment to a lady named Sarah left in the great metropolis. The Princess looks on her prospective bridegroom with horror; but, in spite of her love being given to the gallant Prince Mourmahal, banished from the kingdom, she is compelled to submit to her father's wishes and marry the "illustrious stranger." Her lover returns to Malabar disguised as a messenger, but is too late to rescue the Princess, and her marriage with Timothy is celebrated with pomp and splendour.

In the second act we learn that Timothy has been made prince and given the two positions of Commander-in-Chief and Prime Minister—which serves as an introduction for some apt political allusions, received with laughter by the audience. In his new rank, therefore, he inspects the army in a very humorous scene, and sings a clever song about English girls and soldiers. Again Prince Mourmahal returns—in a different disguise this time—and has an interview with Grill, who, for personal reasons not unconnected with a girl named Kishma, is very anxious to bring the lovers together and get rid of the new Prince. They plot that Bul-hul shall feign to fall ill, that Mourmahal shall disguise himself as a Persian doctor and attend her, and that after a time the Princess shall pretend to die. Frantic with the non-success of his cure, the supposed physician shall offer himself as a substitute for the husband, and then the lovers, aided by Grill, can escape together. Bul-hul agrees to the plot, and it is carried through with success. Timothy strongly objects to be buried alive, and hails the substitute with joy. The disguised Prince enters the tomb where the supposed corpse is lying, and, throwing aside his beard, comes forth with the Princess in his arms alive and well. The King is overjoyed at seeing his daughter again, and apparently forgetful of his former animosity to the Prince, gives his consent to their nuptials. Evidently his majesty has the power of breaking as well as making marriages. Anyway, the little grocer is allowed to say farewell, and sets forth on his return journey to England, home—and Sarah.

It should be mentioned that nearly all the numerous cast consist of local artists, who, together with the chorus, have been rehearsed by Mr. Frederick Ross. The smoothness with which the production ran, the absence of waits, and the lack of prompting speak volumes for the energy and practical experience which Mr. Ross brought to bear on the production. The chorus, strong in numbers and in voice, formed a bevy of beauty, charmingly gowned. In fact, the costumes of the whole company were noticeable for their charm and variety, while the sets were pretty and formed an excellent background for effective groupings.

It was no easy task to play the rôle of the illiterate, ill-bred grocer, bewildered with the splendour of the Court, and forced into a position of rank and power, but Mr. Robert Denbigh Caley performed his task admirably. The humour was unforced and natural, the mannerisms amusing, and the few musical numbers all sung—or rather spoken through music—by Mr. Caley with much point and expression. Next in point of success was the impersonation of King Back by Mr. Colin Fleetwood. It was a performance which stood out distinctly by reason of sheer merit, and this gentleman must be complimented on his excellent make-up and effective byplay. Mr. Peder J. J. Neilson looked a gallant figure in his various costumes, and being the possessor of a tenor voice of fine quality and tone, sang his solos with much charm. Mr. Bowles was a crafty Dr. Ali; Mr. Percy Forman was humorous in a grim way as Grill, whose attachment to Lady Kishma forms a secondary love interest in the play; and Mr. Edwin Williams was duly impressive as the Priest. A delightful representation of the Princess was given by Miss Doris Dew. Her sweet and sympathetic voice has seldom been heard to such advantage as in the items allotted to the part, and the audience testified to their appreciation by hearty and prolonged applause. Miss Edith May played Kishma in a vivacious manner; while the other ladies in waiting had little to do but look nice and sing with expression. A word of praise is due to Miss May Wood for her musical contribution in the second act. This song is one of the prettiest numbers in the score, and is admirably suited to Miss Wood's rich, melodious voice.

MR GEORGE NEILSON, who is appearing with Mr. Victor Stevens in Jersey, is suffering from a bad attack of gout, but in spite of the fact that Monday, the opening night, proved wet, he, against his doctor's orders, declined to disappoint his public and duly made his appearance.

"SINS OF SOCIETY," a drama in a prologue and three acts, by Charles Darrell, was produced for copyright purposes at the Hounslow Hippodrome on Wednesday.

Lucky ..... MISS ELLA ROSE.

A most cordial reception was accorded this sparkling comedy on Thursday evening, July 12, when it was played for the first time by Mr. Frederick Jarman's own company at the Opera House, Weymouth. The scene of the first act is the Park and River at Broadlands-on-Thames. Sir Stephen Knellor informs his friend, Dr. Wharton, that he is in pecuniary difficulties, and that the estates of Broadlands belong to a child—a girl—at present in charge of a nurse, while he has the title and only £400 a year. Wharton suggests getting rid of the child. Sir Stephen at first objects; but, being in the hands of moneylenders, finally yields on the understanding that no harm shall come to her. Wharton gets possession of the child, but in a attempt to drown her in the river is disturbed. The helpless infant is found by Joe Summers, an actor, and is adopted and brought up by him and his wife as their own child. She eventually becomes a member of Joe's touring company, and attracts the notice and admiration of Harry Knellor, Sir Stephen's son.

The second act opens in the gardens at Broadlands, seventeen years after the adoption of the child by Joe Summers. Harry Knellor, taking advantage of Sir Stephen's absence in London, invites Joe's company to spend the day at Broadlands. Among the visitors is the charming young actress, who is known as "Lady Lucky," and Harry takes this opportunity of declaring his passion for the girl. Wharton also falls in love with her, and the two become rivals. Wharton makes her an offer, but is rejected; and to revenge himself he wires for Sir Stephen, who comes down to find the members of the company enjoying themselves at his house, and in angry and contemptuous words he orders them off the premises. Harry pleads to his father without success, and then Harry informs him that "Lucky" has consented to become his wife. An angry scene ensues, and Sir Stephen tells his son that if he persists in marrying the girl he will disinherit him. Harry, however, declines to yield, and is then told by his father that for the future he must go his own way.

The first scene of the third act is the stage of the Theatre Royal, where a rehearsal by Joe Summers's company is in progress. Joe is in difficulties, and Wharton is using the opportunity as the agent of Sir Stephen to break off the engagement between his son and "Lucky." On learning that she is the child he attempted to drown seventeen years ago, and thus being aware that she is the heiress of Broadlands, he makes a bold attempt to force her to become his wife, and finally succeeds in abducting her. What has happened soon comes to the ears of Harry, and he sets off in hot pursuit. He and his friends quickly arrive at the house in Soho whither Wharton has taken the girl. Everything has been arranged for the marriage, but in the temporary absence of Wharton, Harry, with the aid of a skilful disguise, cleverly impersonates Wharton and is married to "Lucky," thus defeating the villain's plans.

The interest of the audience was maintained throughout, and Mr. Jarman is to be congratulated on his interesting comedy. Mr. Oswald Cray played Sir Stephen with dignity throughout; and Mr. Henry Hare as Dr. Wharton gave a clever impersonation of the character. Mr. Johnny Chippendale was very amusing as Hildago Weeks; and the author, Mr. Jarman, as Joe Summers delighted the house. Mr. Mayor Cooke as Harry Knellor was thoroughly at home as the lover; and Mr. H. Wallace as Mr. St. John, Mr. George Le Roy as Willson, and Mr. Thomas Brunton were good in their respective parts. As "Lucky" Miss Ella Rose acted with a charm and grace which won the hearts of all. Miss Sousie Raymonde was capital as Pollie Weeks; and Miss Grace Vicat scored as Susan Summers. Miss Rosemary Rege made a favourable impression by the excellent way she sustained the part of Hilda St. John; Miss Kate Randolph as Mary Wilton, a nurse, also did well. Miss Pattie Green and Miss Minnie Linscot as Pollie and Mollie, actresses and dancers in Joe's company, contributed much to the success of the piece. The numerous musical items introduced were loudly applauded, and the music, under the direction of Mr. Richardson, was all that could be desired.

LADY BANCROFT AS ADJUDICATOR.

Honours were divided at the annual elocutionary examination at Birkbeck College on Saturday afternoon, when Lady Bancroft was present in the capacity of examiner. Applause greeted the famous actress as she entered the hall, holding in her hand a bouquet of roses, and accompanied by Sir Squire Bancroft.

There was but one prize, which Lady Bancroft divided between Miss Maud Hartley, who recited the Brutus and Portia duologue from Julius Cæsar, and Miss Effie Hepworth, whose selection was Longfellow's "Death of Minnehaha." First-class certificates were awarded to Miss Eve S. Tame, for Kingsley's "Loraine, Loraine, Loree," and to Mr. W. Francis Fenton for the speech of Brutus from Julius Cæsar; and second-class certificates to Miss Florence Reynolds for Tennyson's Enoch Arden, and Mr. E. Lister for the closet scene from Hamlet.

After making the awards, Lady Bancroft said: "I beg to offer my sincere congratulations to the winners of the prize and my sympathy with those who have failed, to a certain extent—in one way, but not in others. All of them are so promising that I feel sure they make take heart and courage to improve, and so be more fortunate next time. It has been a most interesting occasion to me, and I shall go away with very happy recollections."

A hearty vote of thanks was given to Lady Bancroft on the proposition of Mr. J. L. Ohlson, the elocution instructor, who has taught at the Birkbeck College for forty-five years.

In returning thanks for his wife Sir Squire Bancroft said he was entirely in accord with her far better judgment. He was glad she had had an opportunity of awarding the prize so justly to her own charming sex, and he hoped the ladies would not object to only getting half a cake. All the pupils did great credit to Mr. Ohlson, to whom the Academy of Dramatic Art (of which Sir Squire is President) was also indebted for coaching its younger students in elocution.

MR. EDITOR, SIR,—In your report of the Hippodrome, Douglas, your correspondent omitted to mention the names of the Five Saxonias and of, yours faithfully, Agnese and Arthur Lynch.

MISS DOT STEPHENS' SAD CASE.

Miss Ellen Terry sends a subscription, with these womanly and sympathetic words:—"For the poor child Dot Stephens, with loving sympathy from Ellen Terry."

Miss Edna May writes:—"I am more grieved than I can say over this dreadfully sad case. I have sent to all my friends; have also asked for assistance from The Belle of Mayfair company, and hope to be able to send you a good sum by Friday or Saturday. I don't remember ever having heard of anything so sad as this little girl's accident. Please let me know if I can do anything else."

Miss May Lewis encloses a cheque, and writes:—"I cannot tell you how glad I am to see that the poor unfortunate lady's case has been taken up. It has my most sincere sympathy."

Mr. Chas. E. Machin accompanies his cheque with the following note:—"I beg to enclose my little cheque for the Dot Stephens Fund. It is a terrible calamity."

Mr. Martin Harvey.—"I have much pleasure in sending you a cheque for £1 1s. for your admirable fund for the poor little lady."

Miss Louie Freear.—"Enclosed please find cheque for £1 for dear little Miss Stephens, with whom I most heartily sympathise. What a terrible accident, poor little girl!"

Mr. Weedon Grossmith.—"I enclose a cheque for £1 1s. for the little fund you are raising for the poor girl, Miss Dot Stephens. I only regret my cheque is obliged to be so small. It would have been larger, but there have been so many things one has had to contribute to recently, only not so deserving, that one has little left for the really sad cases."

Mr. H. B. Irving.—"I have much pleasure in enclosing a cheque for one guinea as a small contribution to the fund you are getting up for poor Miss Stephens."

Miss Nora Lancaster.—"I am so sorry to hear of the terrible accident that has fallen upon Miss Stephens. I enclose cheque for a guinea, and wish I could have made it more."

Miss Edith Wynne Matthison (Kennedy).—"Enclosed please find cheque for one guinea towards the subscription for Miss Stephens. It is an exceedingly sad case; and she has my deepest sympathies."

Mr. Herbert Beerbohm Tree.—"The case of Miss Dot Stephens is certainly a very distressing one, as you say. I enclose you herewith £2 2s. on her account. I hope you will get a substantial sum."

MISS DOT STEPHENS.

Miss Doris Stephens, best known in the professional world as Dot Stephens, a very clever vocalist and dancer, met with a terrible accident late on Saturday night, the 30th ult. She had fulfilled an engagement at H.M. Theatre of Varieties at Walsall, and left on Saturday night to go to Glasgow, where she was to have appeared this week. On reaching Wolverhampton she had to wait some time to join the midnight mail on the London and North-Western line, and there met some professional friends. She went to the Hippodrome, Wolverhampton, and was afterwards accompanied to the High Level Station by a gentleman, who secured her a seat in a second-class compartment, and saw that the door on the platform side was properly fastened before the train started. On arrival at Stafford the door on the offside was found to be open and the compartment empty. There was a quantity of luggage on the racks and seats, and as there appeared to have been an accident a light engine was at once despatched up the line to search the track. On reaching Fordhouses, about three miles from Wolverhampton, the unfortunate young lady was found lying in the six foot way in an unconscious state, and terribly injured. She was conveyed to the Wolverhampton station, and thence to the General Hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate one foot and part of the other. She was also found to be seriously lacerated about the head and body. On Sunday afternoon she had recovered consciousness, but had no recollection of how the accident occurred. It is supposed that she was under the impression that she was travelling in a corridor car, and on opening the door fell to the ground. Asked how she could account for the accident, Miss Stephens remarked, "The railway carriage was stuffy, and I went to open the window. After that I recollect nothing more till I regained consciousness in the hospital."

Miss Stephens is a clever vocalist, dancer, and actress, and first appeared with Mr. Bannister Howard as the Salvation Army lass in The Belle of New York, remaining with the company three years. She then joined Mr. George Dance for the part of Mrs. Pineapple in A Chinese Honeymoon and afterwards Mr. C. P. Levilly, understudying Miss Stella Gastelle as Alesia in La Poupée, a part she subsequently played, and was to resume in the autumn in Mr Herbert Ralland's company, lately on tour.

It is intended that the proceeds shall be devoted to the purchase of an annuity for Miss Stephens, whose terrible misfortune has already excited the greatest commiseration.

So sad a case has rarely, if ever, been brought before the dramatic and musical profession, whose record abounds in deeds of charity. The name of Miss Stephens is now to be added to the already full scroll of benevolent actions.

All subscriptions will be duly acknowledged in these columns. Subscriptions may be sent to Mr. J. Bannister Howard, Hon. Treasurer, 3, Bedford-street, Strand, W.C.; to the "Dot Stephens Fund," Capital and Counties Bank, King-street, Covent Garden; or to the Assistant Hon. Treasurer, Mr. F. H. A CORRECTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE ERA.

SIR,—In your issue of the 7th inst. your notice of the recital to be given by Miss Wren and Mr. Sparrow states that Miss Wren's voice was trained by Mr. Chas. Santley. This is not quite correct. Mr. Santley advised as to the training, but the actual lessons have been, and are still being, given by Signor Tramezzani, the well-known master of, amongst others, Mme. Yvonne de St. André. Perhaps you will be kind enough to make this correction.—Yours faithfully,

T. ERNEST GAUNT.

Fairfield, 62, Streatham-hill, S.W., July 11.

THE Queen paid a visit to the Austrian Exhibition, Earl's Court, on Tuesday, and was delighted with all she saw, making numerous purchases. After signing the visitors' book the Royal cortège inspected the excellent collection of exhibits in the Queen's Palace, and in the "Tyrol Village" the singing and dancing of the Tyrolese men and women gave much amusement.

IN the Civil Court at Durham Assizes, Messrs. Hellewell, Ltd., claimed £141 10s. for work done and material provided in the building of the King's Theatre, Gateshead, Mr. James Johnson being the one sued. It was a question of liability, and his Lordship, being of opinion that the defendant was the real contractor, gave judgment for the plaintiff for the full amount claimed, with costs.

THE theatrical charity carnival at Sunderland announced for Wednesday next bids fair to prove a record, the tickets meeting with a ready sale. Another attraction on the same evening will be the benefit to Mr. Chas. M. Daly at the Avenue Theatre in the Wearside town, when amongst other attractions, the prizes won at the above sports will be presented on the stage.

MME. MARCHESI was received at Buckingham Palace by the Queen on Sunday and was presented with the medal for music, art, and science. M. Saint-Saëns and Herr Hollman, who had the honour of playing before Her Majesty in the afternoon, received similar medals.

WE regretfully record that Miss Mollie Brown, an actress, died at Denver, Colorado, on the 12th inst., of ptomaine poisoning after eating canned beef.

MR. J. J. DALLAS IN AUSTRALIA.

The Melbourne Argus says:—"Mr. Dallas, who enacts the central figure, is a comedian of merit. He is very discreet in his work, and even in the whirlwind of a situation never oversteps the mark. Depending for very many of his effects on facial play, his expressive features and hands often tell a story without words. He is a master of variety and astonishment, and an adept at stage business. He never misses a point, and his voice, although not loud, has splendid carrying power. It is easy to imagine Mr. Dallas giving a thoroughly good account of himself in pure or even musical comedy as the snatches of songs he sings are given with good effect and value."

The Age says:—"Mr. J. J. Dallas, who heads the combination, is a low comedian with a natural aptitude for such rôles as that of the flighty uncle. He is a versatile actor, turning easily from one point to another of the variegated part. Alternately the unctuous Justice of the Peace and the roysterer, his manner and method are alike natural and easy. In addition, he 'has the eyes,' and his facial expression accentuated his speeches in an inimitable fashion. Five minutes was all that was necessary to place him high in favour. Henceforward his progress to popularity was unquestioned."

The Sydney Herald says:—"Mr. Dallas and Mr. George Giddens belong to the same school of unctuous and droll comedians, but Mr. Dallas is the more resourceful in the invention of business, while his energy is inexhaustible. He acts with his eyes, his face—a splendid stage face—with his hands, feet, and his whole body. Of Mr. Dallas's acting it may be said that between his entry and his exit he 'shovels' in business, and it is done with such ease and naturalness that the illusion of naturalness is rarely disturbed. The Cæsar Montague, J.P., belongs to the small gallery of vignette impersonations which contains the Hogenheimer by G. P. Huntley, &c."

The Australasian says:—"Mr. Dallas proved himself a perfect master of the task before him. The humour is broad, but it never descends to buffoonery. The comical expressions of his face and modulations of his voice leave not one dull moment."

The Bendigo Advertiser says:—"A hearty laugh is a good tonic, and a large number of playgoers must feel indebted to Mr. J. J. Dallas; in him the audience at once recognised a comedian of the highest rank. He has great facial control, and the expression of his features, his vacant stare, his amused look, with his shrugs and gestures often spoke more loudly than words. Mr. Dallas, after a merry evening, was simply immense."

The Adelaide Register says:—"Mr. Dallas is a low comedian, whenever he was on the stage he had the house in roars of laughter. His facial expression and his gestures are inimitable. Mr. Dallas has the reputation of being the best 'drunken man' on the English stage. Anyone who saw him will quite understand how he has achieved such a reputation. The great charm of Mr. Dallas's acting is that it is made absolutely convincing by its ease and naturalness. Mr. Dallas is a treat."

The Sydney Bulletin says:—"Mr. Dallas is real comedy materialised."

The Brisbane Courier says:—"Mr. J. J. Dallas is a first-rate comedian, and gets all his effects by means of spontaneous acting. He makes no effort to assert himself. He and the character of the J.P. will be remembered for a very long time."

The Auckland Star says:—"Mr. J. J. Dallas is undoubtedly the cleverest comedian seen in Auckland for many a day past. His power of extracting humour from the simplest dialogue, by colouring it with a ludicrous personality, besides the physical advantage of a most mobile and expressive face and a singular gift of appropriate gesture would maintain a very heavy claim by this most finished artist."

Punch says:—"Mr. J. J. Dallas is a comedian who thoroughly knows his business, and his facial expression lends humorous emphasis to every comical situation."

The New Zealand Times says:—"The play pointed most clearly to the fact that in Mr. Dallas we have a comedian who fairly takes rank with the best that England has sent us."

The Tasmanian News says:—"Mr. Dallas as the J.P. made his first appearance in Hobart, and his striking humour made him at once a prime favourite, and he must have established a record of mirth at the Theatre Royal, Hobart. He is eminently superior in his line, and he developed to the utmost the greatest possibility of the part."

"COPPER: THE LIFE OF A THEATRICAL DOG STAR," by Ella M. Burra, published by Thomas Burleigh, 155, Victoria-street, S.W., at 2s. 6d. net, comes appropriately in the "dog days," more especially as its perusal involves no intellectual exertion. It is the story of a little fox-terrier who becomes the pet of a touring actress, and "walks on" in various plays. Beyond that the life of "Copper," as the dog is called, is little different to that of the ordinary common or garden canine who indulges in the killing of cats, the slaughter of fowls, the wrecking of parlour furniture, and other favourite pursuits of the species. The humour of the tale is of a primitive kind, and is not sufficiently stimulating to appeal to the reader old enough to understand the references to episodes behind the scenes; but as a children's book, for which it is obviously intended, it well fulfils its purpose. The volume is beautifully printed, and the illustrations by G. M. Tucker are admirably executed.

WE learn with the greatest pleasure that the operation for appendicitis undergone by Mme. Clara Butt this week has proved eminently successful. Both Mr. Kennerley Rumford and his accomplished wife will have the warmest congratulations of their numerous admirers.

THEATRICAL GOSSIP.

MISS ELLEN TERRY has been staying for a week in the delightful neighbourhood of Lynton and Lynmouth. The popular actress must have had rare food for thought in the memory of the recent brilliant functions of which she was the principal figure, and in the contemplation of triumphs yet to come on her appearance at His Majesty's in The Winter's Tale, the play with which her first appearance was associated. The Tatler is responsible for the publication in facsimile of the following "letter of advice" from Miss Terry to the pupils of the Leeds College of Dramatic Art—"My dear young friends,—I have been asked to say a word to you. If I say one word it will be, 'Work.' If it were two words I should say, 'Be Patient,' and if it were three words, 'Don't be Vain.'"

WE were able last week to congratulate Mr. Cyril Maude on a happy issue out of his threatened litigation with the South-Eastern Railway Company, who had magnanimously decided to defray the cost of the rebuilding of the old Avenue Theatre. The statement was confirmed at the meeting of the company on Tuesday, when Mr. Cosmo Bonsor, the chairman, announced that the company had paid Mr. Maude the sum of £20,000. The directors, he said, fully anticipated that if the case had gone into the law courts the judge would have suggested that the parties should come to a compromise on the matter, and therefore it was thought better to pay the sum which had been agreed upon. This £20,000 would cover all the various interests involved in the accident.

THE architect of the new theatre is Mr. Detmar Blow, and building operations will be started as soon as the site is cleared. Referring to the new structure, Mr. Maude says:—"I think I may venture to say that the new playhouse will be even better than it was going to be. In the course of the building operations certain possible improvements were noted. These will all be made. It is, of course, impossible to say with any degree of finality when the theatre will be ready, but I have every reason to hope that the new year will not be far advanced before I shall be installed in my new home. We certainly anticipate opening there in the middle of February."

THE Duke of York's is the theatre selected by Mr. Charles Frohman for Mr. Maude's appearance early in September under his management, and Tripplepatte is the name of the piece. It is a comedy in four acts and five scenes, by MM. Tristan Bernard and Godfernaux, which was produced at the Athenée, Paris, last December, and has since been played there with undiminished success. The part which will bring Mr. Maude's brilliant comedy talents into play is that of a Vicomte, aged thirty, who, as the old song says, is "not a marrying man." He becomes engaged to a young lady, but on the wedding day fails to turn up at the appointed hour. The mother-in-law in prospective thereupon invades his apartments and carries off his clothes, so that no one else shall secure him, and the subsequent adventures of the hero are interesting and exciting. Tripplepatte will be preceded by a one-act pantomime, entitled The Scapegrace, the chief part in which will be played by Miss Paulina Chase.

MME. SARAH BERNHARDT has at length reaped the reward of genius and obtained the cross of the Legion of Honour. The nomination of the celebrated actress for the coveted degree was announced on Thursday in a semi-official note from the Minister of Public Instruction and Fine Arts sent to the Paris Temps.

MR. MARTIN HARVEY will begin his autumn tour at Buxton on August 20, following on with the chief towns in the United Kingdom. In Dublin, where he is a special favourite, Mr. Harvey will remain three weeks. Among the several features of interest will be an elaborate revival of The Corsican Brothers, which will take place at the Lyceum Theatre, Edinburgh, on Wednesday, September 19th. It is interesting to remember that at another Lyceum Irving produced Boucicault's version of Les Frères Corses on September 18th, 1880. Mr. Harvey's appearance as the twin-brothers will be anticipated with very considerable interest. Mr. Harvey's répertoire will also include Hamlet, The Only Way, The Breed of the Treshams, A Cigarette Maker's Romance, and Boy O'Carroll.

MR. W. S. PENLEY will be welcome back to town, from which he has been so long absent. Probably induced by the dearth of effective plays, the popular stage-creator of Charley's Aunt has turned his own pen to the writing of a comedy, and he hopes to have it ready by the end of the year, when he contemplates producing it at his own theatre in Great Queen-street.

ACTORS and authors strove for supremacy in the national pastime at Lord's on Thursday, the result being a win for the penmen on the first innings by 34 runs. The Thespians were captained by Mr. C. Aubrey Smith, and Major Philip Trevor performed the same good offices for the authors. The captains on both sides were top scorers in the first innings, though Major Trevor's score was equalled by Mr. Arthur Anderson, while Mr. E. W. Hornung had the undistinguished honour of scoring the only "duck" for his side.

THE scores of the first innings were as follows:—Actors: V. O'Connor, c Prichard, b Pawling, 1; Gerald du Maurier, c Anderson, b Prichard, 12; H. E. Pearce, c Pawling, b Prichard, 11; Oscar Asche, run out, 1; C. Aubrey Smith, c Hornung, b Prichard, 28; R. Selby, b Pawling, 16; Robert Evett, c Headlam, b Pawling, 3; B. Egerton, c Headlam, b Pawling, 10; F. Blackman, b Pawling, 0; H. H. Ainley, c Anderson, b Prichard, 10; Rutland Barrington, b Pawling, 6; C. Hayden Coffin, not out, 1; extras, 7; total, 106. Authors: Arthur Anderson, c Pearce, b O'Connor, 24; E. B. Noel, c Blackman, b Smith, 14; H. D. Trevor, b Pearce, 13; C. Headlam, c Du Maurier, b Evett, 11; H. Bleachley, c O'Connor, b Evett, 8; Hesketh-Prichard, c Ainley, b Evett, 1; Major P. Trevor, run out, 24; A. D. Kinross, st Blackman, b Pearce, 18; P. G. Wodehouse, c Ainley, b Pearce, 14; S. S. Pawling, c Du Maurier, b Asche, 1; F. Stayton, not out, 8; E. W. Hornung, c Asche, b Pearce, 0; extras, 4; total, 140. The second innings of the actors yielded 122 for seven wickets, of which Mr. E. O'Connor made 45 not out and Mr. H. E. Pearce 31.

MR CHARLES MANNERS, the indefatigable caterer for opera in English at cheap prices and the famous basso, brings his renowned Moody-Manners principal company for a five weeks' season to the Lyric this evening, when he opens with Lohengrin. Next week will begin with Tannhäuser, followed in the order named by Faust, Il Trovatore (Wednesday matinée), Eugene Onegin, The Huguenots, Cavalleria Rusticana, I Pagliacci. Mr. Manners' first part of importance was that of Private Willis in Iolanthe, produced at the Savoy, in the November of 1882. He gave a most amusing rendering of the stolid sentry, and would no doubt have won laurels as a comedian had not the future reserved for him a brilliant career in grand opera.
